RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE. — Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—A return visit has this week been paid by Mr T. Morton Powell's capable company in the exciting drama Greed of Gold. The rôle of the hero is admirably filled by Mr Wilson Summers (Arthur Errol); the part of odious Harry Hood is skilfully impersonated by Mr C. Caldcleugh; Miss Daisy Hakling plays Dora in effective fashion; while as Tom Welstead, the dumb man, Mr B. Fox is really excellent. Mr H. Skea (Conn Creamer) and Mr W. M. Cameron (Cull Snig) infuse much humour into the show. The scenic effects are carried out in first-rate style.

REDHILL.

MARKET HALL.—Mr H. Denies Roberts's Royal Animated Pictures and Concert Party are filling a week's engagement here under the local management of Mr G. W. Bowes. The pictures are well up to date, being clear and distinct, the large variety of subjects presented pleasing everyone present. The vaudeville programme is supplied by Miss Lilian Candy, Prof. Ventl, Mr Sidney Dolf, and the Musical Scoreys, this highly talented family fairly capturing the house with their diversified turns.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company with Amorelle is paying its first visit here. On Monday a crowded house accorded an enthusiastic reception to this charming comic opera. Dr Crow is in the hands of Mr Leon Simkin, whose conception of this part kept the audience in roars of laughter. Mr Arthur Elwyn made a dignified Count Cideaux; Mr George Paulton did well as Boissey; Mr Arthur Cozens acted and sang in the part of Jules with marked effect; Mr Horace Manger submitted a capital portrayal of Francois; Lupin and Alphonse were both in the safe hands of Mr J. Stephens and Mr Longford Reed, and Mr Fred Carrington was admirably placed as Dotard. Miss Adah Grey sang and acted with artistic taste as Lesbia; Miss Von Bargen was very popular with a capital portrayal of Marina; and Miss Emmsie Bowman delighted the audience by her charming and piquant embodiment of Amorelle.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—Topping the bill here is Mr A. G. Spry, comedian, whose quaint dry humour provokes irresistible laughter. Other smart turns are submitted by Hicks's Clerks, vocalists and comedians; Marie Santol, comedienne; Prof. Wallace, ventriloquist; Lord, Murray, and Lord, sketch artistes; the Three Dagmars, acrobats; the Coopers, instrumentalists; and Giacomo, mimic.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves. — The Bedouin Troupe of real Arabs (ten in number) perform some astonishing feats of balancing, tumbling, and vaulting. Connie Nicholls, comedienne; Sisters Brenton, duettists; Benson and Waite, comedians; Lily Turner, vocalist; Carl Verdi, instrumentalist; Mdlle. Haydes, with her wonderful electric mannikin performance; and the Empire Bioscope, with new animated pictures, complete a strong list.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS VERA SCHLESINGER.

MISS VERA SCHLESINGER commenced her career as a violinist. It was the late Col. Mapleson who discovered she had a dramatic soprano voice of great power and quality. Having an introduction to the late Sir Augustus Harris, he suggested an operatic career. To this end she was sent to the Royal Academy of Music and studied under Signor Fiori, taking the pianoforte as her second study. Owing to the lamented death of Sir Augustus Harris, she was compelled to abandon for the time being her operatic studies, and accepted a good engagement to sing the prima donna rôles in The Old Guard, Pepita, and Falka. Engagements followed in rapid succession. She was the Fairy Queen, in Mr Milton Bode's pantomime at Bolton, afterwards appearing with great success as Alma Somerset, in The Gaiety Girl. Her first London engagement was at the Royalty Theatre as Miss Pope, in A Court of Honour. Whilst playing there she met the well-known young composer and baritone the late Mr Walter Head, whom she married at the conclusion of the run. Making their residence in the North of England, she devoted herself to concert and oratorio work, and a large portion of her time was taken up in teaching, having in Southport, Liverpool, and Manchester alone over fifty pupils. Their successful vocal recitals gained for them great popularity, the Northern press designating them the Mr and Mrs Henschel of the North. On the death of her husband she returned to London, giving up a very large teaching connection, and joined Mr Tree's company at His Majesty's Theatre to sing in Ulysses. At short notice she played Chloris. She remained at His Majesty's, appearing in The Merry Wives of Windsor, Trilby, Red Lamp, The Eternal City, &c. Receiving a tempting offer from Mr J. M. East, she accepted an engagement to play Fairy Queen in the Lyric, Hammersmith, pantomime. Miss Schlesinger is an accomplished musician, a brilliant pianist and a good linguist, and also studied German Lieder with Hugo Heirtz. Also she thoroughly understands harmony and scoring for orchestra, and has sung with great success in many Roman Catholic Churches in the North of England. Among other engagements Miss Schlesinger was specially selected to sing at the Sullivan Memorial Concerts. Her great ambition is to sing in Italian opera, in which she has a most extensive répertoire. The compass of her voice extends from the low G to D flat in alt. Miss Schlesinger is devoting her spare time to compiling a small work on the art of voice production, formulated on the fundamental basis of natural breathing and tone colour, and illustrated by photographic diagrams.

Miss Schlesinger has been engaged by Mr Montefiore as Fairy Queen in the forthcoming pantomime, Cinderella, to be played at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh. Miss Schlesinger, who is a tall, graceful actress, should prove a great attraction in the pantomime. "Bid me discourse," by Bishop, is the song with which the Fairy Queen will enchant the pantomime patrons.

MISS VERA SCHLESINGER.

MR. GEORGE MILLER.

MR GEORGE MILLER commenced his professional career in a stock season at the Opera House, Torquay, in Romaine Callender's version of Drink, entitled D.T., on Easter Monday, 1882. Amongst the company were Miss Laura Villiers, the late Adelaide Newton, Charles Dodsworth, George Mudie, and John Amory (Barry Sullivan's son). During the season Amory played Richard III., his father witnessing the performance, Mr Miller appearing as the Lieutenant of the Tower. From Torquay he went for a stock season with the late Andrew Melville at the Star Theatre, Swansea. Plenty of work and experience there. The usual routine was—rehearsal 10·30, afterwards a visit to the wardrobe for anything required at night. As he played several parts in the farces, pieces, or burlesques, his wardrobe would make a nice pile in the dressing-room, and he had to keep a list of his various characters so that he should not appear as Lady So-and-so's footman dressed as a village poacher, or what not. Often after the performance one had to write out one's part for the next night from a manuscript and pass it on to somebody else, and get rough perfect in the words before going to bed. One Whit week the company played seventeen pieces, dramas, farces, and burlesque. The Courier of Lyons, William Tell, and Richard III. were three of them. On Saturday nights they invariably finished with an exciting last piece, such as Jack Sheppard or Cartouche, in which there was always a terrific broad sword combat, and Mr Miller, amongst many others, was slaughtered by "Emm," whose weapon generally was a frying-pan. From Swansea he went for a season to the late Fred Neebe, who then had the Bath, Exeter, and Devonport Theatres. Following this came a tour with The Parvenu and old English comedies. In 1884 he joined Miss Marriott's company, playing in Jeannie Deans, Elizabeth, and Hamlet with her. Later in the year he joined Jas. Buchanan's company, playing Jacky, in Never Too Late to Mend, and in After Dark and Drink for several tours. When Charles Dornton bought the rights of Never Too Late to Mend he engaged Mr Milton to play Jacky, and afterwards he appeared as M. Jollivett, in Michael Strogoff, and Picard, in The Two Orphans. Tours with Mr J. B. Mulholland as Ginger Jim, in Conspiracy; H. Hardy as Trolsky, in Siberia; and Mr Fred Cooke followed. With the latter he had an eighteen months' continuous engagement, playing every day except Sundays, including Good Friday and Christmas Day. On Good Friday they were in Scotland and on Christmas Day in Wales. In 1891 Mr Miller began a three years' engagement with Mr Auguste Van Biene, broken only by pantomime engagements at Glasgow and Edinburgh. Whilst with Mr Van Biene he played Don Sallust, in the Gaiety burlesque of Ruy Blas; Jim Chowne, in The Lights of Home; and Dudley Mortimer, in The Broken Melody. Next followed tours as Sergeant O'Reilly, in The English Rose; Admiral Darby, in The Case of Rebellious Susan, and Baron Fontenoy in All Abroad. In 1897 he commenced a long engagement with Mr E. Lockwood, playing Mathieu in A Night Out, for two years and a half. During this engagement, whilst on a journey from Portsmouth to Plymouth, the company had the ill-luck to be in a railway accident, the train leaving the metals near Tavistock, owing to some obstruction having been placed on the line. The train ploughed along the up line twisting the metals and making matchwood of the sleepers; finally it was brought to a standstill, and they all walked through the snow to Tavistock, having suffered nothing worse than a bad shaking. Had the engine turned the other way they would have gone over an embankment 20ft. high, and the curtain would have been rung down on most of them. In 1899 Messrs Lockwood and Levilly revived the comic opera, Falka, with a fine cast, and engaged Mr Miller for the Lay Brother Pelican. The Christmas of that year he went to the Garrick Theatre to play Dame Shortly, in Puss-in-Boots. The late Charles Lauri was the Cat, Letty Lind, Ethel Sydney, Florence Lloyd, George Gray, and Robb Harwood being also in the cast. Following this he played the Nurse, in The Babes in the Wood, in the Easter pantomime at Belfast. Then came tours as Brother Tamarind, in A Runaway Girl, and at Christmas he played Priscilla, the nurse, in The Invisible Prince, with Messrs Howard and Wyndham at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh. He was re-engaged for the same part the following year at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and last Christmas he played the Nurse, in Robin Hood, at the Theatre Royal, Manchester. In the interim were tours of the opera Les Saltimbanques and a suburban tour as the Reigning King, in Blue Bell in Fairyland. Next Christmas will find him once more donning the skirts in the pantomime at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol.

MR. ALFRED NORTHWAY.

MR ALFRED NORTHWAY.

A LONDONER by birth, Mr Alfred Northway started life as a clerk in an insurance office with the idea of eventually launching out as an underwriter at Lloyds. The work, however, proving uncongenial, he resolved to abandon City life for a profession he felt more drawn to. His first step was to enrol himself as a student at that excellent dramatic studio supervised by Mr Henry Neville, but he had scarcely been there three months when he received an offer from Mr Harold Entwistle to play small parts in his tour of The Fatal Card. He made his début at the Theatre Royal, Oldham, and shortly afterwards played on several occasions the leading heavy part, which had been given him to understudy. He was next engaged by Mr Frank Lindo to create the part of Mathew Derrick, in Mr Wilson Barrett's drama, The Sledge-Hammer; and was also the original Gamphire, in Mr Lindo's version of Garrick, and played important rôles in Gringoire and The Legacy. Then followed a tour with Tom, Dick, and Harry, Mr Northway appearing as Dr Wagner, and also as Jessop, in Lady Fortune. After accepting a special engagement to play the juvenile leading part in The Sledge-Hammer, he was engaged by Miss Muriel Wylford for Henri De Cochefôret, in Under the Red Robe. In Mr Henry Dundas's A Life of Pleasure company he played Sir John Berkeley, and next joined Miss Lilian Bennett to play Lord Petworth, in Sowing the Wind, afterwards creating the leading heavy part in Children of the Night. Returning to his old manager, Mr Frank Lindo, he appeared in the original production of Night and Morning, but at the conclusion of a long tour he was unfortunately overtaken by a serious illness, which incapacitated him for work for nearly six months. In January, 1902, Mr Northway joined Mr Walter Bentley's company, and appeared in a répertoire of Shakespearian and classic plays, including Hamlet, Othello, The Merchant of Venice, Richelieu, The Bells, &c. A summer tour with A Bunch of Violets then followed, at the conclusion of which his services were secured by Mr Douglas Bruce to play the leading part in Dangerous Women. Having fulfilled a special engagement under Mr Walter Melville's management in The Great World of London, Mr Northway went to the Britannia Theatre for the stock season. Again appearing in Dangerous Women, with Mr Walter Melville's company, he was subsequently engaged by the same management for Philip Armstrong, in The Worst Woman in London. He once more returned to Mr Lindo, in January of the present year, to play the Duke of Ancaster, in Home, Sweet Home. Mr Northway, who more recently appeared in The Silver King, has, in conjunction with Mr W. V. Garrod, acquired the entire rights of The Sledge-Hammer. An excellent tour has been booked, which commences at the West London Theatre the week previous to Christmas.

MISS CORA LINDA.

MISS CORA LINDA.

MISS LINDA started her professional career with Mr William Gifford's No Cross, No Crown company, playing Doris Luttrell, also Washington Dobbs, in The World's Desire. Miss Linda then thought she would try farcical comedy, and was engaged to play the part of Sybil Candebec, in The Eiderdown Quilt, under Miss Nina Cressy's management. Then she returned to the drama with Mr Henry Chattell's Tommy Atkins company, playing the juvenile part. She remained with this management for six months. Reverting again to farcical comedy, she played Sheba, in Mr A. W. Pinero's Dandy Dick,, under the management of Mr and Mrs Reginald Dartrey. At the conclusion of the tour Miss Linda was engaged to play the juvenile leading parts in their répertoire company, playing, among other parts, Madalena, Leah; Barbara Hare, in East Lynne; and Alicia, Lady Audley's Secret. Being a quick study Miss Linda took up at very short notice the juvenile leading part in Mr J. Witton Richard's Under Remand company, and during this tour was cast for the part of May Edwards, in The Ticket-o'-Leave Man. Messrs Hopkins Bros. then secured her to play the title-rôle in their Welsh drama The Maid of Ce'n Ydfa for a special twelve weeks. Miss Linda played the juvenile lead in Messrs Benton and Rennef's A Life's Story company, and was engaged by Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley to play the leading part in A Sister's Sin.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND AMUSEMENTS.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE ERA.)

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring-gardens.

BRITANNIA THEATRE.

The committee reported that they had considered a plan, submitted by the secretary of the Britannia Theatre, Limited, showing the removal to a position nearer the stage of the barrier between the pit and stalls at the Britannia. The proposed alteration will not interfere with the exit arrangements, as the exits from the pit and stalls are practically common to both parts. They recommended "That the secretary of the Britannia Theatre be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan, submitted by him with regard to the barrier in question, provided the seating and gangways shown on the plan be spaced out in accordance with the Council's regulations with regard to measurements from back to back, centre to centre, width between seating and width of gangways."

DALY'S THEATRE.

The committee had considered plans, submitted by Messrs E. Runtz and Ford, showing how it is proposed to give effect to certain of the Council's suggestions for the improvement of Daly's Theatre Cranbourne street, and recommended "(a) That Messrs E. Runtz and Ford be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the two plans submitted by them with regard to the screens proposed to be provided in Portobello-passage, and the provision made for hats and cloaks at the back of the dress-circle at Daly's Theatre, on condition that, as regards the screens, proper means of ventilation be provided; (b) That Messrs E. Runtz and Ford be informed that the arrangements shown on the plan, with reference to the gangways in the gallery at Daly's Theatre, are, in the opinion of the Council, unsatisfactory."

LONDON COLISEUM.

The committee had considered plans, submitted by Messrs F. Matcham and Co., showing a trap door proposed to be formed in the floor of the flies on the op. side at the London Coliseum, St. Martin's-lane, and also an alteration to the entrance in Chandos-street. They recommended "That Messrs F. Matcham and Co. be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the two plans submitted by them with regard to certain alterations at the London Coliseum, on condition that, in connection with the alterations to the entrance in Chandos-street, the two pillars be removed."

PRINCE'S THEATRE, POPLAR.

The committee had considered a plan, submitted by Messrs Owen and Ward, showing the provision of four steps in the pit exit of the Prince's Theatre, Poplar. They recommended "That Messrs Owen and Ward be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan submitted by them with regard to the proposed erection of four steps in the pit exit of the theatre."

SURREY THEATRE

The committee had considered a plan, submitted by Messrs Kirk and Kirk, on behalf of Mr Temple-West, showing how it is proposed to construct new boxes, a urinal, an iron and glass roof over the side entrance, and an entrance to the heating chamber at the Surrey Theatre, Blackfriars-road. They recommended "(a) That Messrs Kirk and Kirk be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan submitted by them with regard to the construction of new boxes and a urinal, at the Surrey Theatre, provided the undermentioned conditions be complied with:—(1) That the boxes be constructed of non-flammable material. (2) That the sanction of the Council of the Metropolitan Borough of Southwark be obtained for the construction of the urinal. (b) That Messrs Kirk and Kirk be informed that the arrangements shown on the plan, dated Nov. 7, 1904, submitted by them relating to the construction of an iron and glass roof over the side entrance are, in the opinion of Council, unsatisfactory, and that with regard to the entrance to the heating chamber sufficient details are not given to enable the Council to come to a decision."

All the above recommendations were adopted.

CINEMATOGRAPH EXHIBITIONS.

The committee reported:—On Nov. 8 a slight fire occurred in the iron box enclosing a cinematograph which was being exhibited at the Royal Assembly Rooms, Woolwich. The fire did not result in any damage, beyond the destruction of a quantity of film, and slight injury to the operator, who received some burns about the hands in endeavouring to extinguish the flame. On Nov. 15 another fire occurred in the cinematograph box, and resulted in the destruction of a quantity of film, and in one of the operators being slightly burned on the head and left hand in his endeavours to extinguish the flames. The apparatus was entirely enclosed in an iron box, in accordance with the Council's regulations, and the fire was confined within these limits, and eventually extinguished by means of the hose. There was no panic, but on the contrary several persons helped the attendants to get the hydrant into use, and when the Council's inspector visited the premises about ten minutes after the occurrence he found the majority of the audience still seated. Notice of the fire was given to the brigade by the police and a steamer and four men attended. The cause of the fire in both cases is unknown: the apparatus was inspected by the Council's officers the day before the first fire, and was quite satisfactory. After the fire another inspection was made, and the apparatus was again found to be satisfactory. As the Council is aware, the films used for the cinematograph pictures are highly inflammable, and we think the facts in connection with these two fires amply demonstrate the necessity and value of the stringent regulations made by the Council with regard to cinematograph exhibitions.

THE OXFORD.

MR EDWARD SMITH asked the Chairman of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee whether their attention had been called to the alleged overcrowding in the gangways and exits at the Oxford Music Hall, and whether they would take the necessary steps to prevent its continuance.

MR YATES replied that the committee's attention had been directed to the matter, and visits had already been paid to the Oxford. He would arrange for a repeat visit.

AT the Subscription Rooms, Stroud, Mr Gordon Starkey's A Message from Mars company appeared. In the rôle of Horace Parker Mr H. Wentworth Smith meets with distinct success; Mr Percy Tyler personified the tramp in admirable style; Mr William Lockhart was excellent as the Messenger; Miss Violet Auberies was seen to advantage as Miss Parker; and Miss Florence Heather as Mrs Clarence and Miss Maud Shortland as Minnie Templar did full justice to their parts.

PRESENTATIONS — Mr Albert J. Lewis, who has occupied the position of assistant-manager at Worcester Theatre Royal for a considerable period, this week began his career as manager of the Theatre Royal, Merthyr Tydvil. Prior to leaving Worcester Mr Lewis was the recipient of several presents, which indicated the esteem felt for him by those with whom he had been professionally associated, and their recognition of the genial manner in which he had performed his duties. The presents included a silver-mounted inkstand, which Mr Louis Karpe, manager, handed to him on the stage, on behalf of the theatre staff, also an elegant umbrella for Mrs Lewis, who has had charge of the ticket office; while Mr Austin, on behalf of the orchestra, presented Mr Lewis with an ebony walking-stick. Mr Karpe and Mr Austin spoke in highly appreciative terms of Mr and Mrs Lewis, and Mr Lewis made an appropriate response.

MUSICIANS & STAGE EMPLOYEES.

The second annual concert in aid of the Benevolent Funds of the London branches of the National Association of Theatrical Employees and the Musicians' Union was given on Sunday last in the Royal Opera House, Covent-garden, by kind permission of Mr Frank Rendle and Mr Neil Forsyth. There was a good attendance, and the concert was in every way a great success. The audience was thoroughly representative of the profession, and included Mr and Mrs George Alexander, Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Miss Winifred Arthur-Jones, Miss Ethel Arthur-Jones, Miss May Harvey, Mr C. J. Fulton, Mr C. T. H. Helmsley, Mr and Mrs Vivian Reynolds, Mr Mark Kinghorne, Mr V. Nevaux, Mr H. R. Kimpton, Mr Harry Lytton, and Mr Fabar, the Danish Consul.

It is not often the public have an opportunity of hearing an orchestra of 200 and a military band of 150, together with such distinguished artistes as Mons. Maurel, Madame Giachetti, Madame De Cisneros, Mr Walter Kirby, and Mr A. W. Peterkin. Madame Marcheshi and Mr Joseph O'Mara, who had been announced to appear, were unable to do so, much to the regret of the concert committee. Sir Alexander C. Mackenzie was in command of the orchestra, and the military band by Mr F. L. Kettlewell, conductor of the British Imperial Band; Mr G. Bryer, conductor of the Alexander Military Band; and Mr W. J. Price, conductor of the Apollo Imperial, Mr Percy Pitt acting as accompanist and stage-manager, assisted in the stage arrangements by Mr Robert Affleck and Mr G. H. Dyball. The cheaper parts of the Royal Opera House were crowded last Sunday night, and, we understand, hundreds failed to obtain admission who could not or would not pay for the seats ranging from 7s. 6d. to £3 3s.

On the front page of the programme the following lines by Longfellow gave an appropriate indication of the evening's entertainment:—

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold up their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

When the curtain rose a wonderful sight was presented. The orchestra, admirably arranged by Councillor J. B. Williams, general secretary of the Musicians Union, was like a sea of faces. Sir Alexander Mackenzie appeared, and received an ovation as he mounted his rostrum to conduct the National Anthem. As soon as the first notes were played by the orchestra the audience seemed to feel that something grand was in reserve for them. The volume of tone and sound left little to be desired on that point. The programme proper opened with Mr A. E. Matt's new march "Fame and Glory," with the composer as the conductor. At the head of this page of the programme was Shelley's couplet:—

Pour forth the sound like enchanted wine,
Loosen the notes in a silver shower.

True enough the notes were loosened in a silver shower, and Mr Matt had the pleasure of hearing his latest work under circumstances that do not occur every day. He is, however, to be congratulated upon composing a worthy successor to his "Dawn" and other works. The following is the synopsis of "Fame and Glory":—Commencing with a bright and forte introduction in the key of D major, we enter upon the first theme, bold and somewhat martial in character, which may appropriately be termed the "Fame" portion of the composition. This contains important work for the brass, answered by strings and wood wind, and after a contrapuntal treatment leads us back to the opening passages. A pleasant contrast is shown with the trio; it has a broad and melodious melody for the strings and wood wind, which is intended to represent the "Song of Glory." After a repetition of the first theme there follows a rapid ascending passage for strings and wood wind, and the trio is again played by the full orchestra in the tonic key, leading to a rallentando and pause. Here a vigorous finale is reached, with ascending passages for strings and wood wind, and descending passages for 'cellos, bass, and trombones.

At its conclusion Mr Matt was warmly applauded both by the orchestra and audience.

The next item was Stephen Adams's ever-popular song "The Holy City," sung with feeling by Mr Walter Kirby.

Mr Kirby, who has a very fine tenor voice, has recently arrived in this country from Australia, where he has been touring with Madame Melba. We shall certainly hear a lot of this fine artist in the near future. Item three on the programme brought on Sir Alexander Mackenzie again, this time to conduct his "Britannia" overture.

The orchestra, who seemed to appreciate the honour of playing under Sir Alexander's baton, responded splendidly to the composer's demands. The following description of this work is from the pen of Mr Percy Pitt:—"This overture, which is, perhaps, the most popular of all its composer's works, was first performed at Queen's Hall on May 18, 1894, at a concert given to celebrate the seventieth anniversary of the foundation of the Royal Academy of Music, when the programme consisted entirely of works by past and present students. After two preliminary bars of kettle-drum, the horns and tuba call to attention with a phrase suggestive of the first principal theme. This is twice repeated, and, after a short accelerando, the first theme is given out by the flutes and oboe; and after this has been dwelt on for a short time, an episode of a singularly vigorous character is reached. The time then changes to tranquillo, and a broad and melodious second subject—also reflecting the style of an English seasong—is enunciated by clarinets and violas. The episode is then repeated, and in the coda we have the clarinets and the horn giving out anticipations of "Rule Britannia," combined with figures from the well-known College Hornpipe. The development is also for a considerable time chiefly concerned with this and kindred material, and is carried on with great humour and unflagging energy. The reprise begins with a statement of the episode in the unexpected key of G, followed by the first subject in the same key. In this key, too, the second subject is anticipated, and the tonic (E flat) is not reached till after considerable modulation. The second subject is then dealt with somewhat fully, and combined occasionally with fragments of "Rule Britannia" and the Hornpipe, the organ helping to emphasise the former. The coda is based on the Hornpipe tune, the whole culminating in emphatic allusions to the opening passage, which first appears in an augmented form ten bars from the end."

The overture went well from start to finish, and the orchestra were warmly applauded for their rendering of Sir Alexander's difficult and scholarly work.

Page three of the programme was headed by a quotation from Carlyle:—

We look for moments across the cloudy elements into the eternal Sea of Light, when song leads and inspires us.

These noble words formed a suitable introduction for Madame Eleonora De Cisneros, who sang Donizetti's "O Mio Fernando," from La Favorita, with great effect, and was well received.

The next item was the William Tell Overture, which was magnificently played by the orchestra, who were now in good form. The 'cello solo by Mr Edgar Fawcett at the opening was very effectively played, as was the Cor Anglais solo, played by Mr W. E. Fitzgerald, with the flute obbligato by Mr Gilbert Barton. It goes without saying that there was a demand for more, but the length of the programme made an encore out of the question.

At No. 7 Madame Giachetti appeared in place of Madame Marchesi, and sang "Non conosci il bel Suol," from Ambroise Thomas's opera Mignon. An encore here had to be granted to save time.

After this we arrived at page four of the programme with the following quotation as a heading:—

So, Song—like Fate itself—is given
To scare the idler thoughts away;
To raise the human to the holy,
To wake the spirit from the clay.—Schiller.

Then came the famous Tannhäuser overture, in which the orchestra seemed to revel. But Sir Alexander Mackenzie had them well in hand. The opening for the horns and bassoons, representing the Chant of the Pilgrims on their way to Rome, was beautifully rendered. As the sounds grew louder and louder, with the entrance of the trumpets and trombones, and then gradually died away as the pilgrims passed, the orchestra sounded magnificent. The story of Tannhäuser is so well known that it is unnecessary to repeat here. Suffice it to say that the playing of the overture by the orchestra, which, after all, was only got together for this one concert, was grand, particularly the orchestra and military band, which were organised by the London branch of the Musicians' Union. A number of the members of the Orchestral Association kindly volunteered their services. The orchestra comprised 208, and the military band 150. The following is the list of those who played:—

CONCERT COMMITTEE.—Representing the Musicians: Mr J. Lewis, Mr C. Jesson, Mr E. J. Cook, Mr J. Fitzgerald, Mr A. Stanley, and Mr C. Evanser. Representing the Heads of Departments' Association: Mr James Cullen, Mr G. H. Dyball, and Mr Wm. Barbour. Representing the No. 1 Branch Nat. A.T.S.E. (General Staff Branch): Mr Wm. Johnson, Mr C. Thorogood, and Mr P. Thomas. Representing the Society of Theatrical Carpenters: Mr A. Palmer, Mr R. Andrews, and Mr G. Hughes. Chairman Mr J. Cullen. Treasurer: Mr G. H. Dyball. Hon. Secretaries: Mr William Johnson and Mr Charles Jesson.

The Tannhäuser overture was followed by three songs, beautifully sung by Mons. Maurel, who took the place of Mr O'Mara at very short notice. This ended the first part of the programme, and the second part commenced on page five, at the top of which appeared the following lines by Thomas Moore:—

Music! oh, how faint, how weak;
Language fades before thy spell!
Why should feeling ever speak,
When thou can'st breathe her soul so well.

When the curtain rose again it was to reveal the military band seated ready to undertake their part of the programme. Mr G. Bryer took charge of the large band first, and led them through "The Invocation to Battle," from Wagner's Rienzi. The contrast between the orchestra and military band was most striking. Mr Peterkin followed with J. Airlie Dix's song "The Trumpeter," which was well received and loudly applauded.

This was followed by Massenet's "Scenes Pittoresque," by the band. Mr W. J. Price as conductor succeeded in bringing out the beautiful quality of the clarionets, led by Mr J. Hughes, L.R.A.M., and the other reed instruments to perfection, notably in "The Angelus." Next in order came another song, by Mr Walter Kirby, "Angels Guard Thee," admirably sung with a voice that seemed to fill every part of the vast theatre. Then came Madame De Cisneros again in a Goring Thomas song, "A Summer Night," This was so beautifully rendered that an encore was demanded both by the audience and the band, and the lady responded with the ever-popular "Comin' thro' the Rye." This brought us to the last item of the programme, the "1812 Overture." Those who have never heard Tchaikowsky's famous overture performed with a military band of 150, with all the effects, cannot possibly realise the alternate stirring strains of the Marseillaise, the Russian Hymn, and the Russian National Anthem as the story of Napoleon's disastrous retreat from Moscow is unfolded in music. It makes one's blood course through the veins at boiling point. The following is the synopsis of this famous work:—"In 1812 Napoleon encountered his first rebuff at Moscow, where, rather than surrender to the French, the inhabitants set fire to their city, driving the invaders out. The broken army's miserable retreat from Moscow has been the subject of a well-known painting. It is round the story of the fighting that the Russian master has built his symphonic poem—it can scarcely be described as an overture—and the reason for its popularity is not far to seek. A broad flowing melody, taken from one of the chants used in the Greek Church, opens the work, and this is presently succeeded by some vividly picturesque 'battle music.' The fight has begun, and the all-conquering French, ever sanguine of victory, at the first have matters all their own way. High above the tumult rises the 'Marseillaise,' triumphantly trumpeted forth; but presently a theme of obviously Russian extract appears, the two motives alternating as the fight gives advantage first to one side and then the other. As time goes on, the Slavonic theme becomes more and more predominant, and the 'Marseillaise' dies gradually away. Napoleon is beaten, and his army is in retreat. The victorious Russians give themselves up to rejoicing; bells peal joyously, and the fine rhythmic melody of a great hymn of praise is heard. As the climax approaches, the Russian Hymn is thundered out on the brass, together with the march-like figure heard earlier in the work and the clamorous pealing of the joy-bells, the whole forming a magnificent finale to what is undoubtedly one of the most vivid and striking tone pictures to be found in the whole history of music." Mr Fred L. Kettlewell took charge of the band here, and the audience prepared themselves for something great in the way of descriptive music, and they did not prepare in vain. Eyes began to turn towards the huge bass drum which had stood silently on the stage all the evening. The band prepared for action. The opening bars over, all settled down to their share of the musical description of the grim tragedy of "1812." The band was admirably balanced and the lights and shades were skilfully depicted. Climax follows climax in quick succession until the end approaches and the French are in full retreat. Then the joy of the victors is expressed in the ringing of the bells of Moscow, the playing simultaneously of the Russian Hymn and National Anthem, and the firing of the guns. All this was realistically given on the Royal Opera House stage by the large band of the Musicians' Union. As one section of the band played the Greek Hymn, the trombones and trumpets thundered out the Russian National Anthem. All the large and small bells belonging to the stage department of the Royal Opera House were set ringing by lusty arms; and Mr F. Hayes, who had armed himself with a huge drum-stick, and had been silently preparing for action, commenced operations on the huge nine feet diameter drum. The stick was raised in the air, and after a whirl came down crash on the drum. The audience were inclined to treat this at first as an amusing incident, but the effect was so overpowering that laughter was out of the question. Undoubtedly, the hero of the evening was "the man behind the drum" in the "1812" Overture. He is assuredly a mighty hitter. The playing of "God Save the King" brought the entertainment to a close, and so prevented the possibility of an encore. From an artistic point of view the concert was a great success, and we have no doubt it was so financially. The Musicians' Union are to be congratulated upon their share of the work, which must have taxed the loyalty of its members to the straining point, seeing that many gave up lucrative engagements to attend, while others holding Sunday engagements paid for the services of deputies to attend either the concert or to their private business.

The stage day staff at the Royal Opera House deserve great praise. All of them worked from noon on Sunday to the end of the performance to arrange the stage and help in carrying out the arrangements back and front. Mr Robert Affleck, the master carpenter, rendered every possible service before and on the day to ensure the success of the concert. The members of his staff who gave their services were Messrs Ed. Keating, W. J. Hindley, James Phelps, W. Templeman, T. Bennett, E. Bonnett, H. Wetherhill, S. Highgate, S. Stevens, W. Jackson, G. Taylor, H. Wesson, G. Cooper, S. Gardiner, A. Helsden, P. Smith, P. Flannagan, C. Lee, W. Lee, A. Jones, P. Mahoney, F. Glover, and J. Fitzmaurice. Mr Wm. Crawshaw, the electrician, also gave his services and help in many ways. The members of his staff who assisted were Messrs H. Body and J. Lester. The stewards were, in addition to members of the Concert Committee, Mr T. Atterton, Mr G. Stow, Mr H. Bowmer, Mr H. Powell, Mr J. Haley, Mr J. Phelps, Mr W. J. Hindley, and P. Mahoney.

The floral decorations were provided and arranged by Messrs John Russell and Co., Haverstock Hill. The piano was kindly lent by Bechstein.

The souvenir programme was designed by Mr G. M. Bussey. The music was lent by Messrs Hawkes and Son, Messrs Chappell and Co., Limited, and Messrs Rudall Carte.

The Concert Committee desire to express their most grateful thanks to Comm Robert De Sanno, of the San Carlo Opera Company, Mr Frank Rendle, Mr Neil Forsyth, Mr Eades (the acting-manager), Mr Percy Pitt, and to the ladies and gentlemen who contributed to the programme. The committee greatly appreciate the magnificent assistance they received from the managers and staff at the Opera House. At no other theatre would it have been possible to secure greater facilities or more generous treatment that the committee received. The committee desire also to thank those who kindly assisted in the sale of tickets. They received assistance from stage-managers, conductors, members of the orchestra, and staff connected with most of the London theatres and music halls.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The Royal Academy student's concert at Queen's Hall on Monday afternoon contained some notable items, reflecting the utmost credit on the students and their professors, and showing also that everything possible is being done by Sir Alexander

F. L. KETTLEWELL,

CONDUCTOR OF THE FAMOUS OVERTURE "1812" BY TSCHAIKOWSKY.

Mackenzie and his brilliant staff to uphold the traditions of the oldest of English schools of music. The programme opened with two movements from Mendelssohn's Octet for Strings in E flat, Op. 8, a work that retains its freshness and beauty notwithstanding the unworthy efforts made of late to disparage this great composer. But the creator of Elijah will hold his place among the greatest musicians of the world let detractors say what they will. Mr Woof, Miss Jessie Bowater, Miss A. M. Price, Miss Elsie W. Owen, Mr James T. Lockyer, Miss Rebecca T. Clarke, Mr Bertram W. O'Donnell, and Mr Kenneth Park were the executants, and upon the whole were fully entitled to commendation. One or two slight defects it would be ungracious to mention. Nor was original composition lost sight of, and here it may be worth while to remark the fact that the Royal Academy of London not only provides education for native students, but even Germany sends pupils to "Unmusical England." We can teach them as they cannot elsewhere be taught in Europe. In proof of which statement there was given on Monday the first movement of a Trio in E Flat, for pianoforte, violin and violoncello, by Miss Zénie Weisberg, a work of decided promise, melodious in character, and not deficient in individuality. The fair composer was assisted in the performance by Messrs Woof and O'Donnell, who did justice to their fellow student's clever work. Perhaps the most brilliant of all the solos was that of Miss Hilda F. M. Barnes, who displayed remarkable talent in the Polonaise in A of Wieniawski for Violin. A very youthful performer, Miss Myra Hess (Ada Lewis scholar), also proved herself a pianiste of distinction in Mendelssohn's Fantasia in F Sharp Minor, an exacting piece for so juvenile a performer. That Miss Myra Hess is destined to become famous can hardly be doubted. Another charming pianist remains to be mentioned—Miss Gladys Law, who played the Ballade in F, of Chopin, as few students would have done. Some of the vocal students distinguished themselves, but we must warn Miss Maude Thornton to devote her fullest attention to the subject of intonation, which in "Mignon's song" was by no means perfect. Mr Philip Simmons, the possessor of a beautiful and well-trained voice, sang "Memories," by Goring Thomas, in excellent style. Miss Caroline Hatchard sang effectively two songs by Liszt, the second "Jugendglück" being the most pleasing. Three Celtic songs by Mr Arnold E. Trevor Bax were not entirely successful, but the concluding song was the most effective. Miss Ethel M. Lister sang them with taste. A sonata of Boccherini gave Mr Bertram O'Donnell an opportunity of displaying a good tone and refined execution on the 'cello. Mr Percival Driver sang two songs of Handel, and the concert concluded with a neat performance of the Chaconne, Opus 150, for two pianofortes, by Raff, the executants being Miss Marjorie Wigley and Miss Dorothy Grinstead.

A committee meeting of the Touring Managers Association will be held at 3, Bedford-street, on Friday next, at half-past twelve o'clock.

On Saturday, Nov. 19, Revival of "LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN."

Few more enjoyable evenings have been spent at the St. James's Theatre than that of Saturday last, when an audience almost exuberant in its delight and satisfaction met to enjoy Lady Windermere's Fan. Few can have forgotten the memorable evening of Feb 20, 1902, when at the conclusion of the performance the author stepped to the footlights with one hand in a trouser pocket and the other holding a half-smoked cigarette, and told the house that he was glad to find they liked his play as much as he did. It is curious to notice the increase in cynicism that has taken place in playwriting in the last twelve years. Compared with some of our modern pieces Lady Windermere's Fan is a fount of purity and freshness. Adultery and its results are nowadays the commonplaces of dramatic construction. Taking three comedies now running in London, in one of them the wife divorces the husband on account of his infidelities and "takes him on" again when she finds she cannot do without him; in another the wife goes up to the very verge of "going wrong" with a lover, and is very much enraged when the husband objects to her thus "carrying on;" and, in the third, a wife is so determined to do as she likes in the matter of "flirtation" that she divorces her husband in order to obtain her "freedom." The growing disinclination to marriage, of which we hear so much, may possibly be due to the feeling of bachelors that it is hardly worth while going through so much in order to obtain so little. Lady Windermere's Fan, with its essential wholesomeness and surface cynicism, comes like a stream of water in a very thirsty land to those who have been fed on modern theatrical fare. It would appear, by-the-way, that one great improvement has been made, or was made, in the piece since the first night. At the original performance, it is stated, the audience was not informed till late in the evening of the relationship between Mrs Erlynne and Lady Windermere. They are taken now into the author's confidence at the end of the first act. The piece went splendidly on Saturday; and Mr Alexander, who sat at the back of a private box, must have been pleased with the applause which was lavished on the performance. The members of the original cast who were secured for the revival had "tremendous" receptions, especially Miss Marion Terry, who played Mrs Erlynne with all her old artistic accomplishment and irresistible charm and cleverness. Every line of hers told, and Miss Terry's share in every scene in which she took part was of the most valuable and vivid description. The tact, the skill, and the finish of her embodiment were even more entirely effective than in the original production. Miss Fanny Coleman's consummate comedy characterisation as the Duchess of Berwick again sent connoisseurs of good acting into ecstasies; and Mr A. Vane-Tempest was again unimpeachable as Dumby. Mr Ben Webster, the Cecil Graham of the original production, played Lord Windermere with the refined ease and complete confidence which this well-trained artist has ever at his disposal; and Mr C. Aubrey Smith's firmness, solid presence, and polish made him an excellent Lord Darlington. Mr Leslie Faber, whose style, appearance, and diction are really exquisite, was an ideal Cecil Graham; and Mr Sydney Brough showed his versatility by a very creditable performance of the part of Lord Augustus Lorton. Miss Lilian Braithwaite's rôle of Lady Windermere suited her extremely well, and she filled it admirably; and Miss Corisande Hamilton acted intelligently as Lady Agatha, the minor characters all having careful and conscientious representatives. The enthusiasm created by the revival was most demonstrative. The principals had "ovations;" and Mr Alexander bowed his acknowledgements of the gratitude of the house for his "happy thought" in again putting on the piece.

THE GRAND.

On Monday, Nov 21, the Drama, in Five Acts, by the late George Conquest and Paul Meritt, entitled "MANKIND."

Islington is indebted to Mr Brand, the manager here, for the very complete manner in which he has staged the above play. Mankind is essentially a most interesting play, and aroused universal interest. The late Mr George Conquest, who created the singular character of Groodge, is, alas! no longer with us, but his son, Mr George Conquest, has been specially engaged for the production, and naturally his appearance in a part his father made famous was awaited with a great amount of curiosity by those playgoers in the neighbourhood who could recollect the original production. Mr Conquest came through the ordeal with flying colours, his portrayal of the old, vindictive moneylender being very effective, and quite successful. One experienced member of the stock company, Mr Arthur Estcourt, gave a very fine performance as Peter Sharpley, and is entitled to very hearty congratulations. Mr Joynson Powell as Edmond Sharpley once more presented a keen, incisive reading. Mr Ernest Leicester as Phillip Warren had unfortunately a somewhat limited scope in which to display his talents. Nevertheless, he succeeded in fixing himself prominently on the attention of the audience, who were effusive in their plaudits. Mr Frank Stone as Pinpool was quite "in the picture," and is to be commended for a sound impersonation. Mr Hal Collier as the pugnacious cockney, Barnaby Bright, found abundant scope for the display of his humorous resources, and the result was an amusing performance. Mr George Elliston gave an impersonation of a brutal showman that was very commendable. Mr H. Dudley as Melton was satisfactory, and acted with obvious sincerity. Miss Helen Bancroft as Alice Maitland added a fresh triumph to the many she has gained here, her depiction of the much-tried and unfortunate wife being clever and effective. Her contribution to the success of the performance was considerable. Miss Kate Brand as Constance Melton was again excellent, and merits warm praise. Mrs Stanislaus Calhaem as Mrs Bickerton delighted the audience with a clever and realistic reading, her experienced touch enabling her to make much of the rôle. Miss Winifred Leeson was amusing as the much-tried wife of Bright, and Miss Christine Williams, a young lady, was very good as the child; the remainder of the company being adequate. The incidental music, together with an attractive programme, was excellently rendered by Mr Gliddon's orchestra. The Bioscope as an early door item continues to attract.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Nov 21, the Russian Drama, by Bartley Campbell, entitled "SIBERIA."

A hearty welcome is being extended this week to the revival of Mr Bartley Campbell's Russian drama Siberia, which is picturesquely staged, and receives an excellent interpretation from the Pavilion stock company. Mr Ashley Page plays Nicholai Neigoff in a manly and sympathetic fashion; an artistic and clever rendering of the cruel Lieutenant-Governor Jaracoff is given by Mr Frank Harding; Mr James C. Aubrey acts with strong dramatic power as the spy, Sparta; Mr Harry Barford is well placed as Ivan Nordoff; and a characteristic performance of the Governor-General is given by Mr Fred Withers. The comedy element is in the hands of Mr Wilfred E Shine and Miss Tina Mavro, who as Michael Trolsky and Vera respectively cause much merriment. Mr Fred Boustead is extremely good as Lieutenant Smalloff, and Mr Harry Bristow scores heavily as Count Stanislaus. Miss Marion Denvil gives a sympathetic and forcible impersonation of Sara, depicting with admirable effect the courage and strength of purpose underlying the character. Miss Daisy Scudamore deserves high praise for her excellent assumption of Marie, receiving great applause for her fine acting in the Palace scene. A touching portrayal of the Countess Stanislaus is given by Miss Kate Leslie, and Miss Kitty Cardigan is bright as Drovna. The remaining parts are capably represented by Miss Beaumont, Miss Clarke, Mr R. Riley, Mr Godfrey, Mr Lloyd Merton, Mr Stirling, and Mr A. G. Payne. Siberia is preceded by a farcical sketch entitled Grandfather's Clock, which is rattled through very effectively by Miss Daisy Scudamore, Miss Kate Leslie, Mr Harry Bristow, and Mr Harry Barford, who is screamingly funny as the Lunatic. On Nov. 17 the benefit of the courteous acting-manager, Mr Fred Brown, took place, when the theatre was thronged with an audience that packed the house from floor to ceiling, testifying conclusively the great popularity of the bénéficiaire. The performance started at seven and lasted until close upon midnight, and amongst the many attractions presented we must especially mention Mr Dan Crawley, Miss Lottie Lennox, Miss Carrie Laurie's juveniles, Mr Jake Friedman, Mr Dan Thomas, Mr Russell Wallett, Miss Dinah Morriss and Piccaninnies, Messrs Walton and Lester, the original Russian Troupe of dancers, Mr H. E. High, Mr Arthur Lawrence, the Lavender Troupe of cyclists, Miss Pattie Bells, Mr Ted Saunders, the Errols, and Edie Rivers.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, Nov. 21, "THE ELDER MISS BLOSSOM."

Mr and Mrs Kendal are appearing this week in a trio of pieces, including Ernest Hendrie and Metcalfe Wood's clever play, The Elder Miss Blossom, on Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday matinée; in Still Waters Run Deep on Wednesday and Saturday evenings; and in that delightful play, A Scrap of Paper, on Thursday and Friday evenings. Needless to say, they are receiving a hearty welcome from "the nobility and gentry" of Notting-hill-gate and its vicinity. The Elder Miss Blossom is a drawing-room drama, in which tears and laughter alternate. Had not the dramatists sketched their subject very lightly, skilfully, and neatly, and thereby avoided the Scylla and Charybdis of low comedy and bathos, satiric, or, at least, Homeric, laughter would have greeted some of the scenes and incidents of pathetic import. It is not in every play that a middle-aged spinster heroine can earn the tear of pity and compel our admiration and respect, and of course, Mrs Kendal's finished and artistic rendering of the part of Dolly Blossom of the title-rôle has no little to do with the marvellous success of the character. Her deft handling of difficult situations, the determined way in which she bridges the abyss between the sublime and the ridiculous, and above all her infinite tact and delicacy are fully deserving of the success which they attain. Mr Kendal is seen to great advantage in the part of Andrew Quick, F.R.S., the famous anthropologist, who finds such grave difficulty in preserving the balance of his "moral compass" under the untoward circumstances in which he finds himself placed. It is all so easy and natural, the mistake which causes the imbroglio, and so easily and naturally explained and set to rights, and in no small degree this is due to the illuminative performances of Mr and Mrs Kendal. Miss Elise Clarens is a very pretty and winsome ingénue, and acts with grace, ability, and discretion. Mr Ernest Hendrie is as amusing as ever as the stupid, well-meaning old country bumpkin, Christopher Blossom, who muddles along and escapes all the unpleasantness which besets the other more alert characters. Mr Leonard Hubert is satisfactory as the golfing young parson, Rev. Arthur Leacroft. Mr Bassett Roe is fairly good as Major Twentymann, the imaginative raconteur, who supplies the Hambledon Guardian with such spicy and interesting matter. Mr R. Burnett gives a careful and natural performance as the enterprising editor and author of Entre nous. Mr Metcalfe Wood causes much laughter by his droll rendering of the part of the stammering Withers (valet to Andrew Quick), who is mistaken for a "Pawnee," and generally maltreated, till Cooper, the parlour-maid (a part capitally played by Mrs A. B. Tapping), solaces him with her heart and hand. Miss Lola Duncan as the housekeeper at the Albany, and Mr W. M. Rutherford, caretaker at Quick's chambers, complete the small cast.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Play, by Henry Arthur Jones, entitled "THE MIDDLEMAN."

For the second time this year Mr E. S. Willard and his company are appearing here, and a very popular welcome was accorded to this fine actor when he stepped on the stage in the character of Cyrus Blenkarn, in The Middleman. Cyrus Blenkarn ranks amongst Mr Willard's finest creations. It is a wonderfully finished impersonation, and it gives the actor a capital opportunity of showing his power. Mr Willard held the audience throughout, and enlisted their entire sympathy for the character. There is always one point about this actor that cannot fail to charm, and that is his elocution, which is almost perfect, and his softest tones may be heard all over the theatre. Mr Willard has excellent support from his company. Mr A. S. Homewood is notably good as Joseph Chandler, while Captain Chandler is carefully embodied by Mr W. Sauter. Batty Todd is capitally played by Mr H. Cane, who is also responsible for the stage-management. Miss Maud Hoffman plays Mary Blenkarn in a pathetic manner. Nancy is quite safe in the hands of Mrs Russ Whytal, while Nancy's lover, Jesse Pegg, is humorously depicted by Mr Walter Edmunds. Mr J. W. Laurence makes a good Sir Seaton Umfraville and Miss Eileen Warren is seen to advantage as Lady Umfraville. Miss Mabel Dubois is acceptable as Maud Chandler. Among others who give valuable assistance are the Misses Violet Furnival and Edith H. Tombs.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov. 21st, the Drama, by Ben Landeck and Arthur Shirley, entitled "WOMAN AND WINE."

The members of Mr Milton Bode's company, appearing this week at the Dalston Theatre in the drama Woman and Wine, are receiving a very encouraging welcome. The production goes with all its old success of movement and incident from start to finish. Mr Frank R. Robertson is a manly Dick Seymour, and succeeds in making his audience quite concerned about the troubles which beset him as the result of "seeing life." They have positively tearful sympathy with his blind father, Hugh Seymour, an old artist. Miss Ernestine Holker as Mary Andrews being a character intimately associated with the younger Seymour in what may be referred to as the best side of his career naturally shares with him the applause of the onlookers. Alphonse Beaudet finds a suitable representative in Mr Walter Thornton, and the remarkable character of Pierre Crucru, otherwise known as "Caliban," is represented with appropriate weirdness by Mr Herbert Landeck. His expressions of hatred of human nature in general and the fair sex in particular are, as heretofore, received as specimens of dry humour. Marcel Rigadout, represented by Miss Edith Blande, and La Colombe, played with force by Miss Nellie Lauraine, are both characters which leave an impression on the mind; and Miss Rose Galloway as Madame Perinet and Miss Lucy Langley as Suzanne do all that is needed of them. Mr Tom Tindall is much appreciated as the would-be ever-young Professor Sawter, and Mr Percy Dawsone presents a splendidly vitalised sketch of reckless youthfulness as his son Charles. The work of both these capable actors is ably supported by Miss Muriel Vox's vivacious representation of Janet. Mr Henry Compton's Duc D'Arnac is a careful study, Mr Frank Eglesfield is efficient as Phineas Collins, and Mr E. R. Beaumont, in addition to the duties of stage-management, appears as Mark Perkins. The cast also includes Mr Ralph Lynn, Mr Fred Harcourt, Mr Arthur Mitchell, Mr A. V. Webster, Mr H. Wheatley, and Mr Percy Cooper.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Nov. 21, a New and Revised Version of the Romantic Musical Comedy, in Three Acts, entitled "MY SWEETHEART."

Mr Orton Tewson's company is here this week in a revival of that old-time successful play, My Sweetheart. Miss Grace Arundale filled the title-rôle in a most captivating manner, acting and singing with much ability. The Tony Faust of Mr Broughton Black stood out as a meritorious piece of work. Mr Charles D. Steele portrayed the eccentricities of the elderly dude, Dudley Harcourt, in expressive fashion; Mr Harry A. Gribben lent distinction to the part of Harold Bartlett; Mr Ambrose Skinner was satisfactory as Farmer Hatzell; Mr Charles A. Stephenson played in easy, effective style as Dr. Oliver; and Mr R Noel Barton M'Guckin gave a clever and realistic impersonation of the "old sport," Joe Shotwell. Miss Pollie Marshall deserves mention for her Mrs Hatzell, as does Miss Violet Knight for her Gretchen; and the lady who played Mrs Fleeter in place of Miss Gertrude Le Sage made the most of her opportunities. The play was preceded by the farce Leave It to Me, in which Messrs Orton Tewson, Charles Clayton, Allan Cleaver, Ambrose Skinner, and Mesdames Violet Knight and May Daniel took part.

THE KING'S, HAMMERSMITH.

The Carl Rosa opera company, now in its second week at the King's Theatre, gave on Wednesday evening a delightful representation of Faust. Mr Edward Davies, who is possessed of a beautiful voice, sang the music allotted to Faust in an enjoyable manner, and his acting was quite satisfactory. Mephistopheles was rendered by Mr Arthur Winckworth in excellent style, his fine organ being heard to excellent advantage. The Valentine of Mr Lewys James was an extremely able impersonation. Mr Alexander Richard made a capable Wagner, and Miss Anna Hope created a favourable impression as Siebel. Madame Una Brucksbaw won much success by her highly impressive representation of Marguerite. Martha was amusingly embodied by Miss Douglas Wilson. The chorus was excellent, and the largely augmented orchestra was ably handled by Mr Walter Van Noorden. At the usual Thursday matinée Carmen was performed, with Herr Julius Walther, Herr Charles Victor, and Madame Augusta Renard in the principal parts, and in the evening Maritana, with Mr E. C. Hedmondt and Miss Lizzie Burgess as Don Cæsar and Maritana, was given.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, Nov. 21 the Musical Comedy, in Three Acts, entitled "WINNIE BROOKE, WIDOW."

On Monday the attraction at this popular theatre was the new musical comedy, Winnie Brooke, Widow, with Miss Ada Reeve in the title-rôle. Last week at Mr F. W. Purcell's other theatre, the Marlborough, this capital show was strikingly successful, and the booking is excellent at the Alexandra. Miss Reeve has a part most admirably suited to her fascineting style, and was immensely popular throughout the evening. It was small wonder that the members of Mr Dudley Mayne's brotherhood fell victims to her charms, and the enthusiastic applause of the audience indicated their complete sympathy. Song and dance by the famous comedienne were repeatedly encored, and the point and vivacity of her interpretation won the entire admiration of the delighted audience. As the Rev. Elihu Garside Mr James Stevenson provoked great amusement, and Dudley Mayne had an excellent representative in that accomplished actor Mr Henry Vibart. Miss Drusilla Wills, Mrs Charles Maltby, Miss Janet Hodson, Mr Price Evans, and Mr Frederick Sharp were the pick of a well-balanced, clever cast. The bright music was well rendered, the chorus in general being most vivacious. Well dressed, well mounted, full of good things, Winnie Brooke should have an exceptionally prosperous tour.

SHAKESPEARE, CLAPHAM-JUNCTION.

On Monday, Nov. 14, the Comedy Opera, in Two Acts, entitled, "MY LADY MOLLY."

Mr Arthur Hart's excellent company have been drawing good houses here during the past week. The scenery by Joseph Harker is effective and the ladies' dresses are pretty. Mr Carlton Mason conducted an enlarged orchestra, and the chorus sang tunefully and with great spirit. Miss Mabel Lait, in the title part, played and sang in a most acceptable manner, and Mr George Grundy made a gallant and dashing Captain Romney. Miss Maude Thorne as Alice Coverdale was as saucy and captivating as could be desired. Mr Fred Hobbs was a good Sir Miles; and Mr T. Norbury was satisfactory as the landlord, as was also Mr David M. Miller as Judge Romney. Miss Sybil Thorne as Hester was good. Mr Arthur Powell as Micky O'Dowd was a most amusing performance, and while he was on the stage the fun was fast and furious. His efforts were ably seconded by Miss Lottie Sargent as the little French governess, her rendering of the rôle greatly delighting the house, who applauded her efforts most heartily. Mr David Fisher, jun., made the most of the character of the Head Groom. Miss Maud Lucy and Miss Sophie Grundy were good as serving maids, and Miss Nancy West was a thoroughly capable housekeeper.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Musical Comedy, entitled "THE CHERRY GIRL."

The Cherry Girl is being performed here by a good all-round company. Miss Katie May, in consequence of the indisposition of Miss Elsie Molloy, undertakes the part of the Queen, and does well both in song and dance. Mr H. Herbert as Moonshine and Happy Joe gives a very good burlesque of Datas in the first act, and an excellent skit on the cake-walk in the second. Mr Lawrence Wensley, who sustains the dual-part of Starlight and the Squire of Homewood Hall, has an excellent voice, and vocalises ably. Master Harry Williams is a very good Snowball, and Miss Dorothy Frostick stands out prominently as Dimples, and sings and dances beautifully. The Steinway Quartet and Happy Joe's men smartly render their musical numbers, and Miss Lottie Stone's troupe of lady dancers, the Four Wisterias, and a large and tuneful chorus, under the able direction of Mr Clement Locknane, give excellent support. The scenery and costumes are effective.

LYRIC OPERA HOUSE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Play, entitled "A MAN'S SHADOW."

There could be no doubt about the interest aroused by the above play on Monday evening, when the audience at the Lyric, Hammersmith, closely followed the intensely exciting and interesting situations. An effective and masterly performance of the dual-part was given by Mr J. J. Bartlett, and his impersonation did him great credit. The rôle of De Noirville was excellently sustained by Mr Charles Weir, his acting in the Court scene arousing hearty enthusiasm. Picolet and Tristot were amusingly portrayed by Mr George Rowlands and Mr Alfred Donohoe. Mr Edward Boddy was a satisfactory Gerbier. A very capable Lacroix was Mr John Macfarlane; and Mr Alfred Holles was a dignified President of the Court. Miss Florence Dalton was eminently successful as the passionate Julie De Noirville; and Madame Laroque was represented by Miss Winnie Whyte with sympathy and fine effect. An intelligent representative of Suzanne was Little Ida Thompson, and Miss Nellie Marler was a painstaking Victoire. The scenery was in all respects adequate.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled "THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN."

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company has been here this week, playing The Ticket-of-Leave Man and The Two Orphans, with Mr Henry Neville in his original characters. It is needless to say that Mr Neville's Bob Brierley, in the former play, was as great a success as ever; he enacted the part with all his old fire and vigour, and the fortunes of the much-maligned Lancashire lad riveted the attention and exacted the sympathy of his audience from start to finish. While displaying plenty of reserve force, Mr Neville was careful not to under-act, and, with the appreciation of the true artist, made the most of the many telling lines and situations with which the play abounds. One of his best scenes was that in the last act, in which Brierley turns on the man who has been the means of his losing situation after situation. May Edwards found an eminently suitable exponent in Miss Evelyn Weedon, who acted with considerable power and pathos, and whose sympathetic rendering showed true insight into the character. Mr William Devereux gave a strong representation of James Dalton, and was particularly successful in emphasising the difference between Dalton in his own haunts and Dalton as a respectable member of society; indeed, had a criminal managed to make so complete a change in personal appearance in real life, one may suspect that the police would be as puzzled as was their stage prototype, Hawkshaw. The last-named character was capably rendered by Mr L. Cory Thomas, who fully realised the careful and conscientious but good-hearted detective, the expression of whose determination not to "round on" the unfortunate ticket-of-leave man was received with great applause. Mr William Mallalieu contributed a clever character sketch of Mr Gibson, the bill-broker; and Mr F. G. Thurstans was a typical Jew "fence" both in make-up and manner. The task of interpreting the comic element of the play was chiefly entrusted to Miss Florence Wix and Mr E. H. Cox, who, the former as a music hall artiste and the latter as alternately a "gilded youth" and a vendor of pigs' trotters, were responsible for considerable amusement. A good deal of fun was also caused by Miss Adie Boyne's portrayal of a diminutive but dashing office boy, seconded by Miss Emma Victor as the boy's mother. The orchestra of the theatre is now under the skilful bâton of Herr A. Blome, whose violin solo during one of the intervals was much appreciated.

NEW EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov 21, the Drama, in Five Acts, by Henry Arthur Jones, entitled "THE SILVER KING."

This popular play is attracting appreciative audiences here this week. It is presented by Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company. Mr Melford, in the title-rôle, plays with sincerity, and gives a natural representation of the character. Miss Emelie Polini, who is a fascinating Nellie Denver, portrays with true feeling a wife's love for her unjustly accused husband, and Mr C. C. Grattan is excellent as the sympathetic old servant Daniel Jakes. Little Miss Amy Manfree and Master Jack Evan as Cissy and Ned are worthy of a word of praise. Mr Charles Levey as Captain Herbert Skinner is very effective, and gives a finished performance of the scoundrel Spider. Mr James L. Power, Mr Arthur H. Rooke, and Mr C. P. Amalia as Henry Corkett, Elijah Coombe, and Cripps respectively are at their best, and greatly add to the success of the performance. Mr Marriss Lindon is a capital detective, and does his work well as Sam Baxter. Mr Eric Store and Messrs Bingham and S. Hathway create much amusement as Mr Parkyn, Messrs Binks and Bronson. Mr H. Laundy as a passenger is funny. Mr P. Redmayne as Frank Selwyn deserve passing notice. The remaining artists, Miss Phyllis Dailly as Olive Skinner and Mr A. Shoesmith as the railway porter, deserve mention. The play was well staged.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH-END.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Drama entitled "TOMMY ATKINS."

This sensational play was presented on Monday by Mr Milton Bode's well-selected company, the attractive scenery being a great feature of the production. Mr Frederic Ross as Harold Wilson scored heavily in the interpretation of the rôle; Mr George C. Doughty acted with vigour as Captain Richard Maitland; Mr Reginald Holmes was a buoyant and breezy Captain Robert Sparrow; Mr John Nolan was the essence of Irish humour in the part of Sergeant Paddy Molloy, being ably assisted by Miss Ethel Tinsley, who was also amusingly artistic. Mr Chas. A. Wenman made a good character study of the half-repentant villain, Private Mason; Mr Billy Harman appealed strongly to the risible faculties of the audience in his eccentric interpretation of Ebenezer Skindle; Mr Maurice Drew handled well the small part of Stephen Raymond; Miss Marie Fontaine cleverly sustained that of Margaret Maitland; and Miss Florrie Vickers deserves a word of praise for her interpretation of Elsie Wilson. Miss Kitty Omar made the most of the part of Rose Selwyn, and Miss Lola Patey presented a consistent reading of the heroine, Ruth Raymond.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Nov. 21st, "A ROYAL DIVORCE."

Mr W. W. Kelly's company, headed by Miss Edith Cole, is appearing here in this favourite play, which is meeting with a warm reception from large audiences. Miss Cole repeats her successful performance of the unfortunate Empress Josephine, and the reception accorded her should quite satisfy this clever artist. Mr Frederick Victor is a fine Napoleon. Mr Claude Agnew is a clever and courtly Talleyrand, Mr Trever Lowe is a good Marquis De Beaumont, Mr A. Grenville is a characteristic General Augereau, Mr Ernest C. Batley is excellent as Marshal Murat, Mr H. J. Powell is good as Dr. Corvisart, as is Mr Dennis Bryan as Grimaud. Miss Ethyle Murray is a powerful Marie Louise, Miss Helen Richmond a charming Stephanie De Beauharnais, and Miss Maggie Cardiff a pleasing King of Rome. The other characters are well acted.

GREENWICH THEATRE, S.E.

Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr Leicester Jackson are appearing here this week with considerable success in the strong emotional drama entitled Her One Great Sin. Miss St. Albans gives a remarkably powerful and impressive performance of the character of Grace Warhurst. The rôle of Reuben Warhurst is admirably enacted by Mr Sam Arthur. Mr J. Leicester Jackson is very successful as Arnold Thornhill, his performance being clever and consistent throughout. Mr Fred Hodson is an amusing Jerry Jumble, and Mr Charles L. Lambert is excellent as Dan Hundle. Mr Jack Royston acts well as Mr Benton. Messrs Tom Stacey, Byron Williams, W. W. G. Dudge, Gerald Smythe, and C. Dale are all good in their parts of Ben Barkley, Robert Brown, Jim Bates, Tom Green, and Police-constable Jackson. Miss Nellie Lambert is a pert and pleasing Nancy Whinpenny, Miss Louise Walton a clever Bet Bundle, Miss Phillis Damien an excellent Charlie, and Miss Maude Lambert a pretty Gracie.

"LADY HAMILTON;" OR, THE LAST SIGNAL."

A Play, in Three Acts, by H. F. Wiber Wood, Produced at a Matinée at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Tuesday Nov. 22.

Lord Nelson	Mr JULIAN CROSS
Captain Hardy	Mr FRANK STONE
Capt. Hon. H. Blackwood	Mr WILFRID BECKWITH
Prince Hofleben	Mr STOCKALL WARD
Lord Tavistock	Mr WALTER RUSSELL
Mr Martin Shee, R.A.	Mr ORLANDO BARNETT
Tom Allen	Mr A. T. HILTON
Lady Jerningham	Miss ALICE CHAPIN
Cornelia Knight	Miss GERTRUDE CLARIDGE
Fanny Bolton	Miss MARY STUART
Emma, Lady Hamilton	Miss MAUDE LACY

A piece quite above the usual level of suburban matinée productions in tone is Lady Hamilton, which was presented at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Tuesday afternoon last. It is certainly deficient in character interest; indeed, it is difficult to imagine how the life of Nelson could be moulded into an effective play. Lady Hamilton is a series of tableaux, in which the dialogue is greatly in excess of the action, whereby a certain tediousness is created. But there is much charm in the refinement of the author's dialogue, in his intimate acquaintance with the details of his theme, and in the mere presentation of the character of our great naval hero on the stage. Nelson, according to all evidence, was an imaginative man, and, so to speak, innocently theatrical; and in all probability the staginess of the conversations between him and Lady Hamilton in Mr H. F. Wiber Wood's play is faithful to fact. The charm of Nelson which endeared his especially to his sailors was the combination of sentiment with the acme of energy in action. He "let himself go" in a way that Wellington, for instance, never did; and accordingly was loved as Wellington never was. Mr Wood has evidently studied Southey's biography and other sources of information carefully; and we have a fairly correct view of Romney's studio in Cavendish-square, with Mr Martin Shee, R.A., and Lady Hamilton coming to arrange about a portrait. Here she and Nelson engage in some of the numerous conversations of which the piece is chiefly composed. In the second act, which takes place in the garden at Merton Abbey, Nelson's approaching departure is discussed, and there are sundry scenes of sentiment, the curtain falling upon the picture of his kneeling in prayer by the foot of the cot containing the little Honoria. In the first division of the last act the preliminaries of Trafalgar are settled on board the Victory; and in the second part Lady Hamilton and her friends are awaiting with anxiety news from the fleet. A female emissary from the Queen and from Lady Nelson comes to ask for information. This leads to an explosion of feeling on Lady Hamilton's part; and when she is left alone she has a vision—admirably depicted in a tableau vivant at the back of the stage—showing Nelson's death in the cock-pit of his ship.

The piece was capitally acted; and had it been an effective drama, the result would probably have been a complete triumph. As it was, great praise can only be given to the acting, which was excellent all-round. That ripe and accomplished artist, Mr Julian Cross, gave us a Nelson which was natural, poetical, and manly, and which quite came up to the ideal of the naval hero which is cherished by all Englishmen. Miss Maude Lacy, a pupil of Miss Stella Brereton surprised everyone by the confidence and technical merit of her acting. Every line was distinctly spoken, every point was made firmly and without haste or nervousness, and, though handicapped by the monotonous nature of her part, and by the "crooning" key of melancholy in which it was pitched, Miss Lacy achieved a thorough victory, and, wherever the author gave her a chance, carried the audience with her entirely. Miss Brereton, one of the very cleverest and most practised of our dramatic teachers, must be indeed gratified with the results of her labours in "coaching" Miss Lacy; for though the young lady is decidedly intelligent and apt, she evidently owed most of her success on Tuesday to the painstaking and acute instruction which she has received at Miss Brereton's admirable and valuable Dramatic "Academy" in Park Village East. The secondary rôles were played in quite superior style, and with a remarkable degree of refinement and reality. Captain Hardy and Captain Blackwood had dignified depictors in Mr Frank Stone and Mr Wilfrid Beckwith; and Mr Stockall Ward gave Prince Hofleben just the necessary touch of insinuating slyness and courtly polish. Mr Walter Russell made Lord Tavistock a fine old English gentleman tempora 1803; and Mr Orlando Barnett did good work as Mr Martin Shee, Mr A. T. Hilton as Tom Allen looking as if he had stepped out of one of Gilray's naval caricatures, and acting as if he had emerged from one of Marryat's novels. Miss Gertrude Claridge gave a neat and discreet embodiment of Fanny Bolton, Miss Gertrude Claridge being pleasing and competent as Cornelia Knight, and Miss Alice Chapin being efficient as Lady Jerningham. The scenery was appropriate and picturesque and the piece, produced by Mr Oswald Brand, went quite smoothly. The author was called for at the conclusion and did not appear, but Mr Julian Cross led on Miss Lacy, who had quite an "ovation."

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Comedy in Two Acts, by J. M. Barrie, entitled "QUALITY STREET."

A return visit of this charming play to Kingston was made on Monday, when Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's No. 1 company, who appeared in it, found a numerous and appreciative audience awaiting to witness it, and the manner of its presentation, both then and at each subsequent performance during the week, justified the hopes of the most sanguine. The company is a thoroughly capable one all round, and gave a rendering of the quaint, old-world comedy that was a credit to themselves and to all concerned. Mr George Brandram carried off chief honours as the dashing Mr Brown, a part that he filled with much ability. Many encomiums were also earned by Miss Florence Jackson, who filled the part of Phœbe Throssell with a charm in whatever mood she was in. As her prim sister Susan Throssell Miss Grace Edwyn acquitted herself with great ability, and Mr Arthur Lysons made a capital Ensign Blades; whilst Miss Lillian Rogers gave a most engaging impersonation of the part of Miss Parratt. Much notice was taken of Miss Gwynnette Galton in the part of the servant Patty, which had evidently been carefully studied, as it was carefully acted. Other parts in the cast were well placed. The play was admirably staged and most favourably received.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association, held last Tuesday, it was resolved that a copy of the report for the year 1904 should be sent to every member of the Association together with notice of the holding of the next annual meeting, and also any other printed matter of interest. Dr. A. Ellenbogen, 4, Elizabeth-street, Liverpool, was elected an hon. medical officer of the A.A. The secretary reported the receipt of particulars of a case of alleged bogus management. The hon. solicitors reported that a dispute had been amicably settled. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received.

AT the Newport Lyceum this week Mr Fredk. E. Philpott's company, with The Girl from Japan, is delighting good houses. Mr Ernest Spalding is clever and amusing; and Miss Madie Scott is bright and droll. Mr Percy Baverstock's General Baugh is breezy, Mr Alfd. Wood does well as Sir Mulberry Flippington, and Mr S. Lockridge sings ably as Lord Allenbury. Miss Nellie Valentine as Violet Meadows and Miss Una Palmer as Polly Perkins make good use of their opportunities.

"THE BROKEN HEART."

A Tragedy, in Five Acts, by John Ford,
Revived at the Royalty Theatre, on Monday, Nov. 21.

Amyclas	Mr WILLIAM H. KEMBLE
Ithocles	Mr FRANK LASCELLES
Orgilus	Mr J. H IRVINE
Bassanes	Mr A. E. DRINKWATER
Armostes	Mr J. HENRY TWYFORD
Crotolon	Mr ARCHIBALD MACLEAN
Prophilus	Mr H TRIPP EDGAR
Nearchus	Mr DENNIS W. CLEUGH
Tecnicus	Mr CYRIL CATTLEY
Hemophil	Mr ALEXANDER CLIFTON
Groneas	Mr E. V. BUFFUM
Amelus	Mr ALFRED GRAY
Phulas	Mr PHILIP DURHAM
Penthea	Miss ADA POTTER
Euphranes	Miss DORA HOLE
Christalla	Miss PEARLA GARDNER
Phelma	Miss HILDA BLACK
Grausis	Miss META PELHAM
Calantha	Miss IRENE ROOKE

The Mermaid Society is responsible for the revival of Ford's tragedy. The last occasion on which it was played was on June 11, 1898, when the piece was revived at St. George's Hall by the Elizabethan Stage Society, the performance being under the direction of Mr William Poel. Miss Calhoun then appeared as Calantha and Miss Virginia Carlyle as Penthea. When The Broken Heart was published in 1633 it had already been acted by His Majesty's Servants at a house in Blackfriars. The plot may be briefly summarised. Ithocles, who may be regarded as the hero of the piece, insists on the marriage of his sister, Penthea, to a jealous old nobleman named Bassanes, notwithstanding that she has given her heart to Orgilus, son of Crotolon, a Councillor of State. Ithocles speedily repents of his share in forcing this ill-assorted union on Penthea, who not only forgives him, but commends him to the Princess Calantha, daughter of Amyclas, King of Laconia. Penthea, after losing her reason, dies broken-hearted. The fierce, passionate Orgilus counts her death as the work of Ithocles, whose one error, followed though it be by many excellent resolves, shatters the young people's lives. Orgilus inveigles Ithocles into the death chamber, and after making him gaze on the inanimate form of Penthea, stabs him to death. Ithocles had won the fair Calantha for his own, and while she is presiding at some Court revels the news of the death of her father and Penthea and the murder of her lover is brought to her. These tragic events appear to have no effect upon her, and she even urges the music to a livelier strain. At length the festivities end. She is crowned, and demands of her attendants whom they would wish her to marry. Their choice falls upon the Prince of Argos. She arranges the conditions of the union, nominates the Argine Prince her successor, and makes testamentary provision for her friends and servants. At the marriage ceremony a bier is brought on to the stage on which rests the body of the murdered Ithocles. Clad in the royal robes Calantha places the wedding ring upon his finger. But she can restrain her pent up feelings no longer, and at the foot of the bier she falls dead of a broken heart. As regards the merits of the tragedy eminent critics differ widely. Charles Lamb is quite enthusiastic in his praise. He writes:—"I do not know where to find in any play a catastrophe so grand, so solemn, and so surprising as this. This is, indeed, according to Milton, to 'describe high passions and high actions.' The fortitude of the Spartan boy who let a beast gnaw out his bowels till he died without expressing a groan is a faint bodily image of this dilaceration of the spirit and exenteration of the inmost mind which Calantha, with a holy violence against her nature, keeps closely covered till the last duties of a wife and a queen are fulfilled." On the other hand Hazlitt spoke disparagingly of Ford's style; and Mr J. R. Lowell thought his plays "chiefly remarkable for that filigree work of sentiment which we call sentimentality. He abounds especially in mock pathos. Even in that play of Ford's which comes nearest to the true pathetic, The Broken Heart, there is too much apparent artifice. His diction is hackneyed and commonplace, and has seldom the charm of unexpected felicity, so much a matter of course with the elder poets." There was some excellent acting in the latest representation of the old play, which, in spite of some fine sentiments sonorously expressed, can scarcely escape the charge of being dull and depressing. Miss Irene Rooke scored a decided success in the part of Calantha, her great opportunity coming in the last act of the tragedy, when the daughter of Amyclas, widowed in her love and struggling with the silent grief that cuts the heart strings, places her mother's wedding ring on the finger of the corpse of the Spartan youth she so deeply loved. At this moving crisis in the play, Miss Rooke struck the true tragic note and deeply impressed the audience with a sense of her powers as an actress. Miss Ada Potter gave an excellent embodiment of Penthea, her portrayal of madness being especially effective. Mr Frank Lascelles played very well as Ithocles, and Mr J. H. Irvine gave a powerful rendering of the passionate Orgilus. Mr William H. Kemble made good use of his opportunities in the minor rôle of Amyclas, King of Laconia; and Mr A. E. Drinkwater did good work in his representation of the odious Bassanes. Mr H. Tripp Edgar deserves a word of praise for his impersonation of Prophilus, and efficient assistance was given by Mr Dennis W. Cleugh as Nearchus, Prince of Argos, Mr Cyril Cattley as Tecnicus, a philosopher, and Mr J. Henry Twyford and Mr Archibald Maclean as Armostes and Crotolon, Councillors of State. Miss Meta Pelham was well placed as Grausis, and Miss Dora Hole was a satisfactory representative of Euphranes, a maid of honour. Mention should be made of the charming incidental music from composers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries arranged by Mr C. W. Smith, the musical director, who also composed the song introduced in the fifth act. In this act was also given the dance known as the pavane, which, according to the programme, "although an obvious anachronism in Greek costume, probably represents most nearly the effect intended by the author." The play was produced under the direction of Mr Philip Carr, and Mr Richard Maynard was the business-manager.

PRINCE OF WALES'S, RICHMOND.

On Monday, Nov. 21, the Play, entitled
"THE BROKEN MELODY."

Mr Auguste Van Biene, supported by a powerful company, is paying a special visit to this theatre prior to his commencing his forthcoming Australian tour. Mr Van Biene himself takes the part of Paul Borinski, a musician, and incidentally he also plays the 'cello, speaking to the audience almost as plainly by means of his skill as a musician as by his powers as an actor. One could listen to his charming playing the whole evening with pleasure. Mr Arthur Bawtree is a characteristic General Ivanoff, a secret Russian police spy, and lends the greatest assistance to his colleagues. Mr T. P. Haynes is quite efficient as Dudley Mortimer, a music hall (or musical) agent, and appears to be a comedian of considerable ability, although his part gives no real scope for him to show it. Dixon, a lodging-house keeper, is well portrayed by Mr Ernest Laceby, and Mr John Cummings and Mr Henry Ludlow make the most of the small parts of Beaujoir and the Hon. Richard Spinacher respectively. Mr E. Edwards as Dr. Magrath has little to do, but does that little well. Miss Lena Burnleigh most successfully undertakes the part of Mabel, wife of Borinski, and shows very considerable gifts as an emotional actress. Miss Avis Graham as Mrs Dixon is extremely good, and Miss Morton is equally commendable as the Hon. Mrs Spinacher. Miss Ida Chapman plays the part of the scheming Duchesse De Verviers as though to the manner born, and her portrait of the high-bred treacherous lady of title is full of life and most effective.

"THE MAID AND THE MINSTREL."

Musical Comedy, in Two Acts,
Written by Sydney Cubitt, Composed by Carl St. Amory, Produced at the Lyric Theatre on Saturday, Nov. 19.

The King of Gladeia	Mr ARTHUR THESIGER
Count Von Shlootherbutter	Mr NICHOLAS HOLTHOIR
Franz	Mr ERNEST THESIGER
Fritz	Mr RALPH CAMERON
Domo	Mr CLAUDE SERCOMBE
First Courtier	Mr R. LEWIS
Second Courtier	Mr BEYNON
The Queen	Miss JOAN WODEHOUSE
Princess Carita	Miss HERSEY MALTBY
Camilla	Miss ALICE WODEHOUSE
Nymia	Miss GLADYS GROVE
Hey	Miss EILEEN MALTBY
Farinelli	Mr RICHARD GREEN

The proceeds of the matinée at the Lyric on Saturday were to be divided between the Princess Louise's Gordon League and the charities of St. Saviour's, Pimlico, and if we may judge by the crowded state of the house the sum realised must have been a goodly one. The brand new musical play that was produced has the attractive title of The Maid and the Minstrel. It is one that conjures up recollections of our youthful historical studies and the stories of Blondel and Chastelard. The author and composer, Messrs Sydney Cubitt and Carl St. Amory, have not achieved anything very novel or smart, but we may pay the work the compliment—which we think a high one—that it is specially adapted for children, who will delight in its fairy scenes and pretty but conventional story. The music is ambitious, but not particularly striking, and though Mr St. Amory occasionally is happy in a melodious ballad, much of his music sounds indefinite. The "maid" of the plot is the Princess Carita, the sad-eyed daughter of the King of Gladeia, one of those idiotic monarchs of the pattern to be met with in opera-bouffe. Carita is the maid without a smile. Even her father's propensity for punning—a grievous thing indeed for a responsible ruler to be guilty of—do not move her. A proclamation brings various suitors, two of them being the sons of Count Von Shlootherbutter, and another Farinelli, the king's minstrel. The last-mentioned has won the heart of the maid before he sings his love lied—"Carita, my princess, I love but thee"—and it is scarcely necessary to state that she smiles on his suit, much to the chagrin of the King. He will have none of it. The maid must mate with royal blood, and as she proves obdurate she is imprisoned, and the minstrel banished. In the second act the fairies—fluttering as moths—come to the aid of the lovers, who meet in the glade wherein is growing the wishing oak.

EADE MONTEFIORE'S FAREWELL

Mr Eade Montefiore on Saturday evening laid aside the duties of manager of Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee, and at the same time gracefully introduced his successor. The ceremony took place between the acts in a performance of The Yeomen of the Guard by the D'Oyly Carte company, and following on the appearance before the footlights of Mr Montefiore and the new manager, the curtain rose to disclose an interested company of representative citizens, flanked by representatives of beefeaters and London maidens of long ago. In the group were Mr David Mackie (President of the Chamber of Commerce), Mr J. Mollison Kidd, Mr George Cox, Mr Ronald Cox, Mr Methven Cox, Mr J. C. Methven, Colonel Smith, Mr J. B. Taylor, Councillor High, Mr David Wylie, Mr Alec Thomson, Mr D. A. Maxwell, Mr J. C. Scott, Mr W. F. M. Ross, Mr C. B. L. Fernandez, Mr J. M'Arthur, Mr Harry Kenny, Mr George Serymgeour, Mr James Buchan, and very many others.

Mr MOLLISON KIDD, inviting Mr Montefiore's presence on the stage, said that the honour of being spokesman probably devolved upon himself because he knew something of the difficulties, disappointments, and triumphs of such a position as their friend was vacating. He begged Mr Montefiore to accept an illuminated address subscribed to by very many friends as a token of esteem and good feeling. He also asked the acceptance of a cheque for £154 15s, and in doing so said he felt sure that all present were most unwilling to say good-bye to Mr Montefiore, for during the past three years he had laboured hard to maintain the dignity and to elevate the status of his profession. Mr Montefiore carried with him to Edinburgh sincere wishes that he might long be spared to successfully continue the work he had so ably carried out in Dundee. The address, a richly artistic illumination by Mr Richard G. Murray, opened as follows:—

To EADE MONTEFIORE, Esq.,
General Manager of Her Majesty's Theatres,
Dundee and Aberdeen.

We, as playgoers of this City and County of Dundee, cannot allow you to depart from our midst to assume the direction of the Grand Theatre, in our capital city of Scotland, without placing upon record our loyal appreciation of your earnest and enterprising management of Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee.

You have, in an all too short three years, brought to bear upon our dramatic interests a personality of such force of character that has kindled a great sentimental regard for the theatre as an institution of this city.

You have raised the tone of the drama, its playhouse, and its player by the lofty and dignified regard for the amenities of a public position.

You have, by your resolute strictness and by your respect and love for the art of which you are so worthy a master, gained the confidence of the commonwealth for the improved conduct of our theatre.

You have, by an individuality strong in its direct aim for good, gained the admiration of those even who view the theatre from an antagonistic standpoint.

You have by self-sacrificing and unwearying labour, by untiring enthusiasm and admirable astuteness, so raised the financial and moral status of the Dundee Theatre that all the great artists of the day realise that our city is now to be numbered amongst the favoured theatrical cities of the United Kingdom.

You have been associated during your régime with the visits of Miss Ellen Terry, Wilson Barrett, Herbert Beerbohm Tree, and Sir Henry Irving.

You have called forth to the public knowledge pæans of praise for your individual work from the great ones of your profession, and we feel in bidding you farewell that an exceptional representative goes out from Dundee and Aberdeen to battle once more for fame and fortune.

We cannot but place on record the pleasure you have afforded in your brilliant innovations, which enabled us—the playgoers—to meet in social intercourse many favoured visitors, notably Mr Tree, Miss Viola Tree, and Miss Fortescue, at receptions within the walls of Her Majesty's.

We remember, too, your experienced labours which gave to us for three successive summers that fine organisation, the Arthurian Company of Players, who, selected by your ripe judgment, gave us summer entertainment that was held up by your stage journals and our local press as a pattern of executive management.

We so extol your work as an open example and encouragement to the less strenuous, and we rejoice a reward has now come that may lead you personally to high and permanent place in your profession. We trust you will keep bright before you the mirror of all that is best and good on the stage, and rise as a leader amongst men for the amelioration of public entertainment. Bidding you then farewell; counselling you to be of good cheer; to fight on; to hope on; and ever remember that you carry with you our gratitude, our thanks, and our admiring applause.

The signatories to the above address included most of the leading Dundee people, including Principal J. Yule Mackay, LL.D. (of the Dundee University), the Rev. Dr. George Mackness, D.D., the Rev. J. C. Cater, the Rev. Harcourt M. Davidson, Miss Cox (of Clement Park), Mr and Mrs Geo. M. Cox, Mr and Mrs Geo. M. Cox, Mr and Mrs James Cox Methven, Mr and Mrs J. C. Scott (of Tay Park), Colonel William Smith (of the Black Watch), and the leading representatives of legal, literary, and commercial society in Dundee.

Mr M'GIVERN, representing the staff of Her Majesty's, with whom was associated Mr Davidson, of Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, spoke a few kindly words about his old manager, and presented a beautifully illuminated address from the employees of the two houses. It read:—

We wish to place on record the very kindly and courteous manner and the unfailing tact with which you have handled even the smallest matters pertaining to your office, and we may venture to say that we feel, on your departure, that we are losing a personal friend, as well as a very kindly and capable manager. It is the sincerest wish of your staff at these theatres that you may long continue to go forward in your profession with the signal success of which the present status of the theatres is an eloquent testimony.

Aberdeen Staff Heads of Departments.—JOSEPH DAVIDSON, JOHN SMALL, FRANK SMITH, JAMES KERNAN, JOHN THOMSON, SAMUEL LESTER, JOHN BENZIE.

Dundee Staff Heads of Departments.—A. W. RAMSAY, JOSEPH FREEMAN, JAMES M'GIVERN, WILLIAM AITKEN, WILLIAM AIRD, Mrs E. M'KAY, JAMES GOVE.

And with Mr MONTEFIORE having fittingly replied, the curtain fell amidst loud applause.

After the farewell on the stage, Mr Montefiore entertained in his beautiful room in the theatre the leading ladies and gentlemen of the neighbourhood, many of whom had had farewell dinner parties in his honour earlier in the week.

Mr Montefiore left Dundee for Edinburgh on Sunday last. It is pleasant to know that from their former manager several members of the staff at Her Majesty's received a portrait enclosed in a silver frame, and a very merry parting hour was spent in a specially laid-out "green room."

The following letter and testimony were sent Mr Montefiore on the eve of his departure by the Chief Constable of Dundee:—

Dear Sir,—I enclose certificate, which I deem it proper to send you. Hoping you may be successful in your new venture, Yours faithfully, (Signed) D. DEWAR.

Eade Montefiore, Esq., Manager, H.M. Theatre.

I have pleasure in stating that Mr Eade Montefiore has been for upwards of three years manager of Her Majesty's Theatre and Opera House, Dundee. He has during the whole of that period discharged his duty in a most satisfactory manner. He is possessed of great energy, high business qualifications, and is a strict disciplinarian. I am satisfied that few could be found to discharge similar duties more efficiently. He now leaves Dundee for Edinburgh, where it is to be hoped he will be as successful as he has been in this city. (Signed) DAVID DEWAR.

ARTISTS AND AUDIENCES.

Mr R. H. DOUGLASS lectured before the members of the Playgoers' Club, at the Hotel Cecil, on Sunday night, on "Audiences from the Artists' Point of View." He very much objected (he said) to the man who would sympathise with his next door neighbour because it was that unfortunate individual's first visit, and who, to prove that he himself had been there twenty times, would insist on humming the songs with the artists—generally in a different key. For self-importance, Mr Douglass asked to be commended to the deadhead. Probably they had heard the story of the deadhead—an actor—who went to a pantomime in the provinces. The pantomime was so bad that he went to the acting-manager, and wanted his card back. Having referred to the selfishness of late comers, he described the Australian audience as the most sympathetic of all, particularly to every English artist. Whether the artist was famous or unknown made no difference. It was sufficient that he came, as our Australian cousins said, from "home." He characterised as unthinking the audiences which tolerated many of the melodramas which were on tour at present. Did it not prove that insanity was on the increase when people would put up with such impossible situations as were met with in those melodramas? The influence of audiences was greater than they imagined. Their applause was the artist's reward. When condemnation was expressed he did not advocate hissing. He would rather they followed the example of our American cousins, and like the Arabs "fold their tents and steal silently away." From a music hall artist's standpoint the London audience was the best.

Mdlle. ADELINE GENEE, who was in the chair, opened the discussion which followed. When she faced an audience, she said, she had two objects in view. In the first place she liked to please the house at large, but she did her best and most difficult work for the understanding few—perhaps one in a hundred—who had studied dancing, and who knew that in the work of a prima ballerina all was not gold that glittered.

Mr J. T. GREIN ascribed the varying of audiences to the fact that human beings were temperamental. The weather, draughts in the house, or similar matters might affect the audience, but one thing was greater than all, and that was the unspoken occult feeling of magnetism which at moments made all mankind and womankind kin.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—Your Warrington correspondent, whilst praising the rendering of the part of Professor Moriarty, in Sherlock Holmes, in your last issue, falls into a slight error, and attributes it to the wrong artiste. The part is now being and has been for months past played by, yours faithfully, ARTHUR B. MURRAY. Theatre Royal, Ilkeston, Nov. 24.

THE GARRICK THEATRE LEASE.

In the House of Lords, on Monday, before the Lord Chancellor, Lord Davey, and Lord Robertson, Brickwell v. Gilbert was an appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal (Lords Justices Vaughan Williams and Romer, Lord Justice Mathew dissenting) dated Aug. 6, 1902 which affirmed the judgment of Mr Justice Kekewich of Nov. 22, 1901. The question was whether certain letters passing between the appellant and respondent on March 29, 30, and 31, 1900, constituted a valid contract entitling the appellant to specific performance thereof and the grant of a lease by the respondent of the premises known as the Garrick Theatre, in Charing cross-road and St. Martin's-lane, in the city of Westminster, for a term of twenty one years from April 13, 1910, on the terms indicated in the respondent's letter of March 30, 1900. The Courts below held that, having regard to all the circumstances, the letters did not indicate a final agreement, and that the appellant was not entitled to the lease from the respondent. The letters are in the following terms:—

Garrick Theatre, Charing-cross-road, W.,
March 29, 1900

Dear Sir,—Can I arrange with you direct to take over the lease of the Garrick Theatre from the year 1910? I am, as you are no doubt aware, at present a sub-tenant of Messrs Greet and Engelbach, who purchased the lease from Mr John Hare. I ask you thus far ahead as your decision will considerably affect the future of my son, who is twenty-two years of age. A line at your convenience will oblige. Yours truly, (Stamp 6d.) H. T. BRICKWELL.

Grim's Dyke, Harrow Weald, March 30, 1900.

Dear Sir,—I am willing to enter into an arrangement for granting you a lease of the Garrick Theatre as from 1900 on the following terms:—You are to pay me £500 per annum until 1910, and I am then to grant you a twenty-one years' lease of the Garrick Theatre at a clear rental of £5,000 per annum—all outgoings of whatever description (except landlord's tax) to be paid by you. In other respects on the covenants as to repairs, re-entry, &c., customary in first-class theatre leases.

Yours faithfully, W. S. GILBERT.

H. T. Brickwell, Esq.

Garrick Theatre, Charing-cross-road, W.,
March 31, 1900.

Dear Sir,—Many thanks for yours of the 30th inst., re the new lease of the above theatre for twenty-one years from April, 1910, the terms of which I agree to. Before placing the matter in our respective solicitors' hands I should like, if possible, to have a personal interview with you to discuss sundry details and so try to avoid some of the unnecessary legal expenses I was put to when taking over the theatre in 1898.

Yours very truly, H. T. BRICKWELL.

W. S. Gilbert, Esq.

On April 12, 1900, the respondent wrote to the appellant a letter as to a scene dock and a right of way, and on April 19, 1900, the appellant and the respondent met by appointment at the office of Messrs Horne and Birkett, the respondent's solicitors, where, in the presence of Mr Percival Birkett, the appellant verbally agreed to take a lease of the scene dock at the rent of £100 per annum, and the respondent agreed to defray out of his own pocket the annual charge payable in respect of the right-of-way. A draft contract was prepared and further correspondence took place between the appellant and the respondent, and between their respective solicitors. The appellant on Nov 20, 1900, tendered to the respondent the sum of £500, payable according to the respondent's letter of March 30, 1900, but such tender was refused. The appellant then instituted the action for specific performance.

Mr Asquith, K.C., and Mr Frank Dodd were for the appellant; Mr Haldane, K.C., and Mr C. Gurdon for the respondent.

The Lord Chancellor, in moving that the decision of the Court of Appeal should be reversed, said that this was a reasonably plain case, the single question being one of fact whether there was an agreement between the parties or not. The whole matter rested on the three letters of March 29, 30, and 31. Mr Brickwell's first letter asked whether he could take the lease over from Mr Gilbert. The latter's answer was in effect "Yes." In the third of the letters the appellant referred to Mr Gilbert's letter, and said, "the terms of which I agree to." If there was any finality in human language, it was to be found in those letters. There was a consummate agreement constituted between the parties by these letters, and, indeed, there did not seem ever to have been a difference between the parties as to the terms proposed. This view of the case was really confirmed by Mr Gilbert's letter of April 12, in which he spoke of a matter which he had omitted to mention "when arranging for the new lease." On the theory that the parties were still only in negotiation there was no need of this apology.

Lord Davey and Lord Robertson concurred, and the appeal was allowed.

MARTIN HARVEY AS HAMLET.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The character of Hamlet was played for the first time by Mr Martin Harvey at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, on Monday. The full cast of the revival was as follows:—

Claudius	Mr CHARLES GLENNEY
Hamlet	Mr MARTIN HARVEY
Ghost of Hamlet's Father	Mr ALBERT E. RAYNOR
Horatio	Mr PERCY ANSTEY
Polonius	Mr FRED WRIGHT, Sen.
Laertes	Mr MILTON ROSMER
Rosencrantz	Mr GEORGE COOKE
Guildenstern	Mr ARTHUR MAUDE
Osric	Mr EUGENE WELLESLEY
First Player	M. GILBERT YORKE
Second Player	Mr CHARLES J. CAMERON
Marcellus	Mr REEVE ONEIGH
Bernardo	Mr P. HEWLAND
Francisco	Mr J. CHARLES
First Gravedigger	Mr P. ALEXANDER
Second Gravedigger	Mr J. ALEXANDER
Reynaldo	Mr O. T. CARLE
A Priest	Mr H. BARBER
A Messenger	Mr H. PHILIP
Gertrude	Miss MAUDE MILTON
Player Queen	Miss EDITH COLEMAN
Ophelia	Miss N. DE SILVA

There was an exceptionally large audience. Mr Harvey's performance was a brilliant one, and he is to be congratulated for his successful and impressive achievement. He was most warmly greeted after each act. Miss N. De Silva (Mrs Martin Harvey) was very graceful in the rôle of Ophelia. Miss Maude Milton gave an excellent reading of that of the Queen, and the part of the King was ably enacted by Mr Charles Glenny. Mr Albert E. Raynor did admirably as the Ghost, Mr Fred Wright, sen., made a capital Polonius, Horatio was cleverly depicted by Mr Percy Anstey, and Mr P. Alexander was very good as First Gravedigger. The play was most artistically mounted, the scenery being painted by Mr George J. Dodson, from designs by Mr Harvey himself. The dresses were also excellent, and were designed and executed under the personal direction of Mrs Martin Harvey. Mr Norman O'Neil was responsible for the overture and incidental music, which were heartily appreciated.

Mr Martin Harvey's reception was of the most flattering character. It was several moments before he could speak, so great was the applause when he first came upon the stage. At the end of every act he was vigorously applauded, and at the close, after recalling him four or five times, the audience cheered and clamoured—at 12.30—for a speech. Mr Harvey said it seemed almost impious at such a late hour, after such a splendid tragedy, to make a speech. He could not refrain from thanking them, however, for the generous reception they had given him. It was the crowning ambition of every actor to play Hamlet. Many years ago, when he first came to Dublin and experienced the warmth of his reception, he resolved that if and when he produced Hamlet he should do so first in Dublin. In conclusion, he thanked the audience for the deep interest, the quiet attention, and the appreciation with which they followed the performance.

MR EADE MONTEFIORE'S ROOM IN HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, DUNDEE.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[ADVT.]

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE evidently considers that by throwing open the Shaftesbury Theatre free to the public last Wednesday evening, and inviting the judgment of those assembled on The Flute of Pan, she supplied a crushing reply to all who have found fault with the piece. The members of this audience, it appears, wrote their opinions on voting papers which had been handed to them, 1,200 being in favour of the play, twenty-two against it, and eight writing qualified disapprovals. To "pack" a house with "dead-heads" and then invite their verdict on the entertainment offered is like giving a number of persons a free dinner and then asking their opinion of the menu. In both cases the guests would be very ungrateful if they did not say that it was good.

MR HENRY V. ESMOND celebrates his birthday next Wednesday. The author of The Wilderness is a Londoner, and the son of a doctor. He made his début as an actor nearly twenty years ago, but he still excels—when he chooses to play them—in boys' parts. Mr Esmond's success as playwright has been as pronounced in America as it is in England. He was married to Miss Eva Moore in 1891.

MR HARRY PAULTON, JUN., who is leading comedian in the stock company at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, is always accompanied to the theatre by his terrier, Dick. Dick is a most intelligent animal, and never dreams of following his master out of the dressing-room until the performance is over. He is, however, quite equal to appearing behind the footlights. A few seasons ago Mr Paulton allowed him to run on to the stage, during a pantomime, and do a little "business" with a rag dog. After the first week Dick knew the music of his cue, he would fetch the rag dog himself from beneath the table, and wait in the wings for the signal to go on. Mr Paulton has been, as might be expected with the son of his father, thoroughly grounded in all work connected with the stage. He went straight from school to America, when he was a lad of about seventeen, to produce Erminie in New York. He has toured his own companies, and acted all sorts of parts. Last year he was stage-manager at "the Brit," and found it the most "hustling" work he had ever undertaken, for he played at the same time himself, and put on a pantomime with a big cast. His sister, Miss Agnes Paulton, is also engaged at the Elephant, having joined the stock company in the spring. Mr Paulton, jun., is the husband of Miss Kate Connaught, who is so well known in the provinces in the character of Niobe.

MR ARTHUR GARRETT, the general manager to Miss Julia Neilson and Mr Fred Terry, was one of the victims of the recent snow block on the North British Railway. Says Mr Garrett—"I left by the express from St. Pancras for Edinburgh at 9 30 on Tuesday morning. At 4 30 in the afternoon we reached Carlisle, and proceeded as far as New Castleton—about twenty-one miles further north. There we were brought to a standstill. Many of us asked various officials to take the train back to Carlisle, but they replied they could neither go forward nor backward. At midnight, after seven wretched hours amid the snow, frost, and bitterly cold wind, the train was put on the down line, as we had suggested at first, and taken back to Carlisle, there to await the clearing of the line."

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT, on Wednesday, presented to the students at the Charing-cross Hospital Medical School the scholarships, medals, prizes, and certificates awarded during the winter session 1903 4 and the summer session 1904. Sir Squire, in a brief speech, said the dean had reminded them that the last occupant of the chair at that school was a most distinguished member of the profession to which he himself belonged for some years. It was a great pleasure to him to know that the players were so appreciated there. He did not think actors were ungrateful people, and one thing he was sure of, they would be always grateful for the words spoken by the Prince of Wales at the last meeting of King Edward's Hospital Fund, when he referred to the "frequent, substantial, and unassuming help derived by the hospitals from the theatrical profession." One piece of advice he wished, as a layman, to give them. It was, "Be cheerful!"

MR J. M. BARRIE has written a fairy play, in three acts, which will be produced at the Duke of York's Theatre after Christmas, with Miss Nina Boucicault, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Mr Gerald Du Maurier, Miss Dorothea Baird, Mr George Shelton, Miss Joan Burnett, Miss Pauline Chase, Master George Hersee, and Miss Ella Q May in the cast.

MR FRANK BOYCE, the lessee of the Grand Theatre, Swansea, who had been in ill-health for a long time past, died on Tuesday morning, in London, at the residence of his brother. He was forty-seven years of age, and the cause of death was dropsy. He left Swansea about a month ago. Mr Boyce, whose fortune had been bound up with the Grand Theatre since its opening on July 29th, 1897, and who, a short time ago, undertook sole responsible management, was a man reticent in demeanour, though none the less respected on that account. His father was a governor of a prison, and Mr Boyce first saw the light of day, in consequence, from inside a gaol. He was in his younger days an actor, and before going to Swansea managed the Theatre Royal, York. In Swansea, Mr Boyce made many friends, though the theatrical enterprise he has been identified with in Swansea was, as stated, only opened in 1897 under the joint control of Messrs Morell and Mouillot. To the Grand and the Star descended the traditions of the past, and Mr Boyce, for his part, did all in his power to maintain the far-reaching influence of the players' art upon men and morals. Mr Boyce's death is widely regretted throughout theatrical circles, in which he was so well known.

"TRAUMULUS," which the German company at the Great Queen-street Theatre will perform on Tuesday, has been the success of the past Berlin season. "Traumulus" is the nickname given by his pupils to a typical German professor, a dreamer full of youthful optimism and realism. Although this play was only produced in Berlin on Sept. 24 last, it is already being played all over Germany; and, contrary to all custom, the management of the Lessing Theater, Berlin, has had, owing to the immense popularity of the piece, to exclude all others from their bill. There will be no performance by the German company at the Great Queen-street Theatre on Monday.

THE St. Leonard's-on-Sea Kursaal was opened on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs Freeman-Thomas, wife of the borough member. The enterprise is assisted by the Municipality. The company on Tuesday included Lord and Lady Brassey and Major Freeman-Thomas, M P, the Mayor and Mayoress, and other local notabilities. After the reception and opening by Mrs Freeman-Thomas there were congratulatory speeches, and a concert under the direction of the conductor of the orchestra, Mr Val Marriott.

MR EDWARD SASS, who is to play the amusing Mr Burgess, in Bernard Shaw's Candida, in place of Mr J. H. Barnes, is very well known as an actor-manager in South Africa and Australia. One of his biggest successes in London was made in The New Clown, when he played an old-fashioned circus proprietor with as much humour as Mr James Welch displayed as the poor little clown. Mr Sass married Miss Emma Gwynne, a sister of Mrs George Edwardes.

THEIR Majesties the King and Queen and the King and Queen of Portugal were present on Saturday evening at a performance given in the Waterloo Chamber, Windsor Castle, by Mr Lewis Waller's company from the Imperial Theatre. The cast, of Monsieur Beaucaire, which was the piece performed, included Mr Lewis Waller, Mr Edward Ferris, Mr Frank Dyall, Mr Charles Goodhart, Mr W. Gayer Mackay, Mr Norman M'Kinnel, Mr A. E. George, Mr Charles Allan, Mr S. B. Brereton, Mr Arthur Lewis, Mr H. Savile, Mr J. Byron, Mr C. M'Guinness, Miss Evelyn Millard, Miss Constance Walton, Miss Kate Tyndall, Miss May Chenery, Miss Catherine Vyse, Miss Mary Lewis, and Miss Minnie Griffin. Some charming entr'acte music was played by Mr Gottlieb's Vienna orchestra. At the close of the performance the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery (the Lord Steward) conveyed to Mr Waller the King's satisfaction with the performance; and he and his company were then regaled in the Audience Chamber.

THE chaplain of Hanwell Lunatic Asylum, the Rev. Robert Andrews, has written the libretto of a musical play, for which the Rev. W. J. Pressey, rector of Foxearth, Essex, has composed the music. The work is called The Shah's New Suit, and it will be produced by the Apollo Amateur Operatic Society at the Court Theatre on Monday afternoon in aid of the Incorporated Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society. The scene is laid in the Island of Padagascar, and the hero is the Shah of "Mersia." There will be a chorus of forty, and the piece will be elaborately mounted.

MR EDWARD TERRY, who is fulfilling an engagement this week at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, was entertained on Thursday to a luncheon given in his honour by the local Corinthian Club, at which Sir Charles Cameron presided.

MR GEORGE DAVEY has started a novel competition in connection with the forthcoming pantomime at the Grand Theatre, Islington. He will, during the run of it, give each week several prizes, consisting of a really admirable "rag-book" of nursery rhymes, to the three children who write the best account of the story and performance of the "Babes in the Wood." Over 8,000 children have already written for and received the set of pantomimic pictorial postcards presented by Mr Davey.

MR G. H. SNAZELLE, who has been engaged by Mr Robert Arthur to take the part of "The King of the Cannibal Islands" in his London production of "Robinson Crusoe," has travelled all over the Southern seas and given lantern exhibitions to the cannibals of the New Hebrides and to the islanders of Polynesia, and while in Fiji he became possessed of King Cocoabau's (pronounced Thookabo's) gala costume. In this he has had his photo taken, and happening one day to show this to Mr Arthur, the latter at once suggested he should take the part of the King of the Cannibal Islands. "Done," said Mr Snazelle, and the compact was signed on the spot.

MR SANDON PERKINS, who has succeeded Mr Eade Montefiore as manager of Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee, is a native of Yorkshire. He was at first intended for the ministry, but at the age of seventeen he emigrated to America, where he took part in many adventurous projects. Subsequently he roughed it in British Columbia, Australia, and Japan, and gained some distinction as a lecturer. Under the auspices of the British Columbian Government he visited this country and lectured on the Klondyke Goldfields. In 1899 he became manager of the Theatre Royal, Sunderland.

AT the Bouffes Parisiens, Paris, on Wednesday night, at the dress rehearsal of La Fin de l'Amour, a curious incident occurred. Many people had been invited, but those who arrived after the performance had begun were not allowed to take their seats. They were compelled to remain in the draughty corridors until the curtain had gone down. The ladies raised their voices, the gentlemen protested, and they even entered their complaints in a book which they handed to one of the officials. Dress rehearsals in Paris are private functions to which one is "invited;" and the management certainly did not show their guests that courtesy to which they can lay claim.

AT the Shaftesbury Theatre, on Monday, shortly before the raising of the curtain for the performance of The Flute of Pan, a gas gridiron at the back of the stage fell and severely injured the head gasman, Mr Piggott. He was at once taken to Charing-cross Hospital, but died from his injuries soon after being admitted. The deceased, who lived in Walpole-street, New-cross, leaves a wife and six children.

"THE EARL AND THE GIRL" will be withdrawn from the Lyric Theatre on Dec. 17, to be followed by a musical play, written by Mr Seymour Hicks, and composed by Messrs E. Haines and Evelyn Baker, with lyrics by C. H. Taylor. This is in two acts, the action of the first taking place in a large shop in Regent-street, and that of the second in barracks near Windsor. Mr Robert Evett, Mr Henry Lytton, Mr Walter Passmore, Miss Maude Darrell, and Miss Sydney Fairbrother will be in the cast.

MISS ELLEN TERRY, who will be at the Camden Theatre next week, has kindly consented to enact Portia, in The Merchant of Venice, at a matinée at the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday, Dec. 6, with Mr Norman Forbes as Shylock.

MR W. S. PENLEY'S lease of the comedy Charley's Aunt having expired, all rights in the play have reverted to the author, Mr Brandon Thomas, and the run of the piece will continue under his direction.

A REMARKABLE scene took place on the 18th inst. after the brilliant gala performance in conjunction with the University Opera Week, at the Theatre Royal, Sheffield. The students of the college assembled in force outside the theatre, and at midnight a procession was formed, headed by mounted police and the band of the Engineer Volunteers. Mr Charles Manners and Miss Moody were drawn in triumph in an open carriage, surrounded by grotesquely attired torch-bearers. The progress through the streets was witnessed by thousands. Later Miss Fanny Moody appeared on the balcony of the Royal Victoria Hotel, and, amid impressive silence, sang "Home, Sweet Home," to an immense assemblage. It was a thrilling culmination to a week of triumphant success.

MADAME RÉJANE appeared in Zaza at the Lyric Theatre, New York, on Monday night. The house was not full, as a first night at the Opera proved a counter-attraction. The New York Press praise Madame Réjane's performance, but condemn the shabby mounting of the play.

M. COQUELIN'S performances in Cairo have created great enthusiasm. When the French actor was playing in the Gendre de Monsieur Poirier the other day, he was called to the Khedive's box in one of the entr'actes, and received compliments from the Khedive and the promise of a donation to the Home for Artists recently founded by M. Coquelin.

MR WAT LAURI, who has just returned from a successful tour of four years' duration in South Africa with Messrs Sass and Nelson, has been engaged for a lengthened period by Mr George Dance, commencing on Boxing Day. For family reasons Mr Lauri has decided in future to appear under his own name of Lauri De Frece.

BEFORE Judge Woodfall, in the Westminster County Court on Wednesday, Mr Herbert Clarke, acting-manager of the Vaudeville Theatre, was sued by Blackmore's Dramatic Agency for the recovery of £20, on a commission note. The plaintiff, Mr Herbert Blackmore, said he secured for the defendants in February, 1900, an appointment as acting-manager with Messrs Gatti, of the Vaudeville and Adelphi Theatres, at a salary of £8 a week. In consideration defendant handed to him a commission note, engaging to pay 10 per cent. on the first ten weeks of each consecutive year of the engagement. For the first two years he paid the commission. In 1903 his salary was increased to £10 a week, and defendant then refused to pay. The claim was on that year's commission and for the present year. Mr Clarke said the first engagement at the Vaudeville was for four weeks, and he never remembered signing the contract binding him to pay commission yearly. He paid the first two years as a bonus, but not because of the contract. The judge said the contract was made by responsible, grown-up parties, who were bound by it. Plaintiffs were premature in claiming on this year's engagement, but they were entitled to the 10 per cent. commission for 1903. Judgment would therefore be given for £10, with costs on "A" scale.

SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM began his New York engagement at the New Lyceum Theatre on the 14th inst., appearing in David Garrick. It was fourteen years since Sir Charles had made his last visit to America. His previous engagement in New York was fulfilled at the old Star Theatre, below Fourteenth-street, the scene of Sir Henry Irving's earliest appearances in the Empire City. The New Lyceum, managed by Mr Daniel Frohman, was opened about a year ago, and is a very handsome and commodious theatre. Situated in West Forty-fifth-street, its location marks the northern boundary of the metropolitan theatre district of to-day, and points the great difference between the past and the present in this regard, all the first-class playhouses being now situated in a section of New York known not so many years ago as "up town." Sir Charles, who was greeted with a hearty burst of applause when he made his first entrance, gave his fine embodiment of David Garrick with as much spirit as if the part were being played for the first time, and his superb acting, in the intoxication scene particularly, completely captivated the senses of his audience. Of their enthusiastic appreciation Miss Mary Moore as Ada Ingot won a goodly share. Mr Alfred Bishop played Alderman Ingot admirably, and Mr Frank Atherley's Squire Chivy was an artistic portrayal.

IN response to persistent applause at the close Sir Charles Wyndham appeared before the curtain and said:—"In acknowledging this reception on behalf of Miss Moore, my company, and myself, I want to say that in your greeting after fifteen years I see what we have missed. I think I can promise that I will not be so long away again. It is no easy task to play to an unfamiliar audience, and the play that we began in fear and trembling we have finished in insufferable conceit, for which the responsibility is on your own shoulders."

MRS BENNETT, who is leading lady at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, has a gift for learning—and dressing—any part in an incredibly short space of time. She has, perhaps, done more stock season work than any other actress in London. Her long engagements at the Surrey, at old Sadler's Wells—where she made her début as a child—and other suburban houses have given her the opportunity of playing every sort of persecuted heroine to be found in stageland. She is equally well known in the halls, having often supported Mr Joe Elvin and other sketch artists, besides reciting on her own account. Mrs Bennett is very fond of riding and driving, but since her husband met with a serious carriage accident some time ago she has not enjoyed her old pastime nearly as much. She is a good needlewoman, and has a clever knack of adapting dresses. For instance, she looked very picturesque in the third act of The Union Jack this week, in an evening gown of stamped white satin with a silver girdle, originally a Shakespearian costume, but brought up to date with flowers, jewels, and telling little touches in the arrangement of the sleeves and bodice. The leading lady at the Elephant receives many tributes of admiration from unknown friends in front. Two hand-painted plaques were presented to her a few weeks ago. An elaborately-worked satin handkerchief-case is another of her recent acquisitions, and the very latest gift was a large coloured photograph of a girl whom she has never seen.

A RECEPTION was held at the St. James's Theatre on Tuesday afternoon in aid of the appeal fund on behalf of the Samaritan Free Hospital for Women in Marylebone-road. Mrs George Alexander, Mrs Kendal, Mrs Beerbohm Tree, Mrs Cyril Maude, Miss Alice Nielsen, and Mrs Hubert Roberts were the hostesses. Mr George Alexander kindly lent the house, on the stage of which were placed tables, at which tea was dispensed to the visitors. Tickets of admission cost a guinea, and upwards of 500 were disposed of at this price, seats at a lower rate being reserved in the upper circle and balcony. Mr George Alexander, Mr Kendal, Miss Beerbohm Tree, and the Marchioness of Granby and others helped the hostesses to "receive," and Miss Marie Tempest, Miss Grace Lane, Miss Phyllis Broughton, Mrs Thurston, Miss Lily Brayton, Mr Oscar Asche, Mr Allan Aynesworth, Mr Henry Kemble, Mr C. Hayden Coffin, Miss Nancy Price, Lady Harmsworth, the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland, and Sir A. K. Rollit, M.P., were among the guests. Signor Tanara directed an agreeable concert, which was given by members of the San Carlo Opera Company, and selections of music were contributed by Ashton's Italian Band.

MISS LIZZIE BURGESS, who has been with the Carl Rosa opera company for four seasons, commenced to sing when she was so little that she cannot remember the exact time, but her ambition may be said to have been aroused by the gift of a doll, when she was six, as a reward for entertaining some friends with a song. Her next remembrance is of being put on a stool in chapel to sing hymns. A few years later she made a success with ballads, being still quite a little girl. Miss Burgess is now, as music-lovers know, a lyric soprano, with the freshness and charm of her high voice unspoilt by the hard work she has done in oratorio, on the stage, and on the concert platform. She comes from Hurst, a small town in Lancashire, studied with Signor Moretti, of Milan, and possesses an exceptionally quick and good memory. As proof of this, she once played Elvira, in Don Giovanni, at two days' notice; and, more wonderful still, the part of Elizabeth, in Tannhäuser, after studying it for only half that time. She has recently created Madeleine, in Andre Chenier. Elsa, in Lohengrin, is one of her favourite parts. Miss Burgess is of middle height, fair, and soft-voiced. She never wears a wig on the stage, her own hair being sufficiently long and thick, even for the plaits of Marguerite.

MR LILFORD ARTHUR leaves London to-morrow with his company supporting Mr Charles Collette in Jones's Jaunt, and opens on Monday at Cardiff. In the strong cast are Mr J. R. Crawford, the popular actor; Mr Ernest Wintour, and Mr David Sellar.

COUNCILLOR H. CECIL BERYL, the esteemed lessee of the Theatre Royal, Brighton, has been elected chairman of the Pavilion Committee of the Brighton Town Council. During his two years' representation of the Pavilion Ward, Mr Beryl has done very valuable work for the town, and has thoroughly won the respect of his colleagues.

WHEN Sir John Vanbrugh's comedy, The Confederacy, is revived at the Royalty Theatre by the Mermaid Society, on Monday, the cast will include Mr W. H. Kemble, Mr A. E. Drinkwater, Mr Frank Lascelles, Mr Dennis W. Clough, Mr Bufton, Mr Hasluck, Mr J. A. Grant, Miss Ada Potter, Miss Pearla Gardner, Miss May Martyn, Miss Dora Hale, Miss Meta Pelham, and Mrs Theodore Wright.

MR FRANK CURZON desires us to state that the report that Mr Willie Edouin has been rehearsing the character of M. Coquenard, in Véronique, is entirely without foundation. Mr Edouin is still sustaining, with very great success, the principal character in Sergeant Brue.

MR GEORGE MUSGROVE'S Belle of New York company, now on its farewell tour, which terminates at the Lyceum Theatre, Sheffield, next week, has been doing big business "all along the line." At the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, last week—despite the fact that Sir Henry Irving at one theatre, and Julia Neilson and Fred Terry at another, were in opposition—scenes of indescribable enthusiasm were the order of every evening. Stalls and circle were booked long in advance—the queue for the unreserved parts of the house commenced to form as early as 9·0 a.m. each day—and for Saturday evening the attendance surpassed all records, and special barriers by order of the police had to be erected to ensure the safety of the public. At the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, this week a similar state of affairs has prevailed. On the opening night a large section of the audience, in a felicitous spirit, at the fall of the curtain sang "Will ye no come back again?" Of the seventy-two members of the company only five of the originals remain, viz., Cecil Burt, who has been engaged for Sergeant Brue; Philip Leslie, C. W. Anson, Arthur Linforth—the latter retained to produce the Borough Theatre, Stratford, pantomime for the third time—and Mr Hugh Fleming, secured by Mr Mouillot for the Christmas tour of A Runaway Girl, in his inimitable rôle of advance director. Mr Charles Thorburn, general manager of the company, whose vigilant eye and untiring energy have been such important factors in the longevity of The Belle's popularity, will start almost immediately upon a lengthened Continental trip to secure novelties for the forthcoming tour of The Prince of Pilsen.

WHEN the late Wilson Barrett's domestic play The Sledge Hammer is revived at the West London Theatre on the 19th prox., included in the cast will be Messrs W. V. Garrod, H. H. Barrington, Chas. Halling, Chas. Herberte, Frank Dallas, L. St. Clair, Laurence Konrad, Charles Grant, and Alfred Northway; Misses Fanny Thorne, Ivy Ellaline Thorne, and Bertha Kingston. That the revival of this successful play is being welcomed is evidenced by the fact that dates at twenty-six theatres have already been booked.

"THE FOLLIES OF YOUTH," a play rewritten by Mr Fred L. Connynghame and Mr Frank Price, is about to start a tour, under the direction of Mr Arthur Rose, and will open at the Theatre Royal, Windsor, on Monday next. In the cast will be the celebrated Mr Walter Bentley, the charming actress Miss Violet Macaree, and Mr Arthur Rose himself, a well-known ornament of the stage and exponent of the drama, with Mr Beresford as the manager of the company.

THE pantomime at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington, this year will be Cinderella, and will be written and produced by Walter Summers. The production will be by arrangement with Mr Fred Karno, who has engaged a company including Miss Winifred Hare, Miss Godwynne Earle, Miss Lilian Lea, Miss Amy Lorisson, Mr Niel Kenyon, Mr William Gourlay, Mr W. E. Richardson, Messrs Fletch and Palmer, and "Joe" Cave, who will play a witch. There will be a ballet of 200, and the whole of the music will be specially composed by Mr Dudley Powell. The entire production will be under the personal supervision of Mr Fred Karno and the author, and the first performance will take place on Boxing Day afternoon.

MR ERNEST E. NORRIS, the energetic and painstaking manager of the Elephant and Castle Theatre, will take his first annual benefit on Friday, Dec. 2, when a new romantic drama, entitled A Gentleman of England, by Messrs E. Norris and F. Llewellyn, will be played for the first time. It will be remembered that the latter gentleman was part-author of The Coal King, produced there a few weeks ago. Mr Harry Paulton, sen., will appear on the same evening in a new one-act farce, called A Meredith Marriage, dealing as it does with "marriage on the leasehold system."

IN Lady Windermere's Fan, revived at the St. James's Theatre on Saturday evening, Miss Braithwaite, in the first act, which takes place in the morning-room of Lord Windermere's house, wears a gown of apricot-coloured taffetas, trimmed with cream spotted net and lace, and a scroll of ruched silk at the hem of the skirt. Very distinctive are the sleeves. Starting on the shoulders are big puffs of taffetas, at the elbows are further puffs of spotted net, and thence to the wrist the arms are covered with deep lace gauntlets. A black velvet bow is worn in the hair.

MISS MARION TERRY does not appear until the second act, the drawing-room scene of Lord Windermere's house. She is then wearing a magnificent dress of the softest white satin mousseline, decorated with gold roses and embroidery, and carries a bouquet of purple orchids in her hand. Her evening coat, with its enormous sleeves, is superb, and is made of emerald green chiffon poxed upon satin, which shimmers beneath the cloudlike draperies of gauze, with wondrous beauty. The present favour vouchsafed to ribbons is demonstrated in this case, for showers of green satin streamers fall over the front of the wrap, while another modern touch borrowed from the past is evident in the form of the big hood that finishes the mantle.

THE dress Miss Lilian Braithwaite wears in the same act is a very pretty blue moiré silk gown, another form of silk that is to be most modish this winter, upon which appear motifs of embroidery done in cream and black sequins. The dress just described is worn by Miss Braithwaite in the third act as well as the second, but in the third, which is played in Lord Darlington's rooms, an excessively graceful cloak is added to the toilette, the loveliest piece of raiment, composed of white lace, with a broad band of oyster white panne at the edge and more about the shoulders: a gossamer-like wrap fit for summer at its zenith.

IN the last act, once more played in the morning-room of the first scene, a graceful pink gown is worn by Miss Braithwaite, with cream lace trimmings and a world of novelty about the bodice, which not only displays the clever draperies now applied to the newest corsage, caught together beneath sparkling buckles, but a satin corselet with the latest arrangement in front, a spade-shaped one, instead of a sharp point.

THE exquisite dove-grey cashmere gown, a chef d'œuvre in dresses, is worn by Miss Marion Terry in the same act. A plain skirt, made very full at the waist, has the fulness caught together all the way down the front in a marvellous manner, beneath a series of little steel buckles. The lovely bodice has sleeves made of tulle, the grey hat is beautifully adorned with shaded purple ostrich feathers and tulle, and at the waist is worn a knot of deep crimson roses.

MR H. J. GRANT-SEYMOUR will reopen the Avenue Theatre on Thursday, Dec. 8, with the new comic opera Ladyland, written by Eustace Ponsonby, with music by Mr Frank Lambert, who is known to the public by his charming songs and ballads. He hails from Nottingham, was educated at Rugby, and developed when quite a boy his extraordinary gift for music. Mr Eustace Ponsonby, the author of the book and lyrics of Ladyland, was for many years a "shining light" in the Windsor Strollers and the Canterbury Old Stagers. He is an old Etonian.

MR J. HICKORY WOOD AND MR ARTHUR COLLINS'S Drury-lane pantomime, The White Cat, will have the advantage of being performed by a cast including Mr Harry Randall, Mr Johnny Danvers, Miss Queenie Leighton, Mr Fred Eastman, and Mr James Welch. Mr Hugh J. Ward, who made such a success as the Scarecrow last year, will appear as Simeon, the missing link, and Miss Jennie Macdonald, Miss Ruth Lytton, and Miss Marie George will also be in the company.

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER will begin his annual Christmas children's matinée entertainment at the Garrick Theatre on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 21, and The Walls of Jericho will be played every evening as usual.

MR HAYDEN COFFIN wishes us to mention that there is not the slightest truth in the statement that he will not go to the Apollo Theatre and play the part of Florestan De Valiancourt, in Véronique, at present sustained by Mr Lawrence Rea.

MR J. E. VEDRENNE has secured the rights of Le Berceau, by Brieux, also Der Biberpelz, by Hauptmann, which will be included in the next series of matinées at the Royal Court Theatre, together with two plays by Mr Bernard Shaw, another Greek play by Professor Gilbert Murray, and an Ibsen drama.

MR AND MRS WILLIAM HOLLES have suffered a very sad loss in the startlingly sudden death of their only daughter, Rosalie, aged nine years. On Thursday last, Dr. Webb, of Parson's-green ordered her to the West London Hospital for an immediate operation for appendicitis, which was performed by the specialist, Mr Keetley. Unfortunately, the poor child did not get over it, and breathed her last an hour or two before her mother reached London from Blackburn on Sunday morning last.

MISS MINNIE GRIFFEN, who is touring with Mr Forbes Robertson, left Edinburgh after the performance on the 18th inst. to sustain her original part, in Monsieur Beaucaire, at the command performance at Windsor Castle, returning to Newcastle to rejoin the company. Miss Griffen was with Mr Lewis Waller during the long run of Beaucaire, and at the same time played in Mice and Men with Mr Forbes Robertson, going from one theatre to the other during a period of twelve months.

AT St. Albans Hall, Bedford-park, on the 18th inst., was produced for copyright purposes a new one-act play entitled Quits, by Roland Bottomley, adapted from a story of W. W. Jacobs.

THE directors of the Rugby Theatre Company have instructed their architect, Mr T. W. Williard, to submit plans of the new local theatre at the next meeting of the Council. The directors have decided to build on the present site in the Railway-terrace, which is the main approach to the town and immediately opposite the new county buildings.

THE tour of The Scilly Girl starts at the Grand Theatre, Woolwich, on Dec. 12. In the cast will be Miss Dot Stephens, Miss Dorothy Vernon, Mr Alfred Donohoe, Mr H. E. Garden, and Mr Chas. Cautley. The tour will be under the direction of the last-named gentleman and Mr Frank Nelson.

MRS M'CALMONT, one of the leaders of society, will give some elaborate "tableaux-vivants" at Cheveley, her place near Newmarket, in December, in which her daughter and son-in-law, Lord and Lady Vivian, will take part. The party will be a small one, but many residents in the neighbourhood will be invited to the "tableaux-vivants," which will be given on the stage which the late Colonel M'Calmont erected some years ago at a considerable cost. The stage has a beautiful drop-scene, velvet curtains, and electric lighting appliances.

THE pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, will be Puss in Boots, and will be produced on Saturday, Dec. 24. The libretto is by Mr J. Hickory Wood, and the music by the resident conductor, Mr Samuel P. Swanton. The principals include Miss Minnie Jeffs, Dorothy Sefton, Edith Adeson, Jos. Colona, Phyllis Stuart, and Messrs Martin Adeson, Paul Cinquevalli, Fred Lyne, J. W. Hewson, Marriott Edzar, Allen Davenport, &c. Specialities will be introduced by Mr Paul Cinquevalli, the Cecilian Glee Singers, and Tiller's "Superbs" troupe of dancers. The scenery, for which Messrs K. J. M'Lennan, Ernest Howard, and G. Jansen are responsible, will be elaborate, and the costumes have been designed by Mr J. Howard Russell, and executed by Alias and others. The production will be under the supervision of Mr Fred W. Warden, managing director, of Theatre Royal and Palace, Belfast.

MADAME REJANE, who has been recently appearing at the Lyric Theatre, New York, was eating a caviare sandwich between the acts on the 17th inst., when she was taken seriously ill and the performance had to be stopped. It was a case of acute thirst, caused by an excessive use of smelling salts during the excitement of acting.

THE gross receipts of the Crystal Palace Company for the half-year ended June 30 amounted to £62,460, and the gross expenditure to £53,437, leaving a credit balance of £9 022. This compares with a credit balance of £11,288 in the corresponding half of last year, which had the advantage of the Triennial Handel Festival, the total receipts from which amounted to £12,712. Apart from the Festival, almost every item in the revenue account shows an improvement, amounting to a total increase of nearly £8,000. After providing £8,224 for debenture and loan interest, the debit balance was reduced £797 to £21,062. The number of visitors for the half-year was 1,252,052, compared with 1,262,259 in the corresponding period of last year, but the money taken for admissions shows an actual increase of £3,200.

THERE was a crowded and enthusiastic audience at the recent reopening of the Hereford Theatre by Mr Arthur Carlton, who has taken the building on a long lease; and, in honour of the great actor whose birthplace was Hereford, has decided to call the local playhouse in future the Garrick Theatre. Among the audience were Mr H. C. Beddoe (ex-Mayor), Councillor E. C. Gurney, Councillor J. Mitchell, and a host of other well-known citizens. Quite a transformation has been effected in the building itself. The electric-light has been completely installed, handsome electroliers have been put into the auditorium and in the main entrance. The stage is thoroughly lighted by electricity, no less than 150 eighteen-candle power lamps having been installed, whilst 2,000 candle-power arc lamps have been fitted at the sides for stage effects. The whole of the theatre has been artistically decorated and the comfort of patrons has been studied in every way.

MR WILL PERCIVAL, manager of the Empire Theatre, Dundee, has taken the management of the house into his own hands, and it is confidently expected that he will make this already popular establishment even more popular.

HENRY IRVING AT ABERDEEN.

Sir Henry Irving, at the conclusion of the performance of Becket at Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, on Wednesday night, was the guest in the Imperial Hotel of the Aberdeen Pen and Pencil Club. Mr G. W. W. BARCLAY was chairman, and the representative company, which numbered about a hundred, included Mr Bram Stoker, Mr H. J. Loveday, the Earl of Aberdeen, Bishop Chisholm, Lord Provost Walker, Mr Archibald D. Reid, A.R.S.A., Mr Joseph Farquharson, A.R.A.; Mr William Moffatt, manager Great North of Scotland Railway; and Councillor Barron. The menu card had a representation on the front page of Sir Henry in the character of Becket, and the supper tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. After supper the chairman rose to propose the health of the distinguished guest of the evening.

Mr BARCLAY said:—I wish it were possible to avoid reference to the melancholy, the deplorable fact that Sir Henry Irving is not a Scotsman. But this early mistake on his part cannot be ignored. I have made every effort to discover extenuating circumstances—to find some fact, however trifling, which would justify me in claiming him as a countryman of ours, but without success. Unlike the great Greek poet who lived before the days of registers, Sir Henry appears to have had only one birthplace, and Somerset is really so outrageously far south of the Border that I could make nothing of it. That, starting in life thus seriously handicapped, Sir Henry should have attained his present eminent position is one of those mysteries which will probably never be unravelled. He seems himself to have had at an early age an intuitive sense of the serious nature of the disability under which he laboured, for the moment he made up his mind as to the profession he was to adopt he set his face northward, and in the autumn of 1856, being then nineteen years old, made his first appearance on the stage at Sunderland. But Sunderland was only a halting place; his goal was the capital of Scotland, and in Edinburgh, in 1857, began his real apprenticeship. During the two years and a half spent there he had abundant opportunities for study, and of these he availed himself with that zeal and earnestness which have characterised him all his life. What a period of strenuous labour that must have been, and how often since must he have congratulated himself on having then "lived laborious days and scorned delights;" for it was, beyond doubt, in those thirty months that he laid the foundation-stone of all his future success. While in Edinburgh he played over 400 "speaking" parts, and one of his ingenious biographers has calculated that, allowing for periods during which the theatre was closed, this meant something like an average of a new part every night! From Edinburgh he went to Manchester for five years, and then wandered from one place to another until, in 1866, he began his career in London, having by that time played the immense number of nearly 600 different characters. You will not expect or wish me to give a biography of our guest, and I must pass over the first five years he spent in London and hasten on to the year 1871, when commenced Sir Henry's long and honourable connection with the Lyceum Theatre—a connection which constitutes one of the most remarkable episodes in the history of the stage in England. In that year, on Nov. 25—therefore almost exactly thirty-three years ago to-day—was produced for the first time at the Lyceum Theatre a play which, in a single night, made London ring with the name of Henry Irving. The play was The Bells, and from the date of its production until the doors of the Lyceum were closed a couple of years ago the name of Irving was associated with all the triumphs of the theatre. For nearly a quarter of a century he was not only leading actor but manager, and it may be said without exaggeration that, during that time, he raised theatrical management to the level of a fine art. I cannot attempt to convey to you even a slight idea of the amount of work done on the stage of the Lyceum during Sir Henry Irving's connection with the theatre. The quality which is to be found in all Sir Henry's impersonations is, I think, subtlety—and this subtlety is, I take it, one of the manifestations of genius. You will find signs of this elusive and delicate quality in all his work—you will find it in each of the four impersonations which we are having placed before us this week—characters so totally different one from another as Shylock, Mathias, Brewster, and Becket. In the delineation of each of these there are innumerable subtle touches—a mere glance, a movement of the muscle so slight that unless you have eyes to see you miss it—a demi-hemi-semi-smile, a shadow of a frown, a gesture interrupted before it is completed—I need not multiply instances, for you all know what I mean—which show that the actor is living the part; and for want of any better single word that occurs to me, this is what I call subtlety—an acute, penetrative quality, which glorifies such performances as that which we have witnessed to-night, and places them on an entirely different level from others with which we are familiar. Real genius, honest, hard, conscientious work, a sincere and consistent devotion to a high ideal, will never fail in this country to secure the esteem of the people. In Sir Henry's case they have done much more. Not only has he reached by dint of life-long conscientious labour the highest place in his profession, but he has secured for all his fellow-workers on the stage a position infinitely superior to anything they could, as a body, have looked forward to before he became their champion and advocate. The honour of knighthood conferred upon him by his Sovereign was something more than a mere recognition of his own gifts and his position as the leading actor of his time—it was an encouragement to every true actor in the kingdom, and a compliment and incitement to a profession which includes in its ranks a very large number of hard-working, intelligent men and women, and many earnest and cultured scholars. I have said little in comparison with what might have been said of his wonderful power as a manager, his astonishing versatility as an actor, his facility and felicity as a speaker, and his remarkable talents as a litterateur. If I have made no reference at all to his personal qualities—to his gracious, nay, courtly, bearing—to the suavity, geniality, and charm of manner which form such a fascination to those who know him off the stage—to those deeper and finer gifts which endear him to those who have the privilege of his friendship, I hope and think he will believe the omission is due to the difficulty of speaking of such things in the presence of the possessor of these gifts. I believe that for every known enthusiastic admirer he has, all over the world, a thousand admirers not less enthusiastic, of whom he will never know. I believe that to multitudes of thinking men and women in this country and in America he has been an educative power of the highest order, particularly in his revelation of some of the wonderful depths of that most wonderful of writers, Shakespeare. I believe that to great numbers of the members of his own profession he has been an inspiration, an oracle, and a guide. I believe his example will be an incentive to honest, earnest, intelligent actors for years to come, and that his beneficial influence on the stage will endure long after he has left it.

The toast was enthusiastically pledged with Highland honours, the company singing "He's a jolly good fellow."

Sir HENRY IRVING, in reply said:—I must confess to you that your most cordial greeting is reassuring to the stranger who comes among you for the first time, with his head full of your old traditions, which are quite new to him. Yes, sir, I will make a clean breast of it. With the help of some kind Aberdonians, I have been studying the lore of your "silver city by the sea, whose white foot rests on golden sands"—your city of Bon-Accord. And I am greatly struck by two of those traditions first of all. One of them you have generously observed by drinking to your guest to-night out of the Cup of Bon-Accord, and that is why I feel reassured; for the other tradition tells me that Bon-Accord was the watchword of the Aberdeen burghers on the very unpleasant evening when they made away with all the English in the city at the bidding of Robert the Bruce. Your tastes, I am glad to note, are milder now; and when you have a thirst you choose some other beverage than the English actor's blood, whatever you may think of his acting. I was a good deal cheered to read how Queen Elizabeth's players in 1601 came here with a recommendation to King James VI. of Scotland, who is reported to have said to them, "On, ay! ye may call yourseis actors or ony damned thing ye like!" I know there is another version of the story, that the King made this feeling remark to certain advocates—lawyers of his own Kingdom. But that does not matter. The rivalry between the Bar and the Stage has ever been most brotherly, and King James may easily have mistaken the one profession for the other. But I want to remind you that in 1601, when the English actors came, the manager of the company, Worshipful Master Lawrence Fletcher, friend and colleague of Shakespeare, received the freedom of the city. No, sir, I am not throwing out any hints, though it might be a graceful thing to give one the chance of sauntering in an ermine gown, with a gold chain round one's neck, and singing the praises of Aberdeen, with your poet, William Forsyth, "by silent Don and crystal Dee." But, believe me, this is not really the point of the reminder. I have been accused by the ever genial and joyful Punch of pretending to be a very old actor, who began his career in various parts of Scotland centuries ago. For instance, according to my friend Punch, I have asserted that I acted with Robert the Bruce at the Theatre Royal, Bannockburn. Gentlemen, it is false. I never said that. And to prevent any further misrepresentation, I beg to assure you most earnestly that when Queen Elizabeth's actors were here in 1601, I was not a member of the company.

Well, Sir, the theatrical history of Aberdeen has interested me deeply. I gather that you have been pretty ardent playgoers for at least many years. There may have been influences at one time to distract your minds from the dramatic Muse, on the plea that she was no better than she should be. During that dark period, I am informed, the theatre then existing held no more than £65. At the present moment, I am glad to say, your appreciation of the drama is rather better than that, and I hope the new theatre, now in course of building, will record a still higher scale of enthusiasm. In Aberdeen the drama is happy in the encouragement it receives from the University students, of whom William Watson must have been thinking when he wrote that fine sonnet in Blackwood's Magazine:—

> The towers of learning and of peace,
> That brood benignant on the Northern foam.

An old friend of mine, the late Professor Minto, who was so much beloved at the University, never failed, I am told, to urge the students to the playhouse when Shakespeare was there. Gentlemen, I have seen something of that benignant brood of Aberdeen scholars here and elsewhere, and I can say, "Happy is the cause that captures their minds, and fortunate is the man who inspires their devotion!" The drama, gentlemen, is a true stimulus to the studious, though it may keep them out at nights, and sometimes require that animated discussion which garnishes the supper table. I remember a dear friend of mine in America, a physician in Boston, coming to me with harrassing anxiety pictured on his face, and saying, "For heaven's sake lend me some books about Thomas Becket! My family have seen the play, and they are so full of questions that I can't face them at breakfast again till I know something about the subject!" There was the true spirit of inquiry and emulation, which ought to be cultivated at breakfast, and even in the small hours when you drink to the players from the Cup of Bon-Accord.

My own inquiries, as you see, have taught me something about the drama in Aberdeen. I yearn towards the days when you had a stock company, and when Mrs Pollock stood high in the admiration and esteem of an earlier generation, succeeded by another well-known theatrical family—the Ryders. In those days the stock companies maintained a strong bond between players and audience, and every actor was a citizen, and took his part in the local affairs. In my own time the stock company was managed usually by an actor with a genuine interest in the artistic quality of the work. I am not by any means one of those crusty old stagers who believe that everything worth living for is dead. But that theatrical system of the bygone days had advantages which we have lost; and the lamentable result is that many people who frequent the theatre nowadays are not playgoers, for the simple reason that there are seldom any real plays to be seen. You have been good enough, Sir, to dwell in flattering terms on my own career. I have simply been the devoted servant of an art which is among the humanising influences we can least afford to ignore. Whatever may be the changes of theatrical taste, depend upon it the theatre will always remain a great instrument of our social organisation. It is for you to determine—you who wield the power and the charm of pen and pencil—that the highest standards of the theatre shall be upheld, and that it shall not cease to be a spur to honourable ambition. And it is for me gratefully to remember that you received me in Aberdeen with such a stirring welcome, and that your cup of Bon-Accord overflowed with sympathy and goodwill.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

Most heartily we wish many, many happy returns of the day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

IN the Court of King's Bench, on Wednesday, Mr Macarthy (instructed by Messrs Slark, Edwards, and Co.) said he applied on behalf of the plaintiff, who was an author and playwright, to have the hearing of the action, Davis v. Curzon, expedited. In the action the plaintiff sought to restrain the defendant, Mr F. Curzon, who was the lessee of several theatres, from producing the play entitled Sergeant Brue at the Strand Theatre. The plaintiff's case was that he was entitled to have the play produced at a first-class West-end theatre, and that if it were taken to the Strand Theatre an irreparable injury would be done to him. Under these circumstances, he (the learned counsel) asked that the action for an injunction should be tried at an early date. Mr Justice Ridley said he understood that the action had not yet been set down for trial, and, therefore, he could not accede to the application, which was adjourned.

"THE ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND."
"HOW TO HELP IT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I heartily endorse Mr Cyril Maude's letter under this head in your last issue.

Yours faithfully, ARTHUR BOURCHIER.
Garrick Theatre, Nov. 19.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Many of the theatres I have visited have lacked any charity box whatever, let alone one for A. B. F. Cannot something be done so that in every place there should be an A. B. F. box brought prominently under the notice of free admissions; and, speaking of free admissions, why should not the bill order people be made to contribute their mite, if only a copper? It would all help to swell the total. I could mention one theatre in particular (shortly to open as a music hall) where over one hundred free professional admissions—all, I have every reason to believe, genuine—were granted the week I was there. In fact, d.-c. and stalls were a professional club and no charity box of any kind there. This at a tax of one penny each would amount to over £20 per annum, and if bill orders were taxed as well the whole would amount to a substantial sum.

As to the matinée question, let every actor before giving his services insist that ten per cent of receipts be given to the A. B. F.

Mr Mouillot's idea as to giving one performance every year throughout the entire country, every artiste, &c., to give their services, is an excellent one, but again unanimous co-operation is needed, and I am afraid my remarks at commencement apply.

Mr Willard's suggestion of tax on salary is good, but unless compulsory, some would give and some would not, and those who do not are usually the first to apply for assistance.

Yours faithfully, FRANK LISTON.
Theatre Royal, Leicester, Nov. 17.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Whilst fully realising and approving the assistance annually given to impecunious members of the dramatic profession, I fail to see why an attempt should be made to levy toll on the provincial resident theatrical managers by the means suggested in Mr Henry Tweedie's letter in your last issue. Is it not enough for the managers and members of touring companies to know that in a very large percentage of cases resident managers in the country are almost at their wits' ends to know how to keep open their houses in these troublous times without having before them the prospect of having to give one night's use of their theatres and staff to aid the funds of an institution which, however deserving and commendable in itself, never yields one penny for the benefit of this particular class? It is within my knowledge that many large and old-established theatres in the provinces are at this moment playing to houses (one a night) of less than £5 each. Of course I do not wish to disguise the fact that the touring companies suffer in comparison, and no doubt that fact accounts for the number of companies who "dry up," and are consequently unable to proceed from town to town in fulfilment of their engagements. During the last twelve months I have had to help companies both into and out of the town to a greater extent than in any combined ten years of my long experience. As "charity begins at home," I say let those who reap the benefits provide the bounty.

Yours faithfully, LOCAL MANAGER.
Nov. 21.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The idea of a "special night" in aid of the A.B.F. is an excellent one, and should undoubtedly be encouraged. But Mr Willard's suggestion to make it compulsory for everyone to give a night's salary would, I'm afraid, meet with much opposition. If it is to be done, let it by all means be voluntary, but in these days of low salaries for the small part people, a night's salary is perhaps too much to ask for, especially if the person has been "out" for many weeks and only just "opened."

I would suggest that five per cent. of everyone's week's salary be given on the particular night (of course observed annually), the owner of the theatre, managers, staff, and the editors of the various theatrical newspapers included. This would mean a fine sum being realised, and perhaps would do away with the many begging letters that we encounter in every town, although there are many genuine cases of want which do not get the help necessary.

The system of taxing free admissions in many theatres is not in my opinion a fair one, for in the first place many actors and actresses out of work give, perhaps, their last few coppers when they are really in want themselves, and in the second place, the manager of the theatre generally gets the credit of the contributions, not the actual giver. Perhaps the "special night" would do away with this also. I certainly think a committee should be formed to organise the "special night" which I would suggest takes place next spring, when most companies are "on the road," and shall be pleased to give all the assistance I can.

The members of Her Forbidden Marriage company held a private meeting on Tuesday morning to discuss the best means to help it. They agree that something should be done, and will be pleased to give their help.

Various suggestions were made—viz., the idea of a full night's salary they thought rather heavy, and that half a night, or five per cent. of the week's salary, would be more readily agreed to. Also that the scheme should be confined to actors, actresses, and managers only, and not the working staff or band.

It was also suggested that the actual sum sent by each company be not published, but should be totaled with, say, five other companies, thus—"The following amount has been received by the undermentioned companies." Then follows the names of the various companies, as it would be a serious matter and unfair to managers for their salary lists to be made public. It was also suggested that each Christmas a Shilling Fund be opened at every theatre, no person to give more or less than one shilling. This, of course, in addition to the annual Fund night.

Yours faithfully, FRANK MUNDILL,
General Manager, Her Forbidden Marriage Co.,
Queen's Theatre, Swindon, Nov. 23.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The suggestions of both Mr E. S. Willard and Mr Fred Mouillot are excellent ones to augment the Actors' Benevolent Fund, but to carry them out would be very difficult. A company with a piece that draws, sailing merrily along, artistes paid well, would not object to fall in with either of the suggestions, but when you come across a large number, perhaps the majority, of companies who are losing heavily every week it will require a generous heart above the average to give up one night's entire receipts, making perhaps a loss of £20 into one of £30.

Then again, with regard to docking one night's salary—an excellent suggestion I think, but one must take into consideration that there are artistes, and a large number especially this autumn, who have been obliged to take a considerable reduction, getting scarcely enough to provide lodgings and bread.

I think that if one Sunday in the year was set apart called Actors' Sunday, and on that evening a concert was arranged to be given in every theatre, everyone giving their services in addition to local help and support, the Actors' Benevolent Fund would be enriched by a considerable amount.

Yours faithfully, HARDING THOMAS.
Spring Bank, Victoria-road, Worthing, Nov. 18.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The suggestions of Messrs Willard and Mouillot are, I think, excellent ones. I also think that the taxing of complimentary admission to theatres and charging for autographs would prove of great benefit pecuniarily to the Fund. I have always taken the deepest interest in the Actors' Benevolent Fund, which I know does admirable and most necessary work, and I am astonished that it does not meet with more unanimous support from the dramatic profession. As you say in your article in The Era, of Nov. 5, the dramatic profession possesses such immense resources in being able to get large sums of money from the charitable public that I think that it is most deplorable that the Fund, the existence of which is an absolute necessity on account of the precarious nature of our calling, should be pinched for means and in danger of collapse when by so small an effort it could be put on a firm financial basis.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES ALLAN.
Garrick Club, W.C., Nov. 19.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I fully sympathise with the suggestions put forward by Mr Willard and Mr Mouillot, and should be glad if they were to meet with general approval, but I am afraid the obligatory clause in an agreement would create many difficulties. Perhaps an alternative scheme which would provide for two or three "Actors' Saturdays" in the year instead of one as at present, would meet the case as well and avoid any "compulsory giving," which many, it would appear, object to. Actors' Saturday now falls, I think, on some date in January, when, in the provinces, the majority of theatres are given over to pantomime, and a number of actors and actresses are disengaged. A great many must omit subscribing through this fact. If dates were also fixed in the spring and autumn I think many more subscriptions would be forthcoming. To illustrate my argument I may mention that there is a Hospital Sunday as well as a Hospital Saturday. Appeals might also be sent to members of theatrical companies in the Colonies and abroad.

Yours faithfully, ALFRED HARDING.
86, Haydon-park-road, Wimbledon, Nov. 20.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I am quite in sympathy with the scheme suggested in Mr Willard's and Mr Mouillot's letters, but rather fear, however, that they are asking a little too much.

It would be a grand scheme, if the whole profession would combine to make it so. Would there not be great difficulties in the way of getting all members to act with unanimity, and if they once agreed do you think they could be relied upon for the support when wanted? My experience is that actors are never unanimous amongst themselves, but what they would be when joined by managers, acting-managers, musical directors, scene shifters, carpenters, and theatre proprietors, &c., and all who would under the new scheme combine to help the Fund, I do not know.

Then again, there would be the strong objection to all concerned if it should be necessary to disclose the salary list.

There is one question I should like to ask, and that is, would the actor or actress who is not in an engagement on the date selected by the Committee for the Fund Performances be deemed to have helped the Fund, or would he or she be left out of it and not considered a subscriber, and therefore disentitled to share the privileges?

In the main the scheme has my entire approval, and I should support it to the best of my ability.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES MACDONA.
17, Shaftesbury-avenue, W., Nov. 22.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The discussion of this topic in your columns can but lead to good results if it only succeeds in awaking the profession out of their present apathetic attitude.

There are grave practical difficulties, though, in the way of both the excellent suggestions of Mr Willard and Mr Mouillot, the chief of which seems to me to be this—that many companies, alas! are playing to a loss, and it might well be that not even a performance for the A.B.F. would attract a good house, in which case the unfortunate manager would either have to make public confession of the unattractiveness of his play or would have to dip his hand into his pocket to an extent he might be very ill-able to afford.

Another case is that of the actor who, having been for months out of an engagement, happens to be in harness for a few weeks at the time selected for the A.B.F. performance or for the collection of the tax.

I think we must go far beyond schemes of compulsory taxation, and look straight in the face at the reasons why the receipts of the Fund decrease while the demands on it increase.

A strong stand on the part of real theatrical managers against the overpowering expenses with which they are confronted, against the iniquitous profit rentals of most of the theatres, against the inadequate percentages allowed by many of the suburban and provincial landlords, and against the wholesale and useless advertising in the ever-multiplying columns of obscure newspapers; a determination on their part to resist all this blackmail and to place themselves in a position to give long engagements, so that the money taken in the theatres may go to them and their companions, and not into the pockets of landlords and speculators, would bring about an improvement of which the Actors' Benevolent Fund would soon both directly and indirectly feel the result.

I, personally, have always advocated on the committee an alteration of the date of Actor's Saturday. I cannot believe that Christmas bills stimulate our charitable instincts, and there is no object, in London at all events, in making the collection at Christmas time. Alternative dates might be arranged to suit the convenience of actors, with some of whom pantomime time is their best season as it is the worst with others.

Many influential actors have expressed their strong disapproval of our annual dinner. Much as I respect their opinions, I cannot agree with them. Many of the pensioners of the A.B.F. have in their time given their services freely in aid of other folks' charities, and I can see no reason why the public should not assist them in their hour of need. In conclusion, I express a hope that after the eloquent advocacy of our cause which we shall soon hear from Sir Edward Clarke, the profession at large will show its appreciation of the importance of this subject.

Yours faithfully, FREDERICK KERR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I do not think the suggestions made by E. S. Willard, Esq., and Fredk. Mouillot, Esq., re above discussion would be taken up in anything like a friendly spirit by the vast majority of the profession. To quote Mr Mouillot, "it is easy to see how this scheme would work. The artiste getting £20 per week would be giving £3 6s. 8d.; the artiste getting 30s. per week would be giving 5s., so it would not be a hardship on anybody."

It may not be a hardship on the artiste getting £20 per week to spare one night's salary, but supposing the man who is getting 30s. or £2 per week should be married? Let us apportion his money:—£1 per week to his wife, 16s. per week board and lodgings, 2s. per week laundry, 2s. pocket money.

It is very easy to see the loss of one night's salary in the case of a person being married, and only getting £2 per week would mean a great sacrifice, and husband or wife going short of something themselves. How much harder would this be in the case of an artiste earning only 30s. weekly, the receiver of this salary also being married.

No, I feel convinced it would not work, at least amicably, between manager and artiste. Two and a half per cent, representing the £20 a week people, it would not hurt, but the remaining 97½ per cent., representing £2 to £5 per week, it most assuredly would.

I venture to suggest a very simple scheme, which, I emphatically say, not one single member of the profession would refuse to support.

Every Saturday the manager of every company on the road would collect the simple sum of one penny from every member of the crowd. A small notebook to be kept with all names entered, and all payments noted with dates of collection.

Resident managers of theatres to adopt the same system. It is easy to calculate the collection made in a theatre with sixty persons all told on the staff. £13 per year would be handed over, and with all companies and all theatres adopting my idea we should have a very large sum indeed, and all for a simple penny-a-week collection, which no self-respecting artiste could refuse.

By this simple method an artiste getting 30s. weekly would, if working the whole year, practically subscribe his one night's salary, but in a manner which could not possibly be felt by him, whereas one night being suddenly stopped in one week would be a serious blow to him. My ideas may seem on a very small scale, but the results would be great indeed.

Of course, no artiste would be tied to the sum of one penny per week—many, I have not the slightest doubt, would express their intention to subscribe more; however, large or small contributions, all would be noted each week and sent to the secretary every month before a given date. As I have said before, the results from even such an insignificant sum would be astounding.

Yours faithfully, O. SILVERSTONE,
Manager, Swiss Express Co.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I never could understand how a man lying in a warm bed, opposite a brightly burning fire, could feel the cold. And yet I suppose it is so, as witness the suggestions of the two big managers on the above subject. First let me point out how this compulsory charity one-night free performance would be a failure almost from its conception.

For argument sake, we will say that Monday, Dec. 5, has been set aside for the charity performance.

Now suppose that for eight or nine weeks I, as a struggling actor, have been out of an engagement. This, of course, through not having sent my disengaged card to The Era.

The previous week some enterprising manager, hearing that my talent (?) is "to let," engages me to open on the 5th. I have to spend a considerable sum on clothes, &c., and am also in debt, so that my salary is pretty well mortgaged for a while. The very first performance I give I find is a charity one, and a portion of my first salary must go to augment a fund which is neither more nor less deserving than the one which, in this case, justly "begins at home." Even supposing I had been working for some weeks, who knows what unforeseen claim for money might arise just at the date of the free performance; and I suppose that I am not the only one who has more than one mouth to feed, and, on the enormous salaries paid nowadays, this free show, which one would practically be bound to give, would to many come as a great hardship, tending to tighten the purse-strings on other no less deserving occasions. No, sir, I always like to help, if in a position to do so, but certainly should object to support a scheme for "compulsory charity." But to show that I am willing and anxious to help, I append the following suggestion, which I give for what it is worth; but, after very careful thought, I venture to think that, if tried, it would be found to be a solution to the question of raising funds:—

Let every local manager be supplied with numbered roll-tickets, bearing the words, "Received 3d. for the Actors' Benevolent Fund." Let him either personally or through the travelling manager ask the members of every visiting company if they would care to purchase a ticket, but only one. This is important, as if any number could be bought we immediately find that the leading lady must take ten, as the juvenile lady took five, and the heavy man is not going to be outdone by the comedian, and we at once get compulsory charity again.

The tickets in the first instance are distributed by the A.B.F., who register starting number, and name of manager supplied, and every three or six months the manager returns his unsold tickets, together with the threepences to the amount due according to his finishing number.

Let The Era and kindred journals acknowledge once every six months the sums so collected, and also the receipt from artists of so many purchased tickets, mentioning the senders' names. The total of these tickets would be a fairly accurate check on any unscrupulous seller of same, and at the same time meet the views of those people who like to see their charities publicly acknowledged, not from any "free-advertisement motive," but to be sure that everything is perfectly straight.

The London theatres would sell their tickets once a week. No one would miss 3d. in a week. I believe it has even been known that the poorest actor has put that sum down for a "small lemonade" without a second thought.

Yours faithfully, EDWARD VAN BIENE.
Business-Manager, Broken Melody Company,
Dalston Theatre, N.E.

TO THE EDITOR OL THE ERA.

Sir,—I shall be glad to fall in with any arrangement that may be ultimately arrived at by the majority of my fellow-artists. Mr Raleigh's, Mr Mouillot's, and Mr Willard's schemes all appear to me very excellent, although I must confess I look with a little suspicion upon Mr Willard's proposed "Clause in Contract." In many companies the idea would work well enough, but in others it would only cause irritation and bitterness, still further complicating the already delicate relations between master and man. Besides, if an Actors' Saturday be once universally accepted, the moral pressure of such an institution would be sufficient to prod on the apathetic and the grudging, whilst for the bulk of the profession no pressure would be necessary.

Might I suggest the institution of a ballot, immediately, throughout the entire profession, in order to settle the point. Mr Willard's, Mr Raleigh's, Mr Mouillot's, and other schemes might be briefly recapitulated, with voting spaces opposite each name. The clerical work entailed might be mitigated if the manager of each company would take the matter in hand, forwarding properly classified results of the voting, together with the voting-papers, all ready and arranged for more comprehensive treatment at headquarters.

The present apathy is, of course, lamentable; but is it not partly because of the all too frequent demands upon the professional purse from outside quarters? Nor have there been lacking signs on occasions that make one sadly wonder whether self-advertisement, and not charity, may have prompted responses to some of these outside claims. Yours faithfully,

EDITH WYNNE MATTHISON.

At the Opera House, Cape Town, on the 25th ult., was given a copyright performance of a new comedy, in three acts, entitled The Triumph of Deceit, written by R. Brighten Salisbury.

At the Gaiety Theatre, Ayr, this week Mr Lawrence Brough has been appearing with his Lady of Ostend company. The part of Dick Whortles was in the capable hands of Mr Harry Hampson, who acted throughout with judgment and ability. Mr Percy Marshall as Joseph Carbury was excellent; Mr Lawrence Brough was delightful as Le Baron De Longueville; and a decided hit was made by Mr Edmund Gurney as Toby Krockitt. Miss Kate Mitford was restrained and dignified as Mrs Whortles. What Miss Rosamond Rokeby had to do as the Lady of Ostend she did exceedingly well, and the Millie Grace of Miss Doris Vayne was commendable.

A BLIND ACTOR.

APPEAL FOR MR. HENRY CRISP.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—An exceedingly sad case of distress in our profession has been brought to my notice by my old friend and brother actor, Mr E. M. Robson. It is that of Mr Henry Crisp, who, being fifty-one years of age, and having been an actor for thirty years, is now totally blind, and has been so from the end of October, 1903. He acted up to the last, and played for two years with the vision of one eye quite gone, while that of the other was gradually going. Out of his thirty years' experience he has held engagements as follows:—With Mrs Scott Siddons, three consecutive engagements; with Miss Jennie Lee, five consecutive years; with Mrs Langtry, four consecutive years; with Mr Penley, twelve consecutive years; with Mr Willard, three tours; and as stage-manager with Mr Tree (Captain Swift, Company I). This makes very nearly thirty years, and shows that he must have been reliable and steady to have secured so many re-engagements. His salaries have always been small—£3 to £4 per week—once only reaching £8, so it is not surprising that he has no savings to fall back upon. He has a slender private income derived from the rents of three small houses. The property is mortgaged, and is in the hands of the mortgagees, who work it and allow him 15s. per week. His rent for a top room in the Kennington-road is 8s. per week, and the 7s. left has to find all the necessaries for himself and his wife, and he is not in arrears with his rent. Two years ago he was six months idle on account of illness, chiefly connected with his affliction. The expenses incurred by this, added to fees paid to various doctors in the different towns he visited on tours, reduced his income and savings considerably. He has been an inmate of the Westminster and Ophthalmic Hospitals, but with no benefit, though he speaks gratefully of the kindness shown him by a certain well-known doctor, who treated him gratuitously and secured his admission into the hospitals. There is no hope of his ever seeing again. One eye is quite gone, and is replaced by an artificial one, and the other is past being operated upon. His debts are very few and small; I have a list of them. His address is 145, Kennington-road, S.E.

I have spoken about his case to Mr Beerbohm Tree, Mr Pinero, Captain Marshall, Mr Alexander, Mr Bourchier, and Sir Squire Bancroft, all of whom are deeply interested in the case, and express their willingness to help him. I have every hope eventually of organising a concert for his benefit at the Queen's Hall. In the meantime may I ask for the kind consideration which you have always shown for cases of distress in our profession, and beg you to open a subscription list on his behalf, kindly putting me down for £5?

Yours faithfully, CYRIL MAUDE.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The case of Mr Henry Crisp is too sad for words. I enclose cheque for £10 10s. (from Mr and Mrs Kendal) with only too much pleasure to so deserving a fund.

Yours faithfully. W. H. KENDAL.
North-Western Hotel, Liverpool, Oct. 18, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr Crisp's case is certainly a very sad one, and I am very glad to enclose my mite towards his assistance.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES WYNDHAM.
Midland Hotel, Manchester, Oct. 11, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Please accept the enclosed amount (£1 17s.) as a small donation to Mr Henry Crisp's Benefit Fund in token of the great sympathy which every member of this company bears for Mr Crisp in his terrible misfortune.—Yours faithfully,
NORMAN V. NORMAN.
Theatre Royal, Limerick.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you add the enclosed cheque to the fund you have opened for Mr H. Crisp? His case is, indeed, terribly sad.

Yours faithfully, SABA RALEIGH.
Grand Hotel, Middlesbrough, Oct. 26, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Sir Henry Irving asks me to send you the enclosed cheque for £5 as his donation to the Henry Crisp Fund. He sends all good wishes for its success. Yours faithfully, BRAM STOKER.
20, Bedford-street, W.C., Oct. 26, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Please accept the enclosed donation of five pounds (£5 bank note) from the Lyceum Theatre Provident and Benevolent Fund to the Henry Crisp Fund, as an expression of the sympathy the members bear for him in his misfortune.

Yours faithfully, THOMAS REYNOLDS
(hon. sec. Sir Henry Irving's company).
Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, Nov. 23.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Published at "The Era" Offices, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 2d, 1901

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee, July 28th, 1901

"BOOING" BAD PLAYS.

Anyone who stands in London at a busy corner where many omnibuses halt to take up passengers will notice a complete change in the attitude of the "average man" towards what is, it would appear, ironically called the "weaker" sex. At one time it was considered incumbent on a male individual to yield to any lady his turn in the crowd or queue which compete for the vacant places in public vehicles. Now there is no distinction of sexes, and it is a case of "first come first enter."

This alteration is the result of a radical change in the characteristics of the average woman. At one time she acted up to her reputation of "weakness." She showed consideration for the rights and feelings of others, and placed herself at the mercy of Man, who thus felt pleasure in gratuitous self-sacrifice for her benefit. Then came the New Woman movement; and, for a while, the Sex "had it both ways." They were no longer bound by any obligation to "gentleness" or "weakness;" and they elected to hold the men still under the old rules of "chivalry." A woman would expect a man to open a railway carriage door for her or give up to her his seat in an omnibus, but she scorned to reward him with thanks or a smile. She would readily take a seat offered to her by a young man; but she would never think of rising and relinquishing hers to an elderly or invalid lady or to an aged and infirm gentleman. And, to save herself the trouble of walking half the length of a railway platform, she would enter a carriage quite full of passengers, and stand in placid martyrdom till, for very shame, the nearest male gave up to her his seat. This one-sided arrangement could not last long; and those who regret the decay of "chivalry" should appeal to the ladies on the principle evoked by the witty Frenchman, who, when asked to assist in abolishing the death penalty, suggested that messieurs les assassins should take the initiative.

The latest example of the tendency of the fair sex to want to "have it both ways" is the fuss which Miss OLGA NETHERSOLE and Mrs CRAIGIE have been making about the "mixed reception" of The Flute of Pan at the Shaftesbury Theatre on the 12th inst. Both ladies tell most pitiful tales. They have worked—oh, how they have worked!—at the construction, the mounting, and the stage-management of the piece. And the money that was spent on it before the curtain was rung up on the production on Saturday week last! Furniture, we are told, was brought from Italy, real Irish Guards were engaged from His Majesty's barracks, and four of the King's trumpeters were secured to fanfarade. Two hundred persons were employed in the production, some of them with women and children dependent upon them for a living. Six trained choir boys had to be examined before one "with the most bell-like voice" was selected; and, to crown all, when a song had to be sung by a gentleman supposed to be in a gondola, an artist from the Palace Theatre was engaged for the purpose. Is it fair, ask Miss NETHERSOLE and Mrs CRAIGIE, that anyone should not think The Flute of Pan a good play, after all that has been done for it?

The logic of the appeal is characteristically feminine. If The Flute of Pan had been a ballet or a spectacle, these arguments might have held good. But Mrs CRAIGIE is the authoress of that very clever piece The Ambassador; and from her a first-night audience expects, not a spectacle, but a play. Labour and expenditure are required for any theatrical production. As for a piece being ruined by expressions of disapproval on the first night, the idea is absurd. What are the newspaper critics for, if not to give their independent opinions irrespective of those of a portion of the audience? The rationale of play-presentation may be briefly stated as follows. A manager endeavours to secure, as judges of his production, a roughly representative audience. The conventional method of expressing delight with a stage play is clapping the hands together; the conventional method of showing displeasure is by musical moans—commonly called "booing." At the close, those present are invited to express its opinion "in the usual manner"—that is by applause or by hissing or "booing." Those who think the play a good one clap their hands; those who are not satisfied with it hiss or "boo." It would no doubt be possible to exact absolute silence at the close of each act and at the end of a première; and it would be entirely consistent to do so. What is entirely in-consistent is to greedily accept the applause and tearfully protest against the "boos;" to enter the lists as rivals to male playwrights and claim equality with them until the "disagreeables" of the trade are felt, and then to take refuge in tears. Such a course reminds us of the lady who sent her novel to ABRAHAM HAYWARD for review with a note which said, "Let me have your real opinion; and please let it be all praise!" When a woman enters the art field she lays aside her sex privileges entirely. She is supposed, when she becomes a competitor, to cease to be a suppliant. In the early Spartan days, young men and young women used to box together in the public arenas. It would scarcely have been considered fair if, just as one of the lady pugilists had dealt a mere male a tremendous blow on the jaw, and he prepared to return the compliment, she had arrested him with the exclamation "Coward, to strike a woman!" Ladies who embark in dramatic authorship and in theatrical management must endeavour to cultivate a little more of the masculine philosophy which teaches us to take the rough with the smooth, and failures with successes. If they must "have a good cry" on first nights when their experiments are not exactly successful, let them do it in solitude and secrecy, and not make a public parade of their sorrows. Mrs CRAIGIE is not the first playwright who has written a rather tedious piece, and Miss NETHERSOLE is not the first actress-manageress who has produced one expensively. We must learn to bear these things more quietly, as Sir JOHN MOORE said to the private soldier at Corunna. Suppose every manager who produced a failure, or a quasi-failure, were to come before the footlights and weep; what a "new terror" the practice would add to first-night performances! This parade of labours and expenses, this appeal from justice to foolish indulgence, is absurd. If every piece, no matter how imperfect and uninteresting, is to be applauded, of what value is a "great first night success?"

TRINITY COLLEGE CONCERT.

The steady advance of Trinity College as a musical institution is making its impression on the musical world of London, and the concert we attended on Wednesday last gave us a most favourable idea of the talent of the students and the care bestowed upon their cultivation. There were degrees of merit, of course, but in many instances we could fairly award hearty commendation. Miss Edith Richards, a young lady organist, opened the concert with a sonata for the organ by Felix Borowski, and did herself no little credit, while Mrs Milbourne Goldschmidt, a lady with a charming voice, only requiring a little more firmness in style to be quite satisfactory, sang Landon Ronald's "Oh! Lovely Night." The Fantasia in F minor of Chopin was admirably performed by Miss Winifred Palfreman, who has won distinction not only at Trinity College but at the Royal Academy, having no less than eight letters attached to her name. Miss Florence Imhof rather dragged the tempo in Meyerbeer's "Nobil Signor," but she produced a good tone. The once-popular "Hommage à Handel," by Moscheles, for two pianofortes, was given with much animation by Miss Winifred Crowley and Mr Spencer A. Thompson, both executants being entitled to commendation. A little more dramatic expression would have increased the effect of Hullah's "Storm," as rendered by Miss Eve Tindell. The concerto of Mendelssohn in G minor was given as regards the Andante and Finale by Miss Beatrice Bond in good style; a second pianoforte rendering the orchestral accompaniments, for which Mr Percy Brier was responsible. Among other items may be named "The Two Grenadiers," the well-known song of Schumann, Chopin's Ballade in A flat by Miss Entwistle, a song of Handel by Miss Ruth Freeman, and a postlude for the organ by E. Beck Slinn. Altogether a creditable record for Trinity College.

MISS MARIE DAINTON has made such a success with the songs "Honeymoon Hall" and "The Old Oak Tree" in the new musical play Peggy Machree that many demands have been made for the introduction of the ditties into pantomime. C. E. Hamilton, who owns Peggy Machree, announces that, by arrangement with Messrs Witmark and Sons, of London and New York, the songs are reserved absolutely for Miss Dainton, and that no one will be permitted to use them except that lady.

ALTERATIONS AT DRURY-LANE.

In order to comply with the requirements of the recent award of arbitration between the London County Council and the proprietors of Drury-lane Theatre, an extensive scheme of improvement, designed by Mr Philip E. Pilditch, the consulting architect to the Marquess of Salisbury and the Duke of Bedford, is being carried out energetically in preparation for the pantomime reopening. Two new staircases have been provided at either side of the building. These are built one above the other, so that four separate streams of people will be able to leave the gallery at once. Additional gangways have been formed in the first and second tiers. The old ceiling has been replaced by one of fibrous plaster, richly adorned with paintings representing the months of the year and the four seasons. A fine electrolier will hang from the centre of the roof, and the ceiling will be fitted with hundreds of electric lamps. The old proscenium ornamentation has been replaced by fibrous plaster embellishments. In the centre is the Royal coat of arms modelled in gilt. At the sides are marble pilasters, and the entablatures rest upon steel and fibrous plaster columns. On the stage a new "decking" of teak has been laid. There will be new flies and a new "gridiron." All the scenes will be raised by an elaborate counter-balance system. The flexible steel wire supporting the twenty-two tons of weights is of a total length of 46,000ft., and the ironwork that goes up the walls to carry the weights would turn the scale at twenty-one tons. There are 120 four-wire sets of these weight-carriers, and attached to these are 1,270 pulley wheels. The whole of this apparatus is entirely new at Drury-lane, and by its aid one man will be able, with one hand, to move with ease a scene weighing fifteen hundredweight, which under the old system would have required from six to eight men to handle. The new "gridiron" is 3ft. 8in. higher from the stage than the old one, being now at an altitude of 64ft. This will enable the larger scenes to be taken right up out of the sight of the audience. Beneath the stage the alterations are being made on an extensive scale. Wooden joists have given place to steel ones, and an iron gangway is suspended from the floor where once there was a structure of wood. This transformation has rendered the Drury-lane stage, which measures 78ft. from the footlights to the back, one of the most perfectly fireproof structures in the kingdom. All the old wooden traps have been removed, for them being substituted metal devices connected with intersecting galleries made of steel. A clearance has been made of the hempen ropes and nothing but steel wire is now employed. The gallery and balcony have each been extended by the addition of two rows of seats in the middle portion, and both these parts of the house have been given a sharper incline, to afford a better view of the stage. And the corridors of gallery and balcony are being raised to meet the new level, while the walls have been broken away in order to remove the refreshment bars from the corridors and push them back into fireproof recesses. There will be a dozen different exits from the back of the house to the street, and the dressing-room on the ground floor will be used as a stalls refreshment buffet. Offices for the management are being erected above Vinegar-yard. The improvements described will cost from £25,000 to £30,000. The requirements of the County Council have been met without the necessity of using two separate sources of supply, the Charing-cross and Strand Electric Supply Association being able to supply distinct installations from one controlling station.

A short time before the commencement of the alterations the proprietors secured from the Duke of Bedford a forty-year extension of the lease, which has now some seventy odd years to run. That the attitude of the theatre company towards the London County Council in opposing all suggested alterations which were considered vexatious or unnecessary was warranted, is abundantly proved by the fact that they have been spared by arbitration an outlay of £15,000, the difference between the total cost of the London County Council suggestions and the actual work ordered to be done by the arbitrator.

On Monday rehearsals of The White Cat will begin at the theatre, the iron curtain being lowered to shut out the noise of the workmen in the auditorium.

THE MEANING OF "THE TEMPEST."

MR BEERBOHM TREE, in presiding in the afternoon of the 18th inst. at a special lecture, given at the Polytechnic, Regent-street, by Mr J. Churton Collins, on Shakespeare's play of "The Tempest: Its Philosophy and Significance," said that some of those present might be aware, though it might have been kept from them in the newspapers, that he had recently endeavoured to present the play of The Tempest in a practical way to the public. In doing so he had sought to make Shakespeare sufficiently clear to the understanding and common sense of the audience. He had occasion recently to remark that whatever tended to quicken the imagination of an audience was legitimate on the stage, and he believed that whatever tended to detract from that illusion was reprehensible in art. That was the limit which was set to the duty of the stage manager. He was, of course, quite aware that there were many literary persons who had objections to that modern way of interpreting Shakespeare; but an author must live in his own time, and who was so modern as Shakespeare? To an audience of to-day educated up to a certain standard, anything which fell short of that standard must be distracting. At any rate, he thought that whatever might be the shortcomings of the representations, if they brought home to the public a more vivid appreciation of our great national poet they were excusable; and he was sure that at no time had Shakespeare been so popular as he was to-day, when so many books about him were being circulated.

MR CHURTON COLLINS said two great allegories ran through Shakespeare's marvellous work of The Tempest. In the first of these was shadowed forth the Christian conception of the relation of God to man and of the Divine government. In the other—a very pathetic allegory—the poet seemed to identify himself with his taking leave of active life, and even of the world itself. That was the point which he wished chiefly to put before his hearers. Between the years 1603 and 1610, Shakespeare confined himself almost entirely to the study of life in its saddest aspects. He looked the facts of life steadily in the face in the light of the philosophy of Christianity, and the existence of a God ruling the world not merely in justice and righteousness, but in benevolence, forgiveness, and mercy, not only towards individuals, but towards all. There was, withal, a singular absence of religious unction in Shakespeare. There was every probability that The Tempest was the last work he wrote—its composition belonging to, perhaps, the end of 1612 or the beginning of 1613. In the mysterious island of the play we saw represented an image of the world almost before man came upon it, and in the characters that figured in the play a representation of nearly all the leading types of humanity, set forth with a remarkable harmony. In describing the leading characteristics of the dramatis personæ, Mr Collins suggested that Prospero was intended to symbolise the great poet himself in the views he desired, in his latest work, to put forward.

MR TREE, in acknowledging a vote of thanks to the Chair, conveyed the thanks of the audience to Mr Collins, remarking that, as for himself, he would leave the place with a deeper interest in The Tempest than he had before.

The scene of Das Thal des Lebens is laid in a country village. A christening festivity is about to take place, and the grandmothers are making preparations. A peculiar feature of the life of the village is that free love reigns supreme; most of the children are born out of wedlock, and the mothers go to the adjacent town as wet-nurses to the nobility, thereby bringing money to the home. The lovers, however, are absolutely true to one another, and the girls are proud of their children, and also that they are instrumental in improving the race of the town-born weaklings. An old fiddler who has come to the feast says the Markgraf has decreed that all immorality shall cease in his kingdom, and that his minister is coming to the village to put a stop to their way of living. When the lovers, with the clergyman and neighbours, are feasting and the fun is fast and furious, the minister and troops arrive and denounce the "terrible state of things," and insist that from now forth only legal marriages may be contracted. The women are furious; Hans as a father is offended, protects his mistress, insults the minister, and is arrested and carried off by the troops, leaving his Lisbeth and all friends unhappy in the village and determined to be revenged.

In the second act five months have elapsed, and we are in the palace of the Markgraf. The clergyman from the country village comes to intercede for Hans, who has not been allowed to return home, but is a soldier in the town. Lisbeth has come with him, anxious to get a glimpse of her lover. The Markgraf has the officer of the regiment called, and Hans is brought before him and asked why he wishes to leave the regiment. He answers, "because he is always with dull, old people, and besides, no one in the Royal guard may marry." Lisbeth, who is hiding in an ante-room, hears Hans' voice and rushes out; they embrace and kiss, to the utter disgust of the Markgraf, who now remembers the whole history of their illegal relations. He decrees that Hans shall not return home, but must remain, and is to do special duty before the Margravine's apartments. Lisbeth shrieks and screams, and is only quiet when Hans caresses her. The pastor begs the Markgraf to let the two marry as they now wish to, but he remains stern. A great feeling of envy is shown when the Markgraf hears of Hans' sturdy son, he himself being childless. Unless an heir is born the Principality will go to Prussia. A scene between the Markgraf and his consort, a young, pretty woman, now follows, in which he takes affectionate farewell of her, as he is leaving town for a few days. He tells her that as her bodyguard she will have a young man—"a young man with a peculiar reputation;" he can only whisper what he is, it is too fearful to say aloud—he is called "king of the wet-nurses!" She is shocked, but evidently amused; and when the Markgraf leaves her rejoices with her old lady-in-waiting on the new sensation and delight in store for her—a youth, and a naughty one; what a treat in all her dulness!

In the third act the Margravine is seen in her apartments in the palace. She hears the guard outside, and sends the lady-in-waiting to bring the young man to her. He refuses to leave his post, and she goes to fetch him herself. She is delighted with his youth, beauty, and freshness, and she impresses him most favourably. They laugh and joke, and flirt together. Hans tells her he is a watchmaker by trade, and when the commanding officer comes to reprove him for deserting his post and threatens punishment, the Margravine says she has ordered him up to look at her clock. She wishes him to take up his quarters in a kiosk in the garden, of which she will have the key, and he is to be exempt from military duties. She then tells Hans she and he are the only young people in the castle; but she rejoices in his society. He is only too willing. At length she bids him "Au revoir."

Nine months have elapsed when act four opens. We are again in the village, from which now all happiness is fled. Cannon shots are heard—a hundred and one guns—and the old fiddler says, "Now you will believe me, a young prince is born! Now joy will return to our village, for the Prince must have a wet-nurse, and only here can one be found! I know the Markgraf is coming to-day." Lisbeth, dejected and miserable, appears. She has not heard of Hans for nine months, when one dread day they heard he had escaped from the castle and left the country. Putz comforts her, and says he will soon come back. From the hillside Hans comes towards the village, and is welcomed by the fiddler. He is much interested and amused to hear of the birth of a Prince, inquires after Lisbeth, and is overjoyed when she appears. They embrace and kiss; he tells her he is in business just over the frontier, and she and the boy are to join him. She wants to know what he has been doing all the time; has he been true to her, and how did he succeed in escaping? He has been moderately faithful, and is reluctant to say how he got away from the castle, hinting that feminine influence was at work. They both go indoors to see their boy. The Markgraf, cheerful as becomes a proud and happy father, arrives to tell the good news in the village, and discovers Hans, the deserter, who tries to evade him by climbing up a tree. The Markgraf says he will pardon him if he will come down on his honour as a father. Hans seems doubtful as to the truth of his statement of fatherhood, though there may be an heir, but he comes down nevertheless. The old clergyman says they will all be jolly together, as they all belong to one family, and of this, at any rate, Hans seems sure. Lisbeth and Hans embrace and are happy. The Markgraf has come to find a wet-nurse, and is told no such thing exists since his edict, neither have there been free love unions or marriages in the valley. What can be done? Since time immemorial the young princes have been nursed by girls from this valley. Slowly seven girls advance. "So there are nurses after all," he exclaims, "although I forbade such unions. What shall be the penalty?" he asks his minister. "Death," is the reply. "Yes," says the Markgraf, "but, I am too pleased to have found my nurse. Let us dance and sing." The old fiddler plays up, and the curtain falls.

The acting was of a high order, Rosie Grawz—an altogether delightfully natural and captivating actress—Hans Andresen, and Hans Stock excelled themselves, and a special word of praise is due to Herr Behrend for his thoroughly efficient production of the play, which was received with warm favour.

MR EDITOR,—Sir,—In your issue of to-day, you mention Gertrude Walton as playing the leading part in The Voice of the People at the Dalston Theatre. It should have been, yours faithfully, GERTRUDE F. GODART. Dalston Theatre, N., Nov. 19.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

The many friends of Mr Walter Gibbons will be sorry to hear that his only child is lying so dangerously ill that but faint hopes are entertained of her recovery. The grief and anxiety of Mrs Gibbons have unhappily caused her to be seriously indisposed. We tender our sincere sympathy to the young couple—a sympathy that we feel sure will be shared by a large number of our readers.

Mr Harry Randall, whose leading position in the profession justifies his election as president of the Music Hall Artistes' Railway Association, has been on the stage for nearly a quarter of a century. In his early youth he was a chorister, and the love of sentimental singing stuck to him until, by a mere accident, he tried a comic song, and elicited the opinion, uttered by a good-natured friend, that he was funny, and he has been funny ever since. He will play a prominent part in the Drury-lane pantomime The White Cat, this being his second season at the National Theatre.

The world of variety will read with a great deal of pleasure that her Majesty the Queen, accompanied by Princess Victoria and Prince and Princess Louis of Battenberg, was present at the Alhambra on Monday night to see the performance of The Entente Cordiale. To this successful ballet divertissement has been added a tableau representing the signing of the Anglo-French peace treaty, in which, with prophetic instinct, America is included.

The reputation of Fragson, who is as great an idol of the Parisian public as Paulus was some fifteen years since, has long since reached these shores. Everybody who goes to la ville lumière returns sounding the praise of Fragson's versatility, and Mr Arthur Collins has now discovered that he is an Englishman, and has engaged him for next year's pantomime at old Drury. The English impresario saw Fragson at the Parisiana Music Hall, and wanted to secure him for this season, but as the artiste has to fulfil an engagement at the Folies-Bergère at the end of his present contract he was unable to accept. For years it has been Fragson's ambition to perform in London. He made his first appearance at a cabaret in Montmartre (a sort of free-and-easy), and afterwards went into the provinces at the magnificent salary of two francs a-night. Now he earns the honorarium of a prime minister.

The variety contracts that are now being drawn up are framed with the view of keeping as many as possible of the comedians of the halls at those establishments during the Christmas season. The engagements for pantomime have long been settled for this year, and many of our variety favourites are engaged a year or two ahead; but the threatened famine in pantomime comedians will surely be averted by timely legislation. Signs are not wanting that music-hall comedians will be recruited from the ranks of musical comedy, and several of these gentlemen, it is understood, will bridge the small gulf between the two stages by means of pantomime.

"Many persons have visited the cemetery every day since the funeral" is a sentence that occurs in the report of the superintendent of Tooting Cemetery relating to Dan Leno's funeral, which was read to the Baths and Cemetery Committee of the Lambeth Borough Council one day this week. Such is the touching tribute of the people to one who lightened the burden of their cares by wholesome laughter.

Mr R. H. Douglass, the monologue entertainer, is an excellent story-teller, as the audience at the Hotel Cecil discovered—not for the first time—on Sunday last. In his interesting lecture on "Audiences from the Artist's Point of View" he caused much laughter by his anecdote concerning a certain "star" comedian, who had, like most of us, a strong aversion to paying income-tax. In his expenditure list figured the item "Grease paint £95." Such a large amount puzzled the collector, who reminded the star that the amount put down in the last year's paper for that commodity was very much smaller. "Just so," was the reply, "but you see I am so often working at halls where there are two performances nightly. It is quite the fashion now."

Probate has been granted in London of the will of the late Mr Charles Morton, late manager of the Palace Theatre, London, the "Father of the halls." By his will, dated May 16, 1900, he named as sole executor his wife, Mrs Kate Morton, to whom he left the major portion of his estate. The estate has been returned as of a gross value of £2 078 13s., and the net personalty sworn at £1,844 9s. 11d. He left fifty guineas to each of his daughters for the purchase of some article of jewellery, and ten guineas to Alfred Beyfus, of 69, Lincoln's-inn-fields, his friend of many years standing, as a token of esteem and regard; and he appointed him to be his literary executor. Mr Beyfus alone will be entitled to decide any question or matter in connection with the publication of papers connected with the testator's life, or the book he was contemplating.

Into the sketch, Brummagem Jem, at the Palace, was introduced on Saturday night an interview between Mrs Clutterbuck and Mr James Harris (who travels in jewellery). The situation lends itself to farcical business, in which Mr Arthur Roberts finds an excellent coadjutor in Miss Alice Aynsley Cook, who plays Amanda. The sketch is played nightly to the accompaniment of roars of laughter.

Mr Nat Clifford, who has been diverting the Cornstalks in Melbourne, Sydney, and other cities of Australia, returned from the land of the Southern Cross on Monday very fit and well. It will be remembered that Mr Clifford's health gave his friends some anxiety early in the year, and while he was playing the chief comedy part in the Borough Theatre, Stratford, pantomime he had to give up. To that theatre he returns this Christmas, and will, no doubt, be heartily welcomed. The pantomime is The Forty Thieves, and Miss Claire Romaine, who is such a favourite in Stratford, will again play a prominent part.

Messrs Hopwood and Crew have acquired the publishing rights of Miss Marie Lloyd's highly-humorous latest song, entitled "Naughty! Naughty! Naughty!" which the famous comedienne is now nightly exploiting with such marked success at all her London "turns." They will produce the song in music form at an early date. It is from the joint pens of the author and composer of so many of Miss Marie Lloyd's past successes, Messrs John P. Harrington and George Le Brunn.

A good deal of romance attaches to the career of Miss Ivy Dawn, who is to play the important part of fairy queen at the Grand, Islington. She knows too well the pinch of poverty, and she was compelled to sing anywhere for a few pence. One evening, however, the fine quality and rich tone of her voice attracted the attention of a passer-by, who is a well-known composer. This gentleman took the young vocalist in hand. Soon discovering that she had a voice of extraordinary range, he arranged a year's careful instruction, with the result that when the late Mr Charles Morton heard her sing he at once gave her an immediate engagement at the Palace Theatre, and made a contract to extend over a number of years. Her reception at the Shaftesbury-avenue variety house was so encouraging that the management very soon transferred her to the leading position on the programme. Special songs by prominent composers have been written for her engagement at Christmas.

Mr S. King Alexander, late of the Gaiety Theatre, Dundee, has been appointed general manager of the Tivoli and Queen's Variety Theatres, Glasgow.

Mr Alfred Selwyn, who has so successfully managed the Pavilion Theatre, Scottish Zoo, and Glasgow Hippodrome for Mr T. Barrasford during the last ten months, has been engaged by that gentleman to manage the Lyceum Theatre, London.

The clog-dancers' contest next week at the Britannia, Glasgow, is for the Championship of Scotland, and not the world, as advertised last week by a clerical error.

As we go to press we learn that the benefit to be worthily accorded to Mr Barney Armstrong, managing director of the Tivoli and Queen's Theatres at Glasgow to-night (Friday), promises to be quite an event in the history of Glasgow music halls. Every seat has been taken at unusually high prices, a programme, including the cream of talent, has, by the kindness of his brother managers in the city been arranged, and the occasion will be quite a "red-letter day" in that gentleman's career. Mr Armstrong is very popular in "the second city," and will carry away the good wishes of the citizens for his future prosperity.

The 382nd meeting of the executive committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr W. J. P. Monckton, V.P., presiding. The appointment of Mr Frank Greves as agent in Dudley was cancelled, the services of Mr Tom Pritchard, of the Empire Palace, Dudley being retained. Nominations were received for the Trustees of the Association and also for the Hon. President. The secretary reported that sixty new members had joined during the past week, making the total number enrolled since the commencement of 10,791.

During the first house at the Empress, Hartlepool, on Monday, some youths in the gallery were somewhat unruly, and Councillor Everton, the proprietor, whose geniality is often in such cases more successful in bringing about the desired effect than the presence of his numerous gallery officials, proceeded to the domain of the gods to use his influence in quieting the disturbers; but, unfortunately, in the act of pacifying the offenders the popular "Bob" dislocated his knee. With assistance Councillor Everton was conveyed to his home, where he received the surgical attentions of Dr. De Jong. Upon inquiry later we learned that Mr Everton was progressing favourably.

On Saturday evening, at the New Prince's Theatre, Horwich, a packed house witnessed a grand clog dancing performance by Mr T. H. Fox, who was billed to attempt to lower Dan Leno's record of 222 half steps in eight bars. The judges were Mr John Walsh, of Dublin; Mr J. Rigby, Bolton; Mr Alf Tweedale, of Manchester; and Mr Tod Squires, all well-known exponents of step dancing, assisted by Mr John Power, of The Master Criminal company. The unanimous verdict was that Mr Fox made 228 half steps in the eight bars, thus beating the record by six. Afterwards Master Allen Price, aged eleven years, gave an exhibition of step dancing. This youth will very shortly be heard of, and has a great future before him, his steps being very neat.

Dr. Walford Bodie finished a phenomenal twelve nights' engagement with his own company on Saturday at the Palace Theatre, Glasgow, where he has broken all records. The Palace is one of the largest theatres out of London, and was packed nightly to the doors at both houses, over 8,000 people paying nightly for admission. So great was the nightly crush that overflow tickets had to be issued. This is the Doctor's sixteenth visit to Glasgow, but his popularity still seems to be on the increase, for close on 100,000 persons paid for admission during the two weeks. The takings amounted nearly to the large sum of £1,400.

As Miss Fanny Robina was leaving the Empire, Birmingham, on Saturday night, a little fellow ran after her and asked her if she would accept a small present from a gallery boy. He then gave her a parcel, for which Miss Fanny Robina graciously thanked him, and asked him to call on her on Sunday morning. On reaching home she found the packet contained a beautiful fret-work frame covered with coloured silk, with the words cut out in white letters round a photo in centre: "Presented to Fanny Robina." The gift will be hung at the halls where Miss Robina will appear. There is no need to say that the popular lady will highly prize this souvenir from a gallery boy admirer (made by himself) When he called on Sunday the little fellow said he did not want money, but only a photo signed by Fanny Robina. He said he cut the photo out of a penny song-book, which he framed in his own ingenious way.

It will be remembered that recently a Sunday concert was held at Collins's Hippodrome, Stoke-on-Trent, when a cheque for a handsome sum was handed to the retiring Mayor. On Thursday the present Mayor, Mr Riseley, together with many of the magistracy and council, attended at the saloon of the "Hip." and presented to Mr P. Collins an illuminated address and vote of thanks for his kindness in giving the use of his establishment, and to Mr Frank Egerton for the hearty and indefatigable manner in which he "worked up" the very successful affair. The incident had a pleasant termination in "Success to Charity" and "God Save the King."

Many persons in Wolverhampton remember Dan Leno in the early stages of his career, when he appeared at the old Boot and Star Concert Hall, now the Empire Palace, in Queen-square, as the champion clog-dancer, his champion belt being exhibited in the window.

Miss Ada Alexandra was prevented, through indisposition, from fulfilling her engagement at Bolton this week. She has gone to Southsea and Plymouth to recuperate, and will resume business with her Merry Dutch Girls in a fortnight.

Miss Margaret Ashton, the popular American soprano, who was this week to have fulfilled an important engagement at the Empire Palace, Liverpool, has, owing to severe nervous prostration, been ordered by her London physician a complete rest. Her many admirers will learn with regret of her enforced absence from the stage, and it is to be hoped that she may speedily recover in time to undertake her forthcoming Irish tour. She is at present confined to her rooms at the Hotel Metropole, London.

The Ameen Abou Hamad Troupe of acrobats are fulfilling a most successful engagement at the Palace Theatre, where their act causes much surprise and induces the somewhat phlegmatic stallites to become quite enthusiastic. A great deal of ingenuity is displayed by these sons of the desert in their wonderful pyramids. Each member of the Troupe bears a part in the series of graceful groupings, and the top-mounters climb like cats to the shoulders of their stalwart comrades. No sooner has one formation been applauded than the swarthy acrobats commence another, which seems even more difficult and more ingenious than the last. In their tumbling work the Arabs display wonderful smartness and astonishing agility in their somersaults, handsprings, and pirouettes. They are intensely earnest in their work, and their cries of encouragement one to the other are very amusing.

The Middlesex carnival on Thursday evening drew an immense crowd to the people's hall in Drury-lane, and Mr J. L. Graydon and his son, Mr Laurie Graydon, were heartily congratulated by a large contingent of managers, proprietors, agents, and other people prominent in the music hall world. The specially printed programme was made more than usually interesting by a couple of facsimiles of Middlesex bills. One, bearing the date Oct. 5, 1885, contains the following announcement: —"First appearance in London of Dan Leno, the great British comic vocalist and present champion dancer of the world." The second facsimile was of a bill dated Nov. 23, 1891, which was headed by "the inimitable vocal and patter comedian Dan Leno, in all his latest successes;" and contained also the names of G. H. Chirgwin and George Robey "in his latest successful songs."

It will be seen by these reprints that Mr Graydon has always been abreast of the latest novelties in variety, and the anniversary bill contained no less than 140 names, including the cream of the profession. A special item, announced for "one night only" was entitled The Gathering of the Clans; or, I Am the Other, by Messrs Laurie Graydon and Clifford. The scene was the reception room of Mr John Lawson, who was supposed to have invited several of the stars of the music hall firmament to dine with him—among them George Robey, Joe Elvin and R. G. Knowles. These characters were to be played by Messrs Syd May, Charles Norton, Charles Austin, Tom Stuart, and others. Marie Lloyd was one of the star turns on Thursday, and her welcome from the Middlesex boys was as robust and hearty as when she first entertained them during her teens. She was presented by Mr Graydon with some very handsome bouquets.

Other artistes included Burt Atherton, Rosie Bartlett, Ernie Williams, Atroy, Maudie Ford, Syd Godfrey, Datas, Viola, Dolly M'Calla, Herbert Rule the sketch, The Order of the Bath, Geo. Antill, Sisters Edwards, Burley and Burley, Walter Wallis, Lina Verdi, Sisters Wingrove, M'Naughtons, Starr and Leslie, Dorothy Clark, Johnny Alexander and company, Nina Martino, Will Evans, Martine and Son, Julia Mackey, Esmeralda, Sisters Desmond, Alice Lloyd, the Poluskis, Kate Cutler, the Three Rayes, Harry Tate's Motoring, Gipsy Wolf and company, Lottie Lennox, Nat Travers, Irene Meldon, Harry Cotten, Arthur Prince, Princess Pauline, Dot Hardy, Harrigan and Holt, George Robey, Gilbert Girard, and The Gathering of the Clans. The stage-manager was Mr C. E. Chapman (from R. Warner and Co.), assisted by Mr Sam Hart.

After the curtain had fallen on the Water Rats matinée at the London Pavilion on Monday, at six, the thanks of the fraternity were conveyed to Mr Frank Glenister, to whom was given a pair of handsome silver-framed mirrors; to Mr William Cobbett, to whom was handed a set of fruit cutlery; to Mr Bond Sayers, the orchestral chief, who was endowed with a case of razors; and to Mr Adolf Tressider, the stage-manager, who was particularly pleased with the tantalus spirit stand presented to him. The loyal and indefatigable assistance of these gentlemen did much for a matinée that seems to grow in popularity each year.

Mr Frank Weeks is always prominent in charitable work, and his New Year entertainment for the poor children of Southwark will take place at the South London on Friday afternoon, Jan. 6, 1905. It will be under the patronage of Mr R. K. Causton, M.P., who will be supported by the mayor, aldermen, and councillors of Southwark. This is the third year that Mr Weeks has busied himself in organising a treat for the children at the South London. His example might be followed in other parts of London.

Mr Harry Bawn, the manager of the Grand, Clapham, has hung an illuminated scene, which was painted for the children's pantomime at the old hall some years since by the lamented Mr Dan Leno. It forms a pretty stage setting for the accomplished dancer My Fancy, and was received on Monday with enthusiasm and admiration.

Mr Hannen Swaffer, the song-writer and journalist, has been commissioned to write a series of stories about music hall life. The first of the series bears the title, "The Story of the Bogus Star." The latest of Mr Swaffer's song successes is "You are a little white girl," which is being eagerly snapped up by pantomime producers, and with which Miss Winifred Hare has made a great hit.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs Blanchett, the mother of Mr George Belmont, who passed away on Sunday at an advanced age at her residence at Barkham-terrace, Kennington. The remains of the deceased lady were interred on Friday. Mr Belmont is now located at the Alma, Hoxton, a neighbourhood that teems with toilers. Entertainments are given twice weekly, and artistes of budding promise are afforded a chance of showing their quality. It was at similar establishments in the seventies that some of our present stars made their first appearance.

That clever little lady Miss Venie Clements has been engaged by Mr John Hart to play principal girl, Jill, in Mother Goose, at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, this Christmas. For the past three years she has made a conspicuous success, playing principal girl at Fulham, Glasgow, and Stratford.

A remarkable boy singer, Master Tom Cruwys, has appeared this week at the Alhambra. He is a scholar of St. Paul's, Hammersmith, and has just turned the age of twelve. He has a voice of sweet quality and remarkable range, and his high notes are particularly clear.

Our readers will regret to hear that Mr J. P. Graham (of Graham and Vine), succumbed to consumption last Sunday. In the days of duologue sketches, some fifteen or twenty years since, the names of Graham and Vine were often found in the programmes of the leading London variety halls, but the newer generation knew them not.

Mr Harrison Brockbank, who has recently been playing Captain Lovebury in The New Barmaid on tour, has returned to the London Pavilion, where he is presenting, with very great success, his new nautical scena, entitled Sea Chanties.

Mr Pat Doherty is specially engaged by Mr George Davey to appear in the Palace scene during the run of the Grand, Islington, pantomime, in a new chorus song, written and composed by W.T. Gliddon, the conductor of the orchestra, entitled "The Irish Dude." This is Pat's fourth engagement since June at the Grand, where he seems to be a big favourite.

Day's Variety Agency, of Effingham House, Arundel-street, Strand, must indeed be a busy firm. What with booking exclusively for the Bedford and five provincial halls, including the South coast, Yarmouth, and Southport, the business seems to be exceedingly promising.

Mr Charles Cunningham, of V.C. sketch fame, has written and will produce (in conjunction with Mr H. Howard), a new romantic episode entitled The King's Hat, which will be in one scene, playing twenty-five minutes. The initial performance takes place on Monday, Dec. 12, at the Hackney Empire.

The youngest daughter of Harry Wright and Nellie Gannon has made a successful début as a low comedy artiste at the Westminster, Liverpool. She will be known as Miss Peggy Fame.

Mr Pat Carey desires to state that he has resigned his position on the committee of the Music Hall Artistes' Railway Association.

The date of the opening of the Grand Theatre, Fulham, as a variety house has not yet been decided, and the announcements that the house will start on its new career on Monday are incorrect. Arrangements are being made as rapidly as possible, but no definite date has been fixed.

At the meeting of the Music Hall Sick Fund on Wednesday, Mr Pat Carey, president, in the chair, it was announced that good progress was being made with the arrangements for the benefit entertainment in aid of the expenses of administration to be given at Collins's on Friday evening, Dec. 9. Among the artistes who have promised their services are Mr Gus Elen, Mr Harry Tate, Mr George Mozart, Mr Harry Ford, Mr Dan Thomas, and the M'Naughtons. The Terriers, individually and collectively, have also announced their intention of supporting the benefit.

A large contingent of the Canonbury Club, of which Mr Harry Randall, the new president of the M.H.A.R.A., is a popular member, will occupy a number of boxes and stalls at Collins's on the night, and Mr Charles Hector, the genial manager of the Islington-green house, is actively engaged, in conjunction with the secretary, in promoting the success of the affair. Mr Will Oliver has kindly consented to act as stage-manager, and Mr Frank Heath, the hon. treasurer, and members of the committee will be "in front" to look after the comfort of the visitors. We may add that the Music Hall Sick Fund was founded many years since for the purposes of thrift and provision in time of illness by artistes for artistes, and from very small beginnings has accumulated a capital of £1,200, which has lately been invested in Consols. It has the reputation, which is thoroughly deserved, of being the most economically administered friendly society in existence.

This year the production of the pantomime Cinderella at the Alexandra Theatre, Mr F. W. Purcell's Stoke Newington house, will be by arrangement with Mr Fred Karno. Miss Winifred Hare, who has been in former years principal boy at the Coronet, Notting-hill, will play the part of the Prince, and Miss Godwynne Earle will be the cinder-wench heroine. Mr Neil Kenyon, a Scotch comedian, whom we are likely to hear at the principal London halls, will be seen in a chief comedy part; and Mr William Gourlay, a nimble dancer; and Messrs Fletch and Palmer will also appear. The two last-named gentlemen were discovered by Mr Karno in America.

Mr G. H. Elliott, the "Chocolate-Coloured Coon," just prior to his departure into the provinces last week purchased the sole singing rights of a new song, the locale of which is laid in South America, with the title of "De Independent Coon," which he will produce at the Tivoli and other foremost London halls on his return to town on Boxing Day. The ear-haunting melody to this lyric of the prairie has been composed by Miss Adrienne Nivloch, a lady composer, who, although new to the music halls, is well known in Bedford musical circles, and the appropriate words have been specially written for Mr Elliott by the ubiquitous Mr John P. Harrington.

Miss Marie Weston whilst travelling from Leeds to Hanley last Sunday had rather a novel experience. Leaving Leeds she got into a third-class compartment which she thought to be empty. After having travelled some considerable distance, however, she discovered a little boy under the carriage seat. She asked him to come out and explain why he was there. Whilst he was explaining she heard someone laugh, and on looking under the seat again she discovered two more boys and a girl, making four in all. They were in a filthy and ragged condition. They told her that they got into the carriage at Bradford and were going to Staffordshire. None of them had tickets. The youngest was about three years of age and the eldest (the girl) about eight. At the next stopping station Miss Weston gave them in charge of the guard, who handed them over to the station-master.

At the grand matinée which takes place at the Alhambra on Thursday, Dec. 8, on behalf of the rebuilding fund of St. Bartholomew's Hospital the following well-known artistes, amongst many others, have kindly consented to appear:—Misses Sybil Arundale, Mabel Love, Maggie Duggan, Marie Lloyd, Topsy Sinden, Marie Studholme, Harriet Vernon, and Messrs Rutland Barrington, Louis Bradfield, C. Hayden Coffin, Dutch Daly, Gus Elen, Seymour Hicks, George Mozart, Arthur Roberts, George Robey, Fred Russell, Ernest Shand, Harry Tate, and Little Tich. The souvenir programme, which will be sold by leading actresses on this occasion, will contain stories and sketches by celebrated writers and artists.

The present popularity of the Folies Bergère is undoubtedly due to the efforts of those kings of merrymakers Billy Reeves—whose amusing performance has been recently criticised in these columns—and to W. C. Fields—whose comic juggling is the best that has been seen. He is a true comedian; very neat and quick in his work—so neat, in fact, that the majority of the audience do not appreciate the difficulty of the work he does. They are too busy roaring at his comicalities. His billiard playing is marvellous, and the "break" he makes rouses envy in the hearts of all lovers of this fascinating and scientific game. All who desire a hearty laugh should hurry up, as Mr Fields is leaving shortly for Manchester, where a part has been sufficiently written in for him, or rather where a space has been left for him to introduce his specialities at the Prince's pantomime. Later Klaw and Erlanger, the American managers, have engaged him. We are not to see Mr Fields back in Paris until 1907. The other notable number in the bill is the Novellos, a troupe of excellent acrobats, who make a fine display with an elephant, several ponies, some Indian servants, and some remarkably clever little boys who do some smart hand balancing. The Bobby Pandurs are always favourites. They are very clever equilibrists. The Two Therons are good bicyclists; the girl is, as before, by far the better rider of the two.

There is an excellent programme at the Casino this week. Mason and Bart give us a new number. Mason is dressed as Captain Kettle, and gives an amusing sketch of that popular hero of fiction, besides an admirable display as an acrobat and athlete. Some of his tricks are not only very daring and clever, but they are new. His partner, made up like an ape, is equally amusing, and is also a very fine acrobat. Horace Goldin gives some smart conjuring tricks and some interesting illusions, his trunk trick is well arranged and admirably executed. Fraed is a good ventriloquist, and his dolls are very human; Eleonora La Bella presents a series of Spanish dances; the Hermance are amusing in their table acrobatics, diverting the audience immensely by the indolent air with which they accomplish very clever tricks. The pantomime Feminissima is too trivial for words, and needs no description. A good word must be said, however, for the miming of Maris Duberny as the amorous schoolboy.

The new Revue at the Scala delights Parisiens, but puzzles foreigners. It has the usual innumerable tableaux, the same old, old music, the same processions, and the same fatigued chorus ladies, who condescend to do nothing save wear their fragmentary costumes with nonchalance. French artists unknown across the channel form the company.

THE LONDON COLISEUM.

The New Coliseum in St. Martin's-lane, which is to be opened in a few weeks, will be the largest building of the kind in the metropolis. The building has an imposing frontage to St. Martin's-lane, and extends back to Bedfordbury. Surmounting the front of the stone building is a lofty tower in beautiful mosaics. To right and left, and above the spacious main entrance, are tea and reading rooms and lounges. Anyone who wishes to combine business with pleasure will find at his hand a telephone exchange, a staff of typists to whom letters can be dictated, and abundant messengers.

In the interior the seating accommodation has been arranged in three tiers, each of which may be reached by lifts as well as by staircases. These balconies running round the building have been devised in such a way that even in the topmost one a perfect view of the stage can be had. Each seat in the three tiers is cushioned and divided from the rest by arms, and each, from the highest priced to the lowest is numbered, and can be reserved. The fronts of the balconies are in marble. In the central position on the ground floor, facing the stage, is the Royal box, which forms a conspicuous feature of the auditorium, into which it slightly projects beyond the other stalls and boxes. The width of the front is nearly twelve feet, and is carried out in polished white marble, with handsomely moulded balustrading, plinths, and rail, and panelled sides At either side are continuous panelled and moulded pedestals, in the same material, for supporting sculptured figures. The canopy over the box consists of elaborate fibrous plaster work, with the Royal Crown as a terminal, and is supported on highly polished white marble columns. High above the auditorium is an immense dome-shaped roof, brilliantly lighted, and provided with ventilating apparatus. The prevailing colours of the decorations are white and gold. Gilden chariots, drawn by teams of lions, surmount the topmost boxes next to the proscenium. On either side of the auditorium, close to the stage, are two large boxes on the ground level, and these are to be used by the vocalists who have been engaged to contribute the choruses in the musical portions of the entertainments. Some three thousand people will find seating accommodation in the vast building.

The proscenium opening has a frontage of 55ft., the stage immediately behind being 120ft. in width. The stage is really three moving platforms in the form of concentric rings. The outer table is 75ft. in diameter, the intermediate 50ft., and the centre table 25ft. Each table is mounted independently upon a ring of carrying wheels, some of which are driven by electric motors. These immense rings move with almost mathematical precision, and can be made to revolve at a rate of twenty miles an hour. These are to be used in securing panoramic effects, which are to be a special feature of the beautiful spectacles to be seen at the new theatre. Various ingenious and novel devices have been introduced for the movement of scenery, and, as far as the mechanical appliances are concerned, they are of the most complete description.

Four performances are to take place daily, commencing at noon, an interval of an hour occurring between each. The first and third and the second and fourth will be similar. Among the forthcoming spectacular effects is a representation of warfare in the Far East, and a realistic reproduction of the race for the Derby. Mr Walter Slaughter has been engaged as director of music, and Mr Maurice Jacobi will be one of the conductors. Mr Arthur Sturgess, Captain Basil Hood, Mr Hickory Wood, and Mr Roland Carse will write lyrics and duologues for the establishment. Mr Oswald Stoll, the managing-director, has engaged a large staff, including Mr Marshall Moore as general director of staff and producer, Mr Frank Harrison as stage-manager, Mr John Donald as acting-manager, Messrs Bruce Smith and Hicks as scenic artists, Mr Will Bishop as ballet master, Mr Sidney Ash as master of the horse, and Mr Thomas Coates as Press representative.

ELECTION OF COMMITTEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I am instructed by the Executive Committee of this Association to inform you that, at a meeting held yesterday, a hearty vote of thanks was unanimously passed to you for your great kindness in receiving the voting papers for the recent election of the committee at your office.

Yours faithfully, C. DOUGLAS STUART,
Secretary, Music Hall Artistes' Railway Association.
28, Wellington-street, Strand, London, W.C., Nov. 23.

Mr Will Murray took his benefit at the Palace Theatre, Blackburn on Friday, the 18th, and was rewarded with two crowded houses. There was a large array of professional and local talent, and amongst the "extra turns" was Mr Alec Hurley, who travelled specially from Liverpool for the occasion. During the second house Mr Phil Ray came on to the stage and made a short speech, in which he enumerated the good qualities of the bénéficiaire, and also said that he had been desired by his brother and sister artistes to mention how very comfortable they had always been made on their visits to Blackburn. Mr Ray then made several presentations to Mr Murray. They consisted of a purse of gold from the artistes, some friends, and the staff, a handsome gold mounted walking stick from a well-known patron of the palace, and a case of silver fish carvers from the staff to Mrs Murray. In a short speech, Mr Murray said that such large houses showed, he thought, that his efforts as a manager had been appreciated. He then briefly thanked the donors of the presents, and also the audience.

Mdlle. Nadji, termed the "queen of equipoise," is finishing her engagement this week at the Alhambra, where, by the way, she is re-engaged for two dates by Mr Geo. Scott. We have commented before upon this charming young lady's refined and graceful act, which in its particular line is not excelled. Miss Nadji had the honour on Monday of appearing before Queen Alexandra and other members of the Royal Family.

Messrs C. W. Murphy and Dan Lipton have this week sold to Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter two of Mr Joe O'Gorman's songs. One is the much admired "When Kitty comes home from the play," the other being an intensely funny song, written to take the place of the singer's famous "Three men went out a-hunting."

Mr Norman French will shortly produce at the London Pavilion a wildly eccentric dude song, written and composed by C. W. Murphy and Dan Lipton. This firm has also supplied Miss Ruth Lytton with a polyglot song, which she will doubtless sing during her Drury-lane pantomime engagement.

Mr Harry Blake will shortly produce a new scena, a sequel to his "Hiawatha," with which, it will be remembered, he scored so great a success in London and the provinces. In the new production "Hiawatha" is married and settled. Minnehaha, his squaw, carries a "papoose" slung at her back, and domestic joy reigns supreme. The Indian, however, has some stirring lines, in which he protests as a son of the soil against the appropriation of the land of his forefathers by the paleface. The verses are from the pen of Mr Voyce (of Verno and Voyce).

Messrs N. Witmark and Sons desire us to state that the exclusive rights of the song, "The Coonville Band," were given to Miss Alexandra Dagmar when the song first came from America in 1903.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE BEDFORD.

Mr B. Pearce Lucas is an advocate of constancy to change, and with the laudable desire to give his Camden Town patrons the best that is to be obtained in the variety market, is presenting the great magic kettle act, "direct from the Palace Theatre, London," and large audiences during this week have shown an immense amount of interest in the scientific demonstrations. The lecturer, whose name is not given on the programme, is careful to assure the spectators that there is neither conjuring nor illusion in the wonders displayed, and proceeds to "poach" eggs, make ice-creams, wash a pocket-handkerchief in a hat, and harden cranberries with the liquid air that "steams" so copiously from the wonderful kettle. It boils so merrily on a block of ice, and even blows its own trumpet. The exhibition is a most interesting one, and some of the speculative theories as to how it is done, which were uttered on the night of our visit, were particularly amusing. It shows a very remarkable advance in the character of the Bedford audiences—which, in former days, had a reputation for rowdyism—that they should so thoroughly appreciate a scientific demonstration. The humour of the halls has an early exponent in Mr Harry Pleon, who makes amusing capital out of a piece of nonsense, written by himself, and entitled How to Make a Book. It is a duologue, in which Mr Tom Kent, jun., "feeds" the comedian. The instructions about laying the odds, and the expressions a "stumer" and a "skinner" are supposed to be Greek to the amateur "bookie," and the remarks about the various favourites and their performances afford plenty of opportunity to the little comedian, who is a great favourite with the Bedford folk. Miss Katie Butler, who is termed "the coming comedienne," has a very clever notion of domestic humour, which she displays to considerable advantage in her song "Nosey Parker"—a slang term that suggests a knowing person who is given to meddling with other people's business. "Nosey" in this instance, however, seems to know a good deal, and her revelations are droll enough to cause the greatest hilarity. Miss Nellie Navette, one of the most charming and accomplished dancers on the variety stage, appears in a particularly fetching costume to sing of the "dandy boys," a crowd full of the "joy of living," and then, in her own sweet way, exhibits the art in which she stands facile princeps. Grace and elegance of pose and delightful facility of step are the chief characteristics of Miss Navette's solo, which it is a delight to watch. Miss Marguerite Broadfoote, a pretty cantratrice, sings of Harry and Carry, who marry and go to Paree, and the play on the words is worthy of Mr Harry Hunter, who was responsible for the celebrated "I saw Esau kissing Kate." In another song Miss Broadfoote has some amusing parodies of well-known nursery rhymes. Mr Gilbert Girard gives a series of clever instrumental imitations—that of the Jew's harp being remarkably deceiving. His mimicry of animals and birds is also very amusing, especially the peacock, the rooster, and the donkey. For the best amateur copyist of Mr Girard a prize was to be given on Friday. Miss Raffin's monkeys are docile little creatures, whose trapeze and barrel performances demonstrate the immense patience that has been expended on their training, and other turns on the bill are Arthur Boyne, who possesses hereditary talent as a comedian; Tray and Rich, black and white comedians, who are excellent dancers; and Michel and Polo, whose smart gladiatorial athletics are very much to the taste of the audience. The Imperial Bioscope has some excellent pictures of a burglary at a bank and the arrest of the delinquents. Mr A. F. Lovesey's supervision of the entertainment and management of the house give the greatest satisfaction.

THE STANDARD.

Constant and undeviating fidelity is shown by the patrons of the Standard, for the delectation of whom Mr T. S. Dickie always prepares an entertainment of the best and brightest, the result being that the comfortable hall opposite the Victoria terminus is invariably thronged with a crowded and well-pleased audience. Appreciation is early secured in this week's programme by Miss Marcelle Eirle, a lady who sings in praise of "The Mazy Waltz," and also has a number that wins applause in "A Soldier of Japan." That popular Irish comedian, Mr Pat Carey, is received with a cordiality that is reserved for old favourites, and has a humorous and telling ditty in "They were all Irish;" his rendering of the rollicking "Bedella," and his accompanying dance, being loudly acclaimed. Miss Cecil a Maude a vocal comedienne with a good voice and appearance, has a well-written and interesting song quite out of the usual line in "It's pluck not luck that wins," and the ear-haunting and tuneful "Bluebell" is also admirably given by the fair vocalist, whose reception is of the most flattering description. The droll eccentric comedian Mr Lawrence Barclay has a parody on "Good-bye, little yellow bird," that is not over-burthened with humour, but he, nevertheless, contrives to move his auditors to mirth with it, so its inclusion in his répertoire is justified. Much funnier is his second number, "Yes, verily, yea," in which he appears as a clerical gentleman not averse to a mild flirtation when he gets a chance, and the song undoubtedly is made all the more ludicrous by the droll rendering given it by Mr Barclay, who is to be commended for his distinct enunciation. Another comedian who largely contributes to the gaiety of the audience is Mr George Gilbey, a funny man who gets his laughs by a quiet and unforced method which is very effective. He has a quaint and original song in "Why should I?" the drollery of which is admirably brought out, and his female impersonation, "Oh, how I've missed my little Arthur," is also a most mirth-provoking number. Little Arthur must have been a bit of a terror, for his garrulous widow in her humorous lament tells how the kitchen poker has joined the unemployed since his decease, and her tale of woe as to his eccentric behaviour generally makes for continuous merriment. That popular comedienne, Miss Kittee Rayburn, warbles with the necessary point "The Christening of the Baby," and her domestic ditty "My old man and me" likewise secures her liberal applause; and a couple of really entertaining cross-talk comedians are Williams and Brown, whose conversations concerning "Hoodid" and clever "Question" song compel laughter and win for them a most flattering reception. Sinclair and Parr, operatic vocalists, contribute one of the most-appreciated items in the programme in their vocal trifle which may be called "A Concert Rehearsal." The couple, who possess excellent voices, give a cultured rendering of a medley of popular Irish songs, and their vocalism is interspersed with remarks of a humorous nature. Brian and Lawrence, comedy duologue artistes, present a farcical playlet which makes for merriment, the gentleman being an expert whistler and a smart actor; and receiving valuable assistance from his lady partner; and Miss Alma Obrey, Australian comedienne, vocalises to the evident enjoyment of the audience, who loudly applaud her selections. The illustrated songs of Miss Belle Braham are a popular feature on any programme, and her renderings of "Just for the sake of society," a pathetic story of a neglected child, admirably pictured on the screen, and "My old Kentucky Home," showing some pretty views of the "blue grass country," are warmly acclaimed. The pictures displayed on the Animatograph include a panoramic view of the Earl's-court Exhibition, showing the water-chute and the flying machine in operation, a most realistic picture; a clever trick film, the Devil's Pot; Picking Strawberries, the Club Raid, and a Fire-Brigade Turn-out. Mr John E. Coyle, a comedian whose songs and patter can always be relied upon to amuse, and the Collinson Combination, in their burlesque absurdity, Archibald Jones, the New Hamlet, are also in the entertaining programme. Mr Maurice Volny is Mr Dickie's astute and courteous first lieutenant, and the excellent orchestra is under the careful control of Mr J. E. Turner.

SOUTH LONDON.

Infinite variety is contained in the bill-of-fare at the South London, where Mr Frank Weeks, who has had excellent practice in the management of huge crowds, has this week increased opportunities for the exercise of a wise control, such is the attractiveness of a programme bulging with items of all sorts and sizes. An element of the marvellous is secured in the performance of Prof. James Finney, who gives the feats of natation which he recently performed before the King. In company with his sister, Miss Marie Finney, who has won the distinction of "heroine of London-bridge," he goes through a series of clever tricks in the water, eating and drinking therein, the lady diving for eggs, and the professor picking up with his mouth from the bottom of the tank a quantity of coins to the number of sixty-one. His endurance under water is thoroughly tested when he goes to sleep, Miss Finney doing some graceful floating tricks meanwhile, and the admiration of the house is shown in frequent cheers. A swimming competition was arranged for Friday evening, three money prizes being offered for the best performance of three tricks set by the Professor. A Trip to Boulogne provides the Albert and Edmunds Troupe with a sketch in which the comic adventures of a couple of English tourists at a French hotel are depicted. The fun grows frantically furious during an elusive dinner, and reaches a climax when the tourists engage in what is certainly the most eccentric duel with pistols that ever occurred. The New Macs also contribute a turn upon which much laughter is expended, their smart sayings, their knockabout feats, and their skilful dancing commending them highly to popular favour. Miss Mabel Thorne long since won the hearts of the youth of South London, who wait upon her every word in the song, "If I were a millionaire," which deals drolly with the possession of wealth by various persons, but which is also turned to pathetic as well as patriotic purposes. A certain "Bill Bailey" is later sought for by the fascinating comedienne, who finds him eventually in a private box, and begs him with flattering endearments to "come home," all of which gives delight to the audience. Mr Edgar Romaine sings of "Sweethearts" of all ages, a ballad of such a tuneful nature that the entire vocal resources of the audience are enlisted in the refrain. A well-mixed mélange is submitted by the Calcotta, who impress various instruments into the service of amusement, the gentleman, who aspires to be a comedian, playing well on the banjo and piano. He is later joined by his lady partner in a 'cello and mandoline duet, the favourite "Eileen Alanah," being very sweetly discoursed. The lady has also dancing capabilities which she displays in a sand dance attached to a coon song and wins unstinted applause. A large share of popular acclaim is bestowed on the pictures shown by Ruffel's Imperial Bioscope, which includes the Funeral of the late Dan Leno. A fine view is obtained of the coffin being conveyed to the carriage and of the procession starting from the house of the lamented comedian, well-known members of the variety profession being plainly visible. Pictures of pathetic interest are also displayed in "Driven from Home," in which an angry father witnesses the meeting of his daughter and her lover, and bids his child depart. Years elapse, and the young wife is seen in her miserable room mourning the death of her husband, while a little child tries to comfort her. The next scene is a pawnbroker's, where the child brings her dolly to pledge, the broker being none other than the aged father, who, touched by the child's simplicity, takes her home to find that it is the abode of his long-absent daughter, to whom he is reconciled. A great impression is made by the pictures, which are admirably shown and vigorously cheered. Humorous films are also abundantly supplied, that of "Off for the Holidays" being productive of continuous shouts of merriment. The Three Sisters Jonghmanns blend their voices harmoniously in a song of the circus, with the refrain of "Houp-la" and dresses that suggest the sawdust ring, and later a trio of demure damsels are presented, who sing with ruthless severity of "Man," and the means of emancipation from him, executing a quaint dance in celebration thereof. Jimson's animals further supplement the programme, to which Mr Frank Boyce, comedian; the Olive Trio, and the Sisters Dorrell also contribute. Mr Charles E. Howells leads the efficient orchestra with a skilful hand.

THE BOHEMIAN TWINS.

Mr Henri Gros issued invitations to a number of members of the Press on Thursday to interview at the Metropolitan the Bohemian Twins, who will make their first appearance in London on Monday at the Edgware-road hall. This latest freak, who bears the names of Rosa-Josepha Blazek, presents one of the most extraordinary and interesting examples of twin formation. According to the doctors, they show a juncture at the hips similar to that of the well-known Hungarian sisters, Helene and Judith, but differing from the "union" that joined the Siamese twins. They are pleasant, good-tempered, cheery-looking brunettes, short in stature, and as they shook hands with Mr Gros' guests on Thursday afternoon they seemed to thoroughly enjoy the experience. They were born in the village of Skreychov, an obscure hamlet in Eastern Bohemia in 1878, so that they are twenty-six years old. Their birth caused considerable amazement among the simple peasantry, who looked upon the strangely formed freak as and evil omen, and for a long time the dwelling of the parents was shunned by the superstitious neighbours. A Brighton doctor who has seen them thinks their case absolutely unique. They have two heads, four arms, and four legs, but possess one body in common. It is difficult, therefore, to know whether to speak of them as one or two persons. We prefer the plural because they readily maintain two totally independent conversations in German and Czech—languages that both speak with fluency. They have never been known to quarrel, which proves that one has the stronger will, and one dresses the other's hair.

They never both sleep at the same time, but one head maintains a constant vigil during the repose of the other, reading or conversing in the meantime. After a lapse of about two hours, these peculiar circumstances are reversed, the watching head falling into a profound slumber immediately as the other awakes to assume the duties of sentinel.

Their peculiar and unique conformation does not in the least interfere with their activity, for they are able to run up and down stairs with wonderful celerity. They seem to enjoy each other's society, and appear perfectly happy and contented with their lot, which has rendered them an object of wonder and curiosity to the thousands that have flocked all over the Continent of Europe to see them. Both have musical tastes, and play the violin and xylophone.

The father and mother are still alive, the entire family including two other sisters, of twenty-two and twenty-three years of age respectively, and a brother of twelve, all of normal growth. The mother was twenty-two years old at the time of Rosa-Josepha's birth, and is a woman of robust health.

At the Gaiety Theatre, Birmingham, this week, Miss Harriett Vernon's songs are loudly encored, The Scottish Meisters show first-class ability and evoke enthusiasm. Ara, Zebra, and Vora do a clever trapeze act. A smart turn is provided by Sandford and Lyons. Little Ganty, Irene Rose, Madge May, Alice Maple, and George Barrow are popular.

MUSIC HALL BENEVOLENT FUND.

The annual general meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund was held at the Trocadero on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mr HENRI GROS, occupied the chair, and there were also present Messrs Joseph Lyons, George Adney Payne, Richard Warner, Sydney Hyman, Jack Harrison, W. Clarkson, Frank Weeks, Douglas Stuart, H. De Frece, Pat Carey, H. E. High, F. Boyce, Dan Thomas, Angelo Asher, Joe Lavender, and H. Marriott, secretary.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, the financial statement and the annual report were submitted as follows:—

In submitting the report for the year, the committee have great pleasure in stating that one of the great causes of complaint and reproach against the want of support from the profession itself has been mitigated up to a certain extent, but, unfortunately, this reproach must still be made. The committee do not think that it is through any want of sympathy (because the good work they are doing must appeal to all), but from thoughtlessness and forgetfulness, caused by the busy rush of the profession.

If the members would only come up to the office and investigate for themselves and take a personal interest in the working of their own Fund, the committee feel sure it would result in a very large accession to their coffers and enable them to still further enlarge the scope of their benevolence. One substantial recognition of the committee's year of labour has been made by the collective approval of the distinguished Society of the Water Rats, apart from the interest and support the Fund receives from some of its members individually. They, as a representative body, have made a donation of £100. The importance of this generous act is fully appreciated by your committee, and they feel that it will bear fruit in the near future.

Your committee takes this opportunity of again thanking Mr Frank Allen for his good and noble work on behalf of the Fund. During his year of office he promoted and organised matinées in the provinces, with the gratifying result of benefiting the Fund in two years to the extent of over £1 000. His grand efforts ought never to be forgotten by the members of the music hall world. The committee have the pleasure to report that under the guidance of Mr Henry Gros, president for the year, the Fund has fully maintained its usefulness, and, in some respects, surpassed its efforts of former years. And they wish to thank him for the many things he has done in an unostentatious manner, and for the deep feeling and sympathy he has always displayed for the welfare of the poorer members of the profession. The constant and persistent appeals your president made to the profession resulted in a total list of donations of over £600. The annual dinner was a complete success, which was mainly due to his unremitting efforts; he spared no pains or trouble to bring about the gratifying result of collecting over £700, with a net benefit to the Fund of £431—the largest amount received since 1899. During his presidency the collection in the pence boxes has more than doubled, and the thanks of the committee are gratefully given to all the managers who have worked for the Fund by collecting. Thanks are due to all, but mention may be made here of the splendid result from the efforts of Mr Frank Weeks, at the South London Palace, he having collected over £50 in about twelve months. We respectfully submit that Mr Weeks' methods might be followed.

From the Music Hall Artistes' Railway Rates Association the Fund is indebted for several donations during the year. There has been a falling off of the annual receipts on account of repayments for loans granted, and the committee intend to curtail to some extent this branch of its work, and only to grant loans under very special circumstances. Some years ago your secretary called the attention of those interested in the music hall business—proprietors, directors, shareholders, tradesmen, &c.—to the subject of testamentary bequests in aid of the Fund, and asked that the claims of our charity might be taken into consideration, and the committee have now the pleasure to report that they have received their first legacy of £100, from the late Walter Pallant, Esq. In studying the position of other benevolent institutions and charities and our own, your secretary was much struck by the fact that no bequests had ever been made to us, although the number of moneyed and successful members of the profession far outnumbered those of many other businesses, whose list of bequests was so considerable that the yearly interest from their investment rendered them quite independent of such annual functions as dinners or sports, both of which we have mainly to depend upon for support. This, it must be admitted, is precarious to a dangerous degree, for a wet day or a poor attendance might be fatal to our existence. This state of affairs ought not to be. The remedy is simple. If those he mentioned were to follow the example of the late Mr Pallant, and in their testamentary dispositions leave a small amount to the benefit of their own charity, it would help to place it on the firm basis to which it is surely entitled, considering the social standing and position of those connected with the industry of the music halls, which is occupying such an important position to-day, and which is destined to occupy a still more important one in the near future.

We are all thankful for our first legacy, and may the kindly spirit of Walter Pallant emulate others to follow his charitable lead. The anxiety of your committee may well be imagined. They are very grateful for the support they have received, which has enabled them steadily to increase the number of pensioners from six to thirty in a period of seven years, in addition to the weekly grants and loans. They have also buried over one hundred poor professionals in the like period. It is quite out of their power to do all that ought to be done. During the past year they have investigated over 1,500 cases, and relieved the wants of the aged and infirm as far as the funds would allow. The committee beg to thank Mr Richard Warner, one of the trustees, and also one of the founders of the Fund, for having prevailed upon his friend, Joseph Lyons, Esq., to again help the Fund by accepting the presidency for the coming year. Mr Lyons' efforts on behalf of the Fund are well known, and his constant interest is recorded in the minute books of the Fund. To the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly give prizes to be competed for at the annual sports, the thanks of the committee are also due, and also to the ladies and gentlemen throughout the country who assisted at the various functions for furthering the objects of the charity.

Nov. 17, 1904.

The CHAIRMAN, in moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, referred to some of the principal items, and said he hoped that others would follow the example set by the late Mr Walter Pallant, and leave bequests for the benefit of the society. He regretted that members of the profession who were earning princely salaries did not adequately support the fund. The action of the Water Rats' Society, in subscribing £100, was one of the most pleasant features of his year of office. Heavy demands were made upon artistes to give their services in the cause of charitable objects, and there was also the call made upon managers to obtain artistes on such occasions. The greatest credit was due to Mr Weeks, the manager of the South London. The fact that £50 had been collected in one year at a hall where the prices ranged from only 2d. upwards showed what could be done in this direction to help the Fund. He had actually been in office as president only nine months, but had done better than he had anticipated. Sometimes harsh criticism was passed upon the management, but this generally arose from want of knowledge. In the work of collecting and promoting the Christmas appeal it was absolutely necessary that there should be a large expenditure upon advertisements and circulars. This had to be done in order to get the money in. For every pound subscribed there was a large amount expended. The expenses had been at the rate of 6s. in the £, and he maintained that it was a shame that these expenses were necessary. But sports, prizes, &c., involved a large expenditure; and the only remedy was by subscribing more largely. When he took the chair at the annual dinner he made an appeal to the 15,000 or more members of the profession, and asked for two thousand guineas a year in support of the Fund. His appeal also appeared in the newspapers, and the only answer he received was a promise of a guinea if he (Mr Gros) would give the donor an engagement. At that time he was approached by the late Mr Herbert Campbell and Mr Wm. Bailey, the then president and hon. treasurer of the Music Hall Sick Fund, with a proposal that if he obtained the two thousand guineas a year he asked for, there might possibly be an amalgamation, and the £1,000 belonging to the Sick Fund transferred to the Benevolent Fund account. He had done all in his power during his year of office, and if he had not satisfied the members it was not his fault.

Mr G. ADNEY PAYNE seconded the motion, which was carried.

On the motion of Mr F. WEEKS, and seconded by Mr HENRY DE FRECE, the trustees and officers were re-elected as follows:—Trustees; Mr G. A. Adney Payne and Richard Warner; honorary treasurer: Mr J. L. Graydon; and the secretary Mr Horace Marriott.

The CHAIRMAN then proposed that the following rule be substituted for rules three and four:—It shall be managed by a committee of sixty members, exclusive of officers, and the said committee or any quorum thereof, at any ordinary meeting, shall have the power of electing additional members, who, having paid their subscriptions, shall notify their desire for election in writing to the secretary; and, further, that the committee have power to appoint sub-committees, ex-presidents to be members of the committee ex-officio.

Mr R. WARNER seconded the proposition, as he considered that the election of sub-committees would add to the efficiency of the Fund.

The motion was then carried.

Mr G. ADNEY PAYNE next proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, vice-chairman, and committee of the Fund, who, he said, had carried out their duties in a most energetic manner. It was an unthankful task, and entailed a great deal of labour on their part.

Mr GROS seconded, and again made reference to the valuable assistance which had been given by Mr Weeks. As a small token of gratitude and regard he had great pleasure in presenting Mr Weeks, whom he had known a long time, with a silver cigar case. Their hearty thanks were due to Mr Weeks for his sympathetic support of the Fund.

Mr SYDNEY HYMAN proposed a vote of thanks to the trustees, the solicitors, and the hon. auditors of the Fund.

Mr E. GRANVILLE seconded the motion, which was carried.

The CHAIRMAN, in nominating Mr Joseph Lyons as president of the Fund for the ensuing year, said he was a very busy gentleman, but he was willing to put his shoulder to the wheel in aid of the society. He foresaw great benefits to the Fund from the presidency of a gentleman so widely known and so influential as Mr Lyons.

Mr R. WARNER, who seconded, said he was very glad he had induced Mr Lyons to accept the presidency. A better man for the position could not be found. Mr Lyons had twice taken the chair at the annual dinner, for his sympathies were with the profession. The thanks of the committee and members were due to him for consenting to act as president.

The motion having been carried unanimously,

Mr LYONS took the chair. He said he should like to have seen a much larger attendance on such an occasion as the annual meeting. He felt in a somewhat difficult position, because he had to follow a gentleman possessed of sound judgment, and one who was closely associated with the profession, while he himself was only a layman. He had consented to become President for two reasons. The first was his sympathy with the Fund, for he knew there were many deserving cases which it had relieved; and if they could make it independent to such an extent that they had not to go round with the hat collecting he should be more than delighted. His second reason for consenting to become the President was that he had some exceptionally good friends—men he had known for many years, and the longer he knew the more highly he esteemed and respected. He had attended many of the annual dinners of the Fund, and had had the honour of speaking at some of them. He had also listened to the Presidents and members of the committee, and it seemed to him that every year the same ideas cropped up, the same arguments were used, and yet there was not one proposition that had been practically carried out. Bad trade and the consequent distress caused so many calls to be made upon the public that they were unable to give such large amounts to this Fund as they had formerly done. The decrease this year, he found, was very considerable. Subscriptions from firms he had done business with were less every year; and in his own case where he used to give £10 he now gave £5, and where he gave £5 he now gave £2. He never refused when the cause was a good one, but there was a limit to everything. What they should endeavour to do was to place the Fund upon such a basis that it was not dependent upon private subscriptions or the support of the public. The suggestion with regard to collecting boxes was a good one. Mr Weeks had done wonders, and there was no reason that other managers should not follow in his footsteps. Proprietors should make it a part and parcel of the manager's duty, and he was quite sure that the former would be prepared to make a present to the manager who had the largest collection. As president he should be prepared during his term of office to present a gold watch and chain to the gentleman who made the largest collection. A proposal had been made that in support of the Fund a small sum—a penny or a halfpenny—should be deducted from artist's salaries. That was a very serious question, for he believed that ninety-nine per cent. of the artistes would object to it. He had spoken to many artistes on the subject, and their reply to the suggestion was that they were called upon very frequently to put their hands in their pockets to assist fellow artistes in distress, and though it might only be a shilling or sixpence each time it amounted to a considerable sum in the course of a year, and it would not, therefore, be fair to tax them any further. Another suggestion that had been made was that a matinée should be given for the benefit of the Fund once a year, the proprietor to ask nothing for the use of the hall and the artists to give their services. But they were told that a matinée was likely to be a failure, and in some cases would affect the takings at the evening performance to a considerable extent. But if a matinée could not be satisfactorily arranged it was surely possible to organise an evening benefit performance at which artists would give their services. Or supposing the average takings at a hall were £100, and by the extra attractions £150 was realised, 25 per cent. of the total might be devoted to the Fund, and the proprietors of the hall would not suffer any loss. This was a practical solution of the question, and at all events it would not do to depend upon the support of the public. He should do his best to further the interests of the Fund during his year of office in every possible way. He had, in conclusion, a pleasing duty to perform, and that was to propose a vote of thanks to Mr Henri Gros, the retiring president, a gentleman he esteemed and respected. What Mr Gros had done for the Fund was simply marvellous. He had held the office of president during a year when the country was suffering from a bad depression in trade; and though the Fund had paid out more money, yet the total expenditure showed a decrease of £14.

Mr G. A. PAYNE seconded the motion, and said he thought he was the right one to do so, because it was he who induced Mr Gros to accept the position.

The motion was carried.

Mr GROS, in reply, said he undertook the office with considerable diffidence, as he was a busy man, and did not enjoy the best of health. Much of the success achieved was due to the officers, the committee, Mr Payne, and Mr Warner.

The PRESIDENT called attention to the fact that there were present only twelve members of a committee consisting of fifty-eight members; and it was decided to hold a special committee meeting at an early date to consider the best means of placing the Fund on a more independent footing.

Mr PAT CAREY pointed out that at the recent meeting of the M.H.A.B.A., a resolution had, on the motion of Mr Voyce, been passed that a sick fund should be started in connection with the Association, whereby the Music Hall Benevolent Fund was deprived of £20. Mr Voyce was apparently ignorant of the fact that there was already a Music Hall Sick Fund in existence, and its annual benefit performance was announced for Dec. 9 at Collins's Music Hall. He hoped he had not done wrong in mentioning this matter.

Mr DOUGLAS STUART, the secretary of the M.H.a.B.A., informed the chairman that at a committee meeting on Tuesday the proposition was considered impracticable, and it had been decided to retain this sum until the annual general meeting.

Mr GROS said he was glad that Mr Carey had brought the matter forward. The concessions to members of the profession had been granted on the understanding that any surplus over the working expenses should be divided amongst the Music Hall and Railway Charities.

The proceedings then closed with a vote of thanks to the secretary, Mr Horace Marriott.

THE WATER RATS' MATINÉE.

"Fraternity," which is an excellent motto for any professional or other coterie, has its charitable obligations, and no one has appreciated the strength of this truism with greater unanimity and heartiness than that most influential brotherhood the Water Rats. They relieve "the poor, distrest" with both hands, as it were, and without fuss, their administration of funds, mostly contributed from their own purses, being carried out privately. Such is the extent of their expenditure under the head of charity that they decided a few years since to appeal to the public by means of a music hall entertainment. The directors of the London Pavilion immediately fell in with the idea and the success was so great that the Water Rats' matinée has become a hardy annual. The reasons of this are not far to seek. First and foremost, the entertainment given is unique of its kind, as it invariably includes among its contributors the majority of the stars of the profession; and, secondly, there is generally a laughter-compelling novelty—an apropos skit or travesty—in which some at least of the most prominent people in the halls are seen out of their ordinary groove. This year the announcement on the programme of Monday's entertainment that a "psychological enigmatical erotic (with the accent on the rot), in three scenes, entitled The Wife With a Smile, by A. W. Needle-ero," suggested the production of a burlesque of Mr Pinero's latest "comedy in disguise" now being played at Wyndham's, which has recently excited the wrath of the new dramatic critic, Mr W. T. Stead. Unfortunately nothing of the kind happened, and as the character of "Dolly" was cut out we must suppose that something happened to upset the original scheme, for The Wife With a Smile was simply a wild burlesque of melodrama, in the style of the late Arthur Matthison's More than Ever. We had, however, the opportunity of seeing that excellent comedian Mr Tom M'Naughton in the silver sheen of a costume made by a tasteful West-end modiste, and in his impersonation of Clothilde, the beautiful and highly emotional daughter of Ironclaw, he gave an amusing parody of the intense mood of Mrs Brown Potter. The curly-headed hero, who quoted scraps of Othello, was played with mock sincerity by Mr Fred M'Naughton, who acknowledged his indebtedness to Mr Willie Clarkson; and Little Tich, in an immense pair of sewer boots, dissembled and scowled as a black-hearted and bloodthirsty villain. Mr Wilson Hallett, who took the part of Ironclaw, which should have been played by Mr George Gray, made a tearfully funny ancient and doddering parent; and Miss Alice Lloyd did well in the rôle of the faithful Beatrice. The duel scene between the hero and villain ended in the whole of the characters dying on the stage. Mr Paul Martinetti, with a wonderfully funny make-up, was droll as a silent second, scrupulously accurate about measurements; and Mr Alfred Martinetti, Mr James Finney, Mr Harry Athol, and Mr Fred Karno were also seen among the corpses that strewed the stage. Mr Harry Tate managed to be droll as a footman. The burlesque came at the end of an enormously long bill, which kept an immense audience in their seats for upwards of four hours. An interlude that evoked shrieks of laughter was the parody on the sport of Izaak Walton for which Mr Harry Tate was responsible. Fishing in his hands has developed into a droll absurdity that adds immensely to his reputation as a comedian. Mr George Mozart repeated his successful "Day at the Races," which immensely tickled the large number of sports that were present; Mr Bransby Williams, with fine elocutionary strength, recited "Devil-may-Care;" Mr Fred Karno's comedians and company were as funny as ever in their new and original pantomimical travesty on the modern music hall entitled Mumming Birds; Mr Harry Lauder's special Scotch selections were full of their customary pawkiness; and Mr Carl Hertz, gracefully assisted by Mdlle. D'Alton, made a capital showman in his exhibition of the wonders of the Magic Kettle. Zutka puzzled all when in his box, and when out of it; Yukio Tani's wrestling was loudly applauded; there were compliments in plenty for Mr John E. Coyle, Mr Ernest Rees, Mr Dan Crawley, and Mr Wilkie Bard, whose various exhibitions of comedy were the cause of much mirth; and the gentler sex were well represented by Miss Jessica Grace, Miss May Henderson, Miss Lizzie Chase, Miss Dolly Golden, Miss Nina Martino, Miss Florrie Robins, and Miss Millie Lindon, with her delightful song, "The rain came pitter-patter down." High-class instrumentalism came from Percy Honri, concertinist, who played German's dances on an English concertina; and from Mr Olly Oakley, one of the finest banjoists we have heard, who gave a fragment of Schubert. Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes played a domestic sketch; and other turns included Rich and Rich, Chevers and Kennedy, Arthur Prince, and the Bale Troupe.

MR ALEC HURLEY will shortly produce an original song, entitled "His Nibs," written and composed, by Medley Barrett. This smart writer will be seen at Christmas as Simple Simon, in Bo-Peep, at the Alexandra Palace Theatre, his wife being the Fairy Queen.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

(COPYRIGHT.)

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE sessional report of the Parliamentary Defence Committee, discussed last week at the meeting of the Showmen's Guild, contained a solemn warning to timid or half-instructed fair-ground caterers. The society spent over £20 in the preliminary defence work of safeguarding the fair rights of the town of Swindon. When the committee at the London meeting determined to oppose all the Corporation Bills attacking the show business amongst which were the Bill promoted by the corporation of Swindon asking, amongst other additional powers, the right for the mayor (or any constable sent by him) to close any show circus or menagerie on mere suspicion, and that such arbitrary action, even if afterwards proved to be wrong, would incur no penalty or damage obtainable at common law for illegal closure. This, it will be seen, was a new weapon of attack to be used against shows at the autocratic will of any "Jack-in-office" acting with the sanction of the mayor. This was the first attempt of this character to hinder and penalise the itinerant showman in the exercise of his lawful business. The executive committee realised the seriousness of the position, and determined at all costs to oppose this drastic proposal. Negotiations with the promoters of the Swindon Bill failed. Two local showmen, whose names for the present we do not mention, consented at the London meeting to sign the petition against the Bill drafted by the Guild officials.

MR MILLAR prepared the petition, and Mr Watson Wright went to the trouble of making a special journey to the neighbourhood of Swindon and interviewed one of the local showmen who had pledged his word to appear as petitioner; but even then, when all this trouble had been taken and expense incurred, he refused to keep his promise and sign the petition. The result of this lamentable vacillation (we can hardly call it ignorance, for at the London Committee Meeting the Guild Parliamentary agent explained the matter fully to this particular showman and his colleague, who undertook to be the second of the two absolutely necessary signatories) was calamitous. The petition was ready, but because it was not signed could not be presented. The Bill passed the Committee with all its evil clauses. Our Parliamentary counsel was ready, but could not plead the showmen's cause on account of the absence of petition and petitioners against the Bill. When will showmen learn the lesson we have been teaching for the past six years, in season and out of season, from the pages of The Era and many platforms? Parliamentary defence work is a highly technical business governed by fixed rules of procedure, and if one rule is broken your case is lost, for you cannot get a hearing except you comply with all the conditions of the Parliamentary Bar.

As we have said, £20 was spent of the Guild's money in the preliminary work of opposing the Swindon Bill. If the Guild could have appeared by petition there is no doubt that the inimical clauses would have been thrown out by the Committee of the House of Commons, as all other clauses opposed by the Guild have been. The warning briefly stated is this:—Let no showman neglect to sign petitions in the future. When the officials give individual showmen the assurance that the Guild will bear all expenses, and that this is being done in the interests of all travellers, why should there be any hesitation or suspicion on the part of individuals? Fortunately, except as establishing a bad precedent, the case of Swindon only touches a few showpeople, Swindon being outside any of the big runs or cycles of fairs.

YORK, the Metropolitan Tee of the north, held its accustomed Fair of St. Martin on Monday last. Curiously enough, though it is one fair, it is governed by two dates—the portion of the fair held in Parliament-street must close business at the end of four days; the fair ground proper—the market square—continues two days longer. The ancient city has great admiration for shows and showmen, and keeps its pleasure fair with undiminishing gusto. There is at York a wonderful camaraderie of the classes and the masses. The cathedral dignitary rubbing shoulders with the city dustman, the college don for the nonce joining with the country clown in all the fun of the fair, "ye gentles" and "ye simples," the "baron and the boor" attracted by the same never-failing magnet, "Ye Fair of Martinmas," find themselves in the wonderland where childhood and youth, paterfamilias, materfamilias with their attendant olive branches, for at least once in the twelve months enjoy the sweet abandonment of a rollicking day at the fair, for if the bishop and the dean may ride the galloping horses and enjoy the variety of the cinématograph theatre or the Mysteries of Egypt and Memphis it is quite proper for all and sundry to follow such excellent leadership.

SUCH is the charm of York Fair. This year "Ye Merrie Men," "Ye Mountebanks," and "Ye Magicians," were as is here given. On the six-day fair-ground, Chipperfield's French menagerie, Captain Tom Payne's Bioscope, Sahib Leo's portable Egyptian Hall, Mr Charles Ralph's freak exhibit, the Wee M'Gregor (equine midget), Aspland's superb gondolas (managers, Ben Howden and Son); P. Collins, Ltd., magnificent machine, the Racing Cockerells (manager, Mr Summer Hayes); and the high-class shooting concerns of Mr G. H. Cornwell. With these were the usual olla podrida of a well-equipped fair-ground. On the Parliament-street ground (the four days' fair) were Sedgewick's Yankee menagerie, Prince Samouda's temple of Oriental magic, the marvellous second-sight demonstrations of the Mystic Hutins, Sidney Braham's charming exhibition, the educated birds, Mr Enoch Farrer's two concerns, the fine art gallery and the laughter-provoking mirror pavilion; Arthur Payne's premier set, the British generals, the photographic concerns of Messrs Frank Walton and James Eden. Amongst the minor providers of amusement of the variety stall, coker sheet, dolly frame, and roll-up board order were (with many others) Messrs W. Fisher, T. Burgin, A. Carroll, E. Johnson, W. Stewart, and Wright and Co.

THE Saturday before York, Malton Hirings took place. At this fair were the following concerns:—Captain Tom Payne's Bioscope, Sahib Leo's Egyptian Hall, Ralph's Wee M'Gregor, Goldthorpe Marshall's Venetian gondolas, Arthur Payne's gallopers, and varieties by Messrs Barker, Chapman, Fostieri, Bridge, and Brown. As we have reached the end of the winter hirings, we may now usefully discuss their origin and modern changes. As centres for the purpose of hiring servants for either farming or domestic purposes their utility is a fast disappearing quantity. In fact, it is only in purely agricultural districts that the hiring part of the fair serves any useful purpose. It is curious to notice that, despite their diminishing interest as hirings, the pleasure fair remains deeply rooted in the heart and affection of the people.

THE Executive Council of the United Kingdom Showmen and Vandwellers' Protection Association (the Showmen's Guild) wish their members to understand that, until the end of the present financial year (Dec. 31) all subscriptions and official communications must be sent to the resident secretary, H. M. Horne, 137, Burton-road, West Didsbury. Communications not financial, but of a public or Parliamentary character may be addressed to the Rev. T. Horne, care of The Era Offices, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

THOUGH Jack and Jill come not to the fair to take the "fastening penny," they will come to enjoy its transient pleasures. There is within a radius of many miles of the fair a unanimous determination to cease work and make holiday. This strike of daily toil is not only the mark of the common labourer, but Farmer Giles and Mrs Giles and all the little Gileses drive to the fair, and for one day at least master and man, mistress and maid, make merry together. This is a use of the fair, a goodly custom of our national life that never grows less, but increases with the nation's growth. The origin of Hirings is "wropt in mystery." Some antiquarians tell us that they arose from the custom of the Roman Emperors holding a carnival or Olympian games to celebrate great victories.

AFTER the Imperial banquet the signal for the games in the arena, where the gladiators, riders, and wild beast performers exhibited their prowess, was the dropping of the Emperor's napkin or "mappa." From this word "mappa," arises the peculiar name hiring fairs are known by in the Midlands, and in the west they are called "mops," a broadening of the word "mappa." In the far north hiring fairs as known as "hoppings," a manifest reference to the games and dances of these carnivals.

ON the settlement of the country and the development of agriculture the local "mappa" or "mop" became the business opportunity for the selection of suitable labour. There are, of course, various periods for the holding of these fairs in different parts of the country. In the west and south-east, also in the great Midland belt, it is in the month of October that these fairs take place, in many cases on or about the feast of Michaelmas. In the north, pre-Easter and Martinmas are the principal times

THE only fairs in Ireland of which we are aware as occurring during the Christmas and New Year holidays are at Dublin and Belfast. We shall be glad to hear from Irish showmen the names of other places. The list given above of Christmas fixtures is not an exhaustive one; we shall be glad to hear from lessees of fair grounds, market superintendents, additions or corrections to the above list, which we will publish in our next issue.

AT Carmarthen Borough Police-court, on Monday, before the mayor and other magistrates, Thomas Pickup, a van-dweller, was charged with assaulting William Boswell, a showman, on the fair-ground on Saturday night. Evidence was given by the complainant to the effect that he was protecting his father from North (another showman's) twosons, who were quarrelling with him, when the defendant kicked him, and he was taken on a stretcher to the infirmary. Dr. R. Felix, the house surgeon of the infirmary, gave evidence of the injury. For the defence James Gordon gave evidence to the effect that he saw Pickup kick Boswell and run away. Boswell was fighting North's son. Defendant said he had done it in self-defence. He interfered when Boswell was beating North. Phil Ray, another showman, stated that if Boswell had not kicked when he did he would have been knocked down. The Bench fined the defendant 2s. 6d. and costs.

MR F. TESTO'S marionettes and Cinématograph show visited Kidwelly this week, and did very good business.

DARLINGTON main hirings was held on Monday last in wintry weather, but there was a good attendance. Amongst the showmen present we noticed Mr William Murphy, Golden Venice; Messrs Richardson's switchback and galloping horses, Mrs Crow's three-abreast gallopers, Cooper's Bioscope, Testo's Wonders of the Deep, Ralph and Padley's Cinématograph, Moore's athletes, and the fair-ground concerns of Messes Hancock, Sheeran, Newsome, Kelly, Smith, and Johnson.

WE understand that on Tuesday Messrs Murphy and Richardson and other showmen will contribute towards the funds of the Darlington Hospital. We hope their efforts will meet with success. The arrangements relating thereto are in the hands of Mr Ward, hon. secretary, Darlington Hospital: the market superintendent, Darlington; and Mr George Campbell, agent general of Murphy Brothers.

THE North of England Stallholders' Society recently held their annual general meeting at the Grapes Inn, Durham. There was a good gathering, at which we observed Mr Walter Murphy, Mr W. Hoadley, Mr M. Richardson, Mr H. Caris, Mr T. Hartshorn, Mr G. Halliday, Mr G. Gray, and Messrs Firman, Noble, Cowie, Newsome, Robson, Johnson, Robinson, and O'Brien. A satisfactory report was read and adopted, and a successful year's working has enabled more members to be enrolled.

AT the Market Yard, West Hartlepool, Captain Beaumont's World's Fair was in full swing; also Mr Walter Murphy's "Looping the Loop" gondolas, and fair ground concerns of Kitson and Smith.

INFORMATION relating to Shows and Fairs, suitable for this column, should be addressed to THE EDITOR, "The Showman World."

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

On Thursday, the 17th, the first skating carnival of the season took place here, it having been postponed in order to avoid clashing with other important events. Although king fog reigned supreme in the north of London, the attendance was not in any material degree lessened to witness the novel hockey match and other performances. Numerous prizes were awarded for the best and most attractive costumes in various classes, both for ladies and gentlemen, the decisions arrived at apparently giving general satisfaction. Mrs Percival Derley, the wife of the new lessee, had the pleasant task allotted her of distributing the awards to the fortunate recipients, and her graceful bearing and pleasant manner were conspicuous. A well-chosen orchestral band did duty during the evening.

STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE:

By the REV. T. HORNE
(Hon. Chaplain, Showmen's Guild.)

MACCOMO AND THE LIONS.

TOLD BY THE DOORSMAN.

"The first appearance of Maccomo, sir, was at Rotherham Statutes Fair. I remember it well, though it is over forty years ago. At that time Billy Manders was at war in a business sense with the two big Wombwell shows. Old Mother Wombwell and Barney Edmonds (the lump of an Irishman who married old Wombwell's niece, and ran the Windsor Castle Menagerie), combined for the purpose of running Manders off the road. There was no dodge too shady—of course, sir, in a business sense—that either party would not descend to in order to secure an advantage. Now, sir, you must know that the greatest lion tamer of those days was old Tim Newsome, who, to-day, at the wonderful age of over ninety years, is still seen at some of our North Country fairs. Tim has a little African blood in him, and undoubtedly until the discovery of Maccomo, was the star of the menagerie world. Manders had 'sharped' Edmonds of Newsome. Old Mother Wombwell through her advance-agent 'sharped' Manders of the lion tamer. Rotherham was billed extensively with large posters representing Tim Newsome surrounded by an immense group of lions. When the fair opened it was discovered that Tim, lured by the extra money offered by Wombwell's, had 'scarpered,' and there was no lion tamer to satisfy the demand of the eager fair ground patrons. Manders an hour before the show was to open was in despair, and even thought that he would have to fill the gap by tackling the lions himself. In this dilemma a real hero came to the rescue in the person of the camelman, known as Black Jack. Accosting Manders, Jack said, 'Don't you worry, master; me go in de den and knock de lions about.' 'Will you?' said Manders. 'Here, take this pistol and shoot the first beggar that attempts to bite.' 'Me no want a shooter, I'se afeared of no creature, let alone a lion.' Taking a broomstick as his only weapon of defence, but, of course, all the time covered and protected by Manders, with pistols ready for the emergency, the brave camelman made his first attempt at 'knocking the lions about;' and it was a revelation. Then and there Martini Maccomo, the African lion hunter, was born to fame and to fortune. Black Jack, of Liverpool, died, and in his place stood for all time the 'one and only Maccomo.' It is no exaggeration to say, sir, that Manders made Maccomo, but Maccomo himself was worth all the trouble that Manders took, and was the most fearless performer with wild beasts the world has ever known, the first man to 'break' tigers, and to combine in one performance lions and tigers. He had all the vanity of his race, coupled with a genius for learning any set lesson, and imposing it, however Munchausen-like the story might be. Why, bless you, sir, I have heard him at the Queen's Hotel, Manchester, where Manders always took a set of rooms for him, surrounded by a crowd of big 'nobs,' scientific professors and naturalists, discoursing at large on his adventures in Central Africa shooting big game. He would tell circumstantially how such and such animals in such and such waggons of the show were the creatures he had bagged and brought with him to England. The secret was so well kept, and the boom so well carried through, that showmen were 'let in,' as well as the general public. Yet the truth is Black Jack, the camelman of Rotherham Statutes Fair, reincarnated as Mattini Maccomo, was born and dragged up in a Liverpool slum, and had never been out of England's happy land. I think, sir, that the finest bit of 'piffle' I ever heard was Billy Manders' introduction on the show front of Maccomo; it ran something like this:—'Behold the one and only Martini Maccomo, the African lion hunter, whose daring and intrepidity is the wondering theme of universal comment.' And then, placing his hand on the little bald patch on the top of Martini's head, he would say in touching tones, 'scorched by Afric's burning sun.' Then, with a majestic wave of the hand towards the big paintings picturing Martini amongst the lions, the eloquent Billy would continue—'At every performance Martini Maccomo, the lion hunter from Afric's distant shore, will enter the den of twenty-eight forest-bred African lions and put them through their matchless demonstration of the lion hunt, capture, and reconciliation of the mighty kings of the forest, illustrating the marvellous power of man over the brute creation. In addition to this unique exhibition of man's supremacy in the animal kingdom, Martini Maccomo will describe from his own actual experiences in the jungle land and Asiatic forests the habits of life and peculiarities of every individual bird, beast, and reptile within the limits of this, the most complete aggregation of animal life the world has ever known. The band will now play the National Anthem, and after that we shall positively commence. The charge for admission to all classes is sixpence.' Then Maccomo, casting his toga of tiger skin over his finely developed chest, would follow his leader, Manders, the orator, inside the show. This, of course, was invariably followed by the rush of the crowd with their ready sixpences. There may be a few old veterans of the road who remember with me these 'palmy days' when such giants as Manders, Batty, Pablo Fanque, Lomas, the Three Sangers, William, George, and John, Barney Edmonds, Ewins with waxworks, Sam Wild, Old Thorne, Kitty Lee, Jim Preston, and others who like George Sanger and Tim Newsome still survive, were the acknowledged kings of the showman world. Of course, sir, an old stager like myself, who for years has been 'off the hooks,' is prone to see but little good in new men and new methods. I admit, sir, the wonderful progress of the fair ground business, but I lament the modern tendency to depend on noise and dumb show in preference to the golden age plan of good 'Dooring,' when you had to 'patter' and give a 'bona' outside slang to draw the people in. Anyhow, sir, the Maccomo boom lasted for years. There was a slump in white lion tamers and a rush of black performers. The white men to be accepted had to take to burnt cork. Tim Newsome's occupation was gone. White men, however clever, could find no market, and every wild beast show had its African swashbuckler, who entered the lions' den, to quote again the words of 'Black Jack,' the camelman, 'to knock the lions about.' Maccomo, owing to his reckless daring and complete dependence in his method of dealing with animals upon 'terrorism,' was many times badly mauled by the infuriated beasts. At last he met his death by the fury of the lions at a performance given in the town of Newcastle-on-Tyne. I have in my possession a relic of Maccomo, one of the actual brace of pistols presented to him by Manders, who, in the giving of the weapons, laid upon him the strict injunction that in the moment of danger he must use them. That, sir, is the story of Black Jack, the camelman, who became (inspired by the genius of a Manders) 'Martini Maccomo, African lion hunter.'"

AT the Hippodrome, Birmingham, this week, Mr Ralph Dean is presenting his magic kettle, and Selkirk's juvenile spectacle, Japan's Handy Men, is performed by 100 local children. The Interrupted Rehearsal is a smart musical turn provided by the Elysian Troupe. The Lombards in their gymnastic performance excel, and other popular turns are done by Russell Wallett, society entertainer; Rose Cabani, comedienne and dancer; Larola, Bert Leslie, Michael Nolan, and Marriot Edgar, comedians.

THE Deutsche Volksbühne, Berlin, exists no longer. The management under that name having come to grief, the theatre, under the direction of Herr Fischer, has resumed its old name of the Carl Weiss Theatre.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTES' RAILWAY ASSOCIATION.

An extraordinary general meeting of the members of this Association was held at Gatti's Music Hall, Westminster-bridge-road, on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of electing a new president in the place of the late Mr Dan Leno.

MR DOUGLAS WHITE (hon. treasurer) presided, and the attendance was very poor as compared with that at the recent annual meeting.

THE SECRETARY (Mr Douglas Stuart) having read the notice convening the meeting Messrs J. Lawrence, Cornish, Humphreys, and Preston were appointed tellers of votes.

Before proceeding with the election,

MR HARRY MOUNTFORD moved "That the following words be added to Rule 5:—'That the hon. officers of the Association shall be ex-officio members of the committee.'" He explained that this resolution should have been moved at the last general meeting.

MR FRED M'NAUGHTON seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

THE CHAIRMAN said they had now to proceed to the election of an hon. president. They were all aware of the good work which the late president had done for the Association, and it was with much regret they had to call a special meeting to fill up the vacancy caused by Mr Dan Leno's death. According to the agenda paper the four candidates were:—Mr Charles Coborn, proposed by Mr Monte Maitland, seconded by Mr B. H. Almon; Mr J. W. Cragg, proposed by Mr Chas. Edgar, seconded by Mr J. W. Edgar; Mr Harry Randall, proposed by Mr W. G. Newham, seconded by Mr Joe Lavender; Mr Eugene Stratton, proposed by Mr W. H. Clemart, seconded by Mr Wilson Hallett.

MR GEORGE GRAY said he hoped they would not look upon him as an obstructionist; but he deferentially and conscientiously objected to the election of a president by such a mere handful of members. Out of some eight thousand members there were only about fifty present. It was not at all fair. They might at least have advertised in the newspapers the names of the candidates.

THE CHAIRMAN—The committee did advertise the place and time of meeting for electing a new president, and if the members fail to turn up I don't see how you can justly blame us.

MR PAT CAREY—Does Mr Gray mean that the voting should be taken by proxy?

MR NEIMAN—Where are the members of the new committee? Out of twenty-two there are only two of them present to-day.

MR MOUNTFORD called attention to the rule which directed that a president and other officers shall be elected at a general meeting, and they had no power to elect in any other way. Mr Gray or any other member was entitled to move an amendment to this rule at the next general meeting of the society.

MR GRAY—I was only expressing my opinion that it is not fair. I am not antagonistic at all.

The election was then proceeded with by means of voting cards, the members putting a cross opposite the name of the candidate he or she voted for.

The names of Messrs Coborn and Cragg having been struck off, the final voting was as follows:—Harry Randall, 37; Eugene Stratton, 23.

THE CHAIRMAN—I have much pleasure in announcing that Mr Harry Randall has been elected president of the Association.

The announcement was received with loud cheers.

THE CHAIRMAN—Mr Randall is so well known to you all that there is no need for me to dwell upon his qualifications for the position. I will only say you have chosen a very worthy successor to our late lamented president.

MR MOUNTFORD moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman, also regarding it as some slight recognition of his work as their hon. treasurer during the past eight years.

MR MILLIS seconded the motion, which was carried and duly acknowledged by the Chairman.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to Mr Cattaneo for the use of the hall (replied to by Mr TOM TINSLEY), to the Press, and to the tellers.

HERBERT CAMPBELL MEMORIAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—A memorial to the late Mr Herbert Campbell in the shape of a bust, either in marble or bronze, is to be obtained, and placed, if possible, in the vestibule of the Theatre Royal, Drury-lane, the scene of so many of his triumphs. Mr Harry Randall has kindly consented to act as president and Mr Edward Ledger, of The Era, as treasurer to the fund.

It is the intention of the committee to engage an artist of repute to execute this work to the memory of the above-mentioned generous and genial comedian. The committee will esteem it a great favour if his old friends and admirers will assist in making this memorial a success. All subscriptions will be duly acknowledged in The Era.

Yours faithfully,
FRANK HEATH,
(Secretary).

MISS CECILIA FOWLER'S LADIES ATHLETIC XI. v. COTHAM AND REDLAND LADIES ATHLETIC CLUB

Played near Clifton Downs on Nov. 19. The following were the teams:—

Miss Cecilia Fowler's Ladies XI.—Miss E. Bowman, goal; Miss L. Carter and Miss E. Francis, backs; Miss M. Stuart, Miss C. Fowler (captain), and Miss L. Belding, half-backs; Miss A. Bernard, Miss T. Maynard, Miss G. Leonard, Miss B. Godfrey, and Miss G. Thomas, forwards.

Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club—Miss M. Fisher, goal; Miss A. Gibbs, and Miss R. Davis, backs; Miss L. Norris, Miss E. Lawrence, and Miss L. Coles, half-backs; Miss M. Burgess, Miss W. Bradley (captain), Miss N. Lawrence, Miss K. Montgomery, and Miss A. Mitchell, forwards.

Referee, Miss M. Hamilton (of Cotham and Redland Ladies Club). Result:—Miss C. Fowler's Ladies Athletic team, one goal; Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club, one goal. Misses A. Bernard and W. Bradley scored the goals for their respective sides.

STRATFORD EMPIRE.

The programme submitted twice nightly at this well-appointed variety theatre under Mr Sam Gething's able management is always of the very best, and that provided for the current week is no exception to the rule. Pride o place on the bill is occupied by Miss Vesta Tilly, who has endeared herself to the hearts of Stratfordians on previous visits, and consequently her reception is most cordial. Appearing first in a perfect-fitting flannel suit she tells of the goings on of the would-be "Seaside Sultan," a pretentious young spark with colossal cheek and little else, whose final discomfiture is brought about by meeting his employer. As a typical college boy she appears next and gives the very popular "Following in Father's Footsteps," and lastly gives "Wise Old Owl," rather a new ditty, which has a somewhat rag-time refrain, and is full of topical allusions. Sung in faultless evening dress by Miss Tilley—who, by-the-way, has indeed solved the problem of a suit for a song—it was received with enthusiasm. The Two Bostons, in their "Novelty Showmen" act, have all the material for an ingenious and versatile display of the burlesque. The introduction of a back cloth with the alluring advertisements of a travelling showman vividly portrayed is a capital and most effective idea, and their miscellaneous entertainment, given with the assistance of highly trained cats and dogs, interspersed with plenty of pointed gags and witticisms, and concluding with some wonderfully dexterous step-dancing by the younger of the duo, is always acknowledged by unstinted applause. Miss Victoria Monks creates a most favourable impression when tastily attired she sings, "There's a girl inside," a tuneful ditty explaining the keen interest taken by members of the sterner sex in a particular railway carriage, and in other vehicles, and were the "girl inside" as fair to behold as the singer, such anxiety is easily understood. Her next item is an imitation of a coon songster and dancer, rendering "Ain't I no use, Mr Jackson?" which, though having the element of burlesque, is exceedingly interesting, and a striking example of the artiste's powers of mimicry. The Resuas Trio present some startling feats of strength and balancing, the difficulty of which is hardly apparent from the ease and grace of execution, and the reception they gain is thoroughly well merited. Harry Champion is received with great cordiality when he appears to sing "Ping Pong," and he afterwards renders a ditty the title of which might be "Oh-er," the applause for which is so great that he has to appear again, this time giving "Yer hat don't fit you very well." The Morton Comedy Trio, in The Dandy Bandits, supply a judicious blend of excellent vocalism and brisk comedy business, and their efforts to interest and amuse are crowned with complete success. Little Nelusco as a juvenile conjuror shows considerable promise; his feats are performed with all the dexterity and finish of a much older performer, and with plenty of confidence and assurance. His trick with birds in a cage proves exceptionally mystifying. Miss Kitty Bell, although styled a vocalist and dancer, only contributed a nimble Scotch reel at the first performance on Monday, but her capabilities have probably had more scope at subsequent performances. L. B. Athol proves himself a resourceful character comedian, and the Labakans, with their highly trained dog "Folly," contribute an interesting turn, which meets with general appreciation. Early comers are regaled with F. Von Blon's march "With the British Colours" by the orchestra, under the bâton of Mr Augustus Greco, the skilful chef d'orchestre, who throughout does excellent work in this important phase of musical exertion.

THE NEW EMPIRE HIPPODROME, ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This new hall, built on land secured by the Messrs Broadhead in the centre of the town of Ashton-under-Lyne, and in the immediate vicinity of the Theatre Royal, Oldham-road, is practically completed. It stands on about 2,000 square yards of ground, and will comfortably seat 2,000 people. It is a noble structure, built entirely of brick, and after the design of Mr Broadhead's other halls in Manchester. It is the latest addition to the group of variety halls which Messrs Broadhead have erected. The interior decorations and appointments are on a lavish and attractive scale. The prevailing adornments of the circles, boxes, ceiling, proscenium are plaster mouldings, the raised designs of which are a cream ground, picked out in gold and colours. The auditorium is brilliantly lit with electric lamps, supplied from the firm's own plant. The furniture and carpeting are of pretty design and shade. The stalls are seated by tip-up chairs, upholstered in maroon velvet, and the grand-circle seating is upholstered plush chair seating. There is an immense pit, seated with backed-forms, and the gallery is well provided with seats. The boxes are elaborately adorned, and fitted with velvet upholstered chairs. There is a spacious foyer, the walls of which are adorned with mirrors. The stage is spacious and the dressing-rooms up-to-date for conveniences. There is every facility for exit and entrance, and the theatre is heated with the latest apparatus. The whole of the scenery and cloths for the stage have been painted by Mr Daley, Mr Broadhead's principal scenic artist, and assistants, and there are some really artistic cloths and side wings. The scenery is worked on the latest scientific principles, and besides the velvet Golding curtains, there is a massive steel fire proof curtain which shuts off the stage from the auditorium in case of fire. The comfort and convenience of visitors has been studied in every possible way, and the desire of the proprietors has been realised in every department.

The opening performance took the shape of a matinée on Monday afternoon, and brought together an immense audience, which filled the hall in every part. Members of the corporation were present in the stalls, and the opening was a good augury of success. A splendid band, numbering fourteen expert instrumentalists, form the orchestra, conducted by Mr C. Lawrence. The manager of the new house is Mr Wm. P. Broadhead; acting-manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; secretary, Mr H. Winstanley; and the resident acting-manager, Mr W. Leech. The company for the week includes the Tom Davis Trio of cyclists, with their bicycle sensation, "Whirling the Whirl," and Georg Chanti, a foreign performer, who introduces some quick and startling changes of scene and dress. He gives us the Neapolitan in his unique surroundings and dress; the Chinaman, the Scotchman, the Spaniard as a Matador in the bull-ring, the Russian, and other characters. The characters are each impersonated with the perfection of art in characterisation. Another pleasing turn is Mr John Tiller's famous troupe of lady Mascottes (eight in number) who pose and pirouette in the most agile and graceful manner to music by the orchestra, their fairy-like robing and dainty figures suggesting the nymphs of mystical forest haunts and daisied meads. Marguerite Hood, the clever and refined society entertainer, sang sweetly to her own piano accompaniment some pleasing melodies. The Crown Trio, two military characters and a waitress, sang some pleasing part music, beautifully harmonised, and Shawlene, the world's sweetest whistler, gave an exhibition of his skill as a soloist. His tone and power were the cause of wonder, and excited great enthusiasm. H. A. Kisbey was funny as the "Call Boy," and Johnson and Bert gave an amusing song and patter act. The Bros. Donar astonished as well as greatly diverted the audience with some comical knockabout business. Cinématographic pictures concluded the show.

THE MAGICAL DRAMA.

St. George's Hall is not only to be the new home of mystery, but its enlarged and admirably equipped stage is to witness at Christmas a most interesting experiment in the production of a magical drama, founded on the novel by Lord Lytton, entitled "The Coming Race," the adaptation being by Mr David Christie Murray and Mr Nevil Maskelyne. The latter gentleman, whom one afternoon this week we found surrounded by a small army of workmen, gave us some interesting particulars of the new piece, which certainly promises to be a great novelty. In the first place, young Mr Maskelyne wishes the public and the press to regard The Coming Race as a drama worthy of the serious consideration of the critic. Such effects as are seen in the piece assist in the development of its story and are in no instance outside the action, which is never hampered for the sake of introducing a magical device. The play, indeed, has been the thing, and if any effect were cut out of it, it would cripple its dramatic interest. It is in a prologue and three acts, being divided into fifteen scenes, most of which belong to a world other than our own. This is discovered quite by accident by a couple of mining engineers—George W. Larcombe, of Massachusetts, and Henry Wentworth, of London. Having reached the deep level of Porthmorran Mine, in Cornwall, these gentlemen discover an immense fissure. They pass through. The Englishman is smashed on the rocks, but the American is saved by Princess Zee, who falls in love with him, and finds that her affection is returned. Larcombe, indeed, thinks she is about the nicest "gal" he has "struck" since he left the States, and he is not abashed by her undoubted superiority to him, for the Princess is the daughter of the Tur, who rules a people gifted with power over life and death—a subterranean race so miraculously endowed indeed that it thinks very little of the mere human. Zee herself has quite the proper notions concerning the levelling power of love; but the "coming race" to which she belongs regards the proposed union of their princess with a common mortal as an insult to their kin, and demand the death of Larcombe.

We should mention that the mysterious power possessed by this wonderful people is called Vril, and it is exercised by the waving of a staff. Zee demands a trial for her lover, and she speaks most eloquently in his defence, but it is of no avail. The sages who sit in judgment are not to be convinced, and he is condemned to die. Larcombe reviews matters with phlegmatic calm, and takes advantage of the "silent hours"—a period of the day when strange monsters float over the subterranean city—to have a refreshing sleep. While slumbering, the devoted princess flies through his window, and bears him away to the palace garden. There she proposes to return with him to this earth, and by her magic power to make him a king among men, she to be his queen. The closing of the fissure through which Larcombe originally descended presents no difficulty to the princess, for by her Vril-staff she engineers an upheaval of the earth—a novel idea in stage earthquakes—and the two find themselves in the upper level of the mine. Larcombe thinks over the proposal, and guesses that it will not pan out satisfactorily. He therefore declines, and with a sorrowful farewell Zee returns to her subterranean home, the earth closing over her form as she descends, not before she has warned the engineer that the time will come when the members of her race will increase and finally come above the earth and conquer the surface races.

In the drama fantastic shapes will fly about, and a huge monster, which is called by Lytton the "Krak," is destroyed in the fifth scene of the first act by Taë, the brother of Zee, a mere boy. The "Krak," we should add, is geologically correct, being modelled from an extinct specimen of the carnivora, known to scientists as the pariasaurus. It is all ready to take its flight through space when The Coming Race is produced at Christmas. The novel itself at a first reading does not attract the playwright, but the authors have so arranged the story that its dramatic interest is considerably augmented, and they are wise in making the loves of the engineer and the Princess the pivot of the play, for that way lies sympathy. Both Mr David Christie Murray and Mr Nevil Maskelyne possess the instinct of the theatre. In what way, however, the responsibilities of collaboration have been divided it is not for us to say. But we may be certain of this, that the possibilities of stage illustration will be much increased by the wonderful developments of engineering and electrical science. Airships, landslides, a marvellously realistic upheaval—which will be the very antithesis of the toppling columns in Claudian—will be among the wonders to be seen during the representation of The Coming Race. The play will, therefore, be marked by weird effects, mechanical sensations, and strange devices. The cast of the play includes Mr Hermann Vezin as the Tur, Miss Vera Beringer as Princess Zee, Mr Frederick Topham as Larcombe, Miss Cassie Bruce as the boy Taë, Mr Horace Morehen in two rôles, Mr E. S. Elton as Zuron, and Mr J. B. Hansard as Thor-Met. From the above list it will be seen that the favourites of the Egyptian Hall will find places in the new St. George's Hall, where also Mr F. Cramer, who has done such good service in Piccadilly, will direct an orchestra.

We may now say a word or two concerning the new stage at St. George's Hall. It has been brought forward, and thereby its capacity has been much increased. There will be no wings, their place being taken by an inner and outer proscenium, to both of which a curtain will be hung. As to the lighting of the stage, Mr Nevil Maskelyne has entirely revolutionised it. Framing the outer proscenium are no less than 300 electric bulbs. This arrangement of illumination entirely disposes of unnecessary shadows, which are so difficult to get rid of. When the actor walks to the footlights he is surrounded by a ring of unseen lamps. There are no less than two thousand incandescents on the stage, and the power can be lowered to the merest glimmer, or, by insensible gradation, increased to a potential glare. Thus all sorts of effects, from the feeble light of the breaking dawn to the blaze of noonday sunshine, can be readily simulated. The illumination of the stage can be made to die by degrees or to grow in intensity. These results are attained by the employment of Wirt dimmers, of which twenty-seven are required for the eight hundred lamps affixed to the battens, besides the movable lamps, which will be used at special points. Messrs J. Defries and Sons (Limited), Houndsditch, are making the installation this week.

'CHALLENGING A HYPNOTIST."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In fairness to myself, I think it only right that your many readers should know the rights of this case. In the first place, I may state that I do not style myself "The Man of Mystery," nor ever did. I did not challenge any person to come on the stage and be hypnotised. I simply asked for volunteers for my hypnotic experiments, expressly stating that I wished no one to come up who was under the influence of drink, or was prepared to oppose my will, as my time did not permit me to deal with such cases, the bulk of my time being devoted to relieving sufferers from paralysis, &c. The defendant, in spite of this, came forward, and seated himself in a defiant attitude. I went to him at once, and asked him in a tone of voice loud enough to be heard by anyone near the stage, "Are you going to resist me?" The defendant replied to my query, "Yes, I am." Then I said, "You had better go down." After a little persuasion he went down. I then finished my performance, and sent my assistant to find him and tell him I should be prepared to meet him next day (Tuesday) at one o'clock if he would come, and try to convince him of my hypnotic powers. He gave my assistant a card bearing the name of "Stanley Jeffrey," and a message that he would come at the time appointed. I therefore thought no more about the matter until I got outside, when defendant was shouting like a madman about my "show," as he called it. The disturbance spoken of took place after this whilst I was at home. With that I had very little to do except as a witness to the opening scenes. However, Tuesday, one o'clock came, but "Stanley Jeffrey" came not. I concluded he had thought better of it after sleeping. But on Friday, whilst I was busy about 12·30 treating cases privately, he came, and I tried hard to treat him as a gentleman; but in spite of all I said or did, he would persist in making the most insulting remarks as to my character that any man could make in respect to my powers as a hypnotist. This I passed over, but the stage-manager finally took exception to his insults and turned him out, so his boast that I could not hypnotise him is idle talk: in fact, I have witnesses to prove that I made him a fair offer to try and hypnotise him if he would let me use my own means, but he refused this, suggesting I might harm him.

Trusting this letter will be read by all lovers of fair play in the spirit in which I write,

Yours faithfully, J. HOCKINGE.
Hippodrome, Accrington.

THAT gifted musician and keen judge of a song, Mr Oscar Barrett, intends making a special item of Miss Millie Lindon's fine ballad, "The Angel of my dreams," in the forthcoming pantomime at the Prince's Manchester. It is by Fred Leigh and Henry E. Pether. The song, which is issued by Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter, is enjoying a ready sale.

MR SAM MAYO has made a great hit at Brighton and elsewhere with his new song entitled "When I woke up in the morning," by Fred W. Leigh. Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter have acquired the ditty.

DUNNING AND KAHN AND KAHN return to town on Monday, opening at the Pavilion and Canterbury with their magical and ventriloquial acts.—Mr Fred Lloyd has started a tour with his laughable sketch entitled The Blind Spinster.—The Dixie combination will be seen shortly at Barnard's Varieties, Chatham, in a "Silver coon" scena.

MESSRS ARTHUR MOORE AND TOM STONE desire, through the medium of our columns, to thank those artistes who were kind enough to give their services at the entertainment on behalf of the Brixton and Streatham Omnibus Men's Benefit at the Empress, Brixton, on Thursday, the 17th inst. The M'Naughtons, who were unable to appear, have kindly promised a donation of two guineas.

BY displaying in his shop window the flora wreath which was sent to Mr Dan Leno's funeral by the fraternity of the Terriers, Mr A. J. King, a Walthamstow florist, caused such a crowd to assemble that the police summoned him for obstruction at Stratford on Saturday. It was argued on his behalf that if a trader could not display his goods he might as well shut up shop. Taking this view the magistrates dismissed the case.

MRS FRANK LEONARD, of 202, Darwin-street, Birmingham, wishes to thank the following artistes for their great kindness in helping her and her little ones. The following are their names:—Collected by Mr Lee, Circus, Rochdale: Smith and Lee, £1; Auld Town, 5s.; Cavil, 2s. 6d.; Mrs Coulthard, 2s. 6d.; A Friend, 2s. 6d.; Miss Taylor, 2s.; C. Bush, 2s.; Bass, 1s.; Prof. M'Cann, 5s.; Friend, 6d.; Friend, 1s.; Tory Lord, 2s. 6d.; Harry Bent, 5s.; Milner Verren, 5s.; Floradoras, 5s.; Mignon, 2s.; Renstone, 2s. 6d.; Alec Kennedy, 2s. 6d.; W. A. Nichol, 2s. 6d.; Vol Becque, 1s.; Swift Trio, 2s.; Mdlle. De Rose, 2s. 6d.; J. H. Hawtrey, 2s. 6d.; W. Whitney, 1s.; J. Kerhaw, 2s. 6d.; A Friend, 1s.; Gartside, 1s.; A Friend, 1s.; Dando, 1s.; W. Wycherley, 2s. Collected by Mr Hayworth, 8, Peter-street, Manchester, of Black and Hayworth, Variety Agents: Hayworth, £12 12s.; Charles Digale (secc.), £4 11s. 9d; James Holden, £2 6s. 4d.; Hippodrome, Bury, 14s. Total, £24 13s. 1d. Collected by Mr Terry from artistes, Theatre Royal, Woolwich, 10s.

ON Tuesday, at Barnet County Court, William George Barker, of the Autoscope Company, Gray's-inn-road, was mulcted in £5 damages and costs for trespassing at Rowley Green Farm, Arkley. Mr Poole, solicitor for Mr King, farmer, the plaintiff, described the trespass as particularly impudent. Defendant drove up with two van loads of people, and entered a fifteen-acre field, untethered the horses, and trod down the aftermath, on Sept. 20, doing damage to the amount claimed. No permission had been asked or obtained. Defendant admitted that he had done wrong in entering the field, but thought the case would be met without going into court, by paying £1 to a local hospital. He had only two waggonettes and thirteen persons all told. They took 11,000 or 12,000 photographs, but did not roam over the whole fifteen acres of grass in the field.

AT the Newport Empire this week Paul Mill, comedian, is popular; the Brothers Edgar, old favourites, win much applause; and Minnie Derson, a charming artiste, finds favour. Alexandre and Hughes are applauded; Ray Wallace shows considerable musical ability; and Harry Anderson is a warm favourite. Sydney James's Strolling Players present a miscellaneous entertainment; Lil Hawthorne is charming in costume and song; and the Sisters Geretti perform marvellous feats on the trapeze.

AT the Bordesley Palace, Birmingham, this week that popular comedian Charles Coborn is being well received. The Stella Troupe's songs and dances are applauded; Carl and Mary Ohm have a clever animal exhibition; and amongst the acrobatic turns are those of the Baldwin Brothers, the Five Olraes, and the Three Mascottes, Nellie Young, comedienne, and Will Newman, comedian, are encored for their songs, and Prince Kokin does a clever juggling act.

PRESENTATION.—At the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, on Saturday, Mr Joseph Myers, who has had charge of the box-office for the last eighteen months, was presented with a handsome silver-handled walking stick by his fellow workers and friends, on relinquishing the position to take up an appointment with his uncle, the Mayor of Cape Town.

SCENIC ARTISTS IN COUNCIL.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA)

Mr WALTER HANN presided over the eleventh meeting of the Committee of the Scenic Artists' Association, held at the offices, 5, Robert-street, Adelphi, at 7·0 p.m., on Monday last, Nov. 21st. There were present Messrs E. G. Banks, J. J. Markwell Davis, Richard Douglass, Joseph Harker, W. T. Hemsley, Herbert Hinton, H. W. Owen, Harry Potts, H. W. Robinson, W. B. Spong, and George Tweddell; also Messrs Phil Harker and G. R. Hemsley (auditors), Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart. (as member of the Exhibition Sub-Committee), and Mr H. Lawrence Harris, secretary.

A letter was read from Mr Hedley Churchward, of the Opera House, Cape Town, accepting the post of honorary representative of the Association in Cape Colony.

The SECRETARY reported that he had sent each member notice of the general meeting in the form following:—

THE SCENIC ARTISTS' ASSOCIATION,
5, Robert-street, Adelphi-terrace, London, W.C.,
Nov. 14, 1904.

Dear Sir,—An Extraordinary General Meeting of the members of this Association will be held at the Caledonian Hotel, Robert-street, Adelphi-terrace, Strand, at 8·0 p.m., on Monday next, the 21st November instant, for the purposes of—(a) Considering the report of the Committee from April 30 last to date; (b) considering the report of the Exhibition (1905) Sub-committee; and (c) considering the ways and means of increasing the Exhibition Guarantee Fund, to which Sir Philip Burne-Jones (an honorary member), and Messrs Richard Douglass, Walter Hann, William Harford, W. T. Hemsley, and Harry Potts have subscribed £5 5s. each.

Please inform me by return of post if you will be able to attend the meeting, and send me on or before Saturday next, the 19th inst., a copy of any resolution you may propose to move at the meeting, that same may be included in the Chairman's agenda paper. A form of proxy is annexed for use in the event of it not being convenient for you to attend personally.

Please present this circular on entering the room on Monday, and kindly sign the attendance book.

By Order of the Committee,
H. LAWRENCE HARRIS, Secretary.

On the nomination of the CHAIRMAN, Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, R.A., and Messrs Frederick Harrison and Cyril Maude, of the Haymarket Theatre, were unanimously elected honorary members of the Association.

Mr H. P. Hall, of Seacombe, Cheshire; Mr John M. O'Farrell, of Paisley, N.B.; and Mr John W. Wilson Woodward, scenic artist, Metropolitan Music Hall, were duly elected to the membership of the Association.

The third (extraordinary) general meeting of the Scenic Artists' Association was held at the Caledonian Hotel at 8 o'clock in the evening of Monday, Nov. 21.

In the unavoidable absence of the president, Mr Hawes Craven, the chair was taken by Mr JOSEPH HARKER, vice-president, and the vice-chair by Mr WALTER HANN.

There were present Messrs E. G. Banks, F. Browning, Jules Camus, Alfred E. Craven, Hedley Churchward (by proxy), T. C. Daly (by proxy), J. J. Markwell Davis, Richard Douglass, F. J. Dowling, Thos. F. Dunn (by proxy), Richard C. Durant (by proxy), William Harford, Phil Harker, G. R. Hemsley, H. M. Hemsley, W. T. Hemsley, Herbert Hinton, E. J. Hirst, J. I. Keith (by proxy), Edward H. Lyneham, Harry Mapleson, William R. Martin, J. Davies Massey, H. W. Owen, S. H. Paterman, Harry Pierse, Harry Potts, H. W. Robinson, A. C. Rogers (by proxy), R. S. Smythe, W. B. Spong, W. Telbin, George Tweddell, H. Warner, Harry Woolls, and W. R. Young (by proxy), Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart. (an honorary member), and Mr H. Lawrence Harris, Secretary.

The notice convening the meeting was read and the minutes of the general meetings held respectively on April 30 and May 24, 1904, were read and confirmed by the meeting and signed by the chairman.

The CHAIRMAN (Mr Joseph Harker) said—I think I can congratulate you, gentlemen, on the satisfactory progress the Scenic Artists' Association has made since the last general meeting in May. There are now seventy-four ordinary members. I may here mention that one of our honorary members, Sir Philip Burne-Jones, has subscribed £1 1s. to our general funds and £5 5s. to the Exhibition Guarantee Fund.

The principal object of our meeting this evening is to invite your approval of the committee's scheme for an exhibition to be held in February next, as provided for by Rule No. 16. The Exhibition sub-committee will put before you a project necessitating a guarantee, and it is for you, gentlemen, to approve or amend the project, and to say what sum you will each individually subscribe to the Guarantee Fund. Before proceeding to the particular business of the evening, I will call upon the secretary to read you first a brief report of the work of the committee, between April 30 last and the present date, and ask you to adopt the same, and convey to the committee and the other honorary officers of the Association your appreciation of their arduous labours on your behalf. I may add that the committee have held no less than ten meetings with an average of attendance of eight members at each meeting, and Mr Walter Hann has presided over nine of these meetings, and Mr Richard Douglass over one. Messrs E. G. Banks, Richard Douglass, Harry Potts, and H. W. Robinson have only been absent from two meetings. The secretary will now read the report of the committee.

The SECRETARY then read:—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

At their first meeting on June 1 your committee resolved that the secretary keep a register of artists wanted and artists seeking employment. Between Sept. 15 and Nov. 14 the secretary received seventeen applications for artists (an average of over two per week), and thirteen artists entered their names as disengaged. Mr Walter Hann and Mr Harry Potts were authorised on Aug. 8 to take, on a three years' agreement, the present offices, 5, Robert-street, and the secretary was instructed to purchase the necessary furniture. Possession was taken of the offices on Aug. 27 last.

At the fourth committee meeting, held on Aug. 31 the rules as passed at the general meeting of May 24 were clerically revised as they now appear in the printed book of rules, and the secretary was instructed to charge members 6d. for each copy.

On Oct. 3, at the seventh committee meeting, Mr George Tweddell was elected a member of the committee, Mr Joseph Harker having at an earlier meeting been nominated Vice-President.

On the eighth meeting, held on Oct. 17, Messrs E. G. Banks, Walter Hann, and W. B. Spong were appointed a sub-committee to draft the scheme for an exhibition of scenic art to be held in February next, and at the meeting, held on Oct 31, Messrs A. E. Craven, William Harford, Joseph Harker, and W. T. Hemsley, and Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart. (an honorary member) were added to the sub-committee, and on the 14th inst. reported to the committee that they recommended the renting of Clifford's-inn Hall for the week of Feb. 20, 1905, with the option (if possible to obtain) of a renewal for a second week in the event of success, and this report your committee decided to consider further after hearing the views of the members generally at the present meeting.

Mr G. R. HEMSLEY, in a neat speech, proposed a vote of thanks to the committee and other honorary officers of the Association for their services during the past six months.

This was seconded by Mr J. DAVIES-MASSEY and carried nem con.

Mr WALTER HANN, the vice-chairman, then said:—Gentlemen, you will be pleased to hear that Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, R.A., having signified that it would be agreeable to him to become a member of the Scenic Artists' Association, was elected an honorary member at the committee meeting held an hour ago, and Sir Philip Burne-Jones has kindly consented to convey to Sir Lawrence an appreciation of the honour he will do the association in accepting membership. I have also pleasure in informing you that Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema has kindly offered to lend to our proposed exhibition a model and sketches he made for the production of Coriolanus. It also gives me pleasure to announce, gentlemen, that Mr Frederick Harrison and Mr Cyril Maude have also been elected honorary members.

Mr WALTER HANN then stated the efforts made by the committee to secure a suitable hall or gallery at a moderate rent for the proposed exhibition, and moved on behalf of the Exhibition Sub-Committee that the Association's Exhibition of February, 1905, be held in Clifford's-inn Hall. An amendment was moved that the Exhibition be held in a Bond-street Gallery, and Mr TELBIN stated that if the latter resolution were carried he would exhibit and subscribe at least £10 10s. to the Guarantee Fund. Both resolutions were then put to the meeting, and on a show of hands the Chairman declared the amendment carried.

Mr W. TELBIN moved, and Mr OWEN seconded, and it was unanimously resolved, that the works of past scenic artists be eligible for exhibition.

Mr SMYTHE moved that no member shall receive relief from the Benevolent Fund until he has been a subscriber for at least twelve months, and Mr BANKS moved as an amendment that the administration of the Benevolent Fund be left, as per Rule No. 8, to the sole discretion of the committee. The amendment was carried.

Mr T. C. DALY moved (by proxy) that original water-colour drawings to be exhibited be mounted on cardboard, and be framed or not, at sender's option. Mr BANKS moved as an amendment that all drawings and paintings exhibited be framed, and the latter resolution was carried.

The CHAIRMAN then announced that the subscriptions from members present to the Exhibition Guarantee Fund amounted to £71 10s. 6d., and that the secretary would write to each of the members absent asking for subscriptions and particulars of their intending exhibits.

There being no response to his enquiry if any member had any further business to bring forward the Chairman declared the business of the evening ended.

Mr HARRY POTTS then proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman and Vice-Chairman for their able conduct of the proceedings. This, being put to the meeting by the secretary, was carried by acclamation.

"BROTHER JACQUES."

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the Nixon Theatre, Pittsburgh, recently, Miss Annie Russell and her company produced a comedy by Henry Bernstein and Pierre Veber, entitled Brother Jacques, adapted from the French. A charming young heiress called Genevieve is staying with her aunt, Madame Morange, and her old playmate, Jacques Jouvenin, at the château of the aunt outside of Paris. They live in undisturbed happiness until Genevieve reaches the age when she ought to marry and make a home for herself. This question seriously occupies Madame Morange and Jacques Jouvenin, who are anxious about Genevieve's felicity, and when the Marquis De Chantalard and his son Jean make their appearance both hit upon the idea of giving Genevieve to the young nobleman, who belongs to the best family in the country. The Marquis, on his part, bent upon finding a rich wife for his son in order to retrieve his shattered financial position, hails the opportunity, and a wedding is arranged by Jacques' aid, who persuades Genevieve to accept young Chantalard. In the second act we are introduced to the wedding party, a gay company, and learn of Jacques's intention to accept a situation in South America, in order to do something and have a change of surroundings. Genevieve, who is about to leave on her honeymoon trip, on being informed of his intention bursts into tears, and takes a long farewell of him, making Jacques promise to write to her, and not forget her. In the next act the newly married couple are alone together for the first time in Genevieve's boudoir, where supper has been laid for two. Young Chantalard, who, besides being a simpleton, does not care the least bit for his young wife, forces himself to appear agreeable, but he can ill conceal that the telegram which he had shortly before received from his ballet-girl in Paris has upset him. Genevieve is informed of this state of affairs by the family lawyer when it is too late to retract the step taken. Mons. Bellecontre, however, tells her how she can rid herself of her husband. Genevieve talks to Chantalard about his Loulsette. He is at first surprised at her knowing about it, but finally confesses that he still loves her very much. Genevieve advises him to take the next train for Paris, and see her to-night. He hesitates, fearing his father's wrath, but ultimately accepts the proposition and makes his departure through the window. When he is gone, Genevieve rings for her maid, has all the guests called into her boudoir, and throws herself on the ottoman crying and shrieking "He has left me! I want a divorce." When all learn the cause of this uproar, Chantalard's father offers to bring his son back, but Genevieve will not hear of this, and after much parleying, and several futile efforts on the part of the Chantalards, a divorce is agreed upon. Meanwhile, Madame Morange, guessing the reason of all this trouble, wires to Jacques and asks him to come back, as the family is ruined, the lawyer having badly invested their fortune. This unpleasant news brings Jacques back. The meeting between him and Genevieve is touching, and they discover that they love each other. Both Jacques and the lawyer fume when they learn that they have been tricked by Madame Morange, but they soon forgive her, for it means Genevieve's happiness. There being no further obstacle for their union, Jacques and Genevieve determine to become united, to the delight of their friends. Miss Annie Russell was a sweet, charming little Genevieve, and played admirably. Jacques Jouvenin was given by Mr Oswald Yorke in a masterly way. Mr Grant Stewart made an excellent Marquis De Chantalard, and Mr Joseph Wheelock, jun.'s Jean Chantalard was a good character sketch. Mrs Chas. W. Walcot as Madame Morange was delightful, and so was Miss Elizbbeth Johnson as Flossie Adams, the American heiress and Genevieve's bosom friend. The rest of the company supported ably.

THE principal attraction at the Britannia Theatre this week is the drama entitled Death or Glory Boys, played by the stock company. Mr Hamilton Stewart as Jack Malden gives a manly embodiment of this important part, and Mr W. S. Hartford as Captain Glynn Ferrers ably depicts the villainous character of the man. Mr Fred Groves scores as Captain Duff. Mr Charles Langley is well placed as Colonel Ferguson, and that useful actor, Mr Charles A. East, does admirable work as Carn. Mr Tom Wallace gets a good deal of fun out of the part of Nat Wilks, and is ably seconded by Miss Marie Wright as Jane. Miss Rose Ralph is seen to considerable advantage as Nena Ferguson, and Miss Dorothy Cacey deserves every credit for her excellent impersonation of Edith Malden. The contributors to the variety entertainment include Luis Hardt, a miniature Hercules whose feats of strength are greatly admired, and Nellie Royd and John Tudor. The farce, Family Jars, capitally played by Messrs Fred Groves, C. E. Never, Tom Wallis, Charles Groves, Thornton, and Misses Marshall and V. Temple, brings the programme to a merry ending.

THE German novelist and playwright, Herr Hans Von Hopfen, died at Lichterfelde, near Berlin, on Saturday morning. Herr Von Hopfen, who was in his seventieth year, was a native of Munich, and till the year 1860 he resided in the Bavarian capital, and was a member of the literary circle which enjoyed the patronage of King Maximilian II. His dramatic efforts included Die Gottin der Vernunft, Aschenbrodel in Böhmen, and his more recent fantastic comedy, Der Hexenfang, but they were less successful than his novels, notwithstanding his unusual command of dramatic technique.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"UNE AFFAIRE SCANDALEUSE."
Farcical Comedy, in Four Acts,

Clairette	Mdlle. BERLAND
Titine	Mdlle. CORCIADE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, NOV. 24.—The Palais Royal has returned to its old traditions, and has produced a farce on the time-honoured lines. The house resounded with genuine laughter, and it is to be hoped that fortune will smile once more on this popular theatre. There certainly is no lack of fun. In the small town of Nevers the two families Dandinet and Jabotin hate one another with a deadly hatred. But, if the parents are at war, the same cannot be said of the children. Hector Dandinet loves Denise Jabotin, and the young lady reciprocates his feelings. Denise, however, by her father's orders, had to promise her hand to Anatole, a wealthy young idiot; and the story opens on the day of the signing of their marriage contract, a ceremony to which many guests have been convened. In this supreme hour Hector makes his appearance, and, in a tête-á tête with Denise, swears that he will use fair and foul means to prevent this match. He starts work at once. Having shaved off his beautiful long beard he disguises himself as a waiter, takes the place of the man whom the Jabotins had engaged for the marriage contract ceremony, and succeeds in stealing the contract from the family lawyer's pocket. So far all right. But the hateful Anatole is still Denise's fiancé, and a trap must be laid to compromise him in the eyes of his intended father-in-law. With the help of two of Hector's chums the guileless Anatole is induced to give a farewell dinner to his friends at a famous restaurant, and Hector arranges with the proprietor to be allowed to act again as waiter. Hector has made all his preparations. He had engaged some cocottes to join the feast, and when Jabotin, to whom Hector sent an anonymous letter, suddenly enters the room, he finds Anatole seated on the sofa struggling with four ladies, who overwhelm him with caresses. Unfortunately, the unforeseen happens. Jabotin, at first incensed, is induced to drink champagne, after which he becomes bolsterous and embraces the ladies. This plot having failed, Hector promptly devises another trick. One of the damsels—"La Môme Angora"—invited to the feast puts in an appearance late, and Hector instructs her to entice Anatole into the adjoining room, and, when alone with him, throw open the window and call for help. The damsel does as she is told, but to no purpose, for by some mistake on her part it is not Anatole but La Bobine, a stone-deaf countryman, who finds his way into the room.

Poor Hector, beaten on every side, now makes another effort. Remembering that on the night of the banquet Jabotin was hopelessly drunk, Hector, disguised as a gasman, calls on Jabotin and succeeds in making him believe that he (Jabotin) assaulted "La Môme Angora" and also struck the waiter, who died the next morning of his wounds. The frightened Jabotin thereupon offers him money to keep the matter secret. But the gasman is not mercenary. Hector, he says, is his benefactor, and all he wants is to see Hector happy. If Jabotin will but let Hector marry Denise, he (the gasman) will remain silent. And Jabotin is compelled to give his consent. Hector's joy at the success of his stratagem does not last long. His friend, Des Clampettes, calling on Jabotin, commits an awful blunder, whereupon the latter takes back his promise. The distracted lover then plays his last card. Jabotin is constantly thinking of the waiter he is supposed to have murdered; and Hector now appears in the character of a ghost. This time he would certainly have succeeded in frightening the old man into submission but for Anatole, who, having got hold of the clue, informs Jabotin that Hector, the waiter, the gas man, and the ghost were one and the same person. And Anatole in his indignation cannot help upbraiding his future brother-in-law and telling him that he, as a magistrate and an intelligent man, should not have allowed himself to be bamboozled in such a silly fashion. This is too much for Jabotin. He shows the tactless Anatole the door, and vows that neither Hector nor Anatole shall have Denise. But at this critical moment the girl herself comes to the rescue. "Hector," she says to her father, "certainly played you some horrible tricks but, at all events, he appreciated your qualities. He looks upon you as a genius." These few words of flattery have the desired effect. The father relents, and Denise is at liberty to marry her Hector. The weight of the piece rested principally on the shoulders of M. Galipaux, who has a rôle that suited him down to the ground. As usual, he was excellent in the different parts he had to play. M. Hurteaux supplied a capital caricature of the silly old magistrate; M. Préville gave us in Anatole a naif and distrustful provincial; and MM. Lamy and Guyon made the most of their short rôles. There are many pretty women in the piece; they have little to do, but that little they did well.

AT the Porte-Saint-Martin there are ructions between the managers. It was rumoured that M Clèves intended to resign his post. To-day, however, we are officially informed that it is not M. Clèves but M. Paul Clerget who will sever his connection with that playhouse.

"A FLEUR DE PEAU, the new revue brought out at La Scala, Paris, contains a rather dramatic scene. It is called Le Cabaret des Petits Anges. In a low bar, below stairs, some sinister-looking individuals are drinking with a number of women. Georgette makes love to Julot, Clara's man, whereupon Clara throws herself upon her rival. She seizes a knife, and, in the excitement of the fight, stabs Blanche, who has tried to interpose. And when the police, attracted by the noise, enter the room, the men and women start dancing and singing round the corpse to deceive the policemen, who go away without having seen anything.

A HIGHLY CORDIAL reception was accorded to In the Shadow of Night by the large audience present at the Stratford Theatre Royal on Monday, the many thrilling situations and exciting incidents which pervade the piece appealing with eloquent force to those present, and in the River Thames scene, when the stage is flooded with water, a high pitch of enthusiasm is reached, albeit the applause has a sympathetic ring for those who have to suffer immersion during the prevailing inclement weather. Mr Howard L. Tracy acts with buoyancy, and speaks his lines spiritedly as Gordon Allington, and Mr Hamilton Deane contributes a clever exposition of gentlemanly blackguardism as Clifford Yorke. Mr Chisholm Taylor is a manly and alert Tom Nainby, and Mr Fred Norburn is responsible for a well-defined sketch of Jake Grudgewell. Mr George Harvey makes a dignified figure of Squire Allington, Mr Ern Carlton, is a bluff and hearty James Woodstock; and Mr Archie Selwyn in the dual rôle of a "milk-and-water" curate and an aged, deaf postman displays much ability. Miss Nellie Sheffield is charming and vivacious in the important rôle of Mollie Woodstock; Miss May Richardson contributes a sympathetic embodiment of Violet Kingston; and Miss Millie Gordon becomes a general favourite as the little tramp Bob.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.

The performance of Lohengrin suffered slightly owing to the absence of Teutonic earnestness, which adds greatly to the German representations, and which we can hardly expect a Neapolitan company to revel in. Madame De Cisneros evidently understood the German tone of Lohengrin better than her companions, and her rendering of Ortrud had some excellent points. Madame Wayda sang with considerable taste as the heroine, but she lacked sufficient volume. Signor Vignas displayed ability as the Knight of the Swan. The choruses were well rendered under Signor Campanini, who also kept the orchestra well in hand, and did not overpower the vocalists.

On Monday last the ever-popular Carmen was given with two new vocalists, Madame Lafargue and M. Cornubert. The lady has a good voice, a little uncertain, however, in the upper register. M. Cornubert has evidently not been used to singing in so large a house, and this fact was to some extent against him, but Miss Alice Nielsen did herself credit as Micaela, and Signor Amato sang well as Escamillo. In other respects Bizet's opera was satisfactorily represented.

The revival of Verdi's fine opera Otello was an event of unusual importance at Covent-garden on Thursday night, especially as M. Maurel, the original Iago, once more appeared in the character he played with such wonderful force and power. Written when the "Grand Old Man" of Italy was four score years of age, the strength and freshness of the music of Otello astonished not Italy alone, but the whole world, and the greatest of marvels was how an Italian composer could have so completely caught the spirit of the English poet as Verdi has done, although he has at times added a little of Southern grace, such, for example, as the exquisite Madrigal. A performance to equal the original could hardly be expected, yet, upon the whole, there was so much to praise and so little to condemn that we can afford to give the Neapolitan company almost unqualified commendation. Perhaps the chorus was a little weaker than it has been, but the vocalists have had hard work, and it was a courageous effort of the San Carlo troupe to give this noble dramatic opera so late in the season. The orchestra did well under Signor Campanini, who kept his forces somewhat subdued, and rightly too, or the refined singing of Madame Giachetti as Desdemona would have been overpowered. The prima-donna hardly realised our ideal of the "gentle lady who loved the Moor" in appearance, but as an artist she reached a high standard of excellence, and her acting was graceful and impressive. M. Maurel could not give us quite the Iago of old days, but the veteran's acting was as fine as ever, and his power in the famous Credo could not be denied. M. Duc did not make us forget the stentorian notes of Tamagno as Otello, and he was also out of voice, but at times he almost reached the height of his great argument. The other parts were fairly filled, and altogether it was another triumph for the San Carlo company.

"FOURCHETTE AND COMPANY."

A New and Original Play, in One Act,
by Brandon Thomas, Produced at the Opera House,
Northampton, on Monday, Nov. 21.

Prince Del Crillo	Mr HENRY AINLEY
Isabella	Miss RUTH SUFFIELD
Sergeant Robert Fletcher	Mr LUMSDEN HARE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

The action takes place in a present-day café-restaurant near High Holborn the ostensible proprietors being the firm of Fourchette and Co., but the real owner being Prince Del Crillo, who has been trying to retrieve his fortunes by commercial pursuits. Successful at first, he meets with a young and pretty English girl, and eventually marries her under his sub-title of Count Monte, but conceals from her that he is running a restaurant. His business begins to fall off. An aggressive opponent secures his chef and best assistants, and he is left alone with no one to help him and no customers. His wife and her brother, Sergeant Fletcher, who has just come back from the South African campaign, wanting refreshment, select the prince's restaurant as being quiet. He attempts to serve as proprietor, manager, and waiter, but Isabella penetrates her husband's disguises, tells her brother who the restaurant keeper is, and asks him to aid her in exciting her husband's jealousy by pretending to make love to her. This causes some amusing misconceptions, when, as things are at their worst for the Prince, a compromise offered by the rival restaurant keeper helps to bring about explanations. Miss Ruth Suffield made a pretty and bonny English girl. Mr Lumsden Hare was excellent in the rôle of the Sergeant, playing it carefully and artistically.

AT the Elephant and Castle, on Monday, was revived the drama, in five acts, by Sydney Grundy and Henry Pettitt, entitled The Union Jack. Almost another generation of playgoers has arrived since those clever dramatists and collaborators Mr Sydney Grundy and the late Mr Henry Pettitt gave to the dramatic world the series of powerful melodramas that made the old Adelphi walls echo with the enthusiastic cheers of excited audiences. Although at the present day some lovers of dramatic fare take their pleasures more soberly, there is no mistaking the keen enjoyment of this theatre's clientèle in following the fortunes of pretty Ethel Arden and her manly sailor-lover Jack Medway, in Mr Ernest E. Norris's highly creditable revival this week of the old Adelphi drama The Union Jack. As Jack Medway Mr Ernest E. Norris sustains the part with the earnestness and vigour that mark all this gifted actor does. As Ethel Arden Mrs Bennett gives another of those charming embodiments that have made her a firm favourite here. It is full of sincerity and grace. As Ruth Medway Miss Judith Kyrle imbues the character with delicacy and feeling, and easily wins the sympathies of her audience; she shows artistically the pathos of regret and the bitterness of despair. Miss Edith Tasca Page as Ivy Arden gives a very pleasing performance, full of simple and genuine sentiment. Mr Ernest Percy invests Captain Morton with a calculating cruelty that is highly effective. As Sir Phillip Yorke Mr Howard Templeton acts admirably. Mr Paige Lawrence as Lieut. Stanley plays with dignity and power, and contributes much to the general success. The comedy parts are safe in the hands of Miss Agnes Paulton as Polly Pippin, Mr Harry Paulton, jun., as Peter Fly, and Mr Jo. Monkhouse as Tom Chuckle. As Mrs Pippin Miss Sophie Shenton gives another of her delightful character sketches. Minor parts are well filled and carefully handled by Miss Blanche Jordan as Mrs Stone, Mr Edwin Bennett as Stone, Mr Thomas Ball as O'Grady, Mr Edward Snow as the Inspector, Mr Dudley Hayes as the Sergeant, and Mr Arthur Wilson as an officer. The mounting deserves special commendation, and the highly efficient orchestra, under the direction of Mr J. Nurnberger, deserves a word of warm praise.

AT the Grand Theatre, Margate, this week, Miss Rosalind Scott-Watson's company has been appearing in The Scarlet Woman. Mr Reginald Fox is a capital Michael Marchant, and Mr David M'Farlane makes the character of Will Rayment sufficiently villainous. Mr George R. Butt gives a satisfactory portrayal of Philip Gordon, and as Jacob Isaacson Mr James Thompson is well cast. As Marie Brandon in the title-rôle, Miss Rosalind Scott-Watson plays admirably a very trying part. Mr Mat Melrose as Samuel Hopkins, Miss Ruby Hamilton-Belasco as Charlotte Simpkins, and Miss Lalla Cowall as Fanchette contribute ably.

ALL the arrangements for the two command performances at Windsor Castle during the visit of the King and Queen of Portugal were admirably carried out by Mr George Ashton on behalf of his Majesty.

AMUSEMENTS IN BRUSSELS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

BRUSSELS, NOV. 23.—Although our town is rather quiet, as it always is at this time of the year, the theatres are playing to good houses; Royalty is taking the lead, and others follow. This week only, the Théâtre De La Monnaie, the Théâtre Royal Du Parc, and the Palais d'Été have been honoured by the presence of T. R. H. the Countess De Flandre, Prince and Princess Albert of Belgium.

THE Monnaie has revived Gounod's ever-green Faust, with a fine cast, new scenery by Dubosq, new dresses, and a splendid ballet; then have commenced performances of Tannhäuser and Die Walküre, with the tenor, Van Dyck, surrounded by first-class singers.

AT the Parc Donnay's Retour de Jérusalem has given place to Brieux's La Déserteuse, with Madame Rosa Bruck in the title-part. Another of Brieux's plays, Maternité, is on the bill at the Théâtre Molière.

M. BERR DE TURRIQUA'S play Le Marocain, otherwise The Portfolio, has made a hit at the Alcazar. This theatre has been quite redecorated, and has a new hall more spacious and much nicer than the former ones. The management announces special performances of La Vie Parisienne, with Mdlle. Méaly.

AT the Vaudeville, Antony Mars's La Marmotte does not keep the audiences sleepy, as one can hear from the roars of laughter it provokes every night.

THE Circus Wulff presents a fine programme of attractions and a gorgeous pantomime. Special mention should be made of Colonel Bordeverry gradually undressing a lady with his clever shots, and in the comic note Tom Bibb and his Agouste Petit.

AFTER a short run of a new operetta, Arlette, composed by Jane Vieu, the Galeries are producing Serpette's Little Red Riding Hood. Last week their store-rooms were entirely burnt down. The losses, which are heavy, are only partly covered by the insurances. The Société du Passage, proprietors of the scenery, will bear the consequences of this unfortunate accident.

THE Olympia is still drawing full houses with their fine revue Bruxelles-Sahara, to which has been added one entirely new act. Fun and prettiness and no vulgarity are always a draw. The Scala's revue Tout l'monde Marche, is still doing well. At the Palais d'Eté, who announce their last performances of the season, a splendid programme is presented, including Mdlle. Auriac, a Parisian singer; Miss Floye Thropp, American transformation singer and dancer, a really good turn; Charles D'Aix and his dog Merveille; Arthur Arnold and Miss Alba in their jumping and modelling act; the Three Braggs, acrobats; Fred Gillett Trio in Fun at a Hairdresser's; the clever Harveys on the wire; Macarte's dogs and monkeys circus; Henriette Leblond, a comic songstress; and the Werner Amoros, in their world-renowned pantomime Caught in the Act. The Palais D'Eté closes it doors on Dec. 11, and the Pole Nord opens a few days later, to the intense delight of skaters on real ice.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The quartet for strings by Mr Frank Bridge, called "Novelletten," produced at the concert on Thursday last, had considerable merit, especially in the andante moderato and finale. The scherzo was so short that it literally flashed through the quartet and made us wish for more. It was well played by the composer and Messrs Kinze, Armstrong, and Ivor James, and made a most favourable impression, besides giving agreeable promise for the future. Miss Olive Blume, in the study in waltz form by M. Saint-Saëns, acquitted herself admirably, and Mr T. Greeves Johnson's beautiful voice told well in the "Three Serious Songs" of Brahms. The "Chanson Provençal" of Dell' Acqua was charmingly sung by Miss Dorothy Court, and the Sonata in A of Boccherini was beautifully played by Miss Beatrice Jones, who did ample justice to the fine old Italian master of the violoncello. The trio of Tschaikowsky in A minor concluded the concert.

COUNCILLOR HENRY TAYLOR (ex mayor), the manager and lessee of the Lyceum Theatre, Crewe, was on Wednesday last re-elected to the chair of the Health Committee for the ninth consecutive year.

THE exhibitions which are offered annually by the board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music have this year been awarded to the following candidates:—Pianoforte.—Miss Cordelia H. Montgomery; Miss Eleanor G. Parry. Violin.—Miss Constance M. Walden. These exhibitions entitle their holders to free musical education at the Royal Academy of Music or the Royal College of Music for two, and in some cases three, years. The exhibitions which have been held for two years by the Misses Dorothy L. Grinsted (pianoforte), Helen F. E. Boyd (violin), Gwendolen Griffiths ('cello), at the Royal Academy of Music, and by the Misses Winifred M. Gardiner (pianoforte), and Theresa M. Lightfoot (singing), at the Royal College of Music, have been renewed for another year.

MR VAL GULLY, who has just concluded a successful tour as Toto in Messrs Dottridge and Longden's King of Crime company; and Miss Pollie Denville, who has been playing in Mr Stillwell's Queen of the Night company as Kitty White, have been engaged by Mr Frank Macnaghten for Phyllis and Ebenezer Muggins in his Christmas production of The King's Pardon.—Mr Herbert Marle, who has just concluded a highly successful tour with Mr Leonard Rayne's company, has been engaged by Messrs B. and F. Wheeler for their tour, visiting all the principal towns in South Africa, to play in The Sign of the Cross, The Silver King, and Are You a Mason? He expects to return to England early next year.

THESE was produced for copyright purposes on the 10th inst. at the Theatre Royal, Leeds, a play, in four acts, by G. Carlton Wallace, entitled The Better Life.

A FEW members of the profession are organising a benefit for Mr Fred Percy, who has just lost his wife, and who has had a very hard time of it lately.

PRESENTATION.—Mr J. Herbert Asquith, the resident manager of the Theatre Royal, Dewsbury, and Mrs Asquith, were presented on the 18th inst. by the theatre working staff with a fine £2 piece mounted in 18 carat gold, and a beautifully bound floral album elaborately inscribed. The gifts were feelingly acknowledged.

PRESENTATION.—Mr Claude Trevelyan, amongst whose pupils may be counted many of our leading actresses and vocalists, received, on the occasion of his recent birthday, a very beautiful gold-mounted ivory bâton with the inscription, "To Claude Trevelyan, Esq., in token of his skill and courtesy, from a few of his grateful pupils."

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—Owing to a programme error, the parts of Dick and Wally, in Two Little Vagabonds (S.) company, were attributed to Miss Phyllis B. French and Miss Violet Carr in your notice last week of Widnes. The parts were sustained by Miss Frances Ferina (Dick) and Miss Phyllis B French (Wally).—Yours faithfully, PHYLLIS F. FRENCH, Queen's Theatre, Dublin, Nov. 24

"PHILIP OF MACEDON."

A Tragedy, by FREDERICK WINBOLT.
Alexander Moring, Ltd., The De La More Press, 32, George-street, Hanover-square, W.

Philip II, King of Macedonia, was famous as a warrior, but in private life he was anything but a saint. He was self indulgent and a sensualist, he was not a man of his word, and quite unscrupulous as to the ways by which he gained his ends. It was true he had to deal frequently with factious and faithless opponents, which may help to explain if it does not justify his policy; while his clemency as a victor has won the admiration even of the virtuous Cicero, who pronounces him "always great." That he had force and energy of character cannot be denied, and contemporaries bear witness to his acuteness, fertility of invention, and eloquence. He was also a lover of learning and a liberal patron of learned men. Such was the man who plays the leading part in Mr Winbolt's tragedy, and whose tragic death forms the climax of the play. When he was within a few years of fifty he became enamoured of a beautiful girl, Cleopatra, daughter of Attalus, one of his generals, and in the first act of the tragedy we learn that Philip's wife Olympias, is jealous of her rival. She makes a confidant of her son Alexander—afterwards Alexander the Great—telling him how the King, his father, formerly leant on her advice, for she "was the foremost in the land, the first! the wife of Philip, ruling, ruled by none! And now!—now I am fallen, fallen to the depths where degradation dwells; for to be second is to be the last!" Referring to her youthful rival she exclaims:—

> So young—so beautiful!—that is man's judgment!
> The fairness of a face—the outward form!
> The mind that ever lighted his ambition
> Fades before this—this dwarf of intellect—
> This feeble comprehension of a man
> Born for great actions, born to govern realms
> Boundless and vast. And he is satisfied,
> He is o'erjoyed to see this nothing smile,
> To hear her emptiest sentence!—while I stand
> Hidden within myself—as one long dead—
> Lost in the darkness of indifference!

Polygamy was permitted in those days, and Philip proposes to make the fair Cleopatra his wife. One can sympathise with the middle-aged woman whose youthful charms have faded; and who admits that she is "now too old, too cramped in years, too usual a sight in Philip's eye to please it as of yore." Addressing Cleopatra she says:—

> Youth in her kindest mood hath kissed th's cheek,
> Hath filled these eyes with all her morning dew,
> Hath stroked this flowing hair, and made it soft,
> To ride upon the least faint wind of summer.
> O to have beauty is to know the gods
> Have loved us at our birth—yet is it futile
> If it must ere remain as fairest lands
> That never have been viewed by loving eye.
> But thou, sweet happy maiden, know'st no slight,
> No lack of fond affection; thou hast brought
> A warrior of might, a potent king
> To make thy smile the glory of his joy,
> Thy gloom his misery. Then be content!
> Be satisfied that thou dost rule us all,
> And that we are as nothing in the sight
> Of Macedonia's lord—whilst thou, sweet maid,
> Outweigh at the world itself, art more to him
> Than fortune, power, possessions, victories!

The bitter jealousy of the slighted woman breeds criminal designs, and she makes a sinister appeal to Alexander to kill his father, but he upbraids her for giving utterance to such thoughts. At a banquet in celebration of the marriage Attalus, whose tongue has been loosened by wine, addressing the regal bridegroom, expresses the hope that his daughter, the new queen, may give "thy throne an heir legitimate and true, a worthy son well fitted to be King and rule the land," whereupon Alexander starts up from the table and hurls his goblet at the speaker, exclaiming:

> Legitimate and true! What sayest thou—
> Thou low-born, base-born nothing! Am I then
> A bastard? Answer me, thou serf! thou churl!
> Thou wine-filled upstart! Speak, thou menial!

Philip, resenting the insult to his guest, draws his sword and rushes towards Alexander, but stumbles and falls. Olympias, in a bitter speech, supports her son, and both are banished the Court. However, a reconciliation takes place, and Olympias makes an eloquent appeal to the King to promise that her son shall be the future ruler. Philip declines to give any promise, and Olympias resolves to compass the death of her husband. Pausanias, a young man who hates the King because Philip has refused to punish Attalus for a wrong done to him, is a ready tool in the hands of Olympias, and he slays the monarch as a procession passes through the streets. Thus Alexander becomes King; and lifting one of his murdered father's hands he exclaims:

> Inspire me, father, with thy manhood's strength!
> That valour which no enemies could shake,
> No swords could shatter! I would be a son
> Worthy to folly thee, to tread thy track,
> High in the hearts of men—a king whose power
> Lifts up the dauntless spirit of his people,

REOPENING OF THE MAIDENHEAD THEATRE.

This theatre, formerly known as the Empire, after having been closed for a considerable period, is now called the Grand, and was reopened on Monday, the 21st, under the management of new lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz. A visit shows that the affair is in capable hands, for the many improvements are unmistakable. The whole of the interior has been renovated, decorated, and carpeted, tip-up seats, by Messrs A. R. Dean and Sons, being supplied for the orchestra stalls. New scenery has been admirably painted, and the entire staff both before and behind the curtain, seem well up to their work. The theatre is fully licensed, and well-arranged refreshment buffets add to the comfort of visitors. On the opening night the Mayor (Mr Councillor Hobbis) appeared before the act-drop and made a short speech, in which he emphasized the fact that not only the success of the venture from the lessee's point of view, but also the character and consequent value of the entertainment to be provided, would depend on the demand made by the public, and on their appreciation of an endeavour to provide them with high-class plays. That the new proprietors are well in touch with prominent people in the profession is evidenced by the list of companies already booked, and by others which are "pencilled." Sir Henry Irving gave his benediction in the following telegram: "All success to-night and my best wishes. Should be delighted it opportunity came of playing in your theatre, for I have many good friends in Maidenhead."

The attraction on Monday and during the week has been Mr Eugene Bertram's company in The Fascinating Miss Kemp. This bright little piece presents opportunities for several good character studies, and it is only fair to say that on this occasion they are entrusted to decidedly capable performers. Mr Charles Garry sufficiently brings out, without overdoing, the eccentricities of the Anglo-Indian (Colonel Trevannion); Mr Drelincourt Odlum gives an intelligent and interesting rendering as John Meredith, and Mr S. Sebastian Smith causes much amusement as the unctuous Vicar of St. Luke's. Miss Rose Portman plays the title-rôle in a quiet but pleasing and effective manner. Mr Hugh Ardale is smart and energetic as Gerald; Mr Harold Wadeley and Miss Celestine Bertram do exceedingly well as the juveniles, Lionel and Dods, and Miss Dora Heritage is very good as Mrs Trevannion. The two remaining characters, Wells and Kate, are well filled, Miss Beatrix Bell making a success in a small part.

MR FRANK BROWN, of the Coliseo-Argentino, Buenos Ayres, left on the 18th inst., per Royal Mail steamer Nile, for South America, and will return to this country in the beginning of February to take the first company over.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr Fred C. Somerfield are paying their annual return visit here with A Life's Revenge. Mr John F. Traynor is a manly Paul Starovitch; Mr Fred C. Somerfield gives a capital portrayal of Prince Boris Strogoroff; Mr Walter Roberts as Michael Orloff continues to please the audience; Mr T. G. Vane is a smart Maurice Trevor; Mr Sidney Ernest scores as Nicholas; and Mr Charles E. Warne is amusing as Colonel Tumbleoff, Mr Martin Bigham as Lieutenant Semaloff being also deserving of mention. Miss Amy Ellam as Marcia Vittoria gives a capable rendition, and Miss Maudie Grayson is smart as Daphne Dashaway. Miss Amy Hughes as Acculina dances with general acceptance, and Miss Marie Dagmar gives a pleasing and sympathetic representation of the rôle of Princess Vanda Ivyala.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Mr Penton Field's company presented here on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights A Fatal Fortune. Mr Harry Tresham is excellent as Jack Weston, and as Mary, Miss Shirley Dalton is very good. Mr Raymond Thomas gives a vivid impersonation of Captain Seton Desmond. Mr Percy Boucher as Tim Larks shows great ability, and causes much amusement. Miss Florrie Hall as Becky displays ability of high order. Mr Dalton J. Bosber as Daniel Salmon gives a very clever and humorous performance, and as Beauty Glitters, Miss Madeline Clifford is artistic and effective. Mr G. M'Leod is good as George Thornton, and as Martin Miss Maud Martin does well.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—Mr T. E. Worth's company in a new musical comedy-drama, entitled The Rose of the Ring, is appearing here. Mr Edmund Edwards as Lord Desborough displays vocal and histrionic ability. Mr T. E Worth is highly interesting as Timothy Trippet, being ably assisted by Miss Nellie Stewart as Lavarina Lovejoy. Mr E. St. Clair Forbes as Captain Vereker, the "heavy," is smart. Miss Maudie Vincent is equally successful as Rose Meredith, Miss Grace Chesterfield acts with much emphasis as Dora Venimore, and Miss Dolly Gilroy as Dick is a juvenile artiste of much merit.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—A Wrecker of Men is here. The author ably sustains the character of Jim Murley. The rôle of Rosa Mallison gives Miss Rosalind Tate opportunities—which she successfully seizes—of making a deep impression. Miss Victoria May is seen to advantage in the somewhat trying part of Doris Melville. Good support is afforded by Mr W. B. Sommerville as Railton, Mr C. Yorke as Pharosophus, Mr Alfred Maurice as Guise Strange, Mr Mac J. Cumming as the Hon. Reggie Verincourt, Mr Harry Rutland in the dual-rôle of Karnaphus and Ezekial Isaacs, and the other members, one of whom, Miss Kitty Melville as Vavasole Slopper, very cleverly kept the house in roars. The staging is very good.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—A good entertainment here is headed by Al. Lawrence, vaudeville mimetic comedian, who gives the audience a laughable fifteen minutes. John Grun Marx, the modern Hercules, gives an astonishing exhibition. The quick changes by Addie Dorina, in an amusing sketch "How She Did It," are very smart. The other excellent turns include The Villions, clever cycle acrobats; Gilroy and Ross, comedians; Abd'el Kader Trio, with their beautiful coloured pictures and paper manipulation; George Collins, amusing character comedian; Jack Haggerty's Troupe of wrestlers and boxers; Kate Gourlay, coon singer and buck dancer; and the animated pictures.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead.—Ada Fawn, comedienne and burlesque actress, gives a pleasing turn. Charles Matthews astonishes with his jumping. The programme also includes Arthur Albert, actor-vocalist; Lavelle's funny comedy acrobats; Cabaret, with his clever dogs; Haig and Novel, in their funny clever comedy act; Eva Reed, comedienne and grotesque dancer; Percy Curry, comic; Private Clark, soldier vocalist; and Lanton and Lane, comedians, with the animated pictures, illustrating "The Coster's Wedding."

L. AND N.W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—Several old favourites are engaged this week, including Marion Claremont, ballad vocalist; Ted Wootton, baritone descriptive and laughing comedian; Sam Higham, vocal comedian; Maud Kay, comedienne; and Charles Hughes, vocalist.

SEACOMBE.

IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Kiernan.—Miss Cissy Moxon's company is appearing here this week in the musical comedy A Trip to Rum-Fum. The rollicking Hibernian, Larry O'Hooligan, is impersonated in characteristic style by Mr W. Garvey, Biddy O'Hooligan being cleverly presented by Mr W. S. Hutchinson. Mr Dick Tupp gives a good comic study of Ebenezer, and Mr C. Russell appears to advantage as Cecil Toft. Sharp Scrivener (Mr J. Rogers), Thady Clancy (Miss Katherine Kemp), and Percy Vere (Miss Marjorie Manifold) are all capital in their respective rôles. Mr Ernest Victor causes plenty of fun as Paddy Doyle, and Miss Maggie Lawson presents a clever rendering of Martha, a stewardess. Peggy O'Hooligan is well rendered by Miss Kitty Jones, Angelina Toft being nicely played by Miss Rose Stewart. Miss Cissie Moxon is vivacious, humorous, and consistent as Florrie Kixie, a music hall artiste. The Saxon Troupe of International dancers give some capital exhibitions.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—It's Never Too Late to Mend forms an acceptable change this week, the drama being capably played by Mr John Wainwright's company. George Fielding finds an adequate exponent in Mr Alfred E. Carver; Susan Merton is artistically represented by Miss Kitty Carew; and Tom Robinson is a difficult rôle successfully played by Mr Wainwright. Mr Hornby Warburton does meritorious work as the Rev. Francis Eden; Mr Edwin Davies as Isaac Levy is very good; Peter Crawley's rascality is cleverly portrayed by Mr Henry Lee; Mr Fred Owen is successful as Jacky; Josephs is treated in a sympathetic manner by Miss Millie Wilton; and Mary is satisfactorily performed by Miss M. Ashton.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—An excellent variety programme is submitted here this week, and Monday's gathering augured well for similar programmes. Astleys American Circus causes profound interest; Sloper, the unrideable mule, provides a good deal of fun; a popular character comedian is Mr Geo. Fairburne; Miss Ruth Dorris is a charming serio-comic and dancer; a pretty skirt dancer is Miss Lockyer, a local young lady; the Five Ashleys are clever and versatile in Fun in a Laundry; Miss Clorinda Thurtell is a capital operatic vocalist; Mr Harry Leybourne gives some clever mimicking; Bernard and Weston are two amusing patterers and dancers; and the Two Tees are responsible for plenty of enjoyment as musical eccentrics.

SMETHWICK.

ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—The audience here on Monday once again followed the fortunes of Otto the Outcast as shown by Harry Starr and company. Mr Starr does not lose his popularity in spite of Father Time, and the songs of this well-known comedian are fresh because they are inimitable. Mr Richard Harris does well as Roderique D'Estalier. Mr William Millar gives a characteristic reading of Daddy Bruneau; Mr Conrad Clarke as Otto's Uncle is well placed; Mr J. Turner causes plenty of humour; and as Lara, a flower girl, Miss Lizzie Webb wins admiration. Miss Edna Lester as Suzette, a Parisienne coquette, is very effective. Miss Rita Rosslyn as Corinne Jarbeau successfully handles the part.

SOUTHPORT.

OPERA HOUSE WINTER GARDENS.—General Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming.—The historical romantic play Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner was presented here for the first time on Monday evening to an appreciative audience by Mr Lewis Waller's company. Prominent in the cast was Mr Thomas Kingston, who undertook the rôle of the hero, Captain Harry Peyton, with manly and realistic effect; Miss Elly Malyon was very successful in her interpretation of the necessities of the part of Miss Elizabeth; and Brenda had a skilful exponent in Miss Edith Elton.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter—The whimsical domestic pantomime The Fairy's Dilemma gave much pleasure to a good audience on Monday. The artists engaged by Mr Arthur Bourchier had evidently been most carefully chosen. Mr H. Asheton-Tonge made a dashing Colonel Sir Trevor Mauleverer. Mr Frank Stanmore was a funny and truly Gilbertian vicar; Mr Frank Collins made a comical judge, and a very creditable "old 'un;" and Mr C. Herbert Hewitson was simply the acme of unconscious absurdity as the Demon Alcohol. A more charming Fairy Rosebud could not be desired than Miss Elise Cooke; Miss Ada Homer acted with grace and intelligence as the Lady Angela, and a more beautiful columbine has never graced the Royal stage. Miss Gertrude Hope was a pretty Clarissa. The curtain-raisor was The Conversion of Nat Sturge.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—The charming comic opera My Lady Molly began a third visit here on Monday, when, beautifully mounted and well played by Mr F. Mouillot's company, it again delighted a good audience. The dainty, tuneful, and popular artist, Miss Decima Moore, made a piquant representative of Alice Coverdale. Miss Beatrice Edwards was a fascinating Lady Molly, and Miss Lottie Crawford and Miss Amy Cooper were both very successful. Mr John T. M'Callum made a rollicking "broth of a bhoy" as Mickey O'Dowd. Mr Harry T. Davies acted and sang with romantic fervour and the true eighteenth century spirit as Harry Romney, Mr Augustus Cramer presented a fine portrait of a rare old English gentleman as Sir Miles Coverdale, and all the other characters were cleverly played.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—The King of Coiners, a drama replete with thrilling situations and humorous scenes, was played on Monday to a crowded audience. The piece was effectively staged, and leading characters were cleverly represented by Miss Lillie Monckton, Mr T. Frederick Kent, and other members of Mr Alexander Dallas's company.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—Miss Marie Loftus is again starring here. There have been many Maries since Marie Loftus set the fashion in music hall nomenclature, and originated a distinct style of music hall serio-comedy, but the charming and versatile "Glesca lassie" still remains the prime Marie in the affections of the Sheffield public. Other artistes appearing this week are the celebrated Kellino Troupe of acrobats; Charles Vincent, comedienne; Annie Store and Co., in a Hungarian sketch; James Kurry, eccentric vocalist; James Bard, wire performer; Florence Esdaile, balladist; Smythson comedy company, Fred Ginnett in Rejected Remounts; the Aurora Troupe of cyclists, and the Raies.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Booker and Narbis, Cullen and Carthy, George and Edwards, Zasma, Silly Billy Elliott, an old local favourite, and the Wiltons, two expert bar performers, are appearing to delighted audiences.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—Mr Edmund Tearle, supported by Miss Kate Clinton and répertoire company, presented The Three Musketeers on Monday. Mr Tearle essays D'Artagnan with evident skill, and Miss Clinton creates an impression as Miladi. Miss Mary Campbell is a dignified and impressive Anne of Austria. The fair Constance has a conscientious exponent in Miss Esther Tearle. Mr William J. Miller cleverly portrays Richelieu. The Merry Wives of Windsor, Under the Red Robe, Virginius, and Joanie Deans are also in the week's programme.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—The principal turn, Frank Hilbert, is exposing handcuff manipulation. Jan Rudenyi, in his violin solos, displays an admirable technique which is heartily appreciated. Lilian Lowe is included among the popular ballad vocalists who visit here, her singing and personality being equally pleasing. An excellent marionette performance is submitted by Prof. Berner. Bijou Russell is a meritorious comedienne and sand dancer, Leo Tell is a diverting mimic, and Walter Munroe, Irish comedian, also appears successfully. Sisters St. Julian, duettists and dancers, and James Lowrey, singing furnaceman, complete an excellent programme.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—A fine handcuff entertainment, which completely mystifies the audience, is given by Carl Mysto. Jack Pleasants is an exceedingly funny comedian, and Downey's living pictures are entertaining. The remaining turns are Marie Blythe, J. P. Carrol, Mdlle. de Vena, Alex. Aubrey, and Doris Lillian.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Mr Charles Frohman's company, in the sensational play, Sherlock Holmes, is here on a return visit. Mr H. A. Saintsbury is still in the title-rôle, Monday seeing his 748th appearance in the part—a sufficient proof of his powerful acting; Mr Lawrence Leyton's Dr. Watson is capitally done, and Mr J. Poole Kirkwood's Alfred Bassick is also a finished study. Mr W. F. Stirling's Professor Moriarty is played in a very powerful style, and Mr Leslie Carter's James Larrabee leaves little to be desired. Miss Maud Linden's Madge Larrabee is clever, and Miss Vera Longdon's Alice Faulkner is done with much grace and charm. The remainder of the cast is in good hands.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—A good programme is given here, premier place being taken by the Ando-Japanese Troupe in a clever and unique show. The Solari Duo, lady vocalists and mandoline players; Gus Harris, Hebrew vocalist; Mike Cray, comic juggler, and his highly-trained dog, Dooley; the Waldrons, comedy artistes, who find much favour; Steeve Cooke, comic; Will Godwin, in a clever scena, entitled "Repentance," also a great success; and Payne's Bio likewise contribute to the bill.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND.—This week Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company is presenting J. M. Barrie's comedy, Little Mary, for the first time here. Miss Gertrude Burnett carries off chief honours for her delightful embodiment of Moira Loney; Mr Arthur Holmes-Gore is very successful as the Earl of Carlton; Mr Arthur Kightley does well as Lord Cecil; and Mr Edward Jephson is effective as the Earl of Plumleigh. Mr George Mudie is characteristic as Sir Jennings Pyke, and Mr Ean Macdonald in the dual-rôles of Terence O'Reilly and Dr. Topping lends efficient aid. Miss Elspeth Dudgeon is an excellent Countess of Plumleigh, and Miss Evelyn Neilida as Lady Milly and Miss Gwendolen Richmond as Eleanor Gray also render good service.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Mr J. A. Campbell's company is this week appearing in The Sin of Her Childhood, which is being cordially received on its initial visit here. Mr J. A. Campbell is a convincing Captain Thornton, and Mr Chas. Fancourt is successful as the Rev. Alan Grey. A feature of the performance is Little Dot Moss, whose singing is excellent. Miss Mary Fulton also proves herself a capable actress, and the comic element is well sustained by Mr Fred Elvin, who as Barney O'Reilly keeps the house in a continual roar.

PALACE.—The George Bonhair Gregory Troupe, in their wonderful Risley act, are the top-liners here, and score a huge success. An old favourite, Frank Seeley, enhances his already brilliant reputation, and Foreman and Fannan are simply great. The Sisters Govell, Beattie Bloom, Wisper, Newhouse and Ward, and Little Barney also contribute their quota to an excellent all-round programme.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the St. Helens Theatre, Limited; General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—The American sporting drama In Old Kentucky seems to possess as much vitality as ever, for although it has appeared here times without number it had a most cordial reception on Monday. Mr A. S. Bankes scores immensely as Colonel Beauchamp; the machinations of the villain, Grafton, are ably depicted by Mr Eric Hudson; Mr G. F. Stell displays histrionic power and ability as Frank Harley; Mr Gerald Kennedy and Mr Harry Leander are very effective as Joe and Old Neb respectively. Miss Amy Hermann is an admirable Madge Brierley and Miss Beatrice Shirley is very clever as Barbara. The remaining parts are all satisfactorily filled and the staging of the piece is effective.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs T. Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—Among the new comers here are the Sutcliffe troupe of acrobats, pipers, and dancers; Tom and Marie Motramo in their musical comedy; Beatty and Blanche, duettists and dancers; Miss Frederick with her clever dogs and ponies; Wallau, juggler; Geoffreys and Benson in a clever sketch entitled Spoofed; and Tatton Hall and Josh Dixon, both of whom are comedians of much merit.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—Mr George Dance's company, in A Chinese Honeymoon, has had a hearty reception from large audiences here this week upon its return visit. Mr Harry Brayne as Mr Pineapple is genuinely funny, and Mr Frank A. Wood is highly pleasing as Hang-Chow, the Emperor. Mr Leonard May is mirth-provoking as Hi Lung and Mr Pallerton Turner makes a capable Chippi-Chow, whilst Mr Percy Yorke fills the part of Tom Hatherton most successfully. Miss M. Sadie as Fi-Fi is pleasing and clever, and Miss Marie Adair most charming as Soo-Soo, whilst Miss Alice Drummond as Mrs Brown is admirable. The chorus is an excellent one, and the scenery and dresses magnificent.

OHMY'S CIRCUS.—General Manager, Signor Pepi.—A company of varied and excellent talent is appearing here this week, headed by the Black Troubadors, the well-known and popular vocalists, who have achieved much success. Charles Mildare, comedian and whistler, has been pleasingly received, whilst the imitations of animals and birds by Mr Will Hall have met with applause. The Brothers Zampa, the one-legged marvels, are clever and amusing, and Oswald, the hand balancer, accomplishes some clever feats. Vincent is an expert acrobat, and the Great Duncan, club juggler, is successful. Vernon's Bioscope, showing latest pictures, is an additional and distinctly pleasing attraction.

STOKE.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr P. Collins; Manager, Mr Frank Egerton.—At the head of the bill here is Miss Florrie Forde in her latest successes, which are much appreciated. A capital turn is provided by Felton and Manley in their sketch A Rural Relative. Schuyler is an instrumentalist of much ability, his saxophone playing being quite a feature in the evening's entertainment. Grant and Allen are very funny with their thoroughbreds, Wargrave and Wild Oats; the Abadaroffs are excellent acrobats; Horace Slade dances admirably; Vera Mayne sings her items capitally; Harry Martell is a funny comedian; and the Bioscope shows several most interesting pictures.

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—The attraction for this week is a return visit of Mr T. Edward Ward's company with Her Fatal Past. Miss Edith Ward, who has appeared here several times, played up to her reputation in the character of Honor Symes; Miss Dorothy as Little Leonard gave a faithful impersonation; Miss Helen Ingleow in the dual-rôle of Ruth Fernside and Belle De Lara acquitted herself admirably; Mr Joseph Millane as Mark Desmond and Mr Watson Hume as Leonard Fernside played their parts with success; Mr Wilson Coleman proved an able exponent of the character of Gilbert Fernside; and plenty of fun was caused by Messrs T. E. Ward and Miss Marie Ault.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Boyce; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Bellian.—A Path of Thorns has been the attraction here during the week, played by Hardie and Von Leer's company. John Edmunds was exceedingly well played by Mr Claude King, and Miss Violet Luddington gave a clever impersonation of Bessie Edmunds. Mr Cyril W. Mackay made a capital Rev. Frank Selby; Mr Alfred Lester was very amusing as Sam Hallett; Mr Cecil Du Gue was admirable as Jonas Deane; and Mr J. H. Booth gave a powerful rendering of Jim Price; while Constance Howard and Nellie Hallett were in the capable hands of Miss Mary Raby and Miss M. Stanley Burt respectively.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction at this house during the week has been A Woman's Revenge, played by Miss Winifred Chalmers and company, including Mr Henry L. Osmond.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—A strong programme is given here this week, headed by Prinz's seventeen performing lions. Miss Ella Retford is a pleasing comedienne; Miss Lalla Selbini, assisted by Midget Harry, is a clever trick cyclist; the Three Brothers Pantzer are smart head-to-head and arm balancers; the American Bioscope presents a new series of capital pictures; Edwin Brett and Emmeline Orford appear in a capital little sketch The Love Birds; the Four Olympian Stars, burlesque vocalists and dancers, do well; Bob Hutt is a popular comedian; and the Brothers Egbert score in "The Happy Dustmen."

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr F. H. Lucas.—The attraction here this week is Mr Frederick Melville's company, playing that gentleman's stirring drama Her Forbidden Marriage. Mr Horace Hunter as George Madison submitted a fine study of the manly hero, and Miss Isla Garnet Vane sustained most admirably the part of Lucy. The villainies of Charles Devereaux were skilfully portrayed by Mr Clarence Hague, and Miss Doris Brookes imparted all the necessary spitefulness to the part of Lady Lucretta. A word of praise is due to Miss Emily Hughes for her clever embodiment of the character of the Mother Superior. The fun-making is entrusted to Miss Marie Kildare as Pattie Lovejoy and Mr Harry Elliston as Timothy Tuttutt, and both are highly successful in their task.

TON-Y-PANDY.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; General Manager, Mr S. Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Counsell.—The Rajah of Ranjapore, played by Mr Jno. H. Morton's company, is this week's attraction here. Horatio Chick is well embodied by Mr Alvin Sawyer; Mr Harry Cornwall is suitably cast as Mr Stubbs; the Captain Hertage of Mr A. Reid is a good exposition; Messrs E. F. Welsh and B. Harrow are praiseworthy as Ted Perkins and Thisles; as Flora Glendenning Miss E. Mozell is meritorious; and Miss Nell Ascott shines as Primrose Stubbs.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; General Manager, Mr S. Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Fred Burland.—Heading the bill here are the Three Goldinis, who are well received. The Brothers M'Auber are smart on the triple bar. As vocalists and burlesque artistes the Three Sisters Adrienne are great favourites. Adding to the success are Millie Denham, Anthy, a clever wire equilibrist; Chas. Cassel, and Verno's pictures.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Captain Welton Dale; Acting-Manager, Mr F. E. Manaton.—On Saturday Mr Alan Mackinnon and a distinguished company of amateurs, including Lieutenant-Colonel Newnham-Davis and Mrs Charles Crutchley, gave two successful performances of The Prisoner of Zenda. This week is Mr F. R. Benson's annual Shakespearian season, with a nightly change of répertoire. A special performance of Richard II. was also given for students entering the Cambridge Local Examinations.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—The farcical comedy, Are You a Mason? played by Mr George Edwardes and Mr Charles Frohman's company is paying a return visit this week. Mr Authony Fawcett is good as George Fisher, Mr Harry Ashford plays well as Amos Bloodgood, and a sound performance of Frank Perry is given by Mr Stephen Wentworth. John Halton finds an amusing exponent in Mr Tom Mowbray, and Mr Valentine O'Connor is praiseworthy as Ernest Morrison, and Mr Frank Ridley satisfactory as Hamilton Travers. Miss Harriet Trench does excellent work as Mrs Caroline Bloodgood. Miss Violet Graham (Eva), Miss Lily Beagle (Annie), and Isla Glynn (Lulu) look well and act their respective parts charmingly. Miss Mabel Younge (Mrs Halton) and Miss Gertrude Spencer (Fanchon Armytage) are both entitled to praise. A comedietta entitled Hushed Up precedes.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome, Limited; Manager, Mr D. G. Mooney.—Miss Ella and her troupe of lions give a most daring entertainment, which is loudly applauded; Mr Ernie Myers is a versatile comedian; Miss Grace Compton, comedienne, wins favour; Miss Lily Lonsdale, ballad vocalist, sings with much charm; the Three San Remo Girls prove themselves clever dancers. Other turns are Alf Bishop, comedian; Tom Owen, Welsh comedian; and Raymond's Bioscope.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr Godfrey Lamplugh's company is here this week in the musical comedy, Miss Mischief. Mr Fred Eastman is very prominent as the new croupier, Private Harris, V.C.; Mr Cecil Curtiss as Jack Bethune causes admiration by his capital rendering of his musical numbers; Miss Evelyn Hughes in the title-rôle displays considerable ability; Mr T. E. Conover as Admiral Sir Hannibal Bethune is very acceptable; Mr H. Ellsmere is well placed as Count Von Himmelblau; Mr G. H. Liot is very comical as Lord Percy Fitz-Sherry; Mr J. C. Bland is a quaint Hiram Q. Pegg; Lady Orrey is successfully depicted by Miss Eileen Guilbert; and Miss Chrissie Francess is most amusing as Mary Ann Smith.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—On Monday Mr Ernest M. Abbott's company opened here with The Mariners of England. As Lord Nelson Mr E. M. Abbott is all that can be desired; Mr Clifford Clifford as Admiral Talbot is responsible for a good portrayal; as Harry Dell Mr W. T. Riley gives a fine and manly interpretation; Mr Edwin Keene makes a humorous Tom Tripp; Miss Ada Abbott is a charming Mabel Talbot; Miss Isabel Singleton shows great ability as Polly Appleyard; and Miss Linda Riley does well as Nelly Dell. The latter portion of the week was devoted to East Lynne.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE.—An interesting revival of Frank Harvey's clever play, Shall We Forgive Her, is doing good business this week. The interpretation is in some cases excellent, and in all adequate. Mr Sydney Pease is an impressive Paul Elsworth, Mr W. Lawrence is a rugged and forcible Neil Garth, and Mr R. N. Davidson does good work as Oliver West. A fine presentation of the heroine, Grace, is given by Miss Phyllis Atherleigh. That experienced actress, Miss Alice Raynor, renders able service as Joanna Lightfoot.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Slatter.—A bright programme is presented this week by Mr Barclay, and one of the most attractive features is the performance of Mountford and Walsh (Harry and Maud), who combine delicacy of comedy touch with every laughter-making faculty. Another clever pair of artistes somewhat in the same line are Eadie and Ramsden, who are exceptionally neat. The gentleman, made up as an Eton boy, indulges in some extraordinary dancing and contortions, which, however, are full of grace. His companion sings with great expression, looks charming, and dances à merveille. The Sisters Lunelle are pretty and attractive soubrettes and dancers. Mr Tom Stuart gives his life-like imitations of well-known footlight favourites to the manifest delight of the audience. Miss Mignon Tremaine is as fascinating as ever. The Two Bells sing tastefully, and dance with the greatest elegance. Mr R. H. Douglas makes quite a bit in his humorous contests between the old and the new style of all manner of things—love-making, singing, dancing, acting, and so forth. A short resumé of Tom Taylor's once-popular play Plot and Passion serves to introduce Mr Adderley Howard and company in a costume piece, which deeply interests the spectators. Mr Howard is dignified and subtle as the scheming Fouché. A most interesting performance of the crafty Fouché's still craftier secretary, here called Fagan, is supplied by Mr Frederic Monti, Mr George as Henri St. Just and Mr Charles Standing as Paul Devine know how to wear Empire wigs and breeches. Miss Dolly Elsworthy is a charming and at times dramatic exponent of Marie De Lisle, and Miss Nellie Watson all that is necessary in the small part of Julie. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope presents a series of clever pictures. The Palace orchestra, under Mr H. Petersen's direction, is heard at its best in the overture to Balfe's Siege of Rochelle.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Messrs Paumier and Howard's company is reappearing here this week, in the romantic play Why Men Love Women. Good business is again done, and the high standard of excellence which marked the efforts of the members when last here is maintained, Miss Annie Saker again scoring a big success as Violet Livingstone.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—Tom M'Inerney tops the bill here this week, and his expositions of wrestling, catch-as-catch-can style, are greatly enjoyed. The Royal Bioscope depict some fine pictures detailing a "Story of the Turf." Jack and Evelyn are capable comedians and sand-dancers, and an acceptable turn is that of W. Walkiss, ball-puncher. Len Lan, coloured coon, sings several capital songs, and the Bodina Trio of musicians are expert artists. Beatie Foster is a refined comedienne, and Wallace Whitney an eccentric comedian. Major Sitherland is rightly defined as the "spinning marvel."

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. Cranston.—Mr Stanley Hope's company, in the new melodrama entitled The Master Criminal, is here this week. Mr Albert Guyon cleverly enacts the rôle of Telford Letsage, alias Anthony Harley, the Master Criminal. Mr John Power as Philip Manners and Mr Wilton Marsh as James Sharples are exceptionally good in their respective parts. An ideal rendering of Tommy Dale is given by Mr Tod Squires; Miss Nellie Thearle as Cecile, alias Lady Travennes, is warmly applauded; the rôle of Mrs Manners is artistically rendered in the person of Miss Edith Lawrence; Miss Kitty Terriss provides an amount of humour in her interpretation of Peggy Perks; and Miss Bessie Armytage is responsible for the rôle of Mary Murphy.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—A Message from Mars, at all times welcome, is being played this week by Mr Mouillot's excellent company, which includes Mr Rawson Buckley, who gives a masterly and finished portrayal of the character of Horace Parker. Mr William H. Broughton's impersonation of the Messenger is a powerfully impressive one. The tramp is capitally played by Mr Bruce Lindley. Some charming acting is done by Miss May Saker as Minnie Templar, and other characters in the list which find able exponents are Arthur Dicey, by Mr Frank G. Dunn; Miss Parker, by Miss Flora Hastings, and Dr. Chapman, by Mr H. E. Lanceley.

PALACE. — Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—The sketch, Three of a Kind, as played by Miss Ethel Arden and her company, is well received, and keeps the audience in a roar throughout the performance. As boy musicians it would be difficult to excel the Original Caledonian Boys; their performance is a real musical treat. Harry Bickley's lecture on wild beasts provokes unbounded laughter; Downes and Langford have a good reception in song and patter; Moretti and Alice, continental equilibrist; Belle Meredith, comedienne, and Will Cornish, in a novel musical act, are well received; and Rafayette's clever dogs give evidence of wonderful intelligence and patient training.

TOWN HALL.—The Trades, Arts, and Industrial Exhibition, which is being held here under the management of Mr Geo. Scott, is again proving a distinct success. In addition to the numerous exhibits in the lines mentioned, a vaudeville performance is given each day and evening on the main stage by a company of artistes which includes the Musical Bentleys, who have upon previous visits to the town been so very popular. The Bolton Trio of banjo experts give a splendid exhibition of their musical talents; and the Mona Welsh Ladies' Orchestra secure a flattering reception in their vocal and instrumental efforts. Side shows are given by Chester and Lee's Marionettes, Signor Rupert, character reader, and a glass modelling and spinning operator.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Payne.—Mr Norman V. Norman's company opened here on Monday in Under the Red Robe. Mr Norman though suffering with a severe cold gave an excellent interpretation of Gil De Berault. Special praise must be accorded to Mr Robert Hilton, who doubled the parts of Cardinal De Richelieu and Henry De Cochefôret, and made each character stand out with distinction. Mr Eric Maxou was decidedly good as Captain Larolle, and Mr Cooper Willis was very successful as Sir Thomas Brunt. Mr J. Forrest was a praiseworthy Marquis De Pombal. Mr B. Iden Payne's impersonation of Clon was extremely clever. As Lieut. Manet Mr Norman Leslie did good work. Miss Beatrice Wilson looked remarkably handsome as Renée De Cochefôret and gave a portrayal of of the character which was replete with artistic touches. Miss Kathleen Rind gave a pathetic rendering of Madame De Cochefôret. Madame Zaton found an able exponent in Miss Lillian Kevill Davies and Miss F. Glossop-Harris was successful as Suzette.

WEST STANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Mark H. Lindor.—Messrs Chas. Draycott and H. B. Peppin's company is here this week with The Best Must Win. As Gaston Mr Charles Draycott is really good, and Mr Robert Watson does well as Paul Dumaresque. Mr Oliver J. Round is successful as Juan Miner, and as Sabretache Mr Fred Alworth is all that can be desired. Miss Maud Elliston in her part acquits herself with ability, whilst as Theresa Dumaresque Miss Violet Ospringe is very pleasing. Miss L. Watson Loyde is a sympathetic Densie Dumaresque. East Lynne was played on Thursday night.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. C. Rawes; Resident Manager, Mr D. Williams.—The attraction here this week is the interesting play First-class by Messrs Imbert and Wright's company. Mr Fred C. Imbert is an excellent Dan, the miser, and Mr G. M. Newall scores as Lewis Montford. Miss Ellen Armour ably sustains the rôle of Peggy, and as Florence Franklin Miss Lizzie Inglis does full justice to the part. Miss Isabel Innes is good as Mildred, and as Nosey Mr Sam Roberts is very funny.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Percival.—This week's attraction consists of East Lynne, which is being performed by Miss Lilian Dundas and company. The parts of Lady Isabel and Archibald Carlyle are taken respectively by Miss Lilian Dundas and Mr Henry Dundas, their impersonations leaving nothing to be desired. Other characters are well played by Miss Leslie Dane (Barbara Hare), Miss Kathleen O'Connor (Miss Corney Carlyle), Miss Lilian Adelle (Affy), Mr Rowley Hyde (Richard Hare), Mr Wilfrid Butt (Captain Francis Levison), and Mr Henry J. Barrett (Justice Hare).

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessees, Mr Fred Benton and Mr Fred J. Little; Manager, Mr Henry L. Compton.—The engagement here consists of The Sins of the Fathers, which is presented by Mr Hugh Osborne's company. This includes Miss Edith Le Ray and Miss Amy M'Neill.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Barnard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—Phroso is the leading line this week, and mystifies the audiences. The Stoll Brothers, bar performers; Mephisto, assisted by Mdlle. Marie, contortionist; the Dainez circus; Ainslie Burton, mimic; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic; Alma Gray, dancer; Nellie Farrell, vocalist; and the Bioscope are also in the programme.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Messrs John Hart and H. Armitage have presented for the first time in Wigan the late Mr Wilson Barrett's drama, The Never-Never Land. The part of John Mowbray is very ably enacted by Mr Edmund F. Kennedy, while Mr Edw. Rochelle as Nat Rudder and Mr Arthur Bolton as Tom Hemley are extremely effective. The part of Sybil is admirably taken by Miss Caroline Barrett, and Miss Marion Fawcett as Lady Walgrove, Miss Blanchette Grand as Lorna Mannerley, Miss Julie Kennard as Lal Barker, and Miss Margaret Parker as Smudgee, give capable representations of their respective parts.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick. — The programme here includes the unique act given by the Klein Family, bicycle performers, who go through a number of marvellous feats. Stelling and Revell give a comic gymnastic act, and are highly appreciated. Mdlle. Lucretia is a burlesque artist and speciality dancer, and Harry Kirk is a vocal comedian and "facial expert." The Four Royal Welshmen are the original Rhondda Valley glee singers, and are recalled for their songs. Larry Lewis is a peculiar comedian, whilst the Seddons, comedy jugglers; Ryde and Beeman, American comedy acrobats; Florence Leonard, soprano vocalist; and Harry Morgan, coon comedian and dancer, are popular.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—Dale and D'Argan, comedy acrobats and conjurors, give an acceptable performance; Read and Wright are clever comedy duettists and top-boot dancers; and Miss Maggie Leigh, comedienne; Mansell Fane, descriptive vocalist; Miss Georgie Heaton, male impersonator; Velo, boy juggler; and Harry Albery, comedian and dancer, complete a good list of artists.

WINDSOR.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Lessee and Licensee, Mr Fred L. Connynghame; General Business-Manager, Mr Worton David.—Mr Fred L. Connynghame's No. 1 company has presented to Windsor audiences this week the new and powerful drama A Mother's Love. Miss Violet Macaree portrays the much-injured wife of the vicar, Winnie Wingate, in touching manner. Miss Laurie A. Pardy impersonates Ellaline Mervin with much grace and dignity. Miss Bertha Hanbury is delightfully natural and pleasing as Marjorie. Mr Fred L. Connynghame as Matt Ruddock provides with great success the broad humour, combined with original villainy. Mr Arthur Rose as Paul Wingate gives an excellent study of a clergyman. Mr John B. Shinton's rendering of the gentlemanly villain, Geoffrey Mannering, is striking and true.

WORCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Mr Lester Collingwood's company is appearing here this week in the melodrama When London Sleeps, which met with a popular reception on Monday evening. The exciting scene, in which the heroine walks along a telephone wire in order to escape from a burning house, was vividly portrayed and greatly applauded. Miss Maud Hastings cleverly impersonated the heroine, Queenie Carruthers; and the other leading character, David Engleheart, had an efficient representative in Mr W. H. S. Sims, while the villain, Rodney Haynes, found a forcible exponent in Mr F. Graham. Miss Mary Brammer as Hilda Carode was successful; while as Little Lella Miss Dora Haslewood charmed the audience. Mr Victor Mason (Sammy Blyth), Miss E. Mackintosh (Carrie Jones), and Miss Bella Power (Signorino Jonesio) created plenty of fun, and the performance altogether was excellent.

WORTHING.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company is here this week in The Heart of a Hero. Mr F. W. Goddard as Jem Rosdale is excellent; Mr A. B. Mackay is typical as Mark Marl; Mr Alle Carruthers is exceedingly funny as Timothy Heigho; Miss Beatrice Hudson is good as Mrs Barker and Mrs Ryder; and Miss Lily Langley is extremely successful as May Ryder. The remaining characters are well placed.

YORK.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr Geo. Calvert Dent.—Mr Charles Harrington's Uncle Tom's Cabin company is appearing here after a long absence. Mr J. Carr is a picturesque Uncle Tom, and Mr J. H. Rodgers is sufficiently villainous as Legree. Mr Harrington in his old rôle of Phineas Fletcher scores as of yore, and much pathos is displayed by Mrs Harrington as Cassie. No end of fun is caused by Miss Sylvia Stella, who gives a thoroughly enjoyable and amusing performance of a popular rôle.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sydney Brooke.—Welland, comedy juggler, has been a great attraction during the week, his comical efforts being highly appreciated. Florence and Lillian give a clever musical sketch which never fails to please; the Zaros are acrobats of great skill and daring; George Hyam sings some funny songs in a funny manner; and the Franko Midgets' astounding entertainment is applauded. Cliff Ryland, Eugene and Willie, Mueller and Coyne, entertainers; and Ethel Ryland complete the bill.

1904 MODEL. IMPROVED TRAVERSE.

OPTICAL ARC LAMPS.

PAUL'S PATENT.

FOR DIRECT OR ALTERNATING CURRENT, ADJUSTABLE IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Substantial Design.
All Parts Adjustable for Wear.
No Lost Motion in Adjustments.
All Working Parts Insulated.
No Clamped Connections to Corrode.
No Loose Parts.
Special Unbreakable Carbon Holders Securing Accurate Alignment.
Large China Nobs, Clean and Cool.
All Adjustments made from Outside the Lantern.
Racks of Double Width. Steel Screws and Pinions.

SPECIFICATION.

The design is the result of a long experience of the weak points of many of the lamps now offered, and has secured the approval of the most skilled users of Arc Lamps for projection purposes. A defect in most lamps is the many points of connection through which current has to pass before reaching the carbons. This is entirely overcome by the special construction of the Carbon Holders, which, together with the Terminals, are formed in one single casting, strongly ribbed. The Carbon Clamp is actuated from the back so that the alignment of the carbons is always maintained, insuring a steady and correctly formed arc. The steel Clamp Screw is provided with a three-armed Boss, which gives a firm grip, and is placed well back from the heat of the arc. The to-and-fro Adjustment of the top carbon holder is extremely firm, and works without shake, its steel Guides, sliding in V Grooves, being directly actuated by a Screw centrally placed. The Racks are of double the usual width, accurately cut, and fitted in sockets provided with means for taking up any wear. A substantial Rack-work is provided for raising and lowering the arc, and also for tilting the lamp for use with direct or alternating currents. The sideway movement of the lamp is effected by an extremely simple and neat method, the base being pivoted on the bottom slide, its position being accurately controlled by a Circular Rack and Pinion. The actuating Knobs are made of china, of different colours to avoid confusion, and always remain clean and cool, giving a firm and comfortable grip. They are strongly squared on to their stems, and cannot work loose or flake off, as generally happens with the vulcanised fibre usually employed. The workmanship throughout is accurate and solid, and the finish good, the Castings being bronzed and relieved, the remainder polished and lacquered.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904.
"The Era" Annual, 1904, contains, as usual, many items and statistics of use and interest to all connected with the stage, and, in addition, a number of sketches and short stories by leading artistes, managers, and others. Among the contributors are J. L. Toole, Dan Leno, George R. Sims, George Robey, Huntley Wright, Harry Randall, Bransby Williams, A. W. Pinero, Louie Freear, Little Tich, George Mozart, and Douglas Orichton. The publication is cheap at a shilling.—Birmingham Daily Gazette, Jan. 16th, 1904.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904
"The Era" Annual for the current year preserves all the features which have made it popular among actors and actresses in the past—short stories, some of them very good and some of them not so good, by well-known entertainers, countless photographs, and a list of plays produced during the year which should make it useful to students of stage history. It is a sign of the times that Omar Khayyam should be quoted on the first page of the almanack.—Morning Post, Jan. 23d.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904.
"The Era" Annual, 1904, reappears with all the features that to metropolitan and provincial playgoers make it invaluable as a work of reference. It again contains a list of new plays and important revivals at the London and suburban theatres, with dates of production to the end of November; new plays submitted in the provinces; the theatrical, musical, and equestrian obituary for the year; and other stage matters concerning which information is often desired. Each branch is excellently classified. What may, for convenience sake, be termed the "useful" portions of the "Annual" are sandwiched by forty short stories by popular actors and entertainers, the interest of these contributions being increased by autographs and portraits.—Daily Chronicle, Jan. 16th, 1904

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, DEC. 1.—If M. Baur, the new manager of the Bouffes-Parisiens, had exercised a little more judgment in the selection of his "noveltiès," he would have noticed that La Fin de L'Amour is not only an incoherent production but that the work, with hardly sufficient material for one act, has been needlessly spun out to four tableaux. The story is very simple. Anna de Fontaneau's husband, a viveur, has left her, and Anna lives in retirement in her country villa, surrounded by five admirers, whom she keeps at a proper distance. These five gentlemen are a doctor, a sportsman, a poet, a dramatic author, and a neurasthenic creature somewhat used up by the pleasures of the world. All at once Anna's husband returns and sees his wife in the midst of her five adorers. Will he be jealous? Not a bit. He has implicit faith in her, and when she refuses to admit him to her bedroom he philosophically spends the night on a sofa in the drawing-room. He then departs the following morning, not having even attempted to force his way into the conjugal chamber. Anna thereupon resolves to take a lover, and her choice falls upon the sportsman. But the husband returns as suddenly as he went, and Anna discovers that it is not always easy for a woman to run off the rails. The only two important rôles, those of Anna and her husband, were admirably impersonated by Mdlle. Leonie Yahne and M. Krauss. The remainder of the cast was also in able hands.

"ARMIDE ET GILDIS," Drama, in Five Acts and Six Tableaux,
by M. Camille De Sainte-Croix,
Produced at the Odéon, Nov. 26.

Renaud	M. DORIVAL
Penbrock	M. ALBERT LAMBERT
Evrard De Bavière	M. COSTE

The Paris public, as a rule difficult to move, was roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm on the first night of Armide et Gildis, an enthusiasm which points to a big and lasting success. Written in admirable and flowing musical verse, abounding in lofty thoughts, M. Camille De Sainte-Croix's play is not only a magnificent literary production, but a work of art in the highest sense of the word. The talented author has taken from Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered" the two important characters of Renaud and Armide around whom he has woven a delightful story, fantastic and poetical, yet intensely human. The Knights of the "Dragon D'Aventure," among whom is Renaud, are, with Godfrey of Bouillon's army, besieging Jerusalem, when Armide, the beautiful enchantress, appears and succeeds in enticing to her famous palace in Damascus a number of the knights, where, having kissed her hands, they become demented. Renaud swears to save them from their degradation, and leaves for Damascus, where he finds his comrades-in arms in a pitiful plight. He too, sees Armide, and he, too, succumbs to her charms; and whilst his comrades are allowed to depart in peace, he remains in her power. Then it is the turn of Gildis, Renaud's fiancée, to deliver her knight. Accompanied by Odoardo, both of them disguised, they reach Damascus; but the fraud is discovered, and the incensed Armide orders them to be burned at the stake. Renaud sees them, and, forcing his way through the yelling crowd, he delivers his fiancée and brings her safely back to Jerusalem. But the magic has penetrated into Renaud's heart. His thoughts are with Armide, and with the cry of anguish, "Damas! Damas!" he invokes the image of the woman he loves. Overcome with grief, he refuses to join his comrades in their attack on the city, when suddenly he hears that Armide has been conducted by the Moslems to Jerusalem to suffer an ignominious death for having allowed him, an infidel, to escape; and, at the head of his knights, he rushes to the ramparts and delivers Armide. Armide is vanquished, yet triumphant, for she has won the love of the man for whom she was ready to die. Gildis despises Renaud, who fought, not for glory and for his cause, but for a woman; and Renaud leaves her his Crusader's sword, which the warlike maiden clasps to her breast. It is the triumph of love, a triumph greater and mightier than that of the sword. The interpretation was in every respect worthy of the work. Mdlle. Sergine, who secured first prize this year at the Conservatoire competition, was fortunate enough to make her début in this great play, and scored a tremendous and well-deserved success. Mdlle. Even was an excellent Gildis, the maiden full of warlike enthusiasm but deaf to the voice of love. The difficult rôle of Renaud had been entrusted to M. Dorival, and no better selection could have been made. MM. Albert Lambert, Coste, Marié De L'Isle, and Mesdames Taillade, Derives, and Félix also rendered valuable aid. The Odéon has done wonders in the way of mounting, and every praise is due to them for the care bestowed upon the work.

THE Theatrical Trust question has now entered into an acute state, and threatens to cut the throat of our powerful Authors' Society, who were silly enough to evoke the evil spirit. The Society having excommunicated MM. Richemond and Deval, lessees and managers of the Folies-Dramatiques and the Athénée, for having organised the obnoxious Trust, refused, as you know, to renew their treaty with the first-mentioned playhouse, which expired in October last. M. Richemond took no notice whatsoever of these proceedings. Now, however, the question has become more serious, owing to the fact that M. Chancel has a play, Madame L'Ordonnance, in rehearsal at the Folies-Dramatiques, and that the Society has forbidden him to have it produced there. M. Chancel, being a member of the Society, protests against this high-handed proceeding, alleging, with perfect right, that it is the Society's mission to protect his interests, and not to sacrifice them to private revenge. If the case is fought out in a court of law the Society may find that with their draconic edicts they have infringed the law, which would greatly diminish their prestige. M. Richemond has retained as counsel M. Millerand, whilst M. Poincaré will represent the Society. Both these gentlemen are famous lawyers, and in the theatrical world further developments are eagerly watched. I cannot, however, help thinking that the powerful body will give in at the last moment for fear of being worsted in a legal battle.

AT St. Pancras, on Tuesday, an inquest was held on the body of Corrini Geogette Sybil Wheeler, aged fifty, the wife of an actor, living at Gloucester-street, W.C. It appeared that on Saturday, the 19th inst., a fire occurred in deceased's room, and she was badly burned about the legs, and she died about a week afterwards. While in the hospital deceased said that she had knocked a lighted paraffin lamp off a table on to the bed, setting the room on fire.

FAMOUS SCENIC ARTISTS.

MR J. J. MARKWELL-DAVIS.

Mr J. J. Markwell-Davis was born in London in 1864, and educated at St. Mary's College, Peckham. He studied figure painting at Heatherley's for four years, and tried once only for a studentship at the Royal Academy, but failed. The following year he had a picture accepted and hung at the Royal Academy. Mr. Markwell-Davis entered the scenic profession in the year 1878 under Mr Walter Hann, to whom he acted as assistant for about seven years. During this time a great deal of panoramic work was done for the Messrs Hamilton. He also worked and helped Mr Hann on such plays as the Old Love and the New, at the Court Theatre, one of the late Wilson Barrett's first productions in London; Gulliver at the Gaiety, then under the management of the late John Hollingshead; The Lights o' London, The Romany Rye, Claudian, The Silver King, Hamlet, Junius, and Hoodman Blind, all produced at the Princess's Theatre by Wilson Barrett. One of the first productions Mr Markwell-Davis worked on was Still Waters Run Deep, at the St. James's Theatre, under the management of Messrs Hare and Kendal; The Queen's Shilling then being played, Still Waters following. He also was with Mr Hann during the productions of In the Ranks at the Adelphi and Romeo and Juliet at the Lyceum, under the management of Sir Henry Irving, for which production Mr Hann painted two pairs of most elaborate tableaux curtains, one pair being of real satin painted in water-colours. He worked occasionally with the late T. W. Hall, painting figures in panoramic scenes chiefly, in the painting-room at the old "Vic." He also painted figures in some of the act-drops by the late Albert Calleott, in the painting-room which used to exist in Great Dover-street, Borough. At the time of the Nile Expedition for the relief of General Gordon Mr Markwell-Davis was engaged by the late Joseph Hamilton to paint some panoramic scenes of the expedition, including a picture of the battle of Abu Klea, in which the gallant Colonel Burnaby was killed. His first contract was a picture of the Grand Opera House, Paris, which he painted for the late Joseph Hamilton. It was during the time mentioned above that he exhibited pictures at most of the London Galleries, viz., Society of British Artists, Suffolk-street; Institute of Painters in Oil Colours, Dudley Gallery; Royal Albert Hall, Guildhall, &c. In 1885 he was engaged by the late Michael Gunn to go to the Gaiety, Dublin, and produce the pantomime of Whittington, after which followed the production of The Mikado. He stayed in Dublin for three years, also doing the work for the Leinster Hall, which was afterwards turned into the Theatre Royal; but at the time he was there it was used as a public hall, with sometimes Mapleson's or Carl Rosa's opera companies there for a few weeks. After leaving Dublin Mr Markwell-Davis was engaged by Mr Charles W.

MR. J. J. MARKWELL-DAVIS.

Poole, of myriorama fame, also producing work for his brothers Joseph and Harry Poole. He remained with these gentlemen about three years, and then took a painting-room in Bristol, still continuing to do work for the Messrs Poole and Messrs Hamilton. When the Empire, Bristol, opened he painted the stock scenery. About nine years ago he returned to London, and has since been engaged on work for the London theatres and exhibitions.

AGENT AND ARTISTS.

Mr Noelan, a theatrical agent, was sued at the Westminster County Court on Wednesday, before Judge Woodfall, by Miss Cereisia and Mr Frederick De Quincy, co-plaintiffs, for the recovery of five guineas, paid to the defendant under an agreement to render certain services in connection with a theatrical tour. The defendant counterclaimed for extra services, postage, &c.

The plaintiffs entered into an understanding with the defendant to arrange for contracts for certain theatres in connection with a theatrical tour in the provinces, the contracts to be completed at one guinea each commission to the defendant. They paid him ten guineas in advance, and only five theatre contracts were completed, although a number were submitted. When at the end of the tour the return of five guineas was asked for the defendant counterclaimed for an allowance on the contracts which were not accepted, and for extra work for a "stock season."

Mr De Quincy, examined as to one contract at Oldham, which was not accepted, said their piece was too good for a place like Oldham.

Plaintiff's Solicitor—But Mr George Edwardes's No. 1 company of musical comedy plays at Oldham?—Ah, yes; musical comedy will take anywhere, but beautiful plays will not. Art is driven out of the market by musical comedy.

Your art?—You may say that if you like. You know nothing about my art.

Mr Noelan, in defence, said he got a number of contracts arranged, but only five were taken up. Some of them were kept as long as fourteen days, and then returned by the plaintiffs on the ground that the terms were not good enough.

Judge Woodfall gave the plaintiffs judgment for five guineas, and the defendant 30s. for his extra trouble.

THE Elizabethan Stage Society visited Liverpool on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and in the Philharmonic Hall there gave Marlowe's Doctor Faustus and Shakespeare's Comedy of Errors. The leader of the company was Mr William Poel, and the orchestra was under the direction of Mr Arnold Dolmetsch. Mr Hubert Carter as Faustus and Mr George Ingleton as Mephistopheles filled their parts with credit. In the comedy Mr Hubert Carter was Antipholus of Syracuse, Mr J. M. Troughton the Ephesian twin, and Messrs Arthur Curtis and Norman Page the two Dromios. The stage was built to represent that of the old Fortune playhouse.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

ABERDARE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Z. Andrews.—Messrs Marston and Buckstone's company is here this week with the successful play The Silver Cross. Mr A. Verner is good as old Ned Heron. Mr Wilfred Hargreaves, the male soprano vocalist, is well suited in the part of Fudge, his songs being much appreciated. The task of interpreting the comic element of the play is entrusted to Mr Sydney Barlex and Miss Poppy Denby, who, the former as a handy man, and the latter as a maid-of-all-work, are responsible for considerable amusement; their singing being much appreciated. Mr Wilfred Marston is a capital exponent of Ben Adams, his original creation; Mr Cliff Allen is a manly Arthur Merton, and is a baritone of no mean order; Mr Harry Glenney gives a finished performance of the scoundrel, Phillip Frewin; the part of Laura Beechcroft is acted with force by Miss Cissie Glenney; and Miss Maud Western fills the rôle of Little Sunshine in a most captivating manner.

ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—In the Ranks is being presented here this week by Messrs Carlton and Armytage's company. Mr Edward Lloyd is particularly successful in the part of Ned Drayton, and Miss Edith Blair-Staples acts extremely well as Ruth Herrick. Mr Herbert Cecil's Gideon Blake also calls for commendation. The comedy element is well supplied by Miss Anna Beaumont as Mrs Buzzard and Mr Cecil Clayton as her son Joe.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—The Tally-Ho Trio score a decided success in their seaside drawing-room scene, and an exceedingly fine acrobatic act is contributed by Goggin and Davis. Miss Dora Lyric sings her songs delightfully, and Mr Fred Clements creates much amusement as a farcical comedian. The Four Estrellas are extremely well received, and other notable turns are done by the Vocal Chameleon; Mr Walter Bentley, comedian; the Gartells, comedians, singers, and musicians; and Miss Frances Haskoll, patriotic vocalist. The Palace Bioscope Pictures complete an excellent evening's entertainment.

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr G. W. Ventom.—Congratulations must be given to the management for securing Mr Gordon Starkey's company in The Message from Mars. Mr Cyril Austen-Lee must be complimented on his embodiment of Horace Parker, which was admirable; Mr William Lockhart as the Messenger gave a fine performance; Mr Percy Tyler deserves praise for his effective portrayal of the Tramp; Mr A. Collins Ralph proved successful as Arthur Dicey; and Miss Edith Cuthbert submitted a sympathetic rendering of Minnie Templar.

ACCKINGTON.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—Mr John Leopold's company is here in Frivolity. Mr H. Lewis is particularly good as Buckwheat; Mr John Leopold must be complimented on his Daniel Teething; Mr Wilfred Vaughan is very good as Jules Vermiglio; and Mr Barry Lupino scores as Samuel; a funny performance is Professor Tumble by Mr Tony Leopold; Miss Ruby Wyndham and Miss Amy Hall as Madame Cobweb and Lucy Buckwheat respectively do well; Miss Mona Hall is pleasing as Maud; and Miss Queenie Bronté is equal to the part of Manette.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessee, Mr J. Hall; Resident Manager, Mr T. Moyse.—The excellent bill here this week includes the Arthur Saxon Trio in their remarkable feats of strength; Miss Bessie Travis, ventriloquist; Lee and Arden; Mr Arthur Croxon, versatile comedian; Miss Ethel York, descriptive vocalist; Master Henri, the young boy juggler; Carl Verdi, the premier instrumentalist; Laffan B. Jolly; and Mahatma, a medley of mystery.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—Sapho is being given here this week by Miss Olga Nethersole's company. Miss Cecil Cromwell's fine acting in the name-part causes it to stand out with prominence; and Mr Arthur Royston's conception of Jean is excellent. Mr Harry Dodd as Uncle Césaire is amusing; and Mr George Norman Burt, Déchéllette, and Mr Hodgson Taylor, Flamant, are good. Mr A. T. Hendon and Misses Isabel Derrie, Jessie Melville, Fiorrie Rutter, Rosa Sullivan, and Gertrude Wynter all do well.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mr J. F. Preston's répertoire company opened here on Monday in Max Goldberg's version of the old story of Lady Godiva. Miss Lester acted the title-part with much feeling, Mr Edward Beecher sustained with success the rôle of Tom O'Coventry, and Mr Jas. Duncan was good as Leofric. The villain, Algar, Earl of Northumbria, was ably sustained by Mr Lewis Leslie. The Lady Aldyth was sympathetically interpreted by Miss Jessie Leslie, and Miss Nina Westerleigh as Lady Godiva's maid, and Messrs Dan F. Roe and Ernest Hamilton as serving men were capital in the comic scenes. On other evenings the sorrows of Jane Shore were vividly depicted by Miss Grace Lester, and the revengeful and cruel nature of the crook-backed King Richard was capably interpreted by Mr Edward Beech. Nell Gwynne is also in the week's bill.

THE ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—Tom and Marie Motramo are one of the chief attractions here. Their musical comedy act is most entertaining, their dancing eliciting much laughter. Ellias B. Seener's Imperial Troupe of singers and speciality dancers are applauded; Beatty and Blanche are charming duettists and nimble dancers; Len Lever, the coffee-coloured coon, is a good comedian; Jack and Evelyn are expert sand dancers and capital comedians; Mr Rolando Martin is a favourite eccentric; St. John appears in a smart musical act; Pearce and Ward, comedians, are amusing; and Nettie Corrie are clever gymnasts. Some new films are shown by the Hippo. Bioscope.

ASHTON EMPIRE HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs W. W. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr Wm. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—The leading item of the programme is the wonderful illusions of the Okito Family in their Chinese magical act, Calvo, the double-voiced vocalist and humourist, evokes applause; a lady and gentleman under the names of Dickenson and Johnson do some astonishing diving tricks under water in the crystal tank; Mr Chas. Matthews, assisted by another equally clever vaulter, performs some astonishing leaps; Harry Weldon, the swell entertainer, is successful; the Babusians give a wonderfully expert acrobatic display; Linton is equally clever as an acrobatic tight-rope artiste; Smith and Johnson, male and female coloured song duettists, attract much attention and applause; and also here are the clever mimic, Harry Thurston, and the favourite extempore vocalist, J. G. Forde. The Cinématograph pictures concludes a good entertainment.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—Mr Hall Caine's drama The Christian was here on the first three nights of the present week. The company entrusted with its production was Mr Wentworth Croke's No. 1 company. Miss Grace Chalmers possesses all the necessary qualifications for such a part as that of Glory Quaile, and scored a complete success. The rôle of the Hon. John Storm was taken by Mr Hilliard Vox, who did it every justice. Mr Jackson Wilcox's Horatio Drake was a fine performance. Mr Charles B. Bedells as Lord Robert Ure and Mr Oswald Marshall as Mr Lorimer did well, and the Mrs Callander of Miss Clara Nicholls was very attractive.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—A strong attraction is here this week in No Cross, No Crown, in which the scenery and dresses are a conspicuous and pleasing feature. Mr J. P. M'Bride deserves praise for his portrayal of Sir Francis Luttrell; Mr Logan Darra as Austin Blake is responsible for some good work; Mr Frank Hudspeth introduces considerable humour into his performance of Dr. Ashley; Mr C. George as Rawson Haines ably depicts that character; and Mr Harrison Chapman is efficient as Professor Nebb. The dual-rôle of Lady Margaret and Mistress Gray is well rendered by Miss Gwen Stewart; Miss Rose Faith, who is the directress of the company, is responsible for some sterling work as Clare; Miss Kate Carnegie makes a suitable Annabel Sylvester; Miss Maud Elliott creates some merriment as Dame Priscilla; and Miss May Warden deserves special praise for her impersonation of Doris. Miss Dolly Turner is an amusing Plato.

BARNSLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Mr F. R. Benson's North Shakespearian company is here this week. Monday night opened with The Taming of the Shrew. Baptista was well represented by Mrs F. Owen Chambers; Mr Courtenay Foote was good as Vicentio; Mr B. Limpus made an excellent Lucentio; Petruchio had an able exponent in Mr Henry Herbert; Mr A. Fayne and Mr G. W. Johnston were respectively good as Gremio and Hortensio; Miss Dorothy Green as Katharina supplied a charming personality; and Bianca as played by Miss Christie Laws won great approbation. Romeo and Juliet, The Merry Wives of Windsor, As You Like It, The School for Scandal, and The Merchant of Venice are in the week's répertoire.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr Jasper Redfern.—The programme here includes Eleonora, gymnast; Chas. Castle, comedian; Mille. Vando, juggler; La Belle Tosca, wire walker; Chester and Lee; Rena and Rex; and Alf. Bishop each showing ability.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company is here with A Modern Adventuress. Mr Charles Stirling is a convincing Harry Dolby, and Mr Leonard Aardale is exceptionally clever as Pietro Donelli. Mr W. R. Winning is an effective Wallace Danton, Mr Evan Roland, a characteristic John Compton, and Mr George P. Lester, an acute Walter Beal. Miss Alice Defoe plays Vivette Delby with pathos and charm, and Miss Beatrice M. Anderson in the title-rôle plays a difficult part with conspicuous success.

TIVOLI THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—Herr Fritz, the great conjuror, excites great wonder; Miss Ida Ross is a good comedienne; and Vernando pleases with a capital ventriloquial display. Starr and Jerome do some coon singing and sand dancing with skill; Will Godwin gives a pleasing scena Re-United; Chris Richards is a good comedian; and Johnson and Bert please greatly with a novel act "A Queer Customer."

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—The closing attraction of the autumn season, which is concluding rather earlier than usual, is Mr William Greet's company in that well-tried musical farce, The Lady Slavey. Mr Frank Sherlock still impersonates Roberts with all his old energy and drollery; Mr Walter T. Hybert's nimble dancing as Lord Lavender is exceedingly clever; Mr Harry Walsh makes a humorous Major O'Neill; Miss A. Lennard is greatly appreciated as Phyllis; Flo Honeydew is portrayed by Miss Millicent Marsden with her usual ability; and Mr Allan Morris cleverly undertakes the character of the millionaire Vincent A Evelyn. The dances by the Misses Jean Van Dalle and Ethel Ashton are agile and energetic.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Heading a good level bill is that up-to-date comedian, W. J. Churchill, whose newest songs and racy patter make him a prime favourite. The Great Northern Troupe of international dancers win all their former success; the contortional feats of Wilfrid create astonishment; and Kit Keen, coon artiste and bone soloist, is as popular as ever. Booker and Narbis once again appear in their comedy sketch, The Interviewer; Sinclair and Parr return to sustain their reputation as first-rate vocal duettists; Victor Vane proves himself to be a young dramatic reciter of ability; and Pallister's biograph is always welcome.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Lessee, Mr Edward S. Michel; Acting-Manager, Mr H. F. Cowper-Smith.—On account of the pronounced success attending the costume recitals lately given at these elegant rooms by Mr Matthew Brodie and Miss Essex Dane, the new lessee was fortunate enough to be able to re-engage them for a further series of matinées, which commenced on Monday last, when these clever artistes again delighted the audience by their finished efforts in scenes Romeo and Juliet, The Hunchback, and The Lady of Lyons. Ballads are also rendered by Miss Geraldine Verner with acceptance. On Monday afternoon the large salon was packed with a huge audience to hear Capt. Scott relate his thrilling account of his expedition on the Discovery.

BEDFORD.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—For three nights Mr Fred J. Kirke's company, in The Naval Detective, is occupying the boards here. Mr Fred J. Kirke, who shows great versatility, is the life of the piece in the rôles of Lieutenant Jack Beresford, the Rev. Frequent Nipper, and Pat M'Guinness. Mr Arthur Beaufort, who supplies the lyrics, is another mirth-provoker as Captain Hustle. The humour is also well sustained by Mr Walter Langford as the Hon. Bertie Fairlox and Mr Albert Evremond as Hans Winklepump. The part of Dr. Schriener, a Boer patriot, is well portrayed by Mr Robert Gilbert; Miss Louie Fountaine capably undertakes the rôles of Phyllis Leslie, Mam'selle Lucette, and Bill Mainway, doing full justice to each part; Miss Edith Claris is quite a success as Susan Scrubbs; and Lulu Kaufman finds a good exponent in Miss Florence Hayes. Miss Lily Seymour submits a good interpretation of Rebecca Gentle. The Misses Mamie Walsh and Elsie Paul give a clever acrobatic entertainment. On Thursday Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company paid a return visit in Under Two Flags.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Bigamy has been played here by Mr Morton Powell's company under the direction of Mr Fred Moule, who also amusingly undertakes the comedy rôle of Rufus Cherrybull. The heroine has the services of Miss Elsie Capell, and this lady makes a capital Sylvia Dresden. Miss Alwynne Ermon is seen to advantage as Diana De Courcelle. Miss Lydia Mannington is well placed as Lilian Lambkiss. Mr Charles Burdon proves a fairly good hero as Frank Merrivale, and Messrs Colin Hazlewood, Ernest J. Fare, and E. S. Earle steadily fill the requirements of the rôles of Sir Charles Dresden, Lionel Craven, and Edgar Craven respectively.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann.—Mr Martin Harvey and company opened here on Monday in The Breed of the Treshams. Mr Harvey's impersonation of Lieut. Reresby, "the Rat," was a triumph of dramatic skill, and his success was most emphatic; Miss N. De Silva impersonated Batty in a manner that calls for the highest praise; and Mr Milton Rosmer sustained the rôle of Francis Tresham spiritedly and with much credit to himself. One could not desire a more winning and delightful picture of Margaret Hungerford than that furnished by Miss Coleridge. Mr Charles Glenny made the most of his opportunities as Clement Hungerford, and Miss Bessie Elder was a vivacious exponent of Helena Pierpont. Highly satisfactory impersonations of Sir Henry Curwen and Viscount Dorsington were furnished by Mr Percy Anstey and Mr Albert E. Raynor, and other rôles were faithfully portrayed by Miss Edith Coleman and Messrs Fred Wright, sen. (splendid as Col. Bagshaw), Gilbert Yorke, George Cooke, E. Wellesley, A. Maude, &c.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Managing Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—The Scotch comedian Mr Neil Kenyon heads the bill, and his funny songs and witty patter have been most enthusiastically received. Much merriment has been created by the farcical sketch Not a Word, produced by Kitty Clover and company, supported by Mr Reg Courtney. Zarmo, the original comic juggler, is a host in himself, his humorous performance being quite a feature of the bill. Lord, Murray, and Lord appear to great advantage in their athletic act entitled The Intruder. A hit has been made by the clever musical performance of Eugene and Willie. The Bros. Almalo provide an attractive act, and others appearing are Mr W. H. Morgan, a capital descriptive vocalist; Miss Bertha Vere, comedienne; and Mr Dave Hallie, the popular comedian.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—Mr Fred Maxwell's company (including the clever actress, Miss Lois Du Cane) tops the bill and appears with great success in the sensational sketch entitled Lord Harkaway, the glove fight being a decided attraction. Miss Lily Burnand, the charming comedienne, has delighted many admirers with her vivacious rendering of several catchy songs; and Mr George Newburn, mimic, presents some character studies marvellously realistic. Maxwell and Francis (Tom and Virginia) are a capable duo, and their comedy has been highly appreciated. Abel and Welsh are undoubtedly very funny in their grotesque act; and the M'Kays, Gilbert Rogers, vocalist, and Miss Mabel Vine, comedienne and dancer, complete the bill.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The attraction here this week is furnished by Mr Albert Voyce's company in the vocal scena Jack Sheppard. The part of Blueskin is undertaken by Mr Vernon Cowper in capital style, and the rôles of Jack and Bess are satisfactorily sustained by Mr Harold Perry and Miss E. Faber. Another feature of the programme is the funny sketch, The Blind Spinster, admirably sustained by Mr Fred Lloyd and his company. A sensation has been caused by the globe-walking performance of Mdlle. Florence, who is assisted by Mdlle. Queenie. Mr Harry Barker, a comedian with a good style, has been as successful as he could desire, and the trick cycling feats by Mr Frank Hope have been voted first-class. Also are appearing Miss Dot Stanley, serio; Mr Edgar Budden, comedian, whose bone solos and roller-skate dancing were loudly encored; and the Two Neros.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS.—Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr George Dobler.—This week the Jansons form a considerable attraction with their novelty act, which has been a decided draw; M'Cann, aptly described as the concertina king, plays a number of selections on that instrument, his performance being received with acclamation. To-night completes the four weeks' engagement of Clown Caban's performing animals. The Sloan Family of equestrians execute some daring feats with great credit to themselves. The new series of Hippodrome pictures presented have delighted the crowds, and Ulrick, feet equilibrist, is well received. Princess Annie's graceful and accomplished equestrian feats have been loudly cheered nightly, and the funnicities of the clowns, Ping-Pong and Steck, evoke roars of laughter.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE. — Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company, under the direction of Mr E. Lockwood, is appearing in La Poupée with excellent results. Upon the present occasion Mr Arthur Reynolds is the Hilarius, and a humorous and clever rendering of the part is received with delight. Miss Midge Clark wins all hearts with a graceful and bewitching performance of Alesia. Mr T. A. Shale is admirably suited as Lancelot, and Father Maxime is played with considerable vocal and histrionic power by Mr Eliot Skinner. Mr Charles M'Lagan is an excellent Lorenzo, Miss Florence Shaw a smart Henri, and Miss Lillie Leigh is a most efficient Madame Hilarius. Mr Walter H. Page and Mr Fred Walsh render good service, and Mr H. H. Shaw is an able conductor.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—A play of considerable interest, entitled The Seal of Silence, ably represented by Messrs W. B. Buckstone and I. K. Cox's company, is the attraction here. Mr Magill Martyn is popular with a careful rendering of Jack Ellerslie. Mr George Longdon is an effective Captain Hedley Norman. Mr Charles W. Coleman is a good Bumbo Britten, and Dr. Mark Redmond is cleverly enacted by Mr E. Arrol Allardyce. Miss Gertrude Hunt is an admirable Lilian Desbrook. Miss Mary E. Buckstone displays great ability in the rôle of Madeline Morrison, and the remaining parts are well placed.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Mr Wilkie Bard, the popular comedian, was announced as the leading feature, but indisposition has prevented appearance. However, a competent company includes Happy Fanny Fields, an accomplished Anglo-Dutch comedienne and a great favourite; Master James Curwell, a local juvenile pianist of exceeding promise; Silent Tait, an expert wizard; Mr Austin Rudd, a comic of exceptional merit; Miss Nellie Young, a talented vocalist and dancer; Hill and Whittaker, American speciality artistes; Howard and Collinson, in an amusing sketch; and the Stelto Troupe of lady dancers. Mr Ernest Denney is musical director.

BLYTH.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr G. E. Good. — The visit of the Osmond Tearle répertoire company, under the personal direction of Mr H. B. Montague, has proved once more a decided success. The plays, which have been chosen by a ballot of the patrons of the Royal, are as follows:—Hamlet, Julius Cæsar, David Garrick, Othello, The Lady of Lyons, and Richard III. Opening on Monday with Hamlet, Mr Alexander Marsh gave a masterly performance of the part of the Prince, whilst the Ophelia of Miss Carrie Baillie was a pronounced success. Miss Fanny Chamberlain was prominent as the Queen, Mr John Burton was responsible for a capital delineation of Claudius, and Mr J. J. Galier was seen to advantage as Horatio. Mr William Lowe made a good Polonius, and Mr Godfrey Tearle did some praiseworthy work as Laertes. Mr Cyril Grier was prominent as the Ghost; as the first Gravedigger Mr George Tearle was well received.

BIRMINGHAM.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—Mr and Mrs Kendal have attracted all their old admirers, and also many new ones, with their present week's programme, which includes several old favourites and one new success, The Housekeeper, particulars of which will be found in another column. On Monday The Elder Miss Blossom once more revealed Mrs Kendal's wondrous charm in the title-rôle, Mr Kendal sharing in the success as Andrew Quick, as heretofore. Mr Bassett Roe as Major Twentyman, Miss Elise Clarens as Sophia, and Mr Ernest Hendrie as Christopher Blossom have given admirable support, and A Scrap of Paper and Dick Hope have also ministered to the enjoyment of playgoers here.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr Victor Turner.—The novel and Negroid attractions of the musical comedy, In Dahomey, made a first and successful appeal here on Monday last. Messrs Dan Avery and Chas. Hart pleased the house as Rareback and Shylock respectively, the latter giving the well-known "Jonah" song. The others were equally successful, including Mr Pete Hampton as Hamilton Lightfoot, Mr Fred Douglas as Dr. Straight, Mr Walter Dixon as Hustling Charlie, Mr Leon Williams as Reader, Mr Wm. Garland as Clarence, Mr Norris Smith as the Chief, Miss Fanny Wise as Pansy, Miss Laura Bowman as Cecilia, Miss Stella Hart as Mrs Stringer, and Miss Pauline Freeman as Rosetta. The piece is brought to an effective conclusion with a grand spectacular cake-walk, a prize being awarded to the most deserving couple.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—The Indian Mutiny once more tells its tale of dead horrors through Mr Frank E. Burdett's company, Mr H. Ryland-Leigh infuses much spirit into the character of Lieut. Manley; Mr H. G. Brandon affords a humorous contrast as Capt. Manley; Mr W. S. Tindall succeeds well as Major Ingleby; Mr Geo. Scully plays the bodyservant, Jerry O'Brien, with much comic expression; Miss Kate Bruce proves a valuable ally as the martinet, Mrs Major Ingleby; and Miss Agnes Kingston is graceful and comely as Kate Ingleby. Mr Villiers Stanley as Nebu-Singh and Mr Ernest Keand as Ra Goonga invest their rôles with dignity, while Miss Maud Digby excels in the part of Ghuz-Nah.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—This week Mr Harry Eglington's company is playing When the Lights are Low, and "Metropolitans" have been well pleased. The sombre side of the drama is well relieved by the comedy scenes, and Mr George Daiper as Guy Goldsworthy has been upheld as a pattern of virtue. The half-brother, Roland, is capably presented by Mr Edward Avinall. Mr Tom R. Saymour is successful as the Jew. Mr Dick Seddon shines humorously as Willie Wilkins, together with Mr Fred Carlton as Tim Wilkins, Mr J. P. Marsden as Donald, and Miss Maude Leonard as the sprightly Kathleen. Miss Adelina Mercandalli as Nancy and Miss Kate Froude as Violet give most excellent studies of their parts.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—Mr Lester Collingwood's powerful company takes the stage this week with When London Sleeps, and much satisfaction has been expressed in the engagement. Mr Wm. H. Sams has been applauded by crowded houses for his manly impersonation of the hero, Engleheart. Mr Franklyn Graham has stirred the audiences to an unwonted heat by his cruel villainies as Rodney Haynes. Miss Maude Hastings has proved herself a heroine of much charm and beauty, and Miss Mary Brammer acts as Hilda Carode in her own matchless style. Messrs Frank Eden, Victor Mason, F. E. Thomas, Otto Clayton, and the Misses Effie Mackintosh, E. M. France, and Bella Power are indispensable supports, and are valued accordingly.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—A London Actress has shed its effectual light here this week, Miss Emma Litchfield and company coming in for many tokens of esteem. Miss Litchfield as Hilda Mannering held the audience spellbound, and received a great tribute to her powers. Miss Violet Lawson won sympathy as Phyllis, and the Misses Louise Millward and Adele Wilford supplied two clever comic characters. Mr Chas. E. Leicester was strenuous and effective as Lieutenant Kingston; Mr H. J. Kirby was appreciated as Clive Crawford; Mr Fred Tenaur gave a clever study of the Jew, Moses Mendoza; Mr Sam Wilford appeared as Pat Maloney (with songs); and Messrs J. J. Stevenson and J. Clyde were good in their parts.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—An exceptionally strong bill is put forth for Cattle Show week. The well-known comedian Albert Chevalier is encored for his popular songs. May Edouin and Fred Edwards present A Bachelor's Dream with success. The Anartos have a refined musical sketch. The equestrian act of Joko and Koko is smart, as also is the trick cycling of Alexander. Ida Brophy and Amy Sullivan are applauded for their songs, while Florence Esdaile renders her ballads with effect. James Bard, swinging wire artiste, and Arthur Reece, comedian, complete the programme.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—Florrie Forde has a cordial welcome from her many admirers, while the Noisetts have an excellent cycle act. Edward Cranston and company appear in the Irish racing sketch, Terry, which is well received. Tom Parker; Burg, Haud, and Wise; Tom Lloyd, and Charley Dixon are all highly appreciated for their comedy business, while May Terris and Cassie Walmer come in for a full share of applause.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Chas. Vandyke and company, in the absurdity Nicodemus, is entertaining large audiences, while Jordan and Harvey simply bring down the house. The Magic Kettle act is a most marvellous performance. Barlee and Smith show versatility in their episode, The Rehearsal. The Akimotos Troupe of Japanese and the Kyaskas in their athletic act are clever. Other popular turns are supplied by Florence Hill, the Brooklands, comediennes; Algie and Reggie and Harris and Worth, comedians; Dora Martine, graceful gymnast; and Mons. Hurman, juggler and hoop manipulator.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident Manager, Mr Edward Foster.—The versatile R. A. Roberts, in his remarkable quick-change performance, is enthusiastically received for his sketch, Lucinda's Elopement, in which he plays six distinct characters. Lady Mansell and her juveniles appear in A Concert Rehearsal. Both clever and amusing are the Five Olracs in their eccentric acrobatic act; while the Aurora Troupe of Cyclists have some daring feats. The Paytes (in a monologue), J. G. Aitken, Charles Cranston (comedians), Maggie Rimmer, and the Three Sisters Ernest all win loud applause.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—Sherlock Holmes is paying a return visit this week, and is meeting with renewed success. Mr H. A. Saintsbury continues to give a fine impersonation of Sherlock Holmes. Dr. Watson finds a fitting representative in Mr Lawrence Leyton; Professor Moriarty is well played by Mr W. F. Stirling; while Mr Leslie Carter as James Larrabee and Mr Pelham Rayner as Sidney Prince are both good. Miss Vera Longden plays the part of Alice Faulkner, and Miss Maud Linden appears as Madge Larrabee.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—Mr J. Rice Cassidy's latest production, Dan the Rake, is the attraction here this week, Both Mr Cassidy and his talented wife, Miss Lilian Clare, are well-established favourites here. They are supported by a well-selected company, and the piece has met with much success, a realistic fight in the last act forming one of its attractive features.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—The programme this week includes De Biere, the illusionist; Dolly Harmer, comedienne; Zasma; Zenary Brothers, acrobats; Sandy and Carl, knockabout comedians; Steeley and Dowton; Brothers Durant, in their aërship; Leslie Brothers, musical comedians; and Henry Carlton, in his sketch, Obliging a Lady.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—Miss Madge Girdlestone and her company is here this week with the spectacular and sensational drama The City of Millions. The drama is excellently mounted and played by a good company, the principal characters being in the hands of Miss Madge Girdlestone (Rosa De Valois) and Mr Martin Sabine (Captain Wilfred Dread).

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—Crowded houses assemble at every performance here, the attraction being the Karno Troupe of speechless comedians, in Early Birds, Mumming Birds, and Jail Birds. In addition, there also appear Melot Hermann, a clever prestidigitateur, who performs some really marvellous tricks; the De Breans, in their Japanese entertainment; the Bros. Hayes, comedians and dancers; Spry and Austin, burlesque artistes; Tatten Hall, eccentric comedian; and Mueller and Coyne, speciality artistes.

OHMY'S CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—Another excellent programme is submitted here, including the Three Schaffers, gladiators, air climbers, and human pedestals; Miss Delai, lady gymnast; the Bros. Valdos, musical knockabout clowns; the Two Tarrares, Japanese jugglers; the Sisters Alexandra; Mons. Zello; and the Bros. Chadwick, &c.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's clever company is here this week in the comedy Saturday to Monday. Mr Stuart Champion as Lord Culvert of Alcester was happily cast, and made his points with ease, and was especially good in his scenes with Mrs Wendover, delightfully played by Miss Moyra Creegan, who looked and dressed the character remarkably well. The Stanley Pidding of Mr Dallas Welford was just to the liking of the audience, who roared again and again at his original methods. As Lady Diana Porchester Miss Madeline L'Estrange was quite successful, Miss Madge Burton as Ursula Toop and Miss Ida Laurie as Miss Skeat made the most of their opportunities. A good representation of the evangelistic vicar, the Rev. Lemuel Toop, was given by Mr Edward Ling. Miss Nancy Beresford as Angela and Mr T. A. Braidon as Probyn Dyke, both thankless parts, came through with much success. The comedy was preceded by Judged by Appearances, a really capital little piece, which was well acted by Messrs Dallas Welford, Edwin Ling, James Wych, and Miss Nancy Beresford.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—On Monday Mr William Greet's company appeared for the first time here in the successful musical comedy The Earl and the Girl, which was magnificently staged. Mr William Stephens gives a screamingly funny impersonation of the dog trainer, Jim Cheese; Miss Aimee Grey is charming and piquant as Elphin Haye; and Daisy Fallowfield has an attractive exponent in Miss Florence Imeson. Miss Gladys Fontaine as Mrs Black and Miss Helen Langton as Miss Bliss are striking personalities, and Miss Dot Carey plays 'Liza capitally. Mr Percy Carr as Dick Wargrave throws plenty of energy into the part, and Mr Bert White's Hon. Boodle is amongst the other noticeable well-filled parts in the big cast.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler.—Fun is rampant here again this week, Fred Karno's clever company of comedians, in His Majesty's Guests, providing pure rollicking comedy. The vagaries of Mr Harry Roxbury as Sergeant Lightning cause roars of laughter. As Minks Mr Harry Stuart, too, is good; Mr Fred Whittaker is capable as the footman, and excellent support is given by Miss Leonora Castelle as Maud.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Crawford Swann. — The Three Nevarros present a clever equilibristic performance; a trio of comedians—Fred Lincoln, G. W. Foster, and Ambrose Thorne—find much favour; handbalancing by the Kook Brothers forms a clever item on the programme; the vocalism of Madame Alice Simmons, soprano, commands special marks of approval; some clever dancing is submitted by Espinosa and Neilson; and Rosie Archer gives imitations of music hall celebrities. The duets and dancing by the Sisters Iris prove acceptable, and Fred Ginnett's funny sketch, Rejected Remounts, is a source of hearty laughter.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. E. Berry.—Leo Dryden's vocal character sketches are an excellent feature of the good entertainment here this week, and he is well received. The dancing by the Three Sisters Chester is good; Will Bacchus gives a good turn as an actor-vocalist; on the rings and trapeze the Four Skandias are distinctly clever; Hart and Rudd present a capital comedy turn; and Belle Meredith is an acceptable comedienne. Mdlle. Roza's canine hippodrome is a clever and interesting feature of the evening's amusement, to which Little Dando, the diminutive comedian, and Miss Dorothy L. Clark, a charming vocalist, contribute with success.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr Chas. Macdona's company with Three Little Maids is paying a visit here this week. A charming trio of maidens are Miss Vera Vallis, Miss Nellie Groves, and Miss Doris Trevor, who play with freshness and vivacity. Madame Ilma Norina is irreproachable as the up-to-date society business lady. Mr H. A. Welchman, Mr Jules Charmette, and Mr Frank Henderson acquit themselves most creditably, the latter as Daisy creating infinite amusement by his funny portrayal. The quaint dances and humour of Mr Ridgwood Barry (Cupid) and Miss May Wright (Gretchen) are much enjoyed.

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company is here with Amorelle this week. Mr Leon Simkin as Dr. Crow is excellent. Able support is given by Mr Fred Carrington as Dotard, Mr Jack Stephens as Lupin, and Mr Langford Reed as Alphonse. Miss Empsie Bowman meets with unstinted applause as Amorelle, and Miss Von Bargen as Marina is also very good.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—An excellent programme includes the Ernestine Trio, with Tom Foy as "the Yorkshire Lad in London;" the Five Foys, comedy artists; George Mackintosh, clog dancer; Lauri Wylie and his mimicing mannikins; Sisters Brenton, singers and dancers; Charles Pastor, laughing comedian; Four Royal Welshmen, glee singers; and Rosetti, quick-change artiste.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead.—Good people are again engaged here. Hicks's Clerks are capable and clever vocalists. Will Ellerslie, comedian and mimic; Mike Bray, who is good in his comedy act; Nancy Renshaw, laughing Negro comedian; De Veres, acrobats; and Florrie Bray, burlesque actress, also contribute.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—The Carl Ross company opened here on Monday with Tannhauser. Mr Julius Walther sang and acted admirably as Tannhauser; Madame Sobrino was highly effective as Elizabeth; Madame Augusta Renard made a captivating Venus; Mr Lewys James achieved great success as Wolfram; Mr Arthur Winckworth as the Landgrave and Miss Ethel Pender-Cudlip as the shepherd boy merit warm praise; and the remaining characters were ably sustained. During the remainder of the week Mr E. C. Hedmondt, Mr Charles Victor, and Miss Lizzie Burgess also appeared in leading parts, the other operas represented being Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, Faust, Rigoletto, Don Giovanni, and Carmen.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—Mr J. A. Campbell's company is here this week with The Sin of Her Childhood. Miss Mary Fulton gives an excellent portrayal of Mary Haysel; Mr Charles Fancourt is seen to much advantage as the Rev. Alan Grey; Mr J. A. Campbell is a manly and popular Captain John Thornton; Mr Austen Milroy is forcible as the villainous Stephen Haysel; and Little Dot Moss is a capital Hannah Spry. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr Fred Elvin as Barney O'Reilly and Miss May Pratt as Eliza Muggins.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt.—The following are here this week:—Mr Clavering Craig's company in the episode The King of Coiners; Miss Vera Olga's company, in the farcical sketch Jeremiah's Little Dodge; Miss Florence Harman, comedienne; Little Miss Jenny Hartley, mimic; Mr Jack Hassan, in a monologue; and Mr Arthur St. George, dramatic vocalist. Selections are played by the augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr J. W. Slatter; and there is a new series of Bioscope pictures.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—Mons. O'Gust, Parisian clown and mimic; Miss Lilian Bowley, a charming soprano vocalist; Ross and Grayson, in The Professor and the Pupil; Newhouse and Ward, in a clever cycling act; Syd May, the popular mimic; Katie Lawrence, comedienne; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic; Frank Purcell's comedy company in Brown the Bigamist; Mary Thorne, comedienne; Guy Ryder, boy whistler; and the Alhambra pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are here this week:—The Kremo Family, acrobats; Steve M'Carthy, comedian; the Donatos, one-legged acrobats; Captain Woodward, with his trained seals and sea-lions; Marie Kendall, in her latest successes; the Three Sisters Klos, athletic wonders; Horace Mills and W. H. Rawlins and company in Mashing the Missus; and Animated Pictures.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Under the personal direction of Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Mr Gerald Alexander's company is here this week with Facing the Music. Mr Ernest Corsart as John Smith and Mr Cecil Newton as the Rev. John Smith are very amusing; Mr George Alexander makes an excellent Colonel Duncan Smith; while Mr Patrick Evans as Dick Desmond and Mr George N. Wallace as Sergeant Duffell are well suited. Miss Madge Flynn's Mabel, Miss Florence Tyrell's Nora, Miss Dollie Beaufey's Miss Fotheringay, and Miss Rose Carew's Mrs Ponting also merit praise.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Mr Harold V. Neilson's company opened here on Monday with A Bunch of Violets. Mr Harold V. Neilson submitted an excellent portrayal of Sir Philip Marchant; Miss Amy Sangster made an admirable Mrs Murgatroyd; Miss Yvonne Orchardson was well suited as Lady Marchant; and Miss Rachel Donne played charmingly as Violet. Mr Ernest Noble's Lord Mount Sorrell and Mr C. M. Doyle's Hon. Harold Inglis were well played, and the remaining characters were satisfactorily sustained. A Fool's Paradise and The Tyranny of Tears were also performed during the week.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith Wilkes. — The following are here this week: — Winifred Hare, comedienne; Johnny Fuller, animal impersonator, in his speciality, "The Cat on the Wire;" De Voy, Hurst, and Ricks, in The New Man; the Brothers Testo, acrobatic musical comedians; W. H. Perrette and Bessie Shelley, in their comedy quick-change entertainment, "Teasing the General;" the Two Tees, musical eccentrics; Henry A. Moore, mimic; Ida Heath, Continental dancer; and the Coliseum Pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—Miss Julia Neilson and Mr Fred Terry are here this week with the interesting play Sunday. Miss Neilson presents an admirable study of Sunday, her various moods being most artistically portrayed. Mr Fred Terry is equally successful as Colonel Brinthorpe; Mr Malcolm Cherry plays effectively as Arthur Brinthorpe; Mr J. D. Beveridge is decidedly good as Tom Oxley; Towzer, Davy, Lively and Jacky have in every respect excellent exponents in Mr Rothbury Evans, Mr J. Carter-Edwards, Mr Horace Hodges, and Mr Alfred Kendrick; Miss Bella Pateman is pleasingly aristocratic as Mrs Naresby; the Nun is nicely taken by Miss Kathleen Doyle; and the small part of Abbot (a man-servant), by Mr Ernest E. Imeson, completes an excellent cast. The play is acted with remarkable smoothness throughout, and it was much appreciated by the large audience on Monday evening. The staging is admirable, the two scenes, The Living Room at Silver Creek and Brinthorpe Abbey, being excellent examples of stage setting and artistic scene painting.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—A return visit of the highly successful drama Driven from Home is attracting a good attendance here. The company of Messrs J. K. Murray and J. M. Dawson is a competent one all round, and the play is adequately staged. Miss Lydia Donovan is interesting and sufficiently pathetic as the unfortunate Laura Raybrook. She plays the part really well, and her dying scene in the snow excites much sympathy. Later on in the play as Walter Hatherleigh the younger Miss Lydia Donovan presents a smart and interesting study, which pleases all parts of the house. As Walter Hatherleigh Mr Jack Dawson plays well, making the part quite interesting. Mr Cyril Harrison acts well and in a consistent style as Geoffrey Waring; and the same may be said of Mr J. K. Murray as Anthony Raybrook and Mr Quinton Fulford as Willie the outcast. Other characters of more or less importance are carefully taken by Miss Alice Metcalf, Miss May M'Kenzie, Little Marcella, Mr Stanley Douglas, Mr Wilson, Mr Waddington, Mr C. Stanhope, Mr Jack M'Kenzie, Mr Gilroy Aird, Mr George Thompson, and Mr A. J. Williams. Specialities of song and dance are contributed by Jack and May M'Kenzie, and the saw mills sensation in act three is vigorously applauded.

PALACE.—Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr Welchman.—Miss Peggy Pryde, comedienne, is attracting a large attendance here. She is always entertaining, and is decidedly popular in Bristol. Hume, Ross, and Lewis present successfully an American comedy, musical, and dancing act; Marba and Verity please as humorists and acrobatic dancers; Bernard Lapidaire and Claud Jullion's company have an entertaining musical mélange, Les Autocrates, it being nicely mounted and smartly played; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud make cardboard boxes and sing in good style; Miss Alice Ormonde is a pleasing comedienne; Little Zola, comedian, obtains applause; Resford and Hunt have a good act, The Widow and the Duke; Fred Earle comedian, has some amusing songs; Ike Scott and Son do a good and entertaining turn; the Weirs are decidedly smart as duettists and dancers; the Three Sisters Clifford are expert mandoline players and tuneful vocalists; and Vernon's animated pictures conclude a good all-round entertainment.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Brown and Nevarro, American speciality artistes, head the programme with a good turn of song, dance, and quick-change business; Miss Ella Shields is a pleasing vocalist. She has a good voice, and her songs are well selected. F. St. Clair, topical vocalist, is popular; the Macmeyes do an exceptionally amusing and smart act on the wire; Bert Leslie, comedian, has some good songs; Miss Lilly Seville, comedienne and dancer, pleases; Harry Mier does some juggling with a hat; chin-balancing, &c.; J. W. Bray, comedian, obtains appreciation; Will M'Iver is successful as a tenor vocalist; and the entertainment concludes with up-to date animated pictures. New patent draught doors have been fixed in all parts of the house, and the heating apparatus has been thoroughly overhauled.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA.—Proprietors, the Broughton Theatres Syndicate, Limited; Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—Under the personal supervision of Mr A. L. Baron Trilby commenced a week's run on Monday, when a good house gave evidence of their enjoyment of the piece. Mr A. L. Baron makes an excellent Svengali, and the title-rôle is well played by Miss Vere Mosley. Mr Ellerslie Pyne shows much ability as Little Billie, and Mr Ernest Lodge as Taffy and Mr Edward Thornhill as the Laird are very good. Mr Henry Oaman as the Rev. Thos. Bagot, Miss Lottie Wentworth as Madame Vinard, and Miss Jessie Rutter as Mrs Bagot, with the other members of the company, give good support. The programme also includes some acceptable turns by Miss Billie Barlow; Mr George Barron, eccentric comedian; and the Sisters Charnley (Edie and Annie), duettists and speciality dancers.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY.—Proprietress, Mrs T. Culeen; General Manager, Mr Jas. E. Culeen.—Mr William A. Armour's company are paying us a visit here with What a Woman Did. Miss Dora Price acted Elsie De L'Orme brilliantly; Mr Reginald Kloof distinguishes himself as Conrad De L'Orme; Mr Percy E. Wright gives a dramatic impersonation of Rafaelle Duroc; Mr Jim Woods is highly successful as Fritz Von Hogeithen; Mr Cyril Dundas makes a capital Peter Pippin; Pitou has a good exponent in Mr Frank Carlton; Mr R. Gerrard sustains the rôle of Andre Lafante in telling style; Mr Vincent Hales and Mr J. H. Stewart are excellent as Victor Estin and Gaspard Villeroy; Miss Elsie Day is prominent as Marie Brisson; Miss Edith Marlow is much appreciated as Terese Herve; Miss Louie Lanara is a lively Franchon; Miss Alice Rayner is a pleasing La Papillon; and Miss Norah Waylett capably enacts Nanette.

MECHANICS' HALL.—The attraction here this week is Mr Wm. Hamilton, with his ever-popular Excursions, which are drawing large audiences. Mr Claude Howell, elocutionist, gives a good performance; Mezetti and Mora, triple bar performers, do some sensational feats; Mr Tom Le May, musical clown, supplies a capital turn; and the efforts of Mr Harry Prince, comedy wire artist, are greatly appreciated.

CAMBRIDGE

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr W. S. Gilbert's fanciful domestic pantomime, The Fairy's Dilemma, opened most successfully here on Monday night. Mr H. Asheton Tonge made an ideal Colonel Sir Trevor Mauleverer, while as the Lady Angela Miss Ada Homer was the embodiment of grace and refinement. Mr Frank Stanmore ably depicted the Rev. Parfitt, and was well supported by Miss Gertrude Hope as Clarissa. Mr Frank Collins was simply admirable as Mr Justice Whortle. A more charming and graceful Fairy Rosebud could not be wished than Miss Elsie Cooke, and the Demon Alcohol was made the most of by Mr C. Herbert Hewetson.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—Mr Charles Collette is paying a return visit to Cardiff, appearing this week in the amusing comedy Jones's Jaunt. The play is capitally presented by Mr Lilford Arthur's company. Mr Collette in the title-rôle is a huge success, his clever portrayal of the "famous explorer," Stanley Jones, being in a large way responsible for the success of the comedy. Miss Ruby Chester gives a creditable rendering of Dollie Bonde; Mr J. R. Crauford does well as Catesby Duff; Kate is capably delineated by Miss Rosamund Ruby; and Mr Edmond Beresford as Percy achieves distinction. Mention must be made of the excellent impersonation of Birdikins, given by the clever little actress Miss Irene Ross. The few remaining characters are well sustained. As a curtain-raiser Mr Collette gives his musical monologue Hard Luck, in which he introduces several of his popular songs.

KING'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; General Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—Messrs Fred Darcy and F. J. Little's company has drawn large audiences this week with the musical comedy-drama On the Stroke of Twelve. As Jack Rutledge Mr Fred Rivers is earnest and convincing, and an easy and natural manner marks the work of Mr Fred Guinness as George Bainbridge. Mr H. Creagh Hunt is admirably adapted to the rôle of James Horton, and Mr Karl Edwards is to be commended for his amusing portrayal of the trying part of Moses Levi. Mr Harry C. Robinson is a consistent exponent of Henry Rutledge, while Van Dyke is effectively played by Mr W. Montague. Mr Fred J. Little is amusing as Jasper, and Mr Will Bass is characteristically Irish as Pat Cahill. Miss Nellie Moore adequately fills the rôle of Jess Bainbridge, Miss Bertha St. Ruth is good as Doris Rutledge, and Marie Bergerre is well depicted by Miss Elma Turner.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—The programme here includes, Marie Loftus, serio; the Barowsky Trio's humorous gymnastic scena; the Sisters Trentanovi, clever lady trapeze artistes; the Troubadour Four, the Passparts, in fancy dances; Anslie Burton, comedian-mimic; the Toreadors, in their burlesque bull fight; Leonard and Francois, eccentric acrobats; Miss Childie Stuart, comedienne; and Carl Hertz, in his entertainment of sensational illusions assisted by Mdlle. D'Alton.

CHESTER.

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs C. E. Veitch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—This popular place of entertainment continues to draw good houses. Victoria Dagmar is paying a return visit and her wonderful exhibition of skill and strength on the gymnastic ropes and horizontal bar is more popular than ever; Mr Joe Hastings, too, is a big favourite with his astonishing jumping feats; a clever troupe of performing dogs and cats is introduced by Mr Robert Gilbert; Chivers and Demonte give a graceful and skilful display on roller skates; and the Bros. Jean, in a burlesque boxing act; Mr Steve Cooke, a smart comedian; and Newcombe and Sullivan, wonderfully smart dancers, add to the success.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman.—Mr Charles M. Phelps' company is providing excellent fare with One Woman's Wickedness. The play is admirably staged and mounted. Miss Florence Lloyd stands out in the part of Janet Raymond. Miss Louie Davis is a quiet and pathetic Lillian Craggs. Miss Ethel Asbury puts plenty of "go" into her work. Miss Florence M. Daly is excellent as Aunt Crasy. Mr Hubert Humphreys makes the most of his opportunities as the scheming Paul Rogin, being afterwards seen to excellent advantage as Justice Hotpot. As Philip Beaufort Mr Lawrence Brien plays the part with power and earnestness. Most of the comic relief is supplied by Mr Howard Ward as Limpy Larry. In Jem Craggs Mr Charles H. Phelps has a part which suits his special powers, and he presents it with graphic and telling effect. An amusing Fitznoodle is to be found in Mr Arthur Ferris, and Mr Carlton Harget does good work as John Fossett.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Castleford Hippodrome Syndicate; Entertainment Directors, Messrs Herbert Cole and Harry Bancroft.—A good programme this week is headed by Lieutenant Chard's Dog Circus, which meets with a very flattering reception. Professor Buer's educated donkey also proves a source of attraction. Tommy Vaughan is a clever comedian and dancer; Rosie Leslie sings and dances well; Professor Bennett receives a hearty welcome as a ventriloquist; Happy Armstrong, musical grotesque and comedian, is very entertaining; Stern and Stern give a turn which is much appreciated. A sketch, Hush Money, is well presented, and the pictures on the Cinématograph are novel and interesting.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr Geo. G. Ridley.—We are enjoying a visit here from Mr George Dance's company, in A Country Girl. In the title-rôle is Miss Kathryn Comber, whose acting and singing are both admired. Miss Nellie Cozens is the Nan, and gives a fine representation of the part; Miss Rosie Begarnie is a smart and lively Sophie; and Miss Ernestine Desborough is deservedly encored for 'Under the Deodar;" Mr Harry Buss's Barry is a most laughter-provoking bit of work; Mr Fred W. Pattrick, still as the Rajah of Bhong, is, of course, recalled several times for topical verses in the "Peace" ditty; Mr Francis Ludlow makes a breezy Geoffrey Chaloner; and Mr H. C. Morton amuses as Sir Joseph Verity.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—The original Phroso is interesting and mystifying the audiences here, and proving highly attractive. Madame Collard has a capital act, entitled Robinson Crusoe Amidst His Favourites. Graham and Harrington's sketch, A Daughter of Pleasure, is well liked; Madge Grey's mimicry is out of the ordinary groove; and Edie Anderson, serio; the Four Stars, dancers; Lacey's Erascope; and Joe Mac, comedian, complete the bill.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr Frank E. Donne.—Capt. Davis is giving proof of his enterprise by engaging George Gray and company, in The Fighting Parson, which is being appreciated by good audiences nightly. The variety announcements include Frank and Free, comedy artistes; Harry Martell, comedian; Ovieto and Bray, speciality artistes; Flo Challis, serio; and Lade Henderson, vocalist.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE. — General Manager Mr H. Oswald Redford.—On Monday the Moody-Manners (North) opera company commenced a week's engagement here with that ever-attractive masterpiece Faust. The Mephistopheles of Mr Charles Tilbury was the salient feature of the performance; Mr Edward Arthur tunefully interpreted the melodious numbers allotted to Faust; Miss Grace Nicoll was sweet and charming as Marguerite; Mr David Fuller was as good as ever as Valentine; and Miss Teify Davies sang the two famous songs of Siebel with telling effect. The chorus and orchestra were admirable. On Tuesday night Lohengrin was the fare, and Mr Charles Carter sustained the arduous title-rôle with much success. Miss Enriqueta Crichton as Elsa, Mr Tilbury as the King, Miss Sarah Berry as Ortrud, and Mr Walter Barrett as Telramund were all good.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Miss Bonwin Carlton's company is here this week presenting The Plucky Nipper. The company includes Mr Edward Surrey, who powerfully plays the part of Bill Burgess; Colonel Fenwick is capitally portrayed by Mr G. B. Wright; Mr G. T. Greig is equally successful as Captain Frank Leslie; Mr Douglas Campbell capably undertakes the part of Tommy Atkins (with songs); Mr Edward Fryer gives full effect to the character of Richard Vanbrugh; Miss Bonwin Carlton displays exceptional skill as Polly Hithard and the Plucky Nipper; Miss Esther Lamonte pathetically renders Daisy Paget; and Miss Dora Woodbury charmingly presents Marion Vanbrugh.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—These boards are occupied this week by Mr C. Finch-Hatton's company, in the well-known drama When London Sleeps. As David Englehart Mr Tom Ronald is all that can be desired, and the same may be said of Miss Mabel Cluer as Queenie Carruthers. Miss Grace Baring as Hilda Carode looks and acts charmingly, and Mr Charles Digby in the masher part of Bertie Broomhead does well. The heavy part of Captain Rodney Haynes is exceptionally well portrayed by Mr R. S. Trelawney; Mr D'Arcy Kelway, a smart comedian, makes much fun out of the part of Sammy Blyth, being ably assisted in his comicalities by Miss Nellie Hooks as Carrie Jones.

COLNE.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Gerald Harding.—Ediscope and Barnum's animated pictures and variety company are the attraction here this week. Capital turns include W. H. Kay, miniature entertainer; Le Brun and Mdlle. Irene, jugglers; the Roches, character duettists; Miss Jessie Harper, the singing Lancashire mill girl; Loder Lyons, ventriloquist; Clown Ohmy and performing dog; and a laughable sketch by the Three Funny Ossities.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Mr J. Gar Kiddie's company has occupied the boards of the above this week with the original burlesque entitled A Little Coquette, with Miss L. Payne in the title-rôle. Mr Forsyth Bruce finds good scope for his abilities as Gabriel Grabbe, and Mr J. W. Groves acquits himself well as Ann Teeke. The Milstead Quartet of dancers are most praiseworthy, and the orchestra is under the able direction of Mr E. C. Brierley.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—Cousin Kate has been keenly relished by visitors to the above-named theatre during its stay of three nights. The title-rôle was taken on Monday by Miss Lilias Earle, and the house voted her an ideal Kate Curtis, her acting being charming. Mr Yorke Stephens as Heath Desmond especially delighted the audience in the second act; Mr Walter Ringham made a very capable clerical prude in his character of the Rev. James Bartlett; and everyone was captivated by the demure little maiden, Amy Spencer, as taken by Miss Hilda Honniss. The comedy was preceded each evening by A Case for Eviction, in which Miss Betty Castle cleverly played the character of the doctor's wife.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—Miss Winifred Maude and company are paying a welcome return visit here this week with The Sins of a City. Mr Ivan Gore is a good Donald M'Ivor, and in the dual-rôle of Joe and Jasper Woodleigh Mr J. W. Baxter does well. Sandy M'Donald is ably played by Mr Chas. Edward Leslie; Miss Maude is exceptionally clever in the part of Seaweed; Miss Marie Lyons is a creditable Lesbia; Mr Victor Du Cane is very funny as Isaac Levi; and as Midge Miss Jenny Hackett is highly amusing.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—Mr Mouillot's company opened a week's engagement here in The Geisha. The company is a good one, and the performance is most interesting. As O Mimosa San Miss Aimee De Leska sang well and acted in a pleasing manner; Miss Violet Kenyon as O Juliette Diamante was capital in the part; and Miss Florrie Saunders was a very pleasing Molly Seymour. Mr Edward Carlton, a diverting Wun Hi, filled the part to perfection; Mr Lionel Braham as Marquis Imari was all that could be desired; and as Reginald Fairfax Mr Artnur Cartwright also passed. The company presented A Greek Slave on Thursday.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—Craig, Rose, Craig, two men and a lady, perform some clever feats on a swing bar and the ring; the Brothers Arnold are most entertaining in a cabinet mystery; the Three Sisters Lee are very good as acrobats and vocalists; Goliath, a youth of eighteen years of age, gives a wonderful performance of weight lifting; Learto, musical comedian, is assisted by his clever dog Babs; Pete and Juno sing and dance with animation; Rays and Miles are two clever jugglers and balancers; and Dale and D'Argan are humorous conjurors.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—Mr Frank Curzon's company in Glittering Gloria was a great attraction here the first three days of this week. Miss Stanley Ronalds scored a success as Gloria Grant; Mr Houghton Macaulay proved very capable as Poskett, causing much fun by his introduction of his bulldog; Mr John Campbell filled the rôle of Jack James with credit; the same remark applying to Mr Stanley Arthur as Archie Toodleby. Mr J. Worldley Hulse and Mr Gerald Clark gave a capital account of themselves as Colonel Gallagher and his Secretary; and Miss Lillian Williams was seen to advantage as Jack James's wife. On Thursday the same company presented Tom, Dick, and Harry.

CROOK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Wallace Davidson, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr Wallace Davidson.—Monday night was the opening night of this theatre under the new management, and a large company assembled to witness the performance of Mr Stanley S. Gordon and company in the stirring domestic drama, For the Woman He Loves. As Mary Vernon Miss Nina Vaughton is a sweet and pathetic heroine, and Mr Gordon is a capital Phillip Meredith. Much amusement is caused by the whimsicalities of Mr W. Manfree, in the character of Muggleton; Miss Ida Bell is a charming Tilda.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—Mr George Dance's company is paying another successful visit here with the tuneful musical comedy A Country Girl. Mr Johnny Osborne, an old Croydon favourite, is sparkling and merry as Barry; Mr Cyril Thompson sings capitally in the rôle of Geoffrey Chaloner; Mr George Mudie, jun., is a comical Sir Joseph Verity; Mr Vincent Bowyer is commendable as Mr Raikes; Mr J. D. Newton scores as Douglas Verity; Mr Tom Sheridan is admirable as Granfer Mummery; and Messrs Scrope Quinton and J. Bruce give noteworthy performances as Lord Anchester and Lord Grassmere. Miss Maud Harvey is charming and attractive in the rôle of Marjory Joy; Miss Nina Carlton is a handsome Princess Melaneh; Miss Veronica Brady makes a lively Madame Sophie; and Miss May Glen is taking as Nan.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry E. Reckitt.—Mr Stanley Hope's company is drawing good houses to the Royal with The Master Criminal. Miss Nellie Thearle displays ability as Cecile; Miss Edith Lawrence is resourceful as Mrs Manners; Miss Kitty Terriss is a light-hearted Peggy Perks; and Miss Bessie Armytage is clever as Mary Murphy. Mr Albert Guyon in the title-rôle distinguishes himself; Mr John Power is commendable as Philip Manners; Mr Wilton Marsh is skilful as James Sharples; and Mr Tod Squires is at his best as Tommy Dale. Mr Reillie's orchestra works hard and with excellent effect.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The amusements here are very good. The Finneys are causing a great sensation in their swimming exhibition, the turn being warmly applauded. Mr G. M. Marriott's company is well received in the interesting sketch Cigarette, in which genuine work is put in by Miss Edith Finlay, in the title-rôle; Mr Otto Minster as the Hon. Bertie and the Corporal, Mr G. Dare as Rake, and Mr Marriott as Colonel Chateauroy. The Twin Andersons, dancers; Miss Georgina Leonard, Mr Tom Yorke, Grant and Allen, Miss Teresa De Silva, Adrien and Oram, the Sisters Desmond, Mr Will Farrell, Miss Lillie Langtry, and Mr Edson form a strong variety list.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—This week the boards here are occupied by O'Connor and Brady's variety company. The Three Jackley Wonders head the bill, and do some clever feats. O'Connor and Brady are old favourites, and are well received. The singing and dancing of Gertie Gitana are much appreciated; Mansell Fane is loudly applauded for his fine singing; Mons. Henri Sardou mystifies the audience; Will Saunders is an amusing comedian; Signor Bandoni gives a good musical turn; E. J. Wilkes is a refined comedian; and Gus Balsiger, comedian and trick musician, is excellent.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. L. Ormesby.—The marvellous Craggs are paying a return visit here this week in Laughter-Land. Mr Henry B. Lewis is a great success as Prof. Sylvanus Wood; Mr Harry Rousby is screamingly funny as Dick Marlow; Mr Cragie Edwards gives a capable rendition of Alderman Trentham; and Mr Victor Raymond is smart as Archie. The part of Clothilda, the Alderman's daughter, is successfully portrayed by Miss A. Rose, Miss A. Hastings makes a capital Clarice, and Miss Evie Daring as Miss De Vere is also very good. Miss Cecilia Hawthorne and Miss May Leslie as Dinah and Lulu respectively sing and dance with excellent taste. Some exceptional feats of tumbling by the Craggs deserve special mention, and have been greatly appreciated.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Chas. Denley.—Mr J. F. Elliston's company is paying a return visit here this week with In Old Kentucky. As Madge Brierly, Miss Amy F. Hermann a versatile actress, brings out the light and shade of the character; Mr J. George Steel plays in thoroughly manly fashion as Frank Harley; Mr Eric Hudson stands out prominently as Jasper Grafton, the evil genius of the piece; Mr Gerard Kennedy does excellent work as Joe Lorey; Mr Alfred S. Bankes plays divertingly as the impecunious speculator; Mr Harry Leander makes a praiseworthy Neb; as the society lady, Miss Edith Harmer sings in pleasing style, and Mr Jimmy James proves himself an expert with banjo and bones.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—The Max Trevally-Harley, trampolin acrobats, the star turn here, submit a clever handbalancing and somersaulting performance. Bennett and Martell, described as the Lunatics, create roars of laughter; Hector and Paulus, comedy equilibrists, give a clever balancing turn; the Knick Knacks appear in a smart and mirth-provoking comedy and dancing act; Primavesi, a skilful juggler, is well appreciated; Fred Cox is a quaint American comedian; and Gracie Logan is a pleasing soubrette and dancer. The Sheffield Photo. Company is responsible for some fine animated pictures.

DEWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Resident-Manager, Mr J. Herbert Asquith.—A Woman's Pluck is proving a decided success here this week. The company includes many capable artistes. Mr James Willard (the author) is at his best as Dick Darrell; Mr Cecil Raymond as Sir John Daredevil plays with admirable effect; Mr C. P. Wentworth gives an able rendering of Sir Noel Fordyce; Mr E. E. Ashby handles the rôle of Winston Dale with his accustomed power; Mr J. Pope Dryden makes an undoubted hit in the dual-rôle of Jim Daremont and Mark Scanlan; and Mr William Hayward plays Matthew Pope with care and ability. Miss East-Robertson treats the rôle of Grace Daremont powerfully.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES.—Mr George Weldon is presenting an interesting bill this week, the Langdons, singers of illustrated songs, holding leading position. The Dunvilles have a smart comedy sketch, and are applauded; Bob Gardner, with his pipes, is a welcome feature; and Rappo and Ella, equilibrists, meet with much success. Marie Weston, banjoist and dancer, has an attractive turn, and George Foyle, vocalist, is good. Parr is clever in his particular business, and Paddy and the Bioscope never fail to give satisfaction.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—The entertainment this week is brimful of excellence, and has commanded large audiences. "Whirling the Whirl" is a good turn by the Four Davies, champion cyclists; the Sisters St. John, vocalists and dancers, are very acceptable; Reg Bolton, comedian and patterer, is popular; Lil Gorman, burlesque, actress, is a favourite; the Three Martinettes, in The Troubles of an Elephant, are well rewarded; Fred Hepworth, expert whistler, gives great satisfaction; and Albert Ventor, comedian, does well. The Evremonds, in the humorous episode, The Slavey and the Tramp, are rapturously received; and May Lilian Levey, comedienne, provides a dainty item.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Miss Beatrice Isaacson and company are doing excellent business with A Great Sensation. Mr Sydney N. Hallows makes a gallant lover, and acts the part of Jack Damer with fire and vigor. Mr Alexander L. Isaacson is responsible for an amusing portrayal of Bunko Bates, and finds abundant scope for his humorous resources. Mr Tom Robertson, whose style and appearance fit him well for the rôle of Henry Encombe, plays effectively, and Mr Frank V. Fenn holds the attention of the audience throughout, and enlists their entire sympathy for the character of Robin Dale. Mr Frank C. Kent is funny as Wiley Jones, and Mr Henry Clayton is thoroughly competent as Stephen Damer. Mr George Collinson makes the most of his limited opportunities as Bruce; the comedy element is safe in the hands of Mr Harry Ugar and Miss Marion Mayne, who, as Peter and Ria respectively, cause much hilarity. Miss Beatrice Isaacson acts with considerable pathos and strong dramatic power as Eva Dale. Miss Edith Wallis gives a forcible rendering of Sidonie, depicting with admirable effect the utter heartlessness and cruelty of the part, and Miss Maud Hetherington contributes a capital little character study of the flower girl waif. The drama is well staged, the Flying Machine scene in act four, in particular, gaining the plaudits of the audience.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE. — Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The Duke of Killicrankie occupies the boards here this week, and is being played with great success by Messrs Charles Frohman and Arthur Chudleigh's company. Mr Langhorne Burton in the title-rôle is most effective, and in the humorous character of Mr Henry Pitt-Welby, M.P., Mr Arthur Grenville is extremely good. Miss Doris Templeton gives a charming portrayal of Lady Henrietta Addison, and Miss Aida Jenoure submits a clever reading of Mrs Mulholland. Barbara, which precedes, is cleverly presented by Miss Margaret Damer as Barbara, Miss Gillian Scalfe as Lilie, Mr Guy Newall as Cecil, and Mr Frank Macdonnell as Finnicum.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong. —Florodora is being presented here this week by Mr Tom B. Davis's company. Mr Edward Lewis keeps the audience in roars of laughter with his amusing reading of Tweedlepunch; in the part of Cyrus Gilfain Mr Fred Winn acts capitally; Mr Leonard Russell as Frank Abercoed is greatly appreciated; Miss Hilda Dugdale is a charming Angela; and Miss Isabella Dillon enacts the rôle of Lady Holyrood with vivacity. Miss Lena Maitland is greatly admired in her portrayal of Dolores, and Captain Donegal is ably presented by Mr Frank Grans.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Mr Alfred B. Cross and company are drawing excellent houses here this week in The Manxman. Mr Alfred B. Cross cleverly enacts the part of Pete; Miss Minnie Watersford effectively portrays the rôle of Kate Cregeen; the character of Philip Christian is capitally handled by Mr Richard Vane; Miss Muriel Clay does admirably as Miss Christian; Cæsar Cregeen has an able exponent in Mr Henry Heller, and Miss Rosie Kearns is very good as Nancy. Ross Christian is played in a satisfactory manner by Mr Edward M'Lean, and as Monty Missit and Professor Mawley Messrs Edward Cartail and Erakholme E. Clive ably sustain their parts.

EMPIRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The chief attraction here this week is Rousby's "In Paris," an electric review in four tableaux, a most interesting spectacular show. Prince Kokin is an excellent juggler; Tennyson and Wallis are clever comedians; the Miles Stavordale Quintet give a very entertaining turn; and Harry Dent is a capital comedian. The Wedburns are successful comedy artistes; Beatrice Renee, comedienne and dancer, has a host of admirers; Ted Cowan is an acceptable comedian; and the Empire pictures are up to date.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Chas. M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—There is a capital programme provided here this week, the principal item being the Sisters Urma, whose daring trapeze performance elicits hearty applause. Another acceptable turn is that provided by the Three Woodbee Wonders, and the Goldina Trio, novelty carpet spinners, score a success. Les Belles Americaine, vocalists and dancers, meet with appreciation; Weston and May, in their musical comedy act, Married Life, are well received; Davis and Davis are a smart pair of comedians and dancers; the Bell Pearl company, in their sketch, A Bit of String, are highly amusing; and Bob Stephenson, comedian; La Belle Ideala, wire performer; Ernest Ball, actor-vocalist; and the Bioscope pictures complete the bill.

DUNDEE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Sandon Perkins.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is here this week in A Country Mouse. Miss Violet M. Hartley as Angela gave a delightfully convincing interpretation. Miss Edith Walker made a dashing Lady Sylvia, and Miss Eve Erskine was a handsome Violet Aynsley. Miss Emily Levettez was a very humorous charwoman. Mr Charles Howitt as the Hon. Archibald Vyse gave a very clever and effective performance. Mr Arnold Lucy was seen to advantage as St. Kitts, and Mr Charles Harley made a dignified Mr John Bowlby, M.P., Mr Wilson Lumley as Lord Robert Wykeham and Mr John E. Watson as old Jephcott lent invaluable aid to an agreeable entertainment.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—Picitt does marvels here with handcuffs; Tony Iveson meets with a terrific reception for his clever musical comedy act; Payne's Little Vagabonds repeat their former success; M. C. Geraldo and company supply an exceedingly smart Indian club juggling performance; and Royal Best, an old favourite under a new name, is awarded the hearty applause of the audience for his clever facial entertainment. Rosie Elliott, Mabel La Blanche, and Jack Pleasants also appear.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Will Percival.—When a Man Hates is here. Mr Arthur Hinton gave a very creditable performance as Pietro Danelli. Miss Leila Zillwood as Olga Gwynne, Danelli's accomplice, played with true dramatic feeling; and Miss Marion Forrester very capably enacted Letty.

GAIETY THEATRE. — Manager, Mr H. Dobell Lyle.—Mr Roy Jackson's company remain here for another week and produce Trilby and Quasimodo. In the former Mr Jackson gives a very skilful rendering in the character of Svengali, and Miss Kitty Douglas ably seconds his efforts as Trilby.

DUDLEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr J. W. Tilley.—Mr Charles March and a strong company are here this week in the powerful spectacular play The Priest of the Temple. Mr Charles March gives a powerful rendering of Valerius; as Decus Fronto Mr Ronald Bayne, an old favourite with Dudley audiences, is very successful; Mr Harry Moxton as Appius Herdonius is excellent; Miss Marie North as Praestantia, a Roman lady, plays a difficult character with much feeling; and Miss Evelyn Hope is seen to advantage as Polita.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Tom Prichard.—Ara, Zebra, and Vora, in "Indian Pastimes," head the bill here this week, and are proving a great attraction. Mr and Mrs Howard Law, in the comedy On Active Service are amusing, and Martin Conway, a favourite comedian here, is as funny as ever. Will Mitcham, musical artiste, is smart, and Rayor and Juli, in Demonology, give a clever performance. Other good turns are Sisters Leroy, vocalists and dancers; Maud Ross, comedienne and dancer; and Fred Collins, Scotch character comedian.

EASTBOURNE.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—Miss Eugene Bertram's company is appearing here this week in The Fascinating Miss Kemp. Mr Drelincourt Odlum contributes the work of an excellent actor, and he is a great success as the genial, hearty Meredith. Mr Charles Garry, too, must claim a goodly share of praise for his capital assumption of the part of Colonel Trevannion. Mr Hugh Ardale is an animated Gerald, and Mr Harold Wadeley is a bright Lionel. Miss Rose Portman is a quiet, restrained Miss Kemp, Miss Dora Heritage is a most appropriate and capable Mrs Trevannion, and Miss Celestine Bertram is a pretty and girlish Elsie. In the curtain-raiser, which glories in a Latin phrase for a title, Miss Celestine Bertram and Mr Hugh Ardale are particularly successful.

TOWN HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Kennard.—Mr Joseph Poole's famed Myriorama is paying a return visit here after a lengthy absence. The pictures and mechanical effects are as interesting as ever, and the show of animated photographs is excellent. The variety portion of the bill includes the marvellous Westwoods, whose performance on bicycles is strikingly clever and novel and exceedingly daring. Mdlle. Orbasany's cockatoos show evidence of careful training; the Veronas are two pretty ladies who quickly dance into favour; Miss May Finch pleases with her patriotic ballads; Mr Felix Somers has a good impersonation act, "People we Know;" and Mr Nat Abatt is the humorous, chatty guide.

ECCLES.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Potasch and Wardle; Manager, Mr P. Potasch; Acting-Manager, Mr P. Ryan-Smith.—Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company is here this week in A Beautiful Fiend. As Wanda Lubinoff Miss May Crowe is everything suggested by the title of the play, and Miss Irene Munroe is pathetic as Nadine. Mr Montague Besudyn is a fine and manly hero, and Mr Herbert Skardon is successful as the villainous Count Karateff.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—The New Barmaid was presented at this theatre on Monday by a company under the direction of Mr Alexander Loftus. The performance was made interesting by the presence of Mr Joseph B. Montague, whose diverting acting in his original character of Bertie White kept the audience well amused. Mr Alexander Loftus made a capital William White; Mr Leslie Austin sang nicely as Captain Lovebury; Mr Herbert Cottesmore was effective as Colonel Claymore; Miss Maude Nicholls acted pleasantly as Ethel Joy; and Miss Violet Osmund approved herself a smart comedienne as Dora Heather, the lady journalist. Miss Jean Gilmour was an excellent Lady Moulton, and Miss Hilda Blanche gave a spirited representation of Brenda Louth. The chorus sang with effect, the dancing was particularly good, and numerous specialities introduced in the second act by the principal members of the company were highly successful.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—A visit from the D'Oyly Carte opera company is always welcome to Edinburgh music-lovers, and there was a large and appreciative audience on Monday when The Mikado was played. Mr C. Herbert Workman was inimitably droll as Ko-Ko; Mr Fred Billington proved vastly entertaining in the rôle of Pooh-Bah; the Mikado had a first-rate representative in Mr Albert Kavanagh; and Mr Pacie Ripple made a satisfactory first appearance here as Nanki-Poo. Yum-Yum was charmingly impersonated by Miss Norah Maguire, who sang admirably; the Katisha of Miss Theresa Ransam is still an enjoyable feature of the opera; Miss Jessie Rose made a sparkling Pitti Sing; and Miss Mabel Burnege was a satisfactory Peep-Bo. On Tuesday The Yeomen of the Guard was given; on Wednesday, The Gondoliers; on Thursday, Iolanthe; and on Friday, H.M.S. Pinafore and Trial by Jury.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—The return of Mr Eugene Stratton was welcomed on Monday by a big house, and his coon songs, of which he gave three, were received with enthusiastic favour. His effective delivery of "That little Girl of Johnson's" made an immediate impression; and the popular "I may be crazy," with its dramatic framework and fine orchestral score, fairly captured the house. The violin playing of M. Jan Rudenyi was rapturously applauded, and Miss Lilian Lowe's tastefully rendered ballads were favourably received. Mr Horace White's brilliant piano playing gave an added charm to his delightful entertainment. Mr J. H. Milburn sang and grimaced with all the old success, and Signora Pia Carozzi, an accomplished harpist, impressed the audience with some beautifully executed solos. The part singing of the Four Black Troubadours was of a highly enjoyable character; pictures on the Bioscope have been an additional attraction; M'Phee and Hill repeat their daring triple bar act; and Gallagher and Hild and Johnny Gilmour complete the company.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr and Mrs Charles Clifford's company appeared here on Monday in a four-act military drama entitled On Circumstantial Evidence. Mr Gordon M'Leod was a spirited Jack Ogilvy; Mr Charles Clifford played Captain Hamilton with undoubted power; Mr Harry Cooke created much amusement in the character of Jeremiah Tobin; Miss Maud Camfield made an interesting Violet Ogilvy; and Miss M. Hastings was a bright and vivacious Polly Smithers.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—The performances this week have been witnessed by crowded and well-pleased audiences. The Four Maisanos introduce a grotesque musical turn with success; Clown Barker's performing animals are well received; and other praiseworthy items are "Peace and War," a military display on horseback; Miss Eva's graceful and skilful "Troika" act; the clever trapeze performance of La Belle Rose and clown; the intrepid jockey act of Mons. Henry; Mr Anthony Powell's boxing stallions, in an interesting pugilistic display; the Two Yoricks, with gymnastics and fun; and "Prairie Life out West," which still runs successfully.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—The Three Little Maids was presented here for the first time on Monday by Mr C. Macdona's principal company. Ada was played with much sprightliness by Miss Gladys Ward; Miss Gertrude Melville as Hilda had a double encore for "A Miller's Daughter;" and Miss Nora Guy (Edna) sang nicely "What's it matter?" Miss Kate Forster makes the most of Lady St. Mallory; Mr Guy Oxley is an exceedingly comical caddie, and, in conjunction with Miss Laura Wright (Gretchen), is recalled for a smartly executed sabot dance. Mr Arthur Longley gives a capital rendering of the effeminate Lord Cheyne. The scenery and mounting are excellent, and the orchestra and chorus under the direction of Mr Julian Rutt were most effective.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week Mr Frank Bateman's company produced the sensational Russian drama At War With Women, which depicts in vivid colours the terrors and horrors of Siberian life. Miss Lizzie Montague as Auriel Romanoff made the part a very interesting one, and Mr Clinton Baddeley as Antolski sustained with much ability an onerous part. East Lynne was staged for the remainder of the week by Miss Elaine Verner and Mr Harding Thomas's company.

TOWN HALL.—Mr J. Clifford Wright's company played on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week to fairly good business at this place of entertainment. The drama was The Black Mask, and in the title-rôle Mr George Hunter made a very successful appearance, while Mr Wright himself as Walter Blackmore, a young doctor, created a favourable impression. Mr Fred Cherry as Samuel Winkle proved himself a comedian of more than average ability.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr John Denton's company is here this week with Wealth, Women, and Wickedness. Mr Harry Browne as James Rivers is excellent; Mr Frank Beresford is a manly Jack Vavasour; Mr Percy Rhodes as the villain, Captain Melboure, plays the part admirably; Mr Willie Scott is exceedingly humorous as Tom Hopkins; Mr John Denton makes a capital Elkanah Pearce; Mr Trueman Towers submits a clever character sketch as Bennett; Miss Dolly Harcourt as Polly Hopkins contributes largely to the comedy part; Miss Ada Palmer leaves nothing to be desired as Agatha Pearce; Miss Kate Walbran shows exceptional ability as Elise; and Miss Violet King as Claire Rivers acts with sympathy and power.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Crownow.—This theatre was opened on Monday by Miss Fortescue and company in The School for Scandal. On Tuesday She Stoops to Conquer was produced, Miss Fortescue giving a charming rendering of Kate Hardcastle. Young Marlow and Hastings were excellently played by Mr G. Polson and Mr Cecil Newton; Mr E. Paterson gave a clever representation of old Hardcastle; Mr E. Cossart was amusing as Tony Lumpkin; Miss Miriam Lewes was a vivacious Constance; and Miss Eugenie Vernie was a good Mrs Hardcastle. The other characters were in capable hands. During the week Moths was also presented.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Mr Henry Hare's company in the musical farcical comedy, The Girl from Chicago, is appearing here this week. Mr Buckstone Clair is a good exponent of the hustling Yankee judge, Ananias Hussel; and Mr Edwin Dobbs is an agile clerk, Billy M'Gaffin. General Boomer, an American millionaire, is well played by Mr Henry Hare. Mr Douglas Vigors impersonates Percy Montmorency capitally; Mr Clarence Ibbotson, a clever comedian, is most popular as Obadiah Cackles; and Miss Nellie Vicott makes a laughable character of Lucretia Flatfoot. Miss Lily Beverley as Flora Boomer (the Girl from Chicago) both in her singing and acting is admirable. A lively trio are found in Mesdames Nellie James, Lena Adams, and Madge Shaw, who assume the characters of pupils at a dancing academy; and Mr James Quinn as Sam Slappit and Miss Lucy Beaumont as Mrs Sweetlove strengthen the cast.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—On Monday Mr and Mrs William Giffard and company appeared here in the drama The World's Desire. The part of Dora Mutley was played with much power by Mrs William Giffard; a charming embodiment of Helen Berkshaw was given by Miss Ella Seton; the villainous Ellis Tridley was powerfully handled by Mr William Giffard; Mr Clifford Rean gave a fine piece of acting in the dual-rôle of Robert and Henry Selkirk; Mr George Child was responsible for a capable interpretation of Nathaniel Mutley; Mr Herbert Light was a capital Godstone Clair; and Mr Chas. Light was well placed as Washington Dobbs. Miss Alberte was good in the part of Ragged Jack, and Miss Francis Bruce was highly successful as Justerina Hook. On Thursday Mr James Hare and company were here.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Limited; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—Heading a strong variety bill submitted here during the week is the Nelson's Newsboys' Quintet, who provide an exceptionally entertaining turn. The Four Francois, acrobats, also give a most attractive show. Miss Cora Gray sings charmingly, and Denby and Dent provide a good comedy act entitled The Singing Barber. Silbon's trained ponies, dogs, and cats are most amusing, and James Dubois and Oliver Conroy are responsible for good turns. The Yorkshire Mill Lasses sing capably.

GLASGOW.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham: Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Mr Downie.—The Lady's Maid is this week visiting Glasgow for the second time. The company is now under the management of Mr Gore Ouseley and is headed by Miss Isa Bowman, who plays the title-rôle in her usual bright and engaging manner. Mr Harry Fischer's acting as Josiah Biffin keeps the house in excellent humour. In the part of Lieut. Marchmont Mr Dennis Drew proves himself a singer of some promise, and as Augustus Pupbpayst Mr Harold Eden gives an amusing study. Another very diverting performance is that of Spriggs, given by Mr Chas. T. Chaloner. As Alison Grey Miss Pauline Hague sings and acts with refined taste, and Miss Noel Neville supplies a gay and spirited impersonation of Zaza Marmosette. Mr Joseph Wilson does well as Pietro Conti; other clever assumptions being the Landlord of Mr Harry Askham and the Sergeant Tomkins of Mr Frank Randall. The production has the advantage of a full chorus and orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr Spencer Dickensor.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane. —Our Boys is being given in Glasgow this week by a company under the direction of Mr Russell Rosse. Mr Alf Mayne was good as Kempster; Miss Cissie Sephton showed versatile ability as Violet; and the parts of Clarissa and Belinda were sustained with dignity and vivacity by Misses Nellie De Lacey and Edith Hesketh. As Mary Melrose Miss Muriel Godfrey Turner acted in charming style. Mr M. Russell Rosse delighted all as Sir Geoffrey, and Mr Wylie Dick made a fine appearance as Talbot Champneys. As Charles Mr Thomas Holding was excellent. Mr Thorne was, at usual, admirable as Perkyn Middlewick.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Murdoch.—Miss Go-wongo-Mohawk and her company are here in Wep-tonno mah. The clever Indian actress ably impersonates the brave mail-carrier of the play. Mr C. W. Charles as the General is well placed, and the scapegrace nephew is ably enacted by Mr G. Courtney. A strong performance is that of Mr R. Thorne as Spanish Joe. Miss Minnie Goepel makes a lively Nellie. Humour is plentifully supplied by Miss J. Hart as Matilda, Mr Dan Ryan as the Irish servant, and Mr Guy D. Hackney as Sam. Mr Theo Alker acts well as the old Indian chief.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar. Mr George Harris and Mr Fred Terriss's company is here, in Why Woman Sins. Mr Wallace Campbell gives a robust impersonation of Lieut. Harry Maxwell. Miss Effie Bartlett is pathetic as Nell Desmond. Captain Herbert Carlton has an able exponent in Mr Fred Terriss. Mr George Harris contributes excellent fooling as Cecil Spencer. Jim Rainbird is carefully depicted by Mr Lionel Ellis, who also appears as Admiral Stedfast. Miss Gussie Everett ably portrays Ida Valette. As Lily De Vere Miss Winifred Preece makes a marked success. Mr Clifford Spencer causes much amusement as Sam Spavin. Mr Forbes Harrison plays Orlando Whiffles effectively, and Miss Marie West is efficient as Nancy Nibble. Miss Georgina Thomas is expressive as Jack Smith, and the remaining parts are well played.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. B. Oakden. — Dr. Walford Bodie, in his second week at the Govan Theatre, is introducing the Mystic Marie séance which proved so puzzling to Palace audiences two weeks ago. He has added to his clever variety combination W. E Hilton, the popular Scotch ventriloquist. The De Roys give an amusing comic conjuring act; and clever turns are given by the Garden Troupe, La Petite Belle, Sisters Moray, Gerald Lopez, and others. Dr. Bodie's cures of paralytic cases continue to excite much wonder.

WHITEVALE.—Proprietor, Mr George Green; Acting-Manager, Mr W. H. Webster.—This week good houses are being attracted here by The Anarchist Terror, as presented by Miss Lole Esmond's company. Mr Edward Neville is still the clever representative of Ravagoon; Mr J. Nelson-Turner is an amusing Silas Goldstraw; and the go-ahead daughter is played with much spirit by Miss Violet Hammersley. Mr C. T. F. O'Connor makes a dashing Lieutenant Armstrong; Mikey Doolan is enacted with infectious humour by Mr Will White; and Miss Lole Esmond as Kitty Malone shines in song and dance. Ishmael is well portrayed by Mr Gus Bowerman. Miss Annie Brunette as Marita, Miss Kate Parr as Floretta, and Miss Cecile Byrne as Zara ably sustain the female interest.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin.—Hagedorn's wonderful grotto is again here, and this unique and artistic spectacle is much admired; Selma Braatz gives her artistic juggling act; Minnie Cunningham, in her quiet style, retains the favour of the audience in several new songs; Lieut. Travis gives his clever show, "Travis's Transformations;" Lee and Kingston contribute an amusing comedy duo, Practical Joking; the Four Milons as equilibrists and the Three Georgis as comedy acrobats are two popular turns; Johnny Dwyer, Charles Russell, and the Cavallinis all provide amusing turns. Sybil St. Elmo's refined ballad singing is a pleasant feature of the programme. Sisters St. Julian are clever duettists and dancers.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S.—Lessees, Messrs Colquhoun and Armstrong, Limited; General-Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Messrs Fred C. Ewing and T. J. Colquhoun.—J. W. Rowley tops the bill here, and has a hearty reception, his singing and dancing being as good as ever. J. W. Rickaby excels in his special line of business, and had to respond to an encore; while the Sisters Russell were favoured with many recalls; Allis and Cassatti are first-class sketch artistes; while Lily Sharplin is a good mimic. The company includes Orpheus, instrumental speciality; Dandy George and dog; Frances Letty; Daunton-Shaw Troupe, clever cyclists; the Mezondos, tumbling act; Tom E. Fingas, coon comedian; Valoni, novelty juggler; Paragon Trio, vocalists; George Prince, eccentric comedian; and Bendon's Bioscope.

PALACE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thomas Barrasford; Acting-Manager, H. M'Kelvin.—Jack Haggerty's English wrestlers nightly create excitement here. Some marvellous trick cycle riding is done by Robins. The Water Cure, a farcical sketch of some merit, is smartly played by Messrs Charles Stewart and company, and is well received. Farley, Rennie, and Farley create no end of uproarious mirth in Fun at a Railway Station, a boisterous sketch, which pleases immensely. The Waldrons, burlesque artists, maintain their popularity as entertainers, and the banjo turn of Stanley and Greenop brings these performers notably in evidence. Comedy business, light and refined, is a pleasing contribution by Mr Whit Cunliffe, who, like the Gregsons, a mirthful sketch, is well received. The Bioscope pictures continue as popular and interesting as hitherto. Illness prevents Miss Vesta Victoria's appearance here this week.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr James Anderson; Manager, Mr Geo. Saphrial.—Leon and Williams give a capital display of knockabout business here. Other artistes engaged are the Henderson and Stanley Quartet, instrumentalists and dancers; Meta Derron, ballad vocalist; J. C. Morris, comedian; Mayon and Marle, in a musical comedy sketch; Geo. Bernard, vocalist; and Sam Thomson, comedian.

HARMONIC CONCERTS.—Musical Secretary, Mr William Biggam.—In the programme provided here Mackenzie Murdoch's violin playing is a great treat. J. B. Preston's song "The Late Bird" meets with instant approval; W. E. Hilton, Scotch ventriloquist, does a praiseworthy turn; Florence Lambeth and Robert Robertson, in their sketch Domestic Mutual Improvement, are universal favourites; and Sam Thomson, Scotch comedian; the Scottish Troubadours, instrumentalists; Esther Hood, soprano; the Ross Combination, Highland dancers; J. C. Middleton, baritone; and Craighall Sherry, in sketch Erchie, are included in the company.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—A capital three hours' variety entertainment is provided here this week. The Ransley Troupe of cyclists give a sensational act on a tea cup track. Gus Hindel provides an amusing scena in "Boys will be Boys." Mdlle. Flora Lumiere's kaleidoscopic and fire dances in the fairy grotto are much admired. Messena juggles cleverly. Chas. Woodward is successful in his monologue, "The Last Touch." Mdlle. Bartenelli contributes a novel gymnastic turn. Other artistes appearing are Leslie Digby, eccentric comedian; Newland and Nash, comedians and patterers; and the Boultons, in their comedy act "Limelight Coons."

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—Crowded houses are still the rule, and an excellent programme is presented. The Cee-Mee Troupe of gymnasts provide a daring and amusing turn; Saltray proves himself an expert foot juggler; Madame Yvette's miniature hippodrome is received with applause; the Albano Troupe astonish with their musical extravaganza on all sorts of instruments; the Bolphas contribute a capital comedy triple bar act; Max Gruber's performing elephant and horse go through a number of movements at the command of their trainer; the Bros. Austin give a clever chair pyramid turn; the Dekotos in their acrobatic act win loud and long applause, Little Doodles has become quite a favourite, and his comicalities are much enjoyed.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex. Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr C. Finch Hatton's company is here this week with the drama, From Scotland Yard. Mr C. Finch Hatton appears in the rôles of detective, glazier, &c., with great success. Mr T. Arthur-Ellis plays with ability the part of Dean Fordyce, Mr Jack Armitage is an excellent representative of Richard Drake, and Mr Fred H. Rose acts Hawkins Bliss with no small skill. Mr James F. Firth is good as Weary Marsden, as is Mr Mike Johnson in the part of Joe Staggers, and Mr Harry Rutland does well as Jim Mullins. Miss Doris Rennee gives a sympathetic rendering of Mabel, Miss Helen Lowther is attractive as Sybil, Miss C. Gould-Bourne is a capable Mrs Ruggles, and Miss Josephine H. Lee does good work as Mad Marie.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—The New York Comedy Four head the bill this week, and are loudly applauded. Patty Yole is an elegant comedienne and dancer; Golden and Grey, in the vaudeville The Missing Will, are good; Les Bois are capital burlesque jugglers; Casey and Ramsey, eccentric comedians, are approved; Fred Pollard, eccentric comedian, is amusing; the Moxon Family of musical acrobats are well received; and the Electrograph completes the bill.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Barry Williams's play, A Bid for Fortune, has made its second appearance here this week. It is a costume drama of a highly romantic character. An excellent representation is given by a capable company under the direction of Messrs J. A. Campbell and G. Fulton. Mr C. Brereton Borer ably sustains the part of the much-wronged Sir Philip Templemere, whilst Mr Oswald Douglas realistically portrays the scheming Kent Hickett. The characters of Barbara and Agnes are admirably undertaken by Miss Mary Ainslie and Miss Olive Fulton. Mr Hubert Clifton is quite satisfactory as the miser, Sir Milton Netherley, whilst the same may be said of Mr Geoffrey Fulton as Desmond Netherley. The amusing characters of Bobb Cuttle, Nat Goodberry, Matthew Mullard, and Widow Nicholls are well played by Mr Dick Thomas, Mr J. Lea Hair, Mr Arthur Trail, and Miss Jenny Bostock respectively.

HIPPODROME.—Capt. Alfonso Gerard's troupe of lions and tiger dogs have occasioned considerable interest at the Hippodrome this week. They have given a very novel performance, and the splendid condition of the animals has caused much favourable comment. Emma Don's quartet of black and white vocalists have proved a smart lot of youngsters, and have given a highly popular turn. Exceptionally clever and really charming dancing has been accomplished by Lily Flexmore, whose business is quite of an original description. Vandinoff's exhibition of oil painting was a turn of quite a unique character. Walter Adams, eccentric comedian, has caused much merriment, as also has Ernest Heath. An amusing sketch, Ketchup, has been contributed by Nelson and Thomas, and the programme has been completed with a display of acrobatic feats by the Tarras.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr J. W. Turner's opera company is here this week. From the répertoire Mariana was selected for the opening night, and a capital interpretation was given. Mr Turner assumed his usual rôle of Don Cæsar De Bazan, and, needless to say, was thoroughly successful both in the portrayal of the character and in his vocal contributions. Mr John Ridding made an admirable Don José, and sang well; Mr Sidney Clifford was also commendable as the King of Spain. The Mariana of Miss Alice Boden was a conspicuous success, her clever representation of the part being accompanied by excellent vocalisation. Miss Jessie Dennis did justice to the part of Lazarillo. The chorus is good, and the whole production is worthy of commendation.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—A good all-round company is giving satisfaction to the patrons of this popular house. Much laughter is caused by the comical pair, Cullen and Corthy; Miss Edith Cole sings her songs with taste and feeling; Blake and Granby have a funny sketch in The Man in Possession; Raffayette has some performing dogs, which go through clever evolutions; the Glenroy Troupe of dancers give a clever and enjoyable performance; and the Caledonian Boys give a smart musical and vocal performance.

HANLEY.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—The No. 1 company of Moody-Manners is paying a welcome return visit this week in a round of standard operas. On Monday Carmen was presented, and on Tuesday Tannhäuser. The Elisabeth was Madame De Vere, who on Tuesday made a deep impression by her dramatic perception of the necessities of the part and her really fine singing. Mr Joseph O'Mara as Tannhäuser was in excellent voice, and his impersonation was received with much enthusiasm. Miss Toni Selter as Venus was distinctly successful; Mr Chas. Magrath as the Landgrave scored admirably; Mr William Dever, who was suffering from a cold, was obliged to relinquish the part of Wolfram during the evening, and Mr F. H. Erle took it up in a manner which reflects the highest credit upon this artiste. The Lily of Killarney, The Daughter of the Regiment, The Bohemian Girl, La Traviata, and Maritana are in the programme for the week.

GRAND, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr C. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—The premier position is held this week by Captain Woodward's seals and sea lions, in a performance which is but little short of human intelligence; Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, contribute a turn which is both entertaining and clever, their acrobatic business being really excellent; Harry Coates, the singing navvy, is received with much applause; Messrs Stewart and Morgan are duettists of extraordinary ability, and their tuneful singing was received with much enthusiasm; the Onlaw Trio present a novel and high-class tight-rope turn, several of their feats being quite new; Jack Lorimer is a comedian of ability, his Scotch song being clever; Miss Marie Blythe has a deep contralto voice, and her items are heartily applauded; the Four Jumels are smart instrumentalists, their banjo and mandoline playing being excellent; Stephens and Rennior dance admirably; and the Bioscope shows the most up-to-date pictures. Business is good.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze. —This week we have here Messrs Coventry and Collins' sporting comedy Thoroughbred. Mr Percy Bell, on Monday, as John Rimple kept the house thoroughly amused; Miss Mary Smith ably seconded his humorous impersonation; Miss Katherine Parry was pleasing as Della Rimple; Mr Charles Leverson Lane made a good impression as the good-natured American, A. M. Decker; Miss Ivy Hertzog was forceful as the Hon. Wilhemina Carlingham; and the sporting element was ably upheld by Messrs Lewis Sealy as Lord Sandacre and Edward A. Coventry as Blenkinsop. Miss Ruhamah Catton played with considerable dash as Miss Pallington, and the dilettante Clyde Nezril had an effective representative in Mr John R. Collins. The comedy was preceded by Cutting Out a Prize.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D Hunter. — Mr Arthur St. John and a powerful dramatic company are appearing this week in the historical drama Jane Shore. A dual impersonation of quite opposite characteristics is cleverly personified by Mr Arthur St. John, who to Richard, Duke of Gloucester, and Matthew Shore, the goldsmith, to each gives a natural and dramatic delineation. In the title-rôle Miss Patty Trounsell brings all the necessary feeling to bear upon a very difficult part. Mr E. Fergusson is capital as John Grist, the baker. Mr St. John Beecher gives a fine example of dignity as Lord Hastings. A graceful exposition of the part of Elizabeth Woodville is shown by Miss Lillian Burns. Miss E. Lucas assumes the part of Edward, Prince of Wales, in a pleasing manner. The unthankful character of Sir William Catesby is well depicted by Mr William Foster. Lighter comedy parts are thrown in by Messrs A. Grant and J. Dunlop.

ST. LEONARDS PIER KURSAAL.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh. — The Kursaal orchestra is giving entertainments here under the directorship of Mr Val Marriott. During the concerts Mr Arthur S. Tomlin, society entertainer, introduces some delightful musical sketches.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—Mr Herbert Madden, comedian, heads a good company this week; Semi and Demi introduce an amusing speciality act; the comicalities of the Kimberley Boys are much enjoyed; some marvellous vocal imitations of birds are given by Mr Charles Mildare; Miss Ethel Dove is a smart and attractive comedienne; a zoological comedy by Messrs Donaldson Bros. and Ardel creates great laughter; the charming comedienne Miss Oleyne Spark finds plenty of admirers; and Mr Frank Seeley scores a great success by his eccentricities.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager Mr Smith.—Mr James Hare's company opened a three nights' engagement here on Monday in the sensational drama The Golden Chance, in which Mr Hare very ably played the part of Hubert Izac. Miss Irene Clifford as Viva Izac and Mother Hawk played with fine dramatic ability, whilst Mr H. M. King filled the part of the villain to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Other characters were cleverly sustained by Messrs T. Arkinstall, R. D. Bell, A. Swain, A. H. Clarke, J. Hames, A. W. Harvey, A. Conroy, T. Shaw, and E. Verne, and Misses Agatha Halford and Jenny Hallworth. Messrs A. Paumier and Walter Howard's company in the romantic play Why Men Love Women appeared on Thursday evening.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs; Manager, Mr Harry Burns.—The Boristridken Troupe of Cossack singers and dancers, who created such a favourable impression upon their last visit, are here again, fresh from their American successes; their performance is as enjoyable and exciting as ever. Other favourites who are receiving gratifying receptions are the Brothers Esdale, in song and patter; Keith and Merson, acrobatic and singing comedians; and George Hyam, a really funny comedian. The gymnastic performance by the Itrams is novel, and certainly clever; Doris Lillian's dancing is graceful, and well appreciated; Barcni and Kemp, in a quick-change act, are quite a revelation; and J. P. Carrol is deservedly recalled for his tambourine manipulations.

HEBBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. A. Jackson; Acting-Manager, Mr Thos Robson.—The principal attraction here this week is the Five Rhynes, in a clever and interesting comedy act. Jas. Brady is much appreciated as the vocal joker; George Daunton is well received as comedian and vocalist; Stanert and Yondi submit a pleasing comedy and musical act; Little Auguste is amusing as the miniature Leno; the Florodora Girls give some excellent speciality dancing; and The Academy an amusing comic sketch, receives due recognition. Costello, comedy conjuror, and Downey's animated pictures complete the bill.

HEREFORD.

GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank J. Pitt.—On Monday Messrs John Hart and H. Armitage's company, in The Never-Never Land, was greeted with applause by a large and enthusiastic audience. Mr Edmund F. Kennedy as Jack Mowbray was intensely realistic; Miss Margaret Parker as Smudge showed considerable ability; as Lady Walgrove Miss Marion Fawcett gave a portrayal of distinct merit; Mr Edward Rochelle delineated the part of Nat Ruddy successfully; Miss Caroline Barrett was capable as Sybil; Miss B. Grand was bright and taking as Lorna Mannerley; and a very striking character, Sal Berker, was portrayed carefully by Miss Julie Kennard.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr G. S. King.—Mr Fred Bulmer's company holds the boards here this week with Sentenced for Life. Mr Dan Agar as the Rev. Percy Mr Gentle keeps the house in a continual roar of laughter; Mr Harry Lloyd is seen to advantage as Lieutenant Roy Stillwell; Mr Ernest Vaughan is well placed as Captain Paul Derrick; and Mr Charles Whitlock as the Rev. Martin Orris is excellent. Miss Mary Dalby as Lady Stillwell is distinctly good; and Miss Georgina France as Adele Gray and Miss Madge Douglas as Kate Rennel are in every way satisfactory.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—Mr Tree's company is presenting that fascinating play The Darling of the Gods. Mr G. W. Anson appears as the relentless Zakkurl. His imperturbable air and deadly politeness in his most cruel actions are deeply impressive. Miss Lilian Stafford as Yo-San is fascinating enough to excuse the dallying of Kara, in which part Mr Gerald Kay Souper displays fine gifts of dramatic power. Mr A. P. Kaye is dignified as Prince Saigon. Mr P. R. Goodyer as Tanda imparts a little lighter relief. Mr Cecil Tresilian plays with great cleverness the role of the dumb servant, Iku. Miss Augusta Haviland does good work as the discarded geisha, Rosy Sky.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; General Manager, Mr W. F. Morton.—That striking musical extravaganza Saturday to Monday has made its first appearance at this house this week. It has been seen in a less extended form at a variety theatre. It affords Mr Fred Kitchen many chances to shine, in each of which he contrives to make the fullest use of his comic powers. Corinda Blake is one of those rôles that just suits Miss Aggie Morris, who is a firm favourite owing to her past work in pantomime and burlesque in Hull. The dancing is a strong feature in this show.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr John Hart; Local Manager, Mr Wynn Miller.—That pleasant musical comedy The Girl from Kay's is here again this week, and its tuneful melodies and its witty dialogue are received with much favour. Mr H. C. Barry once more is cast as Heggenheimer, and sings and dances with all the vigour that made him so popular in the past. Miss Simeta Marsden is everything one could wish as Winnie Harbrough.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Manager, Mr Geo. Morton.—Mr Tom H. Taylor's company in The Female Swindler is one that is just built to meet the taste of this house's patrons. In the striking rôle of Lu Valroy Miss V. Ellicott has all the means of showing her talent as an artist of much merit and worth.

PALACE THEATRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr A. Graham.—Tom Leamore is here, and he gets a big reception. Mr Frank Hibbert shows how the handcuff and box trick mysteries are worked. The Gipsies' Romance, performed by the Barangay Trio, is another big attraction. As a trapezist Leona Dare has a great reputation in this city.

EMPIRE.—Mr Jno. Sylvester Sage.—The Original Vivians' vaudeville company, in the musical sketch Life's Reverie, are big favourites; Mdlle. Magna, who submits a series of artistic poses, is well received; Chas. Paver contributes some rollicking songs; Sadie Dana is a smart singer and dancer; and other turns include Le Warren and Robin, a good trick cyclist.

THE CIRCUS.—Manager, Mr L. Emerson.—Hamilton's Excursions are doing well here, and in addition to the pictures a capital company appears.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—Under the auspices of the New Sapho Syndicate, Limited, Miss Annie Bell and company are presenting here this week Mr Bernard Asphasse's version of Daudet's famous novel. Endowed with personal charms and emotional powers, Miss Bell makes Fanny Legrand a most striking and interesting character, and she is ably assisted by Mr Horatio Sinclair, who plays with earnestness and conviction the rôle of Jean Gausin. A considerable amount of humour is extracted from the part of Cesaire by Mr George Antly; Mr R. A. Greene is an efficient Paul Dechelett; a capital impersonation of Caoudal is submitted by Mr H. Langford; and Mr Archie Helsby is good as Eugène Flamant. The rôle of Joseph is intelligently enacted by Little Miss Lottie Ray, and praise is also due to Mr J. A. Storey and Miss Laura Ray as Father Legrand and Machaume respectively.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr L F. A. Rogers; Musical Director, Mr C. Keith Smith. —The company of Mr F. Oswald Brookes occupies the boards this week with The New Housemaid, preceded by a curtain-raiser entitled Buffo. In the title-rôle, the Hon. Bertie Rashleigh, Mr Ralph Roberts plays in very pleasing style; Miss Ethel L. Caryllon as Dulcie is an agreeable actress; Mr Pan E. Draco does well as Marmsbury Doom, a detective; and Mr Charles L. Calvert as the Rev. Stephen Stingles is well suited. Mr Theodore Jones as Peter Pinkerton adds to the enjoyment of the evening; Miss Ada Mansfield deserves to be complimented on her rendering of Caroline; Miss Pattie Elliott is good as Agnes; and Mr Howard Brenan makes the most of the part of Arthur. Mr Campbell Goldsmid as Rosebery and Miss Ella Burney as Lettice appear with success.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr Joe Richards.—Miss Cissie Langford, descriptive vocalist, heads the bill, and is supported each evening by the Two M'Coys, duettists; Ryder Davis, comedian; Eva Warde, burlesque artiste; Harry Rochdale, comedian; and Ezra Read and company, instrumentalists.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—Mr Louis Calvert's company is here this week in Sunday. Mr Fred Powell is clever as Towzer; Davy and Lively have capital representatives in Messrs John Manley and T. Norman Walter; while Jacky is well played by Mr Whitford Kane. In the title-rôle Miss Nita Faydon has made a favourable impression, and others who give valuable assistance are Messrs J. Edward Pearce, Charles B. Vaughan, Ernest E. Douglas, and Miss Olive Adair.

IPSWICH HIPPODROME.—Among the new attractions this week at the Woodbridge road place of amusement are Fred Terry, a clever comedian; Harry Shelton and Happy Attwood, descriptive vocalists; Carlo and Mail, variety artists; Miss Sadie Seymour, comedienne; the Altreda Boys, and new animated pictures.

KENDAL.

ST. GEORGE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. F. Chorley; Manager, Mr J. W. Butler.—Mr James Hare's well-balanced company presented The Golden Chance on the 24th ult. and two following nights. Included in Mr Hare's company are Mr H. M. King, who is good as Stephen Clinton; Mr T. Arkinstall acquits himself well as Isaac Shellberg; Mr Hare as Arthur Hastings renders an excellent account of himself; Miss Agatha Halford is consistently good as Lydia Hastings; Mr Jack Hames is diverting as Sam Brown; and is ably assisted by Miss Jennie Hallworth as Susan.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne. —Mr Horace Stanley and company are paying a welcome return visit this week with The 10 30 Down Express. Mr Harry Wool is a capital Jack O'Malley, and Mr Alarie Burton is disguised as Cuthbert Leigh. Mr Harry L. Doy acquits himself admirably as Huntley Mason, and Mr Scott Leighton depicts the evil nature of James Inderwick in a powerful manner. He is ably assisted by Mr Fred Roper as Seth Coombes. Mr Stanley portrays Sam Waggstaff in a humorous style, and Mr Arthur E. Francis causes a lot of amusement as Blotherby Baggs. Miss Adelaide Claire is a sympathetic Bessie Leigh; Miss E. M. Walton is seen to advantage as Letitia; and Miss Kate Kilpack gives a fine rendering of the character of Peggy Potts.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—Mr Charles Macdona's company is here this week with the musical comedy entitled The Gay Parisienne. Miss Jennie Richards in the title-rôle dances and sings in a clever manner. Mr Ebenezer Honeycombe is cleverly portrayed by Mr Tom May, who is very funny. Major Forsdyke is vividly played by Mr Arthur Watts, and the Major's daughters are charmingly played by Misses Ethel Lisle, Minnie Percy, Dora Macmahon, and Florence Brewster. Miss Madge Soutter causes much fun as Ruth, and sings well. Miss Gwen Clifford and Miss Ethel Wade are respectively good as Mrs Honeycombe and Norah.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—Mr Chas. Macdona's company played Are You a Mason? for the first three nights this week. Mr George De Lara is excellent as George Fisher; Mr Edward Thirlby as Amos Bloodgood gives a good portrayal of the character; Mr Arthur Claremont is good as Frank Perry; Mr Stanley Bell is satisfactory as Ernest Morison; Miss Constance Groves as Mrs Caroline Bloodgood deserves praise; Eva in the hands of Miss Leila Russell is all that can be desired; Annie and Lula are capably undertaken by Miss Janie Levens and Miss Pearl Keats; and Miss Nell Douglas is excellent as Lottie, the maid.

LINCOLN.

ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Frank King.—Mr Leslie Norman's company is here with A Trip to Chinatown. Mr Charles Seguin as Welland Strong finds ample scope for fun-making, and keeps the house merry all the time he is before the footlights. As Ben Gray Mr Jerrold Manville contributes an amusing sketch, while Mr Leslie Norman does well as Rashleigh Gay, and Mr Oswald Grey sings admirable as Blood. Noah Heap has an acceptable exponent in Mr Will Smith, Mr E Jones is good as Jones, while Miss Harriet Fawn is most entertaining as Mrs Guyer. The Three Canadian Belles dance daintily, and Mr A. T. M'Innes conducts an excellent chorus and orchestra.

PALACE. — Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur. — The Dandies star at the head of a strong bill, and present an altogether charming entertainment of music and dance. Ian Colquhoun sings powerfully, and other very acceptable turns come from the Wiltons, the Sisters Caselli, Will Cornish, Ida Gladstone, the Haywards, and those old local favourites, Downes and Langford. Mr Sydney Arthur, the highly popular manager of the Circuit, took a well-deserved benefit on Wednesday, and was well supported.

There cannot possibly be any doubt as to the value and efficacy of this dentifrice, because

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—The Bells of Haslemere, under the direction of Mr Chas. A. Chandler, was staged here on Monday for the first time. Mr Leonard Yorke gave a fine impersonation of Frank Beresford; John Silkstone was cleverly depicted by Mr Montague Turner; Mr Chas. A. Chandler appeared with success as Capt. Vere; Mr Chas. Cecil made a humorous Reuben Armstrong; and Mr Fred Allen played well as Joseph Thorndyke. Miss Harrietta Pollini gave an excellent portrayal of Evelyn Brookfield, Miss Mary Hardacre did exceedingly well as Mary Northcote, and the same may be said of Miss Stafford Smith and Miss Florence Chandler as Dorothy Tremble and Norah Desmond respectively. The drama was well staged.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—The programme is headed this week by Arthur Gill, comedian and mimic, who is justly described as the man of many voices. The Musical Palmers provide a capital turn, which is highly appreciated, whilst Curtis and Miss Vanity, cake-walk experts, have a flattering reception. Much interest is centred in a cake-walk competition for local talent, a good many entries having been secured. Walter Payne's animated pictures; Miss Flo Wood, comedienne; Lanton and Lane, comedians; Miss Daisy Almo, soubrette; and Bert Williams, ventriloquist, make up a capital bill.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Harry Esden. —Little Mary on the occasion of its first visit to Leamington is being rapturously received. It is played by an entirely competent company, which includes Mr Arthur Holmes Gore as the Earl of Carlton and Miss Gertrude Burnett as Moira Loney, the other parts being in very safe hands. Little Mary is preceded by the bright little curtain-raiser The Bugle Call.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr Fredk. Vincent.—This week we are favoured with a belated first visit of Mr George Edwardes's company in the successful musical play The Orchid, and good houses have derived considerable entertainment from a capital presentation. Mr George Gregory is eminently successful in the heavy part of Meakin, the gardener, his drolleries being a continual source of merriment; Mr Lawrence Grossmith is responsible for many entertaining interludes in the rôle of Guy Scrymgeour; Mr Sam Walsh does good work as the fire-eating French Comte; and Mr Donald Hall and Mr Ellis Ogilvie also give good evidence of their capabilities in leading rôles. Miss Coralie Blythe pleases all by clever all-round work, her vocal efforts being specially successful; Miss Irene Verona contributes an effective portrayal of the amorous Caroline; Miss Luna Love makes a good impression; and Zelia Rumbert has a capital exponent in Miss Ethel Griffies. Miss Gertrude Gilliam, Miss Katie Leechman, and Mr Sidney Vincent are other prominent members of a powerful cast.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—Mr Henry Swinerd's company occupies the boards here with the musical novelty Dare-Devil Dorothy, with which production satisfactory business is being done. The name part is creditably played by Miss Marjorie Cecil whose fine singing is specially admired, and her efforts to please are ably seconded by Miss Kathleen Garnon and Miss Nellie Harcourt. Mr Arthur Verne is the principal comedian of the piece, and in the rôle of Silas Crump keeps the fun going. He is well supported by Mr Alf Stretton and Mr W. G. Hearson. Mr Cecil W. Parke is well placed as Capt. Fielding, the hero of the play. Mr Henry C. Ward is equally effective as the villain; and other parts are capably sustained by Mr Wilfred Carr. Miss Lillie Blake and Mr Walter Boyce.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—The Fatal Wedding is being played to crowded houses by Mr Bert Coote's company. The part of Howard Wilson, the wronged husband, is well presented by Mr Wilfred Payne, and a sympathetic portrayal of the much-abused wife is forthcoming from Miss Marie Housley. In the rôle of the adventuress Miss Gertrude Harrison proves herself an accomplished actress. Robert Curtis is a distinguished effort by Mr Wallace Stranach. Miss Gladys Rose Jones is seen to advantage in the role of Jessie, the child mother; Schwartz is capably embodied by Mr Walter Westwood; and in the leading comedy parts Mr Charles Kenney and Miss Harriett Clifton are very successful. The children's speciality in the second act is a thoroughly enjoyable item.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. Gerald Morton.—A popular feature of the week's programme here is Bella and Bijou, a pair of vocal speciality artists, who are awarded a big reception. Eugen Maarder introduces his fire-dancing horse in an original speciality; the Sisters Sprightly go through their dashing song and dance turn with the usual success; G. W. Hunter and Chas. Vincent are both comedians of undoubted ability; and Cline and Clark distinguish themselves in song and dance. Fiske and M'Donough submit an interesting dramatic sketch; acrobatic and gymnastic turns by the Baldwin Brothers and the Wartenburg Brothers receive due appreciation; and good vocal selections are given by Margaret Radcliffe. Collins's Six Lancashire Lasses also appear in a speciality dancing turn.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thos Barrasford; General Managers, Messrs Chas. Weldon and Edgar O. Waller.—A new comedian, with an original style, Al Lawrence, presents a successful turn. An immensely popular feature is the clever musical duologue Her Birthday, capitally rendered by Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas. Imro Fox, the illusionist, submits his mystifying entertainment with huge success; clever juggling turns are done by H. A. Zetto and the Five Purroscoppis; Kate Gourlay is a clever example of the up-to-date coon artiste; Mr and Mrs Paul Knox give great satisfaction; and the Falcons appear with success in an acrobatic comedy act.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—The well-known Collinson Combination is here in their amusing comedy sketch. Cruikshank, quaintest of comedians, is having a good week, and George Formby, another smart comedian, is also exceedingly popular. Conan and Doyle, a pair of amusing eccentrics, repeat their success. Roze and Calvert are a comedy duo of more than average merit. Acceptable vocal entertainment is forthcoming from Lily Turner and also from Bert Holmes, and animated pictures complete the programme.

LIMERICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—Mr Eugene C. Stafford's company opened a three nights' engagement on Monday in the comedy entitled Jane. Mr Kershaw had a delightful interpreter in Mr W. Hargreaves, and Mr Austin Leigh was a most efficient Charley Shackleton. Mr Wilfrid Compton was an energetic William Tipson, and as Mr Pixton Mr Raymond Chester was decidedly good. As Claud Mr Vivian Gilbert was artistically clever, and the tradesmen had efficient impersonators in Messrs Jones, Benford, and King. Miss Mary E. Deverell was capital as Lucy Norton, and Miss Cicely Wade was a capable Mrs Pixton. Mrs Alfred Davis was an artistic Mrs Chadwick, and no one could desire a more imposing and prepossessing Jane than was played by Miss Dora Grey. The comedy was preceded by Buckstone's comedietta entitled Good for Nothing, in which Miss Grey acted the humorous rôle of Nan, and Mr R. Chester the rôle of Tom Dibbles.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr U. D. Leigh.—Miss Mischief, the new and original musical comedy which is presented by Mr Godfrey Lamplugh's versatile company, is the attraction here this week. The dressing and mounting are worthy of special praise. Mr Fred Eastman as Private Harris, V.C., fairly revels in the part, and keeps the audience in continual merriment. Mr Cecil Curtiss is also conspicuously successful as Capt. Jack Bethune, D.S.O., Mr T. E. Conover as Admiral Sir Hannibal Bethune, and Mr G. H. Llot as Lord Percy Fitz-Sherry are very good; and both Mr J. C. Bland as Hiram Q. Peg and Mr H. Ellesmere as Count von Himmelblau do well. Miss Evelyn Hughes makes a delightful Kitty Malone, and Miss Crissie Francess is seen to advantage as the maid Mary Ann. Miss Eileen Guilbert makes a capital Lady Orrery.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—The boards are held here this week by Mr and Mrs Fred Benton's company, in A Marriage of Vengeance. Miss A. Harrison Tate gives a clever rendering of the part of Stella, and as Elsa Dean Miss Maud Stuart is to be highly complimented. Mr Alfred George Fry is a convincing Paul Earnscliffe, and as the evil genius, Geoffrey Fannock, Mr Louis Norman acts well. Mr Charles Coventry is good as Glynne Earnscliffe; Mr George A. De Gray is successful as Max Rheinhardt; and amusing portrayals are forthcoming from Miss Etta Turner as Amelia and Mr Walter Airton as Tacker. The play is well mounted.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—The principal attraction in this week's excellent programme is R. G. Knowles, with his easy flow of witty whimsicalities. At the other end are Vernon and Voyce, singing comedians, who delight all parts of the house with their enjoyable turn. The Levinos (Dolph and Susie) are giving for the first time in Leicester their original novelty, The Rival Arts, which gives these popular and clever artists every opportunity for the display of their versatile talents. The Young America Quintet of vocalists and dancers, conducted by Miss Mattie Boorum, prove a most entertaining turn; the Florador Quartet give with great success their comedy sketch, Naughty Nin; George Brooke, a smart comedian, makes a big hit with his song, "And his day's work was done;" Rezene and Robini are inimitable knockabouts; Marie Reeve is a clever step-dancer; the Ashers (Agnes and Little Mike) score a success in their speciality. "The Dude and the Soubrette;" and Lizzie Daniels, soubrette, also entertains.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—At the head of a capital bill this week is T. B. Fayne, the successful Yorkshire comedian; as a hat manipulator and juggler Frisoari gives a good show; Henry F. Wilson, ballad and descriptive vocalist, renders his songs in good style; Rose Tilley is a smart comedienne and dancer; and other entertaining turns are submitted by the Padleys, in their comedy act, A Private Lesson; Urk, magician and illusionist; George and Edwards, comedians and dancers; and Ruby Bijou, vocalist and dancer.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—Mr George Kirk and and Miss Mary Neill's company is here with the drama Judy. Miss Florrie Groves is an excellent exponent of Judy; the dual-rôle of Polly and Alice is cleverly undertaken by Miss Mary Neil; Miss Violet Langley as Blake is well suited; Mr George Kirk in his impersonation of Grip is greatly appreciated; Mr Carlton Wallace as Duburg sustains the part with ability; Mr William Vane as Sterling, the banker, is effective; Mr Will Casey scores as Jim, the coster; Mr J. Stoner as Mike and Mr Frank Lyndon as Dick act creditably; Mr H. Martin is a satisfactory Hogan; and as the maid, Becky Miss Annie Mitchell is well placed.

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—The event of the week in Liverpool has been the visit of Sir Henry Irving and his company. The répertoire of the six nights and matinée included The Merchant of Venice, Becket, Waterloo, The Bells, and The Lyons Mail. Among Sir Henry's principal supporters were Mr Gerald Lawrence, Mr James Hearn, Mr Charles Dodsworth, Mr H. B. Stanford, Miss Edith Wynne-Matthison, Mrs Cecil Raleigh, Miss Grace Hampton, and Miss Maud Fealy. Needless to record, the scenic effects were charming.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—Liverpool theatregoers have had an opportunity this week of judging the merits of the new musical play Peggie Machree. Large audiences have been present during the week to follow with lively interest the adventures of the madcap young aristocrat Lady O'Driscoll, whose trifling with matrimonial ties has such an unlooked-for ending. The rôle was charmingly enacted by Miss Marie Dainton, who, by her sweet singing, soon gained the affections of her audience; the happy Barry Trevor, interpreted by Mr Dennis O'Sullivan, proved a prime favourite, his rendering of several catchy Irish songs being rapturously received; Mr Graeme Campbell was a sad-faced Alexander M'Dougall, full of humour; and Mr Marc M'Dermott proved an able Sir Lawrence Borthwick. The picturesque scenery added greatly to the success.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. French; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Beltram.—Kitty Grey has attracted considerable attention here during the week. Mr C. St. John Denton's principal touring company, which is a strong one, is responsible for the bright, sparkling production. Miss Hilda Guiver is the sprightly Kitty Grey; Mr Leslie Harris provokes roars of laughter with his Lord Plantagenet; Mr Innes Smith acts with distinct ability the part of Sir John Binfield; and Miss Eily Helene presents a charming Lady Binfield.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—Mr G. Carlton Wallace's five-act play The Village Blacksmith is being presented here this week for the first time in Liverpool. Mr Sam Livesey as the blacksmith plays in an impressive manner; Miss Ethel Kay as the wife, Kate Strong gives good support; Mr Joseph Carter as Captain Leo makes a powerful and designing villain; and Little Christobel is a charming child. The scenery is particularly good, and the wrestling match raises enthusiasm.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—A good programme this week is topped by Sam Mayo, a quaint comedian, who is loudly applauded by a delighted and greatly amused audience. Alma Obrey, an Australian comedienne, is a finished and artistic singer. John Grun Marx is applauded for his weight-lifting; Barrett and Knowles keep everyone in high spirits with their original and amusing patter; Haydee's mannikins are very good; and Henri Bekker is a decidedly clever conjuror. The following artistes also help considerably towards the evening's enjoyment:—Rose Harvey, burlesque actress; Tom Hayes, boy comedian; Orna and Calderon, acrobats; Stella Stanley, comedienne; and Bob Baxter, comedian.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—That old-time and excellent play Proof, given by Mr and Mrs Wm. Maclaren's company, has proved a strong attraction here this week. Mr Maclaren's Pierre Lorance is a fine portrayal; Mr Richard Fulton presents a good study of Lazare; Miss Lily C. Bandmann submits a sweet Madeleine and Valentine, her acting being both finished and reserved; and Miss Gertrude Evans is a charming Adrienne.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville.—At this popular theatre Mr Fred Melville's romantic play, Her Forbidden Marriage, has drawn good audiences during the week. Mr Horace Hunter displays much ability as George Madison; Miss Isla Garnett Vane is a sympathetic Lucy; Mr Clarence Hague is a typical villain as Charles Devereux; and the Lady Lancaster of Miss Doris Brookes is good. The lighter parts of the drama are in the capable hands of Mr Harry Elliston and Miss Marie Kildare.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—The Chronophone, a title applied to an arrangement which consists of animated pictures and a gramaphone, has been the principal item here this week, and has attracted some considerable attention. Mr Charles R. Sweet, the musical burglar, presents an original and diverting show; Mark Sheridan, the popular eccentric comedian, remains another week; the Four Schutzenliesel's give a good turn as a quartet of lady vocalists; the Tourbillon Troupe of cycling acrobats go through a clever performance; Ohm's ponies, dogs, &c., execute some clever tricks; Miss Nello, the lady contortionist, is a capital turn; and others in the programme are Les Voces, operatic soloists and duettists; Ford and Hanson, American musical artists; Albert Le Fre, comedian and dancer; Bros. Webb, musical clowns; Three Sisters Mascotte, gymnasts; and Chas. Stevens, vocal comedian.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—John Tiller's company is here again this week with High Jinks. The "fun on the sands" never ceases to keep the audience merry. The turn given by Grant and Grant, American speciality artistes, is clever; F. Cumminger gives an excellent sand dance; Browning and Walley display their strength of teeth and arms on the trapeze; Alfonso Silvano performs several exceptionally good equilibristic feats; a number of well-received musical items are rendered by the Elysian Troupe; Larola is amusing with his grotesque juggling and balancing; Michael Nolan is a clever Irish comedian; and Rose Cabani, comedienne and dancer, also entertains.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—Foremost here this week is a naval and military spectacle For King and Country, given by Tom Herman's fifty Liverpool boys and girls. Delmar and Van-Dane, a smart couple of comedy artistes, present an amusing sketch Stagemania; the Black Apollo gives an all-round fine entertainment with his ten different musical instruments; York, Mack, and York are well received for their laughable sketch Widow Mack's Troublesome Boys; and others in the programme are Frank Tyrell, eccentric comedian; Miss Marie Mason, comedienne; Miss Violet Macfarlane, vocalist; Teddy May, comedian; and the Rameses, with their statuary tableaux.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—An interesting bill is presented here this week. At the top is G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, who gives a number of his successes, and is cordially received; the Martine Trio, American song illustrators, are a capital turn; the singing of Master Albert, the boy alto, being of a high quality. Curtis Lee, assisted by Noblesse, the black piccaninni, goes through some marvellous conjuring tricks and juggling; Miss Ivy Graham, a favourite burlesque actress and dancer, pays a return visit; J. F. Sterling is an accomplished comedian and dancer; Marbach mystifies with his wonderful card manipulation; and Alec Kendal is a good eccentric comedian and dancer.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—There is a strong company here this week. Fox and Melville, American song illustrators, introduce a number of pictures, thus mingling art with harmony; Les Manipulos, Parisian dumb magicians, perform many smart sleight-of-hand tricks; the Darktown Belles provide an interesting turn with their singing and sand dances. Fred Land, with his character costume songs, is exceedingly funny; Joseph Sheldon gives an exhibition of club-swinging; and the dancing of the Dunodian Quartet wins rounds of applause.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—The Walleys, with their juggling, are loudly applauded; Onda and Leon create much amusement with their conversational gymnastic performance; Henderson is an accomplished concertina player; Bliss and Bliss are a couple of good comedians; Reilly and Taylor provide a laughable sketch, Blotz and Klitz; and others in the bill are Fred Burnaby, vocalist; Inez Clough, vocalist; Chris. Masters, vocalist; and Billy Emerson, humourist.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—Included in the programme presented this week at the popular South-end music hall are Merton and Rydon, a couple of high-class comedy artists, who bring a number of new and catchy songs; Avon and Crest, specialty artists, who create merriment with their comedy act, "A Little Bit of This and a Little Bit of That;" the Sisters Marion, a pair of clever juvenile duettists and vocalists; the Lulaine Darrel Troupe of novelty gymnasts, a good turn; Tom Hall's Nippers, juvenile comic acrobats; Little Lady Fauntleroy, ventriloquist; the Freans, Irish comedians; and Alf Brooke, comedian.

LLANELLY.

ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr John Tully.—Mr S. F. Cody's Klondyke Nugget company is here again this week, and is as successful as usual. Mr Edward Leroy does exceedingly well as Sam Deats; the part of Joe Smith is ably taken by Mr Vivian Cody; Mr Leon Cody is good as Waco, an Indian chief; Mr Doc Horsfall as Tom Lee, an old Trapper, is most successful; Miss Edith B. Mumford as Rosie Lee is both charming and clever; and Miss Lillie Ker is lively as the Bargirl. There are several trained ponies in the show, and some clever shooting is introduced.

LONDONDERRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr W. Payne Seddon.—The Hilton St. Just opera company is paying a welcome return visit, and appears in a number of old favourites. In Maritana Mr St. Just gave a delightful rendering of Don Cæsar. Mr Frank Land was a capital Don José. As Maritana Miss Louise Van Dalle sang with all her wonted charm and vivacity. Faust was staged on Tuesday night, in which Mr Hilton St. Just, in the title-rôle, achieved another success, and Miss Van Dalle as Marguerite was excellent. Lucia de Lammermoor, Bohemian Girl, Il Trovatore (by request of the Philharmonic Society), and Lily of Killarney were also in the week's programme.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Meakin.—Miss Gladys Silvester and her company are here in the drama entitled Cissy, which gives scope for Miss Silvester and Mr Fletcher Sansome in their varied parts. With a good vocalist in Mr Harry C. Lovell the piece retains the attention of the audience, and some expert dancers have a turn.

MAIDSTONE.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Manager, Mr J. Beslee.—The attraction here this week is Professor Crocker with his educated horses. Although this is by no means the first visit of this clever animal show the performance is as popular as ever. The horses show almost human intelligence, the great battlefield scene being carried out entirely by the animals who do sentry-go, form into detachments, and defend the fort with great enthusiasm. The Equimatograph series of animated photos. is also shown.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—Mr T. E. Worth's company is paying a return visit here this week in The Rose of the Ring. Mr Edwards gives a telling portrayal of Lord Desborough. Mr J. C. Howard as Matthew Benson is capably rendered. Mr E. St. C. Forbes as Capt. Vercher supplies a vigorous piece of acting. Mr T. E. Worth Timothy Trippet causes great amusement whenever he is upon the stage. Miss Vincent as Rose Meredith accomplishes her task in a praiseworthy manner. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on Miss N. Stuart as Lavinia Lovejoy. Miss Grace Chesterfield gives a fine impersonation of the part of Dora Vennimore, and Little Dolly Gilroy is pleasing as Dick.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Messrs Bendon and Larder.—A strong programme is in evidence here. Codge, the whistling street Arab, gives a wonderful exhibition; Kier and Allen are responsible for a popular humorous speciality. Dan Noble, eccentric comedian, in a return visit is scoring with some good songs. Miss Marie York is a pleasing vocalist; the Bendons give a refined entertainment, and are greatly appreciated. Sisters Isabella, coon vocalists and dancers, are a very good turn; Harry Gold makes a hit with some smart songs; and Cyrus and Maude, musical comedians, with their performing donkey, complete an attractive programme.

MAIDENHEAD.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz.—Mr Harry Foxwell has a strong company here for the week, playing Shadows of a Great City. The part of Tom Cooper is one which appeals to all parts of the audience, and Mr Howell Travis fills it in manly fashion. Mr Harry Foxwell is a typical Jew as Abe Nathans. Mr Chas. Vivian is very successful as the rascally George Benson, and Mr Newton Pearce is energetic and amusing as Jim Farren. Miss Sheila Walsh in the double part of Annie and Nellie Standish has much to do, and she does it thoroughly well; and as the good-hearted Biddy Roonan Miss Dorothy Neville is well received.

NEW PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr George Gude.—The programme this week is in every way excellent. The Vance Bros. are immensely popular as comedy instrumentalists; Carr and Roll are amusing in their sketch; and Swann and Stanley contribute a really clever turn in The Witchery of the Face. These last two performers are also heard to great advantage as ballad singers, in which line Miss Adelaide Twort (gold medallist, L.A.M.) is also very successful. Cyrus Bell, Charlie Moore, and Jack Waller each do good work as comedian, eccentric dancer, and mimic respectively.

MANCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr Edmondstone Shirra.—Those who braved the fog on Monday night to witness Mr E. S. Willard in The Middleman, were amply repaid. From start to finish the performance was of a high quality, and the audience, though woefully small, was very appreciative. Too much praise cannot be accorded Mr Willard for his fine creation of Cyrus Blenkarn; once seen it is stamped upon the memory for ever. Other prominent parts are well brought out by Mr A. S. Homewood, Mr William Sauter, Mr H. Cane, and Mr Walter Edmunds; whilst Miss Maud Hoffman and Mrs Russ Whytal are excellent as Mary and Nancy Blenkarn respectively. Other ladies in the cast make the most of their opportunities, and look charming in their dresses. The scenery is most effective.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr George Lee.—In spite of many visits A Country Girl is always welcomed by innumerable Manchester admirers, and Mr George Dance's company is very well able to exploit to the full its many attractive features, a large audience being delighted by the performance on Monday night. The part of Barry is one upon which a great deal of the success depends, and this was played with exceeding cleverness by Mr Charles R. Walenn. Miss Daisy Le Hay makes a charming Nan and Miss Maud Boyd is to be complimented upon her neat and dainty rendering of Marjory Joy. Much good work is done also by Mr Robert Michaelis as Geoffrey Challoner, Mr Joe Nightingale as Sir Joseph Verity, Mr St. John Hamund as Mr Raikes, Miss Ethel Negretti as Princess Melaneh and Miss Maud Prenton as Madame Sophie. Mr T. Jack Daly as Douglas Verity and Mr Arthur Leyshon as Granter Mummery also do well in their opportunities. The dresses and scenery are very bright and pretty.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company occupies the boards here in a strong domestic drama, The Midnight Mail. Mr George Hayward as Harry Steyne and Miss Ada Oakley as Steyne's wife do exceedingly well in their parts. Mr Fred G. Evison is also capital as Brewer, the drunken stoker. Mr Charles M'Cann has a good part as Donald Craig, the manager of the line. Others who do well are Mr E. Entwistle as the signalman, and Miss Millie Stevenson as Lady Phyllis Eustace. Several of the scenes are exciting and sensational; and the production is under the personal direction of Mr James Willard.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr H. M. Thorburn.—Old-fashioned drama is the attraction here this week in the shape of The Ticket-of-Leave Man, played by a company under the direction of Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison, and including Mr Henry Neville in his original part of Bob Brierley. The insistence with which the moral of the play is driven home at the cost of certain opportunities for robust acting here and there is to a great extent compensated by the clever way in which Mr Henry Neville handles a part which he has mentally far outgrown, and the sympathetic acting of Miss Evelyn Weedon as May Edwardes, a rôle no less below the capacity of this accomplished lady, adds further interest to the play. Mr L. Cory Thomas should be commended for a forcible depiction of Hawkshaw; while Miss Adie Boyne as Sam and Miss Emma Victor as Mrs Willoughby do well in humorous parts. The rest of the company are more or less equal to the demands upon them, and the staging is all that could be desired.

METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr W. P. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The current week's programme here is strengthened by the inclusion of Witty Watty Walton, the popular comedian, in all his latest successes, and Ada Fawn, the favourite comedienne. Madame De Rose, "the lady Foll," also contributes a notable turn, a pleasing and excellent variety of entertainment being supplied by the Lavelles in a comedy acrobatic act; Harry Taft, whistling comedian; Hannas and James, foot equilibrists; Arthur Albert, actor vocalist; Edith Sylvesto, the wonderful lady "bender;" Eva Reed, comedienne and dancer; and J. H. Hawtrey, actor-vocalist.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mrs Bandmann-Palmer opened here on Monday in a répertoire of plays, including Mary, Queen of Scots, Nell Gwynne, Sapho, East Lynne, Hamlet, and Jane Shore. Previous successful visits of this gifted actress ensured a good house on the first night, when Mr F. Skein added an excellent delineation of the Earl of Leicester to Mrs Bandmann-Palmer's powerful rendering of the title-rôle in Mary, Queen of Scots. The company includes such clever performers as Mr Sidney Bland, Mr William Trant, Mr Boyd Pearson, Mr A. St. Aubyn, Miss Mary Henthorn (Ophelia in Hamlet), Miss Margaret Hodgson, and Miss Katharine Herbert. Mrs Bandmann-Palmer was called before the curtain on Monday night, and expressed her pleasure at reappearing before a Manchester audience so kindly appreciative of her efforts.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Berry.—Mr Hardie and Miss Von Leer's company, in the Two Little Vagabonds, is the attraction here this week. Miss May Hart and Miss Dorothy Marsden are well placed as Dick and Wally, their performance being highly meritorious. Particularly good is Mr J. W. Henson as George Thornton, and Mr Wolston Foster looks well as Captain Darville. As Marion Thornton Miss Laura Hansen does well with a trying part and Miss Nell Oliver is successful as Barbara Scarth. The humorous element is well brought out by Messrs Alfred Russell as Bill Mullins, Frank Gordon as Dido Bunce, Fred Archer as the "Cough Drop," and Miss Marie Pritchard as Biddy Mullins.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Eight Leopolds, lady and gentleman acrobats in ball-room costume, head a capital programme here this week, and give a highly-finished performance, some of their feats being particularly daring. Another good turn is given by the Lyons Trio, pantomimists, who cause much merriment with their droll antics. Percy Curry, the original "candy man," is successful in song and patter; Flo Deighton, a soprano vocalist, possesses an excellent voice, and is much appreciated; the Abadaroffs are extremely smart acrobats, doing some novel tumbling in a humorous manner; the Clarion Trio dance smartly and provide some amusement with their business; and the Rozells are clever and comical on the triple bar. Other good items are the Korries, in a medley act of music and conjuring; Renson and Waite, comedy couple; Harry Hayton, comedian; and the Sisters Volbecque, comedy duettists, who supply the competition act for the week.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Du Gros Trio top the bill here this week in a comic gymnastic act, and are deservedly well received. The Great Wieland causes some amusement with his eccentric methods and clever juggling. Haig and Novel give a comedy turn that meets with approbation; the Crown Trio sing well; Rivington and Gordyn are capital in their burlesque operatic duets; and Percy Farrimond, "the singing collier," has a good voice. The Brewster Troupe are good vocalists and dancers, and give a most interesting display of sword and lance exercises; and other items are those of Ernie Mayne, comedian; Budd and Budd, burlesque artists; Wallace Whitney, eccentric character comedian; and a series of animated pictures.

TIVOLI.—Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—Good business, as usual, is being done here this week by virtue of a capital programme, Harriet Vernon, the popular burlesque actress, figuring at the top of the bill. Her excellent business is supplemented by the highly amusing turn of Harry Wenburn, eccentric comedian, and the entertaining contributions of Mdlle. Zetta, in a graceful and clever wire act; Athas and Collins, in their up-to-date speciality; Bella Leaburn, comedy artiste; Mona M'Donald, comedienne and vocalist; Andy Kerr, comedian; Akbar, gymnast; and the Alambria Quartet of speciality dancers.

ARDWICK EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Collins.—The star attraction here this week is Queenie Leighton, who is emphatically well received in a series of well-rendered popular songs. Walter Groves and company present their successful sketch entitled Artful Jim; Ethel Ra Leslie, character vocalist, is heard to considerable advantage; and Horace Wheatley, Irish comedian, contributes some entertaining songs and excellent dancing. Other good turns are Rose Hamilton, burlesque artiste and dancer; Walter Curtis, humorous entertainer; Burt Shepard, American comedian; Walter King, new songs; Bert Byrne, comedian; and the Rayfords, comedy artistes. A series of pictures on the Bioscope are shown.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—A good all-round performance is provided here this week. Carl Reinsch is to the front with some wonderfully trained horses and dogs, and the Sutcliffe Troupe, Scottish acrobats, pipers, and dancers, go through a novel and meritorious performance. Lowell and Lowell, eccentric comedians, are exceptionally good acrobats and knockabouts, and come in for plenty of applause. Harry Grey, gives a decidedly funny imitation of a lady singer's first stage appearance; Monks and Woods are much appreciated in their musical dialogue Mr Nobody; T. W. Royal is an excellent and artistic clog dancer; Leighton and Mona as a tramp and soubrette give a smart piano act; Charles R. Whittle is a capital versatile comedian; Ray Ford, a charming comedienne, dances well; and Billy Williams, the Australian comedian, sings two songs of his own composing in fine style. A series of interesting pictures completes the bill.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—Minni Letta's Sporting Girls give a novel display of walking and running on a movable track here this week, and arouse some interest in a competition therewith. The Freydos are remarkably clever athletes and hand balancers; and the New York Nippers, in their speciality act "Bedtime," introduce some smart heel and toe dancing, and are very amusing. Baker and Balfe give some delightful operatic xylophone selections; Jean Seul, "the Indian mystery," succeeds in mystifying the audience with some weird tricks; and Harry Freeman, the popular comedian, is as funny as ever. Juan and M'Que, comedians, are good singers; Alma Gray is a pleasing dancer; the Tribune Trio cause much amusement in their sketch The Cheerful Idiot; and Nellie Martell, comedienne, contributes a song. The Palace pictures are, as usual, excellent.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—The feature of the current week's programme at this theatre, which, after a profitless trial of variety fare on the two-houses-a-night system, reverts to drama in the near future, is the inclusion of the four-act play Trilby, which is presented with considerable success by a company headed by Mr A. L. Baron as Svengali and Miss Vere Mosley in the title-part. Mr Baron's depiction of Svengali is at times most impressive and powerful, and Miss Vere Mosley's Trilby is marked throughout by excellent judgment and a charming style. Mr Edward Thornhill as the Laird, Mr Ernest Lodge as Taffy, Mr Ellerslie Pyne as "Little Billee," Mr Weedon Ross as Gecko, and Mr Henry Osman as the Rev. Bagot all render appreciable support. Several variety turns ensue, the star being Billie Barlow, who sings various songs in her usual charming and familiar style. George Barron, comedian, also does well in a couple of eccentric songs, and the Sisters Charnley give a pleasing exhibition of speciality dancing.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson.—An excellent audience assembled here on Monday to extend an enthusiastic welcome to Mr F. R. Benson and company upon their second visit to Merthyr. Othello was produced on Monday with the most gratifying success, Mr Benson's impersonation of the Moor being characterised by great ability. Mrs Benson's acting as Desdemona calls for high praise, and Miss Gertrude Scott was in every way successful as Emilia. Mr Arthur Whitby gave an excellent reading of Iago, Cassio being skilfully acted by Mr Cyril Keightley. On Tuesday The Taming of the Shrew was eminently successful, and on Wednesday evening The Merry Wives of Windsor was performed. The Merchant of Venice, Romeo and Juliet, The School for Scandal, and Hamlet are also in the répertoire.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Fredk. E. Philpott's company has been paying a return visit to Margate this week with the musical comedy The Girl from Japan. The cleverness of the comedians, the smartness of the specialities turns, the bright music, the charming songs, and the graceful dances make up a programme that at once attracts attention and enlists popular favour. The Rev. John Smith has a capital exponent in Mr Ernest Spalding, whose amusing impersonation is a distinct feature of the performance all through. Mr S. Lockridge is effective as Lord Allenbury, and sings in good style the songs allotted to him. Mr Charles Ludlow is amusing as Bingle; and Mr Percy Baverstock finds a congenial rôle as the bellicose General Baugh. Mr Alfred Wood is amusing as Sir Mulberry Flippington; and equally diverting is Mr Harry Russell as Horatio Binks. An exceedingly good Maud is presented by Miss Madie Scott, who sings delightfully. Miss Nellie Valentine makes a praiseworthy Violet Meadows; and Miss Una Palmer as Polly Perkins and Miss B. Deane as Countess De La Rue are successful. Miss Nellie Parker Dent plays well as Lady Flippington. Charming incidental dances are introduced by the Sisters Violet and Lillie English, and there is a tuneful and well-balanced chorus, whilst the comedy is staged most picturesquely.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr Chas. Frohman's company is presenting Sherlock Holmes here this week. Mr Kenneth Rivington does well in the title-rôle; Mr F. Inwood scores as Dr. Watson; the Prof. Moriarty of Mr A. B. Murray is a clever rendering; Mr E. Grey gives a capable intepretation of James Larrabee; Mr C. E. Scott wins favour as John Forman; as does Mr H. Stafford as Sidney Prince. Miss Florence Faulkner gives a faithful rendering of Alice Faulkner; the Madge Larrabee of Miss C. Lacey is a well-studied effort; and Miss M. Murray is satisfactory as Therese.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Directors, Messrs George and Charles Imeson.—At the Royal this week Mr John F. Asche is presenting the Drury-lane drama The World, and the play attracts good audiences. Miss Beatrice Fay as Mary Blythe gives a powerful impersonation; Mr Francis Hawley is seen to advantage as Harry Huntingford; and the same may be said of Mr Stuart Lomath's Charles Hartley. Miss Georgette Thierry plays Mabel Huntingford with fine effect; Mr Bernard J. Liell acts the amusing part of Moss Jewel cleverly; and Mr Jackson Hayes is capital as Martin Bashford; Mr Henry Longford being responsible for a bright rendering of Captain Pearson.

OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—A Message from Mars is being presented here by Mr Mouillot's principal company. Mr Rawson Buckley as Horace Parker wins much success; Mr William H. Brougham as the messenger gives a masterly portrayal; as Sir E. Vivian Mr Eustace French is capital; and Master Leonard Crisp is worthy of special praise as the "Emperor." Miss Joan Meredith is excellent as Mrs Clarence; Miss Peggy Yeoman makes a good impression as Bella; and Minnie Templer is capably taken by Miss May Saker.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—Miss Lottie Lennox, vocalist, heads the bill here, and sings some capital songs. Charles Morritt, illusionist, pleases well; and Drew and Alder, in their speciality, are excellent. Dale and O'Malley, comedians, provide an amusing turn; the Leonards are successful; Tom Stuart is a smart mimic; and the Sisters Pine are well received. Angeline, the female Cinquevalli, meets with hearty plaudits; and Little Barney, comedian; Charles Coverdale, comedian; and the Bio. pictures complete the programme.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr W. Ainsworth.—At the Oxford this week Barton and Ashley, in a sketch Canal Boat Sal, head the bill, and meet with a good reception. Barnard's Marionettes are well received; Miss Lizzie Valrose sings some capital songs; Hands Up, played by the Pender Troupe, creates roars of laughter; Bransby's duettists come in for well-earned applause; the Stilt Walkers submit a good turn; and Earle and Melville, sand dancers; Jack Hylton, comedian; and the Bio. pictures are also in the bill.

MIDDLETON.

PARDOE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr William Pardoe.—This week a startling racing drama entitled The Fiends of London occupies the stage, and the presentation of it is a credit to Mr Herbert Fuller's company. Mr Fuller in the part of a jockey acts cleverly. Miss Agnes Collier as a soldier's daughter always strikes the right note, and wins her way to the hearts of the audience. Others who contribute to the success are Messrs Francis Everard, Harold Weston, and Little Gladys.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company is here this week with Defending his Honour. Mr John Davidson acts effectively as Douglas Bryce, and Mr Clifton Boyle is smart as Stephen Gerald. Mr Charles H. Herbert does well as George Duncan, and as Ethel Bryce Miss F. Millet is appreciated. Mr Willie Black and Mr Kenneth Black, jun., help to keep up the comic element of the play.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred O Sutcliffe.—That mirthful farcical comedy Are You a Mason? is again being presented here by Messrs George Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company, and to the evident enjoyment of "Tyne" audiences. Included in the company are Messrs Stephen Wentworth, Harry Ashford, Anthony Faucett, Tom Mowbray, Frank Ridley; Misses Harriett French, Violet Graham, and Gertrude Spencer, all of whom figure to advantage.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—The late Mr Wilson Barrett's play, Lucky Durham, is being performed here this week by Mr William Greet's company. John Durham is the favourite of fortune who has earned the appellation "lucky," and in this character we are introduced to an admirable actor in Mr William F. Grant. Excellent, too, is the Lord Mountfallon of Mr Henry De Solla. Some capital acting is provided by Mr Paul Belmore as the Hon. Reginald Steighton. Mr Daniel M'Carthy appears with credit as Richard Vallerton, and Mr Stanley Harrison as Arthur Walcomb and Mr W. F. Clitherow as Ben Verstein give praiseworthy impersonations. Conspicuously successful is Miss Phyllis Relph as Helen Vallerton, and the outspoken Margaret Steighton has a clever representative in Miss Jessie Winter. The performances of Miss Mary Relph as Lady Mountfallon and Miss Nellie Bonsor as Mrs Durham are entirely satisfactory.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—A Victim of Villainy is being performed here by Messrs Atkin and Howe's company, and the drama and its performance have met with the approval of Palace audiences.

ELSWICK THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Chas. M. Daly.—At this place of entertainment the attraction is provided by Mr Coleman Davies and company with the drama No Escape. Mr Davies supplies a humorous performance as Constable O'Grady. The company generally is a capable one, and in some variety business which is introduced Mr W. G. Wesley figures prominently.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Chung Ling Soo worthily heads the bill here, and the Chinese conjuror gives an exhibition of his powers, which is indeed correctly described by the word marvellous. A body of Japanese equilibrists and gymnasts known as the Lukushima Troupe have excited warm admiration by the skilful manner in which they perform their various tricks. Prof. Berner utilises a miniature stage with orchestra and side boxes for his marionette entertainment, and his figures are worked with amazing accuracy and deftness. Bijou Russell at once earns favour for her enjoyable rendering of an exhilarating coon ditty, and as a sand dancer she excels. Favourite vocal comedians in Walter Munroe and Charles Coborn are both heartily received, and a round of applause is Fanny Robins's reward for her well-rendered song. A pleasing comedienne is Mabel Hind; Leo Tell, an imitator of sounds; and Charles Cardow, comedian, give satisfaction by their contributions.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—Good houses continue to be the rule here. This week the Mysterious Lilith defies all the laws of gravitation by floating in the air and stopping at the word of command in mid-air. Mr Fred Harcourt, who is responsible for the Mysterious Lilith, also gives an extremely smart conjuring performance, which was well received. Otto Schuman's horses and great Danes show to what a state of perfection animal training has reached. Miss Lilian Warren gives vocal pictures, the views being exceedingly good. Miss Grace Merton, the original street singer, sings exceedingly well. Cordite, the world's champion lady rope spinner, gives a clever exhibition of lassooing. Other turns are Lilian Neville, operatic vocalist; the Revel Troupe, who are clever in their sketch Mischief; Condon and Preston, comedians; and James Grant, eccentric comedian.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Here we have Mr J. F. Elliston's company in the favourite drama Alone in London. An experienced actress in Miss Madge Devereux excites sympathy as the sorely-tried Nan. Miss Ada Elliston submits a clever performance as Liza Jenkinson, and Tom Chickweed has a smart exponent in Miss Ada Tilley. The swell mobsman, Richard Redcliffe, is effectively delineated by Mr Stephen Ewart. Mr Lonnen Meadows is well to the fore as Charley Johnson, and the comedy element is further strengthened by the performance of Mr Hugh Brady as Spriggins. Mr Henry George portrays in excellent style the slow but sure characteristics of John Biddlecombe.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—Houdini, the handcuff expert, continues to give his entertainment here with unabated success. Staig's motor sensation, which consists of racing around a bottomless track elevated above the stage, causes much excitement. Amy Augarde's tasteful vocalism is listened to with evident pleasure, and similar manifestations of enjoyment are occasioned by Boyd and Gilfain in their operetta entitled Mixed Drinks. An amusing boxing comedy sketch is provided by the Brothers Ashley; and Arthur Slater, a sifflleur and mimic, gives proof of his cleverness. The sketch A Matrimonial Agency furnishes the medium for the appearance of Hayman and Franklin, who are both successful. Harry Conlin in song and patter is well received, as is also Marion Edwardes, comedienne.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is this week presenting here the new emotional play A Path of Thorns. A strong cast is headed by Mr Claud King as John Edmunds. He plays the part with much spirit. Miss Violet Luddington depicts Bessie with considerable power, whilst the child Lucy is cleverly portrayed by little Mabel May. The heavy rôle of Jonas Deane is in the capable hands of Mr Cecil Du Gue; Miss Amy Rogerson makes a capital Jane Adelaide; and Sam Hallett, the Lancashire lad, finds a typical exponent in Mr Alfred Lester.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—Prinz's performing lions is the big sensation here, a climax being reached when Miss Marcella does a fire dance in the animal's den. The Brothers Egbert provide a turn that is well received; Brett and Oxford are bright and breezy; and some wonderful balancing is performed by the Three Brothers Pantzer. Miss Ella Retford is a smart comedienne; Miss Lalla Selbini, assisted by Midget Harry, provides an interesting turn; and the Four Olympian Stars, burlesque vocalists and dancers, come in for warm recognition. Bob Hutt, comedian, and the American Bioscope complete the bill.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—Woman and Wine is here again, represented by Mr Milton Bode's company. Mr Frank R. Robertson is highly successful in the part of Dick Seymour, which he plays with discretion and excellent dramatic force. Mr Fred Mace is good as Hugh Seymour; Mr Walter Thornton is well placed as Alphonse; Mr Herbert Landeck is strong in the part of Pierre Crucru; Mr Tom Tindall as Professor Sawter and Mr Percy Dawsone as his son Charles are amusing. Miss Ernestine Holker as Mary Andrews plays with a quiet sympathy that suits the rôle. Miss Edith Blande scores in the part of Marcel Rigadout, whose jealous opponent, La Colombe, is forcibly rendered by Miss Nelly Lauraine. Miss Muriel Vox is amusing as Janet, and Mr Henry Compton as the Duc D'Arnac, Mr Frank Englefield, and Mr E. R. Beaumont also do good service. The Edene Troupe give an able display of acrobatic dancing.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—A very dainty programme is provided this week. The Dayton Family are smart in their clever Risley act. Harry Zetter, comedian, gains great applause for his eccentric dancing. Robins and Collier, who appear in a musical comedy scena, with special scenery, give a lively representation of The Lady and the Porter. Tom Owen, the original Welsh comedian, has made a big hit with his songs and clever patter. Janet Howard Reynolds is a pretty singer of some pretty songs. The Brothers Obo fully justify their title of the "laughing duettists." Duncan's Royal Scotch collies are a well-trained troupe of animals.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—Mr Frank Lindo and his company, with Home, Sweet Home have been warmly greeted here this week. As Stephen Armitage Mr George F. Black gives a clever impersonation of the character, and Mr Frank Lindo as David Armitage acquits himself in capital style. Captain Gerald Gambler as Duke of Ancaster renders a good account of himself. Mr George Overs is popular as Dick Redmayne, and Mr Arthur Rodney as Lucas Lyle is successful. Miss Marion Wakeford gives a highly finished interpretation of Joan; Miss Ivy Ellaline Thorne successfully depicts Sybil Fay; Miss Fanny Thorne is pleasing as Lady Summerton; Miss Ivy Rochefort makes the most of Dora; and the other parts are well sustained.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr William Mould.—Mr Charles Bignell, comedian, tops the bill here. Clarke's Nippers are loudly applauded for their clever act, and the Watson Family, vocal, musical, and comedy artistes, give an entertaining performance. Messrs Grapho and Jackson, comedians, have made a hit, and Cinizelli, comedy acrobatic act; Mr Bert Kemp, cartoonist, &c.; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope all meet with favour.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company, in The Silver King, is here this week. Mr Lauderdale Maitland is successful as Wilfred Denver. Miss Lillian Bethel performs in a most sympathetic way as Nellie Denver. Mr Edward J. George is excellent as Daniel Jaikes, Miss Violet St. Clair deserves every praise as Cissy, and Master Jack Evan must be mentioned as Ned. Mr W. V. Garrod is realistic as Captain Herbert Skinner; whilst Mr Philip Renouf affords amusement as Henry Corket. Mr Arthur Weight as Elijah Coombe and Mr Alfred Northway as Cripps are very good.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt.—A pleasing and attractive programme is presented this week. Ethel Arden and George Abel, in their amusing and mystifying sketch, Three of a Kind, create immense fun. Mons. Slippere, the blind novelty pianist, is appreciated for his musical abilities and equally for his singing, Miss Ramsay gracefully assisting him. Francis, the cannon-ball king, assisted by his satellite, Alfred, show some wonderful tricks. A. G. Sprig, humourist, is well received; Leslie H. Murray, magician and card manipulator, is very successful; the Three Dagmars are clever acrobats; the Bros. Brooks are amusing patterers; the Sisters Brand deserve the appreciation given for their singing and dancing; whilst Florence Schubert is a pleasing comedienne. Capt. Selby's band materially adds to the enjoyment of the evening.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs S. Golden; Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—Mr Percy and Miss Stanton's company in The Sporting Girl is paying a return visit here this week. The good company is led by Mr Perry and Miss Maggie Stanton, who plays the title-rôle cleverly. The play goes with a swing from start to finish. During its progress Miss Jenny Hackett and Miss Betsy Brownlie are several times recalled for their excellent cake-walk. These two little girls are making their first professional appearance, having been the winners of a cake-walk competition organised by Mr Perry at Wallsend.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney.—Winnie Brooke, Widow, forms a delightful entertainment, especially when represented by so fascinating an artist as Miss Ada Reeve, whose dainty presence, vivacious manner, and graceful dancing make the part a truly charming one. Mr Henry Vibart as Dudley Maine gives a quiet, restrained performance that is altogether convincing; Mr John Gerant assumes the amorous solicitor with the requisite touch of humour; and Mr James Stevenson is sufficiently amusing as the Rev. Elihu Garside. Messrs Edgar Stevens and Leon Ashton-Jarry make a capital pair of sentimental lovers; and Misses Lucie Calne and Ruth Hazelwood render valuable assistance as their young sweethearts. Mrs Charles Maltby supplies a fine character study of an old servant, and Mr Fredk. B. Sharp is commendable as Toby Blossom. A fund of amusement is caused by Mr D. Price-Evans (Hercules) and Miss Drusilla Wills as a laundry girl.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—The return visit of A Royal Divorce company, under the management of Mr W. W. Kelly, has been welcomed here this week with acclamation. The character of Napoleon is essayed by Mr Frederick Victor, an actor of undoubted ability. Miss Edith Cole manifests abundant dramatic and emotional power in her assumption of the Empress Josephine, and Miss Ethel Murray makes a fitting contrast as the cold and proud Marie Louise. Mr Claude Agnew gives an incisive reading of the crafty Talleyrand, and Mr Trevor Lowe acts with discretion as the Marquis De Beaumont. Mr Alfred Grenville acceptably embodies General Augereau; Miss Helen Richmond wins favour as Stephanie; and Miss Violet Agnew makes a graceful and attractive Blanche.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr A. W. Bull.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company is presenting here the stirring drama, The King of Crime. The rôle of Ronjarre is now undertaken by Mr William Clayton, whose powerful and vigorous portrayal earns him the heartiest of plaudits. Miss Marion Turner's winsome and pathetic impersonation of Ronjarre's blind wife calls forth much sympathy, and Miss E. Turner-Elliott makes an admirable Mathilde. The malevolence of Mère Crochard is capitally shown by Miss Ada King, and praise is due to Misses M. Jones and N. Wilson. Mr A. D. Anderson plays well as the old miser, Gandelu; Mr W. H. Porter makes his mark as Simon; and Mr Herbert Evelyn contributes an admirable portraiture of Louis Mascarot. There is an abundance of humour, in which Mr Walter Dale distinguishes himself as Mick Maloney, a mesmerist, and his efforts are cleverly seconded by Miss Kitty Russell, both artists being associated in several specialities.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—The performance of Seeth's lions, presented by Herr Georg Thielbar, has drawn immense crowds this week, who watch with interest their many entertaining feats. Lil Hawthorne is a dainty comedienne, who captivates her audience; Alexandre and Hughes cleverly combine comedy and musical talent; Ray Wallace is an accomplished mimic; the Sydney James Strolling Players, a versatile combination, receive a ready reward for their whistling, ventriloquism, and vocal and instrumental efforts; the Sisters Geretti are a couple of gifted artists, whose skilful trapeze exhibition evokes enthusiasm; the Brothers Edgar squeeze a lot of fun out of their "patter;" and Harry Anderson's songs prove entertaining. Winnie Derson, comedienne; Paul Mill, comedian; and Charles Bayman Negro comedian, complete an excellent programme.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—Mr Edward Terry is this week paying us a welcome return visit, opening on Monday with The House of Burnside, followed by Bardell v. Pickwick. Mr Terry's admirable impersonation of the old shipowner met with unanimous approval, and he was well supported by Mr A. Cornell as the confidential clerk; Miss Daisy Murch, who displayed considerable emotional power as Marion Burnside; Miss Beatrice Selwyn, a capital Betty; and by Miss Beatrice Terry and Master Roy Lorraine, who were very natural and winning as the grandchildren. In Bardell v. Pickwick, which followed, Mr Terry was highly amusing and successful as Sergeant Buzfuz. On Tuesday night The Passport was given, and on Wednesday the ever-popular Sweet Lavender drew a capital house.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—On Monday a full and appreciative house accorded Miss Lena Stanton and her excellent company a hearty welcome on her return visit with The Belle of Bangalore. Mr Bruce Green is deserving of praise for his admirable rendering of Rajah Roo, and Mr Harry Jay is good as ever in his old part of Pat Murphy. Mr G. James makes the most of Rum Omyo, and Mr Fred More is good as Rum Jum. Little Kuno, as usual, scores heavily with his comic singing and humorous antics as "It, a Mystery." As Small Sing Miss Marie Gerrald is a success, and Miss Lena Stanton, always a prime favourite here, makes a charming and attractive Princess Ko-Ko. Specialities are contributed by Rynfeld, in his marvellous chair performance; by the Sisters Vell, musical artistes; by Jay and Ginger, ventriloquists; and by the Cecil troupe of dancers.

OLDHAM.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—Mr Beerbohm Tree's company is here in The Darling of the Gods. Miss Frances Dillon in the title-rôle shows her accustomed power; Mr Douglas Gerrard as Kara displays marked ability; the Zukkuri of Mr Robert Bateman is a powerful bit of acting; Miss Rhoda Ray is excellent as Madam Asani; Mr Douglas Payne is clever as the dumb servant; and Mr Ivan T. Simpson as Saigon, Mr Arthur Vezin as Tonda-Tanji, and Mr Hubert Druce as Kato give clever representations.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—The engagement of the Seven Savonas and the world-famed Elliots presented a difficulty which the management obviated by submitting the Seven Savonas at one house and the Elliotts at the other. The brilliant music of the Savonas and the marvellous cycling performances of the Elliots are beyond description; the Smythsons are amusing in their comedy sketch The Lie Alarm; Mdlle. Lucretia is charming as a burlesque actress and dancer; Phil Ray, patter comedian, is cordially received; and Signor and Madame Borelli provide an excellent musical turn. Jeannette Latour is a capital soprano vocalist, and Boy Glen is well received for his amusing patter and songs.

GAIETY.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—The variety programme submitted here this week includes Charles Best in a refined comedy act, "M'Bunker, the Mountebank," in which he creates roars of laughter. Gerald Mount gives a clever musical and vocal performance; Robb Gilmore, comedian, is very popular; Miss Flo Everette submits an excellent canine troupe; George Rennie, ventriloquist, is well received; Harry Nelson is successful in his songs; and Miss Ailsa Douglas sings with considerable power. The Bioscope is excellent. The Sisters Pine are well received for their smart dancing.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—The Wearin' o' the Green, by Mr Chalmers Mackey and company, is the attraction here this week. Mr Mackey is still the Barney O'Hea, his clever and humorous portrayal of the part being rewarded with continual bursts of applause. Mr Henry Danson plays excellently as Gerald Courtenay, and Mr H. Sainsbury gives a finished impersonation of Sir George Courtenay. Mr W. Reuben Payne has the customary greetings which await such a villain as Michael Kenny, and Mr Reginald Garland as Shamus M'Dermott is very commendable, his singing being a particular feature of his performance. Miss Lalla Stanhope performs admirably as Biddy M'Ginn; Mrs Chalmers Mackey furnishes a capable embodiment of Norah M'Grath; and Miss Adele Liddon is satisfactory as Mrs M'Dermott. Deserving of mention also are Mr Conway Hastings as Connor Martin, Mr John Neville as Sergeant Yorke, Mr Harry Mason as Mick Dolan, Miss Nellie Moore as Edith Anstruther, and Miss Mona Russell as Gladys Anstruther.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr Delno Fritz.—A capital and attractive programme is being submitted here this week by the following:—Tate and Tate, trampolin comedy acrobats; Tom Berrick, the black tit-bit; Carne Curre, in a quaint comedy act; George K. Griffan, the jocular joker, in song, dance, and story; and Denis M'Carthy in "The Coastguard," played with special scenery and mechanical effects. The Empire Cinématograph submits a series of new pictures.

PENTRE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Owners, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Eugene Hardie.—The return visit of Mr John H. Morton's popular company in The Rajah of Ranjapore is welcome here. Ernest Travers is in the capable hands of Mr Chas. Linney; Mr Harry Cornwall is a clever Mr Stubbs; Capt. Hertage is satisfactorily presented by Mr Arthur Reid; Mr Alvin Sawyer creates roars of laughter as Horatio Chick, being assisted by the vivacious Miss Marion Walker as Eliza; Miss Nell Ascot as Primrose is charming; Mr Bert Harrow as Thistles is responsible for a great deal of humour; and the Rajah Troupe, in acrobatic dances, contribute largely to the success.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Mr Charles R. Stone's company, in the American musical farcical comedy What Became of Mrs Racket? is delighting large audiences here this week. Miss Edith Madelle, who assumes the rôle of Mrs Racket, is certainly a vivacious young lady; Miss Emily Kelsey gives a powerful impersonation of Mrs Tolman; Miss Daisy Stone is a delightfully mischievous Katie, the maid; and the Misses Vida and Emmie Hill and Letitia Flopp are charming as the Sisters Tapplit, the Whirling Girls of the Frivolity. Mr Edward Rawlinson makes a decided success as Dr. Robert Racket; Mr Gerald Wyatt scores a great hit in Timothy Tolman; Mr Edwin Oxlee Clarke is seen to much advantage as Mr Dalroy; Mr S. Junior is creditable as Holson, the waiter, as also is Miss Winifred Maye in the part of Buttons. Mr Charles R. Stone, so well known here in connection with the visits of the Compton comedy company, receives quite an ovation for his delightful impersonation of Obadiah Dawson.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—An all-round good company, under the management of Mr Tom B. Davis, is appearing here with much success in Florodora. In the rôle of Tweedlepunch Mr Daley Cooper is screamingly funny, his contortions, facial and bodily, being marvellous. Miss Leonora Grieve uses a fine stage presence to advantage in the part of Dolores, whilst her singing is cultured. As Lady Holyrood Miss Rene Steadman is charming and entertaining, her dancing being most graceful. Miss Daisy Byford makes a pretty and dainty Angela. Frank Aberdeen is ably impersonated by Mr Cyril Dane, whose vocalism is superior. Other notable successes are Mr C. J. Barber, Mr Derick Knowles, and Mr Lionel Williams. The chorus work is admirable.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—That fascinating costume play, Monsieur Beaucaire, is being staged here this week by Mr Norman Macowan's company. The title-rôle is in the very efficient hands of Mr Macowan himself, who acts with considerable skill and is natural and unaffected. Another clever character study is forthcoming from Miss Violet Sterne, who, as Lady Mary Carlisle, is the embodiment of grace and beauty. Mr H. A. Young makes an ideal fop in the part of Beau Nash, and unstinted praise is due to Miss Millie Hamer, who essays the part of Lucy Rellerton. A strong cast also includes Mr F. Stuart Wilson, Mr Herbert Cornish, and Mr P. Ramsey Forman.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Manager, Mr J. Field.—A very attractive programme here this week includes the Five Bandurrias, whose playing on mandolines and guitars is a musical treat; a comedy circus, under the superintendence of F. R. Dainez, in which several animals display much intelligence; and a bright and amusing little comedy, entitled Flirtation, by the Five Devilines. Excellent coon songs and dancing are supplied by Walker and May, and Charles Faning's songs and patter hit the public taste exactly. As a ventriloquist Barney Vox has few equals, and another turn of the mirth-provoking order is that given by the Wilsons. Dainty dancing and sweet singing are noteworthy features in the turn submitted by the Graces, and Vincent Walker sings well.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. Carlton.—The Beautiful Avenger holds the boards here this week, and two ladies (Miss Nannie Meade and Miss Mabel Sendamore) achieve distinction on account of their commendable acting in principal parts, Mr Algernon Syms, Mr Lionel Gillett, Mr W. Diamond, and Miss C. Podmore appear in the drama with much success.

PONTYPOOL.

ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Resident Manager, Mr J. H. Stephens.—Messrs Preston and Doherty's powerful company, under the direction of Messrs Sidney Cranston and Dench, is attracting good houses here this week. Mr Sidney Dench as Spider Jack is the star of the piece, and his efforts are well appreciated. Mr Sidney Cranston in the rôle of the Earl of Ravenswood gives a powerful representation. Miss Dora Dench as the hospital nurse is very effective, finding an able partner in Mr Clair Forbes as Mark Stanley. Mr E. J. M'Sweeny, who is responsible for the comedy part, evokes much laughter as Billy Binks, of Billingsgate. Miss Molly Hacket makes a sprightly Polly Phillpot, and Miss Belle Tilbury is seen to advantage as Ruby Redgrave. The play is well staged, and the songs and dances are up-to-date.

PONTYPRIDD.

ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Business-Manager, Mr Rex Dooley.—Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr J. Leicester Jackson's company, in the military drama Dishonoured, is the attraction this week. Mr Frank Fuller gives an admirable assumption of Sir William Cunningham. Chief honours are, however, appropriated by Mr Percy Ballard as Philip Cunningham; Mr Frederick Loyd ably sustains the part of the villainous Captain Payntland; Mr Horace Buckley scores a great success as Jem Stokes; Mr Cecil Morand is amusing as Mike Farthing; Mr Victor Herne does well as Mhooleb Khan; Miss Florence Crough displays great ability as Leslie Maynard; Miss Nell Ingram cannot be too highly praised as Ann Maria; and Sybil is in the able hands of Miss Violet Cranford.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—This week we are favoured by a visit of A. Clifton Alderson and company in the military play, A Soldier and a Man. Mr A. Clifton Alderson gives an effective rendering of Harold Sinclair; Mr Frank Powell is well suited in the part of the villainous Herbert Walgrave; Mr Harry F. Wright is amusing as Jim Farrow; Miss Daisy England presents a good impersonation of Norah Melbury; Mr A. W. Norman acquits himself creditably as David Melbury; Mr T. Marony makes a capital Colonel Sinclair; Miss B'Eare Doyle is successful as Rose Melbury; Mr T. Kirkwood and Miss Nettie Schrier as Sergeant Wicks and "Sergeant" Jane Wicks respectively are responsible for some genuine amusement; Mr Edward Fenton is well placed as Lieut. Pelham; and Colonel Westerton has a good representative in Mr Charles Percy.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Miss Ada Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr D. Taylor; General Manager, Mr E. Pryce.—The programme here includes the Andos, Japanese acrobats, jugglers, and wire-walkers; the Brothers Attila, clever weight lifters; Hess and Lisbon, comic and scientific skaters; Aerian and Ostara, the aerial gymnasts; Carlo Boro, the mad golfer; Droll and Dryan, eccentric comedians, in their screaming absurdity, The Boxing Lesson; Mdlle. Bartoni, in a select "pot-pourri;" and Miss Scott, in her entertainment on the animated football. Rabbit and Hairpin, the two clowns, are still successful, and new pictures are being shown on the Biomyrograph.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—Mr George Edwardes's company with San Toy is here this week. Miss Fanny Dango, in the name-part, is very dainty and pleasing; Miss May Francis is charming as Poppy; Mr Reginald Kenneth makes an earnest and convincing Captain Bobby Preston; the mandarin, Yen How, of Mr Colin Cook is a capital impersonation; Mr Stratton Mills as Sir Bingo Preston is excellent; Mr E. Statham Staples evokes great merriment by his comical portrayal of the cunning Li; Mr Walter Ashley makes a satisfactory Fo Hop; and Mr Arthur Clark is good as the Emperor. Mention should be made of Miss Alice Lethbridge, whose clever dancing in the second act as Miss Rose Tucker is greatly appreciated.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—The attraction at this house for the week is Mr Walter Melville's company in A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Beatrice Homer gave a lifelike and powerful impersonation of Barbara Wade; Miss Kate Hallam made a pathetic Constance Cornell; Nellie Meadows was capitally played by Miss Helen Haye; Mr Edwin J. Wilde's portrayal of John Meadows was a fine character study; Mr Wingold Lawrence was a manly and greatly appreciated Jack Living tone. The comedy parts were ably filled by Mr David Barone as Joe Coyle and Miss Emily Custance as Tilley Vayne.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—The chief draw here this week is the Mysterious Kettle, demonstrated by Professor Taylor, and a most effective attraction it is. Bert Woodward, original comedy cycling coon, is clever and daring in his act. Bellrose and Develin, operatic duettists, give satisfaction. Carrie Joy, comedienne, is warmly welcomed. Frank Coyne, star comedian, is another good turn. Clark and Hamilton are received very well in their musical comedy act. Sid Bandon, character comedian, is very smart. Other artistes contributing to the programme are Agnes Hanson, soubrette and danseuse, and the Three San Remo Girls, vocalists and specialty dancers.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—A return visit of Mr Geo. Dance's company, in A Chinese Honeymoon, provides a welcome attraction here this week. Hang Chow has a droll representative in Mr Frank A. Wood. Mr Allerton Turner is well suited in the part of Chippi-Chop. Mr Leonard May very funnily depicts High Lung. Mr Percy York acquits himself creditably as Tom Hatherton. Mr Harry Brayne gives a genuinely amusing portrayal of Mr Pineapple. Miss Jose Collins is a dainty and attractive Mrs Pineapple, and her dancing and singing call for praise. Miss Alice Drummond capably delineates Mrs Brown. Soo-Soo is pleasingly portrayed by Miss Maud Adair, whose rendering of the song "Egypt" deserves special mention. Miss M. Sadie gives a wonderfully clever and amusing impersonation of Fi-Fi, her comic business, singing, and dancing keeping the house in continuous laughter. A strong and tuneful chorus and the augmented orchestra, under the bâton of Mr Ernest Hurman, contribute appreciably to the success of the performance.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Mr Douglas Bruce's company is occupying this theatre this week in the play A Girl's Cross Roads. John Meadows is well impersonated by Mr W. E. Griffiths; Mr G. Garsford plays Jack Livingstone in a successful manner; Cuthbert Lumley's villainy is forcibly portrayed by Mr W. Fraser-Brunner; Dr. Weston is ably sustained by Mr E. Eardly Howard; Luke Ramsden is well embodied by Mr John Rogers; Miss Lily Hammersley gives a clever performance in the rôle of Barbara Wade; Miss Kate Walfred shows great ability as Nellie Meadows; Miss Ethel Bracewell makes a charming Constance Cornell; and Mr Will Corrie as Toby Turner and Miss Gladys Newcome supply the humour of the play.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Mr Frank Bertram has got a powerful domestic drama in The Convict's Daughter. The lion's share of work falls upon Mr Frank Bertram as Michael Graham, and he is quite equal to the task, acquitting himself with much credit. The next in order of merit comes Mr Russell Bogue, who as Patrick O'Laragan does good work. Mr J. K. Walton as Frederick Neville is satisfactory, and Mr G. Moreton Williams depicts the villain, Jasper Thorn, realistically. Miss Julie Alexander is excellent as Betty Hyne, and Miss Edith M. Savery deserves a word of praise as Edith.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE. — Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—Here this week are Mr T. Arthur Jones and company in the cleverly-constructed drama, Life's Sweetest Sins. Capt. Harold Marston finds an able representative in Mr T. Arthur Jones, and the part of the heroine, Doreen Rivers, a graceful and accomplished exponent in Miss Madge Morley. The odious Dr. Colbrooke is impersonated in effective fashion by Mr A. Bartlett Garth; Mr Charles Sewell acts well as Ernie Wodstone; and the rôle of Bob Tanner is humorously carried out by Mr Arthur E. Andrews.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS ADA PALMER.

MISS ADA PALMER studied elocution with Mr Samuel Hasluck, and after gaining first-class certificates for reciting from Mr Beerbohm Tree and the late Mr Samuel Brandram at the Polytechnic examinations, she studied for a year at Mr Henry Neville's dramatic studio. Her first professional engagement was in 1892 to play Maud Chandler, in The Middleman. This was followed by tours with Our Regiment, The Lancashire Lass, and other dramas, in which she played heavy lead. In 1894 Mr Willie Edouin engaged her for the part of Helen Griffen, in Niobe, on tour; and early in 1895 she went to the Strand Theatre to play Lady Rowland Buttre, in Mr Edouin's revival of Baby. Engagements to play Miss Prim, in Nita's First, and Miss Prism, in The Importance of Being Earnest, Crafer, Liberty Hall, with Mr Tapping, followed, and in August, 1896, Mr Wm. Calder engaged her for the part of Mrs Jelf, in The Span of Life, for a forty-four weeks' tour. In 1897 Miss Palmer joined Mr Lockwood's A Night Out company to play Mrs Pinglet, but on the conclusion of this tour was forced to take a long rest. In August, 1899, she was engaged by Mr Walter Sealby for Mrs Parke, in A Trip to Chicago (three tours), and in 1901 she played Mrs Corrie Bolton on the suburban tour of Mr Frank Stayton's drama, The Despatch Bearer. Mr Dundas secured her for the first provincial tour of The Price of Peace, to play Mrs Tulk. Then followed another tour with Niobe, and in August, 1902, Mr Roy Byford engaged her for the part of Fair Rosamund, in A Queen's Vengeance. In 1903, after a short summer tour with Mr Laurence Irving's Richard Lovelace company, Miss Palmer was re-engaged by Mr Dundas for Mrs Angerstein, in Hearts are Trumps. She again joined Mr Sealby's company to play The Countess of Brierley, in The Wedding Ring. Miss Palmer is engaged by Mr John Denton for the autumn tour of his new drama A Serpent's Tooth to play the part of Agatha Pierce,

MR. WHITFORD KANE.

MR. FRED INWOOD.

MR. WHITFORD KANE.

MR WHITFORD KANE was born at Larne, a seaside town in the North of Ireland, and was educated at the Royal Academical Institution, Belfast, where he was intended to follow in the footsteps of his father and read for the medical profession. Three years study sufficed him, however, and he then attempted to get his first engagement in the dramatic world. His first words of encouragement were given him by Mr and Mrs F. M. Paget after having heard him recite, and they advised him to try to get into a répertoire company. He was fortunate enough to get a start with Mr Norman V. Norman, with whom he played a round of parts in old modern English comedy for eighteen weeks. After this he did a round of the old dramas during the stock season at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, with Mr F. W. Warden, playing such parts as Mr Calton, in The Mystery of a Hansom Cab, Maltby, in The Ticket-of-Leave Man, &c. After seven weeks' stock work he joined the late Osmond Tearle, with whom he gained his first experience in the legitimate, was re-engaged after Mr Tearle's death by Mr Arthur Milton, with whom he stayed three tours, and amongst the parts he played during that time were the First Gravedigger, in Hamlet; Launcelot Gobbo, in The Merchant of Venice; Gaspar, in The Lady of Lyons, Corin, Catesby, Octavius Cæsar, &c. After this he was specially engaged by Mr Milton Rosmer for the part of Touchstone in a production of As You Like It at the Theatre Royal, Preston. During the summer of this year Mr Kane gave a series of pastoral performances in the north of Ireland, appearing as Jacques, Antonio (Twelfth Night), and Dogberry. After this he was engaged by Mrs Bandmann-Palmer, and has appeared in the following parts with her:—First Gravedigger, Launcelot Gobbo, Crabtree, and Moses in The School for Scandal, Horatio, Abraham in Leah, Caoudal and Legrand in Sapho, &c. This last-named part is, by the way, his favourite one. He considers intense character work to be the most interesting, and his ambition is to give elaborate revivals of the Irish dramas, and appear as Danny Mann, Harvey Duff, &c. Last Christmas Mr Kane gave a production of The Merchant of Venice at Belfast, appearing himself as Shylock. He intends, owing to the success of his last venture, to give a series of classical plays annually there, when he hopes to revive some of the works of the early English dramatists, some of whom are practically unknown to the modern playgoer. Mr Kane was engaged by Mr Louis Calvert for his autumn tour of Sunday. During his experience he has played upwards of a hundred and fifty parts, surely an unique record for so young a man.

MR. FRED INWOOD.

MR FRED INWOOD was born at Harrow-on-the-Hill in 1879. His love of acting dates from his schooldays. It was an annual feature at King's College School every Christmas to give an English, Greek, and German play. About one act of each play was given in the same evening. Invitations were issued to the parents of the boys to come and see them act. Mr Inwood played Trip, in The School for Scandal, on one of these occasions. The performances were generally very successful owing to the fact that parents made an exceptionally good audience, and allowed for many indiscretions both of make-up and acting. However, after the summer vacation, Mr Inwood made up his mind to become a full-blown actor and not return to school any more. Through his father's introduction to the late Harry Monkhouse he went on tour at nothing a week to learn something of acting. Finding it rather irksome to see other people getting a salary he thought it possible he might do the same. He suggested to Mr Monkhouse that he should give him a part, which he did. He likewise got a salary—small, but still a salary. At the conclusion of this Mr Hardie and Miss Von Leer engaged him for the Footman and Hargitt, in Two Little Vagabonds. He remained with them a year. He next ventured into musical comedy, playing the Valet, in Mr Milton Bode's production, Orlando Dando. Then came an engagement with Mr Harry Nicholls in Jane and The Lady Bookie, playing Archie Barry in the latter piece. He next joined Mr Penley to play Jack Chesney, in Charley's Aunt. Then came a season at the Duke of York's Theatre. Mr Lestocq engaged him to understudy and play in A Bad Penny. He also played Capt. Sands, in Miss Hobbs, during the season.

MISS HULO HODGSON.

MISS HULO HODGSON made her first appearance at the Theatre Royal, Exeter, in April, 1896, under Edmund Tearle's management, with whom she played Henri, in Belphegor; the Duke of York; Lucius, Julius Cæsar; and Blind Boy, in Ingomar. Her next engagement was Dick, in Rass Challis's play, The Curate, which part she played on four tours. She then undertook juvenile lead with Fred Cooke, in The New Mazeppa. After that she played lead with the late Hubert O'Grady, in The Fenian, The Famine, and A Fast Life. She also played lead with the late Charles Rogers, in The Ladder of Life. In 1900 she went to Africa with Leonard Rayne and Osmond Tearle, playing Planchet, in The Three Musketeers, a part specially written for her by Mr Leonard Rayne. She also played Constance at a few hours' notice, owing to the illness of Mrs Rayne. Whilst under Mr Rayne's management she played the Prince of Wales, Hetty Preene, Lights o' London; Mary Melrose, Our Boys; Cecil Jelf, Span of Life; Launcelot Gobbo, Merchant o' Venic (really the low comedian's part); Mrs Chudleigh, Harbour Lights; besides several other parts. On her return from Africa she was secured by Walter Bentley for juvenile lead in his Scotch tour. She next played Dick, in Hardie and Von Leer's Two Little Vagabonds. After that she created the part of Marie, in The Human Terror, produced by Isaac Cohen at the Pavilion Theatre. Her next engagement was with the late Mr F. A. Scudamore, as Cleopatra, in Because I Love You, a part in which she achieved a great success. This autumn Miss Hodgson was engaged by Mr Walter Melville for his stock seasons at the Standard and Rotherhithe.

NEW ENGLISH & FOREIGN PLAYS.

In order to assist managers and others in the selection of pieces for production and adaptation, we shall publish from time to time synopses of likely English and Continental plays, so that dramatic speculators may judge for themselves of the suitability of the plots for their purposes. Authors wishing for this publicity should forward synopses to "Playrights," care of The Era, from whom further particulars can be obtained.

"KALTWASSER."

Play, in Three Acts, by Ludwig Fulda.

ACT I.

Dr. Slevogt is a conscientious and ambitious young doctor enjoying a widespread reputation. His sanatorium is crowded by those whose nervous system has been shattered by the strife and stress of life in big cities, and by that far less pleasing class of patients, les malades imaginaires. So deeply, indeed, is he interested in his professional work that his charming wife, who before her marriage was a celebrated singer, constantly complains of his coldness and lack of attention towards herself. All the patients are greatly interested in the arrival of Pilgrim, renowned as a magnificent conductor and an irresistible lady-killer. He has fled to the sanatorium to take refuge from the attentions bestowed upon him by the fair sex particularly by one, Frau Anna Sachs, a somewhat hysterical leader of society. Slevogt makes his new guest promise that he will, for some time at least, keep aloof from ladies' society, and although Pilgrim, complaining that the ladies run after him and not vice versâ, willingly consents, he nevertheless, makes love to Elvine, the doctor's wife, and also to a pretty and coquettish French maid. Shortly afterwards Mrs Sachs, the very lady whom he had wished to elude, is announced at the sanatorium. She had found out Pilgrim's whereabouts, and had taken up her residence in the house opposite—another sanatorium, but conducted on different lines—in order to be near her faithless lover. Pilgrim endeavours to explain to her that the liaison between two divorced people as they are must be of short duration, and futhermore he tells her point blank that he is absolutely tired of her. Unabashed, she replies that she cannot bear to be cast aside, and if he insists in his intentions she will poison herself. The doctor enters, and with the utmost difficulty rids his nervous patient of his excited visitor.

ACT II.

All the ladies are captivated by Pilgrim's artistic temperament and fascinating manner. Elvine in particular experiences great delight in his company; for he has succeeded in once more arousing her artistic talent. Whilst Pilgrim, terrified by a message from Anna Sachs, is meditating how to escape the amorous persecutions of the lady, his divorced wife, Minna, also arrives at the sanatorium to undergo a cure for the nervous attacks from which she has been suffering since they parted. She had recently been staying at the rival sanatorium opposite, but left it as she agreed with Slevogt that the proprietor was nothing better than a quack doctor. A tête-à tête between Pilgrim and Elvine follows. Pilgrim manages to enlist her sympathy and gain her love. He confides to her that it is absolutely necessary for the well-being of his art and his state of health that he should find a strong-minded and warm-hearted woman to hold him in check so that he can escape the dangers lurking in his partiality for the fair sex. He pleads his cause so fervently and with such passion and sincerity that Elvine is convinced of his affection for her. They are interrupted by Anna Sachs, but Pilgrim leaves the room in time for Elvine to have a private interview with that exasperated woman, and she elicits from Anna the reason of her objectionable persecution. On perceiving, however, that she has in Elvine a serious rival, Anna professes to give up Pilgrim, and consents to return to Berlin. Elvine thereupon confesses to her husband that she cannot any longer live with him, but that she will follow Pilgrim, who, as she says, better understands her character, and who will once more restore her fame as a singer. Slevogt does not take the matter seriously; he feels confident that this is but a passing mood, and he simply reproaches Pilgrim with having ignored his medical advice to leave the fair sex alone and to avoid any scene that might upset his equanimity. The doctor, unaware of the relations existing between Minna and Pilgrim, then becomes witness of their first meeting since she divorced him on account of his infidelity. Pilgrim's heart goes out to her, not only because he still loves her—for he actually loves all the women whom he happens to meet—but also because he perceives how she has aged since he saw her last. Minna, however, ignores him altogether, and Pilgrim finds himself in an awkward fix, when Elvine as well as Anna and the little French maid, enter and all claim him as their own particular property. Pilgrim then realises at last that the object of his visit, to obtain rest, has been entirely defeated.

ACT III.

Slevogt begs Minna to assist him in preventing Elvine's elopement with Pilgrim. Minna thereupon entreats Elvine to desist from her wicked plan, giving a very graphic description of Pilgrim's character and mode of living. Elvine, however, though well aware of Pilgrim's indifference, on learning that she will leave her husband and throw in her lot with him, nevertheless arranges to elope with Pilgrim speedily in order to outwit the ever-watchful Anna. She reckons, however, without the affection that has reasserted itself in Pilgrim for his divorced wife. Pilgrim obtains another interview with the latter, imploring her for the love of their children and for the affection he has never ceased to feel towards herself to become again united to him. Minna, moved by this passionate outburst of feeling and his self-condemnation, consents to his wishes. The carriage which should have conveyed Pilgrim and Elvine to the railway station in pursuance of their plans for elopement now carries Pilgrim and Minna instead. The news of their sudden departure quickly spreads, and Elvine, perceiving Anna's and the French maid's keen disappointment at Pilgrim's departure, realises at last from what a foolhardy enterprise she has luckily escaped. She therefore humbly beseeches and readily obtains her husband's forgiveness.

HAMPSTEAD CONSERVATOIRE.

The third concert of the Artists' division took place on the 25th ult., when the Saunders String Quartet Party, consisting of Messrs John Saunders, Charles S. Woodhouse, Ernest Tonge, and Miss Prendencers sustained the respective parts of the quartet, and Madame Sobrino was the solo vocalist. Mr Stanley Hawley accompanying. The first work was a quartet by Paul Inon, stated to be the first performance in England, but we are strongly impressed with the idea that the phrases are not altogether unfamiliar. That, however, is not of extreme importance, and the music proved agreeable, especially the third movement. The composer, if our memory serves, is of Spanish extraction. The singing of Madame Sobrino was particularly attractive, and "Der Massbaum" of Schumann was repeated by desire. Songs by Strauss and Jensen were also included, and in the second part others by Liszt and Volbach; while a fine chamber quartet of Mozart concluded the instrumental performances. At the concert on Feb. 14 the Moscow Trio will appear, and the vocalist will be that delightful singer Mrs Henry J. Wood.

ADVERTISERS and SUBSCRIBERS who are moving about, and who have their Copy of "THE ERA" sent direct from this Office, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, are requested to forward the Addresses for their Papers [not later than the Tuesday in each Week.

H. A. JONES ON THE DRAMA.

Mr HENRY ARTHUR JONES, in responding to the toast of "The English Drama" at the annual dinner of the Sheffield Press Club, in the Cutlers' Hall, Sheffield, on Saturday last, thanked the members for the welcome they had given him and for the honour they had done him in inviting him to respond for the English drama. It gave him the greatest pleasure to meet them in a hall that had echoed the voices of the greatest orators of the time; albeit, as far as he recollected, they had been chiefly occupied with minor and dreary affairs, such as politics—minor and dreary, that was, compared with music and the drama. When he asked himself how our toiling millions were chiefly spending their evenings he owned that he was given much food for reflection. The toilers of our cities were entirely right in asking for amusement at the end of their day. If there was one man with whom he was in the fullest and heartiest sympathy it was the man who declined to be bored at a theatre. If the great masses of our cities preferred paying a shilling for being amused at a music hall to paying half-a-crown for being bored at a theatre, there was absolutely no means of which he knew of stopping them. All bright, innocent amusement—songs, dancing, athletic exhibitions, and such like—were good for the people. He was not attempting to decry popular amusement, but he wished to repeat for the thousandth time that popular amusement was one thing and the art of the drama was another. In England to-day the great theatre-going public had hopelessly confused these two things, and seemed to have lost all sense that the art of the drama was the art of representing life, and not the art of tumbling about the stage doing all sorts of funny tricks and saying all sorts of funny things. That was to say, the art of the drama was finer and higher, and gave a rarer pleasure, in so far as it grew more severe and more serious, in so far as it was further and further removed from mere popular amusement. The drama in England to-day was crushed between the upper millstone of fine art and the nether millstone of popular amusement. It lived, if it lived at all, as a competitor of popular amusement; it was denied all recognition as a literary art. But the drama could not compete with popular amusement; it could not live at all on that level; it did not live: it was everywhere going under as a result of that competition. The music halls were crowded; the theatres were empty, or only filled when they provided a music hall entertainment. He did not think it was the fault of the dramatist. The serious dramatist had been so constantly told that he must amuse his public that for the present he (Mr Jones) was afraid he had taken that worthless and utterly mistaken counsel; he had tried to go down to his public with disastrous results. He declined to believe that England to-day could not produce worthy, serious dramatic work. The first condition was that it should be fully recognised and judged on that level. Another condition, which was almost forgotten, was that serious drama should be adequately interpreted. He would not confess that the present deadlock in our drama was the fault of the serious English dramatist. He did not think it was all the fault of the public. Even if he thought it, he dared not say, he dared not hint, that the fault lay with the Press. Let them say that the fault lay with the system. In all seriousness, he thought that our present system was a very bad one. It was bad in this one cardinal respect: great plays needed great interpreters. Our present system of long runs did not allow our young actors any opportunity of getting the necessary training. The result was that we were more and more impoverished in the supply of great actors. He called yet again for a school of constant practice for young actors. Might not, he asked, our great public be gradually coaxed into seeing that there was a far higher and greater pleasure, even amusement, to be obtained from serious drama than from mere empty entertainment? He submitted that the place for tomfoolery was not every theatre in England for every night in every year. Let them indulge in tomfoolery, but let us not wallow in it as a nation.

NEW MUSIC.

LEONARD AND CO., 311, Oxford-street, W., have sent a selection of attractive pieces, chiefly for the pianoforte. One of the first of these to claim attention is a graceful dance by the well-known composer Anton Strelezki, entitled "Christmas Roses," a very appropriate title for the present season, when everybody is looking forward to that festive time. Any youthful pianist in want of a pleasing and effective solo to entertain friends at a Christmas party will do well to procure "Christmas Roses." It will neither worry the teacher nor the pupil, for although graceful it is not difficult, and it is also melodious and brightly written. There is in fact only one real difficulty. The student must be able to grasp an octave. It is in common time, four crotchets in the bar, and Anton Strelezki has composed some pretty harmonies. The same accomplished musician has written "Yolande," an intermezzo for the pianoforte which is even simpler in style, and is composed in the charming key of E flat. Here and there some accidental flats and sharps may prove a little puzzling to the novice. But a clever teacher will carry the pupil safely over these thorny paths. Another delightful guide, philosopher, and friend to the youthful pianist is Stepan Esipoff, whose "Cinq Morceaux Caractéristiques" consist of the "Moulin à Vent," a clever study, "Historiette," "A Witches Dance," "Reconnaisance," and "Danse de Carnival." We may just hint to the enterprising publishers that the popularity of these charming pieces would be increased by an edition with the titles in English. For example, "The Windmill" would serve quite as well as "Moulin à Vent" for the extremely clever study of "Andantino con moto," which opens the group, and which the most experienced performer would find pleasure in playing. We found it quite a model for practice, the accented notes adding to the effect. It would suit perfectly for a solo at a little concert or "At Home." The others are equally good of their kind, and display remarkable ability on the part of the composer. "Entr'acte," for piano, by Jean Bonneval, is rather more difficult for a student, as the rapid passages of "thirds" will need considerable study. But if the student does not mind a little hard work with octaves, &c., there will be ample reward. There is just an echo of the "Staccato study" of Vogrich, but the composer is not deficient in originality as a whole. A pretty and stately dance for the pianoforte by J. Perry has much merit. It is somewhat difficult at first, but when the genial key of C is reached the pupil may "rest and be thankful." We may add that the dance is called "With Courtly Grace." "Spring Song," by E. Thelman Prior, will remind some players of the "Songs Without Words" of Mendelssohn, a great musician who has of late been somewhat tabooed by the disciples of "culchaw" and the "higher development" school. But Mr Prior has chosen a good model, and the simplicity of his little piece will make it welcome to amateurs. Of course the doings of Japan will attract composers, and "Yo San," a Japanese dance of a fantastic kind by Leslie Smith, will be certain to have admirers, especially as it is not difficult. A pleasant "Gavotte Elégante," this time by a native composer, Mr Josef Holbrooke, who cannot, however, resist a French title, has a certain freshness and individuality. "A Barcarolle," also by the same gifted musician, and a waltz called "Coquette," from the same pen, are all worthy of attention as indicating that our younger composers are on the alert, and that British musicians are marking time. "Amélie," by J. Warwick Moore, is a danse gracieuse of merit.

Mr W. H. WEBSTER, who was acting-manager at the Grand, Glasgow, eleven years ago, is back again in that busy city in a similar capacity at the Whitevale, the east-ender's resort.

"THE FOLLIES OF YOUTH."

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

As we stated last week, The Follies of Youth has been entirely rewritten by Messrs Fred L. Connynghame and Frank Price, and the "revised edition" was presented at the above theatre on Monday by Mr Arthur Rose and his company at the opening of his tour. Captain Ronald Druce, of the Grenadier Guards, while indulging in the follies of youth, falls in love with a wire rope dancer, Gwendoline Murdock, and marries her abroad, under a foreign name. Within a few weeks he discovers the mistake he has made, they separate, and he returns to England. Seven years elapse, and the play really opens with Captain Druce's marriage with Dorothy Dornton, the ward of his father, Colonel Druce. Three hours later, Gwendoline, who Captain Druce believed had been killed through a fall from the wire rope, reappears and claims him as her husband. He has to acknowledge his previous secret marriage, and his father, in a rage at what he considers his deceit, orders him to leave the house for ever, and announces that he shall make a new will leaving everything to Dorothy Dornton. Ralph Murdock, a wedding guest, recognises in Gwendoline his own wife. While stealing money and the Colonel's will, he is discovered by the Colonel, whom he strangles. He also knocks senseless Bob Roberts, a drummer-boy, who witnesses the crime, and gets away. Captain Druce, coming to see his father for the last time, finds him dead, and while he is kneeling over him other persons rush in, among them Murdock, who accuses Captain Druce of the murder of his father. This he repudiates, and the drummer-boy, who has regained consciousness, is about to denounce Murdock when his memory lapses, and he ends with the word "Captain" on his lips. The knockdown blow from Murdock has destroyed his memory. Thus under suspicion, Captain Druce flies and hides from the police. Gwendoline takes possession of the house, and orders Dorothy to leave, accusing her of having stolen Captain Druce's love. Captain Druce enters the house and tries to prevent Dorothy's expulsion, declaring everything to belong to her under his father's will; but he is helpless to enforce this. Protesting her love for him, Gwendoline assists him to conceal himself in the grounds, but he spurns her advances, curses and denounces her, and at first repudiates her child, which, however, he discovers to be his own. Meanwhile Murdock and Gwendoline are plotting to get possession of the money and property, each afraid of exposure by the other, Murdock himself being a convict. Seeking to raise money, Gwendoline sends for a Jew, one Nat Thistle (alias Morgan Piermont), broker and financial agent, and it turns out that he was Murdock's best man at his wedding with Gwendoline. All this time Dorothy is living in the slums in dire poverty. Many complications occur, and in the end Nat Thistle exposes the early marriage, Gwendoline poisons herself, the drummer-boy recovers his memory and denounces Murdock, who is arrested, Captain Bruce resumes his proper position, and Dorothy finds herself in reality his wife.

The drama is exceedingly well played, the situations are strong, and the staging all that could be desired. Mr W. Bentley presented a forceful, highly dramatic, and telling conception of Capt. Ronald Druce, his fine presence and cultured ability imparting additional power to the part. Mr Arthur Rose's impersonation of Ralph Murdock, the crafty villain under a cynical polished surface, was an exceedingly able performance; and the Nat Thistle of Mr David Beattie, the oily, artful, and unscrupulous Jew, was a most excellent, realistic, and amusing presentment. Mr Fred Haming took the character of Bob Roberts, the drummer, in a very satisfactory and natural manner. Mr Bert Wallace did well as the country fellow and, subsequently, policeman, and Mr Carter Lingford did all that was necessary as Colonel Druce. The performance of Miss Violet Macaree as Gwendoline Murdock was one of great merit, displaying great dramatic force, touching pathos, tragic power, and fierce, hot, and relentless passion. Her poisoning scene was rendered with extraordinary skill and realism. As Dorothy Dornton Miss Laurie A. Pardy was winning, graceful, and womanly in the best sense. Miss Bertha Hanbury touched the hearts of everyone by her sweet and beautifully child-like picture of Little Ruth (the Captain's child), and Miss Ena Russell was merry and piquant as Kitty Hawthorne, devoted servant of Dorothy Dornton, and sweetheart of Bob Roberts.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The concert in the theatre on Wednesday evening was a creditable specimen of a students' concert, including as it did examples of every kind of music. For instance, the first item was a mandoline solo, in which Miss Nellie Tubb distinguished herself, being accompanied by a mandoline orchestra and by Miss Amy Parsons at the pianoforte. Miss Agnes Melville attempted the Rondo and Aria from Rossini's opera Cenerentola, an extremely difficult and brilliant composition, seldom successfully rendered by a novice, but we must do Miss Melville the justice of declaring that her execution of Rossini's music was fairly good, and the bright "Non più mesta" was given with grace and freedom. The Prologue from Pagliacci, as we have often said, is more fitted for the stage than the concert room; but Mr Edwin Evans may be commended for his pure tone and good expression. In the two movements from a Sonata of Veracini for the violin, Master Leonard Connabeer, a young violinist of exceptional cleverness, made a slight slip, but speedily recovered himself, and amidst hearty applause finished the piece with great effect. The famous scena from Gounod's Sapho was treated in a dramatic fashion by Miss G. Malenoir, pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia and Mr B. Soutten, and the young lady almost reached the operatic standard in rendering the melody of Gounod. Miss Gertrude Peachey proved herself a brilliant pianist in the Polish dances of Scharwenka. Miss Ethel Major, a clever pupil of Mr Allan Beaumont, recited Adelaide Proctor's "Faithful Soul," and was very amusing in Mr Grossmith's sketch of "The wife who sat up," evidently a "wife without a smile." Miss Florrie Chadfield gave a cymbal dance of a graceful kind. "April Morn" afforded Miss Ethel May Holbrooke an opportunity of displaying neat execution and refinement of style. In the Flower song from Carmen Mr J. H. Callan was not quite equal to operatic requirements, but he has an agreeable and well-trained voice. Miss Mabel Stevens sang songs by Guy D'Hardelot and Landon Ronald. Miss Alice Stroud undertook the song, "God who madest earth and heaven," by Sanderson, with a fair amount of success. The concert was largely attended, and Mrs Charles P. Smith rendered her usual services on behalf of the young ladies on the platform. Miss Kate Ward was an admirable accompanist.

At the usual weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association, held last Tuesday, the hon. solicitors reported progress in several matters. Dr. Walter L. Pritchard, 16, Ashburnham-mansions, Chelsea, was elected as an hon. medical officer to the Association.

HISTORIC PROVINCIAL PLAYHOUSE.

BY T. H. BARROW.—VII.

In conversational phraseology Coleman was very pompous and full of idiosyncrasies. For example, on one occasion, coaching a body of supernumeraries for some spectacular display, he suddenly exclaimed, "Don't stand there like a lot of graven images, but put on the aspect of truculent defiance!"

On another occasion Coleman had reason to be dissatisfied with the orchestra, whereupon he wrote the following notice and had it posted among the "calls" at the stage door:—"I am pained to learn that certain members of the orchestra are in the habit of indulging in the reprehensible practice of playing improvised cadenzas during portions of the pantomime dialogue. Any well-authenticated circumstance of this nature reaching the ears of the management will entail upon the perpetrator instant dismissal.—Signed, JOHN COLEMAN, Theatre

THEATRE ROYAL, YORK.

Royal, York." At this period Mr J. S. Haydon, of Cotton Spinner fame, was a member of the York stock company.

While Coleman was considered by many of his colleagues overbearing, he could at times be just. An illustration comes to mind. In his days there was a convenient passage from the stage to the front of the house, with a door about midway. This means of communication had in some way been wrongly used—at least, he obviously thought so, as he ordered the door to be kept permanently locked, and not to be opened for any living soul. Curiously, he was the first person to endeavour to use the passage. He tried the door, hammered and shouted for a quarter of an hour, but all to no purpose, though the attendant to whom the instructions had been given heard him all the time from the other side. Finally the irate manager rushed round to the front of the house by a circuitous route, and assailed the faithful janitor with a fusillade of phrases which left no vestige of doubt as to the warmth of his feelings on the subject. But the attendant never moved a muscle.

In his leisure Tate Wilkinson, an admirable actor and manager, turned his hand to literature. In 1790 he published at York in four volumes, "Memoirs of his Own Life," introducing himself to his readers in this laconic manner: "If I had held my Pen but half as well as I have held my Bottle, what a charming hand I should have wrote by this time!" The work is "printed for the author" by Wilson, Spence, and Mawman, of York, and sold by G. G. J. and J. Robinson, Paternoster-row, and T. and J. Egerton, Whitehall, London. It was dedicated to the Duke of Norfolk. The dedication is commendably apologetic:—"If I were to assume only a familiar and easy acquaintance, I should be instantly detected as a silly though not an artful impostor. I must therefore slide imperceptibly into your Grace's presence under the fallacious and specious pretext of being a dangling twig-cousin of the alluring theatres, to which your Grace is a well-known avowed friend, amateur, and protector, as they evidently are honoured with your Grace's never-failing tribute and support. Therefore, under the guardian shades of Melpomene and Thalia, I am emboldened (by Hope) to cast my defenceless work at your Grace's feet, imploring mercy and pity for my lack of skill and non-acquaintance with the Muses. The work, indeed, is a true picture of its master, being as destitute of wit as wealth. The concurring evils of its poverty and want of natural brilliant endowments preclude, I fear, every possible chance of good fortune for preserving its life with the world's approbation, unless when they behold with wonder your Grace's condescension in raising the supplicating mendicant from the ground, and crowning its insignificance with your good wishes, which must be ever regarded as an honoured and gracious fostering."

In his preface Tate thus comments on his own Memoirs:—"I reflect on it with astonishment, and look with wonder at my patience and perseverance, as philosophy and steadiness, I dare assert, rarely attend my hobbling morning or evening walks." At the end of a long list of fashionable subscribers appears this advertisement:—"This book is entered at Stationers' Hall; whoever presumes to print or pirate the same will be punished as the law directs."

That Tate Wilkinson was a man of great experience and distinction in the profession is sufficiently proved by the fact that during his career he had active connection with every principal theatre in the three kingdoms—Drury-lane, Covent-garden, Haymarket, Smock-alley, and Crow-street in Dublin, Bath, Edinburgh, Portsmouth, Winchester, Maidstone, Birmingham, Chester, Bristol, Norwich, York, Shrewsbury, Richmond-on-Thames, Exeter, Glasgow, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Leeds, Lynn, Pontefract, Halifax, Doncaster, Hull, Wakefield, Beverley, and Bradford.

BERLIN, THURSDAY, DEC. 1.—Herr Kadelburg and Dr. Blumenthal, who have been for so many years successful collaborators in the fabrication of farces, appear to have dissolved partnership, each for the last year or two writing strictly on his own account. The most recent effort of Herr Kadelburg was very successful, and will, I should say, enjoy a long spell of popularity. Not that the plot is anything out of the common, in fact, it is hardly worth mentioning; but there are so many amusing little episodes, so much fun generally—of a harmless enough character—that nobody misses or desires a plot. A word as to the signification of the title. There is a custom among widely-spreading branches of German noble families which is to concentrate themselves once or so in a year, and to hold a sort of general meeting—the German, it will be remembered, are a sociable nation, and accept as near relations a fifty-third cousin, under circumstances. This meeting is called the family day (Familientag), and is always held at a first-rate hotel in the metropolis—a banquet leading the way, a discussion of family affairs following. So that when the curtain of Herr Kadelburg's play rises we are not surprised to be introduced to a dozen or so of members of the Von Wollien family gathered together in one of the luxurious rooms of Hotel Bristol. The discussion turns upon the inheritance of the family estates, the rightful heir to which is Baron Egon. Another member, however, puts a spoke in the wheel by declaring that according to written traditions a Wollien can only inherit if he marry a lady of his own noble birth. Now Egon loves a simple "Bürgerliche," merely Hilde Ramberg, a young painter, whom he has not the least intention of giving up. After the difficulties have run through nearly three acts, a learned archæologist of the family, Dr. Wolfgang Von Wollien—who has been a silent witness of everything up till now—suddenly removes them. He has discovered, by dint of much patient research, that some two hundred years ago one Wunibald, of the great Wollien race, had married the daughter of his Hofmeister, a commoner. Thus a precedent is established, and the fatal clause is proved—to Egon's satisfaction—null and void. The other incidents, comical or sentimental, will scarcely bear narrating, but must be seen to be appreciated. The interpretation was capital, Herr Schoenfeld, in the character of Capt. Ludolf Wollien—a good-humoured, honest bon vivant—carrying off the chief laurels. Other parts were admirably sustained by Herren Sachs and Lettinger, Frau Wenck and Fräulein Waldegg. The mounting of all three acts was particularly good. Herr Kadelburg was called and recalled, and most heartily applauded.

Mr BERNARD SHAW'S three-act comedy, Ein Teufelskerl, met with an enthusiast c reception at the Berliner last week. The piece being doubtless known to your readers, a detailing of the amusing plot will be superfluous. Herr Wehrlin gave the title-rôle with a good deal of humour, but I fancy both that part and the part of Judith, the pastor's wife, would have made even a better impression had they been better acted. Herr Pittschau, in the rôle of General Burgoyne—"Johnnie"—was unusually good. The applause was very genuine, and the audience would evidently gladly have seen the author, but Mr Shaw—if present—declined to appear.

The production of Der Roland von Berlin was originally fixed for Dec. 13. Whether a little justifiable superstition has anything to do with the matter I do not know, but the date has been changed to the 12th. Signor Leoncavallo has arrived in Berlin, accompanied by his wife, and will, by the Kaiser's special invitation, conduct the dress rehearsal. It is not probable that the composer will conduct on the evening of the production. Leoncavallo has been playing passages of his work—which he declares is the best he has ever done—to a select circle of friends, and as far as can be judged from a pianoforte performance, there are some very fine numbers. The finale of each act is considered highly dramatic and specially good.

SIGNOR D'ANDRADE'S successful season at the Theatre Des Westens is coming to an end. Don Giovanni still remains the favourite rôle of the Berliners, and it is one in which this famous artist is at his best. Less successful was the rendering of Renato, in Verdi's Maskenball; whether it was that the audience expected too much or that Signor D'Andrade was indisposed, the fact remains that Renato did not "go down" at all. With his capital rendering of Rigoletto, however, D'Andrade regained all his customary hold upon his audience. He sang the part magnificently, and deserved the storms of applause that rewarded his efforts. Good, too, was the support afforded by the Des Westens company, the singing of Fräulein Stoeller as Gilda and Herr Hansen in the part of the Duke being highly commendable.

AT the National Theatre Signora Prevosti is continuing to draw good houses. One of her successes is Fedora—an entirely new departure for this popular artist. On Saturday a gala performance of Der Freyschutz will be given, under distinguished patronage, for the benefit of a local charity.

THE charming fairy-plays so customary here about Christmas time at afternoon performances are beginning at most of our theatres. These are not pantomimes, as we understand the word, but genuine plays, founded upon some well-known legend or fairy tale, usually poetic, and always amusing for children and adults alike, while they never fall into banalities. One of these popular pieces was produced at the Central last week—Daumelinchen, in three acts and six tableaux, by Konstantin Pohl, the kapellmeister, by-the-way, of the Central Theatre. The music is pretty and so are the tableaux, and the piece met with a very warm reception.

OVER the performance of Lohengrin in the Royal Opera House on Monday an evil star appeared to lie. In the first place, a new singer, Frau Grundmann, who was billed for the rôle of Elsa, was prevented at the last moment from appearing. Fräulein Destrim was hurriedly communicated with, and came and sang and conquered. The same thing happened, however, to Herr Grüning—who was indisposed at the eleventh hour—and he was not so successfully replaced as Frau Grundmann. Herr Grüning is our Lohengrin par excellence—excepting, perhaps, Herr Kraus, and there seemed some astonishing lack of good management as regards an understudy. Herr Jörn—who was summoned to take the part for the first time—was entirely unprepared, and had not even been able to have a rehearsal.

HERR WILHELM VON SCHOLZ has completed a drama of which good things are reported. It is entitled Der Jude von Konstanz, and treats of a Jewish doctor of the Middle Ages, who apostatised in order to better his practice. The plot is interesting and well developed; the characters are said to be strongly and convincingly delineated.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.

The King and Queen of Portugal paid their promised gala visit to the Royal Opera on the 25th ult., when, however, it was scarcely so completely a State visit as on some former occasions, although it could not be doubted that their Majesties greatly enjoyed the performance and the hearty reception given by the crowded house. Perhaps, owing to the season, the decorations were less splendid than we have known, garlands of chrysanthemums being the chief ornaments of the Royal box, while elegant programmes, with the Union Jack and the Portuguese flag interwoven, served to show the pleasant relations existing between the two countries. Their Majesties arrived from Buckingham Palace shortly after 8 in time for the rising of the curtain and were received by Mr Neil Forsyth and Mr Henry Russell, the admirable director of the San Carlo Company. These gentlemen conducted their Royal visitors up the private staircase to the Royal box. Amongst the brilliant audience were Consuelo Duchess of Manchester, the Countess of Warwick, the Countess De La Warr, Earl and Countess De Grey, the Countess of Limerick, the Countess of Pembroke, Lord Charles Montague, Lord Westbury, Earl Howe, Lady Lister-Kaye, Lady Tennant, Prince Victor Duleep Singh, Mr Alfred De Rothschild, Mr and Mrs George Cornwallis West, Mrs Farquharson, Mrs Charles Ansell, Mr H. V. Higgins, Mr Arnold Morley, and Captain the Hon. Seymour Fortescue. The third act of Puccini's opera La Bohème came first, with Miss Alice Nielsen as the gentle Mimi, Mdlle. Trentini as the capricious Musetta, Signor Dani representing Rodolfo, and Signor Amato Marcello, Signor Tanara conducting in excellent style. Then followed the second act of La Tosca with that charming vocalist Madame Giachetti as the heroine, Signor Dani as the lover, and Signor Ancona as the fierce Baron Scarpia, Signor Paroli and Signor Volponi assisting, and Signor Campanini conducting. The programme ended with the second act of Verdi's Otello, M. Maurel taking his old character, and Signor Duc representing the Moor. Again Signor Campanini conducted. Our own National Anthem and that of Portugal were included in the programme, and were greeted with the utmost enthusiasm, evidently to the satisfaction of the royal guests, who expressed at the close the pleasure the operatic selections had afforded them, and their appreciation of the arrangements of Covent-garden and the thoughtful consideration of Messrs Rendle and Forsyth and the official staff.

Saturday was devoted to a matinée of Faust, and in the evening, instead of Otello, Rigoletto was performed, it being the last night of the brilliant San Carlo company, which, under the able direction of Mr Henry Russell, has done so much to give interest to the autumn season.

"A KNOTTY QUESTION.

A Farcical Romance, in One Act, by F. C. Thomas.
Produced at the Public Hall, Woking, on Saturday, Nov. 26.

George Washington	Mr GEORGE BEAVAN
Rev. Digby Mouseby	Mr ROBERT LEWIS
Major Wellington, Napoleon, Nelson, Bloodgood	Mr A. C. CHAPMAN
Hezekiah Samson	Mr JAMES LEWIN
Katherine Howard	Miss MARY HENDERSON
Lucretia Wordsworth	Miss VIOLET MORLEY

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The scene of this new one-act play is laid in the vestry of one of the English churches in Cairo, where the nuptials of George Washington, Earl of Southend, and Katharine Howard, an American heiress, are being celebrated. The bride has refused to go any further with the ceremony on the grounds that the bridegroom has deceived her in having kept her in ignorance of the fact that he is an Earl. The officiating minister, the Rev. Digby Mouseby, is a military chaplain in temporary charge. He has given the contracting parties five minutes' grace to make things square. In the meantime he sends Samson, the verger, for the bridegroom. Samson, seeing the bride in conversation with Major Bloodgood, the best man, brings him. The Chaplain, having mislaid his glasses, does not notice Samson's mistake, and puts several pertinent questions to the Major, and some very terse dialogue ensues. On discovering his error, he asks the best man to use his influence with the bride to bring the ceremony to a satisfactory close. The Major, in spite of his names and sponsor's good intentions is, however, far too timid to dictate to an offended female. The Rev. Mouseby, seeing this, requests him to send the bride in. He elicits from her the information that she, together with a number of American heiresses, had bound herself by a solemn oath not to marry a member of the British Peerage, not even in the unlikely event of his having any cash. She furthermore states that she can see no way out of the difficulty, and leaves the vestry. The Chaplain remembers he has a christening in a quarter of an hour, and, on looking in his book, is horrified to find the baby's name Washington, and naturally connects the two names. The situation is no further advanced by an interview with the bridegroom. Miss Wordsworth, the bridesmaid, enters, and introduces some clever comedy by revealing her journalistic propensities on the mention of scandal. She asserts the only way to smooth things out is for the Earl to relinquish all claims to his title, and become plain George Washington. This course is agreed to. The verger here enters and informs the reverend gentleman—who has previously stated he is a bachelor—that the nurse is waiting outside with the baby, and that the mother, Mrs Dan Washington, the coloured lady, is following in a carriage. A coloured nurse with baby enters, and the curtain descends as the wedding party go off, the bride declaring that if the knot is to be tied, she guesses some one else will tie it.

MR. TREE'S REPERTOIRE COMPANY.

Mr Tree's Shakespearian répertoire company were most enthusiastically received last week in Hull at the Theatre Royal. For the Monday opening performance nearly every seat was booked for that evening, when The Merry Wives of Windsor was given, and the business grew night by night, until several extra rows of stalls were added. The Saturday matinée of The Merry Wives of Windsor drew more money than any other matinée since Mr Morton has been in possession of the Theatre Royal, Miss Ellen Terry previously holding the record. On the Saturday night, Mr Haviland, in addressing the audience, said:—"Ladies and gentlemen,—I will only keep you a moment or two. Before I go I should like to accord to you my most sincere and hearty thanks on behalf of our dear chief, Mr Beerbohm Tree, for the cordial and hearty welcome we have received. We came to you as strangers—at least many of us did. I myself have had the pleasure of appearing before you on a previous occasion—but some of us have come amongst you as strangers. But in this all too short time I feel we have made many friends. A little thing has just been told me to-day that a dear lady who has found a warm corner in your hearts by her talent and by her beauty made her first appearance on this stage at the age of six. I refer to Miss Constance Collier. Her visit, therefore, has been a doubly enjoyable one. I am happy to tell you this is not farewell, but only au revoir.

"Encouraged by the support—the fine support—you have given us, Mr Morton, with his usual enterprise, has induced Mr Tree to book his splendid production of The Tempest, which I shall have the pleasure of presenting to you in the early spring.

"I assure you we had great pleasure in coming here, and I hope our visit may be but the forerunner of many, many happy meetings. I can only say I wish, before we meet again, you may have a happy Christmas, full of love and good fellowship, and a very prosperous New Year."

The late F. A. Marshall, a critic of the last generation, thus wrote of The Taming of the Shrew: "I cannot see why this play should be called an outrageous farce. Surely it is quite as worthy of the name of comedy as many plays so called Is The Merry Wives of Windsor to be stigmatised as a farce because it is full of practical jokes? If Tobin's Honeymoon be dignified with the title of a comedy, surely a play which is on the same subject, and is much more cleverly treated, should not be so sneeringly spoken of." We quite agree with the late Mr Marshall's observations. It is a common error to "sniff" at all physical fun and frolic on the stage as if they were always mere appeals to the childish love of noise and disturbance. The really essential point is not the extravagance of the action, but the appropriateness of that extravagance to the situation. The whole humour of The Taming of the Shrew is summed up in the enquiry which Don Annibal, in L'Aventurière, makes of Donna Clotilde when she sneers at the supremacy of man. He asks her if she has ever had a beating. Petruchio is a practical humorist. He does not attempt to argue with Katharina; he simply subdues her by reverting to primitive conditions. He becomes the "cave-man," bearing off his wife by force. He takes full advantage of the masculine strong points; he is not such a fool as to meet her on the feminine ones. He has a louder voice, and he uses it; he has a stronger will, and he uses it; he has the power of keeping food from her, and he uses this, too. Above all, he has brains and a sense of humour; which she has not. Such a comedy appeals to a modern audience just as powerfully as it did three hundred years ago. It was really delightful at the Adelphi on Tuesday evening to notice how the instinct of the assembly over-rode all modern theories, and to hear the sounds of hearty laughter and applause which greeted the revival.

The acting was remarkable for its finish, its vigour, and its distinction. Miss Lily Brayton astonished everyone by the fire and intensity of her acting as Katherina. On her first entrance—in hunting costume, leading two greyhounds—she made a striking picture, and one not easily forgotten. Throughout, her depiction of rebellious anger was superb, and in the concluding scenes, in which Katherina's regeneration is displayed, Miss Brayton acted with a sweetness and an expressiveness which were completely charming. Katharina's retorts were delivered with a fiery energy which was extremely telling, and the character of the irritable, combative, and turbulent girl was delineated with remarkable skill and ability. Mr Oscar Asche's Petruchio was an original and well-considered reading of the role. The physical predominance which is a necessity to its representative Mr Asche possesses plentifully, and he did full justice to Shakespeare's lines by his clear, appreciative, and judicious delivery. The humour of the character was well developed, and, in his virile vigour and exuberant strength, Mr Asche was entirely excellent. His Christopher Sly was a comedy performance of grotesque drollery, and was distinguished by the artistic use which Mr Asche made of his very moderate materials. Miss Pamela Gaythorne, who looked particularly sweet and pretty in her becoming costumes, played Bianca with winning tact and exquisite delicacy. Conspicuous for its quaint humour was the Grumio of Mr Charles Rock; and the other parts were played with admirable care and intelligence. Mr Alfred Brydone gave Baptista just the necessary dignity and courteous confidence; Mr Roper Spyers was efficient as Vincentio; and Mr Walter Hampden was a very romantic and picturesque Lucentio. Mr Herbert Grimwood gave a distinct and sharply defined embodiment of Gremio; and Mr H. R. Hignett was satisfactory as Hortensio. Mr Charles Angelo as the disguised Tranio bore himself with all the necessary distinction and refinement, and Mr E. Lyall Swete's delivery of Biondello's description of Petruchio's appearance and equipment was very effective. Miss Constance Robertson being commendable as Curtis. Mr Henry Kitts supplied a rich and unctuous representation of the Pedant; and Mr Ashton Pearce and Mr R F. Anson were good as the Steward and the Tailor respectively. Miss Mabel Adair taking full advantage of her short appearance as the Widow.

The mounting was a thing for which the playgoing public should be warmly grateful to Mr Otho Stuart, and his scenic artists, Mr Joseph Harker and Mr W. T. Hemsley. Only a detailed description could do justice to the lovely stage pictures and the many "little touches" and neat interpolations which showed with what thoughtful solicitude the piece had been "produced" by Mr Asche. Karl's designs for the dresses were both correct and clever, and the sets showed most judicious selection from authorities and a delicate feeling for appropriateness and suitability. In the last act some old English songs and choruses were lustily sung, and the arrangement of the text was practical and ingenious. The revival of The Taming of the Shrew was received—as it deserved to be—with very demonstrative enthusiasm.

THE ROYALTY.

On Monday, Nov. 28,
Revival of Sir John Vanbrugh's Comedy,
"THE CONFEDERACY."

Gripe	Mr WILLIAM H. KEMBLE
Moneytrap	Mr A. E. DRINKWATER
Dick	Mr FRANK LASCELLES
Brass	Mr DENNIS W. CLEUGH
Clip	Mr E. C. BUFFUM
Constable	Mr J. A. GRANT
Jessamin	Mr RICHARD NEVILLE
Clarissa	Miss ADA POTTER
Araminta	Miss PEARLA GARDNER
Corinna	Miss MAY MARTIN
Flippanta	Miss DORA HOLE
Mrs Cloggitt	Miss META PELHAM
Mrs Amlet	Mrs THEODORE WRIGHT

Sir John Vanbrugh's translation of D'Ancourt's Bourgeoises à la Mode was first performed at the Haymarket in 1705 with Mrs Bracegirdle as Flippanta. It was hardly kind to the manes of the deceased author for the Mermaid Society to put his piece on the stage of the Royalty Theatre on Monday evening. The piece is one of those whose merits have been taken for granted for years. Hazlitt, with a naïveté which an acquaintance with modern French dramatic construction would have dispelled, called The Confederacy "a comedy of infinite contrivance and intrigue." To us it appears as a very simple theatrical "machine," the "pivot" being an unsavoury Gallic motive, rendered more repulsive by characteristically "heavy" British treatment. The whole tone of the piece is not so much immoral as filthily sordid. The "notion" of two dingy old money-lenders, each of whom is in love with the wife of the other, and that of an ingénue with amorous instincts, who is courted for her cash by a card-sharper whose mother is something between a usurer and a purveyor of cosmetics, are not developed in The Confederacy with the refinement which, Burke opined, removed half the objection to vice. That Vanbrugh should have what is called a "classical" reputation chiefly on the strength of this translation shows the essential excellence of the French original, which not even the clumsy hand of the architect-adaptor could spoil. The piece owes its long life to the briskness and vivacity of its movement, which has been sufficient to ensure its revival, at intervals, from the date of its production until 1825, when it was performed at Drury-lane Theatre.

The performance at the Royalty on Monday evening was respectable on the whole, but uneven, and would have been improved by a few more rehearsals, several of the artists being by no means letter-perfect. Mrs Theodore Wright played Mrs Amlet with expression and energy, but was hardly sufficiently canaille for the character. Mr William H. Kemble gave a full-blooded embodiment of Gripe, making the scrivener a very loud and violent personage; and Mr A. E. Drinkwater supplied a well-contrasted picture of the other husband, Moneytrap, making him a dingy and diffident personage. Miss Ada Potter played Clarissa creditably, maintaining throughout an effective air of elegance; and Miss Pearla Gardner was an agreeable and acceptable Araminta. The hit of the evening, was, however, made by Miss May Martyn, whose complete unconsciousness, and keen appreciation of the points of the part of Corinna, coupled with a suitable appearance, a pleasing voice and style, and a distinct delivery, made her performance quite delightful. Mr Frank Lascelles gave an excellent embodiment of Dick, sound in conception, quick and vigorous in execution, and adorned with all the necessary veneer; and Miss Dora Hole was a bright and piquant Flippanta. The minor characters were carefully sustained, and the piece was dressed with taste, care, and sufficient liberality. The production was of interest as showing on what small foundations the fame of Vanbrugh and The Confederacy has been based.

THE GRAND.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Drama, in Four Acts,
by Walter Melville, entitled
"HER SECOND TIME ON EARTH."

Mr Walter Melville's company is paying Islington a third visit in this highly successful melodrama. Miss Hilda Beverley, who has been associated with the drama since its production, still plays with the same amount of power her original character—Dora Grey. Indeed, the interest of the play is mainly centred in this part. Miss Beverley succeeds admirably in holding the attention of the audience with a never-failing grasp. Miss Elaine Vanburgh as Laura Norman plays with discrimination; and Miss Nana Flensburg as Kitty Rosebud causes much amusement. One of the great successes of the evening is made by Miss Pollie Marsh as Elizabeth Burke, a repulsive study of feminine degradation which is very finely portrayed. Mr Charles Franmore submits a capital study of the ill-fated Captain Norman; Mr Cecil A. Melton as Jack Carlton plays with ease and dignity; Mr Fred Ingram as Teddy Butterfly exercises his humorous capabilities with happy results; Mr Angus Mervyn as Father Gumprill is good in a dialect rôle; Mr Charles Girdlestone as Guy Brand plays that part without sparing himself, and gains the usual reception. Quite the most artistic performance of the evening was given by Mr Wilton J. Selby as Beppo, an admirable character study. Mr St. John Stuart as Tom Norman was acceptable. The play was mounted with Mr Melville's customary lavishness.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Comic Opera, by Henry Hamilton and Ivan Caryll, entitled
"THE DUCHESS OF DANTZIC."

An enthusiastic audience welcomed the first appearance at the Pavilion on Monday of Mr George Dance's company in the attractive comic opera, The Duchess of Dantzic. The bright music was faultlessly rendered and encores were frequent, the principal numbers being received with delight. The excellent chorus deserves much credit for its spirited work. An admirable exposition of the title-rôle is given by Miss Rita Presano, who sings well, and is seen to considerable advantage in the many dramatic scenes. An impressive rendering of Napoleon, showing masterful force and determination, is given by Mr Frederick Moyes, and Mr Thos. C Maxwell sings delightfully and plays in a manly fashion as Vicomte De Bethune. Miss Alice Coverick captivates as the winsome Renée, singing "Le Petit Caporal" effectively, and a capital portrayal of Caroline Murat is presented by Miss Edith Carlyle. Mr Albert Chapman was excellent as François, his melodious vocalisation being most telling and evoking hearty recognition; Mr Colin Mackay was quaintly humorous as the vivacious Papillon, his singing being particularly enjoyable; Miss Mabel Bailey was fully competent as the Empress Josephine; and Miss May Harris capably enacted Pauline. Miss Amy Burton made a charming Lisette, richly meriting the appreciation she elicited; Miss Valerie Christie was successful as Adhemar; and Mr Ralph Forster scored as Captain Reignier. Commendable work was done by Miss Grace Holmes as Madame De Chatel, Miss Olive Noble as Mdlle. De Legrange, Mr Fred Meyers as M. D'Alegre, and Mr Leslie Owen as M. De Montmorenci. The scenery is unusually good, and the opera is picturesquely dressed and mounted in elaborate style, every attention being given to completeness of detail. The augmented orchestra is under the capable bâton of Mr B. J. Patterson, and Mr Colin Mackay is the excellent stage-manager. The business-manager for Mr George Dance is the obliging and courteous Mr Kay Draco.

EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov. 28,
the Play, in Four Acts, by Thomas Raceward, entitled
"SUNDAY."

This successful play is being performed here by Messrs Louis Calvert and Herbert Ross's company. Miss Marie Polini, a pretty and fascinating young lady, is an able and clever exponent of the title-rôle so well played by Miss Julia Neilson in the original production. Mr W. Edwyn Holloway and Mr John Holloway as the Colonel and Arthur Brinthorpe played with ability, their acting appealing strongly to the audience. Mr Arthur Willoughby was a good Tom Oxley, and Messrs Henry Stephenson, David Curtis, and Alfred Phillips as Towser, Davey, and Lively, the "Boys," were all that could be desired. Mr Arthur Somers as Jacky fully sustained the interest of an important character in the story. Miss Dorothy Gordon made the most of her small part of the Nun, and Miss Maude Henderson as Mrs Naresby was well fitted.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, Nov. 28,
"MRS DERING'S DIVORCE."

Mrs Langtry and her London company are appearing this week at the Coronet in Percy Fendall's amusing play, Mrs Dering's Divorce, recently introduced to the play-going public at the Camden. We may dub it a drawing-room farce, though it has excellent comedy. Mrs Langtry seems to rather take her tone from the piece. Still, she is charmingly natural and amusing in her clever silhouette of this wayward, erratic, extravagant, jealous, quick-tempered wife wedded to an equally extravagant husband, who possesses all the small vices and plaguy few virtues, but has the saving grace of invariable politeness and gentility allied to bonhomie and good temper. This husband, viz., Captain Dering, is portrayed with consummate ease, naturalness, and polish by Mr Paul Arthur, who at times reminds one irresistibly of Sir Charles Wyndham in his earlier days of rollicking farce. He is always well in the picture, and acts with distinction and eminence without being unduly obtrusive. Miss Leila Repton gives a very pleasing and attractive sketch of character as the complacent Mrs Haydon, and Miss Lilian Revell does not spare herself in her ludicrous assumption of character as that "wild impulsive child of nature," Susannah Verner, roars of laughter greeting her advent in the approved garb of the "new woman" before she literally as well as metaphorically dons the "breeks." Mr Ernest Stern throws himself thoroughly into the part of the invertebrate idiot and darling of society, Jimmy Foster, and Mr Courtenay Thorpe contributes an amusing portraiture of the senile Don Juan, Lord Granpier. Mr Ivan Berlyn deserves favourable mention for his neat and telling performance of the very discreet manservant Parker. Miss Helen Palgrave is appropriately formidable and starchy as Lady Granpier, and small parts are satisfactory rendered by Misses Di Forbes, Bessie Harrison, Davis, and Messrs Harold Carfax, Harold Brooke, and Norman Wrighton. The scene of Mrs Dering's drawing-room in Mayfair is very pretty and artistic. The pièce de résistance is preceded by Henry Byatt's one-act play The Brothers. As the unfaithful brother William Mr Harold Brooke looks appropriately crestfallen, and Mr Courtenay Thorpe puts some spirit into the part of his wronged younger brother Dick, while the part of Kitty is sustained by Miss Revill or Miss Davis.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, Nov. 28,
"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Miss Ellen Terry is always sure of a warm welcome whenever she pays a visit to this theatre, and on Monday evening a large audience was present when The Merchant of Venice was played. Miss Terry was accorded a warm reception, and her fine playing of Portia gave unbounded pleasure, and charmed everybody by her delightful portrayal of the character. Shylock is entrusted to Mr Alfred Bucklaw, and he makes every use of his opportunities, giving a fine rendering of the part. Mr Bucklaw has a good grip of the character, and it is evident that he has given much thought to it, and it is really a notable piece of acting. Mr Charles Thursby is seen to advantage as Antonio, and Mr Matheson Lang is exceedingly good as Bassanio. Mr George Fitzgerald gives a dignified rendering of the Prince of Morocco. Mr T. A Shannon makes a capital Lorenzo. Mr Harcourt Williams plays the part of Gratiano in a breezy manner. The Duke of Venice is well handled by Mr T. S. Hamilton. Lancelot Gobbo has a clever exponent in Mr John Willes, while Mr Leonard Craske is good as Old Gobbo. Miss Hutin Britton makes a pretty Jessica; and Miss Audrey Campbell is acceptable as Nerissa. The play was preceded by Mr Christopher St. John's new play, Eriksson's Wife, which was produced at the Royalty Theatre a short while back. It is a dramatic and well-written play. Mr E. Harcourt Williams scored a big success as Erik, and Miss Ellen Terry undertakes the rôle of Brita, which she plays with feeling and tenderness. Both plays are staged in an artistic manner, and the costumes are exceedingly pretty. During the week Much Ado About Nothing, Nance Oldfield, and The Good Hope have also been staged.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Military Drama, in Four Acts, by the late Charles Rogers, entitled
"THE LADDER OF LIFE."

Quite a meritorious performance of that well-known drama The Ladder of Life was vouchsafed to the West Londoners this week by Miss Renee Glendower's capable company. The excellent elocution of Mr Tyrone Power was heard to great advantage in the part of General Gordon, which he acted in good style; and Mr F. Morton Wright, in addition to his duties as stage-manager, gave a clear and bright performance as Sergeant Donald M'Dougal. Mr Roy F. Gascoigne was suitably cast as Colonel M'Gregor; Mr Alexander M'Nicol certainly deserves favourable mention for his Breezy Bill; and Mr Roy Milton as Lieut. David Gordon acted with plenty of go and spirit. As the Russian spy, Ivan Kirkovitch, Mr J. Cooke Hinton was most persevering, giving a sound performance, and playing up in good style to the rascally Fergus Gordon, a part handled with much skill by Mr C. H. Matthews. Miss Stephanie Baring sustained the rôle of Olga Sobinsky with conspicuous ability, whilst Miss Flora Leslie's playing as Meg Merrilees was marked by that ease and grace which always distinguish the acting of a part that has been carefully studied. Miss Renee Glendower, capitally made up, portrayed Mother Flint, the baby-farmer, with life-like fidelity; Miss Hilda Young was a sprightly Mary Jane Jolliboy; and Little Winnie De Lacy cut a pathetic figure as the poor boy, Gordon, speaking her lines in a pleasing and taking way. Those clever acrobats, the Feros, supplied the principal sensation in the piece when forming their famous human ladder feat in the third act; and the bagpipe playing of Pipers Findlater and M'Pherson also calls for notice. The tour is under the direction of Mr C. Finch Hatton, the business-manager being Mr C. H. Matthews.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, Nov. 28 the Musical Play, in Two Acts, by Seymour Hicks and Ivan Caryll, entitled
"THE CHERRY GIRL."

The Cherry Girl, an entertainment that enjoyed no small measure of popularity at the Vaudeville Theatre in the earlier months of the present year, with Mr Seymour Hicks and Miss Ellaline Terriss in the cast, is this week presented at Mr F. W. Purcell's Stoke Newington house by Mr C. Lubbock, by special arrangement with Messrs Gatti and Frohman. Mr H. Herbert, who appears as Moonshine in the first act, and Happy Joe, a knight of the road, in the second, is a comedian who works hard every minute he is on the stage, and his share in the success of the production is a very considerable one. Miss Elsie Molloy appears as the Queen, and proves herself an adept dancer. The singing of Mr Lawrence Wensley is an agreeable feature of the entertainment, and a couple of boys' parts are smartly and cleverly played by Masters Harry Williams and Sidney Grata. Messrs Charles Seymour and C. A. James contribute some amusing business of the Tweedledum and Tweedledee type, and the dancing of Miss Dorothy Frostick proves no less popular in the North of London than it did in the West. The Steinway Quartet (Messrs A. Prendergast, Percy Oakley, Sidney M'Alpine, and Robert H. Howard) contribute some admirable part-singing, and the chorus go through their work efficiently and well under the guidance of Mr Clement Locknane, the musical director.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

"THE CINGALEE."

The Cingalee, one of the daintiest and most graceful of all the musical pieces now on "the road," was presented here to a bumper house on Monday. Containing as it does a rippling stream of clear, unadulterated merriment throughout, it is calculated to afford the most genuine delight to all lovers of this class of play. As usual, Mr Edwardes has sent out a company of great efficiency to interpret The Cingalee, his name giving a kind of "hall mark" to all his undertakings. The mounting and staging of the piece is gorgeous; the dresses, although there is little scope for anything very elaborate, are still beautiful; but with all that taken into consideration, much depends on the interpretation given by the artists, and in this respect we have nothing but praise for Mr Edwardes's company, and to Mr Purcell, who has given his patrons such a rich treat this week by this important and expensive engagement. Mr Harold Thorley plays with fine effect the part of Harry Vereker, rendering two musical numbers in fine style, "The Pearl of Sweet Ceylon" and "My Dear Little Cingalee." Mr Leedham Bantock gives a successful and clever portrayal of Boobhamba, à la Rutland Barrington, and creates quite a furore with his song, "Nothing much more to say." As the peppery Sir Peter Loftus Mr W. J. Manning submits an excellent character sketch; and as Myamgah Mr Willie Warde, jun., scores a success. As Bobby Warren Mr Jack Cannot combines first-class vocalism with good acting; and Messrs Edgar Warde, F. Pope Stamper, Robert Eyett, Charles Hampden, E. W. Martin, and E. Furneaux all deserve mention for the earnest manner in which they play minor parts. By his smart and amusing ways Mr Frank Danby keeps his audience in roars of laughter, and a great amount of the success of the piece is due to his untiring efforts as Chambhuddy Ram. He is also successful with his songs, "The Wonderful English Pot" and "Something Devilish Wrong," and contributes some smart dancing. Miss Hannah Hickisch plays in a modest and charming way the rôle of Lady Patricia Vane, while her sweet vocalisation wins for her much favour, her greatest success being "My heart's at your feet," which she renders to the intense satisfaction of the house, and is enthusiastically encored. Miss Eva Sandford as Peggy Sabine plays with much vivacity, and is much appreciated. She affords justice to the musical numbers associated with the part, especially in the duet "Monkeys," which she sings in conjunction with Mr Frank Danby. The Misses Claire Marsden, Claire Pridelle, Maudie Davis, and Doris Lester deserve special mention for their attractive work as the tea-girls, Maltooma, Sattambia, Mychello, and Coorcowie. Miss Dora Glenny (Miss Pinkerton), Miss Mabel Hurst (Fraulein Weiner), Miss Florence Oppitz (Mademoiselle Chic), Miss May Gould (Signorina Tasso), and Miss Rhoda Gordon (Angy) all deserve unstinted praise. Miss Kathleen Severn as Nanoya sings and acts in a natural and effective manner. Her songs are artistically and sweetly rendered, especially "My Cinnamon Tree," which is very well received. Graceful dances are introduced by the Rubies, as devil dancers, who prove by their execution they are talented exponents of the terpsichorean art. The chorus does its work in a highly capable manner, and the Marlborough orchestra, specially augmented for this production, and lead by Mr Harold Vicars, do exceptionally good work. The comfort of those in front is, as usual, in the experienced hands of Mr F. R. Yeulett.

THE KING'S, HAMMERSMITH.

"A CHINESE HONEYMOON."

A Chinese Honeymoon is a thoroughly bright and amusing production, and patrons of the King's have, as usual, appreciated to the full the excellent acting, admirable singing, and general atmosphere of bustle which pervades the piece. With one or two changes the cast of former visits remains the same. Mr Martin Adeson gives an enjoyable representation of Mr Pineapple. The Emperor Hang-Chow of Mr Philip Hayden deserves warm praise, his singing and acting being of valuable assistance. Mr Ernest Laws as the grim Chippie Chop is highly diverting, and Mr Fred Payne's Hi-Lung is extremely comical. Tom Hatherton is pleasantly rendered by Mr Frank Crimp. The Fi-Fi of Miss Vera Vere is amusing and bright. Miss Madge Temple as the Emperor's niece, Soo-Soo, scores by reason of her exceedingly well-trained voice and fascinating bearing. Mrs Pineapple lends Miss Eva Bevington opportunities to shine of which she takes full advantage, the result being that she meets with the greatest success. Miss Holford Beringer supplies a very ripe impersonation of the official mother-in-law, Mrs Brown, which meets with popular approval. The general bearing of the chorus is worthy of all praise, and the orchestra, under Mr A. Romilli's guidance, is of adequate support.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Musical Comedy, by Basil Hood and Walter Slaughter, entitled
"GENTLEMAN JOE."

This week we have Milton Bode's company in Basil Hood and Walter Slaughter's well-known musical comedy Gentleman Joe. It is played by an excellent company of artistes. The name-part is undertaken by Mr Kennedy Allen, who gets as much fun out of the character as is possible, and when Miss Maud Marriott as Emma is with him the audience roars with laughter. Mr Robert Vincent as the impecunious Lord Donnybrook sings and acts very well, and with Miss Mabel Kerridge as the Hon. Mabel Cavanagh receives encores for two well-rendered duets. Mrs Ralli-Carr has an attractive representative in Miss Hebe Bliss, who plays the part to perfection. Miss Eida Burman as Miss Lalage Potts makes a smart American girl, and is a great success. Mr G. Wylie and Mr W. H. Moore as Mr Hughie Jacqueson and Mr Ralli-Carr do well in their respective characters; the parts of the Misses Pilkington Jones are undertaken by Miss Enid Russell, Miss M Linscott, and Miss Marie Hayden; Mr Pilkington Jones is brought out very prominently by Mr J. W. Hooper, who receives an encore for his song, "Something else;" the Uncle Bones and Uncle Ned of the Margate minstrels are well played by Mr J. Gardner and Mr William Peters; and among others of the company who stand out we may mention Miss Edith Benson as William, the page boy, who is in love with Emma, The Edingale Trio of lady dancers receive a well-deserved encore for their special dances in act two. The tuneful and pretty chorus and orchestra are under the able direction of Mr Harry Richardson. The dresses and scenery are most effective.

SHAKESPEARE, CLAPHAM-JUNCTION.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Comedy, by Brandon Thomas, entitled
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

This never-failing attraction has been fulfilling its mirth-provoking mission at this commodious theatre during the past week, giving emphatic proof by its cordial reception nightly that its drawing powers do not diminish with time, or that familiarity with its situations detracts from the enthusiastic applause with which the efforts of the author's excellent company are greeted. Mr Stan Cooke gave a most delightful and finished performance in the name part, and while he was on the stage the laughter and applause were incessant. His success infested the rest of the company, and the whole performance went with a snap from start to finish. Mr Walter Beaumont's subtle humour as the sleek and domineering Stephen Spettigue was highly effective; Mr Lumsden Hare made a dashing and handsome Sir Frances Chesney; Mr C. B. Keston as Jack and Mr R. B. Mason as Charley, the two college chums, played well. The Brassett of Mr Sydney Comptom was the imperturbable college gyp to the life. Miss Lena Macnaughten was a handsome and distinguished Donna Lucia from Brazil, and Miss Dorrie Roberts as her adopted daughter was satisfactory. Miss Geraldine Greville as Amy Spettigue played the part in a charming and graceful manner, the way she drew out the proposal of marriage from the bashful Jack in act two being excellently managed. Miss Iris Banfield was a piquant and ladylike Kitty Verdun. The dresses of the ladies were pretty and the scenery effective. The comedy was preceded by a curtain-raiser by the same author, entitled Fourchette and Company, in which, in addition to Mr Lumsden Hare as Sergeant Robert Fletcher, Miss Ruth Suffield as the English wife of Prince Del Crillo, an Italian excellently played by Mr Henry Adnes, appeared.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH-END.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Musical Comedy, in Two Acts,
"THE BELLE OF NEW YORK."

On Monday Mr Ben Greet's company, under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard, in The Belle of New York, held the stage. An excellent reception was accorded this well-selected company. The mounting and stage appointments were all that could be desired, and the new musical numbers added to the attraction of a piece the popularity of which shows no signs of being on the wane. The augmented orchestra and full chorus did ample justice to the production. Ichabod Bronson was safely entrusted to Mr Arthur Ricketts, who, although labouring under a severe cold, did full justice to the part. A highly enjoyable embodiment was that of Harry Bronson by Mr Walter Wardroper; Mr Walter Emro played in most amusing style the part of the polite lunatic, Karl Von Pumpernick; Mr Guy Ford did full justice to the part of Doc Snifkins; as Blinkey Bill Mr Mack Olive was conspicuously successful with his whistling, being ably assisted by Miss Florence Hersee, who as Mamie did much to aid the vivacity and drollery of the performance. Mr Walter Uridge gave a characteristic portrayal of Kenneth Mug; Messrs Lionel Yeoman and R. L. Cody were above the average as the Counts; and Miss Mora Hersee deserves favourable mention as Violet Gray. Miss Helen Rose presented a well-studied portraiture of Fifi Fricot, and Miss Ida Grandison was convincing as Cora Angelique.

GREENWICH THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Drama entitled
"THE FATAL WEDDING."

A warm welcome was accorded on Monday to Mr Bert Coote's company in The Fatal Wedding. The play is well acted throughout. Mr Ernest Owtrim's Howard Wilson is exceedingly good; Mr Oliver Rogers is excellent as Robert Curtis; Mr W. R. Cherod causes much laughter as Toto; Mr John Wheatman is a clever Peter Schwartz; Mr Jack Waring is amusing as Police-constable O'Reilly; and Mr J. Graham scores as the Rev. Dr. Lanceford. Miss Helen Russell's impersonation of Mabel Wilson is pleasing and earnest; Miss Dora Gilham plays Cora cleverly; Miss Maud Looker as Bridget is well placed; Miss Marjorie Lawrence is a delightful Little Mother, and she is ably assisted by Master Gilbert Royce, Miss Gladys Payne, Miss Mary Thompson, Miss E. Abbott, and numerous other clever little people.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Light Opera, entitled
"THE DUCHESS OF DANTZIC."

Mr Fred Fredericks is to be congratulated upon booking such an important attraction as Mr George Edwardes's original company in The Duchess of Dantzic—with all the dresses, scenery, and appurtenances from the Lyric Theatre—for the Stratford Borough Theatre this week, and, judging by the crowded audiences nightly, the pecuniary results of the visit should be extremely gratifying to all concerned. Miss Evie Greene is a prime favourite in the name-part; her songs are received with enthusiasm, and her artistic embodiment of the washerwoman Duchess delights one and all. Mr Holbrook Blinn makes up wonderfully well as Napoleon, and sustains the part in very impressive and convincing manner. Mr Herbert Clayton sings and acts with telling effect as Lefebvre, and Mr Leonard Mackay makes a handsome and dashing Adhemar. The rôle of Papillon suits Mr Courtice Pounds exactly, and he scores an emphatic success. Miss Billie Burke is dainty and vivacious as Renée De Saint Mezard, and Miss M. Sackville charmingly delineates Lisette. Miss Mabel Lorrell makes a stately and dignified Empress Josephine, and Napoleon's sisters are portrayed with distinction by Miss Elizabeth Firth and Miss Doris La Tour. Other parts are all capitally played. The large chorus renders the concerted numbers with admirable precision, and the augmented orchestra is skilfully directed by Mr P. W. Halten.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Drama, in Four Acts,
by Lingford Carson, entitled
"THE HEART OF A HERO."

To popular audiences who like their dramatic fare served "hot and strong," and are not too insistent on the score of probability, The Heart of a Hero should undoubtedly appeal; for though it is not easy at times to follow the somewhat crudely constructed plot, there is subject matter to provide innumerable "thrills," and there is an abundance of rather boisterous comedy business. The piece is mounted and dressed appropriately, and Messrs Carson and Granville have selected a well-balanced cast. Mr Fred W. Goddard plays with much earnestness and excellent declamatory power as the Lancashire lad Jem Resdale; and Mr Charles E. Johnson easily succeeds in making the villainous Wilfred Marl exceedingly obnoxious. Mr Harry Dunning plays Jack Collinson spiritedly; and Mr Eric Forth submits a convincing portraiture of the detective Pritchard. Mr J. Harold is an admirable Chief of Police; and Mr Harry Scratchard in the much overdrawn character of a persecuted miser plays with intensity and vehemence. Mr A. B. Mackay fulfills all requirements as Mark Marl, and Mr A. Evans does well as an Inspector of Police. Miss Cissy St. Elmo plays Nell Resdale with power, finesse, and sympathy; Miss Lilly Langley charmingly acts May Ryder, and Miss Beatrice Watson successfully undertakes the dual rôle of Mrs Barker and Mrs Ryder. Mr Allen Carruthers as the rollicking, free-and-easy Timothy Heighno plays the part on broad comedy lines, never failing to elicit mirth, and is ably assisted in the laughter-making by Miss Ida Mackay, very bright and pleasing as Susie Slack. Minor parts are creditably filled.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Romantic Play, in Four Acts, entitled
"MISS ELIZABETH'S PRISONER."

The regular visitors to Mr Sounes's comfortable and commodious theatre certainly cannot complain of any lack of variety in the nature of the entertainments provided for them, for every care is taken that they shall be treated to all kinds of dramatic fare in turn. The attraction this week is Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner, excellently interpreted by Mrs Lewis Waller's company. Mr Thomas Kingston gave a sterling impersonation of Captain Harry Peyton, his fine presence and resonant voice making him the beau ideal of a dashing, captivating military officer. As Elizabeth Miss Eily Malyon acquitted herself well. Miss Alys Rees was excellent as Mistress Sarah Williams, giving a natural and very happily conceived performance. Mr Elliott Ball was well suited to the rôle of Mr John Colden, which he portrayed with much insight. As Mr Valentine Mr George Mallett gave a clever character sketch, and was very amusing. The smaller parts were capably handled, and the play was well mounted and staged.

PRINCE OF WALES'S, RICHMOND.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Comic Opera, entitled
"LA POUPÉE."

Mr C. P. Levilly's original company is presenting the ever-popular comic opera La Poupée here this week, and it must be admitted that time seems rather to increase than diminish its attractions. Mr Eric Thorne as Hilarius, the great mechanical inventor, is a tower of strength and creates unending amusement throughout what is for him a long evening's hard work. Mr Thorne's a versatile comedian, and earns his applause and makes his points in the most legitimate manner, and he never descends to buffoonery. The other star of the company is Miss Stella Gastelle, who plays the part of Alesia admirably. Her imitation of the clockwork movements of the doll she is supposed to represent are most natural and convincing, and she sings and acts in a manner entirely bewitching. The Father Maxime of Mr Newton Ide is effective, and he sings his "Monk" songs in effective style. Mr Arthur Dennis and Mr Fred Seymour are equally good as Loremois and Baron Chanterelle respectively. The Lancelot is Mr Gerald Clifford, who possesses a light tenor and uses it effectively, and who is also a character actor of ability. Miss Madge Avery makes an imposing Madame Hilarius, and Miss Kitty Cavendish a chic Henri. Miss May Bradbury is pretty and bright as Guduline, Alesia's friend. The chorus work well and sing excellently, and the scenery and dresses are on a lavish scale. Mr Harry Rushworth ably conducted the orchestra.

TREE ON "HAMLET."

Mr Beerbohm Tree delivered a lecture on Monday evening in the dome of His Majesty's Theatre, to the students of the Academy of Dramatic Art, on "Hamlet from the Actor's Point of View." There was a large attendance, including Sir Squire Bancroft.

Mr Tree said the question whether Hamlet was mad or feigned madness had vexed the minds and spoiled the tempers of countless writers. They did not understand that a man might have many facets—be everything by turns and everything sincerely. Hamlet was a young prince of lofty ideals, whose natural refinement had been cultivated by education, and he sickened when he found the nuptials of his mother being riotously celebrated by the rabble. On hearing of his father's fate Hamlet was all on fire with the passion of revenge; but the fire was too fierce and burned itself out, physical exhaustion making it impossible for him to execute his design. He called for his tablets—turning from the sword to the pen, for he was essentially a literary man, one of that race who could make copy out of their own emotions for their own edification. He afterwards intimated his intention of putting on an "antic disposition" in order to play the detective, and in the second act we found his busy with this scheme. If Shakespeare had intended to represent Hamlet as being really mad, it would surely have occurred to him, being so good a dramatist, to have written a mad death scene. Hamlet only put on his "antic disposition" with those he did not trust or had an interest in hoodwinking. Mr Tree pursued his study of Hamlet's conduct in detail to the end of the play, endeavouring to explain seeming inconsistencies of character and dwelling on the means which the actor might take to throw a clear light on Hamlet's motives and actions. The keynote of Hamlet's character, he contended, was to be found in his exclamation, "There's nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so." It was a saying which gave us the clue to the failure of many a potentially great man. The man who succeeded most in life was he who saw only one side of a matter. Incidentally Mr Tree expressed the opinion that the "business" which actors had arranged at various times ought to be recorded and preserved for the use of future generations. He had tried to do something in this direction, and he would like, if it were possible, to issue an "Actors' Shakespeare," in which all these traditions should find a place. The actor only acted for his own generation, and what he did was too often forgotten.

At the conclusion of his lecture Mr TREE said, in regard to future arrangements:—First of all, I have the pleasure to say that the lecturer's chair next Monday will be taken by Mr H. B. Irving, who will deliver an address on "The Actors' Calling." Mr Irving has, from the first, taken a deep interest in the welfare of this undertaking. I now wish to make another announcement to the students of the Academy. When it was originally opened I fully anticipated some financial loss, but I am glad to say that, as far as current expenses are concerned, the school has actually proved itself to be self-supporting. This flourishing condition is, as you may imagine, extremely gratifying to me. But owing to the necessity for separate premises, the expenditure of a considerable sum of money has been necessary, and for that reason I have decided to present to the Academy £500 out of my privy purse. I do not, however, wish to stop there, as I am desirous that this should be an institution wide in its usefulness. Much good work is being done in the Academy, but I feel that the present fees, which are twelve guineas a term, or twenty-six guineas a year, must press heavily on many, and debar a considerable number of people, who might want tuition in the rudiments of dramatic art, from attending the classes. Therefore, I have determined to reduce the fees by one-half, making them only six guineas a term, or eighteen guineas a year for whatever tuition they may obtain. The scholarships will still be maintained. The result of this will of necessity mean a deficit on current expenses, a deficit which, of course, must be met. That deficit I shall hope to be able to afford in the future, unless, indeed, multi-millionaires groaning under the burden of their riches may be inclined to lighten them in this direction. In regard to the répertoire company which I have sent into the provinces in conjunction with this movement, that, too, has made considerable progress. I believe my loss last season was £1,500. It is considerably less this season. The higher drama in the provinces is evidently looking up. The first public performance by students will be given in this theatre when we have all the work in connection with the production of Much Ado About Nothing behind us, and I would like now to give the date of the students' performance. It will be on Feb. 14. A small charge for admission will be made, and the amount received will be devoted to the Academy. At that performance I hope the first act of Caste will be an item, and that the pupils will have the advantage of some tuition from our good friends Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, the original Captain Hawtree and Polly Eccles. It is my wish to present on the same occasion some new and original play; for the Academy should not only be for actors, but should also be for the benefit of dramatic literature, which this morning's paper assures us is once more in a parlous condition. This we are told on the authority of Mr Henry Arthur Jones, who is no less prolific as a pamphleteer than as an author. That distinguished dramatist is to-day reported to have stated that the degradation of the British drama, and the failure of certain plays, is due to the fact of there being no actors to interpret them. Yet I remember several plays from the pen of Mr Henry Arthur Jones which were successes, notably The Liars and The Silver King. Dare I also refer to The Dancing Girl? I for one cordially hope that Mr Henry Arthur Jones may soon be more fortunate in his actors, so that he may give us another successful play. He says "the remedies" for this terrible state of things "are the recognition of the dramatist as a literary artist, and the means of giving the young actor the training which long runs deny him!" Well, we have a training school, but Mr Jones has apparently been too busy in address-provincial audiences to hear about it. And as to the recognition of the dramatist as a literary artist, who says he is not a literary artist? In the words of Dickens, "who deniges of it?" Mr Jones admits that he has stooped to the public in order to conquer it. Well, is not this in itself an admission of weakness? The strong man commands the public to follow him. As I said on a recent occasion, you must not give the public what they want; give them what you want them to have, and in time they will want it. I would recommend Mr Jones not to reach down to the public, but make the public reach up to him. Really all this talk is a little fatiguing when Shakespeare fills the house nightly. And what about The Walls of Jericho and The Duke of Killicrankie (only just withdrawn)? What about Lady Windermere's Fan, which is filling the house at the St. James's? What about Beauty and the Barge and Merely Mary Ann? All these plays are successful. And are we not too prone to seek for official recognition? Is poetry dignified by such recognition? What has art to do with ribbons and buttons and such like fripperies? It is but in ourselves that we are thus and thus. Mr Jones describes nine-tenths of the entertainments at fashionable theatres as "frank tomfoolery!" Of course the larger public must always like "tomfoolery," but there is also a public for the serious drama. Might I suggest to the distinguished author, who in times past has given us such fine dramas, that there is a remedy against the drama of tomfoolery ready to his own hand? When a member of the French Chamber of Deputies suggested that something should be done to do away with capital punishment in murder cases a member of the Government replied, "Que messieurs les assassins commencent." Let Mr Jones begin. But enough of criticism, which I hope may be taken in good part by my old fellow-worker. Mr William Archer has most kindly given to the school two prizes, to be competed for at the end of this term and at the end of next, for elocution, and Miss Viola Tree has joined the school. Hamlet's address to the players should be inscribed in letters of gold on the walls of the school. The text-book of the actor should be the book of nature. Remember, then, that however valuable may be the teaching you receive in this school, all must be governed by the exercise of your own individual intelligence—guiding your own individual emotions, which you cannot beg, borrow, or steal. Let your own discretion be your tutor.

"My dear Tree,—In to-day's papers you are reported to have represented me as complaining that my plays have failed 'for lack of actors to interpret them.' You also represent me as dissatisfied with my public. In a paper I recently contributed to the Press Congress at Vienna, on 'The Need for a National English Theatre,' I said, 'I will gladly own my indebtedness to many of my interpreters, and I will ask them all to accept from me their own valuation of their gifts and services.' If you will tell me how I can make a more handsome acknowledgement of my gratitude to the whole body of actors and actresses who have appeared in my plays, I will forthwith make it. So far as regards English playgoers, I have always and everywhere acknowledged my gratitude to them. There is a vast difference, my dear Tree, between complaining of one's own personal position and complaining of the position that one's art occupies in public esteem. You were one of my co-signatories, if I remember rightly, in the pages of the Fortnightly Review last spring, when the degraded state of the English drama was bewailed in no measured terms by all the educated classes of England. You then declared that there was grave cause for dissatisfaction with the condition of the English drama, and you started a Dramatic Academy. Do I understand you now to say that the whole drift and complexion of dramatic affairs have changed in the past few months, and that the English drama, which was then, according to you, in such a bad state, has now been entirely purged and rejuvenated? I rejoice to hear it.

"But if the whole drift and complexion of dramatic affairs have not changed, will you please tell me what has caused you to change your opinion during the last few months? A short time ago you were found to be subscribing to much the same views on the English drama as I have lately expressed. You now make an entire volte face, and you accuse me of being prompted by personal failure in expressing dissatisfaction with the condition of the drama. You and I, my dear Tree, have had too many failures and too many successes to set an extreme value upon the one or the other. A man does not play this game for a quarter of a century without learning to take the rough with the smooth. If I have an occasional failure, please credit me with a little of the same conspicuous fortitude and philosophy that you have so often shown on similar occasions. But, as it happens, during the past season English playgoers have given me no opportunity of playing the martyr. Facts and figures are at your service. Meantime, I ask you to give me your authority for any complaint of any actor or actress who has played in any piece of mine, or for any public utterance of mine that has not expressed my great personal gratitude to English playgoers. You would have thought it strange if if you had been accused of venting personal grievances when you deplored the condition of the English drama last spring. I think it no less strange, and I am sure you will be glad of an opportunity of withdrawing your insinuations. We have a common enemy to fight, and we need not fire into our own fleet."

BOOING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Your timely article, "Booing Bad Plays," is refreshing. Many people go to theatres for something more than spectacle. Fine dresses and upholstery are to be seen in the streets and at shop windows. If drama were merely show, modern London theatres would have come near to perfection. But plays written long ago in many languages did more than looking-glasses. They showed men and women as they are, their ways, their passions, power, weakness. Clothes, scenery, mise-en-scène are accessories, language is the vehicle of the story, mind is the chariot of its soul. A good play challenges it audience, the actors must seem well, be perfect in parts properly spoken, gesture should portray situation, voice is even more essential for good acting than tune for singing. Actors can't cover defects under the hedge of orchestra; and though they be as the glass of fashion and the mould of form, they are worse than marionettes if they don't speak their parts so as to touch hearts in front of them. Well, if this is not to be had for money, still even copper has its worth over counterfeit; and you and I and all of us have as much right to cry down bad plays ill acted as we have to nail a lead sixpence to our counters. Who says I shan't applaud? The smart set, unutterable cuffs and collars, looks on. But I've paid for my place in the pit; I'm of the jury, I shall speak out. That's what most of us, we who pay, mean to do. At music halls they're generally perfect in their parts. The public want no less at theatres.

Yours faithfully GILBERT ELLIOT,
Highfield, Mottingham, Kent, Nov. 27.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Nov. 28,
the Play, by J. T. Tanner and Herbert Keith, entitled
"THE BROKEN MELODY."

Plays may come and plays may go, but, despite the contradictory element implied in the title, it would seem that The Broken Melody, the play in which Auguste Van Biene, the actor-musician, has appeared so very many times, would go on for ever, or certainly as long as that versatile artist is able to appear in the rôle of Paul Borinski and play his acceptable 'cello solos. The production has met with an extremely favourable reception at the Dalston Theatre this week, and it should be mentioned that although the play remains very much the same, Mr Van Biene's 'cello solos are changed every evening. Mr Arthur Bawtree assumes the character of General Ivanoff with dignity and effect, and Mr Ernest Laceby plays the part of Dixon, a lodging-house keeper, very creditably. Miss Avis Graham is amusing as Mrs Dixon; Mr E. Edwardes is a typical Dr. Magrath; Mr T. P. Haynes lets the audience in for many a hearty laugh as Dudley Mortimer, a theatrical agent; and Mr John Cummings as Beaujour, a French impresario, is quite characteristic. Mr Henry Ludlow is equally at home as the Hon. Richard Spinacher, and Miss Morton is the Hon. Mrs Spinacher. Miss Ida Chapman plays the part of the designing and relentless Duchesse De Verviers in a way which proves that she has carefully studied the character, but the main share of the work falls to Miss Lena Burnleigh, who, in addition to most efficiently representing Mabel, wife of Borinski, also undertakes the somewhat unique duty of stage manageress. The play is followed by the one-act comedy, The First Night, in which Mr Van Biene appears as Achille Talma Dufard.

Much gratification was expressed in local playgoing circles when it became known that Mr and Mrs Kendal had arranged to produce their new play, The Housekeeper, during their Birmingham engagement. Consequently, a large and fashionable, as well as popular and representative, audience presented itself, and the play, which realised the most sanguine expectations, was received with ringing cheers from start to finish. Such a success as this argues exceptional merit, and the author and authoress deserve congratulations both on the quality of their work and the circumstance of its presentation. Excisions and compressions there must be, but these were light faults only, and its reception sounded the true ring of popularity. The Housekeeper derives its title from the amusing fact that one Colonel Lionel Trent mistakes the sister of his friend, whom he is visiting, for the housekeeper, and treats her accordingly, even to a gratuity. The plot is laid at the house of Lady Audrey Whitby, where her brother, Lord Runswick, a Parliamentarian, also resides at such times as the house is sitting. Hither comes the brusque Colonel Trent, a confirmed woman hater, on a visit to his friend, Lord Runswick, whose house he believes it is, little dreaming what fate and his friend's "house" holds in store for him. The Colonel is welcomed cordially by Lord Runswick, who promises him a "den" after his own heart, the Colonel's attitude towards "gewgaws and gimcracks" being firm and unsympathetic. A misunderstanding arises in his host's absence, and the Colonel is induced to believe that the "den" allotted him is the room wherein he stands, and proceeding to make himself at home by putting aside the little ornaments, he encounters Lady Audrey, whose services, mistaking her for the housekeeper, he promptly commandeers in unpacking his trunks. This scene was played with exquisite humour, and the house shook with laughter, and it was here that Mr and Mrs Kendal struck a high note, which was maintained throughout to the end. The fun is at its height when Lord Runswick re-enters the room, and the Colonel, who has learnt the real ownership of the house from "the housekeeper," but is ignorant still of her identity, essays to leave the house. Lord Runswick, however, prevents this "desertion," while he explains the misunderstanding, and Lady Audrey stands revealed. This situation brought down the curtain and the house at the same time, so effectively was it worked up, and the calls after this, the first act, were numerous.

In act two, which marks a lapse of a fortnight, we find the Colonel still a guest, and more than mollified with his hostess, Lady Audrey, who is beginning to neglect her secretarial duties to her brother, the Parliamentarian, in her solicitude for her guest. There are other guests, apparently, in the house, including a widow, Mrs Billington, who is being wooed by a wealthy and persistent admirer named Hickson, and Cicely Blake, who is attracted to, and by, a young subaltern named Sledmere, belonging to the Colonel's company. Lady Robertson, a very deaf old lady, Mr and Mrs Pennington Greene, and Chippenham Berkeley, who has matrimonial aspirations himself, but which yield no fruit, are also of the party. Meanwhile, the misogamist is falling head over heels in love with his fair hostess, Lady Audrey, but lacks the courage to propose. Being an unseen witness of young Sledmere's proposal to Miss Blake, however, he ventures on the same "lines," first memorising these lines by committing them to paper. Whereupon enters the deaf Lady Robertson, on whom he at once proceeds to practise his 'prentice hand, and, repeating the formula, he comes to the words "I love you," at which untimely moment the deaf lady unfortunately raises her speaking-trumpet to her ear. This, perforce, has to be explained, but worse follows; for, confusing the names, the amiable old lady trots off to Cicely Blake with the news that the Colonel wants to propose to her. Next, the paper from which the Colonel was practising his love proposal gets lost, and finds its way into Mrs Billington's hands, wrapped round a brooch, which the lady has lost. This is the unwitting work of Lord Runswick, who, picking up the paper from whence it had been unconsciously dropped by the Colonel, wrapped it around the brooch which he had found, and was restoring it to its owner. Thus the Colonel gets involved in a double entanglement, without proposing to the right lady, and all through his inordinate shyness. The Colonel, for the second time, essays to leave the house, first inditing a note to Mrs Billington disclaiming any aspiration to her hand. Mrs Billington, on the strength of the Colonel's "proposal," has been very much "off" with the old love, Mr Hickson, but speedily becomes reconciled at this point. Cicely Blake is likewise mated to her young subaltern, and the Colonel, whose ideas of women have undergone a great transformation, ruminates on the change. "We know what we are," says he, "but we know not what we may be," at which the house roared. However, the Colonel "bucks up," as he himself expresses it, and Lady Audrey, seeing no cause to doubt her gallant admirer's feelings—nor her own for that matter—finally capitulates. The curtain was raised again and again at the close of the performance, and great enthusiasm prevailed, the success of the piece being, it seemed, ensured.

Mr Kendal, whether as the rigid disciplinarian of the first act or the pliant and bashful lover of the third, was always cleverly amusing without sacrificing one shred of dignity. Mrs Kendal as Lady Audrey played with that consummate art which conceals art, and looked exceedingly charming in a "creation" of golden yellow with pale green shades and an abundance of exquisite lace. Mr Ernest Hendrie drew an excellent picture of the rich but gauchie lover, Mr Hickson. Mr Bassett Roe gave a "speaking likeness" of Lord Runswick; Mr R. Sheldrick as the young subaltern, Sledmere, plied his wooing naturally and earnestly; Mr Leonard Hubert gave a successful study of Pennington Greene; Mr Metcalf Wood, part-author, shone as the matrimonially inclined Chippenham Berkeley; and Mr W. M. Rutherford gave a true portrait of the butler, Crane. Mrs A. B. Tapping acted as Lady Robertson with empressement as well as humour; Miss Elise Clarens gave good effect to the gushing characteristics of Mrs Billington; Miss Mary Jerrold acted prettily as Cicely Blake; Miss Lola Duncan was properly forceful as Mrs Pennington Greene; and Miss Edith Bottomley appeared with credit as the maid. The play, which was frequently charming, as well as farcical, was excellently mounted, and the ladies' dresses added colour to the scene.

A NEW and original comedy, in three acts, by Gordon Holmes, entitled The Fascinating Miss Kemp, will be performed for the first time in London at the Opera House, Crouch-end, on Monday.

MR S. MAJOR JONES arrived in England from Cape Town on Saturday last, per Galician s.s. During his engagement as stage-manager for Mr Leonard Rayne in South Africa he has produced a large number of plays.

MRS. EDMUND PHELPS' BENEFIT

MATINÉE.

The benefit matinée which was given at His Majesty's Theatre on the 20th ult. was a most gratifying success, and Mrs Edmund Phelps, who, besides being a member of a well-known theatrical family, has done much excellent work for the stage, will reap a substantial benefit by the proceeds of a performance in which many of the most distinguished members of the profession were concerned. Mrs Phelps is the daughter-in-law of Samuel Phelps, and her husband was, in his day, a prominent actor who played leading parts. He made his first appearance in London at Sadler's Wells, where he was seen on Nov. 21, 1860, as Uzio, in Lord Byron's gloomy tragedy of Werner, his distinguished father appearing in the title-rôle. As is always the case in a good cause Mrs Phelps' professional brethren readily came to her assistance by giving their valuable services, and a specially interesting programme was submitted. It opened with the adaptation by F. Kinsey Peile of Rudyard Kipling's story, entitled The Man Who Was. Mr Tree again appeared as Austin Limmason, and his remarkably powerful impersonation of the escaped prisoner was greatly appreciated, the tragic conclusion creating a marked impression. Excellent also was the Colonel Derkovitch of Mr Edmund Maurice, the portrait of the Russian officer being correct in every detail. Miss Madge Mackintosh played with feeling as Millicent Durgan, and Miss Norah Kerin was pleasing as Sybil Mason. Mr J. Fisher White was a soldierly Colonel Durgan, whose fellow officers and comrades were capitally embodied by Messrs S. A. Cookson, Julian L'Estrange, Cecil Rose, H. Laking, Eric Leslie, Francis Chamier, and Berridge Fraser. Miss E. Inescort as Mrs Deane and Miss Dorothy Thomas as Daisy Deane completed the cast. Another item of interest was the Poet Laureate's comedy, A Lesson in Harmony, which was produced a few months ago at the Garrick Theatre. Mr Arthur Bourchier repeated with unequivocal success, his bright and cheery embodiment of Otto Hazlewood, Miss Jessie Bateman was charming as the young wife, Mr David Domville was well placed as Philip Leslie and Master Lipton excelled as the boy messenger. In The Flower o' the Rose, Mr W. J. Locke's one-act play which was produced on the occasion of the Clement Scott matinée, the scene is laid in Florence some centuries since. Lucrezia Cambi, wife of a wealthy merchant, for whom she entertains something of contempt, is attracted by the airs and graces of the Conte Nicolo da Forli. She is entertaining him at supper, when her husband unexpectedly returns. The Conte has not the wit to frame a plausible explanation of his presence, and Cambi, suspecting the truth—or, in fact, as it appears, much more than the truth—determines on revenge. He is courteous, makes no sign of exasperation, but in apparent good humour challenges the young nobleman to a bout with the sword, which can seemingly have only one end; so, at least, the wife imagines, for the man who aspires to be her lover is a master of fence and of all manly exercises; her husband, as she believes, can only use his blade to measure the cloth in his warehouse. But the fight becomes earnest, and it is the Conte who falls. Then Cambi, drawing his dagger, would execute what he regards as justice upon his faithless wife, but she declares her innocence, tells him that she loves him now that he has acquitted himself like a man, and he trusting her, they are united for the first time. Mr George Alexander again appeared as Simone Cambi, and in a part out of his usual line showed the determination and intensity required for the effective representation of the character of the jealous husband. Mr Leslie Faber bore himself right gallantly as the lover of Lucrezia Cambi, a part that was admirably played by Miss Lilian Braithwaite, minor rôles being taken by Mr Herbert Dansey and Miss Margaret Busse. The last of the four one-act plays presented was Mr L. N. Parker's adaptation of the weird story, by W. W. Jacobs, entitled The Monkey's Paw, produced at the Haymarket Theatre, on Oct. 6, 1903, when Miss Lena Ashwell played the part of Mrs White; her successor in the rôle being Miss Mary Rorke, whose performance on Friday was one of great merit. Mr Cyril Maude as Mr White again submitted an extremely clever study of an old man. Mr Sydney Valentine's Sergeant-Major Morris was, as on the occasion of the production of the play, a capital piece of acting. Mr Wilfrid Forster was a breezy Herbert White, and Mr Edmund Maurice rendered good service as Mr Samson. A number of attractive varieties were also included in the long programme. Miss Madge Titheradge gave the popular song and dance, "That's how the cake-walk's done," from In Dahomey; and Mr Huntley Wright and Miss Gracie Leigh delighted the audience with the "Gollywog duet" from The Cingalee. Mr Hayden Coffin sang with his usual success the ballad, "Melisande in the Wood"—the words by Miss Ethel Clifford, the music by Goetz—and, being recalled, gave an artistic rendering of "The Village Blacksmith." Mr George Robey made a decided hit with his ditty, "Say no more about it," and in response to the applause sang his new dame song. Mr Maurice Farkoa's admirably artistic method was again evidenced in his rendering of "Ninon" and a French version of "Sammy." He was accompanied by Mr Frank Tours. Miss Marie Studholme scored with "Little Blanche Marie," from The Orchid, assisted by a charming chorus consisting of the Misses Olive May, Minnie Baker, Doris Beresford, Ethel Olive, Gertie Glynn, and Kitty Mason. Miss Ida Hamilton gave a quaint rendering of the negro hymn "I'm on the 'Vention Ground," and "The Cocaine Song," both these contributions being received with applause. Mr A. F. Henderson was the hon. manager, Mr John Harwood the hon. stage-manager, Miss May Warley was hon. secretary, and Mr Cecil King stage-manager. The following ladies kindly consented to sell programmes—Mrs Alfred Bishop, the Misses Helen Ferrers, Ada Blanche, Kitty Bishop, Alice Greenwood, Sophie Harriss, Kitty Tindall, Eva Carrington, Eva Moore, Phyllis Broughton, and Isabel Grey. A cablegram was received from Sir Charles Wyndham wishing the benefit every success, and expressing his intention of contributing fifty guineas. Mrs Phelps was for some years a useful and esteemed member of Sir Charles Wyndham's company. It is announced that the proceeds of the benefit have amounted to between £400 and £500.

AT North London Police-court, on Monday, the manager of The Cherry Girl company, engaged for the week at the Alexandra Theatre, asked Mr Fordham to licence three children—a girl and two boys—to appear in the play. Mr Fordham, having read the document that was handed to him, said, eleven o'clock at night is too late for children like these to be in the theatre, because that means that they will not be in bed until twelve o'clock, which is altogether too late. I shall not grant the licence. It is too late. The applicant—They have never been refused before. Mr Fordham—Cannot you get boys and girls fifteen or sixteen years of age? The Manager—Not very well. Mr Fordham—Eleven at night is too late for such children as these, and I shall not licence them. The Manager—They are under the control of their mother. Mr Fordham—That does not alter the fact. No, I cannot grant it. Subsequently, Mr C. V. Young, solicitor, renewed the application. He said that in consequence of the magistrate's refusal to licence the children, it had been decided to cut out the children's part in the last act, and thus enable them to get out of the theatre by ten o'clock. Mr Young added that these children had been all through the run of the piece at the Vaudeville, and were not out of the theatre until after eleven o'clock at night. Mr Fordham altered his decision, and granted the licences.

"THE TYRANNY OF THE FIRST NIGHT."

There was a numerous gathering of the members of the O.P. Club at the Criterion on Sunday, when Mr Sydney Dark delivered an address on "The Tyranny of the First Night." Mr A. F. Robbins presided.

Mr DARK said that on a first night the performance was always bad; there was always a sense of unpreparedness about the whole thing. On a first night, as we saw first nights in London, a play was really seen under the worst possible aspects. The first-night test of a play was, in his opinion, absurdly unfair. A first-night audience, however, admirable and intellectual, did not represent the great army of persons who must go into the theatre before the play could be made a success. Analysing the personnel of a first-night audience, the lecturer remarked that newspaper critics, whose tendency was rather to praise than blame, were not what would be called a magnetic audience. In the gallery there were on first nights a comparatively small number of gentlemen who called themselves perfectly seriously earnest students of the drama. Usually the earnest student of the drama was a pessimist; he came to the theatre irritated by the cold and the messenger boy, and probably was given a hard and uncomfortable seat. The earnest student of the drama had the curious attitude of a juror at the Old Bailey; he was the Nelson of the drama, determined to do his duty, however unpleasant it might be to other people. The gallery critic per se was an asset of incalculable value to the English drama; he was always honest, and he was an enthusiast. The gallery critics were the "Wee Kirkers," the most particular of particular Baptists; they were the only people who were going to be saved. But these critics were followed by a host of camp followers who were not earnest students of the drama, and simply went there for the fun, and to hoot actors (cries of "No, no"). They might say "No, no," but it was beyond dispute that there were camp followers of rowdyism who emphatically went to the theatre with the hope that they would get the tip to make a row and enjoy themselves. The demonstration against plays on a first night was a dangerous thing to use, because it might be used by less honourable persons than themselves for blackmailing purposes. He did not for a moment suggest that there was not often sufficient provocation to an audience to boo on the first night of a play. Booing on a first night was bad manners, whatever else it might be. There would be no booing if there were not excessive cheering; the booing was merely a protest against the excessive cheering. The booing did not prove absolutely that a play was going to draw or not to draw the public. Boos were ineffective. Not only did they not effect the fate of the play, but they had no possible effect on any sort of theatrical policy. Booing was immodest, and, finally, is was very hurtful to the best interests of the English drama. He suggested that a remedy for first night tyranny might be found by new plays being first tried in the provinces for two or three weeks before being brought to London; newspaper critics should judge the play at the dress rehearsal, so as to be unaffected by the feelings of an audience; and audiences should cultivate sympathy, and not confuse the playhouse with the Old Bailey, and if a play was bad they should adopt the gentlemanly process of silence.

In the course of the discussion which followed, the CHAIRMAN said booing was no modern invention, and the reception of a play to-day was milk-and-water compared with the receptions which used to be given years ago. He had of late years seen a great deal of improvement in the behaviour of audiences, which improvement, he believed, would continue if the sensational Press would only let the matter alone. The right of the playgoer to express dissent was a valuable one, and would continue to be used, and he believed that the booing business on first nights had been greatly exaggerated.

Mr CARL HENTSCHEL said:—A good deal of unnecessary fuss has been made of booing. After all who popularises these demonstrations but the Press? Why should expressions of disapproval in the form of booing be objected to if applause is courted and welcomed? Miss Olga Nethersole has only her kind friends to thank for her misfortune. The public will not be bluffed into going to see a bad play. The play had a fair hearing, there were no interruptions. The laughter (which came from every part of the house, the well bred people in the stalls being the worst offenders) was caused by the quaint manœuvres of the supers taking part in the Court scene. Booing took place only at fall of curtain, and there was no other interruption. As regards booing, it is said you never hear it except on first nights; no, neither do you hear on other nights the frantic applause of the 'kind friends," those kind friends who can generally be heard damning the play between their insincere shouts of "Bravo!" as the "house" quietly dwindles away. Silence is the form of dissent I should like to see; it is far more chilling and terrible than booing. Booing is not the most artistic form of expressing disapproval; but booing has been handed down from generation to generation. The Tyranny of the First Night—is it after all so bad? Does it not exist largely in the minds of certain journalists, whose business seems to be to make a mountain out of a molehill, and exaggerate a little flutter in the gallery into a "terrible row and riot." Let the press ignore the opinion of the few. Let us have more dramatic criticism and less journalistic booing. No good play has ever been damned by booing, and no bad play will ever be turned into a success by the unintelligent applause of deadheads. The attempt to boom The Flute of Pan by aid of the deadheads in London has proved, as every manager or playgoer must have foreseen, a dismal failure. How is booing to be done away with? Let the manager (if he feels that he has not hit the taste of the public) lower the lights and the iron curtain, and don't let him attempt, by the aid of his friends, to convert the malcontents. Those malcontents only boo as a last resort; as a protest against the false applause of the deadheads and officials of the theatre. And let us do all in our power to induce everyone to be silent as the one dignified protest. That booing is done for pure mischief I do not believe; it is done more for the pure love of justice. A good honest boo is no more harmful to the welfare of the drama than is the inane and meaningless applause which plays (good and bad alike) often receive at the hands of the kind friends of the manager. Why do some managers never protest against the tyranny. Why have Messrs Edwardes, Forbes Robertson, Cyril Maude, and Henry Irving never complained? As for picture galleries. Do we go to the gallery and applaud a picture? At a public dinner do we all rise and call for the chef? If we are dining, say at the Carlton, what do we do? If the wine or dinner is bad, the maître d'hotel is called and immediately a fresh bottle of wine is brought, and a fresh cutlet or fish is served. If the play is bad do we get another one for nothing?

Mr J. JALLAND, business manager of the Shaftesbury Theatre, answering a remark which had been made by one of the speakers, denied that on the first night of The Flute of Pan one single ticket was given away for the pit and gallery.

Mr CECIL RALEIGH said with regard to blackmailing there was undoubtedly an opening for the danger which Mr Dark had pointed out, but it was very easy to deal with a blackmailer. He did not think booing need be objected to on the ground of blackmailing. He did not believe in first-night tyranny as a tyranny, but he did believe in first-night difficulty. They would never get an absolute verdict on a play until it was given by a paying public on the first night.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

THE next new theatre to be built in London will be on a site facing the Covent-garden Opera House. What with the rebuilt Lyceum in Wellington-street, the Coliseum in St. Martin's-lane, the Gaiety, the new houses projected in Aldwych, and this new playhouse in Bow-street, the number of places of amusement in the West Central district will be pretty numerous.

LAST Sunday evening, at a smart dinner party at which several actors were present, the conversation turned on A Wife Without a Smile at Wyndham's Theatre, and one of the guests observed that it seemed to him unfair that the chief "author" of the piece had not been mentioned. The doll that performs such antics in mid-air, he said, was notoriously the "success" of the play, and he thought it only fair that the person who supplied it—Mr Hamley, of Regent-street—should have the credit which was his due.

MISS ELLEN TERRY has sent the Secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund £10, which sum she has received from various ladies and gentlemen in exchange for her autographs. Miss Terry returns her sincere thanks to those who thus indirectly enabled her to assist the Fund, which Sir Henry Irving, Mr Beerbohm Tree, Mr George Alexander, Mr Henry Ainley, Mr James Welch, Mrs Brown Potter, and Miss Vera Fordyce have all been greatly helping by similar means.

MR MARTIN HARVEY was the recipient of a charming souvenir from the members of his company and staff last Saturday, in commemoration of his first appearance as Hamlet at the Theatre Royal, Dublin. This took the form of the tablets used by Hamlet in act one, scene five, and was constructed of tortoiseshell and silver, with a large H in monogram on the case, and inscribed:—"To Martin Harvey, Hamlet, from his company and staff. Dublin, Nov. 21, 1904."

THE marriage of Miss Maud Jeffries to Mr James Nott Osborne took place on Oct. 25 at St. Paul's, Christchurch, New Zealand, the Rev. J. A. Julius being the officiating Church of England clergyman. Mr Osborne, if not a wealthy man in the immediate present, will probably be one some day, as his father is reputed to be one of the richest squatters in New South Wales. For some time past Miss Jeffries has been the leading lady of the company organised by Mr Beerbohm Tree to produce The Darling of the Gods, The Eternal City, and other plays in Australia and New Zealand. She was the original Mercia in the late Wilson Barrett's Sign of the Cross.

MR BEERBOHM TREE, at the close of his lecture on "Hamlet from the Actor's Point of View," at His Majesty's Theatre on Monday, said his Academy of Dramatic Art had proved itself to be self-supporting, as far as current expenses were concerned. But owing to the necessity for separate premises, the expenditure of a considerable sum of money had been necessary; and for that reason he had decided to present to the Academy £500 out of his privy purse, and had determined to reduce the fees by one-half, making them only six guineas a term, or eighteen guineas a year for whatever tuition they may obtain.

MR TREE also stated that, though the loss on his provincial répertoire company last season was £1,500, it was this season considerably less. The first public performance by students would be on Feb. 14. A small charge for admission would be made, and the amount received would be devoted to the Academy. The first act of Caste would be an item, and the pupils would have the advantage of tuition from Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, the original Captain Hawtree and Polly Eccles.

WE present our felicitations to Mr and Mrs Barton M'Guckin, who celebrate their silver wedding to-day. Mrs M'Guckin is a daughter of the late Mr Robert Hume, of Edinburgh. She was married to Mr M'Guckin at St. Saviour's, Warwick-road, on Nov. 29, 1879. Mr Barton M'Guckin was born at Dublin in 1853, and was educated at Armagh. He was for several years the principal tenor of the Carl Rosa company, and sang before the late Queen in Fra Diavolo. He was long a familiar figure at Covent-garden, and sang at all the principal festivals in England, besides visiting America and Australia.

SIR HENRY IRVING was invited to luncheon in the Liverpool Adelphi Hotel on Tuesday by the Somerset Society. Sir Henry is a native of Keinton Mandeville, in Somerset. The village where he was born is one of the quietest and most old-fashioned in England, and is buried, as it were, down in a peaceful district of apple orchards and easy going indifference to the "madding crowd."

THE production of Herr Max Dreyer's play, Der Thal das Lebens, by the German company at the Great Queen-street Theatre, has drawn attention to the fact that the most daring things can be spoken on our stage provided it be in a foreign language. We should like to know if Mr Redford carefully perused the "wet nurse" piece before permitting it to be performed in this country after it had been prohibited in Berlin. It seems as if the most audacious play is permitted in England, if only it is not in English.

THE most extraordinary personage in the piece is the Parson. When the Minister sent by the Markgraf declares that he will describe to that nobleman the terrible state of immorality prevailing in the village the Parson urges him to make his report to the Markgraf "in French," evidently alluding to the idea that indecent things may be said in that language only without giving offence. It is stated that the population of the village make their living partly from bee-farming, the women also going to town as wet-nurses. They live, it is said, by supplying the two products, and their village is described as "the land flowing with milk and honey."

MR GEO. DANCE, in reply to a correspondent who has stated that the closing of the Richmond Theatre will entail no pecuniary loss to the town, has replied that during the forty weeks the theatre remains open in every year the outlay includes:—Wages list, at £85 per week, £3,400; printing, postage, and advertising, £800; lighting, £480; board and lodgings for performers, £1,600; cab fares for public and performers, £160; repairs by local tradesmen, £240; local rates and taxes, £240—the total for the year being £6,920.

MR BYAM SHAW, who is designing the costumes for Mr Tree's revival of Much Ado About Nothing, has been a member of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours for the last four years. He is an artist of rare imagination and with a keen sense of colour that should be of great assistance in the choice of dresses for a stage picture. Mr Shaw lived the first years of his life in Madras, studied at St. John's-wood School of Art and the Royal Academy Schools, and exhibited his first picture at Burlington House in 1893. He was represented last year by a characteristic oil painting, called "Now is the Pilgrim Year Fair Autumn's Charge."

A LETTER was recently sent by Mr Daniel Frohman's guests at Sherry's Restaurant, New York, to those assembled at the American Dramatist Club's dinner at Delmonico's. The message ran:—"Here all we mummers are waiting for your new plays. Hurry up, because we need them badly." The document was signed by Sir Charles Wyndham, Miss Mary Moore, Miss Virginia Harned, Mr E. H. Sothern, Mrs Patrick Campbell, Mr John Drew, and Miss Julia Marlowe.

BY this week's mail we have the balance-sheet of the first year's working of Australia's only municipal theatre—Her Majesty's, Geelong. It is not an encouraging document. As presented to the Corporation it shows a debit balance of 15s. 6d., but accusations of "cooking" have been freely made, and there is much correspondence in the Geelong papers on the subject. Some of the writers allege that interest on the capital sunk in the construction of the theatre, salaries of staff, insurance, and other items have not been included, and that the loss to the ratepayers on the year's working really runs into thousands. The new Mayor of Geelong is reported to have advised the Corporation to "candidly admit the unfortunate result of their theatrical speculation." This theatre, which is a first-class, well-equipped building on one of the finest sites in the main street of the town, was constructed after a referendum of the ratepayers. A majority voted for the project, but there was a large protesting minority headed by the Wesleyan and other clergymen.

GEELONG'S old theatre, the Royal, where Charles Mathews, G. V. Brooke, Barry Sullivan, Walter Montgomery, and other famous stars of former days appeared during their Australian tours, is now the local citadel of the Salvation Army. The Hon. George Coppin, the "Father of the Australian stage," was the lessee and manager of the Geelong Royal in the fifties, when the town was crowded with lucky gold-diggers from Ballarat. Geelong was then one of the most profitable "show towns" in Australia.

MISS RUBY CELESTE, who is the smart and pretty "special correspondent" of the Daily Female and interviews Brumagem Jem at the Palace Theatre every evening, tells a number of amusing stories of her long cruise in H.M.S. Irresponsible. She played a little middy in Mr Arthur Roberts's successful piece. In the first act she had to take a letter on to the stage and present it to Miss Queenie Leighton. One evening the letter had disappeared, and Miss Celeste did not discover her loss until the cue came. There was no time to get another letter, so she seized the first thing that came to hand—a small pair of scissors—and rushed on. In her own quaint words, "Mr Roberts was so enraged, he would not let her finish the part, but sent another member of the company on instead." On another occasion Miss Celeste and another lady ventured on to the bridge of H.M.S. Irresponsible, and did not retire when Captain Roberts ordered them to do so. The audience laughed at his vehemence, the two middies thought they were improving the scene, and the more angrily he ordered them away, the more the people in front enjoyed it. When they realised that he was in earnest, it is needless to say that the two ladies fled—pursued by the irate captain with a mop, snatched from the deck!

MISS CELESTE went on the stage when she was just the age to play the inevitable Willie Carlyle. Since that time she has appeared in all sorts of parts, from pantomime to farce, from sketches in music halls to leading characters in musical comedy. She makes a charming principal girl, and thoroughly enjoys every new part. She has acted with Mr Roberts for about three years, the rôle of the lady journalist, in Brumagem Jem, being her second opportunity to speak the witty lines that are always forthcoming in a piece by Captain Basil Hood, Miss Celeste having formerly appeared in the revival of his capital comedy Dandy Dan. She is very fond of dogs—her present pets are a whippet and a pug—and she confesses to a great weakness for pretty hats.

DECEMBER is a month of theatrical birthdays. Miss Irene Vanbrugh is to be congratulated to-day. Mr E. H. Sothern, Mr Arthur Williams, and Mr George Grossmith celebrate their anniversaries next week. Madame Nordica completes her forty-fifth year on the 12th. Two days later Miss Gertrude Elliott's many friends will be wishing her many happy returns. Mrs Lewis Waller's birthday on the 15th is shared by Miss Fay Davis, and followed by Mr Kendal on the next day. Mr Tree will enter on his fifty-second year on Saturday, Dec. 17, and five days later it will be Mr Laurence Irving's turn to receive good wishes. Mr Maskelyne's birthday is on the 22nd of the month, Edouard De Reszké's on the 23rd, and Mr Brandon Thomas's on Christmas Day.

A GREAT discussion took place among the workmen at St. George's Hall, the other day, over a large and strange piece of machinery that Mr Maskelyne had ordered to be deposited upon the stage. It was to be used, needless to say, in connection with one of the many illusions that will be seen in his forthcoming production of The Coming Race. This did not occur to the mind of the British workman, and he agreed with his friends to ask the first Egyptian Hall man who appeared on the scene to explain the mystery. When one of Mr Maskelyne's old employees arrived in the afternoon he was closely questioned. After a prolonged survey, and trying in vain to escape, he exclaimed, "I'll tell you what it is, but you must promise not to give it away. It's a new invention of the Guv'nor's for shelling peas!"

MR W. CLARKSON'S autograph book has been enriched by the following tribute from M. Antoine, who has just produced King Lear in Paris:—"Moi aussi, je viens chez Monsieur Clarkson, le maître sans lequel, il ne serait pas de King Lear possible à Paris. Juin, 1904.—A. ANTOINE."

MR HUGH MOSS, who for the past five years has been the stage manager for the opera at Guildhall School of Music, has been appointed by Mr F. R. Benson as the Vice-Principal of the School of Drama and Acting which he has inaugurated at the Hampstead Conservatoire. Mr Moss is the well-known stage manager and producer of plays and operas in almost every theatre in London.

MISS MAUD HOFFMAN, who has been leading lady with Mr Willard on his two provincial tours, and who has been associated with him so long in America, is not returning with him to the States, as there is no suitable part for her in Lucky Durham.

MR WALTER BEAUMONT was the last Spettigue in Charley's Aunt in the London revival at Great Queen-street Theatre with Mr Penley as Babbs; he was the last Spettigue in the country under the Penley management, and he is the first Spettigue under Mr Brandon Thomas's management.

MR FRED FREDERICKS will produce on Boxing Day morning at the Stratford Theatre an oriental pantomime entitled The Forty Thieves. Amongst the artists engaged are Miss Claire Romaine, Miss Rosie Sylvester, Mr Nat Clifford, Mr Kennedy Allen, and Mr Dan Paulton.

MR E. S. WILLARD'S provincial tour will finish at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, on Saturday, Dec. 10, Mr J. M. Chute having kindly released him from the following week at Bristol, in order that he may complete his arrangements before Christmas for his American tour. Mr Willard's programme at Brighton will include The Cardinal, The Middleman, The Professor's Love Story, and Tom Pinch.

REHEARSALS have commenced at the Grand Theatre, Islington, of the Christmas pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, the book of which is by Geoffrey Thorn, Mr George Mozart, Miss Julia Kent, Mr Tom Craven, Miss Tots Davis, and a host of well-known artists have been engaged. The scene of Sherwood Forest, will be one of great beauty, and the curtain will rise on a representation of Nottingham "Hiring Fair," a number of specialities being introduced as "side shows."

MR BEERBOHM TREE has kindly lent His Majesty's Theatre for a vocal and instrumental concert to-morrow evening in aid of the Playgoers' Club Pantomime Fund for Poor Children. The following artists have placed their services at the disposal of the Club:—Madame Lilian Blauvelt, Miss Florence Salter, Madame Alice Esty, Miss Marie Brema, Miss Ada Crossley, Miss Bertha Salter, Mr William Green, Mr Lloyd Chandos, Mr Ffrangcon Davies, and Mr Chas. Copland. The London Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, who has kindly consented to conduct, will play various selections.

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER writes:—"Being unable to attend Mr Sidney Dark's lecture on 'The Tyranny of the First Night' at the O. P. Club last Sunday night, I penned the following letter at his request:—'Personally, I cannot say that of late years I have detected any particular tyranny on the first night of a new play. The only thing that really exercises any tyranny in my opinion is a bundle of nerves which every actor or actress ought to possess. It always seems to me that a first-night audience is particularly ready to take up the good points in a play. Indeed, it is very often a fact that a play never goes so well as it does on a first night. This would rather point to the possibility that the reception of a play by a typical London first-night audience is not quite indicative of the future opinion of the general public, who may or may not throng to see it afterwards, and it is an established fact that the verdict for good or ill of a typical London first-night audience has never been prophetic of the financial success of any play.'"

MR TOM CRAVEN'S "gag book," published by French and Co., is having a large sale. Pantomime comedians, music-hall artister, and aspiring amateurs alike realise that the little red-coloured volume contains enough funny "wheezes" to stock a dozen modern pantomimes. Mr Craven will figure in conjunction with Mr George Mozart in the Grand, Islington, pantomime. They will play the Robbers in The Babes in the Wood.

MR CHARLES WARNER will appear as Canio in Mr Charles Brookfield's version of I Pagliacci at the Savoy on Tuesday. The addition of such an excellent actor to the cast is a most judicious step on the part of the management.

MR CHARLES FROHMAN has made every effort to obtain a prolongation of Miss Eleanor Robson's engagement in Merely Mary Ann, at the Duke of York's Theatre, but he has been unsuccessful, and he is compelled to announce the last performance of the play at the Duke of York's and Miss Robson's final appearance in London for the evening of the 15th inst. Miss Robson will sail for home on the Deutschland on Dec. 16. In order to permit Miss Robson's many friends on the other side of the Atlantic to give her a proper welcome home, her managers have consented to allow her to appear at a special matinée performance of the Zangwill comedy at the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York on the 23rd, immediately after her arrival. On the following day she will leave with her company for St. Louis, where she will begin her regular tour on the 26th. The 100th performance of Merely Mary Ann will be given at the Duke of York's Theatre on Dec. 6, and Miss Robson's closing performance on the evening of Dec. 15 will be the 111th of her engagement. The piece will be sent on tour in England in the first week in February.

THE Britannia, Limited, of which Mr Sydney M. Hyman is the managing director, have decided during the coming winter to give away to 250 poor people, every day between twelve and three o'clock, Mondays and Saturdays excepted, sixty-five gallons of soup. The management, in pursuance of their generous intention, distributed about a thousand tickets for soup in the gallery and pit of the theatre, besides giving away many more to the local authorities.

MR JOHN TULLY, the well-known proprietor of a successful Uncle Tom's Cabin company and proprietor and manager of the Royalty Theatre, Llanelly, has acquired a large interest in the New Hall and Theatre at Aberavon, and is now booking companies for both the Llanelly and Aberavon houses.

MR ALF J. LAWRANCE (of Lawrance and Gifford, the well-known song-writers) has been specially engaged by Mr Humphrey Brammall to select and assist in the arrangement of all the songs and music for no less than five forthcoming pantomimes which that gentleman is producing at the Crystal Palace, Shakespeare, Clapham; Sunderland, Sheffield, and Middlesbrough, this Christmas.

MISS ALICE ARDEN (Mrs Michael Sherbrooke) has been engaged to appear in the forthcoming Christmas production at the Court Theatre.—Mr Charles Boult, who terminated a successful five months' engagement with Mr William Bourne on the 26th ult., playing that gentleman's parts in his répertoire, has been retained by Miss Olga Audré for tour.—Mr Barrie, having cast Mr A. W. Baskcomb for a part in his new Christmas play at the Duke of York's Theatre, Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell have very kindly released him from the remainder of their Little Mary tour.

MR CHARLES MANNERS' Sheffield opera week has resulted in a profit of £457. This sum will be divided between the Sheffield University Fund proper and the Ladies' Endowments Fund for the same purpose.

"PRUNELLA; OR, LOVE IN A DUTCH GARDEN," by Laurence Housman and Granville Barker, music by Joseph Moorat, will be produced at the Court Theatre on the afternoon of the 23rd inst., with a cast including Mr Granville Barker, Mr Harry Dodd, Mr R. Rivington, Mr J. Deverell, Mr Orlando Barnett, Mr George Trollope, Miss Helen Grenville, Miss M. Busse, Miss Florence Redfern, Miss Hazel Thompson, Miss Violet Vaughan, Miss Nora Greenlaw, Miss Agnes Hill, Miss Emily Grove, Miss Alice Arden, Mr Tom Paulton, Mr T. Heslewood, Mr F. Cremlin, Mr F. Grove, Mr Norman Page, Mr Lewis Casson, and Miss Thyrza Norman.

IN "Leaves from the Diary of Henry Greville," edited by the Countess of Strafford, and just published by Smith, Elder, there is a curious anecdote of Ristori. The great Italian actress fainted on the stage at Naples because an official sitting in the stage-box had the "evil eye." She fell into the footlights, and was severely burned. The public withdrew from the theatre, casting glances full of hate at the accursed owner of the eye, who sat transfixed in his box, terrified, no doubt, by the effects of his fatal power. Only two hours before Ristori had written verses in the album of this terrible man with the same arm and hand which suffered in the flames.

RISTORI was playing at Madrid the night before the day fixed for the execution of a soldier for attempting to kill a sergeant who had struck him. The Queen of Spain had refused a pardon, and the unfortunate man's friends implored the actress to beg for him to be spared. "I accepted the mission," wrote Ristori afterwards, "and after the first act I went to the Queen's box and threw myself at her Majesty's feet, imploring her to spare the wretched criminal. The Queen yielded to my prayers, and at once signed the pardon of the poor man. I leave you to imagine what an ovation awaited me when I reappeared on the stage in the second act. During at least twenty-five minutes it was impossible for me to speak a word, and the applause was continued throughout the evening until I reached home."

A NEW and original play, by Mr Berte Thomas, called A Little Brown Branch, will be produced at the Court Theatre on the afternoon of the 14th inst., with Messrs Graham Browne, W. Farren, jun., Charles Allen, Slaine Mills, and Misses Kate Phillips, Winifred Fraser, Bessie Page, Mary Stuart, and Frances Ivor in the cast. On the afternoons of the 12th, 13th, and 15th Mr Arthur Lewis will present at the same house an adaptation of Alphonse Daudet's Menteuse, by Miss May Pardoe, called Margot. Mr Graham Browne, Mr Percival Stevens, Mr Robert Farquharson, Mr Arthur Lewis, Mr Norman M'Kinnel, Miss Mary Rorke, Miss Gertrude Burnett, and Miss Darragh will be in the cast.

"LADYLAND," a comic opera, by Mr Eustace Ponsonby and Mr Frank Lambert, will be produced at the Avenue Theatre on Thursday with a cast including:—Mr Bert Coote, Mr Richard Green, Mr John Tresahar, Mr R. Mansfield, Mr Windham Guise, Mr George Giddens, Miss Aline May, Miss Geraldine Ulmar, Miss Gurney Delaporte, Miss Margaret Cooper, Miss Kitty Lindley, Miss Nancy Girling, Miss Amy Wright, and Miss Ethel Irving.

MR ROBERT ARTHUR has added yet another suburban house to his list, having taken the Grand Theatre, Fulham, which he will open on Christmas Eve with The Forty Thieves, an up-to-date pantomime, written by Mr Frank Dix.

THE O.P. Club on Monday had one of their very successful Bohemian suppers and concerts at the Criterion. Over 200 members sat down under the vice-presidency of Mr Algernon Collins and Mr J. M. Freshwater. An admirable concert, under the direction of Mr J. Davis Smith and Mr Stanley Greig, was given, the following artists very kindly offering their services:—The Arcadian Glee Singers, Mr Frederick Stretton, Mr Ernest Cherry, Mr Alfred Thomas, Mr Thorpe Bates, Mr Will Edwards, Mr James Davis, Mr Maurice Victor, Mr Walter Waters, Mr Frederick Addison, Mr C. Van De Straeten, and Mr Sinclair Mantel.

MISS BATEMAN, with her usual readiness to help in matters of charity, has arranged to give two dramatic and musical performances in aid of St. Cuthbert's Church, at the Philbeach Hall, Philbeach-gardens, Earl's-court, on Monday afternoon and evening. At the afternoon performance scenes from Romeo and Juliet will be played, Miss Bateman appearing as the nurse. Miss Gladys Vanderzee and Miss Rita Jolivet (both pupils of Miss Bateman) will play the parts of Romeo and Juliet respectively. Miss Muriel Gough, who has made such a success as vocalist in Herr Kubelik's autumn tours, will sing both morning and evening; and Mr Robert Maitland has also promised to help Miss Bateman by singing in the afternoon.

MR J. BANNISTER HOWARD, who has arranged with Mr Edward Terry to give a matinée at his new theatre at King's Lynn on Tuesday next, playing Sweet Lavender, is amongst the guests invited to the dinner to be given to Mr Terry at the Savoy Hotel to-morrow evening.

MR HENRY S. H. CAVENDISH, the explorer and hunter, and the husband of Miss Isabel Jay, is advertising a "big game" shooting expedition, in which he wants one or two gentlemen of position to join. A humorous admirer of the lady's acting suggests that the best shot Mr Cavendish made was when he "bagged" the Jay.

MR ROBERT FARQUHARSON, who is to play the part of Paul Chartran, in Margot, at the Court Theatre, is an actor who makes a study of the art of making up. When he played Dr. Rank, in A Doll's House, he spent many weeks in thinking out the appearance of a man who is dying of hereditary disease. For his performance of Talleyrand, in Mademoiselle Mars, at the Imperial Theatre, he "built up" an effective lame foot, and he has even succeeded in making himself look one-armed, not by having the arm strapped to his side or behind his back, in the usual way upon the stage, but by allowing it to hang limply in a leather case that reached from shoulder to wrist, with a hook at the end. Mr Farquharson is of French descent, a collector of old and beautiful objects of art, and a traveller who delights in wandering far from the beaten tracks.

MISS NANCY GIRLING, who is to play Nina Weasel in Ladyland, has been on the stage for about seven years. One of her first engagements, in A Runaway Girl, lasted for eleven months. She afterwards went to the Lyric Theatre, and acted the lively French maid of the lively Lady Holyrood.

UPON the occasion of his marriage last week, Mr Geo. Ridley, the popular secretary of the Theatre Royal, Chatham, was the recipient of many gifts, among the number being a clock from the orchestra, a silver teapot from the attendants in front, and a tantalus from the stage staff. Mr E. J. Rickard, stage-manager, was deputed to present the last-mentioned article.

MR J. M. BARRIE will call his "play for grown-up children," to be produced at the Duke of York's Theatre on or about the 22d inst., Peter Pan; or, the Boy Who Wouldn't Grow Up.

MR ARTHUR BERTRAM will produce at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, on Feb. 13, the drama entitled Hearts Adrift, which has been a success in America, and has been toured there for two years. In the third act there is a novel scene of a fight in an airship, a magnificent property weighing over two hundredweight. Mr Edward Lytton, of the Coronet Theatre, has designed a motor to work this airship.

MR AND MRS DOUGLAS VIGORS (Miss Lucy Beaumont), who will conclude on Saturday a ten months' successful engagement with Mr Henry Hare's Girl From Chicago company, are engaged by Mr Samuel James for his stock season at Lyric, Hammersmith, to play lead and principal comedy, opening there on Dec. 19.

THE Moody-Manners Grand Opera company, including Madame Fanny Moody, Mr Charles Manners, and Mr John Child, will appear next week at the Richmond Theatre. The operas which will be presented are Faust, Mignon (with Madame Fanny Moody in the title-part), Tannhäuser, Il Trovatore, Carmen, Lohengrin, Pagliacci, and Cavalleria Rusticana—a most varied and attractive list.

AT the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, where Dangerous Women is being played, a fire broke out at about two o'clock on Friday morning. A wooden receptacle used for storing old scenery and rubbish became ignited, and the theatre rapidly filled with smoke. The fireman permanently employed in the building was on the alert, and he soon got one of the theatre hydrants to work. By this means the flames were held in check until the arrival of the brigade engines, when the fire was quickly subdued. Some small damage was done to the fittings, &c., of the theatre.

MISS FLORENCE MELVILLE, who has just concluded six months' engagement with Mr Fred Karno, playing Miss Manley in the sketch, Dandy Thieves, has been engaged by Mr Ernest Carpenter to play a special boy's part in his Bristol pantomime.—Mr Stanley Cooke will appear in his old part in the revival of Mr Brandon Thomas's piece at the Comedy Theatre on Monday. This will be Mr Cooke's 1,475th appearance in the robes of the "old lady from Brazil," although it is just seven years since he last played Mr Penley's famous part.—Mr Leonard Barry has been engaged by Mr Robert Arthur to play principal part in his Christmas production at the Grand, Fulham.

MR LAURENCE IRVING, encouraged by the success of his present tour with Richard Lovelace, will again tour it in the spring of next year, and will visit all the larger towns. The tour will be under the direction of Mr William E. Ashcroft, who conducts all Mr Irving's business, and who is now booking a summer tour in addition to that in the spring.

MR BEERBOHM TREE will end the present run of The Tempest on Saturday, Jan. 14, and His Majesty's Theatre will then be closed for final rehearsals of Much Ado About Nothing, which will probably be produced on Thursday, Jan. 19, with Miss Winifred Emery as Beatrice and Miss Viola Tree as Hero.

THE practice at Drury-lane Theatre for some years past of sending many thousands of children a booklet describing the theme of the forthcoming pantomime will be adhered to this season. The true story of The White Cat, as told by J. Hickory Wood and Arthur Collins, will be illustrated in colours from designs by T. Mackenzie. Children desiring a copy of the book must apply, by postcard only, to the manager of Drury-lane Theatre.

MR RICHARD GREEN, who is second in the cast of Ladyland, to be produced at the Avenue next Thursday, is a bronze and silver medallist of the Royal Academy of Music, and made his début in Ivanhoe at the English Opera House, now the Palace Theatre. His success in grand opera was equalled a little later on by the hit he made at the Popular Concerts at St. James's Hall. As the hero in The French Maid, and, more recently, in My Lady Molly, Mr Green has had the opportunity to show that he is an actor as well as a singer. One of his possessions, of which he is justly proud, is a certificate from the Royal Humane Society, awarded for his bravery in saving life.

MISS RUTH LYTTON is to be second boy at Drury-lane this Christmas. Her pantomime experiences have been many and varied, including more than one season at the Hippodrome, where she made her London début in Cinderella nearly four years ago. Miss Lytton is an Edinburgh girl.

MR SYDNEY HARCOURT, who is a most capable and versatile actor, tells an amusing little yarn of the days when he toured with the style of companies known as "wait and hope"—wait for Friday and hope for your salary. He obtained an engagement to play low comedy, sing, and "look after props." The acting and music were easy enough, but looking after properties really meant borrowing every single article required. He managed to do it, however, by means of giving free tickets right and left. A man who would lend anything important—such as a set of furniture or handsome fire-irons—received two stalls for a week. Less obliging people had to be content with two dress-circle seats, and so on. In this way Mr Harcourt gained a nick-name that clung to him for quite a long time. It was "The Demon-pass-two."

THE Mermaid Society will revive at the Royalty Theatre to-morrow evening The Maid's Tragedy, by Beaumont and Fletcher, with a cast including Mr Frank Lascelles, Mr Dennis W. Cleugh, Mr H. Tripp Edgar, Mr W. H. Kemble, Mr King Fordham, Mr J. A. Grant, Mr Cyril Cattley, Mr Richard Neville, Miss Dora Hole, Miss Ada Potter, Miss Pearla Gardner, Miss Gertrude Templeton, Miss Meta Pelham, Miss Violet Falcke, and Miss Edith Fenton.

MADAME FRANCESCA JANAUSCHEK, who recently died in America, was born at Prague in 1830. She became prominent as an actress in her own country and in Germany, and in 1867 went to the United States. There she played Medea and other rôles in German, and, studying English later, made a success in tragic parts in that tongue, including Deborah, Bianca, Mary Stuart, Queen Elizabeth, Lady Macbeth, and Meg Merrilies. Madame Janauschek retired from the stage some time since.

MR HUNTLEY WRIGHT met a provincial actor some years ago who had had the good fortune to be engaged to play several of his (Mr Wright's) parts on tour, modelling his performance, it is needless to say, on the inimitable creations of the star at Daly's. A short chat about the different characters was followed by an introduction to the provincial actor's wife. "I know you will be pleased to meet Mr Huntley Wright, my dear," he observed, with an air of pleasant condescension, "because he has been playing my parts, he tells me, in London."

MR AND MRS DENIS O'SULLIVAN received congratulations this week on the birth of a son. Mr O'Sullivan, whose appearance in Peggy M'Chree immediately followed his success in The Duchess of Dantzic, is of Irish family, but was born and passed his boyhood in San Francisco. His wife, who is also American, is an exceedingly clever painter.

MR J. BANNISTER HOWARD writes:—"In view of the decision in the Law Courts on Thursday, in the case of Sydenham and Davis, I strongly advise all managers to use the new Touring Managers' Association Agreement. There are clauses in it which provide for almost any contingency."

MR WELLESLEY DRAPER, who will terminate on Saturday next a twelve months' engagement as the Crown Prince Rudolph, in The Traitor, has been retained by Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson for the part of Loris Vanessa, in the forthcoming production of Revenge at the Court Theatre, Wigan, on the 19th inst.

MISS LILLIAN DIGGES, who concludes to-night her second tour as Fifi with Mr George Musgrove's Belle of New York company—a part of which she was the original exponent in Australia—has been engaged by Mr George Edwardes to play René on the forthcoming tour of The Duchess of Dantzig. Miss Digges, who has had quite a lengthened experience of the Colonies, is a niece of that gifted actress Miss Cicely Richards, who created Belinda, in Our Boys.

MRS WHYTAL, a well-known American actress, who for some months has been a prominent member of Mr E. S. Willard's company, has acquired the rights and entire "production" of Mr Louis N. Parker's successful drama The Cardinal, and will take the play through the provinces in the spring, visiting the principal cities and a few of the London suburbs. Mr Philip Cuningham has been engaged to enact the Cardinal. Mrs Whytal made her reputation in America with Miss Julia Marlowe, and under her own management in New York and through the States.

AN extraordinary demonstration attended the departure of Mr Martin Harvey and his company from Dublin, after the production of Hamlet, on Sunday evening last. The station in Amiens-street was thronged with hundreds of people, who demanded a speech, which Mr Martin Harvey had to comply with from the carriage; and the departure of the train for Belfast was followed by ringing cheers from the crowd.

FOR the second annual pantomime at the Marlborough Theatre, Mr Purcell announces Aladdin, which will be produced on Boxing Day. In the company are such well-known artists as Harry Tate, Geo. Brooks, Rich and Rich, Miss Nancy Langtyre, and Miss Simeta Marsden. Mr Tate will introduce his wonderful impersonations of well-known artistes; Charlene and Charlene will supply specialities, and Miss Lottie Stone's troupe will do some dances. The pantomime will be produced under the personal direction of Mr J. F. Elliston.

HENRY IRVING AT LIVERPOOL.

Sir Henry Irving was on Wednesday entertained at luncheon by the Lord Mayor of Liverpool at the Town Hall. Amongst those present were the Lady Mayoress, Sir Edward and Lady Russell, Colonel Byrne, and Sir Thomas and Lady Hughes.

The LORD MAYOR proposed the health of Sir Henry, describing him as the head of the dramatic profession, and gratefully acknowledging the intellectual pleasure which for so many years past he had given to the citizens in Liverpool.

The toast was cordially drunk.

SIR HENRY, who was warmly applauded on rising to reply, said: "My Lord Mayor,—I am deeply sensible of the high courtesy which has made me your guest to-day, and of the most gratifying terms in which you have been good enough to speak of me and of my associations with this great city. I have known Liverpool nearly fifty years. I remember it in the days which were for me days of apprenticeship and struggle, but also of considerable buoyancy, stimulated by the kindness which has culminated now and in this distinguished company. Perhaps I was not quite so buoyant in the year 1860 as to anticipate the course that events were to take. In that year I spent a fortnight in Liverpool, and played a modest engagement at the old Theatre Royal. Five years later I was here again, and did something or other at the St. James's Hall in Lime-street. The eye of a young man is sometimes very prophetic; at any rate, it often seems to him in after years that he used to see a long way ahead. But I don't think my prophetic eye saw me across the gulf which separated St. James's Hall from the Town Hall. What I did in Lime-street I have forgotten—but what other people did or failed to do had the effect of leaving me to walk through that thoroughfare with a total lack of anything tangible to cling to. I must have indulged at that time in a good deal of airy speculation. There was nothing else to indulge in; but I am inclined to doubt, my Lord Mayor, whether I came down to the Exchange flags, and took a good look at the Town Hall, and said to myself, 'Well, there's a capital lunch, and there's uncommonly good company there for me—about forty years from now!'

"To the uneasy wayfarer in Lime-street there came in that year, 1865, a stroke of fortune in the shape of a six months' engagement at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, in Clayton-square. From that time dates the encouragement I have always found in Liverpool—encouragement I owe above all to my old friend, Sir Edward Russell, one of the very finest critics of the drama this country has ever known. My Lord Mayor, for an actor to talk about dramatic criticism is always a delicate matter. If he expresses his distrust of that form of intellectual exercise, as he sometimes does—in private—he is supposed to be smarting from well-merited rebuke. If, on the other hand, he grows enthusiastic, especially in the presence of a dramatic critic, he is open to the suspicion of trying to beguile the judge and corrupt the executioner.

"My old friend, I hope, does not suspect me, although there are still a few nights more of my engagement at the Court Theatre. But when an actor is near the end of his career there is not so much inducement to cajole the stern, unbending censor. Perhaps I am in a position now to look back with a discriminating eye upon our theatrical affairs for more than a generation, and I can say there is no writer to whose sympathetic insight our stage owes a greater debt than to Sir Edward Russell. And this is surely a most fitting place and occasion, my Lord Mayor, to note that Sir Edward Russell has combined this unremitting and searching zeal for the Drama with the discharge of high public duties, with the conduct of a great newspaper—perhaps I ought to say two great newspapers, now happily blended, though this arrangement may have the drawback that there will be only one theatrical notice where two grew before. Possibly some concession on this score may be made to the appetite of actors and managers for all the notices they can get.

"I say Sir Edward Russell is a living refutation of the old-fashioned notion that when a man gives his mind to the Drama he is fit for nothing else and should be watched with some anxiety by his friends. This was once a paradox, but now the time gives it proof, that a passion for dramatic art may be cherished by a responsible citizen.

"Yes, you have a practical example of this truth in Liverpool, which I should not call a sentimental or scatter-brained community; not a city where men run about looking for Utopia. And I am tempted, sir—and I gather from the expression of your countenance that it is just what you might have expected—to point this moral in favour of a Municipal Theatre. This is now a pretty old hobby of mine, and as I don't get the opportunity every day of showing its paces to the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, I might proceed to ride it for the rest of the afternoon. Don't be alarmed! I content myself, sir, with giving you a glimpse of the high-spirited animal. Yes, it is still high-spirited, in spite of years and labour, and while I have breath I shall refuse to turn it out to grass. I take leave to imagine you, sir, associating the responsibilities of your high office with an active interest in the administration of a playhouse for the intelligent recreation of your fellow-citizens. I say no more than this—except that there is evidently delightful scope in the Town Hall for that hospitality which should relieve the anxieties of theatrical management without offence to the ratepayers, and hold out to every young recruit in the municipal stock company the bright promise of that privilege which I enjoy to-day. Sir, I take this great compliment you have paid me as a tribute to dramatic art as a serious pursuit. I use the word 'serious' in your presence without any fear of misunderstanding, although it is sometimes assumed that an actor is a creature of humorous accident, and quite incapable of any solid purpose. I have not found that to be so in the course of a long career, which, whatever it may have achieved, has certainly been full of a pretty steady toil. I have always nursed the ambition to make the drama an appeal to the imagination—a means of lifting us to a higher plane of feeling without losing touch with the realities of life.

"That is the true function of the theatre—a function which can be exercised without robbing any playgoer of his legitimate amusement. The drama has its moods of irresponsible gaiety; it also has the mood for an ideal which demands artistic devotion from its interpreters. My Lord Mayor, it is in that spirit I have laboured, however imperfectly, and I am very grateful for the recognition I have had the good fortune to win from you and the people of Liverpool."

Sir Henry Irving was the guest on Tuesday, at the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool, of the local Somerset Society, who entertained him at luncheon. Mr W. C. Clothier, the president of the society, occupied the chair, and among those present were Sir Edward Russell, Mr D. P. Williams, C.B., Dr. C. Symes, Dr. T. W. Sheppard, Dr. Thurstan Holland, Dr. Stanley Gill, and Dr. R. Jones.

The loyal toasts having been honoured, the PRESIDENT proposed the health of their honorary president, Sir Henry Irving, whose name, he said, would be known, as long as the English language was spoken, by every student of history as that of a man who, by his unrivalled genius, was the most brilliant of the age in the art of holding up the mirror to nature. They regarded Sir Henry with an esteem which was deep, abiding, and sincere.

Dr. CHARLES SYMES (senior past-president), in supporting, said it was to be regretted that now Sir Henry had reached the zenith of his excellence he talked about retiring. One felt sad to think that he could not go on for ever in the profession of which he was at once an ornament and a master.

Sir HENRY IRVING, in responding, said:—I have been a fortunate guest at many notable feasts, but this gathering of Somerset worthies is unique in my experience, this gathering of men who keep Somerset green on the banks of the Mersey. Gentlemen, you have made me proud to feel that Somerset is my county, although my memories of the spot which saw my birth are rather vague. I remember the old quarries at Keinton Mandeville, where I was born; and my childish mind was haunted in those days by the guinea fowls which perched on ghostly trees, and made uncanny sounds. What part they have played in my career I do not know, unless they gave me a dramatic yearning for the society of Shakespeare's raven, which doth bellow for revenge. I must confess that I have only once revisited Keinton Mandeville; and then I was shown a stone edifice, supposed to be my old home. Alas! I could not truthfully say—

> I remember, I remember
> The house where I was born
> The little window where the sun
> Came peeping in at morn.

The place was quite unfamiliar to me. In this age of scepticism I am inclined to doubt the authenticity of that ancient dwelling. At any rate it is significant that the spot is marked by no colossal bust, no trophy for triumphal show. I do not hear that even a mural tablet adorns the walls which may have stifled the uproar of my infantile protests against the discomfort of being washed. Mind you, I don't say this in any spirit of resentment. Don't suppose I am suggesting that you should organise a subscription and set off to Keinton Mandeville in a body to repair any oversight on the part of the local authorities. After all, the historical evidence is doubtful; and it would be awkward to affix a mural tablet to that old house, only to find the tradition extinguished by some conscientious archæologist, who proved that my early minstrelsy never made those rafters ring.

But in my childhood I must have known something of Glastonbury, only six miles away. I will not tell you that on the Quantock Hills my father fed his flock, though he was a Somerset man before me. Nor will I pretend that I mused deeply on Alfred, who made his stronghold among the Somerset Saxons. But I think it is possible that a child on the height of Avalon may have taken into his blood subconsciously the old legends of Arthur. I am not boasting of that; but, at any rate, there came a time when I ventured to impersonate King Arthur at the old Lyceum, impelled to this bold act, no doubt, because he was a Somerset man, and so am I. How many of you, I wonder, felt it to be the duty of pious pilgrims to see that performance for the honour and glory of our county! Gentlemen, I will not press that question too hard, especially as you are good enough to take a most warm and kindly interest in the work of my life, or I should not be here. So generous is your welcome, so great is the honour you have done me, so eloquent are the words of your chairman, that I shall not be surprised to learn in the course of the next day or two that we are all suspected of a conspiracy to restore the Heptarchy, on the basis of a State-supported drama, to be played in Somerset for the illumination of the rather gray lives of the village community! Well, that might be a good thing—I don't mean the Heptarchy, but the village drama. The diffusion of a sound theatrical taste throughout the country would make for a ripe and intelligent cheerfulness. But this is a dream, and I am concerned at this moment with a reality, with the proof of sympathy and esteem you have given me to-day. I feel that I have made a host of friends. Believe me, for the years that are left, and for the work that is still to do, I shall wear the memory of this re-union in my heart's core—aye, in my heart of heart.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

Jules Claretie—Saturday, Dec. 3.
Walter Munroe, music hall artist—Dec. 3.
Austin Rudd, music hall artist—Sunday, Dec. 3.
Ronald Graham, actor—Sunday, Dec. 4.
Florence Wilton, burlesque actress—Dec. 5.
Augustine Alexander—Monday, Dec. 5.
E. H. Sothern, actor—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
Nellie Carmichael—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
Sir Frederick Bridge—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
Cole Aspinall—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
Marie Jones—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
A. R. Marshall—Tuesday, Dec. 6.
Violet Cameron, actress—Wednesday, Dec. 7.
Pietro Mascagni—Wednesday, Dec. 7.
Maud Lyndhurst—Wednesday, Dec. 7.
D. E. Eastlake—Wednesday, Dec. 7.
Daisy De Roy, music hall artist—Friday, Dec. 9.
Fred C. Somerfield, actor—Friday, Dec. 9.

THE revised edition of The Orchid was presented at the Gaiety on Wednesday night, and met with the warm approval of a crowded audience. Amongst the new numbers which have been added are a pretty duet by Mr Lionel Monckton, "On a summer's afternoon," sung by Miss Gertie Millar and Mr Lionel Mackinder; a successful new song for Miss Millar, "I don't mind the dark;" a droll ditty for Miss Connie Ediss; a duet for Messrs Edmund Payne and C. Brown, and a trio, in which they are joined by Mr Mackinder, and an Irish ballad, "Kate O'Malley," with a whistling chorus which leads to an Irish jig, danced by Miss Olive May and Mr Mackinder, supported by a merry band of peasants in native green. A dance for girls who appear in motor garb and gradually develop into baigneuses was also well received. "The Beauty and the Barge" is another new number that had a good reception. Of the original numbers, "Oh, Mr Registrar," "I do the dirty work," and "Little Mary" met with as much favour as ever. On Wednesday night Mr James Sullivan, the famous "Polite Lunatic" of The Belle of New York, made his appearance as Zaccary, the orchid hunter, and did very well in the part. Mr Edmund Payne was if anything funnier than ever as Meakin, the gardener; Mr Charles Brown, who replaces Mr George Grossmith, jun., as the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, made a decided hit. Miss Marie Studholme's song, "Little Blanche Marie," was much appreciated; Miss Gabrielle Ray's new number, with a dance and chorus, was greatly applauded; Miss Phyllis Blair was appropriately dignified as the Countess; and amongst others who gave satisfactory support were Messrs L. Mackinder, R. Nainby, H. Grattan, A. Hatherton, Bert Linden, H. Taylor, W. Spray, J. W. Birtley, H. Lewis, and Miss Gaynor Rowlands. The tuneful play has been newly costumed throughout and new scenery has been provided.

The King and Queen of Portugal witnessed the performance of The Cingalee at Daly's Theatre on Thursday evening.

MR J. B. HOWARD has arranged with Mr Tree to take over the entire rights of The Darling of the Gods and The Eternal City from Christmas. Mr Howard will send out one company only with The Darling of the Gods this spring, opening at Chatham on the 26th; and one with The Eternal City, beginning at the Borough, Stratford, on Feb. 6. Next autumn Mr Howard will have two companies out with The Darling of the Gods and two of The Eternal City, and in the spring one with The Belle of New York, one with La Poupée, and one with Florodora.

MISS JULIA NEILSON AND MR FRED TERRY will open at the New Theatre in January with The Scarlet Pimpernel, the romantic drama recently tried by them at Nottingham.

THE SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL.

An organised effort—the outcome of the decision of the London County Council to provide a site for an adequate Shakespeare memorial—is to be made to bring to realisation the long-discussed project of a Shakespeare memorial in London. Mr Richard Badger has offered to start the Fund with a first subscription of £2,000, an additional £1,000 for a specific purpose, and £500 for the general working expenses of a public appeal. While the London County Council, in response to Mr Richard Badger's proposal, has expressed its willingness to provide a suitable site, it has felt that it cannot in its corporate capacity resolve itself into a committee for collecting funds and for organising the movement. Accordingly, a number of those interested in the proposal have been meeting together during the past months at His Majesty's Theatre, by the kind permission of Mr Tree, and after careful deliberation a clearly defined programme has been decided upon, the essential features being as follows:—

1. The memorial to be erected on some prominent site in London; the funds collected to be in the first instance devoted to the erection of some such monument in London as the Scott Memorial or the Albert Memorial; any sum over and above that required for the monument to be used for some object or objects tending to promote the study or appreciation of Shakespeare, to be determined by a General Memorial Committee.
2. The General Memorial Committee to consist of leading men and women of the day, belonging to all parts of the Empire; representatives of the American people; and distinguished foreigners.
3. The Shakespeare Memorial Committee to be formally constituted at a public meeting to be held in London some time in February.
4. A Shakespeare Commemoration to be held in all parts of the world during the Shakespeare week, 1905 (April 23 to May 1), so that a concentrated effort may be made in connection with the commemoration to collect the funds necessary for the memorial.

This great "Shakespeare Commemoration of 1905" is the kernel of the scheme, and it is felt that if this part of the programme is steadily kept in mind by those who are in sympathy with the project, there should be no difficulty in raising such a sum of money as may ultimately result in the erection of a monument and memorial in some degree worthy of Shakespeare, as a symbol of the homage not only of his fellow countrymen but of the world generally. The Empire and America will primarily feel gratification in raising the memorial, but if, at the same time, as may well be hoped, other nations of the earth also join in bringing their tribute, the Shakespeare memorial will serve as something even more glorious than a monument to the poet—as denoting that at the dawn of the twentieth century the nations are willing to be linked in brotherhood by universal enthusiasm for the great world-poet of modern times.

The help of hosts of workers in different localities and countries will be required. In close connection with the Central Committee, local committees must be established, aided by the Press, theatrical managers, Shakespeare societies, and other agencies. As regards London, Mr Beerbohm Tree has announced his intention to hold a Shakespeare Festival in April at His Majesty's Theatre, part of the proceeds to be devoted to the Memorial Fund; and from various quarters come promises of assistance.

A Provisional Committee has been formed to deal with preliminaries, consisting of:—

The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of London.
Mr J. W. Benn, M.P., Chairman of the London County Council.
His Excellency the Hon. J. H. Choate, United States Ambassador.
The Right Hon. Lord Tennyson, G.C.M.G., late Governor of South Australia.
Mr George Meredith, President of the Society of Authors.
The Right Hon. Lord Reay, G.C.S.I., President of the British Academy.
The Right Hon. Lord Avebury, President of the Society of Antiquaries.
The Right Hon. Lord Ronald Sutherland-Gower.
Sir E. J. Poynter, Bart., President of the Royal Academy.
Sir L. Alma Tadema, R.A.
Sir E. Maunde Thompson, K.C.B., Director of the British Museum.
Sir R. C. Jebb, M.P., Regius Professor of Greek, University of Cambridge.
Mr T. Herbert Warren, President of Magdalen College, Oxford.
Sir A. W. Rücker, Principal of the University of London.
Dr. F. J. Furnivall, President of the London Shakespeare League.
Sir Henry Irving.
Mr H. Beerbohm Tree.
Mrs. Alice Gomme.
Mr Richard Badger.
Mr E. W. Brabrook, C.B., F.S.A.
Mr W. L. Courtney, Esq., LL.D.
Professor E. Dowden, Trinity College, Dublin.
Professor I. Gollancz.
Mr Frederic Harrison.
Mr Joseph Knight, F.S.A.
Mr Sidney Lee, Chairman of the Birthplace Trustees.
Rev. R. S. De Courcy Laffan, Rector of St. Stephen, Walbrook, formerly Headmaster of King Edward VI.'s School, Stratford-on-Avon.
Mr T. F. Ordish, F.S.A., Director of the London Shakespeare League.

Dr Furnivall has accepted the position of chairman of the Provisional Committee, Lord Avebury has consented to act as treasurer of the Shakespeare Memorial Fund, and Professor I. Gollancz as honorary secretary of the committee. A banking account has been opened with Messrs Robarts, Lubbock, and Co., 15, Lombard-street, E.C. The Provisional Committee is anxious to give all possible help in the formation of local committees. Communications may be sent to the offices of the Memorial Committee, 32, George-street, Hanover-square.

MR E. S. WILLARD'S company for his American tour will consist of Mr Cooper Cliffe, Miss Violet Vorley, Mr J. R. Crauford, Miss Faith Reynolds, Mr William Sauter, Miss Leila Repton, Mr H. Cane, Miss Mabel Dubois, Mr Walter Edmunds, Miss Alice Belmore, Mr H. Barfoot, and Miss Marie Linden. As on all Mr Willard's previous American tours, Mr H. Cane will be his stage-manager and Mr Charles A. Moore his business-manager.

MR FRED LOCKE has completed Goosey Gander, his twenty-fifth successive pantomime for the Princess's, Glasgow, and it is now in active rehearsal.

AT Marylebone Police-court, on Monday, application was made to Mr Plowden for a licence to permit Nellie Turner, a child of thirteen, to take part in The Ladder of Life, at the West London Theatre. The child had only to recite a few lines, it was said, and would get home about eleven. Mr Plowden—Are the lines very bloodcurdling? The applicant—No, sir; slightly pathetic. Mr Plowden—So that she can cry herself to sleep? The applicant—Oh, very easily, but she has not the desire. The play is expected to last six weeks. Mr Plowden—After that she may have the opportunity to go to bed at ten, at least I hope so. Very well, you may have the licence. The applicant said he only required the licence for six days. Mr Plowden—Then my conscience is lighter.

"THE ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In the event of your accepting Miss Wynne Matthison's suggestion that your readers should be invited to vote for whatever scheme they consider best calculated to practically assist the cause of theatrical charity, will you allow me to state exactly what my scheme was?

It was based upon the assumption that many members of the theatrical profession would gladly give work when they are unfortunately not in a position to give money.

I proposed that one morning performance of every piece being played in the United Kingdom should be given upon one and the same date, and that the proceeds should be divided, according to their needs, between the Actors' Orphanage Fund and the Actors' Benevolent Fund.

I suggested that all these matinées should be given upon one and the same day, because it would equalise the chances of their success. If a good piece were being performed in a bad town, nobody could expect a large result from it.

I anticipated the objection that would be raised regarding the revelation of bad business. I therefore suggested that the results of the matinées should be known only to a small committee of three people, who would receive the proceeds; these three people being gentlemen in prominent positions, to whom revelations concerning theatrical business would not come with the force of startling novelty.

I proposed, with a view to stimulating competition and exciting emulation, that the amounts taken by the three largest matinées in London and the three largest matinées in the country should be published.

Also with a view of exciting competition and emulation, I suggested that when a piece was not drawing particularly well, individual members of the company should do their best to assist the matinée by giving any extra turns within their power, such as songs, recitations, and so forth.

All these matinées being given upon one and the same day, to be called "Actors' Day," would, I thought, create a certain amount of excitement, which would be good for the morning performances I proposed.

I suggested that the performances in question should be morning performances, so that they should not interfere with the ordinary business of the week.

My scheme, you will see, differs only in this point from that of Mr Mouillot. I believe also that Mr Charles Hannan has suggested something very similar, but I am not familiar with its exact details.

I first urged my proposal some twelve or fourteen years ago in the columns of Mr Jerome K. Jerome's journal, To-day. Later on, at a charity meeting held at the Lyceum Theatre, when Sir Henry Irving was in the chair, I brought the scheme forward again, and Sir Henry and many others warmly approved of it. Later still, as Mr Maude has said, difficulties appeared in the way of its development, but just then nobody was particularly hard up. The chief difficulty that we had to encounter was, not that we did know what to do, but that we could not get anybody to do it.

I estimate that either in the month of October or in the month of March, three hundred morning performances could easily be given upon one and the same day, in the theatres of Great Britain and Ireland. If they only realised £25 each the total would amount to 7,500.

If the committee receiving this sum allotted £1,500 a year to the Actors' Orphanage, and £6,000 a year to the Actors' Benevolent Fund, nobody would be required to put their hands in their pockets for another shilling.

Most of the principal artistes appearing in pantomime come from the music halls, whose charities are large, well supported, and thoroughly organised. Most of the girls who appear in pantomime work as choristers the rest of the year, while the small part people and extras are the ordinary small part and extra people of the regular stage. Whether they, or whether pantomime artists as a whole, should be invited to make a special subscription is a matter I leave others to discuss.

With regard to my own scheme, I believe it is thoroughly practicable. I do not think it would require much organisation if people were only in earnest, and would put their backs into the job.

On one point I personally feel, and always have felt, very strongly. It is derogatory to the stage that we should go to the general public and beg for our charities. If we only worked for them we need not even beg from one another. The bed rock of our trouble is our lack of unity and organisation. Our charities should be federated—please mark I do not say amalgamated—and on one day a year we should all of us take off our coats and work for the lot.

That, sir, is my scheme.

Yours faithfully, CECIL RALEIGH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The present agitation in connection with the above is as timely as it is deserving. But to inaugurate a compulsory tax on the salaries of artistes would, in my opinion, be unfair, unpopular, and impracticable. The same would apply to a much greater extent to stagemen, bandsmen, and theatre attendants. None of the last named could or would expect financial aid from the A.B.F.

It appears to me that there ought to be a greater feeling and practice of noblesse oblige amongst the profession, notably managers and proprietors of general companies, principal artistes in first-class musical and dramatic companies—drawing lucrative salaries. If these would give according to their means, money would flow into the coffers of the Fund.

Let us take an example from the supporters of the M.H.B.F. and the excellent manner in which they uphold their charitable organisation, and there will be no cause for these appeals on behalf of the A.B.F.

If some or all of our West-end impresarios showed their sympathy in a practical form, I am sure managers, proprietors, and artistes would follow suit in proportion to their means. Personally, I shall be only too pleased to join in supporting this movement in any and every way possible. Yours faithfully,

E. HOWARD BINGHAM,
Manager, Mr Frank Bertram's Companies,
Gaiety Theatre, Burnley.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The scheme to help this Fund by compulsory subscription of one night's salary is open to many objections, and, above all, is an unwarrantable interference with the liberty of personal opinion and action which should belong to everyone.

There may be many who do not sympathise with the Benevolent Fund. Are those to be excluded from all engagements because they have the courage to refuse to sign a contract containing this clause?

And among those who relinquish their salaries without a word rather than incur the displeasure of their managers, or the unpleasant distinction of being the only member of the company not subscribing, how many there would be to whom it meant real hardship.

What of the man who, in this precarious profession, may be weeks and weeks "resting," and then, getting a special week's or fortnight's engagement, finds that in that short time he is unfortunate enough to encounter "Benevolent Night." It would more likely be called "Blackmail Night."

Many people in the more comparatively safe position in this profession talk glibly of "only 5s.," "only 10s." more, in speaking of subscriptions and donations, forgetting that there are many, many actors and actresses in the provincial touring companies to whom such a sum means really some comfort gained or lost; that they are not all happy-go-lucky spendthrifts to whom 10s. or 20s. makes little difference: and among even many of those who present an affluent, or, at any rate, comfortable appearance to their fellows, there are many who suffer from a poverty of riches, and who retain their smiling exterior at a cost of many small sacrifices.

No, Sir, this is not a sufficiently lucrative profession to compel charity, and your correspondent, Mr Tweedie, who, I suppose, knows more of the state of finances of the provincial actor than any of your correspondents up to now, puts the matter very clearly.

It is noticeable that among your eleven letters seven are from managers, who, presumably from the fact of their being managers, could afford it; these support it.

Three are from actors or acting-managers, and they strongly deprecate compulsion, and one letter alone, from an actress, commends the scheme, and I am sure that from the warm-hearted way in which she supports it she would for the same reason be the last to see any such scheme pressing hardly even upon one person.

Let us leave charity to the charitable-minded, and do not let us strain a quality that should be free and unforced to be really acceptable.

Yours faithfully, LAWRENCE GRANT.
Green Room Club, Nov. 24.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr Frank Liston's suggestion to tax bill orders on behalf of the Fund is surely impracticable. I presume these orders are given for services rendered, and you cannot ask the holders of them to subscribe to our charities. May I suggest, sir, that you start a shilling fund in your columns for this most deserving object. Surely every actor and actress in the British Islands and abroad would gladly send their shilling, and many would give more, and in this way a very large sum should be collected. You cannot make a tax on salary compulsory.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES BOULT
Rosslyn, Waldegrave-road, Teddington, Nov. 28.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I entirely agree with Mr E. S. Willard, also with Mr Mouillot, with the exception of stage hands giving their services free, as they could not expect any benefit from the funds.

Yours faithfully ALFRED DAVIES.
Queen's Theatre, Dublin, Nov. 24.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—As far as I have been able to peruse the correspondence relating to the Actors' Benevolent Fund, is seems to me that Mr Willard's suggestion is the simplest method to put into operation, and I will carry out this idea with regard to my own company and myself in future; at all events until something more satisfactory is forthcoming. The request for a donation from autograph fiends does not work well altogether. I make a practice of soliciting 2s. 6d. in return for an autograph, but, the amount I receive does not amount to 10 per cent. of the applications. Such contributions as I receive I have hitherto handed over to the Actors Orphanage Fund.

Yours faithfully, MARTIN HARVEY.

On Monday, Nov. 28, the Comedy-Opera, in Two Acts, by G. H. Jessop and Sidney Jones, entitled "MY LADY MOLLY."

A capital company, captained by Mr Arthur Hart, presented this tuneful production at the Royal County Theatre on Monday, when the opera received a most cordial welcome. Miss Mabel Lait in the title-rôle made a most creditable appearance. Miss Sibyl Thorne was most engaging as Hestor. A pretty and artless impersonation of Alice Coverdale was submitted by Miss Maud Thorne, whose singing and dancing were one of the most enjoyable features of the production. Miss Lottie Sargent acquitted herself well as Mdlle. Mirabeau; Mr Geo. Grundy gave a fine picture of the dashing Captain Harry Romney, possessing a voice much above the average. The house was kept in continuous laughter by the whimsicalities of Mr Arthur Powell in the part of Mickey O'Dowd; and a creditable rendering of the character of the landlord, Reuben Oates, was given by Mr T. Norbury. Mr Frederick Hobbs was an admirable Sir Miles Coverdale, his fine voice being much appreciated, and a favourable impression was created by Mr Frank Stather as the jealous lover, Lionel Bland. The opera was admirably staged, a well-trained chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr Charlton Mason, contributing greatly to its success.

CHARLES READE'S well-known play, It's Never Too Late to Mend, is the attraction at the Elephant and Castle this week. Mr Ernest E. Norris as Tom Robinson has no difficulty in winning the favourable verdict of the audience. Miss Agnes Paulton deserves every credit for her telling embodiment of Josephs. Mr Jo Monkhouse is successful as Geo. Fielding. Mr Ernest Percy gives a thoroughly effective portrayal of the Rev. Francis Eden. Mrs Bennett as Susan well maintains her high reputation as a clever and versatile actress. Mr Dudley Hayes makes good use of his opportunities as the brutal Mr Hawes, and Mr Howard Templeton is effective as Peter Crawley. Mr Paige Lawrence scores as Mr Meadows, and Mr Edward Snow should be accorded praise for his Mr Merton. Mr Harry Paulton, jun., as Jack causes considerable merriment, and Mr Gerald Jordan is a satisfactory Wm. Fielding.

THE Albert Theatre, Gainsborough, was reopened on Monday last by Mr Arthur Carlton under the title of the King's Theatre. During the few weeks it has been closed extensive alterations have been made. The proscenium has been rebuilt, private boxes have been added, and the whole of the building has been redecorated in a most artistic manner. An excellent stock of new scenery has been painted by Mr W. Terris, and a competent orchestra of nine, under the leadership of Miss Elsie Stearn, has been provided. On Monday the performance commenced with the singing of the National Anthem by Mr H. Meggitt, which was heartily joined in by the large audience present. After the third act of The School for Scandal, which was being presented by Miss Fortescue's company, that lady, in a few well-chosen words, introduced Mr Carlton, who on coming forward said:—"Ladies and gentlemen, I do not intend to weary you to-night with a long speech, because I am sure you are only too anxious for the continuation of this interesting play presented by Miss Fortescue and her most capable company. Canon Strange, preaching in Worcester Cathedral two or three weeks ago, after having seen some performances at my theatre at Worcester, told the congregation that the stage was a great agency for good when it was properly managed, and that is the idea that we all have before us. As Miss Fortescue has implied, the real thing is the pay-box returns. Your patronage will show the class of plays you must want, and those plays we shall endeavour to put before you. I hope you like the theatre in its new outfit. We have only had something like three weeks in which to change it from its old appearance to its new one, and for my part I am thoroughly well pleased with it. I think we have more reason to feel pleased when we reflect that the whole of the alterations have been carried out by Gainsborough contractors."

"CHARLEY'S AUNT" will be revived at the Comedy Theatre on Monday, with Mr Stanley Cooke in Mr Penley's part, and Mr Brandon Thomas as the Colonel.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at any of Smith and Sons' bookstalls throughout the provinces.

MR WILLIAM HEINEMANN has sent us a copy of "Frank Danby's" novel "Baccarat." The book is a minor masterpiece of realistic fiction. It is as good as Bourget in its analysis of a sexual "case," and it has the advantage of being written from an English point of view of marriage. It is not a work to be placed in the hands of a young person, not because it would do her any harm, but because she would not understand half of it. But it is a terrible sermon on the effects of feminine shallowness, ignorance of life, and folly. The wife "goes wrong" without the least love for her seducer, and with a very strong affection for her husband, and his agony is analysed in a manner which must wring any reader's heart, "if it be made of penetrable stuff." Bourget, in treating adultery, always dwells, with apparent relish, on the actual details. Frank Danby, on the contrary, has reserved her "realism" for the tragical part of her work, and her description of the relations between the husband and the wife after the regrettable incident" is simply cauteric in its intensity of mental vision. "Baccarat" is calculated to "purge the soul by Pity and Terror"—but most of all by Pity.

MR ARTHUR ROBERTS has just acquired from Scott Mackenzie a humorous song which is spoken of as likely to eclipse in popularity the same writer's previous ditty "After you with that!" which was so great a hit a year or two since in Mr Roberts's hands.

DURING the wrestling bout at the Empress, Frixton, on the 25th ult., between Yukio Tani and Joe Carroll, the latter lasted fourteen minutes, and just on the finish both men fell. Carroll's head struck Tani in the mouth and knocked out two teeth. The little Japanese was unable to proceed, and he agreed to give Carroll half the stakes.

A BLIND ACTOR.

APPEAL FOR MR. HENRY CRISP.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—An exceedingly sad case of distress in our profession has been brought to my notice by my old friend and brother actor, Mr E. M. Robson. It is that of Mr Henry Crisp, who, being fifty-one years of age, and having been an actor for thirty years, is now totally blind, and has been so from the end of October, 1903. He acted up to the last, and played for two years with the vision of one eye quite gone, while that of the other was gradually going. Out of his thirty years' experience he has held engagements as follows:—With Mrs Scott Siddons, three consecutive engagements; with Miss Jennie Lee, five consecutive years; with Mrs Langtry, four consecutive years; with Mr Penley, twelve consecutive years; with Mr Willard, three tours; and as stage-manager with Mr Tree (Captain Swift, Company 1). This makes very nearly thirty years, and shows that he must have been reliable and steady to have secured so many re-engagements. His salaries have always been small—£3 to £4 per week—once only reaching £8, so it is not surprising that he has no savings to fall back upon. He has a slender private income derived from the rents of three small houses. The property is mortgaged, and is in the hands of the mortgagees, who work it and allow him 15s. per week. His rent for a top room in the Kennington-road is 8s. per week, and the 7s. left has to find all the necessaries for himself and his wife, and he is not in arrears with his rent. Two years ago he was six months idle on account of illness, chiefly connected with his affliction. The expenses incurred by this, added to fees paid to various doctors in the different towns he visited on tours, reduced his income and savings considerably. He has been an inmate of the Westminster and Ophthalmic Hospitals, but with no benefit, though he speaks gratefully of the kindness shown him by a certain well-known doctor, who treated him gratuitously and secured his admission into the hospitals. There is no hope of his ever seeing again. One eye is quite gone, and is replaced by an artificial one, and the other is past being operated upon. His debts are very few and small; I have a list of them. His address is 145, Kennington-road, S.E.

I have spoken about his case to Mr Beerbohm Tree, Mr Pinero, Captain Marshall, Mr Alexander, Mr Bourchier, and Sir Squire Bancroft, all of whom are deeply interested in the case, and express their willingness to help him. I have every hope eventually of organising a concert for his benefit at the Queen's Hall. In the meantime may I ask for the kind consideration which you have always shown for cases of distress in our profession, and beg you to open a subscription list on his behalf, kindly putting me down for £5?

Yours faithfully, CYRIL MAUDE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The case of Mr Henry Crisp is too sad for words. I enclose cheque for £10 10s. (from Mr and Mrs Kendal) with only too much pleasure to so deserving a fund.

Yours faithfully, W. H. KENDAL.
North-Western Hotel, Liverpool, Oct. 18, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr Crisp's case is certainly a very sad one, and I am very glad to enclose my mite towards his assistance.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES WYNDHAM.
Midland Hotel, Manchester, Oct. 11, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Please accept the enclosed amount (£1 17s.) as a small donation to Mr Henry Crisp's Benefit Fund in token of the great sympathy which every member of this company bears for Mr Crisp in his terrible misfortune.—Yours faithfully,

NORMAN V. NORMAN.
Theatre Royal, Limerick.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you add the enclosed cheque to the fund you have opened for Mr H. Crisp? His case is, indeed, terribly sad.

Yours faithfully, SABA RALEIGH.
Grand Hotel, Middlesbrough, Oct. 26, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Sir Henry Irving asks me to send you the enclosed cheque for £5 as his donation to the Henry Crisp Fund. He sends all good wishes for its success. Yours faithfully, BRAM STOKER.
20, Bedford-street, W.C., Oct. 26, 1904.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Please accept the enclosed donation of five pounds (£5 bank note) from the Lyceum Theatre Provident and Benevolent Fund to the Henry Crisp Fund, as an expression of the sympathy the members bear for him in his misfortune.

Yours faithfully, THOMAS REYNOLDS
(hon. sec. Sir Henry Irving's company).

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER, BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I. COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II. PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III. INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
Chapter IV. MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V. INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright," is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 2d, 1901

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee, July 28th, 1901

Those who are interested in "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" will derive much valuable intelligence by reading Mr Albert Strong's book bearing ye tithe aboue, published at "The Era" Office.—Pelican, 901. Aug. 3d, 1

SONGS FOR PANTOMIMES.
Published by
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Limited.
* "CURATE AND THE MAIDEN,"
Written by F. C. Smale. Music by G. H. Stone.
(Very Original and Humorous.)
REFRAIN:—
And she looked so neat on her little oak seat,
So thought the curate when
He carefully blessed her, with all the rest,
And the little maid sighed "Amen,"
* "IN DE CORNFIELDS,"
A Coon Ballad, by Ernest Newton.
† "WHY?"
(Valse Song), by Felix Desgranges.
Latest Parisian Success!
English Version by Clifton Bingham.
† "JOHNNIE BOY"
(Character Ballad), by Mary Ropes and Lionel Elliott.
* "GIVE ME ONE THOUGHT"
(a Pure, Simple Haunting Strain),
Written by Arthur Anderson, Music by John Neat.
Give me one thought whene'er the way seems lonely,
When dark clouds gather, gather round the sun,
What time you need one true companion only,
Contented I to be that one.
‡ "HANDS ACROSS THE SEA"
(a Song of Greater England),
by Byron Webber and Florian Pascal.
* "LAZULI,"
by Gunby Hadath and Pierre Duchêsea.
A Beautiful Sentimental Ballad,
† "PICCANINNY'S WALK"
(a Coon Song), by M. E. Winchester.
† "DANCING"
(Character Song, Valse Refrain).
By Adrian Ross and Florian Pascal.
REFRAIN.
Oh, heigh oh! for thus and thus we go,
An ankle revealing half way to the ceiling,
And so, and so, and so!
Oh, heigh ho! for thus and thus we go,
With Johnnies and Tommies, and breaches of promise,
And so, and so, and so!

SPICY FOREIGN PLAYS.

The question of the abolition of the Censorship in France is being warmly discussed at present owing to the assault made on the institution by M. HENRI MARET, an advanced deputy, who has been for twenty-one years in the Gallic Parliament, and is editor-in-chief of the Rappel. In Paris no less than five gentlemen, of whom M. PAILLERON, the well-known playwright, is one of the gentlemen who have the onerous duty of watching over the morals of their fellow-countrymen, and of defending them from the attacks made from time to time by the authors of "unsavoury" plays. M. MARET on the last vote on the subject had a majority of more than a hundred in a full house; and, if he should carry his proposal, it will be interesting to observe how the suppression of the Censorship "works" in practice.

There appears to be at present no similar "movement" in Germany, where, when a play is considered objectionable it is simply "stopped" by the police. Only last month Herr OSKAR BLUMENTHAL'S drama The Dead Lion was prohibited in the German capital. The piece was a thinly veiled dramatisation of the position of affairs in 1890, when BISMARCK'S resignation was accepted by the present Kaiser. The Berlin police prohibited the performance of the play, and Herr MAX DREYER'S comedy Das Thal des Lebens, which was played in England at the Great Queen-street Theatre on Monday by the clever German company which has been for awhile sojourning amongst us, shared the same fate.

It can hardly be imagined that Das Thal des Lebens was prohibited because of the likeness of its plot to incidents occurring in any existing régime. The country in which it takes place is as imaginary as the "Cloud-cuckoo-land" of ARISTOPHANES. The pivot of the piece is the practice, more common on the Continent than in this country, of employing "wet nurses" to suckle the babies of well-to-do persons. The custom largely prevails in Paris, where whole armies of these milky substitutes may be seen in the Champ-Elysées performing the duty, which, in spite of M. ZOLA'S stern appeal and the complaints of patriotic scientists, is generally "shirked" by the French mère. We were not aware that the "high-well-born" German females were similarly vicarious in their maternity; but it is so, according to Herr DREYER. A "wet nurse," as everybody knows, must be a mother; otherwise she would be technically and actually a "dry" nurse. A large proportion of these women are unmarried; and in order to cope with the demand for them there exists, in the play and in a certain fantastic German province, a regular "wet-nurse factory." The production of these full-bosomed foster-mothers is, indeed, the "staple industry" of a certain happy valley in the Fatherland, where a system of free love prevails. The women are duly organised, their "union" being presided over by a "king of the wet-nurses." Now the Margravine, the wife of the ruler of the district, is childless; and, she having thus set the fashion, the ladies of the court and aristocracy have also limited their families. The "wet-nurse" trade is "going to the dogs;" and, worse still, the Margrave has issued an edict threatening to treat every illegitimate birth as a felony, punishable with death. The "king of the wet-nurses," an agreeable young man, resents this proclamation, and is carried off by a kind of military press-gang, forced to become a soldier, and placed at the door of the young Margravine. He impresses her as favourably as Fritz did the Grand Duchess; and, nine months after his "sentry go," a child is born to the Margrave and the Margravine. This outline evidently offers great possibilities in the way of dialogue; and it is only just to M. DREYER to say that he has done his theme the fullest justice.

The newspapers just now contain various articles on the relations of England with Germany, and it is the earnest desire of every intelligent and benevolent person to maintain a friendly feeling between the two countries. Living in London are thousands of Germans, including some of the best and most meritorious of our pseudo-citizens. When one of them steps on English soil he has just as much right to have his morals protected as any born Englishman has. It may be urged that until an immigrant German takes out letters of naturalisation he is not a British subject, and that, therefore, his morals are une quantité négligéable. But this is a mere quibble, unworthy of a great nation like ours. Such a contemptible attitude, if maintained with respect to all things, would make international amity impossible. Now, the German Government has decided that Das Thal des Lebens is deleterious to German morals, and, acting through its police, it has prohibited the production of the piece. Surely the Kaiser knows his own subjects better than we can, and is best able to judge what would be poisonous to them. At any rate, as we have twice stated, the piece is prohibited in Germany. The next step on the author's part is to bring it over here, and present it to the Germans in London. It is just as if a man had the small-pox, and, being expelled from Ealing, was permitted by the local authorities to roam at large about Hammersmith. Here are thousands of German Londoners—or London Germans—left, by the culpable laxity of our Censorship, entirely at the mercy of Herr MAX DREYER! Where was their protector? Where was Mr REDFORD? Why were these poor strangers—"sojourners with us," and therefore all the more entitled to sanitary supervision—why were they exposed to a danger from which, in their native country, and by the strong and judicious action taken by their police, they were very properly protected? The German Theatre in London is supported chiefly by Germans. The ordinary Londoner is sufficiently protected from any contamination by his ignorance of the language. We have no complaint to make on patriotic grounds. But we protest most strongly against the culpable negligence of the Censorship, and its heartless indifference to the morals of a class which is both respectable and considerable. People in England—Germans especially—may well ask, "What is the use of the Censorship?"

THE HIPPODROME.

A very attractive and artistic item in the programme here is supplied by Mdlle. Diane de Fontenoy, whose beautiful tableaux vivants are intensely admired and enthusiastically applauded. The stage is set to represent an artist's studio, in the centre of which is a raised platform, or "throne." Mdlle. De Fontenoy, clad in modern dress, enters; and, after looking about her, hits on the idea of impersonating various characters of historical interest. The first of these is Boadicea, who presents herself holding a spear and clad in leopard skins. She throws herself into various attitudes, finally posing in one of courageous self-defence. When the curtain is next raised, we see a lovely vision indeed. Lalla Rookh, clad in appropriate Eastern garb, reclines on a couch "whiffing" luxuriously at a cigarette. Finally, she leans back and falls asleep. The next tableau is a more dramatic one. Cleopatra sits on her throne meditating suicide by the help of the asp which lies by her in a basket. After screwing her courage to the felo de se point, she seizes the reptile, which she applies to her arm, and then dies in great agony, her sufferings being portrayed by Mdlle. De Fontenoy with very intense expressiveness. Next we see the lady as a slave girl, clad in white, and chained to the trunk of a tree. The captive mourns her fate, and tries in vain to break her iron bonds, eventually sinking down despairing and exhausted. Last of all Mdlle. De Fontenoy appears as Queen Alexandra, in her Coronation robes, a magnificent and commanding figure. Mdlle. De Fontenoy's performance is one of the brightest and strongest attractions in the bill at the Hippodrome, which has undergone but few changes since our last visit to this admirably conducted establishment. The Mysterious Kettle, with its scientific marvels, is more interesting than ever, a small locomotive being shown impelled only by liquid air. Mendel, the blind pianist, displays his wonderful musical memory, and that charming and athletic trio, the Leamy Troupe, dazzle and delight by their daring performance on their brilliantly lighted aerial apparatus. That inexplicable mystery, Zutka, continues to puzzle and please; the Hoopers, with their mélange of skill and fun, are very popular; Rossow's Midgets acrobatise and box with unflagging energy; and Charles Leb's monkeys, cats, and dogs surprise by their docility and cleverness, the waltzing of two of the simians being especially admired

In order to give the German actor, Mr Behrend, a little rest after the recent productions he has so ably directed, it has been decided to postpone the matinée of Traumulus at the Queen-street Theatre, announced for to-day, till Saturday next. In its stead will be given by general request a matinée of Das Thal des Lebens, which will be also performed on the following Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. On Thursday, Dec. 8, will be produced a light comedy, in three acts, by G. Schaetzeler-Perasini, entitled Sein Prinzesschen, which has found great favour in Germany.

A THREATENING fire broke out a few days ago in the Cold Storage Company's large premises in Williamson-square, Liverpool, and, but for the promptitude of Mr Harris Fineberg, proprietor of the Star Theatre, which is opposite, in at once rushing to the telephone and summoning the fire brigade, the flames would have had sufficient time to obtain a good hold of the building. The storage place, by the way, is built on the site of the old Patent Theatre Royal, the front of which is still preserved. The theatre cost £6,000, and was opened in 1772 with the tragedy of Mahomet. Its boards have been trodden by the greatest actors and actresses of the Georgian and Victorian reigns. It was closed some twenty years ago.

THE SHAH'S NEW SUIT."

A New Comic Opera, in Two Acts,
Produced at the Royal Court Theatre, Sloane-square, at a Matinée on Monday, Nov. 28.

The Shah of Mersia ..... Mr A. J. STAIT
Shampooheshaw ..... Mr HARRY C. HEWITT
Smilee ..... Mr HERBERT LINSCOTT
Growlee ..... Mr CYRIL LEONARD
Screeno ..... Mr D. G. ALLEN
Norval ..... Mr WOODIE D. FREEMAN
Ratchemiphukan ..... Mr ALWYN STEWART
Clerk of Arraigns ..... Mr CYRUS POTT
Princess Vera ..... Miss IDA WYNN WESTCOTT
Pizzicata Simperling .... Miss JESSY CHAMBERS

This matinée entertainment was given by the Apollo Operatic Society in aid of the Incorporated Soldiers' and Sailor's Help Society, the performance being repeated on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings. The names of the authors were omitted from the programme, but we understand that the piece was written and composed by two clergymen, the Rev. W. J. Pressy and the Rev. Robert Andrews. The result of the ministerial collaboration was not very satisfactory. The music, although not without merit, failed to reveal any special talent for this kind of work; and the libretto was wofully weak, altogether lacking in those qualities which mark the dialogue and lyrics of the clever writers of modern musical comedy. By such artless lines as "Oh, what a bore! Well, then, good-bye—or rather au revoir," one was reminded of the old-fashioned pantomime book; and a chorus such as "O, sausages, beef, and ham, what a dilemma I'm in I am" does not give the composer of the music a fair chance. The plot is based upon the Arabian Nights, entitled "The Emperor's New Clothes," and a Christmas piece by Captain Basil Hood, founded on the same story, was produced a few years ago. Two impostors, taking advantage of the monarch's weakness for gay apparel, pretend that they have produced a material of remarkable fineness and beauty of colour. The Emperor, following the example of others, declares that he sees and admires the new clothes which have no real existence. In the new production the scene is the Island of Padragascar, and hither come Smilee and his friend Growlee. They are disguised as tailors, and the former is an English nobleman, who having heard of the beauty of the Princess Vera, daughter of the Shah of Mersia, is resolved to judge for himself. He, of course, falls in love with the Princess, and his companion is captured by the charms of her duenna, Pizzicata Simperling. The young ladies give the strangers every encouragement, and evidently do not believe that they are what they pretend to be. Smilee, who is of a daring and sanguine temperament, having been successful in making the prime minister, Shampoohshaw, believe that he and his partner had made a remarkably fine suit of clothes, tries the experiment upon the Shah himself with equal satisfactory results. When the Shah discovers that he has been victimised by impostors, Smilee and his friend are taken into custody by the police and brought before the high and mighty potentate. This leads to a burlesque of The Trial scene in The Merchant of Venice, the Princess appearing as the young advocate, and her duenna as her "junior." The Shah is considerably upset when the eloquent counsel proves to be his own daughter. But matters are put straight by Smilee, who declares that he is a member of the English nobility, and assumes the garments befitting his rank. Mr Herbert Linscott as Smilee played with melodramatic earnestness, but he used a capital tenor voice with good effect in a couple of ballads. Mr Cyril Leonard did fairly well as Growlee, his singing being also received with applause. Mr A. J. Start's Shah was wanting in dignity; otherwise it was a creditable performance. Mr Harry C. Hewitt did his best to make the Prime Minister a comic personage, and sang a rather out of date ditty "The old Parliamentary Hand" in good style. His smart dancing was greatly appreciated. Mr D. G. Allen scored as the Court Page, and Mr Woodie D. Freeman scored as Smilee's tiger. Mr Alwyn Stewart was suitably placed as the leader of the local police force. Miss Ida Wynn Westcott was a dainty Princess Vera, and sang well. Miss Jessy Chambers was a spirited representative of the duenna; and Mr Cyrus Pott as the Clerk of Arraigns completed the cast. Mr Frederick W. Belchamber was the musical conductor, and Mr Walter Browne stage manager. The dances were invented and staged by Mr Charles Raymond.

THE one hundredth of the series of fancy dress balls took place at Covent-garden Theatre on Friday night, and a special scenic panorama was prepared for the occasion. The visit of the San Carlo Opera company terminated just in time to admit of the due elaboration of the pictorial scheme, which represented a charming view of "The Bosphorus," carried out by Mr Harry Brooke, the scenic artist. A panorama of Constantinople, as seen from the entrance to the Golden Horn, was unfolded to the eye of the spectator. Some of the most noted architectural features of the city were conspicuous, the gilded domes being lit up by warm golden sunlight. This, the central picture, was continued to right and left by characteristic environments of scenery. The orchestra, which has been erected somewhat more forward towards the auditorium, was decorated with Turkish lamps, and here, as usual, Mr Dan Godfrey was the genius of the music which set a-going the tripping measure of the gay throng of dancers. Not only had Messrs Frank Rendle and Neil Forsyth prepared a scenic celebration of unusually gorgeous character for their "century" ball, but they presented on this occasion prizes of exceptional value, while each lady received a handsome souvenir in the shape of an ostrich feather fan. The first prize, which was awarded to the wearer of a dress distinguished from the others either for its novelty or its beauty, consisted of a large diamond, ruby, and butterfly brooch. There were twenty-one other prizes. Supper was served in the Grand Foyer, and the orchestrion assisted in the making of music alike for those who attended the ball to dance and the many others who took seats or boxes to view the brilliant scene on the floor of the theatre.

ARTHUR W. PINERO'S play Letty is the attraction at the Kennington Theatre this week, played by Mr Chas. Frohman's excellent company. Miss Irene Vanbrugh enacts Letty with a passionate tenderness which at once endears the character to the audience. Nevill Letchmere is depicted by Mr H. B. Irving with striking ability. Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson gives a complete embodiment of Marion Allardyce; Mr Scott Craven represents Mr Mandeville admirably; Mr M'Ausland Stewart as Ivor Crosbie is effective; Miss Mary Blaynez as Mrs Ivor Crosbie gives a very good performance; Frederic is safe in the hands of Mr Litchfield Owen; Mr Vernon Steele does credit to the character of Mr Coppinger Drake; Miss Eleanor Souray supplies a realistic characterisation of Hilda Gunning; and Mr Leslie Victor does justice to the rôle of Richard Perry. The remaining characters are in able hands, and the piece has been well received by full houses.

PRESENTATION.—On Wednesday evening of last week, at the Marlborough Theatre, on the birthday of Mr Purcell's energetic and courteous acting-manager, Mr F. R. Yeulett, the staff of the theatre and a number of professional and private friends presented him with a gold chain, sovereign purse, and enamel and gold sleeve-links as a token of regard and esteem. Since the opening of this handsome theatre Mr Yeulett has made many friends; and this gift must be highly gratifying to him, showing him as it does that his efforts for the comfort of those he comes in contact with are appreciated.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—During the past week there have been an unusually large number of openings. On the same night that Sir Charles Wyndham began his engagement at the New Lyceum Theatre, Madame Réjane changed her bill at the Lyric and appeared in La Robe Rouge, her répertoire for the rest of the week comprising L'Hirondelle, La Parisienne, and Incognita. The other openings were Humpty Dumpty, a Drury-lane pantomime with American trimmings, at the New Amsterdam Theatre; Hamlet, with Mr Sothern and Miss Marlowe, at the Knickerbocker; Sunday, with Miss Ethel Barrymore in the title-rôle, at the Hudson Theatre; The Rich Mrs Repton, with Miss Fay Davis, which proved a failure and has been withdrawn; Mrs Fiske's revival of Hedda Gabbler at the Manhattan; and a new musical play entitled A China Doll at the Majestic.

MADAME REJANE'S impersonations have evoked enthusiastic applause at every performance, and the famous French actress has been praised unstintedly in the newspapers, but the scenery used in her representations has been unfavourably criticised in connection with the fact that the prices of the best seats have been advanced to three dollars during her engagement. This week Madame Réjane is appearing in Zaza.

"HUMPTY-DUMPTY," as produced at the New Amsterdam Theatre, is more like a genuine English pantomime than The Beauty and the Beast and Mr Bluebeard were. The harlequinade has been retained, and the slangy songs and dialogue that changed the character of the earlier importations are in the present instance happily conspicuous by their absence.

MISS ETHEL BARRYMORE has scored a personal success in Sunday at the Hudson Theatre. The play is considered a pretty good picture of Western life according to British ideas.

MISS NANCE O'NEILL began an engagement at Daly's Theatre on the 21st inst., enacting the title-rôle in Sudermann's Magda. On the last three nights of this week Miss O'Neill will appear in Hedda Gabler. There will then be two impersonations of Ibsen's unlovely heroine in the field, as Mrs Fiske is playing Hedda at the Manhattan Theatre.

ECCENTRIC CLUB DINNER.

About 500 members of the Eccentric Club and guests were present on Sunday evening in the Grand Banqueting Hall of the Hotel Cecil at the fourteenth anniversary dinner of the club. The Chairman was Mr JOSEPH LYONS, on the back of whose seat was poised a stuffed owl holding a watch in his beak. The owl is a bird of wisdom. He is also a bird of night, and it is a tradition of the Eccentrics that in their club the hand of the clock or watch points at all times to the hour of four. The members say that this means 4 a.m., and conveys a hint that not later than this hour the devotees of the owl are expected to seek their several homes. The company over which Mr Lyons presided included men of business, members of the Stock Exchange, and of the theatrical and musical professions, lawyers, doctors, and journalists, to say nothing of the club's "chaplain," Mr LIONEL BROUGH, who said grace before dinner.

THE CHAIRMAN, in giving the toast of the evening, said he had often been asked why the club was called the Eccentric. There was an American once who on the occasion of a visit to Lincoln Cathedral said it was very kind of the Britishers to name their cathedral after President Lincoln. There was also Tom Emmott, the famous cricketer, who, being asked why a certain ball delivered to the batsman was called a "Yorker," replied, "What else could you call it?" So he (the chairman) was disposed to answer his interrogators in a similar strain—what else could this club be called but the Eccentric? If they as members had one dislike more strongly developed than another is was to see any brother Bohemian or member of the professions which ministered to the entertainment and amusement of the public sink into misfortune. One of the objects for which they existed was to extend at all times a helping hand to those in distress and to do what they could to raise up those who had fallen by the wayside.

THE HON. SECRETARY (Mr J. A. Harrison) acknowledged the toast, and the chairman's health was cordially pledged on the call of Mr RICHARD WARNER, the vice-chairman. After the speeches a musical programme, organised by Mr Frank Boor and Mr John Le Hay, was contributed to by many well-known artists.

THE report of Barnum and Bailey for the forty-nine weeks ended Oct. 22 states that the working agreement with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Company has been carried on as in the previous season, with the exception that, as from Jan. 1, 1904, Mr Bailey, with the consent of his co-directors, entered into a personal agreement with Colonel W. F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") for the acquisition of the share of the late Nate Salisbury's estate in that organisation, assuming all the liabilities of the estate to Barnum and Bailey, Limited. The working agreement with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Company concluded at the expiration of the season at Hanley on Oct. 21. The Wild West Company having decided on a Continental tour, an agreement has been entered into with Messrs Cody and Bailey, dated Nov. 19, 1904, to lease to them a portion of the plant owned by Barnum and Bailey, Limited, at a fixed rental. The "Greatest Show on Earth" commenced its season at Madison-square Garden, New York, on March 19, and concluded its tour at the Coliseum, Chicago, on Oct. 19. It is intended in 1905 to open the American tour at Madison-square Garden. The total balance to the credit of profit and loss amounts to £69,125. The directors propose to write £10,000 off depreciations of leases and plant in England and America; to provide £30,000 for estimated wintering expenses in London, Stoke-on-Trent, New York, and Bridgeport, U.S.A.; and to pay a dividend of 6 per cent., leaving £13,125 to carry forward.

THE last performance of The Flute of Pan at the Shaftesbury Theatre was given on Saturday last.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy, on the 25th ult., Oscar Lotinga, the debtor, known as Oscar Luck, attended for public examination before the registrar. It appeared that in or about 1892 he became a member of a troupe of music hall artists known as the Six Brothers Luck. Between two and three years ago he left the troupe, and for ten weeks toured with a cinematograph entertainment on his own account, but this proving unsuccessful he rejoined the troupe, with which he has since remained at a salary of £3 per week. The debtor estimated that he had lost about £500 in connection with the cinematograph entertainment, and £476 by betting. By profession he was a music hall artist and actor, and his association with the Six Brothers Luck was the commencement of his professional career. His associates were his real brothers. The examination was closed, the liabilities being returned at £787, and assets nil.

THE Bohemian Twins, who made their first appearance in this country at the Brighton Hippodrome on Nov. 21, were presented during the week with handsome gold chains and pendants, each suitably inscribed, by Mr Thos. Barrasford as a souvenir of the event.

OWING to the severe and serious illness (neurosthenia) of Miss Kitty Olive, she is unable to fulfil her engagement this Christmas, as Dandini, at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington, where she was engaged with Mr Fred Karno. The Olive Trio have just concluded a most successful tour at the Moss's Empires, and are now back in town.

THEATRICAL CUSTOM.

In the King's Bench Division on Thursday, before Mr Justice Grantham and a special jury, was heard the case of "Sydenham v. Davis." This was an action brought by Mr George Sydenham, residing at Fallowfield, Manchester, an acting-manager, to recover from Mr Tom B. Davis, proprietor of touring theatrical companies, damages for wrongful dismissal. Defendant pleaded that, by the custom of the profession, a fortnight's notice was sufficient; alternatively, that sufficient notice was given; and, thirdly, that plaintiff acquiesced in the notice. The defendant further counter-claimed for £25, which he said had been advanced for the purposes of the tour, and which had not been accounted for.

Mr Arthur Powell, K.C., Mr Frank Dodd, and Mr J. H. Pugh (instructed by Messrs Cohen and Cohen) appeared for the plaintiff; and the defendant was represented by Mr Le Breton, K.C., and Mr Harold Simmons (instructed by Messrs Steadman, Van Praagh, and Gaylor).

Mr Arthur Powell said in the years 1901-02 the plaintiff had been engaged by Mr Davis to manage some of his touring companies, in one receiving the salary of £6 a-week, and in the other £8 a-week. In those companies plaintiff remained until the close of each tour. In the summer of 1903 arrangements were made for a tour in the autumn and winter, and at the end of May or early in June he asked the defendant if he would be wanted again to manage a tour. Defendant said he would, and on June 2 plaintiff received a letter in regard to The Medal and the Maid tour offering an engagement as manager of the No. 1 company, which would start in October, and was booked up to Easter, less two weeks. Defendant further stated in the letter that he could only offer £6 a week. Plaintiff called and saw the defendant, when the matter was thoroughly gone into and discussed between them, the result being that plaintiff took the engagement at the reduced salary. On June 13 defendant wrote him that the tour would open on Sept. 28, and that Mr Paul Callan was being sent out as stage-manager. Nothing immaterial happened after that until Oct. 19, when plaintiff received a letter from the defendant, in which he said:—"I have been looking into my staff arrangements, both in London and on tour, very carefully, and I regret to say I shall be unable to continue to avail myself of your services after the conclusion of the week at Hammersmith, so that your engagement will terminate with me on Nov. 22. I mention this to you now, as I want you to see I am not superseding you by any new manager, but I have nothing else for Mr Morris." That letter came as a great surprise to the plaintiff, and he replied, pointing out that it would be a very serious thing with regard to his reputation to be dismissed on tour, stating that the engagement had been for the tour, and reserving any rights he might have in the matter. The defendant, in answer to this, denied that he engaged the plaintiff for the tour, and said the engagement was a business arrangement terminable upon business lines. Plaintiff, on relinquishing his engagement sent defendant a statement of the accounts, and saying he would call and settle up the next day, at the same time suggesting that the matter should be referred to arbitration. A correspondence then ensued, and eventually the writ in the action was issued. The plaintiff admitted there was a sum of £25 due to the defendant.

Mr George Sydenham was then called, and said he was first engaged by the defendant for the tour of The Silver Slipper in 1901. That tour lasted for over forty weeks. He asked Mr Davis for a contract, and he said, "Write out what you like, and I will sign it." No contract was written out, however. Forty weeks practically meant a year; but he was engaged for the tour, and not for a year. In 1902 he was again employed by the defendant to manage a tour at an increase of salary. The engagement was made at the end of the first tour, and was also for The Silver Slipper, and was a verbal arrangement. That tour ended in the latter end of June, 1903. Through those tours he worked as manager and stage-manager. It was towards the close of the 1902 tour that the defendant said he would require his services for another tour. Prior to engaging with the defendant, he had acted as manager for the tour of Morell and Mouillot and Miss Fortescue. Without a special provision for a fortnight's notice, the engagement was for the tour.

In cross-examination, witness said he was first a theatrical manager and actor in America, and his first experience in England was a tour of his own, and, secondly, with Morell and Mouillot, about five years ago. He could not remember whether his first engagement with the defendant was, or was not, in writing.

Further cross examined, witness said it was a serious thing to dismiss a manager on tour.

Mr Justice Grantham referred to a letter amongst the documents written by the defendant, in reply to a request to allow the company to come to London between the trip to Liverpool and Dublin. The defendant wrote that it was a most unreasonable request, and asking that it might be pointed out to the company that they got an engagement from July to June in the following year, and that if they came they must pay their own expenses.

Mr Frederick Talbot Cole, Mr Frank Nelson, and Mr Parrington, all theatrical managers, gave evidence to the effect that in the case of managers they were engaged for the tour of a piece, unless it was otherwise stipulated.

Mr Richard Mansel, theatrical manager, corroborated, but in cross-examination said that unless there was a clause to the contrary, a manager, like an actor, could be dismissed on a fortnight's notice.

This closed the plaintiff's case.

Mr Le Breton, for the defence, submitted that the engagement of the plaintiff was an indefinite one, and not for the whole tour, and under such circumstances was terminable by the usual fortnight's notice, though in this case the plaintiff had been exceptionally well treated, as he was practically given a month's notice.

Mr George Edwardes, theatre proprietor, theatrical manager, &c., was called, and stated that if there was no definite engagement, the theatrical custom was that an acting manager was upon the same footing as an actor, and subject to a fortnight's notice. During his twenty-five years' experience he had acted upon that custom, and no exception had been taken to it. In his contracts terms of notice were clearly stated at the end. In case of no contract, the customary practice was a fortnight's notice, and he had always acted on that.

Mr Tom B. Davis, the defendant, said the engagement upon which he was sued was an indefinite one, and not for the tour, and in such cases the usual fortnight's notice, which was the theatrical custom, would apply. In his letter which had been referred to, and in which he described the request of the company to come up to London as unreasonable, considering that they were engaged from July to the following June, he meant to infer that the duration of the tour would probably be for a year, and not that the company were engaged for the whole period.

Evidence was given by Mr Charles Darrell, a theatrical manager of twenty-seven years' experience; Mr James Bannister Howard, Mr Charles Macdona, and Mr Henry John Callan, all of them theatrical managers, to the effect that unless there was a special contract all engagements were terminable by fourteen days' notice.

The jury found that the engagement was for the tour, and that the plaintiff was entitled to the sum of £93, the actual money damage that he had sustained.

Judgment for the plaintiff for that amount with costs was then given, and a stay of execution refused.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

Mr David Day, of Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter, with his wife and son, arrived safely back on these shores on Saturday last from New York, per ss. Lucania, after an enjoyable and interesting trip through Canada and the United States. Good weather favoured the travellers, and the places visited included Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Detroit, St. Louis (where, of course, the great exhibition was the attraction), Chicago, and New York, where a fortnight was spent. All along the line the principals of the music publishing concerns of the great towns and cities visited vied with each other in extending hospitality and welcome to the voyagers, the hostesses including Mrs Sol Bloom, Mrs Dreyfus, Mrs Remick, and Mrs Shapiro.

Trade generally in Canada is reported by Mr Day to be brisk and good, with everything pointing to increase of business in the New Year. In the United States, including New York, the leading firms are all active, each endeavouring to score, but, unfortunately in many instances, the activity takes the form of severe "cutting" competition with respect to the prices at which goods are offered to the public. Certain music publishing concerns recently rented counters in large departmental stores for the express purpose of pushing their own important compositions, to the exclusion of their brother publishers' wares, and then began a cross game between different firms at the hired counters of lowering prices one against the other, whilst the proprietors of the stores themselves discomfited the renters of counters by underselling them all! Fifteen cent musical pieces were in some instances retailed at three cents, so that the five cent royalty will apparently have to be, like "Dida" at the Alhambra, evolved out of nothing.

Mr Day, besides securing the great American hit "The Troubadour," recently referred to in these columns, has brought with him a song entitled "Teasing," by Albert Von Tilzer. The success of the ditty "Bluebell" in Britain has been great; in America it has been greater. But report states that its success is, and is likely to be, totally eclipsed by the newer number.

Mr Bransby Williams, who was among the entertainers at the Eccentric Club supper on Sunday evening at the Hotel Cecil, was seized with a sudden faintness during his recitation, and had to be assisted from the platform. The attack, which was due to severe indigestion, was quite of an ephemeral character, and Mr Williams speedily recovered. His many friends were soon reassured, and later in the evening he delighted them with the vigour and impressiveness of his elocution.

As monologues are the fashion in variety entertainments just now—a fact probably due to the sketch prosecutions initiated by the Theatrical Managers' Association—Mr Bransby Williams is having one specially written for him by the accomplished authoress and actress, Miss Beatrix De Burgh. It will have powerful dramatic interest and a very novel finale, which at present need not be divulged; but we are permitted to state that Mr Williams will be seen in the character of a spendthrift and gambler. The monologue will be seen at the Empire, for which house the young actor is engaged at an excellent salary, and it is scarcely necessary to add that the novelty will be elaborately staged.

Mr Alfred Butt is arranging an excellent programme for the celebration of the twelfth anniversary of the Palace, and the first under his management, on Tuesday evening next. He has obtained the services of a large number of popular artists, including Miss Kate Cutler, Mdlle. Marguerite Cornille, Mdlle. Genée, Miss Winifred Hare, Miss Alice Pierce, Little Tich, Mr Gus Elen, Mr Arthur Prince, Mr Harry Tate, Chirgwin, and Mr Charles Warner. A novel feature of the occasion is to be a new wordless musical play by Hugh J. Ward, music arranged by Julian Jones, in which Mr H. B. Warner and the author, both accomplished fencers, will fight a duel. This will be the first time on record that the Warners, father and son, will appear on the same night on a variety stage. Of course, the son has supported his father on the legitimate boards many a time and oft.

The new Empire ballet which Mr George Edwardes will probably produce there on or about the 19th inst. is an adaptation by Mr C. Wilhelm of Puppenfee, a work that has had considerable vogue on the Continent. Beyond the music by Herr Bayer, of Vienna, very little of the original idea is left except the scene of a toy shop—a veritable realm of dolls—at Christmas time, which is visited by a family in order to purchase presents. At the Empire a Yuletide aspect will be given to the new production, and Mdlle. Adelina Genée will have ample opportunities of exhibiting her talent, as nearly all the funny situations in doll land arise from her impersonation of mechanical figures. A great deal of new music has been added to the original score, but as yet no title has been fixed upon for the new divertissement. Some twenty years ago a puppet ballet was produced at the old Oxford by Mr Paul Valentine entitled Dollytoyiana. The divertissement was prettier than its name.

The engagement of Fragson for Drury-lane by Mr Arthur Collins was brought about by Mr C. M. Ercole, the cosmopolitan agent, of 22, Chaussée d'Antin, Paris, who is said to have secured an unprecedented salary for the favourite Parisian comedian. M. Ercole has been the medium of introducing many famous people to both the legitimate and variety stages in England, and he is particularly proud of his latest contract, for Fragson is among the fine fleur of artists.

The installation night at the Holborn Restaurant of the Pimlico Lodge is always a red letter one; but seldom has there been a jollier or a more important gathering than that of Thursday evening, when Brother W. Wilson, of Leicester, was installed W.M. The new Worshipful Master and his sons belong, as we need hardly state, to the celebrated firm of theatrical printers, who are known and highly respected in professional circles all over the United Kingdom, and the choice of the lodge is therefore an excellent one. At the conclusion of the banquet a capital entertainment was contributed to by Miss Marie Lloyd, Miss Alice Lloyd, Miss Eileen Douglas, Mr Ernest Rees, Mr Wal Grace, P.M., Brother Higham's three daughters, Daisy, Violet, and Hilda (accompanied by papa), Mr Walter Tilbury, Mr Gus Dalton, Mr Max Sterling, Miss Louie Seymour, Miss Mona May, and the gay and frolicsome Will Oliver. The accompaniments were played by Brother George Le Brunn.

Mr and Mrs Frank Glenister were present on Sunday evening at the dinner of the London Pavilion cricket team at the Comedy Restaurant, Panton-street, the popular manager of the Piccadilly-circus establishment being in the chair. Among the party were a number of Mr Glenister's friends and his assistant, Mr William Cobbett, who did excellent work as a bowler during the summer. At the conclusion of the dinner an interesting and enjoyable entertainment gave much pleasure to the guests. Among the contributors were Mr Harrison Brockbank, the accomplished baritone, and Mr Percy Honri, the well-known virtuoso on the concertina. It is as yet too early to speak of the prospects of the team for next year, but if enthusiasm for the national game and ability to play it count for anything, we may expect the Pavilion eleven to score many brilliant victories.

Mr E. P. Morgan has been appointed by Mr Oswald Stoll manager at the New Hippodrome, Manchester, to be opened on Boxing Day, and takes up his duties on Monday next.

Mr W. H. Webster, a former manager of the Grand, Glasgow, has been appointed manager of Mr Geo. Green's new Whitevale Theatre, in the east-end of that town.

Mr Arthur J. Barclay has been granted a licence to produce stage plays at the Walthamstow Palace, where there is an excellent stage, capable of taking the largest productions. The licence does not carry a permit for the sale of intoxicants.

The news of Mr Dan Leno's death touched a sympathetic chord in the breasts of his professional brethren in far-off Johannesburg, and a wreath was subscribed for by those engaged at the Standard and Empire Theatres, in the capital of the Rand. A cablegram to Sydney Hyman resulted in the sending of a floral souvenir, to the cost of which the following contributed:—H. Hyman, W. Seeley, Leon Mooser (Chung Ling Foo), Julius Rosenthal, Billy Hobbs, Hazel Burt, Du Cane Trio, Fred West, H. Blakey, Clara Moore, an Admirer, the Kings, W. Gould, Helen Charles, George Bernard, Brothers Pro, Sass-Nelson, W. Cromwell, Miss L. Hubbard, Pierre Cohen, and Miss Pearson.

Mr Oswald Stoll, who was aptly described on the Leicester Palace stage by a late Lady Mayoress as "that good Samaritan," has once again been the recipient of thanks for his generosity in placing the Leicester Palace Theatre free of all charge at the disposal of the committee organising funds in aid of the Leicester Poor Boys' and Girls' Summer Camp and Institute. The building was packed on Sunday, both in the afternoon and evening, to hear sacred concerts given by the Portsmouth Division Royal Marines Band, under the conductorship of Lieutenant Miller, M.V.O., Mus. Bac. (Cantab). The high-class musical programme was also interspersed by songs by Madame Counter, Mr Alfred Page, and Miss Florence Robinson, Miss Louie Taylor being at the piano.

Councillor Hilton (the Mayor) was present. Councillor Shaw, during an interval at the evening concert, after expressing regret at the unavoidable absence of Sir John Rolleston, M.P., and Lady Rolleston, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr Stoll for his kindness in allowing the free use of that beautiful theatre as in former years; and to Mr Leonard Vidal for his great kindness, assistance, and courtesy. Mr Vidal, in a neat little speech, returned thanks on behalf of Mr Stoll. Mr Vidal had loyal assistance from Mr Arthur Brogden, the painstaking assistant manager; and Mr Bertram G. Isles, the hard-working stage-manager.

A rather interesting event in connection with Mr Frank Macnaghten's Leicester Pavilion Theatre took place on Monday at the residence of Mr Walter Lapworth, when a few patrons of the hall entertained at supper Miss Louie Reynolds. This lady, who during her connection with the hall for the past five years has won the esteem of management and patron alike by her never-failing courtesy, was about to be married to Mr Percy Marsden, a gentleman well-known to frequenters of the hall. The party in her honour included Mr and Mrs Walter Lapworth (the manager), Mr and Mrs Joe Lawrence (the stage-manager), and Mr William Willson (the well-known theatrical printer). During the evening, Mr Lawrence presented Miss Reynolds with a substantial cheque, which had been contributed by the patrons, and conveyed to her the best wishes of the donors for her future happiness. Mr Percy Marsden was also the recipient of an English lever watch. The happy couple were married by special licence on Tuesday morning, and departed for America on Wednesday.

The Empire Theatre of Varieties at Nottingham was the scene of a regrettable incident on Monday, during the first performance of Seeth's lions. The animals were placed in the roundabout structure, and the pony attached for the purpose of revolving it had just started, when one of the lions sprang on to the pony's hind quarters and commenced to lacerate it fearfully. Herr Georg Thielbar lashed the beast with his whip, and several attendants rushed in with iron implements, but all their efforts to beat off the savage brute were of no avail for some time. Luckily the other lions remained fairly quiet, but the curtain was rung down on a scene of intense excitement. Herr Thielbar appeared before the curtain a few minutes later, and was given a rousing reception. A veterinary surgeon who was in the audience attended the wounded pony, which has since died.

Miss Lil Hawthorne was so overcome at the sight of the lion attacking the small pony during the first performance on Monday evening of Seeth's lions at the Empire, Nottingham, that she could not appear during the second performance, but managed to sing on Tuesday evening, although still very nervous.

Two children made application for a licence to enable them to perform during the week at the Hackney Empire. The manager said they would be done work by ten o'clock at night. Mr Fordham—What will they do? The Manager—Sing and dance as girls. Mr Fordham—But they are now dressed as boys. Are they foreigners? The Manager—Yes. Mr Fordham—One is only eleven years of age. The Manager—And the other nearly fourteen. Mr Fordham—No, I do not think it is very desirable to license such young children. I shall not license these. One is too young, and the other looks too ill.

A novel display took place on Tuesday at Belfast. Mdlle. Florence, who is performing this week at the New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties, Belfast, travelled from the Northern Counties Railway Station on a "globe" down York-street and Royal-avenue to the Alhambra. Many hundreds of people followed her, and so dense was the crowd to witness this unique spectacle that a large force of police were employed, so that Mdlle. Florence could go through her performance without interruption. She completed the walk without once leaving the globe, and is deserving of much praise for her clever feat.

After being closed for something like sixteen months, the Swansea Palace Theatre of Varieties was again opened to the public on Monday evening. The interior of the building has undergone a thorough renovation since the termination of the last tenancy, and now looks spic and span; indeed, the hall is now one of the most cosy and comfortable of its size to be found in this part of the country. The premises have recently been taken over by Mr T. W. Grantham, who is determined that so far, at all events, as he is concerned, nothing shall be wanting to start the hall once more upon a career of prosperity. The direction of the new orchestra has been entrusted to Mr E. Southworth, who was responsible for the musical arrangements at Anglesey Castle theatrical performances.

Mr Harry Burns, the well-known agent, has secured Mr Leo Fritz as his travelling representative, thus adding another hustler to his already numerous staff. Mr Burns and Mr Fritz will leave on Saturday, Dec. 17, for Hamburg, Berlin, Dusseldorf, Brussels, and Paris in order to introduce Mr Fritz to his Continental customers, and also to search for novelties.

Miss Claire Romaine, in her forthcoming pantomime engagement at the Borough Theatre, Stratford, will make a feature of Nat Clifford's song "Pennies," which is being sung by her husband, Mr Edgar Romaine, in the halls.

Mr A. F. Parnell, a son of Mr Fred Russell, the well-known ventriloquist, is relinquishing his position at the London, Shoreditch, to join Mr Jack De Frece at the Metropole, Camberwell.

Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter have published five enormous successes in "Navaho," "Bluebell," "Farewell, my little Yo-San," "You can't stop the sun from shining," and "There goes my soldier boy," and the Glasgow public, who are enjoying Mr Robert Courtneidge's pantomime (the first of the season) at the Grand, Glasgow, have acclaimed the tunefulness and charm of these numbers by loud and insistent encores. The Scottish heart is always attuned to simple melody, and the lilt of these songs is simply irresistible.

Her Royal Highness Princess Henry of Battenberg, Princess Ena, Princes Leopold and Maurice, and a large party visited the London Hippodrome on Wednesday afternoon and witnessed the performance of Zutka; Dr. Maxim Boyd, with his marvellous experiments with liquid air; Marceline, and the Leamy Troupe of aerial gymnasts. The Princess Ena accepted a gold kettle from Dr. Boyd, the liquid air expert, as a souvenir of the occasion.

Mr Pat Doherty, who produced the famous song, "The Irish M.P.," has been engaged to appear in the Palace scene in the forthcoming pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, at the Grand, Islington. He commenced his stage career thirty-seven years ago, when he appeared in a little church room in Islington for a fee of "a cup of coffee and a jam puff." Some time afterwards he was in partnership with a brother comedian, the firm being known as Dermott and Doyle, and acted at the Alhambra twelve years ago. On his deserting the stage, he became an Islington guardian and vestry-man, and later a borough councillor.

Mr Doherty made his first appearance on the stage of the popular Islington house some seventeen years since in the drama, entitled Racing, written by the late G. H. Macdermott. In the light of later events the production—which recalled to old playgoers Flying Scud at the now defunct Holborn Theatre—was a highly interesting one, as therein Mr Cyril Maude made his first appearance in London in the part of the Duke of Courtland. The drama saw the footlights of the Upper-street Theatre on Sept. 5, 1887, and Mr Doherty tells an amusing experience of his own. He was playing a costermonger named Ben, who had to be arrested on the racecourse by detectives. One night the sympathetic supers took the situation much too earnestly, and there was a free fight between the (stage) officers of the law and the crowd. The situation had its serious side, however, and the curtain was dropped amid considerable uproar. We should add that Miss Fanny Leslie doubled the parts of a twin brother and sister in the piece.

Mr H. E. Moss has decided that the title of the Christmas production at the palatial Hippodrome in Leicester-square shall be Butterflies in Fairyland; or, Nature Triumphant, a mystical evolution in seven events, invented and produced by Frank Parker, music by Clarence Corri. The production in its entirety will be one of vast mechanical, scenic, and lightning effects, with most extraordinary transformations and optical illusions, and there will be no speaking or singing parts. In order to make room for the enormous quantity of new machinery and electrical plant, it has been found necessary to reconstruct and extend the stage. In point of figures this production will exceed even those of the famous Cinderella, which, as it is well known, cost over £10,000. The beautiful fountains which have been such a successful feature ever since the inception of the Hippodrome are to be amplified and rearranged to such a gigantic extent that over 900,000 gallons of water will be used. By means of some newly invented spray fountains all this quantity of water will be forced into the air, and produce a series of remarkable prismatic effects.

Miss Kitty Rayburn, the bright and attractive soubrette, has been responsible for the introduction of a very popular scena at the Royal Standard during the week. It is entitled The Coster's Bazaar, which is illustrated by an excellently painted cloth, and its exploitation has added much to the enjoyment of Mr Dickie's numerous patrons. In the verses of the song Miss Rayburn—after asserting that the humble street vendors have as much right to hold a bazaar as richer folk—sings in spirited style of various heroes whom she would like to welcome at her stall, and at the conclusion gives a number of articles away to her delighted hearers. The scena is due to the collaboration of Messrs J. P. Harrington and Geo. Le Brunn.

The fact that her Majesty the Queen's visit to the Alhambra some nights ago has been closely followed by that of the Duke and Duchess of Fife constitutes, perhaps, something of a record for variety theatres, and may serve to recall the year of 1897, when no less than seventeen Royal personages honoured the Alhambra with their presence. In this connection it is also of interest to note that the Alhambra is the only theatre of varieties which King Edward has visited since his accession.

Miss Margaret Ashton, whose severe indisposition was announced in these columns last week, has—acting under the orders of her medical advisers—been compelled to cancel all her Irish engagements. The inclement weather lately experienced has undoubtedly retarded the recovery of this charming American lady, concerning whom many anxious inquiries have lately been made. Her innumerable friends are hoping that her health will soon permit her to grace once more the vaudeville stage.

The 383rd meeting of the executive committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Harry Randall, president of the Association, being in the chair. He returned thanks for his election, and said he would do everything in his power to promote the welfare and success of the Association. The secretary reported that sixty-five new members had joined during the past week, making the total number enrolled since the commencement of 10,851, and submitted the names, the election of whom was confirmed by the committee.

Mr George Mozart, who is playing the leading part in the forthcoming pantomime The Babes in the Wood, at the Grand Theatre, Islington, had the late Mr Dan Leno as a deputy at a certain hall just previous to Mr Leno's last illness, when Mr George Mozart was transferred to take up the place on the programme which had been vacated by the celebrated comedian. Mr Mozart filled the position for a week, and on arriving one evening he found "Dan" waiting in the wings already made up. In due course he made his appearance, but later it was discovered that Mr Mozart's number was displayed on the stage and his name on the programme. "Dan" had forgotten to notify the management and the conductor that he intended to appear.

In view of Cattle Show week attractions of a special character have been provided at the Alhambra in a programme which includes Rosina Casselli's wonderful midget Mexican dogs; Asra, extraordinary juggler; the Julianos, "Music Mania;" Master Tom Cruwys, the boy soprano; the Urban Bioscope with "Whirling the Worlds" and up-to-date events; Dida, the Woman from Nowhere, and the splendidly successful ballet, The Entente Cordiale.

Miss Nellie Loomis and company are responsible for an attractive musical and dancing mélange, which was given at the Oxford for the first time on Monday afternoon. There is a quartet of accomplished dancers, who perform many graceful divertissements to popular tunes, among which we recognised "Hiawatha" and "Bill Bailey." Miss Loomis herself is an excellent step-dancer, as she shows in an elaborate solo, which she executes to the accompaniment of Miss Dorothy Rayner, an excellent siffleuse. The "umbrella" number, if we may so call it, is specially good, and the troupe is joined in the finale by a dainty dancer in white.

The Howards, mystifyers, have just returned from Africa in the R.M.S. Galician. They have had a most successful tour from Cape Colony to the banks of the Zambesi with Mr E. H. Bostock's South African enterprise. They return to the Waverley Carnival, Edinburgh, at Christmas with Mr H. E. Moss, making their fourteenth visit. They leave again in March to tour Australia and New Zealand.

The ordinary monthly meeting of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the York Hotel on Wednesday next, at 2·0 p.m. The benefit performance at Collins's is fixed for Friday night next. The members of the Canonbury Club have taken the first two rows of orchestra stalls, and a large number of tickets have already been sold.

In consequence of a prior contract at Plymouth Miss Rachel Lowe concludes to-night her present engagement at the Tivoli and Oxford. At the latter popular house she has been singing the clever song "Any Rags?" and her artistic interpretation is greatly enjoyed. It was stated in a weekly paper that Miss Lowe's "Lucky Duck" Hoppy would be "resting" during the pantomime season. Such is not the case, as she appears at the Kennington Theatre in Aladdin.

Miss Maria Dainton is scoring heavily with her two introduced numbers in Peggy Machree. "Honeymoon Hall," by John W. Bratton, the composer of "My Cosy Corner Girl," has every appearance of rivalling in popularity this song-hit in The Earl and the Girl.

The Empire, Johannesburg, company, sailing for the Cape to-day, by the Kenilworth Castle, from Southampton, includes Florence and Lillian, Frank Lynne, Burley and Burley, Howard and Harris, and the new scientific wonder, the "Magic Kettle," from the Palace Theatre. Among those arriving by the same boat at Southampton, from South Africa, are Paul Cinquevalli, Gracie Grahame, Stephens and Rennior, and others.

The new year novelty at Collins's is to be an adaptation in three scenes of the Parisian wordless sketch entitled L'Idole Brisée (The Broken Idol). The novel scenery will partake of the character of a black and white drawing, and full justice will be done to the piece by Mr Percy Murray, who will produce. Messrs Richards and Burney's enterprise and artistic aim in presenting this novelty are much to be commended.

Mr Fred Lloyd's humorous sketch The Blind Spinster (now at the Alhambra, Belfast) has been very successful in the provinces. Mr J. G. Swanton, a Belfast man (brother of Mr Samuel Swanton, the efficient chef d'orchestre of Theatre Royal, Belfast) appears in the dual rôle of Sir R. Fenton and Rebecca Lemon, which he sustains very cleverly.

The statistical officer of the London County Council suggests in his latest report that, when the time for alteration comes round, and in the absence of direct evidence of rental value, theatres and music halls should be assessed on the basis of net earnings. This inquisitorial procedure, if adopted, will specially affect the halls.

Miss Gracie Grahame, the well-known comedienne, returns to England to-day from South Africa, where she has made a tremendous success. According to the South African press, she has been one of the biggest favourites that has ever appeared there. She opens on Monday next at the Palace, Chelsea; Camberwell, and the Bedford.

Mr Herbert Lloyd, who calls himself a Jack-of-all-trades and master of none, is rather a puzzle to his audiences at the Empire. His humour is distinctly American, and he manages to crowd the fun of half-a-dozen turns into his thirteen minutes on the stage, burlesquing every style of variety artist, from the slack wire walker to the impersonator of noted men, from the juggler to the contortionist. The automobile in which he makes his entrance suggests one of Mr E. T. Reed's pre-historic peeps in Punch, with its tiny candle in a huge lamp, and small wooden wheels. Mr Lloyd changes his suit of vivid red and yellow, covered with diamonds, behind a screen of about eighteen inches high, and appears as a tramp—a clean tramp—with wee electric lights dotted over his clothes and glittering in his beard, and wearing no less than a hundred "dickies," which he throws off one by one. Much of the success of his lively act depends upon the promptitude of his wife, who is billed as Miss Lillian Lilyan, and makes a pretty little figure on the stage in her pale blue frock, sparkling with sequins, and high silver boots.

The Jack-of-all-trades has only been in "the show business" for two years. He comes from Philadelphia, and was formerly a commercial traveller, but he always had a taste for juggling, and even in the days when all his time and energy were given to wholesale stationery, often entertained his friends by imitating tricks of skill and feats of strength. After a tour on the Keith circuit, Mr Lloyd played in New York and other big cities, and came to Europe a few months ago, fulfilling engagements at Amsterdam, Copenhagen, and Paris before coming to London. His wife was also a stranger to the stage until two years ago, but she soon learned to manage his properties, and he would now be quite lost without her. She also designs and makes her own frocks.

His stay in the profession has not been without its trying minutes. Before completing his own act he played for a while with an Irish comedian, and in one part of their sketch had to implore the audience, in a fit of rage, to give him a sword—a hatchet—a club—anything with which to attack his companion. One evening, in a crowded theatre in Columbus, Ohio, a man in the gallery took him at his word and threw a big jack-knife on to the stage. It struck Mr Lloyd on the temple and he fell down, but the Irishman went on talking until he was able to stagger to his feet, and they managed to finish the scene. The Jack-of-all-trades hoped that the owner of the knife would come to the stage door to claim his property, but he was too wise to do so.

Among Mr Lloyd's properties is a pair of dummy legs that he uses in a "fake" contortion act. When he was leaving a small town in the States the two coloured porters whom he had engaged to take his baggage to the railway station refused at the last minute, to his great astonishment, to carry out their bargain. He saw them whispering together and looking at him in a most suspicious manner, so appealed to the hotel manager to unravel the mystery. The manager talked to the darkies, and then returned to the variety artist with a puzzled, pained expression on his face. "This is a very unpleasant thing to mention, Mr Lloyd," he said, "but these boys declare that you've got a dead body concealed in your baggage. They say they can see the legs sticking out of one of those big baskets!"

At Manchester, recently, was heard the case of Ethel Arden Abel v. Emmott and Co., Limited, an action against the proprietors of the Umpire newspaper for libel. The libel complained of reflected very seriously upon Miss Ethel Arden's character. On receiving a letter from her solicitors, and after some correspondence, Messrs Emmott published an apology in more than one edition of their paper, and also in The Era, and some five or six other newspapers; and the purpose of the present action was to get a jury to assess the amount of damages to be paid her. Mr Taylor, on behalf of the defendants, accepted judgment for £650, including costs.

Mr Sydney Arthur, the manager of the Palace Theatre, Lincoln, recently took a benefit, when that house was packed twice during the evening. The programme was worthy of the reputation of the Palace. Additional evidence of the manager's popularity was forthcoming when the proprietor of the Palace, Mr Frank Macnaghten, stepped before the curtain and announced that he had unexpectedly been called upon to present a cheque for £50 to Mr Arthur, a present which had been subscribed to by his brother managers and several of his friends in and out of the profession. To him that was a matter for special gratification, for Mr Arthur had been not only his manager, but his assistant and companion for twenty-four years. Mr Arthur joined him in 1880, in India, and they worked there for fifteen years, and had been nine years in England.

Mr Arthur came with him three years ago to that hall, when it was considered a very doubtful point whether they would or would not succeed in pleasing Lincoln people. But, thanks to his energy and ability, they were there to-day, and he hoped they would be for many years to come. Mr Sydney Arthur had a great reception on appearing to respond. Three years ago he told them he was to be the responsible manager and live among them, and they would be able to judge of his work. The fact that it had been appreciated was testified by the way in which they had rallied round him that night. He mentioned that in the interim Mr Stuart Cecil had done a great deal of work, and concluded with thanks to Mr Macnaghten, to those who had subscribed to the handsome testimonial, to the artistes who had appeared, and to the public for their very kind patronage.

That popular song "I'se a-waitin' for yer Josie," by F. W. Leigh and E. Pether, has been in so great demand in America, mainly through the instrumentality of Dan Coleman's company in Ward and Vokes' piece "A Pair of Pinks," that the T. B. Harms company, of New York, has issued it in sheet music form. Harry Castling's well-known ditty, "Just like the Ivy," popularised in these islands by Miss Marie Kendall, has also been published in New York by the same eminent house.

The playing of Edward St. Quentin's song "Beyond" as a cornet solo by the band of the Grenadier Guards at the St. Louis Exhibition has done much to make that excellent piece popular in the United States, and the B. F. Wood Music Company, of Boston and New York, by arrangement with Messrs W. Morley and Co., the English publishers—who issue the morceau in no fewer than four keys—have produced an American edition, and it is being also introduced into France, Belgium, and Spain by Messrs Hachette, of Paris.

Messrs C. W. Murphy and Dan Lipton have just written for Miss Mina Marie (formerly Miniature Marie) three new songs with which she intends to return to the music hall stage after a retirement of two years. The numbers are considered to be amongst the best this firm has turned out recently. Miss Marie will exploit them for the first time at the Tivoli, Manchester, on Dec. 12.

The members of the New Century Picture Co., who this week are in South Shields, had a very narrow escape from a serious railway accident last Sunday. Leaving Hartlepool at 4.55 p.m., and travelling at a good speed, they had scarcely commenced the journey North when they were run into by an in-coming train. The compartment occupied by them was the one next the engine, and of course this received the full force of the shock, so much so that they were hurled from one side of it to the other. The ladies of the company were the worst sufferers, their carriage being completely wrecked, and the wonder is no one was seriously injured.

On arrival at Sunderland the matter was reported to the railway company, who transferred all the belongings of the New Century company to another vehicle. The accident is, we believe, to be the subject of a special inquiry. The rear part of the train received no injury, and the members of the company from the Empress, Hartlepool, who were travelling to Greenock, suffered no inconvenience.

The Rev. T. Nightingale, at a meeting on Sunday held at Oxford-place Chapel, Leeds, expressed the opinion that every music hall ought to be robbed of its drinking licence and every drinking shop of its music licence. Municipalities, he said, should provide counter attractions to the music halls. Of course he said nothing about the extra burden to the ratepayers which would result if his ideas were carried out. The Rev. S. Chadwick followed, and asserted that it would be better both for the music halls and the public if the drink licences were taken away. The Nonconformist conscience is a fearsome thing that is impregnable to argument or the sweet influence of charitable feeling. It even scents offence in Shakespeare's lovely spring song "When daisies pied," for at an entertainment in North London an unco' guid Wesleyan altered the beautiful line "And lady-smocks all silver white" to "And ladies fair all silver white." "Smocks" was much too shocking a term for this sensitive person, whose ignorance of horticulture was only paralleled by his drurient stupidity.

"Spring is coming!" was Master Tom Cruwys's second solo at the Alhambra this week, and oddly enough the turn that followed the boy soprano was called "Spring and Spring." The name is very appropriate, for Mr Spring and his able assistant perform some astonishing feats of jumping, while Mrs Spring catches and throws the two men with great energy and strength. Both she and her husband have been in the profession all their lives, and their only daughter, a pretty little girl of eleven, promises to be equally clever. She is still at school, but practises a great many feats to amuse herself at home, and made her début as a tiny pierrot when her father was travelling with a circus, being carried into the arena in a large carpet bag, when she was only three years old.

Mr Spring is not only a clever jumper, but a good all-round athlete, having gone in for every branch of his work. He believes in horsemanship as one of the finest exercises, has great faith in the Sandow system of physical culture, and takes such a keen interest in acrobatic or tumbling feats that he is always ready to help young beginners to master the difficulties of their training. He was taken in hand himself at five years old, his master being one of the Ridley Brothers, who was well known in his day as an exceptionally good hand-balancer. Later on he met with several men who have made their mark in different ways on the stage—poor Dan Leno was one of them, also Johnny Danvers, and the Egbert Brothers—and worked his way from the bottom of the ladder in the show world. Mr Spring has met with several severe accidents, but he remains absolutely fearless. On two occasions he fell distances of 40ft. He never lets a day pass without practising, but entertains strong opinions on the danger and uselessness of over-exertion.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE METROPOLITAN.

A success of curiosity is scored at this popular hall by the Bohemian Twins, Rosa-Josepha Blazek, whose peculiar conformation was sufficiently described in these columns last week. That there is a dual personality is proved nightly by the young ladies playing a violin duet creditably; and much astonishment is caused by their skilful manipulation of xylophones. The twins are dressed in green, the skirts being short, and they are evidently pleased with their reception at the hands of the London public. They are certainly a striking attraction, for on the night of our visit the hall was packed in every part, and much enthusiasm was shown. The star turn is Miss Marie Lloyd, who with much archness sings "What, what, what!" and also gives a clever rendering of "It's the skirt that tells the tale." Both songs are of the smart set order, and the Metropolitan frequenters would, perhaps, have welcomed a low comedy selection as a variant. Mr Bransby Williams, who has returned to London after a brilliantly successful tour, still finds the public appreciation of Dickens to be highly encouraging. His knowledge of the great master of fiction may be said to be extensive and peculiar, and he is able to continually vary his impersonations. For the Metropolitan audiences he chooses Bob Cratchitt, from the wonderful "Christmas Carol," and Mr Micawber and Dan'l Peggotty, from "David Copperfield." As the old boatman Mr Williams is particularly powerful, finished, and impressive. He chooses the scene where Dan'l's sorrow gives way to indignation when he learns of Steerforth's base abduction of Little Em'ly. There is tremendous force in the old man's determination, and Mr Williams's voice vibrates with emotion as he speaks of her who has become a homeless wanderer. Miss Gladys Mavius is a most energetic and finished dancer; Mr Edgar Romaine has some success in his endeavours to persuade the audience to take up the refrain of "Saving up the pennies," a pretty number; and Mr Jake Friedman introduces much patter which evidently appeals to his audience, and causes considerable amusement when he imitates a lady with a high soprano voice singing an Irish ditty. Miss Florrie Gallimore, who takes care that her audience understand every word she utters, has a particularly taking ditty in "My Japanese Charmer," the story of an English sailor man who is enamoured of a dainty little Geisha. When he departs for old England's shores she gets married to a happy little Jap, and on the sailor's return consoles him by her hospitality. The archness and vivacity of the singer, the pretty melody, and the becoming costume worn are all hugely appreciated, and Miss Gallimore's legion of admirers are loth to let her depart. A new idea is exploited by Mr Wal Pink, the versatile comedian and sketch writer, who is now appearing solus in an original monologue, Cheap Jack. After an introductory verse he mounts the rostrum of his auction van, and proceeds to offer various articles, his patter being humorous and containing several topical and patriotic allusions. Mr Nat Travers gives his coster impersonation, "Look what education's done for Bob;" Miss Edie Veno has a humorous number, "You can't catch old birds with chaff," with a verse concerning the very inadequate inducements for a youngster to join the army. In her impersonation of a precocious kiddie Miss Veno cleverly imitates the voice of a young child. The Harrison Bros. have a droll duet in "Studying hard for the Bar," and the song concerning different walks is also amusing. The happily associated pair also cause much merriment by their fooling and cross-talk, and win loud applause for their dancing. Mr Dan Crawley is an immense favourite here, and absolutely "lifts" the audience with a couple of screamers in "That's the way to settle it," and "Now you're married." Miss Edie King is a charming exponent of the Terpsichorean art, and she invests her song, "Zaza," with much vim. Kelly and Gillette have a novel and most effective method for securing the union of fun and acrobatics by their somersaults on a billiard table. The bar loafer who sets himself alight is a genuine comedian as well as a fine tumbler. A clever and very diverting show. Other turns in a most comprehensive scheme of variety are Miss Mabel Thorne, Will Johnson, Miss Flo Elvin, and the Albert and Edmunds Troupe. Mr Jack Edgar, the popular manager here, who has been suffering from a severe cold, is rapidly nearing a state of convalescence, much to the joy of his numerous friends.

THE EUSTON.

The big line of the Euston bill is Ahrensmeyer, who is described as "the American cowboy wonder" and "the wizard of the plains," who undertakes to treat crippled, paralytic, rheumatic, and neurotic subjects free of charge by means of hypnotic power. Ahrensmeyer, a striking-looking young man in the thirties, is introduced by a lecturer, who claims for him no miraculous gifts, and asserts his (Ahrenmeyer's) respect for the medical profession, whose work it is his wish to aid, not to supersede. On the night of our visit a young man of the age of twenty-nine, stated to be an estate agent at Tooting, came forward to testify to the benefit he had derived from Ahrensmeyer's treatment, by means of which he was able to move his right arm that had been practically useless to him for a period of twenty-seven years. The limb, which was bared to the public view, appeared to be withered, and the patient seemed to be intensely pleased that he could lift it level with his shoulder. A part of Ahrensmeyer's exhibition is the performance of Miss Rhoda Cecil, who is called the mystifying and only dancing Trilby. This young lady, while under the spell of hypnotic influence, induced by Svengali-Ahrensmeyer, portrays surprise, terror, love, hate, grief, and joy, and her attitudes and play of facial expression are extremely appropriate. The sensation of the show is the indescribable stone-breaking test. A lady is first hypnotised until her body is quite rigid. In this state her head and feet are made to rest on supports, and a large stone is placed on her chest. This is broken by means of repeated blows from a large hammer wielded with some considerable force by a male assistant. There is a comic finale to this interlude of mesmerism when Ahrensmeyer's irrepressible subjects indulge in various amusing antics. Medical experts are invited to test the truth of the experiments, but on the occasion of which we are now writing none put in an appearance. Ahrensmeyer creates a deal of curiosity, and crowds have visited the Euston daily to see "the sleeping lady," who is wakened every evening at the first house. The star comedian of the bill is that prime minister of mirth, Mr George Robey, who has a side-splitting number in his dame song, "Oh? oh!! oh!!!" which will no doubt be heard in pantomime. The song is without patter, but it is illumined by some admirably humorous touches—a remark that applies with equal force to his now well-known "Say no more about it," which is also heartily laughed at. It is somewhat rare to meet with a topical singer nowadays in music hall programmes, but the success of Mr Fred Herbert completely justifies his inclusion in the scheme of amusement mapped out at the Euston. Mr Herbert has a ditty with a very defiant tone—even more defiant we think than "We don't want to fight," to which it bears some resemblance. He sings with stirring emphasis, "So let the Russian bear be careful and beware, before he tries to pull the lion's tail," and asserts the readiness of Britannia's sons, "who were never known to fail." He is somewhat more diffuse in his topical references when he tells us in song what "John Bull said to Britannia." The Beck case, the North Sea outrage, the fiscal policy, and Dan Leno are all treated in verse, more or less rhythmical, and the Eustonians express their delight in no uncertain way. Princess Pauline, in a descriptive song, describes the different manners of the frequenters of the saloon and the four-ale bar. In the latter there is a much warmer welcome for a poor old destitute soldier than in the former—a trait which is brought out with considerable dramatic effectiveness by the artiste. Miss Edie King, beneath the soft beams of the limelight, sings of "Luna," and choosing a less poetic but more up-to-date subject in the Parisian "Zaza," dances with a brilliancy and charm that are but rarely seen away from the great ballet houses. The Sisters Lunelle are attractive duettists and dancers; and the antics of Mdlle. Raffin's monkeys on and off trapezes and in and out of barrels are intensely amusing. Joe Archer gets the ear of the audience in some droll patter; and Howe and Ardie, termed the comic gymnasts, do not belie their name.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

The residents of Hackney and neighbourhood owe a debt of gratitude to Mr Oswald Stoll, who was instrumental in placing in the very heart of this populous district a handsome and commodious variety theatre, which furnishes all the year round an entertainment that, in t own special line, need not fear comparison with any other, even though the programme be that of a West-end hall. During the dull days before Christmas the Londoner, enveloped in an atmosphere of fog, is naturally eager for that class of entertainment that will make him laugh and cheer him in spite of gloomy skies. Well, let him visit the Hackney Empire, and he will find that the bill of fare is so framed that it will afford a certain cure for depression and melancholy. Here, for instance, is that amusing sketch Troubles of a Tourist, played by Mr John Alexander and company. Johnny Brown, an English tourist, meets with some curious adventures at the Grand Hotel, Paris, being worried by the intrusion, not only of human beings, but of hungry rodents. Comical difficulties also arise from a confusion of tongues, and the fun, once set going, never ceases until the finish. Mr Johnny Alexander is a quaint and humorous exponent of Johnny Brown, Mdlle. Clarette is a vivacious Jeanette, Mr Rob Ralston scores as Adolphus, and other characters are ably played by Mr Woodville and Miss Greasley. More laughter comes with the appearance of Burke and Andrus in the sketch, After Covent Garden Ball. The gentlemen in evening dress having enjoyed themselves at the ball endeavour to enter a hansom cab, but they have to reckon with the animal that draws it, a remarkably clever mule, whose performance is as funny as that of his human associates. No one can help laughing at Burke, Andrus, and Frisco. Mr Alec Hurley and company are here in the sketch called The Friendly Lead, which well maintains its popularity. Mr Hurley leads the merry party with his old success. He sings "Thick-eared Jim" in capital style, and another song that is well received is that entitled "Only a leaf," sung by a lady member of the company. Miss Tina Clements, with her horse and troupe of performing dogs, deserves special mention. This artiste demonstrates very clearly, by the way in which she puts the horse through its facings, that she has gained a perfect mastery over it, and both the trainer and the animal are loudly applauded. The dogs also take a prominent part in the performance, and have been taught to "loop the loop" in the most approved style, an active little terrier being so keen on this curious form of amusement that he is seen still "looping" and apparently enjoying it each time the curtain is raised for his mistress to take her call. The Alaskas thoroughly entertain the audience with some remarkably clever juggling and comic tumbling which are both greatly appreciated. The Svarvasi-Ferenez troupe of singers, dancers and acrobats are decidedly popular. The balancing feats they achieve are of an astonishing nature, and the troupe prove to be smart tumblers. Clown Ferreros plays familiar airs on the smallest of concertinas, and then, going to the other extreme, performs upon an instrument of Gargantuan size, playing each with equal facility and skill. He has with him a dog who has received a musical education, and accompanied by the orchestra he plays the hanging bells to correct time and tune. This canine wonder also beats time with a bâton. Burke, Moller, and Teller cause considerable diversion in the sketch The Professor and his Pupils, the latter singing well and also indulging in some quaint dancing to the almost forgotten air of "Pop goes the weazle." The Picquays are applauded for their smart acrobatic display, grace being acceptably combined with some difficult performances. Mr Mark Melford and company in the sketch, Black and White, keep the audience fully amused while they hold possession of the stage. The orchestra, under the efficient conductorship of Mr Walter Johnson, is kept well up the mark, and Mr John Christie ably performs the duties of acting-manager.

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

Five years of a vigorous service in the cause of amusement have been attained by the pretty hall on Denmark-hill, and its proudest boast at the celebration of the fifth anniversary on Tuesday next might be that in all things it has fulfilled its mission well. The guiding hand of Mr Jesse Sparrow has been throughout in evidence, and it is in his unerring eye in the selection of talent, his shrewd judgment, and his personal popularity that the success of the hall has lain. Crowded houses are ever the rule, and this week enthusiastic audiences have been drawn by a programme of irresistible attractions. A foremost favourite has proved to be Mr Harry Ford, whom Camberwellians welcome with one voice. The humour of his songs is subtle at times, but not too much so for his admirers, who are quick to fathom the significance of the phrase "That's enough," or the wealth of meaning contained in the expression "It's a shame," enunciated with ever-increasing emphasis. To all Mr Ford's efforts the audience respond with hearty laughter, and the comedian is not released until he has told once more his intentions regarding the fabulous wealth that he will not get. Another item of the bill that finds the true note of popular favour is the sketch, Me and 'Er, in which the low comedy talents of Miss Minnie Duncan and Mr Arthur Godfrey as the blithe coster couple have effective play. Laughter is chiefly sought and found in the little play, but many a furtive tear is wiped away after the touch of homely pathos with which the sketch concludes. The dancing of Miss Bertha Winder has been the theme of admiration, the marvellous rapidity of her beats in a clog dance, and the regularity with which they are executed causing wonder and applause, while her skipping-rope dance in big boots produces enthusiasm among the audience. The Polurkis divert exceedingly by the eccentricities which have served a similar purpose in the past and the laughter that has accompanied the progress of their mock duel has been loud and frequent. Animated pictures of an amusing and instructive character are presented on the Edisonograph, an elaborate depiction of racing life being shown in "From Foal to Favourite," comic and exciting episodes being also liberally supplied. Bellonini presses chairs and tables and other articles of furniture into service in his juggling exploits, his plate-catching growing quite sensational. A highly intelligent dog and a wideawake assistant aid the effect of the turn, which is deservedly commended. Miss Gladys Mavius, who is known as the Canadian coon, has nevertheless a real sympathy with the popular feeling of the homeland, and the chorus of "Why shouldn't I love my little girl?" and "Someone loves you" are taken up with startling vigour by the audience. Miss Mavius possesses the qualifications of a strong voice and distinct utterance, and while pleasing by her singing, also satisfies by a neat dance. The character of a lady past her prime affords opportunity to Mr Slade Murray to deliver a lengthy disquisition on the perfidy of man, which realises its purpose in hearty merriment, and similar results come of the little sketch presented by Collins and Rice, whose witticisms finish up with an eccentric song and dance. The Rohda Brothers, a couple of acrobats of slight physique but great muscular activity, are more than ordinarily smart on the flying rings, their feats on which are succeeded by balancing head to head, and shoulder to shoulder—the latter a task of exceeding difficulty, which brought forth great applause when successfully accomplished. Miss Florence Yaymen displays various vocal and facial contortions in singing the refrain "Take a long walk and don't come back;" the shadowgraphy of Mr Henri Cazman is interesting and amusing; Cyclo combines humour with his skilful feats on a bicycle; and the extensive programme, which includes Mr Harry Lauder, Spry and Monti, Harrigan and Holt, and Miss Lottie Jackson, is brought to a merry conclusion by the drolleries of Mr Paul Martinetti and company in A Terrible Night, which keeps the house in hearty mirth till the end of the evening. Miss Millie Hylton also figured in this week's company, but an announcement was made on Monday that she could not appear through illness. The orchestral forces have a first-class leader in Mr Leon A. Bassett, and under his bâton leave nothing to be desired.

THE METROPOLE.

Under the direction of Mr Jack De Frece, the Camberwell Metropole still bids for public favour with a programme full of variety and novelty presented on the popular twice-nightly system. Delighted audiences are giving each of the fourteen turns on the programme this week an enthusiastic reception, and from the opening overture, "All the Girls," by Mr Snell-Robinson's admirable orchestra, to the fall of the curtain close on midnight, there is nothing but an endless fund of genuine enjoyment. The Emmetts are a couple of merry Dutch Girls who easily dance themselves into favour, and are followed by Tom Dunmore, a quaint comedian, whose song, "I dropped it," is good. The Great Anthy in his wire-walking antics displays remarkable skill, and is as much at home on his slender wire as on terra firma. His act on stilts is both risky and daring. Walker and Lake in merry cross-talk and smart repartee keep the house in a ripple of merriment, and their really funny song, "When you're in love," bears the stamp of originality. Beattie Bloom impersonates a precocious girl with a song about the lodger. George French in his burlesque of a militiaman is smart and funny, and his song, "Away we went to face the foe," is well written and pointed. Wisper, a pattering comic juggler, although adopting the methods of another popular artiste, is none the less clever, and his business with a storm of hats savours of originality. Maud Wilton in her mimicry of Vesta Tilley and Gus Elen shows great promise in one so young; the Olympian Black and White Quartet win hearty applause and a recall for a series of tuneful part songs and plantation melodies; Marie Wilton in her pathetic ballad "Take this Locket" sings with sweetness and expression; and the Deer Family of genuine North-American Indians, in their sensational two-scene act entitled "Indians of the Past," engage the rapt attention of the house. In addition to executing a clever "Indian cake-walk," trick dance, and an exciting knife duel, they present some artistic tableaux entitled "The Indian Camp Fire," "The Settlers' Cabin," and "The Indians' Attack." Charles Williams defies all attempt to confine him with handcuffs, manacles, iron collars, or steel chains, and, in full view of the audience, frees himself from handcuffs of all nationalities, although secured by some experienced police officials. A most fitting ending to an evening's enjoyment is supplied by Fred Southern and company in an absurdity entitled His Lordship's Birthday, in which one is able to recognise an ancient theatrical farce. Mr Fred Sothern as the dissipated tinker is very funny; as His Lordship and his butler Messrs A. Thursey and Frank Delmere are inseparable; and Misses Gipsy Alexander and May Emery do excellent work throughout.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

It speaks volumes for the enterprise and discrimination with which Mr Arthur J. Barclay conducts this handsome and luxurious place of amusement that, within measurable distance of Christmas, in a notoriously bad season, we find the record of twelve crowded houses every weeek. In point of attractiveness the present week's programme is no exception to the general rule, and if no particular feature stands out with especial prominence, the entire bill is capitally designed to afford an agreeable entertainment. Politeness to strangers compels us to mention first—although it stands "No. 10" in order—the performance of the Osranis, a Continental troupe of pantomimists who, unless we are greatly mistaken, make their first appearance in this country. The sketch, Yvette, which serves as the vehicle for the antics of the company, is of the wildest order and the slightest nature, but is amply sufficient for its purpose. The troupe consists of four gentlemen and a lady, the last-named being an exceptionally handsome and vivacious individual. Although there are many of our native productions of a similar class quite as amusing as Yvette, the sketch is very cleverly rendered, and the perpetual spirit of the whole thing atones for any lack of absolute novelty. It is received with continuous laughter and frequent applause. Our old friends Big Ben Brown and Little George Le Clerq are as mirth-provoking as ever in Black Justice, of which the faithful British public never seems to tire. Mr Charles Lilburn contributes a couple of tolerably good songs. The Bohemians (Will and Madge), musical and comedy artists, play their various instruments with fine effect. Miss Alice Yorke and a gentleman unnamed on the programme appear in an amusing duologue, "A Yacht for Sale," which turns on the time-honoured—not to say hoary—equivoque produced by the lady desiring to engage a servant and the gentleman trying to sell a yacht, with all the usual misapplications of meaning. Both Miss Yorke and her companion act with much comedy spirit. Mr Charles Austin is loudly applauded in two characteristic ditties, and Miss Ella Lane proves herself the possessor of a pretty voice and dainty style. Mr Leslie Stiles appears in an episode of London street life which would be none the worse for the infusion of a good deal more fun. As it stands, however, Recruiting succeeds in winning much favour. Mr Alf Aubyn is a singularly neat and melodious coon comedian. Ruffel's Bioscope displays a series of clever pictures of a big bank robbery. The overture to Balfe's Siege of Rochelle is finely played by the Palace orchestra, under the direction of Mr H. Petersen.

THE LORD CHAMBERLAIN AND "THE HALLS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The Lord Chamberlain has written me that the word "Royal" cannot be used in connection with the Surrey Theatre as a music hall. I see it stated in print that the new venture is to be called the "Royal" Surrey Vaudeville Theatre. When I contemplated taking a lease of this theatre I proposed calling it "The Royal Surrey Empire and Palace of Varieties."

The Lord Chamberlain has written me again, stating that the word "Royal" must not be used, as the Surrey Theatre is now out of his jurisdiction and control, and he has instructed the L.C.C. accordingly to see the word is deleted at once.

Yours faithfully, WALTER STEVENS.

THE CANTERBURY ANNIVERSARY.

The glow of a thousand fairy lamps and the scent of a myriad flowers offered a warm welcome to all who entered the Canterbury on the 25th ult. to assist at the fifty-second anniversary of that ever-popular establishment, which for over a score of years has enjoyed prosperity under the ægis of Mr G. Adney Payne. Within, the auditorium from top to bottom was gay with flags and bunting, the Union Jack spreading its folds beneath the boxes, and the decorations everywhere displaying both taste and ingenuity. Added to these attractive features was the promise of a fat programme, which included the leading lights of the profession, the list reaching well into three figures. An outstanding item of the celebration was the revival of the historic production, with music by Mr Jesse Williams, happily called "Past and Present," in which the favourites of a former generation are outlined on a screen, while the refrain of one of their most popular effusions is sung at the side. Memories were in this way revived of such old-time stars as Jenny Hill, G. H. Macdermott, the "Great" Vance, Charles Godfrey, George Leybourne, and Nellie Power, all of whom had gained laurels on the Canterbury stage. The choruses enjoyed the advantage of being sung by Mr Hamilton Hill and Miss Elsa Joel, whose voices gave added melody to the old tunes, and who won the warmest applause. Interest was further stimulated by the portraits of the late Charles Morton and C. S. Crowder, succeeded by that of Mr David Cowis, the stage-manager, Mr Fred Miller, the popular manager, and Mr G. Adney Payne, each photographic presentment being the signal for loud outbursts of applause. A large portion of the evening was taken up by the sketch Mr Todd of London, which since its first production has been dyed a deeper red, and in which Mr John Lawson as the infamous barber seems to wallow in gore. A sketch most acceptable to the lovers of comedy was provided by Sinclair and Whiteford, who with their funny trifle Getting Even had the house in continuous merriment. The Harvey Boys also contributed to the mirth in their sketch The Fighting Dummy, and Yvette's Hippodrome presented a show in which animal intelligence and novel fooling were agreeably combined. Mr Harry Ford revelled comically in the visionary joys of a phantom fortune; Miss Kitty Wager won the ready sympathy of all in her song of the "Unemployed;" and the popularity of Miss Victoria Monks, who sang one of her latest successes, was endorsed by the cheers of the vast audience. Variations on a well-known air were given on the cornet by Mr W. Bates, who produced some exquisitely modulated notes; and the side drum was neatly manipulated by Miss Vickey Delmar. The New Macs pleased by their song and dance; Miss Dorothy L. Clark trilled "Bluebell" with delightful animation; and evidence of innate drollery was given by Little Cliffe, who sang and danced with infinite zest. Datas ran the gauntlet of questions with flying colours; Mr Sidney Williams sang "The Bay of Biscay;" and Miss Julie Mackey, Miss Lola Dalby, Harrigan and Holt, Mr Charles Pond, Miss Nina Martino, the Sisters Wingrove, Mr Hal Chapter, Miss Irene Weldon, Mr Will Evans, Sibb and Sibb, Sisters Silcott, Sisters Slater, Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, Miss Lina Verdi, Miss May Henderson, Karno Trio, Miss Hetty King, Mr Herbert La Martine, Miss Queenie May, Mr Ernest Rees, Miss Lola Dalby, Lieutenant Albini, and Mr Gilbert Girard completed the list of artistes smartly placed on the stage by Mr David Cowis. Mr G. Adney Payne was present to receive the warmest congratulations, and among those who rallied to the support of Mr Fred Miller, the amiable manager, were Messrs Jesse Sparrow, Charles Beecham, J. L. Graydon, W. Gibbons, Maurice Volny, J. De Frece, Harry Lundy, J. Ruffell, Harry Masters, Tom Pacey, Fred Reeves, George Foster, F. Napoli, D. Cohen, E. De Vere, Geo. Barclay, G. Sinclair, Fortune and Granville, Cory Woodrow, and Theo Dunkley.

M. H. BENEVOLENT FUND MATINEE.

In his speech at the annual meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund last week, Mr Joseph Lyons said that "bad trade and the consequent distress caused so many calls to be made upon the public that they were unable to give such large amounts to the Fund as they had formerly done. What they should endeavour to do was to place the Fund upon such a basis that it was not dependent upon private subscriptions or the support of the public." The support of the public at the annual matinée on Monday at the Oxford was poor in the extreme, and the array of empty stalls was not a pleasant sight for the hard workers in connection with the charity, some of whom were present. The entertainment contained many attractive turns. Early in the afternoon Mr Charles Cunningham and his company appeared in the pretty little sentimental piece entitled V.C., a story of two brothers—one an honoured officer of his regiment, the other a convict. The acting was very telling, and the playlet was exceedingly well received. Mr George Robey came early with his latest song, "Oh!—oh!!—oh!!!" in which he represents a tattered female who concentrates much sarcasm in the repeated exclamation quoted. Mr R. H. Douglass in his monologue which he calls "Proposals" pointed out in the funniest possible way the different styles of melodrama—"then and now," and the ancient and modern methods of proposing. He had also some droll comments to make on the new journalism. Mr Douglass brought his entertainment to a somewhat abrupt conclusion, and the audience evidently wanted more. Miss Millie Lindon gave an excellent sample of idyllic song when she sang once again in her own delightful fashion "The rain came pitter-patter down;" Mr Harry Lauder spread the contagion of mirth with his favourite Scottish song "Stop yer tickling, Jock;" Miss Alice Lloyd found genuine appreciation for an original and happily conceived song "The stockings on the line;" and Miss Kittee Rayburn just popped in to sing "He thought he wouldn't venture any farther." A great hit was made by two juvenile prodigies—Nipper Lupino Lane and Little Cliffe. The first-mentioned is related to the celebrated Lupino family, and undoubtedly possesses hereditary talent, which was shown particularly in his dance, an eccentric solo that brought down the house. Little Cliffe is also a capital dancer, and his genuine success was testified to by loud applause. Miss Nellie Loomis and company presented a series of songs and dances in very attractive fashion. A quartet of ladies manœuvred in the dress of Indian squaws to the haunting melody of "Hiawatha;" and, speedily changing their costumes, sang "Pansy Faces," introducing a little later a representative of "Bill Bailey," who was implored to come home by his female relatives. Then came a sifleuse, who whistled an accompaniment to a clever step danseuse. The show was cleverly varied, smart, interesting, and well dressed. Mr Ernest Shand gave one of his best songs when he sang "Short Stories;" Datas was able to state the exact time of Adam's birth and to prove himself once again a dictionary of dates; Miss Edie King danced very prettily; Miss Lina Verdi offered some clever imitations; the Eugene Family exploited a clever and smart gymnastic show; Mr Fred Herbert created interest in questions of the hour; Mr Percy Honri played the concertina as he only can; Miss May Henderson's dancing was, as usual, excellent; Miss Katie Marsh's imitations of drama and opera were supplemented by some clever eccentric dancing; and the list of turns included Miss Dot Hardy, with a slavey impersonation; Miss Gladys Archbutt, Miss Lola Dalby, and Misses Dolly and Madge M'Calla. Mr W. Burgess directed the orchestra with his customary ability, and Mr George Womack managed the stage.

THE NEW SURREY VARIETIES.

With a liberality and enterprise that should assure instantaneous success Mr Frank Macnaghten has added this historic house to his well-known circuit, and on Monday it opened its doors once more as "The Surrey Vaudeville Theatre." More than the usual excitement attending the reopening of a popular place of amusement was noticed around St. George's-circus at an early hour on Monday, and by the time the doors were thrown open for the initiative matinée performance at 2·30 vast crowds had assembled. But this was nothing to the mobs that besieged the early doors at the two evening performances, for they extended in two long queues, one reaching half way around the circus, the other far up the Blackfriars-road, and a special force of police was kept actively engaged in clearing the road for the electric cars to proceed on their journeys. Some idea of the attendance may be gathered from the fact that at the two evening performances alone over 6,000 persons paid for admission. The illumination of the front of the house is brilliant indeed, for the façade is outlined by innumerable electric lamps, and standing out boldly and effectively in electric lights on a white ground is "Twice—Surrey—Nightly." The brilliancy of the exterior is only equalled by the splendour of the interior, and old habitués of this home of melodrama will be startled at the wondrous change that has been made. The somewhat murky old Surrey is now one of the handsomest palaces of variety to be found in London. The scheme of decoration is in cream, pink, and gold, while the handsome drop curtains, the decorations of the private boxes, and the seating are of ruby plush, giving a warm tone to the whole interior. The lighting, heating, and ventilation are perfection itself. The historic boards that have witnessed the successes and failures of so many cease to exist, for the stage has been relaid, and the honour of being the first artiste to appear on the new boards fell to Miss Sybil Montague, who on the rise of the curtain came forward and sang charmingly the National Anthem, in which the audience, upstanding, heartily joined.

The inaugural programme is a good one, and although it does not scintillate with stars of the first magnitude, it is none the less enjoyable. The innate love of Surrey habitués is shown by the rapt attention bestowed on Mr Fred G. Brookes's efficient combination in the pathetic and sensational scena, A Prisoner of the Czar, which, although familiar, is brought fully up to date by the change of locale from Russia to Manchuria. As the heroine Miss Katherine Clarke plays a difficult rôle admirably, treating the more delicate passages with artistic care and reserve. As Lord Billy Mr Fred G. Brooke plays with manly earnestness and power; as the Russian general, Ivan Louroff, Mr Alec Forbes gives an impersonation at once bold and distinctive; as the kind-hearted Lady Barbara Miss Dora Deane acts with tenderness and grace; as the villainous Colonel Muravitch Mr Graham Woods displays a brutal frankness that creates a strong feeling of abhorrence. The mounting is elegant and the work of the auxiliaries good. The "incidentals" are varied enough to satisfy the tastes of an epicure in music hall fare. Viviana, the dancing girl, wins the early favour of the house, her clever dancing in sabots and afterwards in a merry and lively cake-walk is remarkable for its untiring activity. George Bendon, the white coon, has a voice that easily fills the vast area, and his songs, "My Bamboo Queen" and "Trixie of Dixie," are tuneful and expressive. Miss Sybil Montague renders in good style the popular ballad, "Queen of the Earth" and "Somebody waiting for me," her voice being of rare range and richness. The Brothers Kroney in their new street character act The Lazy Coalmen introduce some new and clever features. Johnny Danvers makes a hit with his funny ditty, "I had no luck that day," his dancing winning for him an enthusiastic recall. Russell and Roper have an original idea as "The Opera Singer and the Sandwich Man," and in their vocal efforts combine sentiment with humour. Gipsy Woolf, in a charming new scena "Seminole," indulges in a series of merry dances, and receives loyal support from her troupe of pale-faced piccaninnies. Her costume of red and silver, made by Miss Lilly Woolf, of 47, Great Portland-street, is very striking and effective. Miss Woolf made a most favourable impression, and was warmly applauded. Foreman and Fannan are ever welcome, for as Percy and Harold they have an endless fund of genuine and original humour that keeps the house convulsed with laughter. Walter Payne's Bioscope, which pictures the fantastic adventures of a tourist party by train, motor, airship, and submarine, is most amusing, and fitly ends the entertainment. The comfort of the patrons is assiduously looked after by Mr Chris Wordsworth, the acting-manager, and the general management is in the experienced hands of Mr Frederic Baugh.

THE M.H.A.R.A.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—My attention has been called to certain remarks made by my friend Mr Pat Carey at the annual meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund, anent a certain proposition of mine which was carried at the last general meeting of the M.H.A.R.A. It seems that I am accused of depriving the M.H.B.F. of the sum of £20. This is rather an unkind way of putting it, and probably Mr Carey did not intend his remarks to read that way. My proposition was never intended to harm or deprive any music hall benevolent institution; and for the benefit of those who doubt my general knowledge I beg to say that I am not ignorant of the existence of any of the music hall charities referred to by my genial friend Mr Carey.

When bringing my proposition before the general meeting of the M.H.A.R.A., I stated emphatically that my reason for so doing was not to interfere with the work of any charitable cause in the music hall world, but simply to increase the benefits already attached to being a member of the M.H.A.R.A.; and as I happened to be a fairly prominent member myself, I was not unmindful of the old adage, "God helps those who help themselves."

Since, however, the committee, after studying the Friendly Societies' Act, finds my proposed scheme to be impracticable and illegal (everybody knows the law is "a hass"), I shall certainly be among the first to suggest the immediate distribution of the £80 in question, just as positively as I shall be among the last to injure the good work of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund.

Yours faithfully, ALBERT VOYCE.

W. L. MURRAY IN ABERDEEN.

There was a great to do last week in Aberdeen because Madame Clara Butt and Mr Kennerley Rumford did not sing classical songs at the Choral Union Concert. The patrons of the Palace Theatre, however, score this week in the classical element, though this highly popular hall would be about the last place in which one would expect to hear oratorio music. But there is a well-known exponent of physical culture "starring" on the bill—to wit, Mr W. L. Murray, winner of the great Sandow competition and gold statuette, value £500, who, previous to giving his high-class performance, entertains the audience with an excellent rendering of the very appropriate tenor solo "In Native Worth," from Haydn's Creation, with full orchestral accompaniment.—Aberdeen Evening Express, Nov. 25, 1904.

MR MORNY CASH will shortly produce a new comic song, the work of C. W. Murphy, entitled "I could have told him that!"

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.
(COPYRIGHT.)

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

If we were asked to give in a word the greatest sign of modern life we would say "combination." The tendency of all life is from the simple to the complex. No class or body of men, whether engaged in public or private life, can afford to do without organisation. This inevitably leads to the husbanding of energy, material, and means. We have already seen the value of organisation in conserving the business interests of the travelling showman, no matter what his line of business or enterprise may be. The story of the rise and progress of the Showmen's Guild, the later development of organisation as shown in the birth of other societies dealing with important, though sectional interests, also, demonstrates the value of union for common ends and purposes. Of such societies we need only cite the two best known, in addition to the parent society the Guild, that is the "Stallholders' Amalgamation" having separate societies for the North, Yorkshire, Lancashire, Cheshire, and the Midland Counties, these all working locally and well to benefit their members. Then comes the British Roundabout Proprietors' and Showmen's Union, a society acting on the most modern trade union lines. It is no disparagement of other societies to say that this union expresses the highest achievement of trade organisation.

THE old society, the Guild, is proud of the fact that the principal workers in this latter society were trained in the committee rooms of the Guild. This, in a great measure, is also true of the Stallholders' Amalgamation, although it has produced some of the ablest of the younger generation of workers for the common good. We now think that the time has come for a further step in advance. We mean, (and we put it here in order to provoke a friendly and useful discussion) the combination of all trade societies dealing with the fair grounds of the United Kingdom. We can see no reason for any further wasting of men and money in sectional interests that in most cases are merely local, and could be easily adjusted by reference to a standing committee of conciliation or arbitration. Our point is—and we have waited until the winter recess in the showman world to bring it under discussion in our columns—that the three organisations should agree upon a common scheme of union, joint action, and responsibility.

EXCELLENT on the whole as their separate work has been, it must be confessed by all impartial observers that the effect on the public mind would have been ten times more convincing had showmen stood together in their multitude under one banner and one leadership. The parent society has been left during the past two years to grapple with increasing expensive defence work and with a diminishing or inadequate income. This is largely due to the fact that the other societies (never, of course, rival societies) have absorbed the attention, working energy, and the support of the particular groups of showmen to whom they made their special appeal. We have never in these columns complained of this sectional organisation; on the contrary, we have encouraged and assisted them in every possible way.

WE have pointed out the danger in financial support to the Guild, and still believe that showmen will not imperil their best bulwark of defence by neglecting the primary duty of furnishing the "Parliamentary defence fund" with adequate means to carry on its absolutely necessary and invaluable work.

ALTHOUGH we have still no fear of the rally to the rescue of the old society, yet we think the time has come for showmen to set their house in order, to combine the three societies into one strong and wealthy union, with committees dealing with sectional or local matters and a standing conciliation committee.

NOW, if there is one outcome of the manifest success of the Roundabout Union, it is that its committee has had power to settle in peace disputes between lessees of grounds and rival show proprietors that would have ended in grievous loss but for the good offices of the Union and its able secretary, Mr T. Hurst. If conciliation so successful as this has been could be carried a step further and be brought to bear upon all disputes that may arise in the business, it would do incalculable good. Where the interests are so obviously one, it seems a calamity that lessees and the whole body of proprietors should be at variance with the smaller traders, caterers, and stall-holders of our fairs. At any rate, let us try to unite these necessarily common interests into one solid organisation for the benefit of the travelling community. We have said enough to indicate the lines along which we would like the discussion of this matter—all important and ripe for settlement now—to proceed. The various committees and workers of the three societies will, we doubt not, agree with us and give us their valuable assistance and opinions on the question we have thus set forth.

MR THOS. HARTSHORN, the secretary of the Northern Showmen's Society, has forwarded to the Rev. T. Horne the following interesting communication for publication in our columns:—

Sir,—Mr Wm. Murphy, with his Golden Venice, and H. Carris, steam horse proprietor, and Mr Joseph Robinson gave the whole of their takings for the benefit of Stockton and Thornaby Hospital, the amount reaching, I hear, £80. This is the second time of late years that Mr W. Murphy has given a benefit, and the third time for Messrs Carris and Joseph Robinson. The last benefit realised £100. I think this shows that the showmen of the north are in friendly touch with the public of Stockton and district. This is not a rare occurrence in the north, as Mr W. and H. Murphy's gondolas and Messrs Richardson Brothers gave a similar benefit some few weeks ago at Bishop Auckland for charitable purposes. I think myself that where the proprietors of fair grounds are interfered with by misinformed councils, &c., they ought, for the protection of themselves and their business, give them an invitation to inspect the homes and utensils of general use, and I think they will agree with us that these homes on wheels are little palaces compared with many homes that are in their own towns and under their jurisdiction.

With Mr Hartshorn's words we are in complete sympathy, and it has been our constant aim in The Era to be the widely read "intelligence department" of showland. All through the Movable Dwellings Bill agitation, and later on the question of bye-laws, we have consistently and persistently fought the showman's battle.

AT the Carmarthen Borough Police-court on Monday last, before the Mayor (Mr E. A. Rogers), Mr Henry Howell, and Mr Thomas Thomas (Wellfield), David Boswell, a showman, who lived in a van at the fair ground, was charged with being drunk and disorderly. The defendant did not appear, but it was stated that he had had a conversation with the Mayor and the superintendent of police before he left the town. From the evidence of Police-constable Rees it appeared that on the 9th inst., at 4.15 p.m., the defendant was in the fair ground, drunk and disorderly, cursing and swearing. He had pulled off his coat, and wanted to fight with a woman. His son and daughter took him away. It was stated that the defendant was about forty-five or fifty years of age. The Bench fined the defendant 5s. and costs.

AT Samuel's Exhibition Palace, Dublin, the proprietor and manager, Mr S. Samuels, is presenting the following artistes:—Prof. Garland, card and coin manipulator; Marie L'Este, ballad vocalist; Arthur Green, Irish comedian; Joe Gill, banjoist; Mons. Elroy, ventriloquist; Lieoce, refined entertainer; and Les Primellas, sketch artistes.

THE November fair at Heckmondwike, Yorkshire, was well maintained by Clarence Mangan's portable Theatre Royal, Harry Ashington's premier pavilion of animated photography, and Vallo's novelty booth. Mr J. W. Waddington exhibited two machine sets. The gondolas and the ostriches, highfliers, swings, &c., were Messrs Edmundson's, Blake's, and Jameson's. The various shooting concerns were owned by J. Holdsworth and Mrs Jameson. The varieties, throwing games, pannum, and other stalls and frames were supplied by Messrs Blake, F. Walker, William Joy, Redfearn, B. Watkin, Houldsworth, C. Jameson, Blackburn, Wm. Eastwood, and Mrs. Jameson.

IN Showland, in the northern counties, the present centres of activity are Stockton, with Messrs W. Murphey's Golden Venice, Richardson Brothers' gondola set, H. Carris's electric horses, Mrs Crow and Sons' galloping horses, Relph and Pedley's Cinématograph, Mrs Testo's exhibition, Professor Moore with fistiana show, and the side show exhibits of Messrs Marwood, the high-class shooting ranges, Morris tubes, and galleries of Messrs Hancock, Robinson, H. Carris, E. Sheeran, Taylor, and Mrs Twibley, a range of highfliers and swings by Mr Thomas, coker-sheets by Messrs Newsome, L. Rich, J. Robinson, and others, and varieties by Messrs Geo. Halliday, Wm. Firman, C. Robson, and J. Jackson.

SOUTH SHIELDS and North Shields have the same shows, &c., as given in last week's issue.

AT Easington-lane are James Manders' cockerels, and Lowther, Rostron, H. Shaw, M. Watkins, T. Cain, and Thos. Hartshorn with their celebrated minor concerns.

SOUTH HETTON still has for its entertainment W. Cowie's steam horses, shooting gallery, and cocoanut sheets. At Witton-park Mackney's ghost pavilion is still drawing good business.

THE following additional fixtures for Christmas and New Year are to hand:—Birkenhead (two grounds), Bedminster (Bristol), Barrack-street (Glasgow), Brighton (Symonds' World's Fair), Carnarvon, Hillkirk-street (Bestwick, Manchester), Hyde-road (Ardwick, Manchester), Ipswich, North Haymarket (Liverpool), Monument-road (Birmingham), Portsmouth, and Oldham.

WE have received the annual report and balance-sheet of the North of England Amalgamated Showmen, Stallholders, and Amusement Caterers' Society (the "Amalgamation"). It is very fully itemised, and as it is already in the possession of its members, we will only give to the general public a summary:—Grand total of income from all sources, including balance of last year (1903), stands at £397 10s. 7d; the grand total of expenditure on all counts £237 12s. 5½d. In the North-eastern Bank, invested in the trustees' names, remains the handsome balance of £249 18s. 1½d. The Amalgamation has been very active during 1904. In all eighteen meetings have been held.

WE are requested by the secretary of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union to urge upon our readers a quick response to the levy of two guineas a member to the Parliamentary Fund.

AT Holloway's New Empire Theatre, Astwood Bank, a benefit has been given in aid of a children's Christmas party, £3 being taken. Mr Holloway will probably stay at this town over Christmas. He is having very good houses indeed considering the weather. He recently took the handsome sum of £10 for the hospital funds.

A PLEASING feature every year is the meeting at York Fair of the Travelling Showpeoples' National Total Abstainers' Union. This most excellent society does much in the fair grounds of the country. The work of Miss Millington is above praise. Alderman Agar, J.P., recently presided over this year's gathering, and with him were Mr W. Morrell, J.P., and the hon. treasurer and editor of the quarterly paper of the society, the Caravan, a bright eight-page journal, that finds its way into every caravan on the road. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. J. H. Morgan, and the large hall in the Manor Rooms, Goodramgate, was crowded by showpeople and their many friends in the ancient city.

MISS MILLINGTON, hon. secretary, gave an account of the work of the union, which had been carried on for the last twenty-four years. During the present year 127 Sabbath meetings had been held in different parts of the United Kingdom, and much good work had been done by refreshment tents on the fair grounds, the holding of children's meetings, and the free distribution of the showmen's newspaper. Increased subscriptions were greatly needed in order that this useful paper might be continued. Solos were sung by Miss Glass and Mrs Wrigglesworth. Miss Laming kindly presided at the piano, and Miss Morgan gave an excellent recitation.

TUXFORD, a small market town midway between Retford and Newark, has been the scene of a remarkable auction sale this week-end of effects belonging to the late Mr R. S. Wilson, a retired veterinary surgeon. Mr Wilson, who lived at the Hall, was one of the most eccentric characters ever seen in Nottingham. He spent the years of his retirement in arranging in part of his grounds a "hell," to which place he consigned all and sundry who offended his political or religious views. He turned his house into a private museum, which all and sundry were permitted to view. In one room was the bedstead on which King John breathed his last, and in it reposed a realistic effigy of the dead monarch.

MR WILSON once said, "People declare that the devil is going about as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. That is all rubbish; because I have him safely chained here!" Prominent among the helpless figures presided over by his Satanic Majesty King Alchohol is represented as being an intimate friend of the Tobacco Devil; the hypocrite and time-server were apparently cast into outer darkness at the same time; priestcraft is associated with superstition; the religious lawyer and the man who can tell to a square inch where he was converted appear to be on the same plane; the chattering charwoman and the president of the Primrose League are near neighbours; and "the woman with the proud look and lying tongue" is portrayed as beguiling the "young man whose heart is void of understanding." The Phœnix-park murderers—"Joe Brady" and "Skin the Goat"—along with President Kruger and the war party, form the principal figures in the population of the bottommost parts of hell. In addition there is a varied assortment of less notorious demons, such as ordinary liars, thieves, murderers, and other undesirable persons, who are represented as being found outside the Kingdom of Heaven.

SUCCESSFUL showmen, like poets and men of genius, are born, not made. Mr Wilson was a born showman. What originality and ability he must have had to work out the extraordinary idea that possessed him!

AT Warminster Fair Messrs Symonds, with roundabouts, and Mr Dooner, with Cinématograph, gave six hours' receipts to the local Cottage Hopital. The takings amounted to £14.

HANCOCK'S WINTER GARDENS, PLYMOUTH, is doing big business this week, a very varied programme, including a laughable sketch, fooling by clowns, up-to-date songs by Miss Cissy Lomax, Moig and St. Cleer, and animated pictures.

THE case of Oliver v. Bagan has excited considerable interest in the Glasgow district. It was heard recently before Sheriff Millar at the Sheriff's Court, Glasgow. Dr. J. C. Oliver, the well-known illusionist, sued Owen Bagan for £30, balance of account due and acknowledged by him. After hearing the evidence produced by both parties Sheriff Millar gave judgment in Dr. J. C. Oliver's favour, with £5 17s. 10d. expenses. An appeal was lodged, and will be heard on the 16th inst. Dr. Oliver was at one time on the Scientific Staff of Her Majesty's navy, holding first-class certificates for engineering, torpedo, and electricity.

ON Monday night, through the generosity of the proprietors of the shows and roundabouts in Darlington Market-place, a goodly sum was raised in aid of the Darlington Hospital. As is well known, the hospital is in pressing need of funds, and the decision of those owning the numerous sources of entertainment in the market-place to hand over last night's proceeds to the institution was warmly appreciated and heartily responded to by the public, who flocked in large numbers to the maket-square to enjoy the fun.

THE Mayor (Councillor C. H. Leach) and the Mayoress formally inaugurated the carnival about five o'clock. Subsequently an informal meeting of the representatives of those bodies interesting themselves in the hospital was held to pass a vote of thanks to the amusement caterers who had so generously come to the aid of the hospital. Among those present were the Mayor and Mayoress (Councillor and Mrs Leach), Mr Edward Hutchinson, Mr G. Newby Watson, Councillor C. F. Dixon, Councillor B. Biggs, Mr F. Pearson, Mr Richard Luck, Mr R. M. Dove, Mr W. Hobson, J.P., Mr Jonathan Ward (secretary of the works representatives), Mr Leeman, Mr T. Lishman, and Mr S. Gosling.

MR G. NEWBY WATSON, on behalf of the committee of the Darlington Hospital, proposed a vote of thanks to those who had placed their roundabouts and stalls at the disposal of the committee for the night. He mentioned that they had recently built a new wing at the hospital, which they could not open for want of funds. Mr Watson announced that Mr J. Smith, jun., Olympia, Sunderland, who had found himself unable to remain in Darlington for the evening, had left a donation of 10s. with the market superintendant. Mr Leeman seconded, and the motion was carried. Mr Campbell (on behalf of the proprietors) replied. He said they were only too pleased to do what they had done, as it was but their duty.

A VOTE of thanks was carried to the Mayor, on the proposition of Mr R. Pearson, seconded by Mr Ward. The mayor, in responding, jokingly remarked that he thought he had mistaken his vocation. He ought to have been a showman. He was not sorry to be there, if only to have a legitimate excuse for a frolic. His worship suggested the holding of a united bazaar during his year of office in aid of the hospital extensions. If properly worked it should realise £2 000. The following proprietors kindly placed their shows, &c., at the disposal of the hospital Committee:—Messrs W. Murphy, Richarson Bros., Relf and Pedley, J. Hancock, E. Sheeran, F. Taylor, A. Smith, Mrs Kelly, Messrs A. Newsome, Bennett, Pattison, Adams, Wright, Clark, and Wm. Jones.

THE result of the evening's frolic was the collection of a sum of £82 9s. 7d. for the hospital, and it is expected that this will be increased by a few others yet to come in. The following were to hand last evening:—Murphy, £32 3s. 7d; Richardson, £22 17s. 4d; Pedley, £13 17s. 10d.; Bennett, £1 3s. 4d.; Clarke, £1 10s. 5d.; Jones, 1s. 10d.; Sheeran, £1 1s. 8d.; Pattinson, 13s 3d.; Adams, 4s. 10d.; Smith, £2 12s. 9d.; Kelly, 7s. 1d.; Wright, 3s. 4d.; Newsome, £4 1s. 4d.; and sundries, £1 11s.

MESSRS BOSTOCK AND WOMBWELL are paying a return visit to South Shields with their famous collection of animals. The menagerie contains 700 specimens, and it is admittedly one of the finest travelling exhibitions of its kind. A novelty is provided in the wonderfully long double-maned horse Linus, which has a length of tail of 17ft. and length of mane 13ft. The animal itself is a fine specimen of horseflesh.

THE hybrid zebra, half zebra and half Scotch pony, was born in 1896, and was once the property of King Edward VII., who kept it many months at Sandringham. The wild boars on view were also the gift of the King to this menagerie. The carnivora are under the special care of two well-known and daring trainers, Captain Rowley and Captain Wombwell, who enter the cages several times during the afternoon and evening. The visitors are enlightened as to the exhibits by Mr J. Tronson, lecturer and assistant-manager.

THE School Management Committee of South Shields recommended that the offer of Messrs Bostock and Wombwell to give special performances for school children at 2l. each at the specified times should be approved; that the teachers should be authorised to arrange for the attendance of such of their scholars as were willing to pay, and that the visit to the exhibition should be treated as an object lesson in natural history.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to us for the address of the Lancashire and Cheshire Stallholders and Showmen's Federation. Will he kindly send to Mr Wm. Gibson, 634, Rochdale-road, Manchester.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—With your permission I would like to make a few suggestions to the readers of the "Showman World," in your valuable paper, re the strengthening of the "Showmen's Guild," which is not supported as it should be. It would be one of the wealthiest societies in the country if showmen would only be loyal to their own interests. In the first place, I suggest that our leading roundabout proprietors, who, I am glad to say, are nearly all members of the Guild, should compel their tenants to become members of the society,

Ninety per cent. can afford to join, and pay some time in the course of a season. A showman can join any month in the year, and his membership runs for twelve months from the date he enters.

Yours faithfully, W. M. A.

INFORMATION relating to Shows and Fairs, suitable for this column, should be addressed to THE EDITOR, "The Showman World."

LOSS in connection with the organisation of the wrestling matches between Hackenschmidt and others for the world's championship at the Albert Hall was the cause assigned by Garabed Hohannas Topakyan, who lately carried on business as a theatrical agent in Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, for his appearance in the London Bankruptcy Court on Thursday. His creditors decided that his estate should be wound up by the Official Receiver, the statement of affairs showing liabilities £3,718 and net assets £430.

THE M'Kaye' Magic Kettle has been secured by Messrs Mark Sheridar, O'Connor and Brady, Phillips and Lorenzi, the Bentleys, Brown and Le Clerq, the New Macs, Gilbert Rogers, Abel and Welsh, and others, for pantomime.

AMONG other new items on the halls is a new musical comedy sketch, Elizabeth and the Baby, which is going headlong into favour, under the able pilotage of Mayon and Marle, who return shortly to London with this very successful tit-bit.

STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE:
(COPYRIGHT.)

By the REV. T. HORNE
(Hon. Chaplain, Showmen's Guild.)

THE SWITCHBACK IN SCLAVONIA.
TOLD BY THE MANAGER.

"Truth is proverbially stranger than fiction, and that machine, sir, but for my interference, would have changed the dynasty of a now much-talked-of Eastern kingdom. You must know, sir, that I cannot give real names, but I will sail as near to the fair winds of truth as I possibly can in this o'er true tale of political intrigue and dynastic conspiracy. As you are aware, my firm, Murdy, Hollins, and Co., Limited, have the greatest number of roundabout machines under one control in the world. When the switchback gondolas were a startling novelty, and literally coining money at every fair, it occurred to our people to send machines not only to America, the Colonies, and the principal European countries, but also to venture into the near East and Russia. The story with which I am now concerned we will place, if you please, in the city of Belgrave, the capital of one of those mushroom kingdoms on the border line of Europe proper and Turkey land.

"It was a fair, and I can tell you, as fairs go, we have nothing like the three weeks' business that marks Belgrave Fair. About the end of the second week a mysterious native began to make friends with me. I was bound to be cautious, but try as I would I could not shake him off. Suspecting that there was something more than met the eye in the man's persistence, I played up to him, and let him believe that I valued his friendship. He even went so far as to tell me that he would find all the capital and enter into partnership with me to run machines through the country. Getting a bit curious as to what his game might be I fell in with his suggestion. Then he 'let the cat out of the bag,' for he wanted to see the inner mechanism of the machine. This, of course, in loyalty to my employers and the makers, I could not allow. At this rebuff he altered his tactics, with a shrug of his shoulders, exclaiming, 'Ah, my friend, it does not matter, when we have a machine of our own as my partner in the business you will then teach me all its secrets.'

"Of course, I could not be tied to the switchback, there were times in the slack hours of the day that I was obliged to seize upon to get through my agency correspondence work. My chief assistant was a dependable man, at least, so I thought; but as the event proved he was not proof against the heavy bribery of my would-be friend. Returning to the machine after some seven or eight hours absence one day I was astonished to find the fair ground all alive with the most unexpected cause for excitement. The young king and his elderly wife were paying a surprise visit to the fair. Of course, had I anticipated this nothing should have kept me away from the ground, our concern being the biggest novelty, and its fame in all probability the main cause of the Royal visit. I cannot tell you how it happened sir, but in an instant my mind turned to my mysterious would-be friend and prospective partner. Why did this man persist so in his visits to the switchback? And all in a flash of thought I connected the man with the seething mass of intrigue and political ferment which afflicted this and the neighbouring countries.

"Turning to my man I said, 'Why is the machine not running?' After some hesitation, and not raising his head from the pay account book he was busy with in the pay-box, he answered, 'Oh, sir, a Royal runner from the palace came round an hour ago and warned us (that is, all the big concerns) to wait for the Royal party, and not exhibit until the King and Queen visited us.' I went straight up to the pay-box. I don't know why I did it, but I did, and in a passion that frightened the man demanded, 'Tell me, has that foreign devil been here in my absence?' Not giving him time to frame a lie, I added, 'I want the truth, and, by God! I will have it. Has he been here?' He trembled and paled before me, and at last confessed. 'Yes he has been here, and gave me five quid to let him be three minutes in the T section of the concern.' 'The T section,' I exclaimed, puzzled and bewildered, 'what for, what for? He could not learn the wrinkle of Savage Brothers' patent in three minutes. That's not his game. What is it? What is it?'

"At this critical moment the Royal party, some forty or fifty notabilities, headed by King Alexis and Queen Dracma, crowded the entrance steps of the 'Frame.' The excitement of their advent drove, for the moment, the doubts and suspicions I had been nursing, from my mind; and, indeed, no wonder, for it is not every day we have a Royal party on a roundabout. But no sooner were they all seated in the gondolas, when like a flash of lightning my mind reverted to its former trouble. Taking instant decision, I shouted to the man at the engine waiting my signal to start the machine. 'Stay one moment; do not start until I give you the "office."' Of course, this all took less time than it takes now in the telling. Switching on the lower examination lights, I began a rapid but thorough search of the underneath framework and tram-line grooves.

"My search was rewarded in two minutes' time, for I found slipped into the groove of the tram line, close to one of the wheels, in fact, wedging it, a powerful dynamite tube cartridge. You may imagine my state of mind. Rapidly finishing my investigation of the whole ground work of the frame, I gave the signal, "Start away." The engine throbbed, the machine moved, the organ played the Sclavonic National Anthem, and like merry children the Royalties and the Court entered into the fun of the ride, and for quite ten minutes the young king delayed the signal to cease, he and his queen enjoyed it so thoroughly. I can assure you it was with a thankful heart I watched the departure of the Royalties to the next show on the ground. The danger was over, and I had in my coat pocket the diabolical cartridge of dynamite charged with enough potential evil to wreck the fairground and hurl into eternity scores of innocent people.

"My wrath against the conspirator was a consuming fire. I guessed that he would be somewhere near, and my one object in life at that moment was to see him safely laid by the heels. The superintendent of market police was well known to me, and in a few minutes I had found him and told him enough to justify to apprehension of the villain could we but spot him on the ground. Like the moth attracted by the light of a candle, he could not keep away from the switchback. Puzzled, no doubt, by the manifest failure of his atrocious scheme, he came with the crowd of sightseers, and, of course, gave us our opportunity. It was a neat bit of work, for in a jiffy he was manacled, searched, and hustled into a 'droschka,' and driven away to the military prison. Now, I know enough about chemistry to appreciate to the full the peril of carrying about a tube 9in. long charged with dynamite, and both ends capped with a powerful detonating charge of guncotton. I was glad, therefore, in the privacy of my own room to separate the devilish machine into its different integral parts. Right glad as I was to do this for my own immediate safety, for your dynamite spirit is a queer devil to cage, I was glad also for another reason, which I will now explain to you.

"As you are aware, in Eastern lands, whether near or far, no business man can get along without a liberal use of 'palm oil.' I had been bled by the official caste in Sclavonia till I was not only tired of the infliction, but was seriously determining to return to the Continent because the business would not stand this terrible exaction of the 'Backsheesh fiend.' The biggest sinner in this respect was the chief of the secret police, and now I saw a chance of getting my own back again and with interest. So next morning found me an early visitor at the Bureau of His Excellency the Préfecteur of Police. For dramatic effect I had made dummy capsules to my dynamite cylinder. With apparent ignorant carelessness I threw the tube on to the table before the Préfecteur, exclaiming 'That's dynamite, your Excellency.' The man jumped two yards away and stood trembling for several moments. When at last he found his speech he said, 'Why do you bring it here? Take the devilish thing away.' I replied, 'It's pretty harmless now; I drew its teeth before I brought it here, but when I found it it was a real devil full armed for mischief.'

"Upon this assurance he returned to his desk, the official in him over-mastering the pardonable cowardice of the man. 'Where did you find it?' Speaking with great deliberation, I said, 'Last night; three minutes before the King, Queen, and Royal party began their ride on the switchback.' With astonishment and alarm full written upon his face, he said 'Can it be true? We never had a single word of warning concerning any plot touching the Royal party!' Now was my chance. Looking him square in the face I retorted at once, 'No, sir; both you and your chief officials are too busy exacting unlawful tollage, commonly called "palm oil," from the stranger within your gates to have time left to guard the Royal house.' He winced, and diplomatically ignoring my attack, begged me to give him full details of the extraordinary affair. I told him, and you may judge his astonishment when I supplemented the story with the capture of the chief conspirator.

"A terribly tragic note punctuated my narrative. At this critical moment there was a ring at the telephone. Taking the receiver down, he said the usual interrogation, and obtained this startling reply, which he spoke aloud for my edification—'Prisoner XXV., cell K, received last night from the Market Superintendent of Police, has committed suicide, after a fruitless endeavour to masticate a document of the most incriminating character. We have reason to believe he was identified with the body of Court conspirators known to be interested in the return of the Dragovitch family to the Throne. We await your Excellency's instructions.' Turning to me with great gravity, he said with considerable warmth—'Sir, you have done the State a great service. I ask you to regard this matter as a State secret of vital moment. I will see the High Chancellor, and it may be that the King himself will be made cognisant of the providential escape he and his have had.' Of the aftermath of this dynastic conspiracy the world at large has had most tragic knowledge. It is enough for me to say that I was bound, so long as the King reigned, to absolute secrecy. The conspirator's suicide removed the necessity for either his secret deportation or execution after public trial. The High Chancellor carried out the King's express desire that nothing should be done that might arouse public anxiety or draw attention to his uncertain tenure of the throne. His Excellency the Préfecture made me a present of a handsome cheque, which more than restored the balance as to 'Backsheesh.' And this bauble (a ruby rose set in diamonds) is the emblem of the Royal Sclavonic order, of the Red Rose bestowed upon me in private audience by the Queen herself as a mark of Royal favour, the High Chancellor handing me at the same time the King's warrant to erect and exhibit my gondola switchback anywhere within the kingdom of Sclavonia."

FRANK C. BOSTOCK.

The subject of our sketch is English by birth and American by conviction, having heaps of friends on both sides the Atlantic. "The Animal King," as the world now knows him, is a son of that fine old showman Mr James Bostock, who married a daughter of that equally representative family the Wombwells. It is not surprising, then, that Mr Frank C. Bostock (although intended by his parents for the Church, and educated at Kelvedon College with that view) should have followed his inherited tendencies, and embarked on a career which has made him to-day one of the world-celebrated managers as well as the most famous animal trainer in the history of the profession.

Dealing with two continents, he at present directs his vast enterprises in the States from Paris, where he has made the enormous Hippodrome there a success such as even its most sanguine promoters could never have dreamed of. The Paris Hippodrome is to-day as much a feature of Paris life as, on another side, the Opéra or the Louvre; and, after ruining no less than three limited liability companies to the extent of many millions, has become, under the audacious and clever management of Frank C. Bostock, a palace of clean, honest amusement to which flock all the best people not only in Paris proper but throughout France.

This feat alone would prove a sufficient success for any ordinary man, but Mr Bostock—"Bostock" tout court, as the Parisians affectionately style him—cannot rest on his laurels. Not satisfied with being probably the most envied theatrical manager in Paris, he is still continuing his popular exhibitions in America, of which the magnificent "Dreamland" at Coney Island is such a good example; he has his gigantic breeding establishment at Cleveland, and is interested in a score of schemes on this side of the Channel. His latest idea is a colossal tour throughout Europe on a scale hitherto unattempted; but the man who has fought his way to fortune at the Paris Hippodrome through every difficulty and obstacle that envy, hatred, and malice could create may be trusted to accomplish any object he attempts.

In person, Mr Frank C. Bostock is just a fine, big, handsome fellow; in disposition, genial, kindly, and just; very greatly feared by his enemies, of whom he has but few, and sincerely liked and admired by his myriads of friends.

"MACCOMO."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I read with very great interest the article in your last issue re Maccomo, the lion-tamer, a man who in his day was in every sense a "star artist." On referring to my library of menageries and circuses past and present, I cannot find any trace of his being killed at Newcastle-on-Tyne by the beasts he so ably put through their performance. Frost says he died in his bed. There have, of course, been accidents in the profession, notably Macarthy, done to death at Bolton, and another performer at Burton-on-Trent some few years ago, and many others. How we old folks miss the old shows! Edmond's Windsor Castle menagerie; Wombwell's No. 1 (his splendid brass band was an institution); Batty; William Sanger's waxwork show, with golden caryatides supporting a gorgeous front; and many others. Times have changed; and when one visits the modern "Mop" or "Hiring," one misses the "dear old pals" of long ago. Born in Newbury, Berks, where such distinguished kings of the showman world as the Sangers first saw the light, I may claim to know a good deal about the subject.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES J. CHILDS.
Ashleigh, Churchill-road, Guildford, Nov. 28.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The Rev. Horne's reminiscences in The Era of Saturday, 26th, of Maccomo, the lion tamer, is in substance correct, but when he comes to deal with his death he is in error. Maccomo was not killed by the lions, but died a natural death, so to speak, of pneumonia, caused by his getting wet and cold. He died at Sunderland, and was buried there, Manders' band playing the Dead March at his funeral.

Yours faithfully, LION.

TRADE SOCIETIES AMONGST SHOWMEN

By the Rev. T. HORNE
(Hon. Chaplain, Showmen's Guild).

III.—NORTH OF ENGLAND SHOWMEN'S SOCIETY.

When showmen, like other craftsmen, begin to organise and bind themselves together they meet with a common difficulty. All combinations of varying interests in a complex industry find the same trouble—how to hit upon a short, clear title that will fix itself in the public mind, and also do justice to the many classes and interests that the organisation champions and represents. Showmen as a body have been particularly handicapped in this respect. Every one of their societies has a long-winded, double-barrelled name. "The United Kingdom Showmen and Vandwellers' Protection Association," "The British Roundabout Proprietors' and Showmen's Union," "The Federation of Lancashire and Cheshire Showmen and Stallholders," are examples of this long-windedness in nomenclature. It is only after years of hard work, under the incubus of a verbose title, that the oldest of them has acquired the expressive and terse name, "The Showmen's Guild." We are beginning to speak of "the Federation" to distinguish the Stallholders' Society from the Guild. We have even dared to speak of the British Roundabout Proprietors' Society as "The Roundabouterr," and we venture also to boil down the grand, high-sounding title of the society now under review—the North of England Amalgamated Showmen, Stallholders, and Amusement Caterers' Society—to the simple formula, "The Amalgamation." This essentially "North Countree" association had its origin three years ago at Shildon Flower Show, a famous modern fair. Mr James Hancock determined that the time was ripe for the organisation of fair ground interests in the North of England. At a meeting convened by him at Shildon, a provisional organising committee was elected. Mr Hancock was called to the presidency, Mr John Cooper to be treasurer, and Mr George Campbell, secretary. This executive body called together a mass meeting of show people at Houghton-le-Spring Feast. Mr Hancock's presidency was confirmed, and Mr Geo. Gray, sen., was appointed treasurer, and George Gray, jun., secretary.

Thus was the society launched upon its first full year's enterprise, Houghton-le-Spring being selected as the best place in the business year to hold its annual gathering.

The main object was to unite fairground traders in one common bond of interest and to secure the betterment of its members. It was organised on trade union lines, and here we find the secret of its abiding success. Mr Geo. Gray, sen, the treasurer, is a man with large trade union experience. He knew the value of trade combination, and in the councils of the Northumberland and Durham miners' associations had won his spurs as a miners' leader before he became a travelling showman.

The rules evidence the guiding hand and matured experience of an expert in trade organisation. It was doubtless of the utmost value to the well-being of the show community in the north of England both the Grays, father and son, were the organisers of the society in its early days, Mr George Gray, jun., being its secretary for the first two years, and was the immediate predecessor in that onerous office of the capable and energetic Thos Hartshorn, the present general secretary. The following extracts from the rules will bear out our observations on its strict trade union features:—

Rule 1.—This Society shall be called "The North of England Amalgamated Showmen, Stall-Holders, and Amusement Caterers' Society.' The objects shall be to raise funds by contributions, levies, fines, and donations for the purpose of mutual support; to protect all members when unjustly dealt with by lessees or managers of fairgrounds in all respects which are legal and just; and to obtain by uniting, harmony whereby the lives of showmen, van-dwellers, their wives and children may be preserved and made more healthful; and to impose restrictive conditions upon the conduct of the business or trade of showmen.

Rule 2.—Any showman, traveller, or stall-holder can become a member of this Society on paying a yearly subscription of 10s. 7d., commencing in October to October, by applying to the Secretary or any Committeeman or Trustee.

Rule 4.—The officers of this Society shall be as follows, viz.:—President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, two Auditors, and thirteen Committeemen, all composed of financial members, all of whom shall be elected or re-elected at the yearly meeting, which shall be held in the month of October, and any vacancy arising during the year shall, at the next meeting after the vacancy has been caused, be filled up by the highest vote of the members present. This Society shall have three Trustees, who shall continue in office during the pleasure of the Society, and in case of a vacancy another Trustee shall be elected by a majority of members at a meeting called for the purpose.

The control of the old trade union hand and the modern spirit of combination is best shown in Rule 15, which specifies who shall be members:—

All stall-holders, ice-cream vendors, fruit hawkers who attend flower shows, sports, fairs, feasts, &c., must be members of this society. If it is proved that any person has been long enough in the district to know of the Society, and who does not become a member at once, he shall have no ground, at any place where the Society's members are. All lessees and committee-men, and those having charge of grounds, must see that this is carried out, or they will be liable to be brought before the next meeting.

This is preferential trading, and perfectly legitimate persuasion or pressure, this society being the only one of its kind with its rules registered by the Registrar General of Trade Organisations, under the provisions of the Trade Union Acts, 1871 and 1876.

The rules deal in a masterly manner with all the questions of serious moment in the business. The competition—growing to be ruinous before the Society dealt vigorously with the evil—between lessees for the sole right to let or sub-let pitches or stands at fairs, has been stayed, the rules dealing with the matter firmly and in a most reasonable manner. So obviously has this been done, for the general good that now most of the North Country lessees and roundabout proprietors belong to the society. Of the success of this work in restraint of reckless cut-throat competition there can be no doubt, for in the first year of its organised effort ground rents were reduced 25 per cent. all round, and that advantage is, with rare exceptions, being steadily maintained.

It is equally gratifying to know that combination amongst showmen has also led to the general uplifting and improvement of the business of the fairground. Lessees of grounds and the persistent appeal of the executive of the society have brought a better class of entertainments into existence. Shady or doubtful games of chance are now strictly excluded by lessees, and a most salutary zeal for better sanitary conditions in and about the movable homes of the travellers promoted and fostered by the officials and members. It has had, above all things, this most desirable result: the union of all interests and the promotion of a sense of brotherhood, with a quickened response to the appeal for mutual help, conciliation, and forbearance, whilst maintaining the absolute freedom and liberty of th individual. The success of the amalgamation is beyond question. We have already referred to the fact of its being duly registered as a trade society. This was due to the zeal and perseverance of Mr Thomas Hartshorn, general secretary.

The financial position is a sound and prosperous one. The invested funds amount to £250. The trustees are Messrs R. Mackney, J. Robinson, and G. Halliday. There is also a working cash balance in the hands of the treasurer for all immediate necessities.

We most heartily wish the North of England Amalgamated Showmen Stallholders and Amusement Caterers' Society (registered) every success. We here also express our thanks to its excellent secretary, Mr T. Hartshorn, for the interesting and informing facts embodied in this article.

BARNEY ARMSTRONG'S BENEFIT.

Mr Barney Armstrong was given, on the 25th ult., a handsome benefit in the Tivoli Variety Theatre, on the occasion of his retirement from the post of managing-director of Colquhoun and Armstrong, Limited, who own the Queen's and Tivoli Theatres at Glasgow. It speaks volumes for Mr Armstrong's popularity that the house was filled to overflowing, and that the programme was of such a length that about five hours' time was consumed in carrying it out. It included forty turns, and many artistes came from the Empire, Zoo Hippodrome, Pavilion and Palace Theatres, by the kind permission of Mr Frank Allen and Mr Thomas Barrasford. During the past six years Mr Armstrong has catered with genuine success for the Glasgow public, and even the high prices charged on this occasion did not prevent his troops of friends crowding the building to wish him farewell. Notable successes were made by Mr Eugene Stratton, who sang "The Lily of Laguna," and, in response to a vociferous encore, gave "The Idler." Miss Marie Kendall once more showed her talent as a comedienne; Mr W. F. Frame sang "pawky" Scotch songs in his inimitable way, and made complimentary references to Mr Armstrong as a manager and a gentleman; the Daunton-Shaw Troupe, trick cyclists, did an excellent turn; Bendon's Bioscope exhibited several new and interesting pictures; and the "strong man" turn by Willie Turnbull was an agreeable variation. Miss Lena Brunton (Mrs Barney Armstrong) earned an enthusiastic reception by her various impersonations of well-known and popular artists, apart from the reception she had as the wife of the bénéficiaire. The following artists also appeared with immense success:—Misses Mabel La Blanche, Lily Burnand, Jessie Oliver, Amy Bell, Maud Mortimer, and Jane K. Ford, the Sisters Neilson, Sisters Du Barrie, Sisters Charkley, Bros. Ashley, Will Johnson, Arthur Slater, Mons. Valone, Orpheus, Wal Robbins, George Prince, J. T. M'Millan, Tate and Tate, Geraldo, Dusty Rhodes, Imro Fox, Steve M'Carthy, Dandy George and dog, and the Boston Twins.

Mr Barney Armstrong contributed two new songs for the occasion, entitled "Oh, Mary," and "John M'Dougall," which he sang in inimitable style, and quite "brought down the house." In an interval in the programme Mr Fred C. Ewing, acting-manager, called upon Bailie William Thomson, who expressed the pleasure he had at being asked to be the mouthpiece of such a large audience present to testify their good wishes, appreciation, and friendship for Mr Armstrong. In presenting him with a magnificently carved oak cabinet-secretaire, he expressed the delight of the staffs of the Tivoli and Queen's and other friends, at having the opportunity to mark their regard for Mr Armstrong and their regret at the severance of that gentleman from the company. The secretaire bore an inscription expressing these sentiments and stating that it had been presented at the complimentary farewell benefit. Pleasing surprise was felt when Bailie Thomson announced that Mrs Armstrong had not been forgotten. In a few courteous and kind sentences he wished that she and her husband would have a long continuance of happiness and prosperity. He then handed to her a very handsome silver tea and coffee service and tray of chaste design and beautiful workmanship, and the lady bowed her acknowledgments.

Mr Armstrong, in an eloquent speech, thanked the assembly on behalf of his wife and himself. He felt, he said, much embarrassed to find due expression of gratitude for all the kindness he had received during the past six years in Glasgow; and he specially thanked the respective staffs for their assistance in carrying out the work of the company while he was their managing-director, and the artistes who had come forward and supported him so handsomely that evening. He also paid tribute to Mr R. Singleton and the augmented orchestra, to the directors for granting him the use of the theatre for his benefit, and to the public for their presence that evening, and their appreciation of the manner in which he had striven in the past to cater for and entertain them. His wife and himself, he said, would long treasure the beautiful gifts they had just received as mementos of the happy and pleasant stay they had made in the city of Glasgow. Though severing his connection with the business, he had heartfelt hopes of its continued prosperity.

At the close of his speech Mr and Mrs Armstrong had an enthusiastic "ovation." Mr Armstrong handed over to the Glasgow Evening News Consumptive Fund the proceeds of the souvenir programme sold on the occasion, to which he also added a handsome sum.

Among those present in private boxes and stalls were Councillors Gibson and Cohen, Mr George Maclachlan and party, Mr Argus Campbell, and several of Mr Armstrong's brother managers in the city. Mrs Armstrong was the recipient of several beautiful bouquets, and smaller, but not less worthy, other gifts were also presented to Mr Armstrong, who, after the performance, suitably entertained the artists and other friends, and individually thanked them for their generous kindness and assistance in promoting the success of what proved to be a "red-letter night" in the annals of the music hall stage in Glasgow.

Congratulatory telegrams poured in on "Barney" from all parts of the United Kingdom. Miss Marie Loftus wired that "She knew how the Scotch people treated a pal." W. H. Fox ("Paddiwhiski") "Hoped he would turn them away at a guinea a head." Dave Hart hoped he would "have to take the paper off the wall to make room." Among many others who sent wires may be named the Water Rats, Vaudeville Club Boys, Joe Elvin, Arthur Combes, Jack Wilson, Jack Selbini, the Waldrons, Glenroy Troupe, Harry Day, Harvey Boys, George Barclay, Lieutenant Albini, Manning's Entertainers, Michael Nolan, Arthur Rice, Arthur Rigby, G. W. Hunter, Willie Benn, Cliff Ryland, the M'Naughtons, the Poluskis, Hart and Leo, Papa Brown, Kate Carney, Rose Elliott, Jessie Oliver, Jessie Albini, Rosie Coleman and Harry Conlin, Starr and Leslie, "Barney's" old servant, Sam Jones, &c. No fewer than sixteen came from Leeds. On Mr Fred C. Ewing, acting-manager, introducing Bailie Wm. Thomson, Mr Ewing's reception was so very cordial as to indicate the great esteem in which he is held by directors and public alike—a well-deserved token to so young a manager.

THE many friends on both sides of the Pond of Will H. Fox, "Paddywhiski," will be pleased to learn that he is the happy father of a beautiful little girl. The presentation took place on Monday evening.

THE Dunedin Troupe are drawing crowded houses nightly to the Casino, Buenos Aires, where they are in their third month. The act is acknowledged by the public and press to be the best of its kind that has ever visited South America.

TEN little girls, in bright and varied costumes, applied at the Marlborough-street Police-court on Wednesday for licences to enable them to appear as dolls in the new ballet divertissement to be produced at the Empire on Dec. 19. Mr Hitchens, the manager, formally asked for the licences for six months, and Sub-divisional Inspector Smith, offering no objection on the part of the Commissioner of Police, Mr Denman granted them.

THE Floradora Girls, owing to their success in pantomime, 1902-3, will return to the Theatre Royal, Exeter, for specialities in Robinson Crusoe. This makes their third season with Mr F. Mouillot. They will present a new scena especially arranged for them by Harrington and Le Brunn.

COUNTY COUNCIL LICENSING.

The London County Council, sitting as the licensing authority at the County Hall, Spring-gardens, on the 25th ult., Mr J. W. Benn (chairman) presiding, had under consideration the report of the Licensing Committee upon the applications for licences heard by them at the Sessions House, Clerkenwell, on Nov. 2, and at the Newington Sessions House on Nov. 11. There was a large attendance both of members of the Council and of the Bar.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee (sitting as the Licensing Committee) reported that the total number of applications for licences was as follows:—

North of the Thames.—Stage Plays: Renewals, 12, new 0–12. Music and Dancing or Music only: Renewals 197, new, 23–220; total, 232.

South of the Thames.—Stage Plays: Renewals, 7, new 0–7. Music and Dancing or Music only: Renewals, 100, New, 8–108; total, 115.

The number of applications received last year was 336, of which the Council granted 330. The number received this year was 347, and of these applications four were withdrawn by applicants and six were recommended for refusal. The committee said:—"We are of opinion that it is undesirable that licences for both stage plays and music and dancing should be granted in respect of any premises which are used as a theatre or music hall, and we have this year, in cases where both licences were applied for, recommended the Council to grant one only."

THE OXFORD PASSAGE-WAYS.

Mr E. Smith on the reception of the report, asked if any complaint had been received of the overcrowding of the gangways and passage-ways at the Oxford Music Hall; whether any inspection of the building had been made, and what steps it was proposed to take in the matter.

Mr Yates (chairman of the Licensing Committee) said attention had been called from time to time to the blocking of the passage-ways and gangways. Inquiries had been made on the subject, and in certain cases reprimands and warnings had been sent, and he hoped that all cause of complaint would be removed. The committee desired to ask the Council to lay down some general principle to guide them in these matters.

Mr Hubbard asked a question about the inspector of music halls.

Mr Yates said the Council had no inspectors of music halls, but certain persons of responsible character visited these places of entertainment in the interest of the Council.

Mr E. Smith asked whether, with reference to the Agricultural Hall entertainments, the attention of the committee had been called to certain temporary wooden erections in certain parts of the ground-floor space, and whether the practice had been discontinued.

OBJECTION TO MUTOSCOPE PICTURES.

Mr Mullins complained of the character of the mutoscope pictures at the London Exhibition buildings. He described them as immoral.

Mr Yates said the Council had no control over the Mutoscope Company, but at the licensing sessions he obtained an assurance that the exhibition of the objectionable pictures would not be repeated.

Mr Russell Spokes asked that the undertaking be incorporated in the licence to the exhibition.

Mr Kershaw, barrister, representing Mr Herman Hart, undertook that this should be done.

Subject to this undertaking the licence was renewed.

The premises of the Royal Horticultural Society in Vincent-square, Westminster, having been completed to the satisfaction of the committee, a full licence for music and dancing was granted.

GRAND THEATRE, FULHAM.

In the case of the Grand Theatre, Fulham, a licence for stage plays was granted to Mr A. F. Henderson. The application of Mr J. De Freece for a licence for music and dancing was refused.

AN OBJECTION TO MUSIC.

Mr Hy. Fireman applied for a new licence for music in respect of the Clarendon Hotel, Broadway, Hammersmith. The licence was required to enable music to be played during meals in the dining-room, smoking-room, and saloon lounge of the hotel. Some alterations to the premises were necessary to render them suitable for a licence, and the licensing committee recommended:—"That a provisional licence for music be granted with regard to the dining-room, smoking lounge, and saloon lounge of the Clarendon Hotel, subject to an undertaking that the licence shall only be used for the purpose of music during meals; and that the licence be confirmed as soon as the Theatres and Music Hall Committee report that the alterations required by the Council have been completed."

Mr Jephson objected. He thought the granting of the licence meant the beginning of a new policy on the part of the Council, and in the interests of the temperance and well-being of the people very dangerous. It was proposed to grant this licence to what was practically an ordinary public-house. He was told that this was not quite the first of these cases. He thought the Council should distinctly state whether they were prepared to grant music licences to public-houses. He had seen the outside of this house, and he thought the music would be within hearing of the bars, the lounge, and the smoking-rooms, which were not separated from the dining-rooms, and this was an application to make the attractions of a common public-house greater than they ought to be.

Mr Brandon said there was at the Clarendon Hotel a very large restaurant approached by a small passage. It was beautifully arranged and decorated, and would not disgrace any restaurant in the West-end. At meal times it was full of travellers who called upon tradesmen in Hammersmith from wholesale houses in London, and it was in fact the only restaurant to which they could go. He hoped the Council would pass the committee's recommendation.

Sir John M'Dougall had not the slightest doubt that these premises were originally a beer-house. He hoped the Council would decide against the application. The dining-room should be detached if a music licence were required.

Mr Dolman thought that the practice should not be discouraged of licensed victuallers providing meals for their customers. A music licence had been granted in the case of the Aldgate Hotel. Why not in the present case?

Mr Edward Collins thought those who knew Hammersmith-broadway at night would not be prepared to support this application if it meant that music and meals were supplied up to closing time.

Mr Waterlow said the circumstances of the Aldgate Hotel differed from the circumstances of the Clarendon Hotel.

Mr Yates defended the action of his committee. This was not a new departure. Similar licences had been granted in the West-end. This was a very simple case. At the Aldgate Hotel there was a German bar, and the entrance to the dining-room was through the bar with separate exits. Why should hotels outside the centre of London not have music licences? Theatrical licences had been granted to the suburbs, and why, if he wanted it, should the suburban resident not have music and stage plays in the district in which he made his home? The report of the Council's inspector on the Clarendon Hotel was that it was a respectable middle-class hotel, where all the business was conducted in an orderly manner. He had seen the hotel. Neither the police nor the local authorities had opposed this application, which had been before them for two months, and he supported it.

Mr Humphreys, counsel for the applicant, said the objections raised had been sprung upon him without notice, especially that relating to the separation of the dining-room from the other parts of the premises. It would have been quite simple to come with an answer to all the objections if he had had notice of them. He pointed out that structural alterations could not be made without the sanction of the licensing Bench, and that one licence could not be made to cover two buildings structurally separated. At present there was a separate entrance to the dining room through the smoking-room, which it was desired to use. He did not suppose there would be great difficulty in placing a partition upon the floor between the saloon-bar and the dining-room. Whatever structural alterations were practicable the applicant was prepared to undertake. He was also willing to comply with every reasonable condition imposed by the Council.

Sir Algernon West moved as an amendment that the licence should be granted subject to certain agreed structural alterations to shut off the dining-room from other parts of the premises; that music be played during meals only from 6 0 p.m. to 11·0 p.m., and that the orchestra be composed of men. The amendment was seconded by Mr Brandon, but was defeated on a vote, and the committee's recommendation was rejected by forty votes to nineteen. The licence was therefore refused.

PALACE THEATRE.

Mr Crisp, K.C., renewed the application by Mr Thomas Ernest Polden for a renewal of a licence for music and dancing for the Palace Theatre of Varieties, Cambridge-circus and Shaftesbury-avenue. Mr Polden also asked that the condition attached to his licence to the effect that no intoxicating drinks shall be sold or consumed in the auditorium might be removed. Before the committee the application for the removal of the restrictions to the licence was opposed by Mr Charles Pinhorn, secretary of the London United Temperance Council; by the Rev. J. H. Cardwell, of St. Anne's Rectory, 28, Soho-square; and by Mr H. L. D'Arcy Jaxone, of 15, Green-street, Leicester-square, on the grounds that the sale of intoxicating drink was not necessary or desirable in a place of public entertainment; that the licence should only be granted on the condition that no intoxicating drink should be sold or consumed on the premises; and that the neighbourhood was well supplied with licences for the sale of intoxicating liquor.

The committee decided that the licence should be granted on the same conditions as were attached to the licence granted last year—viz., that a licence for music and dancing be granted subject to an undertaking that there should be no promenade in the premises, and that no intoxicating drinks should be sold or consumed in the auditorium.

Mr Crisp submitted that it did not seem a good thing that houses like the Empire and other houses should be privileged and that the Palace Theatre, which was a highly respectable house, should be denied. He assumed that nothing could be said against the theatre. It had been well managed by the late Mr Charles Morton, and it would no doubt continue to be well managed by its new manager, Mr Alfred Butt. That being so, it was perfectly clear that the application was made in the interests of the house. With regard to the question of inconsistency, it did seem very incongruous, he would not say unjust.

The only other argument that he could suggest was that of public convenience. What they said was that it would be a great convenience to a large number of people who frequented the Palace Theatre in the upper parts of the house—where order and everything else was observed, and where very respectable people attended. With regard to those who had seats in the stalls or high priced seats there was not much inconvenience caused, because a man could leave his seat in the stalls and go and get his refreshment at the buffet, and come back again; but it was not so with regard to those who had to go into the other, and lower priced, seats in the house, which were unreserved.

The Council confirmed the recommendation of the committee without discussion.

CARLTON OR MORTON'S THEATRE.

Mr Arthur Carlton applied for a renewal of a licence for stage plays for the Carlton Theatre, London-street, Greenwich. Mr Carlton also applied for the removal of the restriction attached to his licence to the effect that no intoxicating drinks should be sold or consumed on the premises. The application was opposed before the committee by Mr Charles Pinhorn, secretary of the London United Temperance Council; Rev. F. Storer Clark, of St. Peter's Vicarage, Gloucester-place, Greenwich; Mr George Lidgett, the Grove, Blackheath, and Rev. S. Martyn Bardsley, vicar and rural dean of Greenwich, on the ground that the sale of intoxicating drink was not necessary, or desirable, in a place of public entertainment.

The committee's recommendation was that an unrestricted licence should be granted.

Mr Hubbard moved that the licence be granted subject to an undertaking that no intoxicating liquors be sold or consumed upon the premises. He said it was unnecessary to again labour the matter.

Mr Kershaw, who appeared to oppose the licence on behalf of the owners and licensee of the Portland Hotel, which adjoins the theatre, submitted that there was no reason whatever why the Council should reverse their policy of many years. This theatre was known as Morton's Theatre, and previously to 1900 was carried on as a temperance home. Members of the Council attending the theatre could get anything they might want in the house which he represented. He therefore asked the Council not to remove the restriction.

Mr Blakelock also opposed the removal of the restriction on temperance grounds.

Mr Carlton appeared in person, and reminded the Council that the theatre was a fully licensed house before Mr Morton took it. There was no doubt Mr Morton carried on the theatre successfully for some years, but that was at a time when there was not the competition which now existed. Keeping the theatre with a restricted licence did him much harm. It placed a stigma upon the theatre and upon himself and he asked the council to remove it.

Colonel Rotton adjured the Council to follow something like a consistent policy, and not deprive one theatre only of a right which had been exercised hitherto without objection or complaint. The fact was that Mr Morton flew a false flag, because he had an arrangement with the man next door for the supply of the drink. He was as strong an advocate of temperance as anyone, and he defied anyone to argue to the contrary. The way to make people sober was not to drive them into the public-house, and the committee saw no reason for placing the restriction on the theatre in future.

Mr Hubbard moved an amendment that no intoxicating liquors should be sold or consumed on the premises. Let the Council put into practice their ideas and protect the people against the ravages of drink.

Mr Carlton protested that he had had no notice of the amendment.

Mr Hubbard said Mr Carlton had no cause of complaint, because he bought the house as a temperance theatre.

Mr Mitchell seconded the amendment.

After some further discussion the amendment was carried by a large majority.

The unopposed recommendations of the committee were confirmed, and the business concluded.

MR HERBERT FLEMMING, the business-manager of the late Mel B. Spurr in Australia, after settling up that lamented entertainer's affairs in Melbourne, returns to London. Next year he contemplates returning to Australia with a new comedy company.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—Your correspondent mentions A. G. Spray as topping the bill at the Circus of Varieties, Rochdale. It should have been, yours faithfully, HICKS'S CLERKS.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Muller.—Mr W. W. Kelly's company is here this week in The New East Lynne, which is one of the best versions of this favourite story. As Lady Isabel Miss Agnes Imlay is most accomplished, her acting being natural and essentially sympathetic. As Barbara Hare Miss Helen Stewart is excellent; and Miss B. French Stewart is equally successful as the eccentric and plain-spoken Cornelia Carlyle. As Archibald Carlyle Mr W. Heilbronn gives a fine interpretation, evidently the product of careful study; whilst Mr Walter T. Clifford as the despicable Francis Levison is seen to great advantage. Mr Faulkner Cox is an exceedingly good Murty O'Flynn, causing roars of laughter with his whimsicalities.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—An Actor's Romance is the attraction here this week. Mr Guy Hastings portrays with power Harold Davenport; Mr Ernest Rushton cleverly sustains the part of Robert Livingstone; Mr Percy Marmont effectively enacts Jack Woodford; and much amusement is afforded by Mr E. H. Dobell as Charlie Cummings. Miss Bertha Northam acts with womanly feeling as Louise Davenport; Miss May Charteris is lively as Dottie Dillingham; Little Marie Ada Dowsing makes a winsome Phyllis Davenport; and Miss Florence Elgin cleverly acts the part of the unscrupulous Florence.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—Miss Daisy De Roy's combination of artistes is proving a strong attraction here this week. Miss De Roy herself contributes largely to the entertainment with some capital songs, which are received with well-earned applause. Miss Hilda De Gray, vocalist; the Three Musical Japs; F. C. Brooks, comedian and stump orator; Rae and Rae, trapeze comedy tumblers; Two Beresfords, comedians and dancers; Frank Royle, clog dancer; Miss Lillie Weldon, vocalist and dancer; Mdlle. Dora, in speciality act; Bendo, the boneless wonder; and the Spangelettis, with trained pony and dogs, complete a lengthy and enjoyable programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—De Gracia's performing elephants do some wonderful tricks, and Eric Graham, comedian; Millie Harris, vocalist; T. W. Johnson, sand dancer; the Three Hendriques, comedy acrobats; "Whirling the Worlds," by the Empire Bioscope; the Bowery Boys, patter comedians; and the Pinaros, dancers, &c., are other attractions.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—We are having a return visit this week from Messrs F. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg and company with The Traitor. Mr Wellesley Draper as Prince Rudolph and Colonel Nerve gives a capital exposition of the parts; and Mr Stephen E. Scanlan as Chief of Police and in the title-rôle is satisfactory. Mr James E. Abbott is amusing as General Hertz; Mr Edward Jenner is a manly Captain Ross, R.N.; Miss Isabel Hunt is seen to advantage as Lieutenant Nicholas; and Mr Frank Sutherland is a breezy Jack Boult, A.B. Miss Conyers Radcliffe is very pleasing as Zula; Miss Lily Roselle gives a careful interpretation of the part of Countess Zicka; Miss Anena Wallis is chic as Cen Cen; and Miss Hettie Senior is a sprightly Elise Duprez.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr E. Parker-Royston.—This week Mr Harry Starr's company is presenting Otto the Outcast. Mr Starr as Otto displays great versatility; Mr Richard Harris as Vidocq is excellent; Mr William Millar as Daddy Bruneau gives a clever character sketch; and Mr J. Turner as Augustine Carrotte is exceedingly humorous. Miss Lizzie Webb as Lara is vivacious and charming, and Miss Emma Lester as Susette gives an artistic rendering. Miss Rita Rosslyn as Corinne Jarbeau is very good.

TOWN HALL.—Mr Gustave Roselle's Merry Zingaras are here this week in a very successful entertainment. Madame Roselle is exceptionally clever in her thought-reading, and Miss Emmie Roselle's musical entertainment is very successful.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—Mr Will Hebden's Day in Paddy's Market is the attraction this week, and is responsible for good houses and lots of genuine fun. Mr Hebden is always prominent, as whether as Johnnie, Maggie Dooley, Ellen Golightly, or the Quack Doctor, shines with humorous brilliancy. P.C. Coppem, so ably played by Mr Charles Locke; Mr Lan Maitland as Percy, the Dude, with his catch-phrase, "Don't be rude," is amusing; Mr Chris Bern as Alick, the waiter, proves he is a clever character actor, and his original song, "In our street," gains favour; Mr Chas. Lyndon as Daft Jimmie, with song is well received. The other male characters in order of importance are Messrs Milland as the Judge, Granville, Storey, Halsey, and Bowers, Mary Manners is ably portrayed by Miss Jennie Clare; and Miss Dorothy Fairley as Mrs O'Hennessy is admirable.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—Messrs George Mitchell and John Belton's company is fulfilling a week's engagement here in The Conscript. Mr George Mitchell's impersonation of the title-rôle is very successful; Nadia Truevitch in the hands of Miss Mary Dawson gives much satisfaction; Miss Ivy Chandos as Wanda and Mr T. H. Solly as Tretch Trotoff are responsible for the comedy business; Mr Fred H. Constable as Count Paul Hardiski, Mr John Belton as Dor Doggervitch, and Mr Edward Hill as the Ferret ably sustain those evil characters. Mr Heward Travis as Ivan Manloff, little Elsie Baston as little Karl, and Miss Maud Ranford as Dame Katrina give good support.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—This week's programme, as usual, attracts full houses at each performance. Joe Bowker, bantam-weight champion boxer, gives an excellent exhibition with the gloves; Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford keep the audience in roars with their musical duologue Getting Even; J. W. Hall's song and patter are very droll; the singing collier John Lloyd has a good reception; Nellie Ganthony's drawing-room entertainment is good; the farcical duologue Married or Photographed? by Warden Reed and Glenny is very clever; and other pleasing turns include the acrobatic eccentricities of Baroux and Bion, Miss Fredrica's terriers and the clever pony Dot, George Penn, raconteur and eccentric musician, and animated pictures.

SCARBOROUGH.

SPA.—Manager, Mr Fras. Goodricke.—This is the last week of the season here. The company's orchestra plays each evening under the direction of Mr Charles Godfrey, jun. Miss Beatrice Overton, this week's vocalist, has charmed the audiences by her well-rendered songs.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr W. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr Walter Kitchingman.—The stage here is occupied by Mr Howell Webb's company in The Convent Bell. Mr Stanley Carlton sings and acts well as Philip Vautier; Mr Charles Howell ably plays the aged Colonel Vautier; Mr Oliver Birrell puts in a lot of good work as the villain, Henri Cassella; Mr Howell Webb makes things lively as the British tar, Pickle Podds; Mr Teddy Myers is amusing as Jean; Miss Florrie Manderville makes the most of her opportunities as Suzette; Christine Valgrave finds a pleasing representative in Miss Trissie Humphreys; and Marguerite Courier is well played by Miss Ruby Maude.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Quinton Gibson.—This week's event is the appearance of Mr Tom Bassett, who gives burlesque recitals of melodrama. Other items include Cambo, the musical man monkey; Charles Thorn, comedian; Belford and Mars, comedians; Prof. Milne, ventriloquist; Tom Hall, and Herbert Betts.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—First class occupies the boards here this week, the drama being presented by Messrs Imbert and Wright's company. Mr Fred C. Imbert as Dan the Miser does excellent work; as Lewis Montford, alias First-class, Mr G. M. Newall is admirably cast; Mr Gerald Nolan cleverly depicts Mr Franklin; Nosey is capably given by Mr Sam Roberts; as the Rev. Arkland Grove Mr G. W. Whitfield plays with much ability; Florence Franklin is charmingly presented by Miss Lizzie Ingles; Miss Isabel Innes as Mildred gives a careful study; Peggy is sympathetically drawn by Miss Ellen Armor; and Mrs Stroud is well played by Miss Emily Handley.

SHEERNESS.

COLISEUM.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. C. Darling; Manager, Mr Chas. Melvin.—Rechristened, redecorated, and resplendent with every comfort, this popular place of entertainment—formerly known as the Palace Theatre—was opened for the season on Monday with an excellent programme of variety artists, the most prominent of which are the Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Arabian acrobats. Miss Alma Evelyne, ballad vocalist, is capitally received. The Swift Trio of trick cyclists are both amusing and clever. Lynn, the singing newsboy, is deserving of praise. The Mezzettis, comedy bar performers, appear with success; Geo. Dardini introduces various clever juggling feats; T. C. Callaghan, comedian, and Miss Florrie St. Clair, comedienne, contribute some capital songs. The programme concludes with Hal Collier and company in the comedy sketch, Uncle's Christmas Goose. An excellent orchestra, under the bâton of Signor Portelli, discourses appropriate selections during the evening, whilst the arrangements at the front of the house leave nothing to be desired on the part of the popular manager, Mr Chas. Melvin.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr P. Reymond.—The Calden combination are appearing this week in the Irish dramatic sketch Shaun, in which they are eminently successful. The Summersons (Will and Maggie) are local favourites here. Other capital turns include Mr Fred Donald, eccentric comedian; Miss Maggie Maraton, ballad vocalist; Mr Harry O'Moore, comedian; Mr H. C. Boon, eccentric comedian and dancer; the programme concluding with the laughable farce A Hard Nut.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—The screaming farcical comedy The Money-Makers was played on Monday by Miss Emma Hutchison's company, and received with roars of laughter by a large audience. That old Sheffield favourite Mr Allen Thomas submitted a clever character sketch as M'Dougall; Mr Charles Esdale acted in a smart and agreeable manner as Captain Fitzgerald; Mr Edward Sidney was a mirth-provoking Fred; and Mr Edward Bonfield was good as Charles Clifton. A large amount of the fun was caused by the clever comedy of Miss Frances Davies as the quick-witted Bella; Miss Mary Griffiths was a humorous representative of Mr Bannercross, the lady with an imposing personality and a voluble flow of language; the efforts of Miss Violet Lee, Miss Nita Alexander, Mr Townsend Whiting, and Mr C. H. O'Hara were recognised; and Miss Lillian Locke as Dot and Miss Lorna Lawrence as Mabel were two captivating young ladies. The first piece was Two of a Kind.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—Bright, tuneful, and exhilarating as ever came The Belle of New York on Monday, when a big audience again welcomed the popular members of Mr George Musgrove's company. Mr Harry Meymott was full of mercurial high spirits as old Bronson, and Bronson, fils, was acted in irreproachable manner by Mr Philip Leslie. Mr Cecil Burt was again the characteristic representative of the old-time theatrical manager Doc Snifkins; Mr W. Pringle made a hit as Blinky Bill; Mr Max Copeland acted carefully as Von Pumpernick; and the lively "Portugee twins" were smartly impersonated by Messrs Selby and Sealy. The irrepressible Mugg had a comical delineator in Mr Paddy Duprez; and those pretty and graceful ladies, Miss Beatrice Lamotte, Miss May Young, Miss Ida Lawrence, Miss Lillian Digges, and Mrs Alice Rene all acted, sang, and danced in a tuneful and graceful way. Mr A. Linforth again stage managed efficiently, the play going with all the vim and sparkle of a first night.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—That dramatic evergreen Uncle Tom's Cabin never seems to lose its grip on the affections of popular audiences, and a large and enthusiastic audience on Monday wept at the death of Little Eva, sympathised over the sorrows of Uncle Tom, and soundly hissed the villain Legree. Mr George Carr acted in an earnest and impressive manner as Uncle Tom; Mr J. H. Rogers painted the slave driver, Legree, in bold colours; Mr Charles Harrington again ably portrayed the character of Phineas Fletcher; Miss Sylvia Stella was a lively Topsy; Miss Hettie Johnson made a pathetic Eliza Harris; and Miss Zerlina Zerbini repeated her thrilling impersonation of the passionate and warm-hearted Cassie. All the other parts were played effectively by the white and coloured artists of Mr Charles Harrington's celebrated combination.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—Pat Rafferty, a great and deserved favourite, is again appearing here, and other clever performers this week are Swan and Bambard, Trans-Atlantic comedy acrobats; the Dark Brothers, comedy tumblers; the Three Sisters Leigh, vocalists and dancers; Calile and Walker, comedians; Lizzie Fletcher, serio-comic vocalist; Hugh Stanton's company, in a satirical sketch; Sisters Emilis, instrumentalists; and Arthur Lennard, the favourite actor-vocalist.

MONTGOMERY HALL.—The famous Maskelyne and Cooke entertainment opened for a three week's season on Monday, when a crowded audience welcomed some of the old features, and many new items, in a long and generous programme. The marvellous conjuring of Mr David Devant is still the pièce de résistance, but many other illusionary displays appeal strongly to the lovers of the weird and marvellous, such as the Magic Kettle, "The Gnome's Grotto," the mystic illusion, "The Sylph," Mr Devant's mental magnetism, the Chamounix singers, and the diverting magical burlesque entitled "Will, the Witch, and the Watchman."

STAFFORD.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jas. Elphinstone.—The London "Star Vaudeville Company" was here the first half of the week, and included Spargo, an exceptionally clever musical exponent; George Pitt, in an interesting weight-lifting act; the Brooklyn Boys, eccentric comedians; Kate Seymour, who sang daintily; Eventio and Event, who gave an amusing juggling performance; Dal Robling, the singing collier; and last, but not least, the Sisters Albert, whose dancing received the hearty commendation of the audience.

SEACOMBE.

IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Kierman.—The New Century animated pictures are attracting excellent audiences here this week. Some of the films create the greatest enthusiasm, especially a fine set illustrative of the Baltic Fleet outrage in the North Sea.

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—Mr Norman V. Norman's répertoire company has been here this week, the plays billed including Under the Red Robe, David Garrick, Nell Gwyn, The Country Wife, and My Lady Virtue, all of which were staged and acted in a manner that left nothing to be desired. In the first mentioned piece Mr Norman V. Norman impersonated Gil De Berault with great ability, the part being one for which he is eminently suited. Mr Robert Hilton merited high praise for his fine interpretation of the rôle of Cardinal Richelieu, and numerous other male parts found capable exponents. Miss Beatrice Wilson played with expression and success as Renee De Cocheforét, and other ladies acquitted themselves creditably. David Garrick, played on Tuesday evening, was thoroughly enjoyed, Mr Norman V. Norman in the Banquet scene being conspicuously talented. The Balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet was excellently represented as a curtain-raiser. On Wednesday evening Nell Gwyn was admirably put on and spiritedly acted.

SLIGO.

TOWN HALL.—Proprietors, Corporation.—Mr W. Payne Seddon presented Mr Charles Macdona's company, and on Monday opened here with A Chinese Honeymoon to a very good house. Mr Lester Carey is capital as the Emperor Hang-Chow; Mr Percy Stephens's impersonation of the Lord Chancellor was very good; as the Admiral Mr Tom Birch was successful; Mr Edgar K. Favelle as Tom Hatherton made the most of his part; Mr George P. Ascot as Mr Pineapple played with ability, as also did Miss Dorothy Payn as Mrs Pineapple. Miss Julie St. George was amusing as Mrs Brown, and Miss Cissy Schofield highly diverting as Fifi. Miss Mamie Finbow made an attractive Soo-Soo.

SMETHWICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—The Worst Woman in London once again made her bow here on Monday. The plausible doings of this attractive, but black-hearted, person lose nothing by their repetition, and the title-rôle is filled by Miss Constance Medwyn, who gives a faithful presentation of the part. Mr Edwin J. Collins contributes a well-considered rendering of the part of the cruelly persecuted Jack Felton; Miss Lillian Ross merits warm commendation for her sympathy-compelling portrayal of Ruth Milford; Mr Paul Barry Lewers's impersonation of Vincent Lyle is successfully moulded in the familiar pattern of melodramatic villainy; Mr Roy Byford gives a meritorious impersonation of James Milford; and Mr George H. Asquin causes considerable fun as Bob Goldfinch, being ably assisted by Miss Helena Rigby. Mr Joe Bracewell contributes a capital characterisation of the drink-soddened reprobate, Hugh Drayton. Mr Bernard Mervyn does extremely well the little assigned to him as the revenge-seeking Philip Armstrong. The scenery is capital.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Resident-Manager, Mr Sydney Paxton.—Mr George Dance's company is here with The Orchid. Miss Ethel Bryant as Lady Violet is delightfully vivacious, and makes a great hit with her smart song, "Little Mary," which is one of the best things in the piece. Miss Mabel Sealby plays with much grace as Josephine Zaccary, and Miss Madge Lucas causes considerable amusement as Caroline Vokins. Miss Poppy Wilkinson, Thisbe; Miss Ida Chichester, Countess Anstruther; and Miss Sylvia De Lacy, Zelle, were all received with favour. The principal comedian is Mr Bertie Wright, whose Meakin is productive of great amusement. Mr G. Davy Burnaby is successful as Guy, and sings "Bedella" in fine style. Mr Edmund Page, the hard-working stage-manager, also scores as the fire-eating Count, and Mr Ernest Darrell is a polished representative of Mr Chesterton. Mr Edmund Hollick (Dr. Faucett), Mr Arthur P. Hemsley (a nimble and alert Zaccary), and Mr Ralph Holland (Registrar) all lend useful assistance. The dresses are on a lavish scale, and the chorus does valuable service under the direction of Mr T. Tunbridge.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Manageress, Mrs J. W. Gordon; Acting-Manager, Mr Dudley Colwyn.—This week Mr Robert Perris's company is successfully presenting A Fight for Millions here. Mr Robert Perris gives a carefully studied reading of the part of Tom Manley; Mr Horace Booth depicts Richard Dudley with graphic power; and Mr Fred Action as the accomplice is also successful. Mr Larry Clements is excellent as Will Neverwork. Miss Eva Purcell is an acceptable heroine, and acts with great charm, and the other parts are well sustained.

PALACE.—Manager, Mr Chas. Marte.—Hamilton Hill, the famous Australian baritone, charms all by his admirable vocalisation. The O'Learys are wonderfully clever acrobats, and the Three American Idols sing and dance beautifully. The Two Maningos, equilibrists of the first water; the Sisters Oswald, dainty dancers; Alec Kennedy, comedian; Jessie Burnett, comedienne; and Frank Bernard and company, in their telephonic trifle Hello! make up a capital company.

SKATING RINK.—Mr Jacob Studt's World's Fair is going very strong here. The selections by the ideal Orchestraphone, the animated pictures exhibited by the Bioscope, and the switchback gondolas nightly attract large numbers.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—For this week Mr Walter Melville's popular company is presenting A Disgrace to Her Sex. Jack Dawes has a most able exponent in Mr Harry Marlow; Barnaby Mugg and Bella Mugg, characterised by Mr Arthur Byron and Miss Madge Yates respectively, are exceedingly vivacious; Miss Nellie Lucas gives dignity to the part of Mildred Carrington; Miss Winnie Tempest as Mabel Valley wins admiration; Mr Phil Harper is humorous as Jules Delarnet; Mr Eugene Stanley is well suited as David Carrington; Mr David G. Noble does well as Arnold Travers; and Miss Grace Heywood gives an exceedingly good portrayal of Hilda Valley.

SOUTHPORT.

OPERA HOUSE WINTER GARDENS.—General Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming.—An attractive entertainment is furnished here this week by Mr Frank Wilson's company, which is on a return visit with The Marriage of Kitty. Miss Vera Fordyce plays the rôle of Katherine Silverton in a vivacious and charming manner; Mr Frank Wilson submits a clever and interesting portraiture of Sir Reginald Belsize, Bart.; Mr Sydney Orton displays ability in the part of John Travers, other good character sketches being supplied by Miss Averil May, Miss Kate Harwood, Mr J. F. Leighton, and Mr Royston Keith, jun.

STALYBRIDGE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr H. Leighton Rooke.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr E. Vivian Edmonds are renewing their acquaintance with the habitués of this house, in The Golden Ladder. Mr Harry Cullenford figures prominently as the Rev. Frank Thornhill, and Miss Austin—first as Lilian Grant, and afterwards as Mrs Thornhill—finds much scope for her abilities. Mr E. Vivian Edmonds and Mr Graham Winsford are jointly concerned in the villainy of the plot, and they have sufficient material to make things interesting. The remaining parts are in good hands, and the scenery and general effects are excellent.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—Messrs H. J. Callan and Wentworth Croke's company is providing an excellent attraction with Florodora. Few familiar faces appear in the cast, Mr C. Young Fixott (Gilfain) and Miss Dorothy Sephton (Lady Holyrood) being the only remnants among the principals. Mr Fixott's quiet way is diveringly suitable as Cyrus W. Gilfain, and his songs merit approbation. The vivacious acting and singing of Miss Dorothy Sephton are admired. Miss Violet Bronson, a winning Dolores, sings sweetly; and Mr William Everard lends noticeable support as Frank Abercoed, his musical numbers thoroughly deserving the encores awarded them. Mr J. Huntley Graham as Captain Arthur Donegal is recalled for his rousing rendition of "A Military Man." Miss May Yates is a dainty and conscientious Angela Gilfain. Her song in which the refrain is sung by Mr Graham and whistled by several lady members of the chorus is greatly palatable. The bulk of the comedy falls to the lot of Mr Arthur Lenville as Anthony Tweedlepunch, and his droll mannerisms evoke constant merriment. The beautiful dresses are in harmony with the scenery, and the chorus and augmented orchestra under the capital direction of Mr K. Ernest Irving is a strong feature of the performance, their tuneful and well-directed efforts meeting with just appreciation.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—Tom Edwards easily ranks among the best ventriloquists of the day, and he is fully entitled to his position at the head of the bill. Vasco is well styled the "mad musician," yet there is a certain method in his madness, which produces an excellent entertainment. St. James Quintet is an ever-popular turn. Some bright and amusing cross-talk comes from Doody and Wright, Australian comiques; Alexandre and Bertie, in their aerial act, submit their clean and effective performance; Fred Dunstone sings funnily "Pilgrims of the Night;" Vosper, facial mimic, and Arthur Melrose, whistling comedian, do well; and instead of Helen Martin, whose name is billed, James Lowrey, singing quarryman, deputised successfully.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—Signor and Madame Prosper Benn are appearing in a refined music act, "From Pavement to Stage." Downey's Royal living pictures remain over from last week, and another good series of films are exhibited. A unique acrobatic skater is J. H. M'Cann; able male impersonations are contributed by Evelyn Taylor; Bertha Duckett is correctly billed as a charming child vocalist and graceful dancer; Beanland and Bath score as cartoonists; Marie Gibson, soprano, is well received, and Brothers Ajax, in a strong act, are appreciated.

ROYAL ASSEMBLY HALL.—The New Century animated pictures, under the able and courteous direction of Mr T. D. Sutherland, are pleasing. The programme, which is up to date, also includes "The War between Japan and Russia," "The Russian Outrage upon the Hull Fishing Fleet," &c. Illustrated songs of a pleasing nature are given by Miss Sanderson and Mr Healy. A packed house gathered on Monday, and good houses are the rule.

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE. — Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—The Garside, Knowles, and Ludlow Company opened here on Monday in Shirley and Conquest's drama, The London Fireman. Mr Forbes Knowles succeeded in giving a sterling performance of the title-rôle, and Mr Edward L. Garside appeared to great advantage as Hal Curtis. As the false Viscount Flemming Mr Arthur Pringle submitted a creditable interpretation. Miss Adeline Raby as Grace Curtis, Miss Violet Temple as Countess Flemming, and Miss Mona Gray as Ida Curtis were all decidedly good in their respective rôles. The comedy was smartly supplied by Miss Nellie Garside as Polly and Mr Charles Preece as Nixey. Messrs William Burgess (Abel Fortnum), Chauncey Morris (Joe Bluener), and Frank Hertie (Dr. Garrod) complete a very efficient cast.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—Mr William Greet's company, under the management of Mr W. A. M'Neil', is paying a return visit here with The Sign of the Cross. Mr F. B. Woulfe gives an excellent impersonation as Marcus, and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy makes a charming Mercia. Miss Cissie Carlton as Dacia, Miss Ivy Millais as Stephanus, Miss Ethel Lond as Poppæa, Miss Alma Bolton as Berenice and Miss May Fairclough as Ancaria are each to be complimented on clever delineations. Mr A. Bernhardt Turner does well as Nero; Mr Frank Wood is exceedingly good as Glabrio, and Mr Charles Aldred as Tigellinus and Mr J. Wetherall as Licinius are also successful.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—The leading line on this week's bill is Woolford's stage animal circus, consisting of three ponies, donkey and dogs which prove a great attraction. Other interesting turns are Mr Will Percival, dancer; Miss Lily Lassah, serio; Mr Arthur Bright, vocal comedian; Major Sitherland, "the spinning marvel;" the Jetneys, coloured comedians; Four Arizonas, contortionists, and Austin and Cowan, vocal entertainers.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—Mr Arnold Bell and company have been cordially greeted here this week by appreciative audiences. On Monday night Ben-my-Chree was presented, Mr Arnold Bell appearing as Dan Mylrea, which character he portrayed with marked power and ability. Mr Cuthbert Imrie acted with effect as Ewan Mylrea, and Mr Hy. Clifford was thoroughly excellent as the Bishop. Mr Frank C. Robson as the Deemster and Mr Dan Farrough as Mr Harcourt, the Governor, were both highly satisfactory. As David Fayle Mr William Reid was clever and amusing; Mona was charmingly acted by Miss Frances Campbell; and Miss Violet Campbell was pleasing as Kitty. On Wednesday The Shaughraun, and on Friday The Octoroon were presented.

OHMY'S CIRCUS.—General Manager, Signor Pepi.—Prof. Inman Hockinge, hypnotist and scientist, is the special attraction here this week, his entertainment being amusing and clever. W. H. Downs, coon tenor vocalist, is pleasingly applauded; and Terry and Bentley meet with success in their comedy-act The Hunt. Will Letters, comedian, is mirth-provoking; and Katie Gallimore is a delightful ballad vocalist. Gilbert Girard gives clever imitations of animals and musical instruments; and Vernon's Bioscope continues one of the pleasing features of the entertainment.

STOKE.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr P. Collins; Manager, Mr Frank Egerton.—Once more a capital bill is submitted by Mr Egerton. At the head are the Sisters Merkel, whose acrobatic performance excites applause. Another turn which meets with much appreciation is that of Radford and Valentine, who in a comedy juggling act cause roars of laughter; several feats performed by these gentlemen are really clever, and as humourists they have but few rivals. A pleasing turn is contributed by Miss Marie Santoi, soubrette, which is both pretty and artistic. The Zerbini Troupe of musicians are very clever, the trick solo contributed by a lady member upon the banjo being excellent. Celest does several marvellous feats on the slack wire. George Rapley is a comedian with good songs, which are exceptionally well rendered. Will Crackles also meets with success. The Bioscope shows some excellent pictures.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley's company in Bound to Win, is the attraction for the week. Mr Kimberley's assumption of the rôle of Harry Lyndon is quite successful; Mr Frank Strickland's Philip Ayre is as villainous as it should be, and Mr Sidney Rennef's Squire Forbes is a creditable impersonation. A good deal of fun is put into the piece by Mr Edgar Morgan as Horatio Buffett; and Mr Horace Custins' Willie Wilkins, and Miss Edie Macklin's Winnie Oakley, the latter singing a song or two in good style. Miss Nina Blake Adams is well suited as Marion Forbes, and Miss Evelyn Robson as Gladys Orme makes the most of a rather thankless part.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—An enjoyable bill here is headed by the Jackson Family, who give a refined musical turn much above the average. Louis Kerno, vocalist and dancer; the Sisters Terry, clever duettists; Mr and Mrs Clifford Bronte in an amusing duologue, Saucy Maud; Coram in clever ventriloquism; Adams and Ward, comic acrobats; Payne's Bio, and Willis and Renton, in their comic triple-bar act, are also in the bill.

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—A fair audience attended the presentation of The Biggest Scamp on Earth by Miss Frances Delaval's company. As Derrick Knight Mr Percy Carne Waram played well, while Miss Delaval as Naomi Belvedere was effective. A pleasing portrayal of Irene May was contributed by Miss Dorothy Mahomed, and Miss Doris Denman as Bobby was excellent. Mr Percy Brown as Vivian Wakefield, Mr Hamilton Urquhart as Sir Aubrey Knight, Mr S. Geddes as Napoleon Hawke, and Miss Patty Groves as Mother Hawke also gave effective portrayals.

SUNDERLAND.

AVENUE, LIMITED. — Managing-Director, Mr Chas. E. Machin; Business-Manager, Mr Percival Craig.—The Still Alarm is being played here this week. Mr Matthew H. Glenville is an excellent Jack Manley, and Mr Paul Lovett is a convincing John Bird. Mr Osmond in the amusing part of Doc Wilber is capital. Miss Mary Lovett is a successful heroine. Excellent singing is introduced into the piece by the Lyric Comedy Four.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr George V. Wybrow; Treasurer, Mr Alfred Browne.—The Three Laurels occupy the premier position on the bill this week. They appear in their speciality on the ping-pong table, and prove themselves to be clever acrobats. Another popular item is the Three Sisters Jonghmanns, who have excellent voices. Nannie Goldman, Willie Holles, and company in the musical mélange, The Little Charwoman, are enjoyable. James Kurry, comedian, is well received. Miss Florence is a clever lady mimic. The Avrignys, Japanese jugglers, are very smart. The Warlocks give a most amusing dialogue act entitled Provoking. Thornbury, ventriloquist, also contributes.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Boyce; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Bellian.—East Lynne has paid us another visit during the week, and still proves attractive as played by Miss Lillian Dundas and company, including Mr Henry Dundas. On Monday night Miss Dundas, in the rôle of Lady Isabel, was much liked, and the Archibald Carlyle of Mr Henry Dundas was also excellent. Barbara Hare was nicely played by Miss Leslie Dane, and Corney Carlyle was in the capable hands of Miss Kathleen O'Connor. Captain Levison was well handled by Mr Maule Cole, and Justice Hare, Lawyer Dill, Lord Mountsevern, and Richard Hare were well sustained by Messrs Harry Barrett, Henry Lawrence, John Hastings Batson, and C. Klein respectively.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction at this house during the week has been Nita Rae's social drama Her Fatal Past, played by Mr T. Edward Ward and his company, including Miss Ward.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—An especially strong programme is put on here this week, and includes Joe Elvin and company in their attractive sporting sketch Over the Sticks; Jennie Belmore, a charming burlesque actress and soubrette; Post Mason, a capital American baritone; the Trapnell Family, very clever Continental acrobats; Victor Travers, an exceedingly quaint comedian; Werner and Reider, two clever Tyrolean stars; Les Burnellys, in a novel gymnastic show; Harry Lawson, a good eccentric comedian; and Miss Winona Winter, assisted by Mr William H. Banks, in their comedy playlet When I Help Ma Do the Washing.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. W. Grantham.—This establishment again reopened its doors to the public on Monday, when both houses were packed. The following are the artistes under engagement for the current week:—Miss Julia Kent and Mr Alex. Keith, in the duologue The Waiter and the Barmaid; Ernest Sewell, conjuror and illusionist; Will Lytton, comedian and dancer; the Chicago Gaiety Girls (Louie and Clare), duettists and dancers; Payne's Palace pictures; De Vere and Kenwick, American comedy duo; John Callan, American comedian; La Hung Foo and Maggins, two marvellous foot equilibrists and hand-balancers; and the Two D's (Dorothy and Dora), in a musical scena Anona.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners.—That interesting drama Two Little Sailor Boys opened a return visit to this town on Monday, and was enthusiastically greeted by a well-filled pit and gallery. The piece was again effectively staged and played by Mr W. H. Hallatt's company, that gentleman being seen to distinct advantage as Commander Noel Tregarthen, R.N. As Mildred Grey Miss Marie Daventry greatly distinguished herself, and Miss Blanche Steele submitted a particularly powerful study of the part of Lola Grey. Mr Ambrose Horton must be highly commended for his excellent portrayal of Jim Royston. Mr Leonard Booker acquitted himself well as Lieut. Richard Redstone, R.N., and Mr Edward Warden achieved a success as Captain Yorke. The comedy element was cleverly supplied by Mr Tom E. Sinclair as Ben Baxter and Miss Hilda Taylor as Lucy Wilson, while Mr Oscar Power proved an admirable Jack Jolly. A special word of praise must be awarded to Miss Dorothy Lennox and Miss Ethel Francess for their pleasing and effective work as the sailor boys.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE. — The interesting drama Human Nature, written by the late Henry Pettitt and Augustus Harris, is produced here this week and is much admired. It is seldom that playgoers have an opportunity of seeing that accomplished actress, Miss Sara Mignon, in a part partaking of the adventuress description, the lady being chiefly associated with characters of sweetness and virtue, but, as Cora Grey, she plays with a rare combination of vigour and grace and adds considerably to an already great reputation. It goes without saying that Miss Mignon looks the part to perfection. Mr L. Lytton is manly as Captain Temple, and a very good impersonation of the villain, Paul De Vigne, is given by Mr William Felton. Mr G. Shaw is good as Matthew Hawker. All the other parts are well played, and the drama is handsomely staged and costumed, some of the scenery being new and effective.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Company.—The Lights o' London occupies the boards this week. Mr Cecil G. Calvert gives a manly rendering as Harold Armytage. Mr Albert Brasque is able as the villainous Clifford Armytage. Mr Percy Compton, a capital Jarvis, is well supported by Miss Emilie Dawson as Mrs Jarvis and Miss Gladys Murray as Shakespeare Jarvis. Mr Ernest R. Nelson deserves mention as Philosopher Jack, Miss Jeanne Burgoyne makes a sympathetic Bess, Miss Kate Randolph acts with power as Hetty Preene, and Mr Herbert Hollister is effective as Seth Preene.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome Company, Limited.—Atlas and Vulcana, society athletes, head the bill here this week, and give a smart entertainment, Vulcana also contributing some pretty poses. Wee Mona is a smart juvenile comedienne, and her excellent dancing wins much applause. Mr J. F. Dane is a versatile comedian; the Two Gems, duettists and dancers, are greatly appreciated; Mr Matt Wilkinson and company present an amusing sketch, entitled The Registry Office; and Mr H. O. Wills, comedian, and Raymond's Bioscope are also in the bill.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Heading the programme here this week are the famous Kellinos, in their speciality act "Venetia," which is extremely good. Alice Maple, comedienne, is smart; Harry Ray and Lillie Calden, in their comedy act, are received with much favour; De Lill, the magician, is excellent; Gus Garrick, comedian; Baffin and Lucas; Mark Leslie, coon comedian and dancer; and Les Strads meet with cordial receptions. Other items are the Mutoscope and Hulbert, ventriloquist. Picton Roxborough and Fanny Wright are capital in a musical scena "Learning the Language."

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr W. A. Armour's company is here in What a Woman Did. Mr Armour is very successful in the rôle of Conrad De L'Orme; Mr Kenneth Smith is capital as Raffaelle Duroc; Mr Owen Edwin is conspicuous as Pitou; as Fritz Mr Will Simpson is well placed; plenty of fun is supplied by Mr Cyril Dundas as the quack doctor; Miss Phyllis Atherleigh as Elsie De L'Orme is sympathetic; Miss Nita Imeson deserves praise, her dancing being well received; and Miss Blanche Delroy makes a capital La Papillon.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Messrs Charles and F. Renad's company in The Swiss Express is reappearing here this week, and despite the fact that it has been seen here several times it still retains its attractive powers.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—The Violas, in their mystifying entertainment, top the bill here this week, and have scored a success. Other excellent turns are Dan Kennedy, comedian; Cullane Trio, sketch artists; Josh Dixon, comedian; Lottie Siegenberg, ballad vocalist; Wallau, juggler; the Knick Knacks, vocalists; and the Royal Bioscope.

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. Cranston.—Messrs E. H. Knight and Geo. Denham's London company in the popular drama The Grip of Iron is drawing large houses here this week. Mr Fred Powell in the rôle of Jagon is loudly applauded; Mr Geo. Denham as Paul Blanchard and Mr J. Richards as Lorentz De Ribas do excellent work; as Alphonse De Coucou Mr Harry Agar Lyons scores successfully, Mr John Brittain giving an amusing rendering of Dodot. Mr W. Griffin is admirably suited in the rôle of Loustalot, the Smiler; Miss Georgie De Lara makes a charming Cora Simmonot; and as Sophie Blanchard Miss Nellie Navarro is all that can be desired. Miss Hilda Baynton does well as Marie Guerin.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, J. Page Moore.—It was satisfactory to see a well-filled house on Monday to witness The Mariners of England, under the proprietorship of Mr Ernest R. Abbott, to whom great praise is due for the manner in which he portrays the character of Lord Nelson. Mr W. H. Garbois in the character of Captain Lebaudy, is responsible for a clever rendering. In the hands of Miss Ada Abbott Mabel Talbot gives satisfaction. The historical scenery is worthy of any theatre. East Lynne was played on Thursday.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—When Woman Hates is being played here this week by Miss Nettie Ware and company. Mr J. Petley gives a strikingly well-finished delineation of the rôle of Lieutenant Fred Rokeby, as does Mr Oscar Adye that of Godfrey Lawton. Marie Rokeby has a sympathetic rendering at the hands of Miss Jennie Hughes, and Miss Louise Brandon is equal to the rôle of Edith Rokeby. The comedy element is safe in the hands of Mr Will Peroy, Mr R. H. Stephenson, Miss Olive Lanty, and Miss Ida Cunard, and Miss Nettie Ware discharges the rôle of Cora Daintry satisfactorily.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Claude Ginnett's Original "Rejected Remounts" are heading the bill this week, and are received nightly with unbounded enthusiasm. Will Musgrove is undoubtedly the most quaintly funny coon it has been the lot of a West Hartlepool audience to witness for some time, his droll songs fairly convulsing them with laughter. J. A. Wilson, Negro coon, has some good songs and funny gags; the juggling and comedy of Frank Sylvo delight everybody; Baker Belphor renders some popular ballads in grand baritone voice; the Four Andys, including Miss Lena, a really smart lady tumbler; and Stevens and Stevens, comedians and dancers, and Blanche Marion, a chic dancer, contribute taking turns.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Payne.—Miss Winifred Chalmer's company commenced a three nights' engagement here on Monday in A Woman's Revenge. As Mary Lonsdale Miss Winifred Chalmers was distinctly good. Mr Henry L. Osmond presented a powerful rendering of the hero, Frank Drummond. Mr Elmore Frith as Jeptha Grimwade and Mr W. Carriden as Robert Overstone were both sufficiently villainous in their respective parts. Mr Herbert Woodin must be singled out for special praise, as he proved the life and soul of the piece as Dick Chilton. Mr R. Mansell did well as John Overstone. Miss Yorke's interpretation of the adventuress, Mabel Wentworth, was an admirable one. Extremely clever, too, was Little Elsie Videau as Mary and Miss Madge Palmer gave a highly amusing impersonation of Lottie Bromley. Miss Lillian Sellman's Maggie Westwood is entitled to praise. On Thursday Mr Charles Macdona's company appeared in that successful musical comedy A Chinese Honeymoon.

WEST STANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Mark H. Lindon.—Mr Edmund Tearle and company are appearing here this week, opening on Monday with Ingomar. Mr Edmund Tearle played the title-rôle with his usual ability, and Miss Kate Clinton was very fine as Parthenia. Cramond Brig was played as an after-piece. On Tuesday Jeannie Deans was produced; The Three Musketeers on Wednesday; The Merry Wives of Windsor on Thursday; and Under the Red Robe on Friday.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. C. Rawes; Resident Manager, Mr D. Williams.—Mr John H. Tomkinson's Royal Gipsy Children are fulfilling an engagement here. The Lizzette Troupe of lady acrobats are clever, and Miss Elsie Rubina is deservedly applauded for her feats on the high wire. Fred M'Lean, eccentric comedian, is also good, and the Musical Keiths are well received.

WEXFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr E. P. Ronan.—The Ben Greet company were here on Tuesday with The Fatal Wedding. Mr G. E. Clive ably sustained the rôle of Howard Wilson; Mr Cecil A. Collins gave a good impersonation of Robert Curtis; Mr W. Rushton Evan's portrayal of Toto could not be excelled; Mr L. Shirley was a humorous Peter Schwartz; and Mr Shirley Lea as O'Reilly was well placed. Miss Eva Moss gave a sympathetic rendering of Mabel Wilson; Miss Beatrice Whitney earned the execrations of the audience as Cora Williams; Miss Maisie Richardson as the Little Mother was very natural and winsome; and Miss Carrie Fenton as Bridget was all that could be desired. The specialities in act three were much appreciated.

WHITEHAVEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Clark.—Mr Chas. Majilton and company of comedians are engaged here in the laughable absurdity Round the Clock. Mr C. Majilton appears in his original character of Gabriel Gadforth, and causes roars of laughter. He is well supported by Mr Herbert Ashmore as Gewgaw, another amusing performance. Mr Fred Wilson as Denby, Mr Jim Bond as Burke, and Miss Madeline Majilton as Mdlle. Salprunelle are successful in their respective characters, and Miss Vesta Brownie makes a pleasing Bertie.

WIDNES.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. Kiddie; Secretary and Manager, Mr T. Swinton.—Mr Fred Karno's company with His Majesty's Guests is the attraction here. Mr Wm. Rokeby gives a very droll representation of Sergeant Lightning, and keeps the house in roars of laughter. Mr Charles F. Howard plays the burglar in very credit able style, and Mr Wellesley Smith is quite at home in the character of universal provider. As Lady Maud Easem Miss Jessamine Newcome displays great dash and spirit. Included in the cast are Mr E. C. Lilly, Mr Chas. Cardon, Mr J. Ross, Mr Chas. Leoville, and Miss Moore.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Beauty and Beast is being presented here this week by Messrs H. B. Levy and J. Walters' juvenile company. The fairy extravaganza is admirably mounted and played by a company of fifty artists. The scenery is very pretty and the dresses are artistic in design. Silver Star is well represented by Miss May Gibson, and Miss Maggie Adair as the witch and Miss Mary Hardacre as Prince Charming act very effectively. Miss O'Vasey as the beast and Miss Kitty Rafferty as Beauty create a most favourable impression. The comic element has capable exponents in Masters Dan Dougherty, George Swinhoe; Paddy Mills, and Chas. Elbon as the Ugly Sisters and the Bailiffs. The piece is most successfully represented throughout.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick. — A capital bill-of-fare is provided here this week. Park's Eton Boys give an entertaining performance; Harry Tate's company, in Motoring, is responsible for an amusing act; Kioto, a Japanese equilibrist, executes some wonderful feats; the Bros. Redmond are acrobatic comedians; and Stylo manipulates hoops very cleverly. The Five Bon-Bons give a laughable pantomime scene; Burnetti is a quick-change musician; Beatrice Bonnie is a charming comedienne; and Harry Morris a humorous mimic and character actor. Alfred Davies, actor-vocalist, also entertains.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—The Bros. Hampson, Australia's patter comedians and dancers, give a very good performance here; the Woellhafs are up-to-date acrobatic eccentrics; and Mark Lane, comedian and dancer; Mdlle. De Vena, club manipulator; Miss Lily Jackson, male impersonator; Read and Wright, comedy duettists and dancers; Fred Williams, minstrel comedian; and Alec Aubrey, gymnast, complete a good list.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Percival.—Mr Laurence Irving's new play, Richard Lovelace, was introduced to local audiences on Monday. The honours of the acting should, perhaps, be accorded to Miss Mabel Hackney, whose charming and winsome portrayal of the part of Lucy Sacheverell was all that one could wish for, while Mr Laurence Irving's impersonation of the title-part was a clever and most artistic performance. The part of Colonel Martin Harvey had an admirable representative in Mr William E. Ashcroft; Mr Henry Crocker was capital as Alderman Sacheverell; Mr Michael Sherbrooke was very good as Mr Porter; and the characters of the Adjutant and Mistress Porter were efficiently played by Mr Chris Walker and Mrs Campbell-Bradley respectively.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessees, Mr Fred Benton and Mr Fred J. Little; Manager, Mr Henry L. Compton.—Messrs Armadale and Warren's company is appearing here this week in The Face at the Window. The company includes Mr Augustine Knight as Lucio Delgado and Mr T. W. Dunscombe as Paul Gouffet.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Barnard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—This week's bill is headed by the Mannings, who amuse their audiences by their knockabout fun in A Hotel Boots. Malcolm Scott, a smart comedian, is also very popular. Other items in the programme are Les Cabiacos, acrobats; Harry Drew, vocalist; the Katos; Fred Carey, eccentric; the Sisters Norde, vocalists; Millie Denham, descriptive vocalist; Frank Gee, and Kidd and Kidd.

WORCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Assistant Manager, Mr F. Le Wards.—Local playgoers have had a novelty presented to them this week in The New Commander, a musical comedy, produced in an attractive fashion by Miss Grace Warner and company. Violet Flintheart is cleverly impersonated by Miss Warner, who sings and acts with great charm. Mr George Gordon, who is the object of the affections of the leading lady, is distinctly good as a naval officer and as a burlesque waiter, and as the lady's father Mr Clifford also causes much fun. Miss Dallas makes a capital chambermaid. The Primrose Quartet of dancers, led by Miss Rosa Walmsley, are responsible for some lively gyrations.

WORTHING.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Manager, Herr O. Adolf Seebold.—Mr Leigh Lovel's company opened here on Monday with The Duke of Killicrankie. Mr Herbert J. Bentley capably portrayed the part of Ian Douglas M'Bayne; Mr Lovel imbued the character of Mr Henry Pitt Welby, M.P., with a fund of humour; Mr F. Danvers Yates was well placed as Mr Ambrose Hicks; Mr Douglas Cottell was a characteristic Alexander M'Bayne; and Mr Vernon West and Mr Richard Houghton were good as the Butler and the Footman respectively. Miss Naomi Neilson deserved praise for her delineation of Mrs Mulholland; and Miss Octavia Kenmore was excellent as the Lady Henrietta Addison. Mrs Lewis Waller and company came here on Thursday.

WREXHAM.

YORK.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—Mr John Wainwright, than whom there is no more capable actor on the boards, is here this week with It's Never Too Late to Mend. Mr Wainwright on Monday had a hearty reception from a large audience, his Tom Robinson being as full of life and vigour as ever. Mr W. R. Wilson as Mr Hawes came in for more than his share of hisses, and the unpopular rôle could hardly have been better placed. Mr Hornby Warburton was in every way an excellent Rev. Francis Eden, and Mr Henry Lee made Peter Crawley a most amusing personage. Mr A. E. Calver did capital work as Geo. Fielding; Mr Edwin Davies was impressive as Levi; and Jackey had an able representative in Mr Fred Owen. Miss Millie Wilton gave a most pathetic rendering of Josepha, and Miss Kitty Carew was an interesting Susan Merton.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—Walter Stockwell is a versatile artiste and is being warmly received here. Permane's clever performing bears cause much diversion; Mdlle. Martha is a gymnast of the first rank, her performance being as graceful as it is intricate and difficult; Sam Dalton, a quaint comedian, meets with success; and the Haldyn Duo have a hearty reception. Tony and Flo Vernon, Brady and Johnson, Gus Harris, and Lilian Travelli complete a very strong bill.

PORT ARTHUR.

The Proprietors of FUO shipped to this now historic town a large quantity of their Mouth-Wash, just previous to the outbreak of hostilities. A cynic has suggested that this may have something to do with the tenacity with which the Russians are holding on to the town and its contents, and also the determination of the Japs to obtain control of the port. At any rate, it is a fact that the Russians are renowned for the care of their teeth, and we fear there will not be much FUO left for the Japs when they get in.

S. H. B.

FUO is a delicious and refreshing teeth-beautifier and mouth-sweetener.

(Known on the Continent as Barnängen's Fade-Mecum).

FUO is the most highly concentrated, and consequently the most economical, of all preparations for the teeth and mouth. Five drops of FUO are ample.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904.
The veteran J. L. Toole has a good story in "The Era" Annual (49, Wellington-street, Strand) a publication which is highly valued by all who have anything to do with the stage. He says:—I was once playing in "Dearer than Life" with Irving and Billington at Leeds. After the performance several gentlemen were in the general room of the hotel where we were staying, and among them a certain Mr Jones, who professed to have a large acquaintance in the profession, and who appeared to have a local reputation as a judge of ages.
"Well, how old," said someone, "would you take Mr Toole to be?'
"Well," said he, "sixty-five, if he's a day."
"Do you know him?" I asked.
"Oh, yes; I know him very well indeed."
"Ah! and how old should you take me to be?"
"Well, I should take you to be forty, if you're a day."
Irving asked Mr Jones if he didn't think Mr Toole was nearer seventy-five than sixty-five. "No," he said; "sixty-five, if he's a day," and the company present seemed to put it down that that would be my age. They had most of them been to the theatre and seen me—for the first time probably—playing an old man; and as it was my first visit to the town, and we were going on by the mail train that night, I had a fancy not to go away and leave them under the impression that I was this very old gentleman. I found that Jones was a decent sort of fellow, and I said to Irving that before I went I should just give him my card and let him know what a mistake he had made. By and bye, when our cab arrived, we said good-night to our casual acquaintances, and, taking Mr Jones aside, I handed him my card, whereupon he said "Oh, indeed!" in a very offensive manner, turned upon his heel, and walked away.
"Well," I said to my friends as we drove away, "that's the most impertinent fellow I think I ever met." Whereupon Billington and Irving went into fits of laughter, and confessed that they had warned Mr Jones that I was continually passing myself off as Toole, and he was to be quite prepared for my handing him a card and trying the imposition upon him.—Leeds and Yorkshire Mercury, Friday, Jan. 22d, 1904.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTES WANTED.

THE COLISEUM, SHEERNESS.
Sole Proprietor, T. C. DORLING.
General Manager, CHAS. MELVIN.
WANTED, Wanted, Known.
The opening of the above on Monday last, Nov. 28, was an unprecedented success in Sheerness, the Public who thronged there and filled the House at Early Doors being enraptured with the Gigantic Alterations made for their comfort.
Also the Huge Programme has been the theme of conversation throughout the Week, the Packed Houses nightly testifying to the fact that the efforts of the Management have not gone unrewarded.
Messrs Dorling and Melvin wish to thank most heartily the scores of Friends who sent Telegrams of Good Wishes, including T. G. Transfield, Esq., Alf. Norton, Esq., Captain Stephens, O'Connor and Brady, Stylo, and the remainder, which are too numerous to mention; also for the co-operation of the Artistes, Band, and Staff engaged, who, one and all, worked so hard to make the Opening successful.
Artistes are required to write in at once for Dec. 12, onwards, enclosing in first instance full particulars of Act, Samp'e Lithos (if any), Lowest Terms, and in all cases Permanent Address.

The Biggest Acts on the road can be engaged at this Establishment, as the price is no object for the right people.

FOUR MILES OF PICTURES.

THE WILD WEST SHOW ON THE BIOGRAPH.

Not only was the full programme of the ordinary entertainment reproduced, but the pictures included all the side shows, and for the first time enables the public to witness the marvellous organisation which enables these 800 men and 500 horses, together with all the concomitant paraphernalia which is essential for the performance and for feeding and housing men and animals, to move daily from town to town.

The pictures are excellent, life-like representations, and as they were thrown on the screen one could almost imagine he heard the war-whoops of the Red Indian, the cries of the cow-boys as they mounted and rode their buck-jumping horses, the boom of cannon, or the crack of Colonel Cody's rifle as he fired while on horseback. They were taken by the British Biograph Co. Four new machines fitted with the latest appliances for recording the most rapid of movements were used during the process, and so successful is the record that not only are these faithfully reproduced, but also the prevailing atmosphere.

THE CORPORATION OF SUNDERLAND

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, DEC. 8.—Despite capital acting and singing, an indefatigable Kapellmeister (Herr Saenger), and tasteful mounting, despite also a good deal of noisy applause, I fear there is not a long lease of life in store for the new opera at the National. The plot is meagre, the music is far from original, although a few of the prettiest numbers were encored. The Marquis is poor and is on the look out for a wealthy bride, whom he fancies he has found in the person of Mary Thompson, the heiress of an American millionaire. Mary will, however, none of him, and employs a detective to assist her in thwarting the mercenary plans—a very unnecessary proceeding for an American girl one would think. The detective—Clip, by name—is a sort of general factotum. Good-natured and of ready wit, he gets everyone out of his or her difficulties; and he helps Mary, too, by a little ruse. The Marquis, it appears, once had a liaison with a dancer named Olympia, who has now transferred her attentions to Mary's wealthy uncle. Clip adores the fair Olympia himself, and, to compromise her and her two lovers—past and present—he procures Mary a situation as maid to the dancer. The plan is successful, but the marquis suddenly loses his heart to the supposed maid, and finally takes to honest work as the "boots" in a New York hotel. Mary, seeing he is a reformed character, gives him, ultimately, her hand and her dollar bags. Fräulein Saccur, in the title-rôle, and Herr Seibold as Clip gave very humorous renderings, and were much applauded.

"ANDROMACHE," a one-act drama adapted from Seneca by Herr Ernst Von Possart, made a favourable impression at the New Royal Opera, where the Schauspiel-Haus company are acting during the alterations. It is deeply tragic in tone and action—almost too tragic for many of the audience, and the language is very fine. The part of Andromache was well acted by Fräulein Lindner, while Herren Krausneck and Pohl gave good accounts of the rôles of Ulysses and Lysimachos.

LUDWIG FULDA'S new and amusing play Maskerade is still being given several times a week at the Deutsches. The piece is more a comedy than anything else, although the author denies the impeachment. A few words will suffice for the plot. His Excellency Herr Von Wittinghoff, one time Ambassador somewhere in South America, returns home after twenty years' absence to the Fatherland. His first care is to seek his young daughter Gerda, who has no claim to her father's name, but the girl being the child of his one and only love, Wittinghof is anxious to make good his fault. He finds Gerda a teacher of languages and apparently all he could desire. She meets her penitent father with appropriate dignity, but when he tells her he wishes to adopt her she is moved to confess that she is unworthy, as she possesses a lover. His Excellency is not so horrified as Gerda thinks he will be, and finding the young man is a son of an old friend of his Geheimrat Schellhorn, he decides to bring about a marriage between the young people. On Wittinghof confiding to Schellhorn that he has a marriageable daughter, and hinting at an alliance between her and Edmund, Schellhorn at once jumps at the plan. He is a man of low principles; he knows his son is bound in honour to a girl who loves and trusts him, but he is only too alive to the advantages of a marriage with a daughter of the wealthy "Excellenz." He—having, of course, no idea of Gerda's identity—prevails upon his son to write a letter of farewell to her. Edmund does it unwillingly, for he is much attached to Gerda, but he does it, and thereby seals his fate. Instead of a happy wedding there is a scene, in which the ill-used girl comes off best. Edmund, as a just reward for his weakness, loses both the girl he loves and the wealthy bride, while Gerda goes on her travels with her newly found father, in a measure consoled by having proved her lover's unworthiness. There are a good many other characters, all amusingly sketched in, and it is no wonder the popular author was "called" repeatedly. Fräulein Hannemann gave an excellent rendering of the part of Gerda, Herr Klein was good as Wittinghof, and Herr Arndt equally so as Schellhorn, sen. The other parts were one and all adequately sustained.

THE Belle Alliance Theatre produced on Friday—as a seasonable play—an adaptation of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," by L. Ottomeyer, entitled Harte and Co. The adaptor has done his work very judiciously and the whole is an agreeable mixture of poetry and fun. The piece is called a Christmas comedy, in five acts, and being brightly acted and effectively mounted should enjoy a successful run.

HERR VON WILDENBRUCH'S earliest play, Die Haubenlerche, was revived at the Schiller Theatre, N., last week, meeting with a most cordial reception. The cast was an unusually good one all round, Fräulein Becker, in the title-rôle, and Herren Ziegel and Kirschner giving especially excellent accounts of their respective parts.

AT the Theatre des Westens a charming children's play by the popular lessee, Herr Prasch, was produced on Wednesday afternoon before a crowded and appreciative audience of juveniles and adults. Who does not know the story of Struwelpeter (Shockheaded Peter) and his various brothers and sisters—each the exemplification of a moral? Herr Prasch has written all kinds of fun and innocent nonsense round the story; there are six brilliant scenes, charming dances, and the accompanying music by Gustav Steffens—an experienced hand in things of the kind—is bright and pleasing. The mounting was exceedingly tasteful and pretty, and Herr Prasch was compelled to appear in response to the vigorous applause. Of the acting nothing but good can be recorded. Fräuleins Grünwald, Von Martinowska (guardian angel), Müller (postmaster), Herren Below (Struwelpeter), Ziegler (Rupprecht), were foremost in the capital cast.

"DIE DIAMANTEN DES SULTANS" is a sensational five-act drama, adapted by Hermann Ritter from the English of Louis Tracy, which was given on Saturday at the Carl Weiss Theatre with a fair measure of success. As I do not know the original piece I cannot judge of either translation or adaptation, but should say the work has been skilfully done. The interpretation was excellent, and Director Fischer had taken much pains with the mounting.

MISS ISADORA DUNCAN gave a highly successful "Gluck evening" in the Philharmonic on Thursday, and a Chopin evening at the High School for Music on Sunday. This charming young American dancer and idealist, who "gangs her ain gait" and dances with incomparable grace to the strains of classical music exclusively in defiance of every known precedent, has gained a firm hold upon the hearts of the Germans. In Bayreuth she was made much of by the Kaiser's sister, Princess Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe and Frau Cosima Wagner, and she has now settled down for a time here to found a school for dancing on her own ideal principles.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

 Provincial Correspondents are requested to forward with their next week's Reports a full list of the Theatres and Music Halls in their respective towns, also the names of the present Lessees or Managers, for insertion in The Era Annual, 1905.

ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—As Midnight Chimes is here this week. The chief part is played by Mr Melville Bickford, an actor of ability, who is well supported by Mr Frank E. Petley and Mr James Salter. Miss Gertrude Price gives a graceful rendering of an emotional rôle, and good work is contributed by Misses Imeson and Ward.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—The Mannon Troupe of American pantomimists present a most amusing absurdity, Uncle Yank; and the Geraldos contribute an interesting juggling entertainment. The Tally-Ho trio again appear with success, and the Jackson Family give a really admirable musical turn. Fred Lloyd and company appear in an extremely funny sketch, The Blind Spinster; and among other successful artists are Miss Mabel Le Blanche, a very clever serio; May and Belle, excellent vocalists; and Mr Jack Pleasants, a smart comedian.

ACCRINGTON.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—On Monday Mr Charles Harrington's company opened here with Uncle Tom's Cabin. A faithful representation of Uncle was given by Mr J. Carr; Mr Charles Harrington was an excellent Phineas Fletcher; George Harris was truthfully presented by Mr Guy P. Ellis; Mr John H. Rodgers played Legree to the life; Mr St. Clair lost nothing in the hands of Mr B. Lenton; and Mr Fred Charles was very amusing as Marks. Miss Hettie Johnson was good as Eliza Harris; Mrs St. Clair was well presented by Miss H. Hathaway; Miss Silvia Stella played Topsy with drollery; and Little Minnie must be complimented for her rendering of Eva.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Mill; Assistant, Mr T. W. Moyes.—An excellent bill at the above house includes Miss Ella Rose, who has a voice of rare quality; Mr Oswald, a clever hand-balancer; Foo-Choo, the wonder, Chinese conjuror; G. Bernard, actor-vocalist; Duncan, a marvellous club-juggler; the Three Henriques, comedy acrobats; and Harry Walker, comedian.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Saunes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—The Face at the Window is being excellently interpreted by Messrs Armadale and Warren's company. A fine conception of the villainous Delgado is that of Mr Augustine Knight, and from Mr T. W. Dunscombe comes a powerful impersonation of the difficult rôle of Paul. Mr C. Alan Hineson is clever as the mad doctor; Mr George Phythian as Henry De Brisson is good; and Mr Alf Richards does well as Lucien. Many amusing incidents are brought into relief by Mr Bob Anderson (Peter) and Miss Lizzie Chambers (Babette). Miss Marie Florence gives a talented portrayal of Marie; and Miss Jeannie Dempster is good as La Pinau.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—At the Theatre Royal this week Mr Arnold Bell and Company occupy the stage with a number of well-known theatrical pieces. On Monday, Tuesday and Saturday evenings, Hall Caine's drama, Bon-My-Chree, was performed, when Mr Bell gave a very forcible, and, in parts, emotional performance of the hero, Dan Mylrea, his efforts being well supported by Miss Frances Campbell as Mona. Mr Cuthbert Imrie made an admirable Ewan Mylrea; Mr H. M. Clifford as the Bishop of Man and Mr Frank C. Robson as the Deemster filled their parts capably. Mr Dan Farrough made a capital Governor of the Island, and Mr William Reid as Davy Fayle submitted a most telling impersonation. Mr Joe Bardsley was humorous as Hommey-beg. On Wednesday evening the favourite Irish drama, The Shaughraun, was staged.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—The managers of the Hippodrome have again provided their patrons with a capital programme. Heading the current bill is Hetty King, who sings charmingly. The popular actor-vocalist, Harry Clifford justified his engagement by humorous song and expert stepping; Mdlle. Roseltha is a neat and agile skipping-rope dancer; Stewart and Morgan, duettists, are immensely popular in their vocal speciality "Leaving Ireland;" Vera Mayne, comedienne, and Jack Martin, descriptive vocalist, each merit commendation; Satsuma, the oriental conjuror, has some clever tricks; Josh Dixon claims attention for eccentricity in song and humour; Kioto is a wonderful Japanese equilibrist, and the Bioscope presents some pleasing pictures.

ASHTON EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. W. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—Every inducement is put before the amusement-seeking public by Messrs Broadhead to visit their new palace of varieties. This week's bill, amongst other notable items, announces the engagement of Woolford's educated ponies, cantankerous donkeys, and clever dogs; a couple of the quaintest of wheelers, who show what can be done with the cycle; the Saxon Trio of strong men, Herr Schular, a famous saxophone soloist; Tom Bassett, Shakespearian comedian; Miss Flo Deighton, Anglo-American soprano, in popular songs; the Pender Troupe of pantomimists in a diverting absurdity entitled Hands Up; or, the Bold, Bad Highwayman; the stilt-walkers in masks, an amusing turn; Mr Arthur Gilbert, the gentlemanly comedian; and H. G. Prosper, with clever female impersonation.

ATTERCLIFFE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, North of England Theatre Corporation, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—A Trip to Rum-Fum is here this week, played by a company under the direction of Miss Cissie Moxon. Miss Cissie Moxon as Flossie Kixie is full of animation; and Miss Kitty Jones as Peggy O'Hooligan renders good service. Mr Willie Garvey as Larry O'Hooligan and Mr W. S. Hutchinson as Biddy, do full justice to their rôles. Mr Charles Russell as Cecil Soft proves himself a good and capable comedian; and a very pleasing feature is the speciality dancing of the Saxon Troupe.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison's company in the popular comedy, A Country Mouse, was well received by a well-filled house on Monday. "The Mouse" was played most charmingly by Miss Violet M. Harley; Mr Charles Howitt's the Hon. Archibald Vyse was very cleverly portrayed; and the same may be said of Mr Robert Lumley's Lord Robert Wykeham. Mr Charles Harley as John Bowlby, M.P., was admirable; and the small part of Jephcot, the butler, by Mr J. E. Watson was made prominent by good acting. Miss Walker as Lady Sylvia Bowlby, the society butterfly, was in capable hands; and the Duke of St. Kitts, who ultimately captures the "little mouse," was excellently played by Mr Arnold Lucy. A Country Mouse ran for the first three nights of this week, and was followed on Thursday by Mr Arthur Carlton's company in the military play, In the Ranks.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson: Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr F. R. Benson's North Shakespearean company is here, and opened with Hamlet. The title-rôle was taken by Mr Henry Herbert, who gave a singularly intelligent and engaging pourtrayal; Mr Arthur Fayne being also a capital Polonius. Mr G. Wallace acted with some distinction as Horatio; Mr A. A. Harris was a capital Claudius; and Miss Margaret Cashe a dignified Queen of Denmark. Mr F. Owen Chambers was very effective as the Ghost, and Miss Dorothy Green gave a charming and fascinating picture of Ophelia. During the week The Merchant of Venice, Merry Wives of Windsor, She Stoops to Conquer, The Taming of the Shrew, Romeo and Juliet, and As You Like It have been given.

TIVOLI THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—The star turn here this week is provided by Miss Dinah Morris and her troupe of Southern State artists in a musical scena, The Lost Coon. It goes remarkably well. Zarmo, the comic juggler and conjurer, is a great hit; Katie Butler is a clever comedienne; and W. H. Morgan's singing is much enjoyed. Annie Laurie, a sweet vocalist; Burg Haud, and Wise, comedians of much merit; and Johnny Johnston complete the bill.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—F. S. Gilbert's English opera company opened here on Monday with Maritana. Mr F. S. Gilbert once more ably sustained the part of Don Cæsar de Bazan. His singing was as good as ever. Mr Stewart Bolton and Miss Kate Waite were amusing as the Marquis and Marchioness, and Mr E. Davies was duly stern as the Captain of the Guard. Mr E. Fredericks was effective as the Alcade. Mr J. Halpin as the King of Spain gave a telling performance. Mr A. German met with evident appreciation as Don José. Miss M. Burnett as Lazarillo sang with feeling, and the success of Miss Marie D'Alcourt as Maritana was complete.

BARNSLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Mr T. Morton Powell's company is here this week in Honour Thy Father. Mr J. W. Evelyn scores as Gabriel Garth; Jack Halyard is capitally played by Mr Douglas B. Watson; Mr Ernest Hartington is a sufficiently villainous Duncan Bly; Miss Ross Mylrea is excellent as Mercy Merry; Gertrude Garth is well portrayed by Miss Kate Newton; Miss Mabel Coleman is responsible for Lilian Garth; Violet Wilfred is ably submitted by Miss Maud Grey; and Miss Lizzie Morley is an admirable Poppy Cornleigh.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr Jasper Redfern.—The Revell Troupe of Pantomimists top the bill here. The Three Sisters Adrienne introduce clever business; the Two J. J.'s perform some smart tumbling; Mr G. W. Hastings is a capital vocalist; Miss Kitty Gower is an acceptable quick change artiste; Mee and Imm are highly amusing comedians; Miss Vinnie Terry, serio, is well received; and the pictures are of a high character.

BATH.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Musical and vocal turns are strongly in evidence here this week with such first-rate artists as Will Cornish, the expert handbell soloist; Miss Daisy Davidson, the young and accomplished New Zealand soprano vocalist; Orpheus, the finished performer upon reed and brass instruments; Ian Colquhoun, the well-known baritone vocalist; and Edwards and Espinosa, banjo specialists, all of whom meet with success. Hilarity abounds while those versatile comedians and dancers, Harrigan and Holt, hold the stage. That dashing comedienne and dancer, Rose Tilley, has plenty of admirers. The comedy bar work and antics of the Wiltons is excellent.

BEDFORD.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—Mr Leslie Norman's company is this week paying a visit in the musical comedy A Trip to Chinatown. Mr Charles Sequin infused much humour into the piece, as also did Mr Jerrold Manville. Mr Leslie Norman proved a capital Raleigh Gay, and Mr Will Smith was entirely successful as a waiter. Mr Ewart Drake caused much amusement as Jones of Chinatown. Miss Harriett Fawn was a charming Mrs Guyer, and Miss Dorothy Vicott a vivacious Flirt. Some clever dancing was performed by the Three Canadian Belles. Mr. Bert Coote's company appeared in the drama The Fatal Wedding on Thursday and Friday.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann.—Mr C. St. John Denton's company opened here on Monday with the musical comedy Kitty Grey, which at once achieved a big success. In the title-rôle Miss Hilda Guiver acted and sang with charming vivacity; Mr Leslie Harris was thoroughly successful as Lord Plantagenet. Another humorous impersonation was that of the King of Illyria by Mr Robert Whyte, jun., and the rôle of Sir John Binfield was cleverly undertaken by Mr Innes Smith. Miss Eily Helene appeared to advantage as Lady Binfield, and a bright and engaging impersonation of Mrs Bright was submitted by Miss Emily Stevens. Miss Hilda Scarisbrick, a charming actress, admirably realised the part of Sadie De Poulson, and other rôles were presented by Miss May Parker, Miss Florence Vernon, Miss Violet Gordon, Miss Maisie Ivie, and Messrs Edmund Russell, Laurl Lisle, G. Martinengo, &c.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Lydia Dreams, who heads the bill at this popular theatre, provides a ventriloquial entertainment entitled "The Last Post," which is remarkably clever. Adelins, the lady facial artist, is a wonderfully realistic impersonator of celebrities; and a great and well-deserved reception has been accorded the Boccaccio Trio of instrumentalists and vocalists. Mr Gilbert Girard's mimicry of animals is amazingly clever. Mr Harry Seymour, actor-mimic, appears in his entertainment, A Green-room Meeting. The Three Sisters Lee gain great applause for their daring acrobatic feats and fine dancing; and Mr W. F. Wilbert, a Belfast boy, gains unmeasured approval for his clever turn. Also appearing are Talberto and Douglas, acrobats, and Mr Charles R. Whittle, comedian.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—The chief attraction here is furnished by May Edouin and Fred Edwardes, who appear to advantage in their sketch A Bachelor's Dream. Lieutenant Travis upholds his reputation as one of our best ventriloquists, his performance being decidedly clever; the juggling feats of Prince Kokin are remarkably smart; Mr Charles Russell is a capital comique with good songs and a voice to sing them; and the Brothers Webb are exceedingly capable musical clowns, their selections being hugely enjoyed. Mr Johnny Dwyer, a first-rate comedian, takes well; and much pleasure has been evinced at the reappearance of the popular local comedian, Mr William Gibson. Miss Flo Burrise, comedienne, completes the programme.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The celebrated Boris Fridkin Troupe head the bill, and their acrobatic dancing and operatic vocalism have fully deserved the success achieved. Mr Herbert

Le Martine is a capital vocalist and splendid dancer, and the Zampa Brothers are appropriately described as "one-legged marvels," their feats being remarkably clever. The funny songs of Happy Tom Parker amuse all, and the Goldina Trio provide a novel act, consisting of expert juggling and a unique carpet spinning display. The Sisters Charnley are charming duettists and capital dancers, and others appearing are Miss Julia Feaviour, comedienne and dancer; Mr Ernest Ball, an actor-vocalist of much ability; and Mr Charles Somers, the quaint comedian.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS.—Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr George Dobler.—Another fine programme has been provided at this popular resort, the leading attraction being the Flying Zedoras, in their thrilling flights through mid-air, an astonishing performance. The Three Novels amaze all with their lightning acrobatism, and Vincent in his table act is a perfect marvel. Much praise is due to the clever Bros. Lloyd, who appear in their sensational acrobatic double rope performance. The talented Sloan Family are retained to the joy of many local admirers; and other attractions include Learto and his dog, the new Hippodrome pictures, and the amusing clowns Mac and Comical Steck.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—The new dramatic, musical comedy The Naval Detective is this week introduced to Bilston audiences by Mr Fred J. Kirke, who revels in his three impersonations—viz., Lieut. Jack Beresford, Rev. Frequent Nipper, and Pat M'Guinness. In three characters also—Phyllis Leslie, Mam'selle Lucette, and Bill Mainway—Miss Louie Fountaine is capable of portraying orphan, prima-donna, and sailor boy. As Susan Scrubbs Miss Edith Claris does well. Mr Arthur Beaufort is well suited to the part of Captain Hustle.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE. — Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company is here with Judy. Mr Kirk is well to the front with an incisive rendering of Grip, a detective, and Miss Florrie Groves is highly popular with an excellent performance of the title-rôle. Miss Mary Neil exhibits considerable power in the trying part of Alice, and Miss Violet Langley, Mr Richard Terris, and Mr Will Casey appear with distinction.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Miss Renee Glendower's combination in The Ladder of Life are favourably received. Mr Roy Milton appears to advantage as David Gordon; Mr J. Cooke Hinton is realistic as Ivan Kirkovitch; Col. M'Gregor is suitably assumed by Mr Roy F. Gasgoine, and Mr C. H. Matthews is a good Fergus Gordon. Miss Stephanie Baring is highly efficient as Olga Sobrinsky; Miss Flora Leslie is an effective Meg Merrilees, and Miss Glendower is a tower of strength as Mother Flint. The production is well staged.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—There are few greater favourites visit this town than Mr Harry Lauder, the popular Scotch comedian, who is at present fulfilling a highly successful engagement here. Dandy George and his highly trained canine associate give an interesting turn, and Miss Rosie Elliott, descriptive vocalist, is a general favourite. Sanford and Lyons, patter comedians, are prominent in the programme, and Mr Fred Cary, a genuine comedian; Miss Maud Cherry, comedienne and dancer; Mr Gerald Mount, a comedian of ability; and Mr Ainslie Burton, mimic and variety artiste, are all excellent in their respective lines of business. A good display of animated Bioscope pictures is also a leading feature.

BIRMINGHAM.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—Florodora, with all its teeming attractions of mirth and melody, is presented here in an excellent guise by Mr Tom B. Davis's company. Mr Edward Lewis takes up the rôle of Tweedlepunch with irresistible humour. Miss Isabelle Dillon gives a clever performance as Lady Holyrood; Miss Hilda Dugdale wins favour as Angela Gilfain; Miss Lydia Granville is popular as the maid; and Miss Lena Maitland shines as Dolores. Mr Fred Winn as Cyrus Gilfain, Mr Leonard Russell as Frank Abercoed, Mr Frank Grans as Capt. Arthur Donegal, and Mr William Rousell as Leandro play their familiar parts with excellent vim, and the chorus is irreproachable.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr V. Turner.—The Cherry Girl was brought here on Monday by Mr C. Lubbock's company, and at once beguiled a large audience of its sympathy, cheers, and laughter. Miss Elsie Molloy gave a charming and clever impersonation of the Queen; Mr H. Herbert scored as Moonshine; Mr Laurence Wensley as Starlight turned every opportunity to account; and Mr Fred Le Frane as Esau and Master Harry Williams as Snowball were received with rapture by children of all ages. Miss Katie May had a pretty style as Pansy; Miss Dorothy Frostick in the rôle of Dimples was cheered enthusiastically for her dances; and Miss Julia Vivers stood out as Sylvia. Mr Clement Locknane conducted, and Miss Lottie Stone's Troupe, the Four Wisterias, and the Quinton Quartet appeared.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—The last nights of the season have been ushered in by Mr Collingwood's own company in the powerful and successful drama When London Sleeps. Last (Friday) night was commemorated the second anniversary of the Collingwood régime, when the proprietor-manager was to appear in his original and finely played character of Captain Rodney Haynes. Mr Collingwood has, by his charm of manner and savoir faire, won golden opinions from all sorts and conditions of men.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—East Lynne once more proves its never-fading popularity with the public. Miss Lilian Dundas is responsible for the company and also the leading rôle—that of the hapless Lady Isabel—which she plays with true feeling. Miss Leslie Dane is successful as Barbara Hare; Miss Kathleen O'Connor is well placed as Miss Corney; and Miss Lilian Adelle as Affy. Miss Magdalene Douglas as Joyce, Miss Jessie Goodman as Wilson, and Miss Marion Ryder as Willie Carlyle do well. Mr Henry Dundas invests the part of Archibald Carlyle with dignity, Mr Maule Cole depicts Capt. Levison in a most telling manner, and Messrs H. J. Bassett, Rowley Hyde, and Syd Young act capably.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—The Sins of the Fathers has been visited by large audiences this week, and much appreciation has been evinced. Mr Hugh Osborne's company has elicited the warmest approval. Mr Wallace Eastlake acts the hero's part to perfection; Miss Dorothy Ruth's conception of the heroine, Ethel Harmsworth, is most sympathetic; Miss Amy M'Neil presents a dramatic picture of the deserted wife, Camille Leblanc; and Mr B. Denniston gives a convincing rendering of the villain, Brandt.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—The Never-Never Land was presented here on Monday for the first time, and with every sign of success. The company is sponsored by Messrs John Hart and H. Armitage, and includes Mr Edward Rochelle, an amusing rogue as Nat Rudder. Mr Edmund F. Kennedy gives a skilful impersonation of Jack Mowbray; Mr Arthur Bolton does well as Tom Hewley; Mr Benson North's assumption of the rascally Wolff calls for much commendation; and Miss Margaret Parker's clever acting as Smudge begets sympathy as well as laughter.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—The patrons of this hall have every reason to be satisfied with the excellent bill arranged. The eccentric comedian, Mark Sheridan, displays all his old attributes to popularity. J. L. Shine, with his company, in New Year's Eve, provides many opportunities for laughter. In trick cycling the Aurora Troupe excel; Brown and Robinson are responsible for some fine harmony; Arthur Lennard renders his songs with good effect; and Morris and Morris are grotesque acrobats. Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; Calile and Walker, comedy artistes; Charles Barron, with an animal act; and Leona Dare and company, in a novel and refined trapeze act, complete the performance.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—Park's Eton Boys are paying a return visit, and are loudly applauded. Florrie Forde is more popular than ever. Most versatile are the Brewster Troupe; another big turn is Les Bollingers; the Original Rag-Pickers of Paris; and Adrim and Oram, Alma Gray, Slade Murray, Tatten Hall, and a series of animated pictures add to the attractiveness of the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—A smart sketch A Matrimonial Agency is being presented here by Hayman and Franklin. Miss Minnl Letta's "Sporting Girls" are here on a return visit; George Penn gives a highly interesting musical and humorous entertainment, as also does Nellie Ganthony. Kitty Glover and company in the sketch Not a Word cause roars of laughter, and other prominent turns are Ella Shields, Grant and Grant, F. V. St. Clair, Harry Meir, and Brown and Nevarro.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident Manager, Mr Edward Foster.—Charles Prinz with his seventeen lions is drawing large audiences; Cole and Le Losse are loudly applauded for their comedy turn, as also are Hal Forde and Edgar Granville. A smart and neat athletic display is that of the Three Donals; the feats of the Two Butterflies are highly appreciated; Rosie Cass is a dainty comedienne; Geoffreys and Benson score a success in A Bit of Bacon; and Keir and Kempton, duettists, complete the entertainment.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke. — Mr William Greet's company in The Sign of the Cross is here this week. Mr F. B. Woulfe gives a good rendering of Marcus Superbus, and the parts of Nero and Tigellinus are well played by Messrs A. Bernhardt Turner and Charles Aldred respectively. Miss Evelyn D'Alroy plays the part of Mercia admirably; Stephanus finds a pleasing representative in Miss Ivy Millais; and Miss Ethel Land is effective as Poppæa. The incidental songs are sung by Miss Tessa Di Alberti.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—Defending his Honour, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville, is being played this week. The principal parts are well sustained by Messrs John Davidson, Clifton Boyne, Chas. H. Herbert, Willie Black; Miss F. Melrose Millett, Miss Kitty B. Russell, Miss Dienly Dainton, and Mrs Edmunds Lyons.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—Tom Grave does a sensational cycle feat, "Flying the revolving wheel;" Friscari, is a clever hat manipulator; Gracie Vernon is a neat comedienne and dancer; W. J. Churchill, comedian; Baker Belphor, baritoner vocalist; Hart and Rudd, comedians and dancers; Four Trees; Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian; J. A. Wilson, Negro comedian; and the Caledonian Boys help to furnish an attractive programme.

BLACKPOOL.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Saturday to Monday is the enjoyable fare provided here this week by Mr Fred Karno's company. The major portion of the fun is supplied by Mr Fred Kitchen, a clever comedian, who plays the part of John Willie Waggs, and by Miss Aggie Morriss as Corinda Blake. Messrs Frank Haylett, Walter Purvis, Douglas Earle, and Misses Gladys White, Ada Maskell, Winifred Stewart, and May Harries also work well in their respective parts. The Camille Dancing Girls contribute to the success of the play.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—A good programme is submitted here this week. The Miles-Stavordale Quintet give a capital musical turn; the Gentle Mackweys are very amusing in their wire act; Prince Fee Lung provides a mystifying show; Fred Horsfall shines as a mimic and vocalist; Stylo is a marvellous hoop manipulator; the O'Malleys contribute a comedy act; Elsa Joel, operatic vocalist, appear in her latest expositions; Kate Chard and H. O. Clarey give a funny sketch; and the Outlaw Trio display cleverness on the wire.

HIPPODROME. — Lessees, Signor Pepi and Co.—The great attraction here this week is Dr. Boyd's Mysterious Kettle. The other turns are supplied by Will Letters, Kavados, Inez Clough, Rice and Rudge, Pete and Juno, Mdlle. E. Rizelis, Dan Conroy, and the Bioscope.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—The Marriage of Kitty was on Monday presented by Mr Frank Wilson's company, and is being well received. Mr Frank Wilson makes the most of the part of Sir Reginald Belsize, Bart., and Miss Vera Fordyce is delightfully vivacious as Kitty. The part of Madame De Semiano is well sustained by Miss Kate Harwood. Other characters are taken by Mr Sydney Orton, Mr J. F. Leighton, Mr Walter Craig, and Miss Elsie Saville. The comedy is preceded by an interesting little curtain-raiser, Jerry and a Sunbeam.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager. Mr Harry Kenyon.—A good variety programme is presented here by Mr R. A. Roberts, protean actor, who appears in his highly successful farce of Lucinda's Elopement, impersonating five characters; by Miss Marion Grahame, a delightful operatic and ballad vocalist; Charles Coverdale, a droll comedian and mimic; Percy Hannan, boy vocalist; Leo Tell, a clever imitator of sounds, &c.; Bert Holmes, vocalist; Mdlle. Lucretia, speciality dancer; Dale and O'Malley, comedians; the Bransbys, character duettists and comedy entertainers; and Verno and Voyce, duettists. The Imperial Bioscope is also an attraction.

OHMY'S CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—An excellent all round company here includes the John Watson Trio, in their up to date pedestal performance; the Sisters Etherdos, lady ladder performers; Mr R. Yelding, with his performing horse Ladysmith; Miss Ida Kennesly and her troupe of performing dogs; Mons. Wirson, daring gymnast; Miss Kellenno, in her globe performance; Hoppitt, Toney, and Terry, with their comic donkeys; and Miss Delat, trapeze artist. The entertainment concludes with a sketch, The Boer War.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr Lilford Arthur's company, in the three-act farcical comedy Jones's Jaunt, fills the bill this week. The chief attraction is Mr Charles Collette as Stanley Jones, who does wonders with rather scanty material. He is ably supported by Miss Ruby Chester as Dollie Bonde, Mr J. R. Crauford as Catesby Duff, Mr Ernest Wintour as the Valet, and Miss Rosamund Bury as Kate. The remaining characters are filled by Mr Edmond Beresford, Miss Irene Ross, Mr David Sellar, and Miss Mabel Luxmore. The farce was preceded by Mr Charles Collette, in his musical monologue Hard Luck.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—In Dahomey, the Negro musical comedy from the Shaftesbury Theatre, is the attraction here this week. Mr Dan Avery, who plays Rareback Pinkerton is a clever comedian, and Mr Charles Hart is quaint and humorous as Shylock Homestead. Capital support is rendered by Mr Pete Hampton as Hamilton Lightfoot, Mr Fred Douglas as Dr. Straight, Mr Walter Dixon as Hustling Charlie, Mr Leon Williams as George Reader, Mr W. Richardson as Henry Stanfield, and Mr Pete Washington as Mose Lightfoot, Miss Pauline Freeman as Rosetta Lightfoot; and the other ladies who impersonate principal characters are bright and active, and there is a bevy of attractive ladies sustaining with much brightness the characters of Boston and Florida Girls. The humour is prolific, and the excellent dancing, which terminates with a characteristic cake-walk for a substantial prize, given by the management to the most successful couple of exponents, is a feature of the production.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler.—The sterling drama, Proof, is the attraction here for the week. Mr and Mrs W. Maclaren's company is giving a very fine representation of the play to deeply interested audiences. Mr Maclaren is effective in the part of the wronged and persecuted Pierre Lorance; and Mr Richard Fulton is powerful and convincing in his acting as the villain, Lazare. As Adrienne Miss Gertrude Evans achieves success; and as Little Adrienne, in the prologue, Miss Gertrude Coates is distinctly effective. Miss Lily C. Bandman's performance of the part of Valentine is an artistic effort. In a finished performance of D'Aubeterre Mr Kingswood Pearce scores well; Mr Alfred Wareing is good as Victor. There is excellent comedy in Mr Ardene Linden's assumption of Chamboran; and Miss S. Hay as Madame Deprets and Miss Wynne Hanley as the Duchess D'Aubeterre complete an efficient cast.

EMPIRE. — Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Crawford Swann. — Eugen Maarder's fire dancing horse, a wonderful example of animal training, presents a distinct novelty here this week. Charles Vincent, comedian, is eccentric and very mirth-provoking, and Robertus and Wilfredo give a capital performance in ball manipulating. As a "word whistler" Arthur Melrose submits a unique turn. There is pleasing variety in the contribution of Billy Mueller and Clara Coyne. A clever and graceful performance by the Three Mascotte Sisters on the rings calls forth deserving applause. Vocalism by Les Voces is excellent; George Bohee contributes very acceptably with the banjo; a marvellous contortionist performance is submitted by Lyane and Geks; and an American sketch, Brockey's Temptation, is novel and entertaining in its way.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. E. Berry.—Sampson is providing the audiences here this week with the genuine sensation "The Kettle of Wonders," and the experiments are interesting large audiences. Zisma entertains with "Gymnastics on the Lawn;" the Great Northern Troupe of dancers are clever exponents; Wilfred, the Canadian, is a marvel of flexibility; a turn given by Miss Raffin's troupe of cleverly trained monkeys is highly diverting; T. B. Fayne, comedian, finds favour with the audience; an excellent instrumental performance is given by the Sisters Redfern; Billy Hubbard's comedy turn is acceptable; and Rafayette's wonderfully trained dogs are put through a clever performance.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr E. S. Willard and company opened here on Monday with The Middleman. Mr Willard, who met with a very enthusiastic reception, gave a masterly and impressive representation of Cyrus Blenkarn. Miss Maud Hoffman made a graceful and charming Mary Blenkarn; Mrs Russ Whytal achieved much success as Nancy Blenkarn; Mr A. S. Homewood was admirably suited as Joseph Chandler; Mr William Sauter's Captain Chandler and Mr H. Cane's Batty Todd were well played; and Mr Walter Edmunds acquitted himself very effectively as Jesse Pegg. Other parts were ably sustained by Mr C. H. Fenton, Miss Edith H. Tomlies, Mr John W. Laurence, Miss Eileen Warren, and Miss Mabel Dubois. The programmes for the week also included The Professor's Love Story, Tom Pinch, and The Cardinal.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—Mr Walter Melville's company opened here on Monday with Her Second Time on Earth. Miss Hilda Beverley submitted a very artistic impersonation of Dora Grey; Mr Bert E. Hammond was thoroughly realistic as the Italian, Beppo; Mr Chas. Franmore made an admirable Capt. Norman; Mr Cecil A. Melton was well suited as Jack Carlton; Miss Polly Marsh presented a good character sketch as the drunken Elizabeth Burke; and Miss Elaine Vanbrugh was a pleasing and sympathetic Laura Norman. Mr Fred Ingram as Teddy Butterfly and Miss Nana Flensburg were very amusing. The remaining characters were ably sustained.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry De Groot.—The Dandies are here this week, and sustain excellent programmes, comprising songs, choruses, duets, quartets, and dances with marked success. The augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr J. W. Slatter, and a Bioscope exhibition entitled "Whirling the Worlds" also add to the attractions.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—Miss Ada Colley, "the Australian nightingale;" the Donaldson Brothers and Ardel, in their pantomime sketch A Zoological Comedy; the Sisters Oswald, in songs and dances; Maggie Rimmer, comedienne and dancer; Hamilton Hill, the Australian baritone; Mdlle. Virginia and her piccaninnies; Ted Saunders, the new mimic; Nora Emerald, soubrette and dancer; the Katos, Komikal Kidgets, in their automatic theatre; Charles Craston, comedian; and the Alhambra pictures. On Wednesday the eleventh anniversary of the popular hall was celebrated. In addition to the ordinary programme there were special attractions, the artistes announced to appear including Cora Caselli, Henry H. Moore, Daisy James, Frazer and Mac, Lennie and Hast, Harrigan and Holt, Lena Verdi, Nat Clifford, Dusty Rhodes, Marguerite Broadfoote, Harold Human, the Katos, Frank Whitman, Fred Storey, Daisy Jerome, and Millie Hylton.

W. Bray, comedian; the Ilfords, gymnasts; Ergotti and King Luis, Risley acrobats; Mdlle. Flora Lumiere, kaleidoscope, serpentine, and fire dancer; the Cabriacs, acrobats; and animated pictures. On Tuesday evening Mr George M. Schilling, the American athlete, who is walking round the world for a wager, related some of his recent experiences.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Under the personal direction of Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Miss Grace Hawthorne and company opened here on Monday with Camille (La Dame aux Camélias). Miss Grace Hawthorne sustained the character of Camille with great success; Mr Harry Hiller gave an excellent impersonation of Count De Varville, and Mr Cecil Wynne was effective as Armand Duval. Poor Nance and Frou-Frou were also in the programmes for the week.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Mr Harold V. Neilson and company opened here on Monday with A Marriage of Convenience. Mr Harold V. Neilson presents an excellent portrayal of the Count De Caudale, and Miss Amy Sangster is a graceful and charming Comtesse. Mr G. Bailey makes a capital Chevalier De Valclos; Mr Edward Sorley is well placed as the General; Miss Yvonne Orchardson is a pleasing Marton; and Mr Henry Hargreaves is effective as Jasmin. The programmes for the week also include King René's Daughter and A Queen's Messenger.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith Wilkes. — The following are here this week:—Happy Fanny Fields, the American Dutch girl; Carlo Bianchi, Risley equilibrist; Kopski, classical pianist; Mona Macdonald, comedienne; F. Howard Fenwick, tenor vocalist; Nancy Renshaw, laughing Negro comedienne and bone soloist; Amy Elvira, burlesque artiste; Edwin Barwick, actor-vocalist and comedian; and the Coliseum pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—This week we have another novelty, Little Mary, capitally staged and well played by Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company. Mr Arthur Holmes-Gore gives an able performance of the Earl of Carlton. Miss Gertrude Burnett infuses a pleasing personality into the part of Moira Loney. She plays with much charm in the prologue, and is earnest and expressive in the remainder of the play. Mr George Mudie hits off a good study of Sir Jennings Pike, obtaining able support from Mr Ean Macdonald as Dr. Topping, the latter gentleman also giving a good characteristic performance of Terence Reilly in the prologue; Mr Arthur Kightley is entertaining as Lord Rolfe; Mr Edward Jephson is amusing as the Earl of Plumleigh; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon is stately as the Countess of Plumleigh; Miss Evelyn Neilida is interesting as Lady Milly; Miss Beatrice Kelston presents a good study of Eleanor Gray; and Mr F. J. Watts, as Deighton, is a typical butler. The performance commences with The Bugle Call, nicely played by Miss Evelyn Neilida, Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Henrietta Leverett, Mr Ean Macdonald, Mr Arthur Kightley, and Mr G. H. Thomas.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter. — Hardie and Von Leer's company is here with A Path of Thorns, the drama being interesting, nicely mounted, and well played. Mr Claude King gives a fine manly performance of John Edmunds; Mr Cyril Mackay is a good exponent of the Rev. Frank Selby; Mr A. Lester is decidedly successful as Sam Hallet; Mr Cecil Du Gue is well placed as John Deane; Mr G. Major Cook makes the most of the part of Edward Langley; Mr J. H. Booth gives a fine exposition of Jim Price; Mr W. L. Rignold does well as Ratty Gabbitt; Miss M. Stanley Burt is sufficiently sympathetic as Nellie Hallet; Miss M. Raby acts decidedly well as Constance Howard; Miss Amy Rogerson is clever and vivacious as Jane Adelaide; Miss Violet Luddington presents a careful and effective exposition of Bessie Edmunds; and Little Mabel May plays prettily as Lucy Edmunds. In the last act some well-trained children sing and dance in good style. On Thursday there was a special performance with extra attractions for the benefit of Mr A. G. Palmer, principal money-taker at this theatre, who has been seriously ill for some months.

PALACE.—Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr Welchman.—The Five Bandurias head the programme with an excellent musical turn. Dainez' circus is popular, the various animals evincing perfection of training; the Five Delevines have a clever comedy act, "Flirtation," which pleases all parts of the house; Miss Maude Beaumont, burlesque actress, supplies a good turn; James Kurry, eccentric comedian, has some amusing songs; Celest, wire walker, &c., is expert in his line; Walter Stockwell, character comedian, obtains appreciation; Barney Vox does a good ventriloquial turn in "Ally Sloper at Home;" and Robert Williams's sword exercises, &c., are both novel and expert. Some good animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The leading attraction this week are experiments with the Magic Kettle, the demonstrator challenging anyone to prove that any chemicals are used, or that feats of legerdemain form any part of the act. The large audience appears to be much interested and amused by the demonstrations. The Three Sisters Klos present a clever and refined athletic act on ropes; the Five Purroscoppis do a pleasing juggling act; Algie and Reggie are good eccentric musicians; Harris and Worth amuse as talking and singing comedians; the Brothers Teviotdale do a smart athletic act; the Donatos, one-legged acrobats, are both clever and amusing; Miss Vivian Dell presents a very pleasing dancing act; and Fielding and Hull are good vocal entertainers. The matinée on Wednesday was for the benefit of the unemployed of Bristol, under distinguished patronage, including the Lord Mayor of Bristol.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY. — Proprietress, Mrs Culcen; General Business Manager, Mr Jas. E. Culcen.—The Two Hussars is here well represented by Messrs F. J. Webbe and Wilson Benge's company. Mr William Benge acts with impressive fervour as Harry Alford; as Paul Villiers Mr Fred J. Webbe portrays the cultured scoundrel with rare effect; Mr J. E. Cunnington keeps the audience in roars of laughter by his humorous rendering of Bob Trott; Mr V. Vivian gives a vigorous and spirited representation of Harry Maythorne and Colonel Manners; Mr G. Paradise is a diverting Sergeant M'Finnie; and Mr S. James is a capital Lewis Montague. Miss M. Danvers Smith is notably successful as Ellen Maythorne; Mollie Cutts is neatly embodied by Miss Lallah Price; and Miss Sadie Smith gives a good interpretation of Marie.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA.—Proprietors, the Broughton Theatres Syndicate, Limited; Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—Mr John Cassidy's company in the new farcical absurdity The New Muldoon's Picnic keeps the house in roars. Michael Mulcahy and Dennis Muldoon are respectively in the capable hands of Mr George Hewin and Mr W. G. Wesley. Mr Leo Whamboult makes an excellent Mrs Muldoon. Miss Madge Cassidy as Kitty Muldoon and Miss Nora Waylett as Cora Muldoon are also very clever. During the evening Miss Vesta Victoria appears, and has to give at least five of her successful songs. Mr A. P. Boswell also contributes an eccentric comedy turn, which is well received.

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Miss Madge Girdlestone and her company are here playing The City of Millions. Miss Girdlestone gives a fine impersonation of Rosa De Valois, a woman of the world. Mr Martin Sabine is capital as Captain Wilfred Dread. Miss Agnes Verity, Little Aubrey Sutherland, Mr Vernon Sansbury, and Mr Grahame Herington are also worthy of mention.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—This week the first clog-dancing contest for the championship of Lancashire is being held here. Heats are danced off at each "house," and the final takes place to-day (Saturday). In addition, Mdlle. Luba De Sarema's educated animals; Gintara, a remarkably clever Japanese juggler; Les Valdos, Continental eccentrics; Dezmonti and Nora, expert bar performers; Elsie Claire, soprano vocalist; and Fred Casburn, comedian, contribute.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead.—The programme here includes Witty Watty Walton, comedian; Winona, aerial rifle shot; Geo. Edney, character comedian; Joe Graham, ventriloquist; Will Percival, clog dancer; and Cribb and Cribb, burlesque artistes, in After the Ball.

CAMBRIDGE.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr Edward Terry and company paid us a welcome visit on Monday with The Passport. Mr Terry, who is a great favourite here, was received with delight by a large audience as Christopher Coleman. Mr Allan Pollock made a dashing Ferdinand Sinclair. Mr Arthur Cornell played George Greenwood exceedingly well. Mr A. Hylton Allen (Algy Grey), Mr Allan M. Servington (Henry Harris), Mr Fred Knight (Paterson), and Mr George Howard (Schmiroff) gave efficient support. Miss Olive Wilton acted charmingly as Mrs Darcy.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robt. Redford.—Mr F. R. Benson's company was accorded a hearty reception at the Royal on Monday, when The Taming of the Shrew was presented. Mr Benson's rendering of Petruchio was a very clever piece of acting, and deserves the highest praise. Equally successful was Mrs Benson as Katherina, her impersonation of this difficult part being perfect. Miss Mabel Moore made an admirable Bianca; Mr Clarence Derwent was decidedly good as Tranio; Mr G. Buchanan was seen to great advantage as Hortensio; and Lucentio was capitally portrayed by Mr Cyril Keightley. On Tuesday Macbeth was produced, and during the week Merry Wives of Windsor, Romeo and Juliet, The School for Scandal, The Merchant of Venice, and Hamlet were also presented.

KING'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; General Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—The Rich and Poor of London has been presented here by Messrs Preston and Doherty's company. The drama is full of striking incidents, the plot is exceedingly interesting, and the capital comedy scenes keep the audience in good humour. Mr Clair Forbes gives an excellent rendering of the polished villain, Mark Stanley, and Mr Robert Hall fills the rôle of Dr. Morton in a capable manner. Mr Sidney Dench is a great success as Spider Jack; Gussy Lamb is still in the capable hands of Mr Sidney Cranston; May Braithwaite has a charming exponent in Miss Dora Dench; Mrs E. F. Brady as Auntie Scrimp gives a clever impersonation; Miss Belle Tilbury makes an excellent Ruby Redgrave; and Miss Mollie Hackett is exceptionally good as Polly Philpot. Special mention must be made of the capital delineation of Dixie given by Master Bert Dench.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—There is a pleasing variety in the programme here this week, the artistes appearing being George Gray and company in The Fighting Parson; Harry Champion, comedian; the Bostons, novelty showmen; The Dandy Bandits, performed by the Morton Comedy Trio; Little Nelusko, conjuror; L. B. Athol, character comedian; the Labakans, acrobatic grotesques; and Miss Victoria Monks.

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs C. E. Veitch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—The top of the bill is occupied by Mr Alt Berg, whose strong act is wonderfully effective. Everything he does is smart, neat, and entertaining. Gillin, the ventriloquist, is excellent; a capital vocal turn is contributed by Miss Cora Gray; the Dardinis give a clever and comic juggling act; Mr Otto Schuman's marvellous equestrian act, which includes Miss Mena-Mona and her cake-walking pony, proves a most acceptable item. Mr Bob Padley, a neat and clever hand-balancer; Miss Evelyn Taylor in male impersonations; and the Hippodrome pictures add to the enjoyment of a smart performance.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—The Rose of the Ring is here this week and is being presented by Mr T. E. Worth and company. Mr Edmund Edwardes gives a praiseworthy interpretation of Lord Desborough, his acting and singing both being good. Mr T. E. Worth plays effectively as Timothy Trippett and is really funny; Miss Grace Chesterfield is good as Dora Vennimore; Rose Meredith is ably impersonated by Miss Maudie Vincent, who has a fine singing voice; Miss Dolly Gilroy sings and acts ably as Dick; the part of Lavinia Lovejoy is played by Miss Nellie Stuart, who dances neatly; Mr E. St. Clair Forbes supplies a forcible impersonation of Capt. Richard Vereker; and Mr J. Court Harvard's Matthew Benson is well conceived.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Mr Frank Bertram's excellent company is here with The Convict's Daughter, Mr Bertram is decidedly successful as Michael Graham. As Patrick O'Laragan Mr Russell Bogue is particularly smart. Harold Trevalyen is excellently portrayed by Mr T. W. Hurst. Mr G. Moreton-Williams capitally renders Jaspar Thorn. Mr J. K. Walton effectively undertakes the part of Frederick Neville. Miss Edith M. Savery gives a charming and artistic interpretation of Edith. Miss Julie Alexander vivaciously presenting Betty Hyne, a maidservant.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—This week we are having a return visit of the musical drama Wearin' o' the Green, presented by Mr Chalmers Mackey's company. Mr Mackey in the part of Barney O'Hea has plenty of scope for the display of his abilities; Mr Reginald Garland looks and acts well as Shamus M'Dermott, his singing being of a high order; Mr Conway Hastings possesses a fine voice, which he uses to great advantage in the character of Connor Martin; an outstanding part in the drama is Michael Kenny, and in the hands of Mr W. Reuben Payne it receives every justice; Mr Henry Danson is good as Gerald Courtenay; Mr James Neville smartly portrays Sergeant Yorke; Miss Lalla Stanhope does well as Biddy M'Ginn; Miss Adele Liddon is a capital Mrs M'Dermott; and Norah M'Grath is sympathetically played by Miss Nellie De Lacy.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—Mr Henry Swinerd's company, in Dare-Devil Dorothy, is here this week. The piece teems with bright songs and dances, and presents many humorous situations. Mr Cecil Parker makes a capital George Fielding; the character of Dorothy Montrose is nicely impersonated by Miss Marjorie Cecil. There is some capital dancing by the Sisters Blake, and an immense success is scored by Mr Arthur Verne as Silas Crump. He is very ably seconded by Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith, her dancing being

COATBRIDGE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Mary Watson; Manager, Mr C. B. Fountaine.—Mr Frank Bateman, with a powerful company, is here this week on a return visit with At War with Women. Mr Fred Vaughan makes an excellent General Malakoff; Mr Clinton Baddeley powerfully enacts Antolski; and Ivan Clovitch is capitally rendered by Mr A. G. Polson-Turner. Miss Lizzie Montague displays ability as Auriel Romanoff; Miss Laura Roberts is a clever Anatase; and Miss Louise Cavanagh is admirably cast as Louise Tolska. The staging is excellent.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—The Ben Greet company opened a week's engagement on Monday in The Fatal Wedding. The play is well staged and the company is good. Mr G. Edwin Clive as Howard Wilson fills the part capitally; Miss Eva Moss as the wife of Wilson submits an interesting impersonation; and Miss Beatrice Whitney plays the part of Cora Williams, an adventuress, admirably. As Robert Curtis Mr Cecil Collins plays with the requisite malevolence.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—There is a good programme here. The Sisters Urma, trapeze artistes, contribute a clever turn; Fred M'Arthur, dialect mimic, gains much applause; Francis and Melli are excellent in their musical act; the M'Aubur Brothers, in their comedy triple-bar act, are responsible for novelty; Amy Donna, comedienne and dancer, gives an interesting turn; the Sisters Hulla, vocalists and dancers, sing catchy songs and dance well; La Belle Idalia is wonderful on the electric wire; and the Brothers Hannaway, comedians and dancers, furnish some interesting items.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—The Master Criminal is here this week, and should prove a strong attraction. Mr Albert Guyon displays a capital piece of acting in the part of Telford Lestage, the master criminal. Mr John Power admirably portrays the part of Philip Manners, the hero. Mr Julius Wright is quite equal to Ben Beauday, a smart detective. Mr Wilton Marsh capably fills the part of James Sharples. Miss Nellie Thearle is a capable actress, and renders the part of Cecile to the satisfaction of the house. She is well supported by Miss Enid Edoni as Mabel Manners. Miss Bessie Armytage is a typical Irishwoman, Mary Murphy; while the comical business is in the hands of Miss Kitty Terriss as Peggy Perks and Mr Tod Squires as Tommy Dale, who are responsible for roars of laughter.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Mr W. W. Kelly's company has been here this week with the New East Lynne, in which Miss Agnes Imlay as Lady Isabel appeared to great advantage. Mr William Hellbronn as Archibald Carlyle gave a dignified and gentlemanly rendering. Mr W. Faulkner Cox had scope for his ability as Murty O'Flynn. Barbara Hare was well played by Miss Helen Stuart, and Miss B. French Stewart was a characteristic Cornelia Carlyle.

CROOK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Wallace Davidson, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr Wallace Davidson.—Mr Oswald Cray's company, in My Native Land, opened here to a good house on Monday. The company is a good all-round one, including Mr Joe English as Moses and Mr John S. Chamberlain as the Irish boy. They keep the house in great merriment.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—Mr Lewis Waller's company, under the direction of Mr Peter Davey, is meeting with approval here in Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner. The mounting of the play calls for special mention. Mr Thomas Kingston gives a highly satisfactory performance as Captain Harry Peyton; Mr Elliott Ball handles the rôle of John Colden carefully; Mr George Mallett is very good as Mr Valentine; Mr J. Haiold Carson submits a neat character sketch of Major Murphy; Mr J. Attfield creditably enacts John Edwards; Mr Tom Taylor is funny as Black Sam; and praise is due to Messrs Roland Daniel, Keith Fraser, R. Watson, and F. Perry, as Lieutenant Bland, Captain Massey, Lieutenant Charleton, and Cuff. Miss Alys Rees just touches the right note as Mistress Sarah Williams; Miss Edith Elton is a pretty Molly Edwardes; Miss Marguerite Cellier does well as Brendo; and Miss Eily Malyon acts with skill and ability as Miss Elizabeth. Mr Leonard Gautier's excellent orchestra is applauded for admirable selections.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry E. Reckitt.—The Sin of Her Childhood occupies the boards here, and the excellent company plays the drama for all it is worth. Mr George Rowland submits a genuinely hearty performance of the Rev. Alan Grey; Mr Kyburn Dellow gives a fine, robust rendering of Captain John Thornton; Mr Bernard Copping acts powerfully as Stephen Haysel; Mr Alfred Donohoe is full of fun as Barney O'Reilly; Miss Mara Collings acts with care and judgment as Mary Haysel; Miss May Henderson is a vivacious Eliza Muggins; Miss Ida Thompson is praiseworthy as Hannah Spry; and the remaining characters are played with credit.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—Mr Jay is showing another full hand of trumps here this week. The Brothers M'Naughton are as brimful of humour as ever; Miss Alice Lloyd is an enchanting comedienne; My Fancy is a remarkably smart dancer; Cliff Ryland is a whimsical comedian; Miss Millie Hylton is a comedienne who sings with effect; Walton and Lester cause laughter with their comic act, "The Mad Sick Kettle;" Paul Courtney's combination do well in sketch, The Doctor; Lilian Rigby gives an acceptable musical turn; Sadie Simpson is an untiring serio and dancer; Collins and Rice are a pleasing comedy pair; Ethel Ryland is a neat comedienne and dancer; and Ted Graydon, comedian, is worth seeing.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Chas. Denley.—Mrs Lewis Waller and company are paying a welcome return visit here this week. Vilma was presented on the first three nights. Mrs Waller assumed the nom-rôle, and scored a complete success. In the difficult rôle of Count Souvaroff Mr Eric Mayne acquitted himself with distinction; as Lieuts. Olitski and Boroff Messrs Edgar J. Coyne and T. Edmunds merited special mention; as Peter Varenski Mr Edmund Lea deserved high praise; and Mr Gomer May made a dignified Grand Duke Ivan. A stately and charming Countess Souvaroff was found in Miss Rosemary Rees, and Miss Ethel Warwick was a lively and interesting Baroness Olga Boroff. Miss Kate Kearney figured with general acceptance as Natouchka. Zaza was presented on Thursday.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwards.—The Five Bon-Bons are the attraction here this week, and cause any amount of laughter with their pantomime trap scene, Hot Time for One. Lily Flexmore, a graceful dancer, is a success; Tom Brantford is a clever comedian and mimic, his imitations being very amusing; Max Merlin is an exceptionally smart equilibrist and contortionist; the Paytes submit a diverting racing sketch; the Lannons, clever duettists and champion high pedestal dancers, are well received; Clown Leo, with his miniature burlesque circus, is well worthy of commendation; and Ernie Williams is an acceptable vocalist.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—Mr Frank M. Thorne's company is appearing here this week in the romantic drama Napoleon the Great, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville. Mr Hugh Montgomery gives a good performance of Napoleon; in the part of Jules Meuron Mr Charles Halling is much appreciated; as Paul Laczinska Mr M. Morley Carroll is responsible for some good acting; Colonel Lavarennes is ably undertaken by Mr Henry Earlesmere; as Marie Walewska Miss Chrissie Dunbar is seen to great advantage; as is also Miss Maud Russell as Leonie Marboeuf, the heroine. The part of Pierre is well played by Mr Frank M. Thorne, the author.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—Mr Douglas Bruce's company is the attraction here this week with A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Lily Hammersley gives a capable impersonation of Barbara Wade; Miss E. Bracewell is seen to advantage in the pathetic part of Constance Cornell; and Nellie Meadows is capably undertaken by Miss Kate Walford. Mr W. E. Griffiths is all that can be desired as John Meadows; Mr George Gainford is successful as Jack Livingstone; and Mr William Fraser-Brunner's impersonation of Cuthbert Lumley stands out prominently. Miss Gladys Newcombe as Tilly Vane and Mr Wm. Corrie as Toby Turner are mainly responsible for the comedy parts.

DEWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr J. Herbert Asquith.—After an absence of thirteen years, Mr John F. Asche is presenting here The World. The drama is played in fine style, and is replete with a first-class company. Mr Francis Hawley represents the plausible Harry Hunting ford with every degree of excellence, and Mr Stuart Lomath as Sir Clement Huntingford is decidedly clever and polished throughout this trying rôle. Mr Jackson Hayes as Martin Bashford interprets this powerful rôle convincingly, while Mr Bernard Lieli is the cunning and cynical Moss Jewell. Miss Georgette Thierry makes a welcome appearance as Mabel Huntingford, and Miss Beatrice Fay as Mary Blythe is at once charming and talented. Miss Maud Scott as Ned gives a genuine portrayal and Mr Valentine Cooke as Dr. Hawkins completes very able cast.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr G. Weldon.—The management again present a striking array of talent, and good houses are still the rule. Lieut. Chard, with a troupe of clever dogs, has a big show; and Rita and Roma, in a delightful sketch, meet with plenty of favour. Alice Townend, the Dewsbury nightingale, still continues a pleasing vocalist; while the Four Andys in a series of somersaults are good. Cambo as a monkey musician is capable, and ?, the electrical juggler, has quite an unique act. Others in the bill are Professor Milne, ventriloquist; Paddy and his Blondin donkey, and the Bioscope, operated by Mr Harris.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company opened here on Monday with A Beautiful Fiend. Ivan Paulovitch was enacted with an artistic touch by Mr Montagu Beaudyn; Mr Herbert Skardon was an adept in the rôle of Count Fedor Karateff; Sergius Strogoff was capably presented by Mr A. M. Dudley; and the pungent humour was the chief characteristic of Mr Charles Kean's Christopher Crackles. Nadine Karateff was invested with womanly virtue by Miss Irene Munroe, and Miss Annie Clunn looked her best as Patty Woodlands. Miss Sidney Crowe was nonchalant, sinister, and malevolent in the title rôle.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Excellent performances of the ever-popular East Lynne have been given here on three nights by the Ben Greet company under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard. A really notable piece of acting is that of Mr F. Vernon Travers, who as Archibald played with ease, naturalness, and polish; Mr Wilfrid Beckwith plays impressively as Levison; Mr Stanley Hill portrays Lawyer Dill with a touch of dry humour which is most effective; and Mr Walter Russell submits a fine rendering of the dignified and austere Lord Mountsevern. Mr W. Templer Powell plays with much earnestness and good declamatory power as the unfortunate Richard Hare, and Mr C. Herman Pullen as the irascible Justice Hare scores heavily. The comic character of Bullock is amusingly rendered by Mr J. O. Stuart, the comedy relief being much appreciated. Miss Nora Greenlaw as Lady Isabel is charmingly natural in her portrayal of the jealous, weak, and erring wife; a graceful and altogether fascinating Barbara has been found in Miss Jeanette Le Gros; and Miss Alice Chapin, well made up, has scored an emphatic success by her effective rendering of Cornelia. The pathetic part of Willie is ably played by Miss Elsie Chapman; Miss May Gould is chic as Suzanne; Miss Lilla Nordon is earnest and sincere as Joyce; and commendable work is done by Miss Kate Vernon in the small part of Wilson. On Thursday Mr Norman Macowan and London company opened with the successful costume drama Monsieur Beaucaire.

DUDLEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr J. W. Tilley.—Mr Alfred B. Cross and a good company are here this week with The Manxman. Mr Cross as Pete gave a manly and interesting rendering, and secured repeated applause, as also did Miss Minnie Watersford for her powerful and pathetic rendering as Kate Cregeen. Miss Rosie Kearns was a spirited Nancy, and Miss Leslie Adair a graceful Miss Christian. Mr Edward M'Lean is gifted with good delivery and stage-bearing as Ross Christian. Mr Richard Vane was highly successful in the difficult rôle of Philip Christian.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Tom Prichard.—Mr Jabez White heads the bill here, and gives a clever exhibition of pugilistic skill. Miss Florence is correctly described as a "refined" lady mimic, and Thornbury gives a clever turn as lightning painter and ventriloquist. Venola Brothers are smart comedy gymnasts; Harry Leybourne deserves praise; Russell Wallett is a mysterious "lady;" Ethel May, comedienne; and Wood and Merton, American speciality artistes, complete a strong programme.

DUMFRIES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—On Monday Mrs H. T. Charles Mayhew and Herrick's company opened here in The Triumph of Truth. Mr C. W. Standing as Capt. Jack Eversleigh was very well placed; Mr J. A. Keoch as Sir Charles Eversleigh played very well; Mr T. R. Lockwood as Count Raoul D'Orville was capital. Miss Marie Auckland depicted the twin sisters creditably; Miss Lilian Ramsdale was very amusing as Corall; Miss Rosabel Dodd as Blanche De Croix was decidedly successful.

DUNDALK.

TOWN HALL THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Urban Council.—Under the direction of Mr Payne Seddon, Mr Charles Macdona's company in A Chinese Honeymoon has had an enthusiastic reception here. Mr George P. Ascot was funny as Mr Pineapple; as Hang Chow Mr Lester Covey was highly successful; Mr Edgar K. Favelle as Tom Hatherton was a praiseworthy performance; Mr Tom Birch made a good Hi Lung; and Mr Percy Stephens was excellent as Chippie Chop. The part of Fi-Fi was played by Miss Cissy Schofield, her singing and acting bringing her much applause. As Mrs Pineapple Miss Cissie Chamberlain was quite successful, and Miss Beatrice Charle as Mrs Brown was all that could be desired. The chorus was good, and the scenery and dresses pretty.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The Private Secretary is being played here this week by Mr Eugene C. Stafford's company. Mr Geoffrey Guise as the Rev. Robert Spalding kept the audience highly amused throughout, and Miss Dora Gray achieved success as Edith. Mr W. H. Hargreaves as Mr Cattermole acted his part ably, and Miss Mary E. Deverell was good as Eva Webster. The rôle of Harry Marsland was well filled by Mr Vivian Gilbert, and Miss Ashford was admirably embodied by Mrs Alfred Davis. Mr A. Austin Leigh sustained the rôle of Douglas Cattermole in clever style, and Miss Cicely Wade as Mrs Stead gave an excellent portrayal. In the one-act comedy, Good for Nothing, which preceded, Miss Dora Gray, Mr R. Chester, Mr W. Compton, Mr V. Gilbert, Mr A. Austin Leigh, and Mr D. Benford appeared with success.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong.—Mr Mouillot's répertoire company is here with The Geisha. Miss Florrie Saunders makes a success in the rôle of Molly Seamore, and is deservedly applauded for her excellent singing and dancing. Miss Aimee De Leska charmingly portrays Mimosa, and Mr Edward Carlton gains unstinted applause for his capital impersonation of Wun-Hi. The Marquis Imari of Mr Lionel Braham is a clever performance, and Miss Violet Kenyon is very pleasing as O Juliette Diamant. Mr Arthur Cartwright acts and sings particularly well as Reginald Fairfax, and as Dick Cunningham, Arthur Cuddy, and George Grimstone Messrs Edward Granby, F. P. Wilfred, and Bay Russell are excellent. As Tom Stanley Miss Blanche Browne is very good, and Miss Aubrey Ashton makes a capital Lady Constance. Mr J. Hornby plays Captain Katana ably, and Mr Harry Reynolds is good as Takemine. The orchestra is under the accomplished direction of Mr Frank Barret.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Miss Frances Delaval and company are here in The Biggest Scamp on Earth. Mr Percy Carne Waram in the part of Derrick Knight is a capital study, and Miss Frances Delaval is seen to advantage as Naomi Belvedere. Mr Hamilton Urquhart makes an admirable Sir Aubrey Knight, and Miss Patty Groves is an excellent Mother Hawk. Mr Percy Brown acquits himself well as Vivian Wakefield, and Miss Dorothy Mahomed is effective as Irene May. The rôle of Bobby is creditably played by Miss Dorris Denman, and Mr Samuel Rock as Jack Morgan, Mr G. Geddes as Napoleon Hawk, Mr L. W. Halfpenny as Rufus Liggins, Miss Sybil Hammersley as Molly Stirling, Mr Gerald Jeapes as Joe Piper, and Mr Charles Wood as Inspector Price all earn approval.

EMPIRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—Charles R. Sweet, the original musical burglar, is well received here; Lily Burnand is meeting with her usual success; and Gilbert Rogers is a capital vocalist and humorist. Maxwell and Frances, speciality artists, are a diverting pair; and Mable Vine, comedienne, renders her songs pleasingly. Abel and Welsh, eccentric grotesques, are appreciated; and the M'Kays are most amusing. The Wedburns, comedy artists, and Ted Cowan, comedian, are still scoring highly, and the Empire Pictures are also good.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Chas. M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—At this popular establishment the Sutcliffe Troupe of acrobats, pipers, and dancers meet with a cordial reception; Albert Voyce's company, in the vocal scena, Jack Sheppard, are interesting; and Will Harvey is a smart character comedian. Farley, Rennie, and Farley, in their comedy act, Fun at a Railway Station, cause much laughter, and Dot Stanley is an excellent comedienne. Mdlle. Florence, in her speciality act on the rolling globe, meets with appreciation, as does also Edgar Budden, bone soloist and skate dancer. Lil Gorman, burlesque artiste, and Wal Croft, Scotch comedian, are successful in their respective turns, and the Bioscope pictures are much admired.

DUNDEE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Sandon Perkins.—An entirely new departure is the appearance here of the New Century Bioscope Company. Miss Jenny Whitehead sings a number of popular songs with much acceptance. Mr Percival Hughes also proves to be a vocalist of great ability.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—Terry and Lambert top the bill with a clever American character sketch, introducing some fine harmonised vocalisation. The Four Estrellas are well received in their clever gymnastic act; Tony Iveson remains another week, and is still a great favourite with the audience; the Smythson Combination introduce a comic sketch entitled Our Suite, which meets with hearty approbation; the Warlocks are very entertaining in their comedy act; and Dora Lyric, John Conley, Lily Simmons, and a wrestling exhibition by E. J. Clarke, of Aberdeen, also figure in the bill.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Will Percival.—A very fine production, entitled The Shadow of the Cross, is presented here this week under the direction of Mr Robert Ayrton and Miss Adria Hill. Mr Ayrton makes a good appearance as the King of Mercia. Miss Adria Hill as leading lady appeared in a dual-rôle, and creates a favourable impression. Miss Loydall as the Queen supplies a clever piece of acting, and Miss Flo Leighton and Miss Edith Tempest are successful as the sons of Wulfere.

EASTBOURNE.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—The wonders of the "magic kettle" are interestingly shown by Dr. Taylor (U.S.A.), who freezes bacon, grapes, flowers, &c., to extreme brittleness. This turn is a scientific novelty which interests the audience. Mdlle. Alethea has a pretty face, a very attractive figure, and her graceful contortion act compares favourably with any of its kind. Mr Charles De Camo and his intelligent dog, Cora, contribute a clever act. The Five Grovinis as tumblers and acrobats secure a full amount of applause for their nimble work. Mr and Mrs Lucas appear with excellent effect in scenes and characters from Dickens. Mr James Stewart contributes one of the successes of the evening as "the tramp at the piano." Miss Effie Ingram possesses a sweet voice; Massona is a very dexterous juggler; Condon and Preston are clever step-dancers; and Miss Cissie Trent as a doll-dancer completes the programme.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—Some account of the opening of this music hall will be found in another column.

EBBW VALE.

KING'S.—Sole Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Knight.—Mr Gordon Starkey's company presented A Message from Mars on the 1st inst. and two following nights. Mr Cyril Austen-Lee gave a natural and delightful performance of Horace Parker. Next to him came Mr William Lockhart as the Messenger; he lent a degree of dignity and weirdness to the "man from above" that commanded attention and respect. Mr Percy Tyler was good as the Tramp. Miss Violet Auberies scored as Miss Parker, and Miss Maud Shortland did well in the part of Bella. This week Messrs Marston and Buckstone's company is here in The Silver Cross. Mr Fredrick A. Marston as Ben Adams; Mr Syd Bazley as Tomkyns Quinton; and Miss Maud Western as Ida Adams are prominent in a strong cast.

EDINBURGH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—Messrs George Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company is here once more in Are You a Mason? a farce of German origin that wears well. Mr Stephen Wentworth, a first-rate comedian, represented Frank Perry in pleasant style; Mr Harry Ashford, another clever artist, was highly successful as Amos Bloodgood; Mr Anthony Fawcett was an amusing George Fisher; and Mr Frank Ridley made a feature of Hamilton Travers. Eva Perry was well sustained by Miss Violet Graham; Mrs Bloodgood had an effective counterpart in Miss Harriet Trench; the Misses Lily Beagle and Isla Glynn were bewitching alike as Annie and Lulu; and Miss Lucy Edwin proved more than usually diverting as Lottie. The comedietta Hushed Up preceded.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—The French conjuror, M. Hermann Melot, heads a varied and attractive programme this week, and on Monday he quite mystified the large audience with his clever feats of sleight-of-hand. Vasco, the mad musician, proved himself a veritable orchestra, playing numberless instruments in a very skilful manner. Another excellent musical turn was the harp and saxophone playing of Diamond and Beatrice, the latter winning cordial favour for her solos. The Four Milons showed exceeding strength and agility as equilibrists; Alexandre and Bertie introduced a novel and daring aerial act; the Five Olracs and the Three Georgis did clever comic acrobatic turns; and the dancing of Doody and Wright, an Australian couple, was first-rate; Bijou Russell, a fascinating comedienne and accomplished sand dancer, was warmly received; the Sisters St. Julian, capital duettists and dancers, and Mr Walter Munroe, the genial Irish comedian, also appearing. In consequence of his success the talented Hungarian violinist, Jan Rudenyi, has been secured for another week.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr James Hare's company appeared here on Monday in The Golden Chance, which was favourably received by a crowded house. Mr James Hare undertook the rôle of Hubert Zac with conspicuous success; Mr Herbert M. King gave able assistance as Stephen Clinton; and comedy parts were effectively filled by Messrs Tom Arkinstall and Bert Atherton. Miss Irene Clifford made a deep impression in the strongly contrasted characters of Viva Zac and Mother Hawk, and Miss Jenny Halworth was delightfully amusing as Susan Brown, her singing being loudly applauded.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—Several attractive items have been added to the programme this week, one of the best of these being the eccentric juggling act of Bonnetti and Corrie, who are clever artists. Another enjoyable turn is that of the Four Maisanor, Italian musical grotesques. Talberto and Douglas and the Brothers Leotard have also provided amusing interludes. Mr Leicester Alfred introduces the trained pony Regent with success, and the spirited equestrian performances of Miss Eva and Mons. Henri are applauded to the echo nightly. Bioscope pictures and the last representations of Prairie Life out West have also been given.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—The Beautiful Avenger has been presented here by Messrs Scudamore and Richmond's company. Cyrus Telford was exceedingly well played by Mr Algernon Syms; Mr Lionel Gillette cleverly portrayed Zadok Foxbane; Mr William Diamond as Herbert Foxbane was excellent; Miss Nannie Meade did capitally as the fair Avenger; Edna Volta was cleverly depicted by Miss Mabel Scudamore; and Miss Cissie Podmore was capable as Baldie Mansfield. Mr Arthur Richmond caused fun as Jim Jhams, and Miss Lilian Hawkins as Arabella Binks and Mr William Ames as Peregrine Patch also supplied much drollery.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—The Lady of Ostend was presented on the first three nights of the week by Mr Lawrence Brough's company. Mr Harry Hampson as Dick Whortles was very entertaining, and was well supported in his various subterfuges by Mr Percy Marshall as Joseph Carbury and Mr Lawrence Brough as Le Baron De Longueville, both of whom by the excellence of their acting added much to the enjoyment of the audience. As Dorothy Whortles Miss Kathleen Russell made a charming wife, and the part of Millie Grace was coquettishly taken by Miss Kate Milford. Miss Eleanor Gilbart gave reality to Matilda Carbury, and Miss Rosamond Rokeby performed satisfactorily the part of the Lady of Ostend. Mr Edmund Gurney as Toby Krockitt, a prize-fighter, was very amusing. Margaret's Stratagem was a pleasing curtain-raiser. On Thursday Miss Renee Glendower's company appeared in When London Sleeps.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company are here this week with Under the Red Robe, Nell Gwyn, David Garrick, The Country Wife, and My Lady Virtue. In Nell Gwyn Mr Norman V. Norman as Charles II. acted the part with considerable ability. Mr Barnett Parker made a capable Earl of Rochester; Mr Eric Maxon proved successful as Lord Dellans; Mr Robert Hilton was well placed as Master Ralph Cursitor; Mr B. Iden Payne and Mr Norman Leslie ably sustained their respective rôles of Adam Bareacres and Captain Blood; Miss Lilian Kevill-Davies was efficient and pleasing as Lady Castlemaine; Miss F. Glossop Harris gave an excellent impersonation of Louise De Queeralles; Miss Kathleen Rind was charming as Betty Arndale; Miss Nora Doyle was seen to advantage as Rose; Miss Coleman Philipson was good as Mistress Wickens; and Miss Beatrice Wilson gave an admirable rendering of the part of Nell Gwyn.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant Manager, Mr Sydney Tolfree.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr E. Vivian Edmonds, who are great favourites in Grimsby, have appeared here this week in the late Mr Wilson Barrett's successful drama The Golden Ladder. A capital representation is given. Miss Austin accomplishes her best work in the part of Lilian Grant, and Mr Harry Cullenford portrays with vigour the manly character of the Rev. Frank Thornhill. The villainy of the scheming adventurer, Michael Severn, is amply demonstrated by Mr E. Vivian Edmonds. Mr Joseph Rowland suitably represents Jim Dixon, whilst Severn's other accomplice in rascality, Pranza, is ably played by Mr Graham Winsford. Mr John Owen and Miss Nellie Graham are satisfactory as Samuel and Mrs Peekaby respectively; whilst the many other characters are well sustained.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes. General Manager, Mr H. F. Millar; Assistant-Manager, Mr H. H. Watson.—During this week the Eight Leopolds have again thrilled the Hippodrome audiences with their daring acrobatic feats. The main features of this troupe's performance are the absolute fearlessness which characterises their movements and the original nature of their tricks. A very laughable burlesque, The Lunatics, has been given by Bennett and Martell, one of the twain showing some extraordinary contortionist business. A smart quick-change act, "The Lazy Slavey," has been contributed by Lottie Siegenberg. An interesting musical turn was that given by Henderson, a blind artist; Will Anthy has been responsible for a clever wire performance; whilst other turns have been given by Bretma, an illusionist; Dan Kennedy, comedian; and Harry Thurston, mimic.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Cromo.—This week we have Miss Olga Audrey's company in a drama entitled The Mockery of Marriage. The villianies of Dick Kenyon were somewhat forcibly brought out by Mr Arthur Winpenny, and he was well supported in this respect by Mr Frank Dalton as Seth. Mr Harry Stebbing was a manly Jack Stanley, and Alva Kenyon and Rose Vernham were capably played by Miss Florence Zillwood and Miss Lydia Audrey. The comedy element was in the hands of Mr Will Skelton and Mrs Sidney Halling. The Four Aces introduced a clever acrobatic show in the fourth act.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Bolam and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—Dr. Walford Bodie, with his remarkable entertainment, is the principal attraction at this variety theatre during the week. The hypnotic wonder, Mystic Marie gives a wonderful turn, indeed, with the result that large crowds have been drawn throughout the week. Her accomplishments while under the magnetic influence of Dr Bodie are marvellous. Dolly Dobson, the Coatbridge child-wonder, provides a good turn, as also does Gerald Lopez in his coon songs. The Sisters Lyle, duettists and dancers, are responsible for a good show, and the Garden Troupe of dancers and pipers also give a good performance. Le Petite Bella and Les Fontaine's Marionette Palace provide attractive items.

GLASGOW.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. M. Downie.—The attraction here this week is Mr Alexander Loftus and his company in The New Barmaid. Mr Joseph B. Montague again plays Bertie White with infinite skill and humour; Mr Alexander Loftus's impersonation of William White is clever; and Miss Maude Nicholls pleasingly portrays the part of Ethel Joy. Miss Violet Osmund acts and sings well as Dora Heather, being a clever dancer; Mr Leslie Austin gives a good interpretation of Captain Lovebury; as Bonsor Mr Frank Malroyd is very amusing; and Mr Cyril Rawdon is successful as Colonel Claymore. Brenda Louth finds a graceful exponent in Miss Hilda Blanche, and praise is also due to Miss Ethel Kenyon as Braddy, Miss Jean Gilmour as Lady Moulton, and Mr Norman Bowyer as Gussie. The chorus does its work well.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane.—A most enjoyable entertainment is provided by Mr Charles E. Hamilton's company in Peggy Machree, the new musical play by Patrick Bidwell, with music by Michele Esposito. As the Lady Margaret O'Driscoll, who masquerades as Peggy, Miss Marie Dainton acts, sings, and dances with unfailing sprightliness and vivacity. Mr Denis O'Sullivan is a dashing representative of Barry Trevor. In appearance, either as the gentleman of fashion or as the strolling fiddler, he seemed equally well suited, and his rendering of the various songs, old and new, in the part was perfect. Miss Freda Bramleigh was excellent as the young widow, Moira, and a particularly well-played part was the piper of Mr Shiel Barry. Mr Graeme Campbell as a stolid Scotch steward, in all the glory of his kilt, gave a clever character study. Miss Ethel Weyburn as Emily and Mr Marc Macdermott as Sir Lawrence, acted pleasantly as two society lovers. Miss Millicent MacLaughlin as the prim Madame De La Cour, and Mr Stanley Pringle as her scapegrace nephew were well placed. Miss Nessie Walker as Molly and Mr Legai Robinson (who stage-managed) as Rainez were also valuable members of the cast. The play was mounted and dressed with much taste.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Mr C. Finch Hatton is here with his company in From Scotland Yard, he himself playing Jack Dale, the detective. Mr T. Arthur Ellis as Dean Fordyce, the forger, gives a strong representation of the part; and Jim Mullins is ably interpreted by Mr Harry Rutland. Miss Doris Rene makes an attractive Mabel, Miss Ellen Lowther, a sympathetic Sybil, and Miss Josephine H. Lee is highly satisfactory as Marie Dawney (afterwards Mad Marie). Mr Jack Armitage is capable as the bank cashier, and considerable fun is supplied by Mr Harry Rose as the dude, with Messrs James F. Firth and Mike Johnson as ragamuffin tramps. Songs and dances give variety to the dramatic incidents.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—Mr Roy Jackson is here this week with Trilby and The Hand of Iron. In the latter play Mr Jackson again appears with telling effect as Manuel Levigne, of the "iron hand;" and is well supported by Mr George Lambton as Edmund Singleton and Miss Kitty Douglas as Marie Durogue. The comic element is capitally sustained by Mr Victor Vernon as Duck, Mr C. Crosby as Soloman Isaacs Silver, and Miss Bell Richardson in the part of Mrs Duck. May Sutherland has an attractive representative in Miss Inez Harman, and the part of the maid is smartly filled by Miss Louie Addison. Mr Percy Braithwaite gives character to the rôle of Blogge.

WHITEVALE.—Proprietor, Mr George Green; Acting-Manager, Mr W. H. Webster.—This week Mr Edward Neville's company presents The Sorrows of Satan. Mr Neville as Prince Lucio gives a grim and sardonic touch to the part. Mr C. T. E. O'Connor is well placed as the struggling author, Geoffrey Tempest. Miss Lole Esmond makes a lively Diana Chesney, the American heiress, and also contributes a cleverly acted character study as the landlady in the first act. Miss Annie Brunette does well as Lady Sybil, and Mavis Clare is charmingly played by Miss Phyllis French. Mr Will White is an amusing Morris. A Kiss in the Dark is the curtain-raiser.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin.—This week's bill includes the Lukushima Troupe of Japanse acrobats, whose performance is both clever and original. Swan and Bambard are a diverting pair of acrobatic comedians; Hagedorn's Fairy Grotto proves a particularly pleasing spectacle; George Newburn very successfully impersonates several well-known comedians; and Horace White is a ventriloquist much above the average. The Coloured Meisters are a quartet of refined singers, and Pia Carozzi, harp virtuoso, plays with much feeling. Madame Emmy, with her highly trained dogs, gives a pleasing little exhibition, and Gallagher and Hild, comedy artistes, appear in a very acceptable turn. Lilian Lowe sings very sweetly, and Johnny Gilmore and the veteran J. H. Milburn are much applauded.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General-Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Messrs T. J. Colquhoun and Fred C. Ewing.—Several of last week's fine company are continued at these theatres this week. They are Allis and Cassatti, fine fun-makers; the Mozondos, tumblers; and T. E. Finglas, coon singer. The Dayton Troupe give a very sensational turn, novel and quite exciting; the Paragon Trio contribute vocal selections with taste; Miss Lily Sharplin is a clever mimic; and, as usual, the Bendon Pictures are a good interlude. Angelina dances neatly; Little Barney is a popular favourite; and the word Chameleon is the new term applied to a vocal entertainer and quick-change artiste. The Four Musical Palmers are clever in Sousa imitations. The singing and dancing of the Hamiltons merit applause, and Mr J. W. Rickaby is again a prominent favourite and a good draw. Mr S. King Alexander has assumed the responsible duties lately performed by Mr Barney Armstrong.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thomas Barrasford; Assistant-Manager Mr. H.

M'Kelvie.—The principal item here is Carl Reinch's clever act, which is well received. Other notable turns include Ed. F. Reynard, ventriloquist; Bob King, comedian; Gilroy and Gross, comedians and dancers; Grey and Welford, speciality artistes; the Legay Quartet, Parisian dancers; Gardner, Griffin, and Gardner, musical trio; the Sandro Duo, acrobatic equilibrists; Patty O'Brien, comedienne; and a series of up-to-date animated pictures.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr James Anderson; Manager, Mr Geo. Saphrini.—The chief attraction here is a humorous Irish sketch, entitled Killarney; or, Paddy and the Ganger, produced by Messrs Love, Ogden, Skea, G. Falconer, and Miss N Wilson; Jas. Brady, comedian, is heard to advantage in new songs; the knockabout business of France and Francis is first class; the Excelsior Quartette contribute good songs; and the Britannia Bioscope is much appreciated with its up-to-date war pictures. The company also include Amy Kirk, comedienne; the Douglas Troupe of international dancers; Tom Hulme, comedian; and the Two St. Johns, in their clever musical act.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Mr Orton Tewson's company occupies the boards this week with My Sweetheart. Mr Broughton Black is a good exponent of Tony, and Tina is vivaciously represented by Miss Grace Arundale. Mr and Mrs Hatzell are well played by Mr Ambrose Skinner and Miss Pollie Marshall respectively. Mr Harry A. Gribben is capable as Harold Bartlett, and Mrs Fleeter is ably impersonated by Miss Gertrude Le Sage. Dr. Oliver is in the hands of Mr Percy Madgwick, and Mr Chas. A. Stephenson is noticeable as Dudley Harcourt. Mr R. Noel Barton M'Guckin enacts the part of Joe Shotwell, and the cast is completed by Miss Violet Knight as Gretchen, the postmistress.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—The Priest of the Temple was presented here on Monday by a strong company under the direction of Mr Charles March. Mr Ronald Bayne, the Decus Fronto, has a dignified presence, and his acting merits high commendation; Mr Charles March plays Valerius with great dignity; Mr Henry Moxon gives a fine performance as Appius Herdonius; Mr Henry Oakley is deserving of praise as Caius Marcius; Mr Stanley May as Hermanus and Mr Whit Rogerson as Alertius are equally successful; Miss Evelyn Hope as Polita is highly dramatic; and Miss Marie North faithfully and effectively portrays Præstantia.

GRAVESEND.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr David Hart.—A company well up to the average has been engaged this week. The great attraction is Kitts and Windrum, who score in their laughable absurdity, Two in a Tent. Dave Wallace is an irresistibly funny comedian, Maudie Ford a dainty comedienne and dancer, Flo Challis a very pleasing turn, and Lade Henderson, although a little man, has the big voice which he claims. The Sisters Adelaide are sparkling and bright duettists and dancers; Marie Tilley, top-boot dancer, does well; and Jack Morris, the blind collier lad, assisted by a brother collier, is a clever instrumentalist.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Mr Charles Coborn is received with loud applause here; the Kimberley Boys do an eccentric turn which is appreciated; Leslie Murray performs wonderful tricks with cards, &c.; the Ernest Dillon Trio provide a clever acrobatic comedy act; Miss Nellie Randall, a charming comedienne, sings and dances herself into favour; the Testo Brothers excel as musical comedy acrobats; Miss Millie Denham sings well; and some interesting pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—The Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Arabs give a wonderful whirling and pyramid display; the Brothers Austin appear in a most amusing scena, entitled The Grand Duchess; Ossi Souplessi, in mid-air, illustrates the flexibility the body may attain; the Bodina Troupe, vocal, guitar, and mandolin artistes, do an enjoyable turn; Miss Vardu as the lady Cinquevalli is very successful; Mdlle. Eleonora gives a daring turn on the high trapeze; Messrs Barton and Franklin score as the Scottish musical princes; Brinn excites astonishment by his marvellous feats of strength; and Doodles and Little Bishop keep the house in roars of laughter.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex. Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr Charles Majilton's company is playing Round the Clock here this week. Mr Herbert Ashmore as Gewgaw is exceedingly humorous: Mr Chas. Majilton appears as Gabriel Gadforth with great success; and the part of Bartle Burke is amusingly portrayed by Mr Jim Bond. Mr Fred Wilson fills the rôle of Denby in an able manner, and the parts of Policeman and Cabman are well played by Messrs P. A. White and Charles Sweeney respectively. Miss Nellie Clarelia lively Mrs Gadforth; Miss Maddie Majilton is attractive as Mdlle. Salprunelle, and sings nicely; Miss Madge Brownie as Georgina Gewgaw does well, and the same can be said of Miss Vesta Brownie as Bertie Kelvin. Miss Carrie Foy is good as Mary Chatterton.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—Tom and Marie Motramo head the bill here, and their musical act, Do You Reverte proves very funny. Shavo is an expert juggler. Frank Hope is a clever trick cyclist. Tony Black, comedian, gives a good turn. Bob Hamilton, comedian and instrumentalist, is applauded. Horton and Linder, eccentric Chinese, do fairly well. Leslie Wolff is a good bass vocalist; and Royal Best gives amazing impersonations of celebrities.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager Mr Smith.—The first three nights of the week were devoted to a vaudeville entertainment, which included some capital turns. The Waldrons and Mr C. F. Best as MacBunker, the mountebank, caused roars of laughter. Mr J. P. Carroll, tambourinist, Sam Dalton, comedian, Miss Bessie Willow, and Miss Lilian Travellie, amongst others, provided much enjoyment, whilst an amusing sketch by the artistes participating in Claude Ginnett's Rejected Remounts also provided abundant amusement. On Thursday the Harrogate Amateur Dramatic and Operatic Society took possession of the Opera House, producing Les Cloches de Corneville for the benefit of the Harrogate and District Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Children.

HEREFORD.

GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Pitt.—Mr J. H. Moreton's company is appearing here successfully with The Rajah of Ranianpore. Messrs Alvin Sawyer and Bert Harrow as Horatio Chicks and Ted Perkins are extremely funny. Miss Nell Ascott is an acceptable Primrose; a cool and deliberate villain is Mr Arthur Reid; and other parts are adequately filled by Messrs Charles Linney, E. F. Welch, and Harry Cornwall. The Rajah Troupe of dancers deserve special mention for their clever turn, and Mr Frank Pitt is a courteous acting-manager.

DRILL HALL.—Manager, Mr A. Lovesey.—Mr Charles Macdona's company opened here on Tuesday with The Gay Parisienne. Miss Jennie Richards in the title-part left little to be desired, and Mr Tom May as Ebenezer Honeycombe and Mr Arthur Watts as Major Fossdyke were excellent. Ruth was admirably represented by Miss Madge Soutter, who won unstinted applause.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Acting-Manager, Mr Norman Robinson.—A huge favourite is here this week in the person of J. W. Hall, whose vocal efforts, quaint attitudes, and humorous allusions keep audiences in constant laughter; J. J. Dallas and Miss Bessie Alleyn do justice to a taking little musical sketch; George Leyton, assisted by a number of local boys, does his military scene, Boys of the Chelsea School, to the manifest approbation of the audience; Radford and Valentine do a clever juggling act, which is rendered very amusing and laughable; Boyd and Gilfain have a little operetta which they render excellently; and Messrs Sidney George, vocalist; E. W. Selmar, comedian; and Vosey and Ramsey, comedians, are billed. The Biograph has a wonderful film, "Whirling the Worlds."

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—No more popular artiste than Miss Millie Lindon comes to Halifax. Her reception this week has been most enthusiastic. Ruby Bijou, the clever little lady who dances so gracefully is appreciated; Mdlle. Roza's well-trained dogs go through a clever performance; Kurtz does a good juggling act; Conway and Leland, one-legged gymnasts, do their work well; Whit Cunliffe, comedian and mimic, is clever in his line; Henry Carlton is the chief figure in a sketch, Obliging a Lady; Dorothy L. Clarke sings her numbers very effectively; and the Four Skandias do some clever work on the rings and trapeze.

HANLEY.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—This week we have Mr Tree's company, in The Darling of the Gods. The piece is admirably presented by a highly capable company, and the mounting and effects are capital. Miss Frances Dillon as the Princess Yo-San is well placed, and her interpretation is exceedingly clever. Mr Douglas Gerard as Kara contributes a masterly reading, his representation being particularly brilliant. Mr Ivan J. Simpson as Prince To San do s exceedingly well in the part. Mr Arthur Vezin as Tonda-Tanji acts with much skill; Mr Douglas Payne as Inu is seen to advantage; Kato finds a good exponent in Mr Herbert Druce; and Setsu as played by Miss Edith Deverell is a capital performance. Nu is nicely sustained by Miss Dorothy Brunt.

GRAND, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr C. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—The bill this week is headed by the Kremo Family, in their marvellous acrobatic display. The Haytors, in their comedy sketch A Hot Time, are most amusing. Rosie Coleman is a sand-dancer of extraordinary ability. Harry Conlin, a comedian with funny songs, is much appreciated. Goggin and Davis are seen in a humorous acrobatic display; the Three Sisters Silcott are smart vocalists and dancers; Musical Silvo, in his musical act, is always entertaining; Miss Alexandra Edwin, with a nice voice, renders her songs in a capital manner; Dion Wade is successful in his quaint songs; and the Grand pictures are always interesting.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs; Manager, Mr Harry Burns.—The principal item in this week's bill is Dartigan, in his sensational act "Looping the Loop." At the first house on Monday the inability to get the necessary 80ft. gradient made it impossible to give the exhibition. At the second house sufficient alterations had been made behind to enable the act to be done. Los Granados are marvels in the gymnastic line, their act being funny and clever. Fred Clifford, the popular operatic baritone, has a good reception, as also have Billy Williams, comedian, and Herbert Bette, eccentric coon. The club manipulations, ball punching, and boxing by Clarke's Nippers take well, and other turns that make a favourable impression are Rose Waller, descriptive vocalist, Leighton and Mona, and Burns' Bioscope.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S.—Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Holyoake.—This week variety again reigns supreme. The Alhambra Quartet of dancers give an excellent show of speciality dancing; Miss Freda Tudor, male impersonator, is a thoroughly efficient turn; Mr Frank Royle, siffleur and "Dutch dancing girl," scores; Whirlo, the tramp cyclist; and Mons. Duro, the strong man, also contributed. On Saturday a great cake-walk competition took place. Mr Murphy and Miss O'Hanlon and Sylvester and Sylvestre divided the first two prizes, their performance being excellent.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr G. S. King.—Mr and Mrs William Gifford's company is paying a visit here this week in The World's Desire. Mr William Gifford as the Hon. Ellis Tridley wins approval; and as Dora Mutley Mrs William Gifford is worthy of the highest praise. Miss Ella Seton impersonates Helen Berkshaw creditably, and Ragged Jack is exceedingly well taken by Little Miss Alberte. Mr Glifford Rean does capable work in the dual-rôle of Robert Selkirk and Henry Selkirk; Mr George Child makes a capital Nathaniel Mutley; and Miss Frances Bruce's portrayal of Justerina Hook and Mr Herbert Light's Godstone Clair are very satisfactory.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—That evergreen drama The Lights o' London is paying a return visit. Mr Herbert Hollister has organised a satisfactory combination to play the old piece. The leading parts are capably played by Cecil G. Calvert, Harold Armytage; Miss Jeannie Burgoyne, Bess; Mr Albert Brasque, Clifford Armytage; Mr Herbert Hollister, Seth Preene; Miss Kate Randolph, Hetty Preene; Mr Percy Compton, Jarvis; Miss Emilie Dawson, Mrs Jarvis, and Miss Gladys Murray, Shakespeare Jarvis.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr W. F. Morton.—All who admire that pretty domestic comedy, Quality Street, have had their wishes gratified this week by again witnessing the play. Mr George Brandram in the rôle of Valentine Brown manages to combine all those manly qualities the audience ask for, tinged with just sufficient suggestion of dash. We welcome a newcomer as Phœbe, Miss Florence Jackson, whose reading of the rôle is especially fine, mingling the pathos and bravery of the character with considerable skill. Miss Grace Edwin bears herself bravely, too, as the sister Susan. Miss Galton's Patty is pleasing, whilst the small boy's part is cleverly sustained by Master Ernest Hollom. Ensign Blades receives creditable treatment at the hands of Mr A. C. Lysons.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Local Manager, Mr Wynn Miller.—Winnie Brooke, Widow, makes her first bow in this city, and the reception accorded her is fully in keeping with what she has met with in other cities. Miss Ada Reeve in the title-rôle finds admirable scope for her powers. Mr Henry Vibart, always an actor of merit, has a rôle that just suits him as the Hon. Dudley Mayne.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Manager, Mr Geo. Morton.—The Grip of Iron pays its annual visit, and has lost none of its power of attraction. Simmonet is once more in the hands of that well-known artist Mr Fred Powell, and Mr Andrew Liston is the Smiler.

PALACE THEATRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr A. Graham.—The great attraction this week is Chung-Ling-Soo, the Chinese conjuror, who is most dexterous in his work. G. W. Hunter is a comedian always attractive, and Pat Rafferty ever certain to draw.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—A return visit has been paid here this week by Mr Frank Curzon's company in Glittering Glory. The foolish Jack James had a capable exponent in Mr John Campbell; Mrs James was forcefully presented by Miss Lillian Williams; the inane Archie Toodley was cleverly portrayed by Mr Stanley Arthur; and Dorothy was charmingly presented by Miss Peggy Harrington. Mr Haughton Macaulay exhibited much comic ability as Zebedee Poskit; Miss Stanley Ronalds was well placed as Gloria Grant, whose impetuous admirer, Colonel Gallager, had a boisterous representative in Mr J. Wordley Hulse; the amorous Algernon was amusingly played by Mr Gerald Clark; the Bond-street jewellers, Slapton and Shreve, were amusingly caricatured by Messrs F. Bentley and Percy Wingar; and able assistance was rendered by Miss Mary Bune as Sarah and Mr Charles Williams as Mr Griddletop.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Tom Taylor's popular drama, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, is being produced here by Mr Hunter and company. The interesting drama is mounted and staged with great fidelity. As Melter Moss Mr J. D. Hunter gives a wonderfully truthful sketch of the scheming Jew. Mr Reginald Dance as Robert Brierly is natural, and the part of the Tiger is well taken by Mr St. John Beecher. Mr Chas. Hawker makes a capital proprietor of the Belle Vue Gardens. Hawkshaw, the detective, is enacted very neatly by Mr Allen Borthwick. Miss Eva Bayley is an ideal representative of the garrulous elderly lady Mrs Willoughby, and Miss Stella Leigh plays the character of May Edwards with moving tenderness.

HIPPODROME.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—The programme is opened here by the attractive comedienne Miss Rose D'Alberg. Messrs Ryan and Hall create great amusement by their comic wrestling. Mr Frank Boyce proves himself a good character comedian; the Two Maningos give a good turn as equilibrists; Blake and Granby introduce a laughable comedy duologue; Miss Ada Parker delights the audience with her pretty coon songs; the Sisters Reveni receive great applause; and Mr Leo Dryden is a successful singer of original songs.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—Mr Ralph Lumley's sporting comedy, entitled Thoroughbred, was the attraction here for the first three nights of the week, being played by Messrs Edward A. Coventry and John R. Collins's company. Mr Percy Bell gave a clever impersonation of John Rimple, the Mayor; Mr Lewis Sealy as Lord Sandacre was quite at home in a difficult part; and Messrs E. A. Coventry, Charles L. Lane, and J. W. Bradbury were each of the greatest assistance. Miss Ivy Hertzog scored a distinct success as the Hon. Wilhelmina Carlingham, and Miss Katherine Parry, Miss Rubamah Calton, and Miss Mary Smith each deserve a word of praise for their creditable acting. Thoroughbred was preceded by Cutting Out a Prize, by Fenton Mackay, which was pleasantly interpreted.

HIPPODROME.—The enterprising proprietor of the Woodbridge-road place of entertainment introduced several new attractions on Monday night, among them being Frank Dunlop, a droll comedian, whose patter was very funny; Tom Owen, a humorous Welsh vocalist; the Countees, pleasing duettists; the Ongarios, musical eccentrics; Miss Vivian Bell, dancer; and Miss Ethel Dove, comedienne.

JARROW.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson.—This week Messrs H. B. Levey's and Walters's juvenile pantomime company is here with Beauty and the Beast. Miss May Gibson gives a good account of Silver Star, her singing being highly appreciated; Miss Maggie Adair is well placed as the Witch; Miss M. Hardacre is excellent as the Prince, her singing and dancing being very enjoyable; La Pettie La Ray is well placed as Will Scarlett; Miss Lottie Harper is quite at home as Maid Marion; Miss Kitty Rafferty gives a charming rendering of Beauty; and Master Paddy Mills and Master Charles Eibon prove themselves able juvenile comedians. Some excellent dances are executed by the Marguerita Troupe of dancers.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—Miss Annie Bell and company are here in the play entitled Sapho. Miss Bell as Fanny Legrand is striking and Mr Horatio Sinclair plays the rôle of Jean Gaussin with great earnestness. Mr George Antley is funny as Cesaire; Mr R. A. Greene ably portrays the character of Paul Dechelette; Caoudal is in the capable hands of Mr H. Longford; Little Miss Lottie Roy prettily plays the part of Joseph. The play is well mounted and staged.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Lester Reekie and Howard Stephens.—This week we have here Chester and Lees' Marionettes, an excellent show; Miss Gertrude Moore, an artiste of varied abilities; Alf Shaw, Vic Verney, Queenie Snow, and Lister Reekie, who gives further proofs of his versatility. Mr Howard Stephens courteously looks after the comfort of the patrons and is deservedly popular.

KILMARNOCK.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Hales.—Messrs Carlton and Armitage's company presented In the Ranks the first three nights of the week. Ned Drayton is well portrayed by Mr Edward Lloyd, and Mr Herbert Cecil gives an effective rendering of the part of Gideon Blake, while Mr Arthur Palling and Mr Archie W. Chappell are capital as Colonel Wynter and Captain Holcroft. Miss Edith Blair-Staples's Ruth Herrick is a pleasing piece of work, and Miss Maud Darley is good as Mrs Flannigan. On Thursday and Friday Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison's company in A Country Mouse was here.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—The attractions here this week are The Silver King and Mr E. Terry and company. The management are indeed to be congratulated upon their enterprise in securing such an important engagement as Mr E. Terry and company for a flying matinée performance on Tuesday afternoon. The piece chosen was Sweet Lavender, with Mr Terry, who in his original part of Dick Phenyl was seen at his best. Miss Beatrice Terry in the title-rôle was charming, and the other members of the company were equally good in their respective parts. For the rest of the week we have Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company in The Silver King. Mr Lauderdale Maitland as Wilfred Denver gives a powerful reading of the part; Miss Lilian Bethel is sympathetic as Nellie Denver; Little Violet St. Clair makes a particularly pleasing Cissy; Mr E. J. George as Daniel Jakes deserves praise; Mr W. V. Garrod is an excellent Spider; Mr Arthur Wright is good as Coombe.

LANCASTER.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—Cullen and Carthy bring down the house here with their comedy act; Curtis and Miss Vanity, American cake-walkers, are great favourites; Ada Fawn has a very hearty reception; and Percy Farrimond, singing collier, merits applause. Others who contribute successfully to the entertainment are the Sisters Vobecque, duettists; the Buffaloes, rope-spinners; and Walter Payne's new series of animated pictures.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr Fredk. Vincent.—Mr Martin Harvey opened here on Monday with his new play, The Bread of the Treshams. The piece supplies this fine actor with a part which suits him admirably—that of Lieutenant Beresby, a dashing, desperate military rake—and Mr Harvey's presentation of it is a triumph of his art. Powerful support is rendered by a strong company, of whom Mr Milton Rosmer is particularly successful in a manly portrayal of Francis Tresham, whilst Mr Chas. Glenney is likewise strong and effective as the villainous Colonel Hungerford. A charming and winsome Margaret, indeed, is Miss Coleridge, and Beresby's boyish friend, Batty, is cleverly played by Miss N. De Silva. Mr Albert Raynor capably acts the stern, unrelenting Viscount, and a successful effort is that of Mr Percy Anstey as Sir Henry Curwen. Mr Fred Wright, sen., and Mr Gilbert Yorke also act with distinction their respective rôles.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—A new sensational drama, An Actor's Romance, in the hands of Mr Cecil Barth's company, is attracting good patronage to this theatre. Mr Guy Hastings portrays the leading part of Harold Davenport with much success, Mr Ernest Ruston is no less effective in the rôle of Robert Livingstone, and marked ability also characterises the efforts of Mr W. H. Beaumont and Mr Percy Marmont as the two Woodfords. Further able assistance is rendered by Mr E. H. Dobell, Mr Albert Wainwright, and Mr John Detliv, whilst the leading feminine parts are thoroughly well handled by Miss Bertha Northam, Little Marie Dowsing, Miss May Charteris, and Miss Louise L'Estrange. The sensational shooting scene, for which the piece is famous, is effectively done.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—One of Mr Lingford Carson's successful melodramas, A Modern Adventuress, is filling this theatre during the present week, being finely presented by Carson and Granville's company. Miss Beatrice Anderson gives an accomplished portrayal of the name-part, carrying off many exciting situations with conspicuous ability. Mr Royce Carleton has the heavy part of Harry Delby, and plays it to general satisfaction. Mr Leonard Aardale is conspicuous with a fine sketch of Pietro Donelli, and an effective portrayal of John Crompton goes to the credit of Mr Evan Roland. Mr Geo. D. Knight is excellent as the banker, Delby, and Mr W. R. Winning and Miss Alice Defoe also render sterling assistance.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. Gerald Morton.—Hugh Stanton and company head the Empire programme this week with their amusing skit For Reform, a thoroughly entertaining sketch. Lady Mansel and her clever juveniles again submit their vocal turn with success; a remarkably fine animal show is presented by Carl and Mary Ohm; those popular vocalists, Austin and Cowan, receive a share of plaudits; Alexander performs some remarkable feats on his bicycle; and some fine vocal renderings by Mme. Alice Simmons are much enjoyed. M'Phee and Hill are gymnasts of more than average merit; Ford and Hanson score with a musical show; and success also attends the efforts of Nello, an expert and graceful lady contortionist; Charles Stevens, vocalist; and the Raies, duettists and dancers.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thos. Barrasford; General Managers, Messrs Chas. Weldon and Edgar O Waller.—A very attractive programme is in evidence here. Staig's motor act causes a great sensation with a looping the loop feat. The Akimotos, a Japanese juggling troupe, find great favour with an expert turn, and a smart comedy juggling pair appear in Edward and Nettie Masse. Heloise Titcomb is an accomplished songstress. Addie Dorina presents with success her clever quick-change speciality. Fine vocal work by Geo. Martinengo is much admired, as also are the comic items by Michael Dolan and Lew Wells, the latter a noted musical expert. The Ashley Bros. are again great favourites with a boxing sketch, and an acrobatic turn by Browning and Welby is also well received.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—Comedians figure large in this programme, Joe O'Gorman proving a popular lead; whilst other capital entertainers in the same line are Will Dalton and Fred Clements. A pair of smart comedy acrobats, Adams and Ward, do well; Young Marco, an expert card manipulator and conjuror, gets a big reception; and the remainder of the programme is subscribed by Mill May, a local juvenile vocalist of promise; Myra Stansfield, a pantomime favourite; and Vokey Gaylor, comedienne.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—A large audience here on Monday gave a cordial welcome to Mr William Greet's clever and versatile company in the bright and amusing musical comedy, The Earl and the Girl. Mr William Stephens makes a conspicuous success as Jim Cheese, and keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter. Mr Percy Carr is in every way excellent as Dick Wargrave, and as the Hon. Crewe Boodle Mr Bertie White is also good. Miss Aimee Grey is popular as Elphin Haye, her performance throughout being a dainty and charming one. Miss Dot Carey is a big success as Liza Shoddam. Miss Gladys Fontaine as Mrs Shimmering Black, Miss Helen Langton as Miss Virginia Bliss, and Miss Florence Imeson as Daisy Fallowfield are each to be highly complimented on clever embodiments. Praise should also be meted out to Mr William Walshe as Bunker Bliss, Mr Will Hindson as Downham, Mr J. C. Graves as Mr Talk, and Mr Tom Redmond as Mr Hazell.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—The boards are held here this week by Mr Horace Stanley's company on a return visit in the successful sensational drama, The 10.30 Down Express, which, as usual, keeps the audience thoroughly interested. As the hero, Jack O'Malley, Mr Harry T. Wood makes a good impression; and as the heroine, Bessie Leigh, Miss Adelaide Clare gives a clever and sympathetic portrayal. As the evil genius, James Inderwick, Mr Scott Leighton is seen to considerable advantage. Both Mr Horace Stanley as Sam Wagstaff and Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts are very entertaining. Mr Harry L. Day gives a good account of himself as Huntley Mason. Other parts are well played by Miss Clara Santley, Mr Arthur E. Francis, Miss E. M. Walton, Mr Fred C. Roper, and Mr Alaric Burton.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—At the head of a programme brimful of clever turns this week is the charming comedienne, Lil Hawthorne, who is rapturously encored for her well-rendered songs. This pretty and dainty artist also introduces a new one, entitled "Tessie," which proves a particularly attractive and successful addition to her répertoire. At the other end of the bill is Will Evans, a clever, original, and entertaining comedian, who keeps the house in a continual roar with his speech, "Food versus Love," and his burlesque of a serio by name Lucinda Wriggle. Alexandre and Hughes are genuinely funny in their humorous business, besides being accomplished artists on the concertina. The mimicry of Ray Wallace found great favour. No finer turn on the double trapeze has visited Leicester than the Sisters Geretti, their show being exceptionally clean, quick, and daring. The Brothers Edgar are comedians whose crosstalk has the merit of originality; Harry Anderson repeats his usual success; Sidney James's Strolling Players are seen to great advantage in their original and versatile entertainment; Winnie Derson is a fascinating comedienne; and Paul Mill, character comedian, also entertains.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—The great attraction in a good programme here this week is the Olrnoes, who are bewildering the audience with the ease with which they escape from all kinds of handcuffs; Downes and Langford are very popular. Mons. Reklaw gives a clever turn as a rolling globe performer and juggler, being assisted by Mdlle. Winetta. Moretti and Alice, Continental equilibrists, are smart. Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, always a welcome feature of the bill here, is projecting some new and entertaining films. Comical Walker, knockabout comedian, with his acrobatic local nippers, creates much laughter. J. G. Aitken is a versatile comedian. Will Bacchus, a local comedian, is also appearing with success.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—This week Mr Harry Foxwell and company are paying a return visit with Shadows of a Great City. Mr H. Foxwell, a native of this town, was loudly applauded on his appearance as Tom Cooper; as Abe Nathans Mr Will Betherton is capable; Mr Chas. Vivian as the villainous George Benson does well; Mr Newton Pearce as Jim Farren is amusing; and Mr Arthur A. Tomlin as Arkwright presents ably that detective's shrewdness. Miss Sheila Walsh in the dual-rôle of Annie and Nellie Standish makes an excellent impression; and Miss Dorothy Neville acquits herself admirably as Biddy Roonan.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr H. Sherriff Howard.—Mr J. H. Clyndes is here this week with a powerful and numerous company in the romantic play, A Royal Revenge. Mr Clyndes acts with all his old vigour and dash as Estevan Alvarez, and is excellent both as the soldier of fortune and the Prime Minister. He is most ably supported by Mesdames Evelyn Shannon, Aimee Grattan, and Bessie Elmar, and Messrs Edward Aldworth, Charles Jordan, Geoffrey Broughton, and Harold B. Lewis. The play is excellently mounted and dressed.

LUTON.

GRAND.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham Falcon; Assistant Manager, Mr Louis J. Beard.—Mr Bert Coote's company in The Fatal Wedding opened here on Monday to a good house. Mr Ernest Owttrim does full justice to the rôle of Howard Wilson; Mr Oliver Rogers is seen to advantage as Robert Curtis; as Peter Schwartz Mr John Wheatman does good service; and Mr Jack Waring scores as O'Reilly. Much laughter is caused by Mr W. R. Chewd (Toto) and Miss Maud Looker as Bridget. Miss Helen Russell succeeds admirably in her portrayal of Mabel Wilson; Miss Dora Gilham acquits herself well as Cora Williams; and Jessie, the "little mother," is pleasingly played by Miss Marjorie Lawrence. On Thursday Mr Leslie Norman's company presented A Trip to Chinatown.

There cannot possibly be any doubt as to the value and efficacy of this dentifrice, because

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—That bright and tuneful musical play A Country Girl has afforded extreme satisfaction to large audiences here this week. All its familiar melodies, rendered by the principal company of Mr George Dance, have been given in a manner which added to their beauty. Miss Maud Boyd, an old favourite, presented a charming Marjory Joy, and earned cordial greetings for her singing and winsome manner. Miss Glen was a successful Nan, Miss Ethel Negretti a finished Princess Melaneh, and Miss Maud Prenton a capital Madame Sophie. A very diverting representation of the Rajah was given by Mr St. John Hamund, who rendered a couple of smart up-to-date songs, introducing the latest topics of the hour; Mr C. R. Walenn infused a deal of life into the play by his vivacity as Barry; Mr Robert Michaelis was entrusted with the rôle of Geoffrey Chaloner, singing and playing in good style; and Mr Joe Nightingale made an acceptable Sir Joseph Verity.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie: Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—The evergreen Ticket-of-Leave Man has been presented by the Hutchison combination before good audiences. To Mr Henry Neville, who played with all his old passion and reserve the part of the unfortunate Bob Brierley, a hearty welcome was given; Mr F. G. Thurstan was an extremely amusing Melter Moss; Mr Cory Thomas made a successful Hawkshaw; Miss Emma Victor's Mrs Willoughby was a finished picture; and Miss Evelyn Weldon was an acceptable May Edwarder. The mounting was excellent.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. French; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Beltram.—A meritorious production of that delightful drama Liberty Hall has been given here by Messrs W. T. Elworthy and J. Buckley's capable company. Mr Elworthy was a masterful Wm. Todman; a delightful picture of Blanche Chilworth was submitted by Miss Beth Elliott; and the Mr Owen of Mr Leonard Pagden was a capital character sketch. Miss Kathleen Maitland scored as Amy Chilworth and Miss Enid Ross was an amusing Crafer.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—That thrilling military drama The Indian Mutiny, by Mr George Daventry, has drawn good audiences here this week. Mr Frank E. Burdett's company presenting it with capital scenic surroundings. Mr H. Ryeland-Leigh was an able Lieut. Manley, and Miss Maud Digby an impressive Brahmin priestess; Mr W. S. Tindall displayed much military dignity in the part of Major Ingleby; and of the representatives of the Hindoos Mr Villiers Stanley, leader of the rebels, and Mr Ernest Keand, were powerfully dramatic.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—The programme this week is excellent. Neil Kenyon has some original and inimitable patter; Clark and Hamilton, who top the bill, are another good draw; the Brothers Artois, clever acrobats, are always accorded a gratifying reception; Ara, Zebra, and Vora are good in "Indian Pastimes;" Wee Mona, a child vocalist and dancer, is a very interesting and pleasing turn; Bessie Travis, the girl ventriloquist, is good; Tonini mystifies everyone with his illusions; and Harry Bancroft is popular as an actor-vocalist.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—Well-attended houses have been the order here this week to witness a good all-round presentation of Wybert Clive's The Conscript. The company responsible was that of Mr George Mitchell and Mr John Belton, and included the former, who submitted a powerfully drawn picture of Karl, the conscript. Miss Mary Dawson was a charming Nadia; Mr Fred H. Constable gave a striking portrayal of a Russian Governor; and Mr Howell Travers rendered with due effect the part of the Starost of Slavgorod. The scenery, mechanical and otherwise, carried with the production was excellent, the set representing a floating raft eliciting loud applause.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville.—This popular house has had a good share of patronage this week with the drama What a Woman Did, given by Mr Wm. A. Armour and company. Mr Armour proved a powerful Conrad De L'Orme; Mr Percy E. Wright presented an ideal villain; Mr Wm. Simpson acted very naturally the rôle of a simple German villager; and Mr Cyril Dundas was a humorous itinerant quack doctor. Miss Dora Price gave good support with her Elise De L'Orme, the heroine, and played with sympathy and grace.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—Crowded houses have been the rule here during the week, the particular attraction being Eugene Stratton, a prime favourite in Liverpool. Another capital item on a well-diversified programme is Selma Braatz, who executes feats of juggling well worthy of Cinquevalli himself. The sketch Lord Harkaway, given by Frederick Maxwell and company, is watched with great interest, a smart glove fight being one of the principal features. An exhibition of wonderful animal training is shown in Schernoff's entertainment with ponies, dogs, cats, &c.; the Cavallini Brothers are amusing comedians; the Tourbillon Troupe of acrobatic cyclists perform some smart evolutions; Tom Stuart's mimicry is thoroughly good; and other names on the bill are Fred Lincoln, comedian; Cline and Clark, black and white comedy artists; Minnie Cunningham, comedienne; Sybil St. Elmo, a lady with a pleasant voice; and Tom Leamore, eccentric comedian.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—An excellent programme has been submitted here this week. John Tiller's High Jinks company remain another six nights. Mr A. Lawrence, an American comedian, is the possessor of great mimetic and ventriloquial powers, and his first appearance in Liverpool has won for him much success. The latest sensational feat is the Banker aerial somersault on a bicycle, a daring piece of work which takes the breath away. The Patty Brothers give an acrobatic show, in the course of which one of the performers jumps downstairs on his head. John Lloyd, the original singing collier, has a pleasing voice, and renders several attractive songs; Mons. Hurman presents a neat turn as a juggler and hoop manipulator; and Miss Kate Gourley executes some clever buck dancing and sings several coon songs with pleasing effect.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—The Schaffer Troupe of strong men are at the head of the programme here this week, and prove a good turn. The favourite Liverpool comedian, Johnny P. Dane, is cordially received; the Prices perform some clever work on the horizontal bars; Mons. Henri Sardou introduces some exceptionally smart illusions; Keir and Allen are a couple of amusing comedians, their "Terrible Tale of the Sea" being particularly laughable; and the remainder of the evening's pleasure is contributed to by Miss Ennie Le Carres, male impersonator; Chas. May, comedian; and Miss Marie Rivers, vocalist.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—The principal item on the programme here this week is the Esmond Farr Trio of comedy sketch artistes, their trifle A Musical Misunderstanding, provoking great laughter. Mr George Antill, a smart comedian, makes his first appearance here; Grapho and Jackson are a couple of funny burlesque actors; Pete Dwight and Son submit a neat variety turn; Gracie Lawn is a graceful comedienne and dancer; and Bert Kemp a cartoonist of merit.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—Among the many good items on the bill-of-fare here this week is Little Lady Fauntleroy with her clever ventriloquial act; the Freans are a couple of excellent vocal speciality artistes; Edie Endon goes through some expert cake-walking and other forms of dancing; the comedy sketch, True Irish Hearts, by Joseph P. Kennedy's company, is a pretty spectacle; Water Lester renders in good style several of his favourite songs; and the remainder of the programme is provided by Tom Hayes, juvenile comedian and mimic; Alf Davis, comedian and actor-vocalist; and Gracie Logan, soubrette and dancer. The cake-walk competitions are still an attraction of the evening's pleasure.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—The Burnells, who head the bill here this week, present a sketch entitled Over the Garden Wall, which provokes much merriment, and another of a similar class is that called The Hot Member, produced by Billy Ross and company, including Miss Hilda Brandon. Bill Richardson, popular stump orator, is as funny as ever; Little Dando, a comedian standing 42in., provides a bright turn; Eugene and Willie are a refined pair of acrobatic musical grotesques; and others who appear include E. J. Wilkes, comedian, and Rosy Morr, vocalist.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—George French, a comedian of ability, is at the head of the bill here this week, and has been accorded a hearty reception. For three nights Hanco appeared and gave demonstrations of releasing himself from fetters; the Dundonian Quartet are accomplished dancers; and the Parisian dumb magicians, Les Manipulos, are exceedingly clever. A good turn is that provided by the Darktown Belles, vocalists and sand dancers; Joseph Sheldon is a fine manipulator of the clubs; Fred Land proves himself a very eccentric comedian; and Miss Marion Francis is successful with her songs. The public snapshots shown on the screen continue to interest.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—This week the play, A Life's Revenge, is being played here under the care of Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr Fred C. Somerfield, with Mr Walter Roberts as Michael Orloff. The play gives an idea of the tyranny in Russia and the terrible treatment of the peasants or serfs by the upper classes. The cast is a capable one, and the play is staged effectively.

MACCLESFIELD.

ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—An admirable performance of No Cross No Crown is being given here by Miss Rose Faith and company. Mr J. P. M'Bride is an unqualified success, his rendering of Sir Francis Luttrell being a capable piece of acting. Mr L. Darra submits an exceedingly good portrayal of Austin Blake. Mr F. Hudspeth as Doctor Ashby gives an excellent account of himself. Miss Gwen Stuart is a sweet and natural Lady Margaret. An admirable delineation of Clare is presented by Miss Rose Faith. Miss Maude Elliott as Dame Priscilla is very entertaining. Professor Nebb is capably portrayed by Mr H. Chapman. Miss Dolly Turner causes much amusement by her impersonation of Plato.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Messrs Bendon and Lander.—An excellent variety company has been engaged for this week. It includes Read and Wright, who are making a hit here; Bella Leaburn, the popular comedienne; Reed and Lerne, comedians, who are both clever and funny; Arnold, magician, who is well received; Akbor, gymnast; Charlie Baynum, Negro comedian; Chas. Cassell, vocalist; and Miss Georgie Beaufort, comedienne and dancer.

MAIDENHEAD.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz.—An interesting entertainment is supplied by Mr D'Arcy Clayton's Gipsies. The company consists of Miss Florence Croft, piano and contralto; Miss Barbara Antoine, soprano; Mr Fred Milner, humourist; Mr D'Arcy Clayton, tenor; Mr Eric Davidson, baritone; and Mr Robert Tattersall, conjuror and ventriloquist. Vocal solos, duets, and part songs are given in truly artistic manner, and the entire programme is at once refined and pleasing.

NEW PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr George Gude.—The great attraction this week is the Royal Welsh singers, whose contribution of duets and part songs is greatly enjoyed. Miss Iris May sings descriptive songs; Les Freres Baptiste perform tricks in juggling; and Dane Hall is acceptable in refined coster songs. Jack Waller does a clever turn, and Sidney Jones entertains with trick piano playing.

MANCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr Edmondstone Shirra.—The visit of Sir Henry Irving and his company to this theatre constitutes locally the big event of the week, and, as usual, the magnet has been powerful enough to draw enormous crowds to witness our premier actor's superb performances in a répertoire of well-tried and attractive plays. The Merchant of Venice was presented on Monday evening with immense success, being followed in order by Waterloo, The Bells, The Lyons Mail, and Becket. To enlarge upon the varied excellences of the principal actor is needless, and it is true that his personality dwarfs that of every other individual member of the cast. Of the latter, however, it must be said that they are one and all exceedingly capable in their opportunities, the most prominently successful being Miss Edith Wynne Matthison (Portia), Miss Maud Fealy (Fair Rosamund), and Mr Gerald Lawrence in various rôles. The plays are staged splendidly, especially in the case of Becket.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr George Lee.—A good house witnessed the performance here on Monday of Robert Marshall's farcical romance, The Duke of Killicrankie, by Messrs Chas. Frohman and Arthur Chudleigh's company.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mrs Bandmann-Palmer and her company are the attraction here this week, after a successful week at the Grand Junction Theatre.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr H. M. Thorburn.—An attractive operatic répertoire is presented here this week by Mr J. W. Turner's well-known company. The Puritan's Daughter was given with real success on Monday, Mr J. W. Turner heading the cast as the Earl of Rochester in capital style, while good parts were rendered admirably by Miss Constance Bellamy, Miss Jessie Dennis, Mr Tom Griffiths, and Mr Sidney Clifford. Messrs Charles Le Sueur, W. M. Anderson, George Ridding, Miss Lizzie Stock, and Miss Maud Esdale had also opportunities on Tuesday, in The Lily of Killarney, of proving the good, all-round quality of the company, Mr J. W. Turner and Miss Constance Bellamy again sustaining the principal rôles with fine effect. The orchestra and chorus leave nothing to be desired, and the staging is in every case bright and attractive. The répertoire includes The Bohemian Girl, The Waterman, Il Trovatore, and Maritana.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—A capital programme, as usual, is submitted here this week, about the most successful turns being Mike Cray, comedy juggler; Tom Lloyd, comedian; the Mahatmas, occult scientists; Cycle, champion trick and comedy cyclist; and the Wallys, comedy and expert jugglers. Other clever and entertaining turns are contributed by Les Belles Americaines, vocalists and dancers; Nelly Amphill, comedienne; Harry Zetter, comedian and grotesque dancer; Bros. Lauri, Continental acrobats; Renton and Waite, in a diverting act; and Harry Hayton, comedian.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company is here this week, in The Midnight Mail, after a week at the Royal Osborne Theatre.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Berry.—An extraordinarily clever and interesting musical comedy is The Lady's Maid, which occupies the stage here this week. It is full of good songs, tuneful music, and distinctly humorous situations, and it has the great advantage of being played by a really excellent company. Monday's audience signified its appreciation emphatically from time to time, sufficiently delighted with the inconsequent fun of song, dance, and dialogue to make no inquiry of themselves as to probabilities of plot and the like. Miss Isa Bowman is vivacious and charming in the title-part, and considerable fun is contributed by Mr Chal F. Chaloner as Spriggs, the waiter. Nothing but praise can be added for the lively efforts of Miss Geraldine Bruce, Miss Pauline Hague, Mr Harry Fisher, Mr Dennis Drew, and Mr Harold Eder.

HIPPODROME.—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. — That clever and amusing juggler, the Great Welland, heads the bill here this week, and meets with hearty applause, and Harry Taft, the whistling comedian, proves very popular. Marguerite Hood, a refined society entertainer, sings several pleasing songs in capital style. Hannas and James are novel foot equilibrists, and Michel and Polo highly-finished athletes. Other good turns are the Sisters Desmond, who contribute some delightful duets; the Four Royal Welshmen, with well-rendered glees; Budd and Budd, in effective burlesque; Ernie Mayne, comedian; R. C. Note, comedian; and the Hippodrome pictures. Dessa and Lovett, who figure on the programme, did not appear on Monday night.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Korries, in an amusing up-to-date medley act, are to the front this week. The Clarion Trio achieve a distinct success with their patter and dancing. Agnes Krembser, a lady juggler of considerable talent, contributes some very smart feats, and David Poole shows much ability as a ventriloquist. The pantomimic sketch and the dancing of the Lyons Trio are much appreciated, as is also the pot-pourri act given by Fred and Lila Lorrisons. Private Clark, the soldier vocalist, is worthy of note, whilst enjoyable items are contributed by Charles Chard, comedian; H. A. Kisby, "The Call Boy;" and Annie Casey, comedienne. A series of animated pictures are also included in the programme.

TIVOLI.—Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—The event of the week was Wednesday last, being the anniversary and benefit of Mr A. B. Wilkes, the genial manager, when quite a galaxy of stars from neighbouring halls appeared with distinct success. The current programme includes Florrie Gallimore, the well known comedienne, whose pleasing songs and dainty dresses are much appreciated. Morney Cash, a capital comedian of the eccentric order, makes a big hit; the charming Sable Fern sings in fine style; and Dan Maxford creates much amusement with his dry patter. De Voy, Hurst, and Fredericks, the black-faced trio, keep the house in a continual roar of laughter the whole of the time they occupy the stage, whilst others who appear successfully are Marie Kendall, comedienne: Alveno and Cleo, sensational gymnasts; and Frank Celli, descriptive vocalist. Steve M'Carthy, the Irish coon, did not appear on the occasion of our visit.

ARDWICK EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Collins.—Alec Hurley, the popular coster comedian, figures at the top of the bill here, the principal item in his turn being The Lambeth Walk scena, which is exceedingly well received. The Brothers Egbert, the happy dustmen, figure prominently also in their well known "backyard" scene. A remarkably good turn is that of Gertie Gitana, whose vocal and other talents are rather above the ordinary; while good business is forthcoming also from Marie Reeve, comedienne and dancer; O'Connor and Brady, the two drolls; Spry and Austin, comedy artists; the Young America Quintet of vocalists and dancers; the Florador Quartet in a comedy sketch; the Ashers, comedy artists; and the Sisters Sprightly, vivacious singers and dancers.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—The programme here is an excellent one, George Gilbey, a comedian of more than ordinary ability, providing one of the star turns. The Harris L. Bell and Lilly Pearl company present a very acceptable musical comedy sketch; the Three Woodbee Wonders are comical acrobats of a unique kind, and cause much laughter; Harry Barker, comedian, renders two good "swell" songs in an effective manner; Wisper, in an original comic juggling act, with humorous gag, is decidedly popular; the Wynford Brothers give a splendid exhibition of chair vaulting and barrel-jumping; and Valvero, lightning cartoonist, depicts the bombardment of Port Arthur in fine style. Beattie Bloom, a good serio-comic; Will Bell, song and dance artiste; and an interesting series of pictures complete a bright and enjoyable entertainment.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—An excellent programme here this week is headed by Wilkie Bard, the popular eccentric comedian, who is seen at his best in a series of quaint songs. The Poluski Brothers, comedians; Nanno Leo and Kinko, the society marvels; and Charlene and Charlene, drawing-room entertainers, also contribute excellent business; other smart and pleasing turns being the Sisters Govell, refined character impersonators; Daisy De Roy, an accomplished comedienne; Nellie Stratton, comedienne-vocalist; Gertrude Maynard, comedienne; and last, but by no means least, Joe Peterman's novel animated song-sheet. The Palace pictures are included as usual, and the orchestral selection remains a pleasing feature of the programme.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson's company opened here on Monday with The Assassin. As Prince Demetri Mr Paul Beckett is well placed; Mr John C. Carlyle acts manfully as Ivan Ipanoff; capital impersonations of Duke Carl, Baron Alphonse, General Nicholai, and Captain O'Neil are given respectively by Messrs Theo. Balfour, Edward Swinton, Arthur M'Culloch, and Fred Wilberforce; Miss Ruth Shepherd is successful as Countess Wanda; Connie Jonathan has a capable exponent in Miss Alice Barber; Miss Grace Aimers plays with feeling the part of Nita; and Miss Marjory Armstrong as Katrina, and Mr Fred Yarnold as Peter contribute the comedy element.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Messrs F. Darcy and F. J. Little's company is this week presenting The Executioner's Daughter. Mr Ed. M. Hamilton gives a fine impersonation of Monsieur Roche; the Felix Marius of Mr George Beverley is a powerful study; in the rôle of Paul Rover Mr W. Howard displays much ability; Mr W. H. Sharpe is capital as Kretch; and Mr C. W. Avery (Tom Holmes) and Mr S. Holden (Ormonde) work well. Miss Dorothy Riddell presents a refined and sympathetic portraiture of Annette; Miss Carlotta Anson plays with great power the character of Felice; and Miss May Rosine is amusing as Sally King.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Joshua Dyson's Dioramas and Gipsy Choir have been the attraction here this week. The programme has been varied each evening, and the views, animated photographs, songs, musical selections, sketches, &c., have gone to make up a most interesting as well as a diversified entertainment.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Directors, Messrs George and Charles Imeson.—The Sins of a City, by Nita Rae, under the direction of Mr Victor Du Cane, is fulfilling a week's engagement here. Miss Winifred Maude, who appears as Seaweed, afterwards Nora, gives a delightful portrayal; Mr Horace Herbert is conspicuous as Sandy M'Donald; Mr Ivan Gore is capital as Donald M'Ivor; Mr Victor Du Cane proves a satisfactory Isaac Levi; and Mr Wilbraque, Mr Manton, and Mr Leslie Beaufort make the most of their opportunities in their respective parts. Mr J. W. Baxter is an excellent Ralph Woodleigh; Miss Alice Granville gives a charming rendering of Mrs Miggs; Miss Marie Lyons finds favour as Leabia; and Miss Ellen Gray appears as Jenny. Miss Jenny Hackett adds much to the success by her singing and dancing.

OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—The Still Alarm occupies the boards here, under the management of Messrs H. Glenville and Fred Osmond. Mr Mathew H. Glenville takes the part of Jack Manley, the fireman, with great success; Mr Tom Beasley is a capital Willie Manley; Mr Paul Lovett is good as John Bird; and the same may be said of Mr Fred Osmond's Doc Wilber. Miss Mabel Verlton makes a sympathetic Mrs Manley, and Miss Mary Lovett is a powerful Elinore Fordham. Miss Hettie Zillwood delights everyone with her songs.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—Ross and Grayson, in The Professor and His Pupil, top the bill here, and provide a most amusing turn. The Three Sisters Jonghmanns are great favourites, and the Collinson combination, in the sketch A Club Raid, creates roars of laughter. Jean Seul, the Indian mystery, provides a capital turn; Virando is a ventriloquist of the highest class; Frank Sylvo is a comedy juggler of exceptional merit; Reilly and Taylor, dancers, receive hearty plaudits; and Beatrice Willey sings in fine style. The Bioscope pictures complete the bill-of-fare.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—The Densmores, in a sketch An Early Morning in the Kitchen, are the principal turn here and prove a good attraction. Coram is a clever ventriloquist, and Chas. Paver, comedian, provides an agreeable turn. The Crown Trio sing well, and the Sisters Russell are well received. The Solari Duo, in an instrumental act, are favourites; Miss Alice Maple is a pretty dancer; and James Grant, comedian, and the Bio. complete the programme. On Thursday Mr Ainsworth took a well-merited benefit, and was presented by the staff with a beautiful set of mantelpiece ornaments.

MIDDLETON.

PARDOE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr William Pardoe.—A variety programme is presented this week, in which the star turn is the Two Eltons, who are marvels of cleverness and eccentricity on the triple bars. They are amongst the foremost for getting real humour out of physical feats. The Musical Japs and other artists make up a good company.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—This week we have Mr Wentworth Croke's company in The Christian. In the important part of Glory Quayle Miss Grace Chalmers possesses all the power and pathos necessary. Mr Hilliard Vox is very clever as the Hon. John Storm. Mr Charles B. Bedells gives a good display as Lord Robert Ure, and Mr Jackson Wilcox does well as Horatio Drake. Mr Stanley Radcliffe makes a good Father Lamplugh, and Mr Oswald Marshall finds favour as Mr Lorimer.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The periodical visit of the D'Oyly Carte opera company is always received with abundant signs of complete satisfaction, and the performances given of some of the famous works of Messrs Gilbert and Sullivan which constitute the répertoire for the current week have been attended, as usual, with unbounded success both from an artistic and financial point of view. On Monday the ever-popular Mikado was presented to a crowded house, and a similar state of things prevailed on Tuesday when The Yeomen of the Guard was staged. In the piece Mr C. H. Workman scored readily as Jack Point. Mr Fred Billington as Wilfred Shadbolt acted with a dry humour all his own. Mr Pacie Ripple possesses an excellent tenor voice, the quality of which was admirably displayed in the various numbers which fell to his lot as Colonel Fairfax. Mr Fred Drawater gave a highly creditable performance as Sergeant Meryll, and Mr Albert Kavanagh likewise distinguished himself as Sir Richard Cholmondeley. Among the ladies Miss Norah Maguire and Miss Jessie Rose exercised their superior charms of acting and singing to the enjoyment of all as Elsie Maynard and Phoebe Meryll respectively. Dame Carruthers was capitally embodied by Miss Theresa Ransam. Other operas performed during the week have been The Gondoliers, Iolanthe, H.M.S. Pinafore, and Trial by Jury.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—For the concluding week of the present season here we have a visit from Mrs Langtry and company, in Mrs Dering's Divorce, a smartly written and interesting comedy. The part of Mrs Dering affords Mrs Langtry plenty of opportunities, which she fully utilises, and her acting is characterised by charm and animation. An agreeable manner and an easy style are prime factors in Mr Paul Arthur's success as Captain Dering. The amiable qualities of Jimmy Foster are cleverly depicted by Mr Ernest Stern. A full measure of approval must be bestowed on the performances of Mr Courtenay Thorpe as Lord Granpier and Miss Helen Palgrave as Lady Granpier. Miss Anne Mildmay succeeds in giving a truthful impersonation of the dowdy Miss Verner. A one-act play entitled The Brothers precedes.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr E. B. Clark.—The Female Swindler is once again paying a visit here. Mr Tom H. Taylor's company is responsible for the production, a feature of the performance being the excellent setting and scenic effects. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Ellicott has ample scope for the display of her abilities, the more popular parts of the house being distinctly emphatic in their disapproval of the modus operandi that she employs in her nefarious calling. We are also indebted to Mr Jerrold Heather for a spirited piece of acting as Jack Coulson.

ELSWICK THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr Chas. M. Daly.—Here we have a departure from the usual dramatic performance, the attraction consisting of a strong variety company, headed by Fred Harcourt and the Mysterious Lilith.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Herr Julius Seeth's troupe of forest-bred lions, introduced by George Thielbar, provide a performance which abounds in features of a sensational and exciting description. Tom Edwards, ventriloquist, has an excellent style, and his smart patter and business cause much amusement. Driscoll and Beattie afford capital entertainment by their performances in the sketch Major M'Fee, M.P. There are also appearing with success Damm Brothers, smart acrobats; Brothers Wartenberg, expert foot balancers and jugglers; St. James Quintet, in their vocal selections; James Lowrey, the singing furnaceman; Vesper, facial artiste; and Fred Dunstone, comedian.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr E. W. Bacon.—The leading attraction here is provided by Nelson's Newsboys, in smart patter, dancing, and good singing. A marionette performance, described as Winn's Parisian Puppets, is given with success. Plenty of laughter is occasioned by Hill, Barry, and Lang, in an absurdity; and the Vyponds submit an enjoyable turn. Silbon's vaudeville circus, in which are introduced ponies, dogs, and cats, is a good attraction; and Oliver Conroy, eccentric comedian, is well received. The company is further strengthened by the performances of Harry Maynard, actor-vocalist; the Yorkshire Mill Lasses; and Dave Buchanan, Scotch comedian.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Mr Joe Peterman and company are this week paying a visit here in the musical comedy The Belle of the Orient. It is of the "go-as-you-please" sort of comedies, the principal object seemingly being to create mirth, and in this it succeeds admirably. Mr Peterman himself displays a keen sense of humour as Ike, and he receives excellent support from an efficient all-round company. The play is preceded by The Factory Girl, a most remarkable impromptu entertainment. A cake-walk competition for juveniles has provided a popular item in the programme.

PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr W. H. Boardman.—Apollo, who excels in feats of strength, is at the Pavilion this week, and is most successful in his clever entertainment. A novelty in this district, A Ba-Be's Picture Post-card Album, is being exhibited here, and is a pleasing feature in the programme. The Elysian Troupe introduce various musical selections and refined vocalism in their sketch The Interrupted Rehearsal and earn repeated encores. Messrs Keen and Waller are to the fore with their eccentric acrobatic act "Parson and Sport." They succeed in arousing the risible faculties of the audiences and perform some tricks in a daring and original style. Charles Stewart and company present a sketch, The Water Cure, somewhat above the ordinary; it is well written and played in spirited style by Mr Stewart and two ladies. H. A. Zetto is a comic juggler who does not belie his name, and he is a great favourite with the audiences. A particularly clever athletic and hand-balancing act is given by the Freydos, and Lottie Lennox, a comedienne of much ability, well earns her numerous recalls. The Gregsons are prominent in a sketch in which millinery models take a leading part, and others appearing this week are Dale and Vale, comedians; Nellie and Nora, musical entertainers; and the Wallonells, triple bar experts.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—A Drama of Life is being played here this week by Carson and Granville's company. As the hero, Harry Beach, Mr Jerrold Ord acts capably; Sylvia Beech is well sustained by Miss Cissy Bellamy; Miss Marie Murray does well as the child; Mr John J. Hocker does well in the part of the villain; Jack Lawton is well played by Mr Bulwar Pitt; and Mr Walter Steele makes an ideal detective. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr Oswald Lingard, Mr Owen Ramonde as Sir Dobson Wilde, and Miss Nellie Daly, Betty Black.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—A very attractive programme here includes Miss Jennie Belmore, burlesque actress and soubrette; the American baritone, Post Mason, who scores a decided success; the Trapnell Family in a graceful and talented show; Werner and Reider, tyrolean singers, with marvellous imitations of birds; Les Burnellys in an original gymnastic act that is warmly recognised; Victor Travers, a quaint comedian; Miss Winona Winter and Mr William H. Banks in the playlet When I Help Ma; Harry Lawson, eccentric comedian, and Over the Sticks by the droll Joe Elvin and company.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—A Marriage of Vengeance is here this week, played by Mr and Mrs Fred Benton's company. Miss A. Harrison Tate gains applause as Stella; Miss Maud Stuart plays Elsie Dean with sympathy, Mr Alfred George Fry as Paul Earnscliffe, Mr C. Coventry as Glynne Earnscliffe, Mr George A. De Gray as Max Rheinhardt, Mr L. Norman as Geoffrey Fannock, Mr Seymour Perry as Bob Shorner; Mr Reginald Payne as Guy Vendon, and Mr L. Chaseby as Ralph Deane make the most of the parts allotted to them, and Miss Etta Turner supplies comic relief effectively.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—Datas gives unerring answers to a vast number of queries here. The Brooklands, comediennes and dancers, are a dainty pair; Stanley and Tich Bourne do an amusing turn; Bert Woodward is certainly a clever cyclist; the Rushforths give a popular display; Ethel Resford and Gerald Hunt appear in The Widow and the Dude; King Leo does a good ventriloquial turn; Alec Aubrey is highly successful in herculean gymnastics; and Mdlle. Du Roche, operatic soprano vocalist, is charming.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—A large and appreciative audience assembled here on Monday to welcome the Osmond Tearle répertoire company, which opened with David Garrick, which was presented in capital style. Mr Alexander Marsh, in the title-rôle, deserves high praise for his fine interpretation of the character, and Miss Carrie Baillie played with expression and success as Lillian. Mr Cyril Grier was clever as Sir Humphrey Basing, Mr John Burton made an excellent Squire Chase, and Mr William Lowe was a capable Mr Crabshaw. Mr George Tearle scored as Mr Fatfellow, and Mr Julian J. Gallier was an able Mr Sniffkins. Miss Fanny Chamberlain was worthy of praise as Miss Tabitha Fatfellow, and Mrs William Lowe made the most of Mrs Crabshaw. The Merchant of Venice, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, and Richard III. have also been billed.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr William Mould.—The Vivians' vaudeville company in Life's Reverie has been warmly greeted here. Miss Rhoda Paul, male impersonator, comes in for a hearty reception; and Selbo, club manipulator, performs some wonderful feats, for which he is loudly applauded. Mr Billy Elliott, eccentric comedian; Capito, up-to-date marionette; Miss Kitty Moore, serio; Messrs Harris and Leigh, in their comedy act; and the Bio-Photoscope are also on the bill of fare.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr Louis Calvert's company, in Sunday, is here this week. Mr J. Edward Pearce admirably enacts the part of Col. Brinthorpe; Mr Ernest A. Douglas is successful as Tom Oxley; Mr Frederick Powell is very good as Towzer; whilst Mr T. Norman wins much favour as Lively; Mr Whitford Kane deserves commendation as Jacky; and the same meed of appreciation must be shown Mr Charles B. Vaughan as Arthur Brinthorpe and Mr John H. Manley as Davey. Miss Olive Adair, at a short notice, assumed the double-rôle of Mrs Naresby and a nun, and acquitted herself in a praiseworthy manner. Miss Nita Faydon as Sunday left little to be desired, and became a warm favourite all round.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Captain Selby.—The Brothers Luck, in their melodramatic pantomime The Hermit; or, The Wizard of the Glen, head the bill, and create immense laughter at their drolleries. Mdlle. Lydia and Albino are clever equilibrists, assisted by a pleasing electrical apparatus; Amandus is a capital facial mimic; and Zenora and Foden in their inverted peregrinations and hand balancing are much appreciated. The Alskarno Trio are a good Risley turn; J. P. Lloyd is an amusing comedian; Ethel Yorke is a good descriptive vocalist; and Edna Thelma pleases in her song "Past, Present, and Future." Musical Rosina is an expert instrumentalist, and is well received. Captain Selby and his band also deserve mention. On Saturday evening last Mr F. W. Fitt, on behalf of the management, presented Miss E. Arden, the lady of the sketch Three of a Kind, with a handsome bouquet and silver hand glass, and Mr George Abel, the senior member of the company, with a framed photograph of the Hippodrome. Mr Fitt said, in making the presentation, the performance of the company during the week had been a source of much pleasure to the patrons of the Hippodrome and himself, and he asked the lady's acceptance of the present as a souvenir of the visit. Miss Arden expressed her pleasure as the recipient, and characterised their visit as having been of a most pleasurable character, adding it was nice to know that their efforts had been appreciated and their engagement had been so pleasant. Mr George Abel, replying, said he hoped they would say "au revoir," and not "good-bye." The incident closed amid hearty plaudits from the audience.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Miss S. Golden; Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—Mr Chas. W. Poole's Myrioramic Realisations and Empire Variety Combine are the attraction here this week. The pictures are up to their usual excellent standard. The variety combine includes Little Dorretta, a chic juvenile song and dance artist; the Avondale Quartet; Miss Daisy Graham, with her trained birds and dog; Mr Harry Stewart, quick-change artist; the Edison Cinématograph; and Miss Woodford's canine circus and dog orchestra.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney.—The visits of the Carl Rosa opera company are always eagerly anticipated, and a large audience on Monday gave a hearty reception to the presentation of Faust. Mr E. C. Hedmont's treatment of Faust showed all his old force and vocal skill, and he was successful throughout. Mr Arthur Winckworth cleverly portrayed the grim sardonic character of Mephistopheles, and sang his numbers with considerable fervour. Miss Lizzie Burgess gave a delightfully sweet rendering of Marguerite, quite captivating the audience by her artistic vocalism. Miss Anna Hope (Siebel), Miss Douglas Wilson (Martha), Mr Lewys James (Valentine), and Mr Frank Arthur (Wagner) were all the recipients of much favour. Rigoletto was produced on Tuesday, and was specially remarkable for the fine interpretation of the title-rôle by Herr Charles Victor. His powerful voice gave full effect to the music, and his acting was admirable, faithfully depicting in turn the scorn, despair, and vengeful joy of the Jester. Carmen on Wednesday introduced Madame Augusta Renard, who supplied the right touch of vivacity to the part, and sang with charming spirit. Herr Julius Walther played and sang as José with characteristic fervour, and the Michaela of Madame Una Bruckshaw gave the utmost satisfaction. Tannhäuser was given on Thursday, when Madame Sobrino's cultured voice and finished method met with the fullest appreciation. Mr Eugene Goossens and Mr Walter Van Noorden conducted with their usual ability. The week's répertoire also included Don Giovanni, Pagliacci, Cavalleria Rusticana, and The Bohemian Girl.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—Mr Charles Frohman's company received a gratifying reception on Monday, when it reappeared with the popular play Sherlock Holmes. The name-part is again undertaken by Mr H. A. Saintsbury, than whom no better exponent could be found. His long association with the play has enhanced his clever depiction of the famous detective, and his welcome was most cordial. Mr Lawrence Leyton correctly realised the matter-of-fact Dr. Watson; and Mr James F. Anson is good as Sir Edward Leighton. The astute and callous Professor Moriarty is well described by Mr W. F. Stirling; and James Larrabee finds a hard-working interpreter in Mr Leslie Carter. Miss Vera Longden assumes Alice Faulkner in a winsome and attractive manner, and Miss Maude Linden gives a strong and intense rendering of the vindictive Madge Larrabee. Good work is also shown by Misses Clarice Doncaster and Rosalie Notrelle and Messrs Gissing Walters and Charles Grey.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr A. W. Bull.—The Follies of Youth is presented here by Mr Arthur Rose's company. Mr Walter Bentley makes an imposing figure as Captain Ronald Druce, playing carefully and capably, and Mr Carter Lingford is a successful exponent of Colonel Druce. Mr Arthur Rose invests the part of Ralph Murdock with a callousness and repugnance that is fully effective, and Miss Violet Macaree manifests abundant power and dramatic intensity in the rôle of Gwendoline Murdock. A striking feature of the performance is the natural and charming acting of Miss Bertha Hanbury as Little Ruth. Minor parts are creditably taken by Misses Ena Russell and Laurie A. Pardy and Messrs David Beattie, Fred Haming, and Bert Wallace.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—Fred Karno's company is again convulsing the audience by a laughable presentation of The Dandy Thieves. Mr Harry Roxbury makes a capital Sergeant Lightning, and he is well supported by the rest of the company. Messrs A. W. Hall and B. P. Earle are a couple of clever gymnasts and contortionists, and their drollery is also exceptionally smart. The Three Brothers Pantzer are incomparable in their head-to-head balancing, and the dexterous performance elicits unbounded enthusiasm. Miss Lalla Selbini's dainty and skilful trick cycling draws vigorous applause, which is worthily shared by her diminutive comedian, Midget Harry. Edwin Brett and Emmeline Orford supply an entertaining sketch entitled Two Love Birds; and the programme also contains Kitty Marion, vocalist; Ella Retford, comedienne; Bob Hutt, comedian; and the Four Olympian Star, vocalists and dancers.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryant.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company, under the direction of Mr Charles E. Johnson, is presenting here The Heart of a Hero. Mr Fred. W. Goddard at once wins favour as Jem Resdale, which rôle he sustains in a strikingly natural manner. Mr A. B. Makay is a good Mark Marl, and as Wilfred Mr Chas. F. Johnson is capable. Mr Harry Dunning creditably presents the part of Jack Collinson. As Dave Pritchard Mr Eric Forth does well. Mr Harry Scatchard, who also undertakes the post of stage-manager, gives a weird study of the miser. Miss Beatrice Hudson is good as Mrs Ryder; Miss Lily Langley is effective as May Rider; and Miss Cissie T. Elmo is a satisfactory Nell Resdale. The comic element is excellently filled in by Mr Allen Carruthers as Timothy, assisted by Miss Ida Mackay as Susie.

OLDHAM.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—That delightful and amusing pantomimical farce, His Majesty's Guests, is presented here by one of Mr Fred Karno's companies. Mr R. H. Kitchen as Sergeant Lightning is exceedingly funny. Mr Charles Cardon is admirable as Fritz. Mr Jack Fortesque as Mr Minks is very clever. As Bunker Mr H. Taylor is well received, as is Mr Wellesley Smith as Mr Miffin. Mr Charles F. Howard as Lord Easem, alias Flash Jack, Mr L. Sterling as Harry, Miss Edith Ager as Dolly, Miffin's daughter; Miss J. Newcombe as Lady Maude Easem, alias Maud the Shoplifter, ably contribute to the success of the piece.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—The success of the renowned Savonas and Elliots has resulted in their engagement for another week, their marvellous performances delighting appreciative audiences. Stelling and Revell are amusing and clever in their horizontal bar performance. Rowland Hill, comedian, is well received. Senorita Eloina, queen of the air, is successful in an unique entertainment. Vendome and Chase are heartily appreciated in their society entertainment. Lord, Murray, and Lord submit an amusing comedy athletic act, The Intruder. Daisy Morell, burlesque artiste; Marie Santoi, comedienne; and Chris Richards, with his catchy songs and clever hat tricks, conclude a delightful entertainment.

GAIETY.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—A capital variety bill is submitted here this week, including the Five Foyr, who create laughter by their new and original act, The Excursion Depôt. The Ernestine Trio contribute a funny sketch, The Yorkshire Lad, with Tom Foy in the title-rôle. Horace Monto is successful as a novelty speciality artist. Marie Joyce is charming as a descriptive vocalist. D. J. Pedley receives due appreciation for his clever character songs and tricky dancing. Dolly Clayton, versatile comedian, is successful in some favourite airs. The Bioscope is pleasing with new pictures.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—Mr Arthur Bourchier's company played The Fairy's Dilemma here the latter half of last week to capital houses, who much enjoyed the excellent rendering of the play, which was preceded by The Conversion of Nat Sturge, in which Mr Frank Collins makes a great hit in the title-rôle, and Miss Julia Turnour gives a most clever and conscientious rendering of Julia. On Monday Mr Tree's company began a most successful week's engagement here with The Darling of the Gods, which had a most hearty reception from a good house. Mr G. W. Anson gives a most powerful and convincing rendering of Zakkuri, and fairly grips his audience right through the play; Mr Gerald K. Souper makes a most interesting and natural Kara; Mr A. P. Kaye is a capital Saigon; and Mr Ernest Stallard gives a clever sketch as the faithful fisherman Kato. Miss Augusta Haviland acts with power as Rosy Sky; Miss Irma Foldi is capital as Yo-San's maid; Miss Sybel Glynn is a fascinating geisha; and Miss Lilian Stafford gives a most delightful and bewitching rendering of Yo-San that completely captivates her audience. The Darling of the Gods is splendidly staged and mounted, and a magnificent spectacle is presented.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—Miss Lena Stanton's company is continuing another week's engagement here with The Bashful Beauty. Mr Harry Jay does good work as Sir Aldersgate Bumkins, and Mr B. Green as Dresdina Bumkins and Mr G. James as Marinola Bumkins are both exceedingly amusing. Little Keeno makes the most of his opportunities as the Clerk, and renders some capital songs; Mr F. Smythe is good as the Beast; Miss Marie Gerrald is highly successful as Beauty Bumkins; and the Misses Maud Linn and Millie Maxwell are effective as Sir Herbert Haugh Haugh and Sir Georgie Porgie respectively. Miss Lena Stanton makes an ideal Roby Romford.

CORN EXCHANGE.—The Anglo-American Bio-Motograph company is here this week. The entertainment comprises an excellent series of pictures and a variety concert. The chief item in the pictures is "A Trip Round the World," which proves highly interesting and entertaining, the pictures being beautifully clear and continuous. Songs are contributed by Miss Millie Milton and Percy Dunckley. Major Clarke is worthy of especial notice for his clever ventriloquism, which elicits great applause; his manipulation of the figures is really good.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—Mr and Mrs Chas. Clifford's company, with On Circumstantial Evidence, is here this week. Mr Leonard Williams plays with effect and force as Jack Ogilvy, and Miss Maud Camfield is sympathetic and convincing as Violet Ogilvy. Mr Charles Clifford submits a powerful representation of Capt. Hamilton; Mr Henry Cooke contributes a comical reading of Jeremiah Tobin; and Miss M. Hastings is humorous as Polly Smithers. Sir Laurence Kinlock is well depicted by Mr A. M. James; Mr James Stuart is successful as General Garibaldi; and subordinate parts are satisfactorily rendered by Miss Gladys Clifford (Tim), Mr F. Griffiths (Antonia), Mr T. Dyson (Sergt. Cavour), Mr M. Taylor (Sergt. Gabriel), and Mr Anderson Delph (Warder Symes).

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Mr Joseph Millane admirably portrays Mark Desmond, Mr Wilson Coleman as Gilbert Fernside does well, Mr T. Edward Ward is good as Jonathan Nobbs, Mr Algie Spalding is worthy of praise as Dicky Bird, Mr Watson Hume is a capital Leonard Fernside, Miss Ward as Honour Symes shows histrionic ability, Miss Helen Ingelow embodies Belle De Lam ably, Miss Maria Ault is a bright, sparkling Kitty Springwell, Miss Ettie Spalding displays ability as Maria Springwell, and Sal Jenkins is neatly portrayed by Miss Kate Newman.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—The local Amateur Operatic Society is appearing here this week in The Yeomen of the Guard. The piece is staged under the professional direction of Mr Shelford Walsh.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—Mr T. Morton Powell's company is appearing here in Greed of Gold, a sensational drama replete with novelties. Mr Carthage Caldcleugh does well as the villain. Mr B. Fox appears as the dumb man, and wins well-deserved plaudits. Capital representations are also forthcoming from Mr Charles Coleman, Miss Daisy Halling, Miss Grace St. John, Miss Winnie Donovar, Miss Harriet Woods, Mr Walter Cameron, Mr T. G. Warry, and Mr Harry Creamer.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Manager, Mr J. Field.—Some clever turns are included in this week's programme. The Motogirl interests and surprises the public nightly. With his song "Seaweed," Fred Earle scores heavily; Ike Scott and Sons provide amusing sketches; Rachel Lowe's songs, "Lucky Duck" and "Any Rags," elicit warm approval; and Marba and Verity give a skilful of dancing and tumbling. Assisted by his two children, George Cooper enacts two dramatic episodes with much pathos. Alice Ormonde, comedienne, and Vernon's animated pictures are other attractions in a good entertainment.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—Uncle Tom's Cabin is being done justice to here this week by Mr John Tully's company.

PONTYPOOL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Resident Manager, Mr J. H. Stephens.—Mr A. Clifford Alderson and company in A Soldier and a Man are here this week, playing to enthusiastic audiences. Nothing but praise can be accorded to Mr Alderson for his finished and powerful rendering of the part of Harold Sinclair. He is most ably assisted by Miss B'Eare Doyle as Rose Melbury. Miss Daisy England as Norah Melbury and Mr A. W. Norman as David Melbury play with great effect, particularly in the scene depicting the ruined homestead. Mr Harry Wright gives a clever interpretation of Jim Farron, and the part of the villain by Mr Frank Powell is played with conspicuous ability. Miss Nettie Schrier makes the most of "Sergeant" Jane Wicks, and the remaining parts are in good hands. On Thursday night the battalion band of the 3rd V.B. S.W.B., under bandmaster Roderick, played selections on the stage during the evening by permission of Colonel Bradney and officers, and a grand tableau was presented, in which Mr Clifton Alderson, by permission of the directors of the Empire Theatre, London, gave the stirring address "For the King."

NEW DRILL HALL.—A welcome visit is being paid by Leon Vint's talented Globe Choir. The programme includes some good cinematograph views, the most striking of which is the representation of Faust. New choruses and songs by the choir are received with rounds of applause; and Madame Vint's clairvoyant impressions are as interesting as ever.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—Messrs J. K. Murray and J. M. Dawson's company presented on Monday the sensational and domestic drama Driven from Home. Miss Ella Sennett is very pathetic as Laura Raybrook, her acting being much appreciated. Mr Jack Dawson is seen to advantage as the hero, Walter Hatherleigh; Mr Cyril Harrison is a capable representative of Geoffrey Waring; Mr Bert Lloyd meets with much approval as Willie, the outcast; Mr Stanley Douglas is all that can be desired as Jabez; Mr J. K. Murray capitally portrays Anthony Raybrook; Miss May M'Kenzie as Margaret and Mr Jack M'Kenzie as John Anderson are well received in song and dance; and Mr C. Stanhope is decidedly good as Adam Marley. The Saw Mills scene in act three is much admired.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—The Portsmouth Amateur Operatic Society is devoting its energies here to the augmentation of the Viscountess Hayashi's fund in aid of the widows and orphans of the Japanese soldiers and sailors killed in the present war. The opera selected is Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado, the whole being under the stage direction of Miss Louie Rene, who also impersonates Katisha in a most admirable way. Mr Frank Tebbutt is also appearing as Nanki Poo with highly satisfactory results.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—The Mariners of England is being presented here by Mr Ernest R. Abbott's powerful company, the rôle of Lord Nelson being taken by Mr Abbott himself in a very able fashion. Mr Clifford Clifford's Admiral Talbot is a capable performance. The Captain Hardy of Mr John Lester is a meritorious effort; Mr W. H. Garbois as the villainous Captain Lebaudy is good; and Harry Dell is efficiently played by Mr W. T. Riley. Miss Ada Abbott is successful as Mabel Talbot; Miss Linda Riley as Nelly Dell makes the best use of her opportunities, and Polly Appleyard is played by Miss Mabel Singleton in a capable and vivacious way.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—The programme submitted here this week is a very good and varied one. The Ando Troupe of Japanese jugglers and acrobats take pride of place, with their skilful and wonderful balancing, and create quite a storm of applause for their work. Walter Stanley, eccentric comedian and dancer, meets with a good reception; Drum and Major, vaudeville entertainers, are clever; the Glenroy Troupe, characteristic dancers and speciality artists, are much appreciated; Alix Lukos, actor-vocalist, is quite powerful in his scena; and May Henderson, the dusky comedy queen, meets with a most cordial welcome, and is quite as energetic as ever. Nancy St. John, soubrette and danseuse; Tom Yorke, coster character comedian; and the Sisters Warner, acrobatic dancers, complete the bill.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—Mr Wilson Barrett's last play, Lucky Durham, effectively presented by Mr Wm. Greet's company, is a popular attraction here this week. Mr Wm. F. Grant gives a powerful and finished delineation of John Durham. As Lord Mountfallon Mr Henry De Solla acquits himself excellently. Richard Vallerton has a perfectly natural representative in Mr Daniel M'Carthy. Mr Paul Belmore's impersonation of the Hon. Reginald Steighton is as clever as it is amusing. Miss Phyllis Relph looks and acts well as Helen Vallerton. Miss Mary Relph does justice to the rôle of Lady Mountfallon. Praise is due to Miss Nellie Bonser for her successful portrayal of Mrs Durham, and Miss Jessie Winter is seen to advantage as the Hon. Margaret Steighton.

Stone distinguishing himself by a humorous impersonation of Obadiah Dawson. Miss Daisy Stone is smart and vivacious as a soubrette, and Miss Edith Madelle is a pretty and accomplished representative of Mrs Racket.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—Sherlock Holmes opened here on Monday, played by a company under the direction of Mr Charles Frohman. Mr Kenneth Rivington gave a firm and convincing reading of the rôle of Holmes, and the rest of the cast was in efficient hands.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—Sentenced For Life has again been played by Mr Fred Bulmer's excellent company. The eccentric curate is cleverly enacted by Mr Dan Agar. Miss Madge Douglas is bright and amusing, and other characters are effectively represented by Mr Graham Smith, Mr Ernest Vaughan, Mr Harry Lloyd, Miss Florence Trevor, and Miss Mary Dalby.

MONTGOMERY HALL.—The Maskelyne and Cooke entertainment is drawing crowded and delighted audiences, and the marvellous conjuring of Mr David Devant is received with enthusiastic applause. Will, the Witch, and the Watchman makes a good finish to a well-arranged programme.

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—The Ben Greet company, under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard, played La Poupée here on the first three nights of this week. Mr Algernon Lee acted conscientiously and well the part of Launcelot; Mr Joseph A. Brull, whose rich, mellow voice was heard to advantage, made a very capable Father Maxime; Mr Bert Danson was droll and clever as Hilarius; Mr Stanley White as Baron Chanterelle was successful; Mr Harry Bishop was a good Loremois, and the monks' parts were in capable hands. Miss Cissie Wade sang sweetly and played with care and talent the part of Alesia; Miss Margaret Ainsworth merited praise as Madame Hilarius; Miss Eva Ellis was bright as Henri; Miss Carr merited a word of praise as Guiluline, and other characters were well represented. The piece was nicely staged.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—Mr Edmund Tearle's visit here this week has been warmly welcomed by fairly large audiences. On Monday Under the Red Robe was presented with Mr Edmund Tearle appearing as Gil de Berault,

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—This week's attraction here is provided by Miss Grace Warner, who presents the musical farce entitled The Little Widow, in three acts. The play is excellently rendered, and meets with considerable success. Mr Wilkins Potter finds a most able exponent in Mr George Gordon, who is well supported by Mr St. Bernard Wyntour as Dr. Arthur Potter, both of them being good singers; Mr Miller Anderson causes merriment in his impersonation of Auguste Bonsier; Mr Dan Clifford's singing of "He was a married man" meets with a most vociferous encore; Miss Lois James is well suited as Mrs Wilkins Potter; Emily Randall is well portrayed by Miss Maud Warburton, who sings well; Miss May Dallas makes a capital Sophinisba; and Mrs Constance Rattlebrain is exceptionally well portrayed by Miss Grace Warner, who meets with great favour.

SMETHWICK.

ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—A Traitor Prince, played by Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company, was warmly welcomed on a return visit to this popular house on Monday. Prince Rao Dalmierez is well presented by Mr Henry Lonsdale, his acting being easy and natural, while he has a good stage presence. A popular representation is that given by Mr A. Temple as the gallant but reckless young naval lieutenant, Frank Derrick, to whom many effective and patriotic lines are assigned. A good deal of fun is caused by Mr E. Carter Livesey as Billy Bright. Mr Austin Mortimer appears as the Hon. Bobby Vavasour Dalrymple, and his style is well suited to the requirements of the character. Mr G. M. Montenini does not lose a single opportunity in his study of Cara whom he presents with dignity. Mr A. H. Longford plays with admirably sustained force and earnestness in the dual rôle of Richard and Colonel Vane, always speaking his lines with effect. Miss Lilian Rosebery as the persecuted Lola Vane plays a sympathetic part with tenderness and simplicity; Miss Beatrice Weston's performance as Vashti, an Indian snake-charmer, is a clever piece of acting; Miss Lilian Rignold as Pansy Blossom is piquant and pretty; her tasteful singing and graceful dancing are most effective. Miss Marie Thornton presents a capital impersonation of Mrs Martha Blossom. Miss Nellie Horseley and Miss Florence Byrne as Blossom's beauties give clever turns as acrobatic dancers.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Resident-Manager, Mr Sydney Paxton.—Long will the present week linger in the memories of Southampton's music lovers. It is the first visit of the famous Moody-Manners opera company in grand opera and music drama. On Monday Tannhäuser was presented with the greatest success. Elisabeth was finely played by Madame De Vere, her acting and vocalisation alike being capital. Mr Joseph O'Mara was in excellent voice as Tannhäuser, and scored a huge success; Miss Toni Seiter (Venus) sang and acted in excellent style; and the resonant bass voice of Mr Char. Magrath sounded to great advantage in the music for the Landgrave. Useful assistance was given by Mr F. H. Erle (Wolfram), Mr G. Renshaw (Biterolf), Mr T. C. Fairbairn (Heinrich), Mr J. Alexander (Reinmar), and Mr V. Brodo (Walther). Miss Carter sang the Shepherd Boy's song very prettily. The choral work and the orchestral execution, under the direction of Herr Richard Eckhold, won flattering encomiums. On Tuesday The Daughter of the Regiment, with Mdlle. Zelie De Lussan in the title-rôle, was thoroughly enjoyed. Other operas included in the programme are Faust, Mignon, La Traviata, Carmen, and The Bohemian Girl. It is hoped Mr Chas. Manners will visit Southampton annually.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Manageress, Mrs J. W. Gordon; Acting-Manager, Mr Dudley Colwyn.—Mr Harry Johnston's company is this week appearing in The Bank of England, an interesting play, which is wonderfully well staged. Mr Hubert G. Chambers gives a powerful reading of the part of Sherlock Holmes; Mr Juan de Alberti is convincing as the designing Stephen Harley; Miss Ada Ryder (Margeret Dane) and Miss Hilda Clyde (Sylvia Barraclough) are both excellent; Miss Marie Loretha is successful as the American widow, Aminta J. Bean, and the fun is fast and furious while Mr Charles Goff, Tommy Sprouts, occupies the stage. The other parts are all intelligently rendered, and the visit is a popular one.

PALACE.—Manager, Mr Chas. Marte. — There is an exceptional array of talent at this popular resort. First favourite is O'Gust, the Parisian mimic, whose imitations of animals, &c., are wonderfully true to life; Chas. Mildare and Syd May are also well received for their clever mimicry; Belle Davis and her pick chicks bring down the house; and Katie Lawrence scores her usual great success. Other admirable entertainers are Percival, trick pianist; Cissie Heath, comedienne; and the Evalos, in their juggling and gymnastic mélange.

SOUTHPORT.

OPERA HOUSE WINTER GARDENS.—General Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming. — Messrs E. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg's company is appearing here this week in the stirring melodrama The Traitor, which is much appreciated, especially by the patrons of the popular parts of the house. Miss Hettie Senior played the rôle of Elise Duprey with excellent effect, and Miss Anena Walton as Cen Cen, Miss Lily Roselle (Countess Ziska), and Miss Conyers Radcliffe in the part of Zula were all excellent. Mr Wellesley Draper submitted a realistic portraiture of Prince Rudolph, and the title-part was ably depicted by Mr Stephen E. Scanlan.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—Mr Henry Furnival and company are occupying the boards here in Lost in Paris. Miss Louisa Peach, who submits an artistic portrayal of Henriette, is warmly applauded in the part. An equally excellent representative is found in Miss K. Willoughby as Louise. Mr Edward Valentine as the bullying Jacques is well placed, and Mr Furnival is a suitable exponent of Pierre. Mr A. V. Dixon prominently essays Adrier, Chevalier Du Vaudrey, and Mr W. J. Butler (Count De Linieres) and Miss Pattie Hastings (La Frochard) had also their admirers. Mr J Fulton-Millar is an amusing Picard, and Mr W. Garrett an approving Dr. Du Vals.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—Fred Karno's comedians are causing much laughter by their droll antics in Early Birds; Nellie Wallace returns after a short absence, and her quaint efforts are enthusiastically appreciated; Griff, assisted by Alpha, scores his usual success; Mr and Mrs Bronte, comedy duologue artistes, are laughter-provoking; and the American Bioscope furnish a fine film, entitled "Jack's Rival." Florry Cooper, juvenile lady artiste; Fanny Robina, vocalist; Chas. Cardow, comedian; and Mabel Hind, in a scena, A Little Japanese, all create a favourable impression.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—The bill of fare for this week includes Jack Lorimer, Marie French, Syd Herman, Keith and Mercer, Will Ellerslie, Florence Bray, Ted Waite, and Millie Harris.

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—A Day in Paddy's Land is being given here under the direction of Mr Will Hebden, who undertakes four different rôles, and acquits himself admirably in each. Mr Chris Bern is popular as the waiter, introducing an original song, and also contributing a banjo selection. Miss Jennie Clare is an up-to-date Mary Manners, her singing and dancing being very good.

AMUSEMENTS IN PITTSBURGH.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—The event of the week is Miss Maude Adams' visit to the Nixon Theatre in J. M. Barrie's delightful comedy, The Little Minister. Miss Adams is considered one of the foremost present-day American actresses, and she certainly merits that reputation, judging by her excellent work as Lady Babbie. Mr Arthur Byron, who undertakes the rôle of Gavin Dishart, is excellent, and Mrs W. G. Jones as Nannie Webster deserves special notice.

ANOTHER English work occupied a place in this week's programme, the immortal Charley's Aunt, which was given with great success by the Harry Davis stock company at the New Alvin Theatre, Mr Fred Paulding undertaking the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley. Messrs William Courtenay and Howard Hickman as Jack Chesney and Chas. Wykeham were full of life. Mr Wm. M'Vay's Colonel Sir Francis Chesney was urbane and soldierly, and Mr Josef Dailey as Stephen Spettigue was extremely funny. The staging and scenery did Mr Davis and Mr J. C. Huffman, his stage manager, credit.

AT the Duquesne Theatre Down the Pike, a musical comedy by W. G. Rose and G. W. Quigley, is being played. The leading character in the play is the janitor of a big New York apartment house, and the plot shows his "carryings-on" both in his domain and at the St. Louis Fair. Mr Johnny Ray as M'Corkle, the janitor, and Emma Ray as Mrs Russell Keene are clever and amusing.

THE Avenue Theatre boards were occupied by Hurly-Burly, one of Weber and Field's musical comedies, containing plenty of innocent fun and catchy music. The Harry Davis Musical Travesty company, headed by Miss Eleanor Kent, acquitted itself laudably therein.

AN entertainment was presented by the Hanlon Brothers, under the name of Superba, at the Bijou Theatre last week, and afforded visitors a great deal of pleasure. The Hanlon Brothers enjoy a great reputation as acrobats, and Superba gives them many opportunities of displaying their skill. The astounding mechanical effects and illusions pleased both young and old.

"A LITTLE OUTCAST," a comedy-drama, in four acts, which has been produced at the Empire Theatre, is a thrilling story of New York life, with many telling situations and plenty of action. Mr Edwards Davis as Paul Weston plays with great power, and Miss Annie Blancke enacts Bob, the newsboy, with humour and pathos.

ANOTHER play having New York as its principal scene is The Street Singer, a musical drama by Hal Reid, presented by Messrs Forrester and Mittenthal's company at the Gaiety Theatre. Miss Florence Brindley captivates the audience by her clever acting and charming voice in the title-part of Violet Vodray.

A very attractive bill has been offered at the Grand Opera House during the week. Charles Hars, the clever juggler, comes in for much applause, and so does Miss Louise Brehany, who sings exquisitely. Stanley and Birbeck, "the musical blacksmiths," prove attractive. The Gausch Sisters in their head-to-head balancing act are well received. Yorke and Adams, the Hebrew comedians, evoke laughter. Willy Zimmerman gives some excellent impersonations of celebrated composers. Marion Ballou, an ex-member of the Davis stock company, pleases in monologue, and Mr and Mrs Gardner Crane present a clever comedietta entitled Am I Your Wife? which is vociferously greeted. Irving Jones sings darkey melodies, and others engaged are Orletta and Taylor, Trask and Gladden, "Mike" Foster's dog, Cook and Beal, and Dora Pelletier.

THE Imperial Burlesquers have paid a very welcome return visit to Harry Williams's Academy with The Gay Widow Brown and The Girl from the West, scoring well in both.

COVENT-GARDEN BALL.

The hundredth Covent-garden ball took place on the 2nd inst., and all parts of the house were crowded. The scene presented was an exceptionally brilliant one, and the beautiful new scenic productions representing the Bosphorus and Constantinople were much admired. The march past, preliminary to the prize distribution, took place in the early hours of the morning, the display of ornate and quaint fancy dress worn by the ladies being quite up to the average in merit. One lady came as "The Century Ball," and a very elaborate costume it was. Her pale blue duchess satin Empire gown, which was trimmed with spangled lace, had wide satin panels, heavily embroidered and painted to represent Covent-garden in 1804 and at the present time. On the front panel was a game of cricket, "100, not out," and on another the opera Lohengrin. Over this striking gown was a red velvet cloak, with a large painting representing the ball which was in progress, surmounted by a picture of the game of billiards, with the inscription, "May your 100 break cause no break to the successful run of balls," out of compliment to the management of Messrs Frank Rendle and Neil Forsyth. The headdress was an imitation of a dome of Constantinople, and the whole dress, which was covered with flowers, was lit up with over a hundred electric lights. Mr W. Clarkson deserves to be highly complimented on this costume, which gained a first prize; and from him also came another, suggestive of a fairy grotto. "Homeless and hungry," was a picture of a soup kitchen, and the poor trying to get in. Amongst other dresses which attracted special attention were "Ole Clo'," first prize, gentlemen, and "Showers of Good Luck," conspicuous for its embroidery of horse shoes. One of the gentlemen's fancy costumes, consisted of a white dress, covered with snow and frost, the wearer carrying on his head a water butt, frozen, with the words "a terrible frost" on it.

MAKES THE SKIN AS SOFT AS VELVET.—Beetham's "LAROLA" preserves the Skin and Complexion from the effects of the sun, wind, and hard water. Removes and prevents all roughness, redness, chaps, irritation, tan, &c., and KEEPS the SKIN SOFT, SMOOTH, and WHITE at all Seasons. DELIGHTFULLY SOOTHING and REFRESHING after dancing, cycling, tennis, motoring, &c. Bottles, 1s., 1s. 9d., and 2s. 6d. each, of all Chemists and Stores, or Post-free from the Makers, M. Beetham and Son, Cheltenham.—[ADVT.

PRIVATE VIEW OF THE GRAND THEATRE, EDINBURGH.

The management of this fine and spacious theatre issued invitations for a brilliant house-warming last night, which included the witnessing of the dress rehearsal of the pantomime Cinderella. Elaborate and generous hospitality was arranged, and the well-known firm, Hamilton, of Dundas-street, called in to officiate in the magnificent suite of offices, smoking-rooms, and lounges, which have, under the watchful care of Mr Eade Montefiore, been ornately decorated by Lawrence Collins, of Edinburgh, and furnished by Oetzmann, London. Distinction is given everywhere by the corridors and vestibules being hung with fine old engravings and photographs, inscribed and otherwise, of celebrities, the artistic taste evinced certainly foreshadowing first-class management. The representative list of acceptances handed to us shows how widely has Mr Montefiore's reputation preceded him, for amongst the social, military, civic, and business guests, all of whom were to bring friends, were Colonel Portal, D.S.O., and officers of the 17th Lancers; Colonel Powles and officers of the Royal Artillery, the officers of the Highland Light Infantry, Major Molyneux-Seel and officers, the Royal Scots; Colonel Hughes and officers of the Army Medical Corps, Colonel Bell and officers of the Army Pay Department, the officer commanding and officers of the Army Service Corps, the Rev. C. M. Black (and Mrs Black), vicar of Christ Church, Morningside; the Rev. P. W. Hulbert, vicar of St. Vincent's (in St. Stephen's street); the Rev. E. C. Dawson, St. Peter's, Newington; the Rev. A. M. Mackay, Holy Trinity Church; Judge Cameron and party, Major and Miss Dallas, the Rev. Pierce Egan, St. Mary's Cathedral; Ex-Bailie Pentland, Bailie Smith, Councillor Murray, L.L.B., W.S.; Mr James Buchan (Dundee), Dr. and Mrs Colin Mackenzie, Dr. and Mrs Berry Hart, Mr and Mrs J. Campbell Dewar, Dr. William Robertson, D.P.H.; Mr R. P. Marwick and friends, Mr Archibald Menzies, S.S.C., and Mrs Menzies; Mr R. D Binstead, G.P.O.; Dr. Johnstone (Actors' Association), Mr H. A. Boswell (Scottish Guardian) and Mrs Boswell, Mr Ronald A. H. Cox, Mr James Russell (City officer), Mr G. Ralph Hall-Caine, and some three hundred others; while among the kindly expressed regrets at being unavoidably absent were those sent by the Dean of Edinburgh (the Very Rev. J. Skinner Wilson, M.A.), who wrote that he was unable to attend himself on account of parochial duties, but he accepted the invitation on behalf of two members of his family, who had much pleasure in taking advantage of it. The Rev. Dr. Grant, of St. Stephen's Church (adjoining the theatre), regretted that he could not be present, but hoped to hear that the Grand Theatre was always conducted with decorum, and that it would become a source of real and healthy pleasure to the people of Edinburgh and the neighbourhood. The Provost of Leith was prevented from being present by a previous engagement; but Mrs Mackie attended with several friends.

PROGRAMME FRONTISPIECE.

BY E. U. SMITH.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The concert of Wednesday last opened with the Adagio and Finale from the E minor Concerto of Chopin as a duet for two pianoforter, the first pianoforte being played by Miss Florence Nightingale, the second by Mr Georg Liebling, the excellent professor, whose pupil, Miss Nightingale, did herself great credit. Indeed, the pianoforte was prominent in the concert, the "Berceuse" of Chopin being given by Miss Helena Cane, and the Polonaise in C sharp minor by the same composer by Miss Agnes Mallett, and the final item being a duet for two pianos by M. Valle De Pas, the performers being Mr Bennett and Miss Jessie Jackson. The vocal music was good. Miss Rita Milner had the unusual experience during her songs of the sudden extinction of the electric light, but neither Miss Milner nor the audience appeared in the least disturbed, and when the light was restored she went on gaily with "Driving a bargain." Miss Hilda Morris sang "Come, sweet morning," gracefully, and Mr Charles H. Pope acquitted himself well in Löhr's song, "Margarita." Miss Winifred Holme gained hearty applause in "Alone on the raft," and Miss Helena Spicer was successful in "You," by Denza, Mr T. Probyn being heard in "Don Juan's Serenade" by Tschaikowsky. The violin was represented by Miss Hilda Lett in two mazurkas of Wieniawski, and Miss Lillian Budds in a caprice of Bendas. Miss Barcham recited in good style "Marguerite of France," by Mrs Hemans, and "A Happy Afternoon," by Barry Pain. Miss Kate E. Ward accompanied, and Mrs Charles P. Smith exercised her customary efficient superintendence of the young ladies. Rehearsals of Romeo and Juliet are proceeding under the able direction of M. Jacobi.

ROYAL COLLEGE OPERA STUDENTS

The boldest and most successful attempt hitherto made by the Royal College operatic students was the performance of Gluck's opera Alcestis at His Majesty's Theatre on the 2nd inst. The theatre had been most kindly lent by Mr Tree, a gentleman always in sympathy with the sister arts. Alcestis, although received with much favour when produced at the Court Theatre, Vienna, on December, 1767, has not kept the stage like Orfeo, which still attracts the opera-goer by the beauty of its melodies. But Gluck was in his day a great performer, and sought, like Wagner in our own times, to make dramatic art of equal importance with music and to abolish the caprices of the prima donna, who, in the old operatic days, did not scruple to alter the composer's score or to introduce florid passages to suit her voice and style, not considering for a moment whether they were appropriate to the artistic effect or the dramatic situation. Alcestis has often been chosen by the artist for illustration; for example, the late Lord Leighton exhibited a few years since a fine picture at the Royal Academy—Hercules wrestling with Death for the body of Alcestis. It was much admired, and was considered one of his finest works. Gluck when the opera was produced explained fully his object to the Grand Duke of Tuscany, as will be seen in Sir George Grove's "Dictionary of Music." But the librettist had trusted too much to the emotional element to secure popularity, and Alcestis has been shelved for many a year. The opening scene is extremely sombre. The subjects of King Admetus assembled in front of the Royal palace, are grieved to hear that the King is dying. This is confirmed by the Queen, who is greeted by the chorus after the manner of a Greek tragedy. The Queen implores the people to join her in prayer at the Temple of Apollo to plead for the Royal life. Next we see the Temple of Apollo and the sacrifice made to the god, a scene treated by Gluck with true dramatic power. Afterwards the attached couple seem likely to yield to their inevitable doom, when Hercules with his club comes to the rescue, as in Lord Leighton's picture. This incident is somewhat grotesque and suggests pantomime rather than tragic opera, but there are good opportunities for a prima donna equal to the situation, and Miss Nannie Tout must be credited with surprising talent as a vocalist and actress. It is true Nature has not framed her features in a tragic mould but her natural ability is so great that we expect the day is not far distant when her name will be enrolled among the stars of the lyric stage. An occasional stiffness in her movements serves to recall the novice at times, but this will assuredly wear off with experience, and even now is seldom to be noticed. There are many operas in which she might take part without a sign of her lacking experience. She has a beautiful voice capable of every shade of expression, and with a little more cultivation it will serve her well, and enable her thoroughly to carry out her intelligent ideas—for the lady is able to grasp the full significance of a dramatic situation, and to make it understood by the audience—a rare and value able gift, and one meriting earnest study. Mr Ben Ivor Davies represented Admetus with genuine talent, both vocal and histrionic, his delivery being always distinct and clear. Mr Greeves Johnson, who doubled the parts of the High Priest and Death, acquitted himself well; and Mr J. H. Foster, although his voice was scarcely heavy enough to realise the character of Hercules, sang in good style, and brandished his club in a most business-like manner. Mr Merlin Davies as Evander, Miss Beatrice Dunn, Miss Mary A. Wheeler, Miss Gillender, Miss Purser, and Miss Wasserzug were all entitled to commendation. The freshness and good intonation of the choralists merited hearty praise, and reflected the utmost credit upon their trainer, Mr Waddington, while the sprightly dances, arranged by Mr Soutten with his customary skill, pleasantly relieved the more sombre scenes of the opera, which could not have been better stage-managed than by Mr Richard Temple. Sir Charles Stanford conducted his forces with his usual ability, his success being fully and enthusiastically recognised by the crowded audience. A new English version had been prepared by Mr Claude Aveling and was in the main extremely well done. The famous air so often heard in the concert room, "Divinités du Styx," was, however, somewhat feebly translated by—

> Ye lords of endless night,
> Ye satellites of Death,
> Never will I invoke
> Your pity cold and cruel!

That pity could hardly be "cold and cruel" speaks for itself, but the translation of this celebrated air is the only weak passage in the librette.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association, held last Tuesday, Mr D. Louis Cairns, M.D., New North-road, Huddersfield, was elected as an hon. medical officer to the Association. The hon. solicitors reported the settlement of a dispute by payment of the full amount of a member's claim. The council re-elected 225 hon. medical officers in London and the provinces for the year 1905. Mr Wybert Rousby was elected as an hon. member of the Actors' Association. The secretary was instructed to file particulars of complaints against three alleged bogus managers. The list of members whose subscriptions for the current year had not been paid was dealt with and their names ordered to be removed from the register. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received.

THE Pelican Christmas annual is even more interesting and attractive than usual. It is composed of stories, anecdotes, and observations by various well-known and popular people connected with the profession, illustrated by portraits. Mr Frank M. Boyd has evidently taken great pains in the preparation of this capital "Christmas number."

PRESENTATION.—Mr Frank Stanley, business-manager for Mr Walter Melville's Disgrace to Her Sex company, had a pleasant surprise on Saturday last, when Miss Grace Heywood, on behalf of the company, presented him with a handsome silver card case, as a slight token of their esteem and recognition of his courtesy throughout the tour.

PROVINCIAL PANTOMIME.

"CINDERELLA" AT GLASGOW.

On Thursday, Dec. 1, this theatre led the way with the production of their second annual pantomime. This year the entire arrangements of the Grand pantomime have been placed in the hands of Mr Robert Courtneidge, and it may be at once said that the magnificent spectacle he has placed upon the stage and the efforts of the first-rate company engaged have scored an emphatic and well-deserved success. The popular story of "Cinderella and the Glass Slipper" is treated with somewhat more respect than is usual in pantomime, and the book, provided by Mr A. M. Thompson and Mr Robert Courtneidge, pleasantly follows the lines of the old fairy tale, with less of extraneous matter than usual. And specially commendable is the taking away of the parts of the so-called "ugly" sisters from the male comedians and allotting them to two charming young ladies, who make one sister a tall and graceful lady of literary tastes and a facility at Shakespearian quotation, and the other an up-to-date young damsel of go-ahead style. Though this pantomime as a spectacular triumph will rank high, there is no doubt that the popular success will be mainly due to the artists playing the principal rôles, and much of the smoothness and finish which marked the first performance is owing to the fact that many of the principals played the same parts in the same pantomime last year in Liverpool. By popular acclamation the hit of the evening was made by Mr Dan Rolyat as Archibald, Baron Locklands, and every speech and action of this amusing comedian was instinct with humour. Mr Rolyat's previous appearances in drama in Glasgow had shown him to be a comedian of considerable humour and resource, but his title to place in the front rank should be assured by his impersonation of the impecunious baron in this pantomime. His fun is irresistible, and his manner throughout, though bearing a strong resemblance to the style of a well-known music hall star, is nevertheless marked by much originality, and caught the fancy of the large audience from the moment of his first entrance. His songs are all cleverly sung, and his bye-play and business most amusing. Another equally clever performance, on different and contrasting lines, is the Baroness of Mr John Humphries. His massive proportions, compared with the diminutive baron, give the fun a hearty send-off, and Mr Humphries and Mr Rolyat are indefatigable in the working up of clever business and patter. Miss Maude Mortimer, after an absence of two years, returns to the Grand again as principal boy, and her Prince is a charming impersonation. In appearance she is well equipped for the part, and her crisp delivery of the dialogue and her ability as a vocalist make her a strong favourite. In all her songs, "You can't keep the sun from shining," "Little Yo-san," "Soldier Boy" (with its spirited marching chorus), &c., she made decided hits, and encores were numerous. For the part of Cinderella Mr Courtneidge has secured a young actress of much promise in Miss Florence Smithson, who acts the pathetic little household drudge with much charm and naïveté, and in the Ball-room scene makes a Princess of dignified appearance and style. She sings "The Poplar and the Rainbow" with good effect, and gives much vivacity to the duet with Choddles, "If I had a girl as nice as you." Her happiest effort, however, was in "Comin' through the Rye," which she sang charmingly. The overbearing half-sisters of Cinderella were cleverly portrayed by Miss Lillie Soutter as Mopsa and Miss Winnie Browne as Arethuso. The former is the lively and up-to-date sister, whose conversation is at all times modern, or even slangy, while the latter affects the learned and literary style, and ekes her conversation out with lengthy quotations from the poets. Both ladies lend invaluable aid in the humour of the pantomime, particularly in the scenes with the Baron and Baroness. Mr J. A. Warden as Dandini makes the character that of a soft young swell with a great ambition to pose as the Prince, and who fairly revels in the opportunity when it comes. His acting is clever, and his song "Spoiled" is given with good effect. Miss Gwennie Hasto, the Princess Roxana, is a good singer and smart dancer, and she made a feature of the coon song "Navaho." Miss Gertrude Kuzelle as Gaston, the Prince's equerry, found her best opportunity in "Bluebell," that popular ditty being received with much enthusiasm. Mr Stephen Adeson works hard as the Baron's retainer, Choddles, and is well to the front in all the fun-making. He shares in the duet with Cinderella, 'If I had a girl as nice as you," and contributes an amusing song "We all walked into the shop." Miss Sylvia Morris as the Fairy Godmother spoke her lines with good effect, and invested the part with considerable charm. Misses May Duncan, R. Yorke, Edith Walker, and Mabel Loton appeared as the other fairies in the opening scene, and Misses Dorothy Lotor, Ethel Desmond, Madge Lumsden, Kitty Devlin, Ethel Lochner, and Marjory Clarke made a picturesque portion of the Prince's retinue. The pantomime is divided into two acts of five scenes, each, and from a scenic point of view takes high rank. The opening scene, The Clematis Glade, is a pretty set by Mr R. M'Cleery, who is also responsible for an effective cloth, The Exterior of the Baronial Hall, and for the picturesque set which concludes the pantomime, The Fairy Wedding. Mr Conrad Tritschler is represented by scene two, The Heart of the Forest, a full set of much beauty, first shown as a winter scene, and then by an ingenious change transformed into a rich summer landscape. Scenes four and five, The Baronial Kitchen and The Toilet, are also by Mr Tritschler, the first a typical pantomime kitchen of ample proportions, and the latter a cleverly devised transformation scene of fine effect, in which Cinderella is equipped for the ball by the fairies, and in this scene many picturesque effects and scenic surprises are introduced. The opening scene of act two, The Ballroom at the Palace, is another of Mr Tritschler's sets, and is a most effective interior with a substantial-looking staircase at the back. Two other clever cloths are the Interior of the Hall, by Mr James Gordon, and the Interior of the Palace, by Mr W. R. Coleman. The music has been composed by Mr Alfred Hainer, who is at his best in a lively opening chorus, "The Merry Sabot," and the striking finale to the Ball-room scene is by Mr Herbert E. Hainer. The lyrics are by Mr Charles H. Taylor, who in musical comedy has ably demonstrated his facility at this work. The ballets and processions are especially elaborate, and have been arranged by Mdlle. Rose Tyrrell. The handsome costumes and accessories are from designs by Mr Wilhelm, and the former have been made under the direction of Mrs Campell Browne. The mechanical effects are by Mr Ernest Dale. Mr H. Henderson, Mus. Bac., resident conductor at the Grand, kept the augmented band and large chorus well in hand. Mr Robert Courtneige deserves the highest praise for the perfection of stage-management shown in the performance, and in response to the enthusiastic applause at the conclusion, he bowed his thanks repeatedly, and was then induced to say a few words, thanking the audience for their hearty reception, and expressing the pleasure he felt in again appearing before a Glasgow audience at pantomime time, after so many years' absence. Mr Courtneige then withdrew, but, in response to another recall, again appeared, this time in company with Mr R. C. Buchanan, managing director at the Grand, and both were accorded an emphatic proof of the success they have achieved.

AT the Opera House, Northampton, on Friday, Dec. 2, was produced an original romantic society musical comedy-drama, by Louis H. Carlton, entitled The Mysterious Musicians.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND AMUSEMENTS.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE ERA.)

On Tuesday, the 29th ult., the usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held at the County Hall, Spring-gardens.

DRURY-LANE, THEATRE.

In reply to Sir Algernon West, Mr W. B. YATES, chairman of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, stated that the result of the arbitration in the matter of the Council's requirements in respect of Drury-lane Theatre was as follows:—One hundred and forty-three requirements were made by the Council and of these 111 were confirmed absolutely by the arbitrator to whom they were referred; fourteen were modified and confirmed, and eighteen were not confirmed, although the arbitrator said some were desirable, but as they were matters of management and not of structure, he could not confirm them. So it would be seen that the Council was perfectly justified in the action it took. The real test of whether they had succeeded arose on the cost, and the arbitrator had decided that the Drury-lane Theatre Company should pay the whole of it.

Mr STRAUS enquired whether it was not a fact that the cost of carrying out the requirements would have been much less if the Council's first demands had been agreed to without going to arbitration.

Mr YATES said he had not the figures before him, but he believed the answer was in the affirmative.

"A WIFE WITHOUT A SMILE."

Mr POMEROY asked whether the attention of the chairman of the Theatres Committee had been called to the performance of A Wife Without a Smile at Wyndham's Theatre, and, if the statements in the Press regarding it were correct, did he consider it a piece of a desirable character?

Mr YATES said Wyndham's Theatre was not licenced by the Council, but by the Lord Chamberlain. The only control they had over the theatre was as to structure and safety. As to the piece in question, he had no official knowledge.

AGRICULTURAL HALL.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee recommended "That Mr T. M'Row be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan, dated Nov. 3, submitted by him with regard to a proposed pay-box enclosure at St. Mary's Hall, Royal Agricultural Hall, provided the door to the pay-box be hung so as to close with the stream of persons passing from the auditorium to the street." Adopted

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

At the meeting held on Tuesday last the Theatres and Music Halls Committee reported that they had considered a plan, submitted by Mr L. Sharp, on behalf of the licensee of the Camberwell Palace of Varieties, Denmark-hill, showing the seating arrangements in the pit and stalls at these premises. The plan shows slight modifications from the arrangements approved by the Council when the premises were opened in 1899, but the committee considered the existing arrangements may be accepted, and therefore recommended "That Mr L. Sharp be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan, dated Nov. 4, 1904, submitted by him."

HAYMARKET THEATRE.

The committee recommended "That Mr C. S. Peach be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the four plans, dated Oct. 8, 1904, submitted by him with regard to the proposed system of ventilation at the Haymarket Theatre, provided the undermentioned conditions be complied with—(1) That an automatic switch for immediately stopping the fans be provided, such switch to be worked by the descent of the iron curtain, or to be placed close to the curtain-raising gear, so that it could be operated at the same time as the curtain is released. (2) That provision be made for closing from the stage whenever necessary the opening at the back of the gallery."

FIRE-RESISTING CURTAINS.

The committee reported:—The Council on May 3, 1904, approved, subject to certain conditions, plans submitted by Messrs Owen and Ward on behalf of Mr Clarence Sounes, of a theatre which it was proposed to erect at the junction of East India Dock-road and Stainsby-road, Poplar. The plans showed that two fire-resisting curtains would be provided to separate the stage from the auditorium, one on each side of the proscenium wall. Messrs Owen and Ward have now asked that the Council will accept the provision of one fire-resisting curtain. As we pointed out in our report to the Council on Oct. 18, 1904, with reference to the Lyceum theatre, the regulations of the Council at present in force only require the provision of one curtain, and there is not any theatre or music hall where more than one curtain is provided. Moreover, in the recent arbitration proceedings respecting the requirements of the Council with regard to Drury-lane Theatre, the requirement for the provision of a second fire-resisting curtain was disallowed. The question whether the advantages of two fire resisting curtains outweigh the disadvantages sufficiently to justify the Council in making a regulation that in every new theatre two such curtains shall be provided has not been considered by the Council, and we do not think that two curtains should be required in any case before such an important question of principle has been decided. We are of opinion that the same course should be followed in this case as in the case of the Lyceum Theatre, and we recommend "That, without prejudice to the question as to the advisability of the Council amending its regulations with regard to theatres, so as to require the provision of two fire-resisting curtains in new theatres, the provision of the second fire-resisting curtain shown on the plans, dated April 13, 1904, submitted by Messrs Owen and Ward, with regard to a new theatre at Poplar, be not insisted upon."

VARIETY THEATRE, HOXTON.

The committee reported that they had considered a plan, submitted by Messrs Wylson and Long, showing how it is proposed to give effect to the Council's suggestion for the improvement of the means of exit from the balcony at the Variety Theatre, Hoxton. They recommended "That Messrs Wylson and Long be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the plan dated Nov. 22, 1904, submitted by them with regard to the alteration in the exit arrangements from the balcony at the Variety Theatre, Hoxton."

All the above recommendations were agreed to without discussion.

COMMUNICATION WITH FIRE STATIONS

In reply to Mr Yates, chairman of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, Mr E. Smith said that the Fire Brigade Committee hoped to be able shortly to report on the subject of connecting licensed places of amusement with the fire stations by telephone systems other than that of the Post-office.

NEW THEATRE SHELTERS.

The Building Act Committee reported as follows:—"1. On Oct. 25, 1904, the Council, upon our recommendation, referred it to the General Purposes Committee to bring up an addition to our order of reference to provide that we should, when considering any applications for permission to erect iron and glass shelters over the public way, bear in mind that the Council would not be disposed to sanction the erection of any such shelter which did not comply with certain specified conditions. The General Purposes Committee have this reference still under consideration, and although we have had before us for some time past a considerable number of applications for consent to the erection of shelters over the public way, we have considered it desirable to avoid as far as possible submitting any recommendation to the Council whilst the reference from the Council is still before the General Purposes Committee. Among the applications waiting to be dealt with is one submitted by Mr F. T. Verity on behalf of Mr E. D. Maddick for consent to the erection of iron and glass shelters at a new theatre and restaurant in Charlotte-street, Tottenham-court-road. Urgent requests have been made to us by the applicant and his client to deal with this application in order that the erection of the shelters may be completed before the opening of the theatre, which, it is stated, will take place on Dec. 3. In the circumstances we think that considerable hardship would be caused by further delaying the consideration of this application, and as the proposed shelters comply with the conditions suggested in our report to the Council on Oct. 25, we see no objection to the application being granted. We recommend "That the Council, in the exercise of its powers under sections 22 and 73 of the London Building Act, 1894, do consent to the erection of iron and glass shelters to a theatre building abutting upon the east side of Charlotte-street, south side of Tottenham-street, and north side of Pitt-street, St. Pancras, as shown on the plans, dated Aug. 7, 1904, and the plans signed by the chairman of the Building Act Committee, submitted in connection with the application of Mr F. T. Verity, on behalf of Mr E. D. Maddick, such consent being subject to the following conditions:—That the shelters be commenced within six months and completed within eighteen months from Nov. 29, 1904; that the whole of the work be executed to the satisfaction of the district surveyor; that no advertisement sign, lettering, or device, other than the name of the premises, be placed over or upon or affixed to such shelters, and that the shelters be otherwise erected and retained without any addition thereto and in exact accordance with the application for the consent, and the said plans and particulars submitted in connection with such application." The consideration of this matter was again postponed.

ROYAL ACADEMY CONCERT.

The orchestral concert usually given on the verge of Christmas took place at Queen's Hall on Tuesday last, and afforded most satisfactory evidence of the steady progress of the institution under Sir A. C. Mackenzie and his accomplished staff of instructors. In all departments of music there was something to show that the Royal Academy is keeping pace with the times, and may challenge comparison with any foreign establishment of the kind, however famous. In composition we have to credit Mr Hubert Bath with some ingenious variations on an original theme, in which the young composer has employed every instrument in the orchestra in working out his ideas, from the organ to the cymbals. He possibly owes an occasional suggestion to Dr. Elgar's work of a similar class, but there is no direct imitation, and the echo of another musician is not more pronounced than we find in a thousand other instances. Beethoven copied Mozart, Mozart Haydn, Mendelssohn reflects Bach and Handel, greatly to his own benefit, and Gounod freely admits how indebted he was to Don Giovanni and Le Nozze di Figaro. Best of all in the variations of Mr Bath is a vein of freshness, which will certainly, if thoroughly worked out, lead to something important in the future, and his treatment of orchestral resources is always skilful, and often original. The theme which serves for the variations is also pleasing. The instrumental work done by the students reached a very high standard of excellence. For example, any student might be proud of such a performance as that of Miss Gladys Clark, who, in the difficult Concerto No. 4 for the violin, by Vieuxtemps, displayed very admirable qualities. She gave the Adagio with the requisite expression and purity of tone, and the Allegro with firmness, decision, and good intonation. The vocal music was worthy of the rest. Miss Ethel H. Hantke, possessing a rich and sympathetic voice, shone in Handel's "Ombra mai fù." Beethoven's "Ah perfido" was given with intelligence and expression by Miss Ida Kahn, and Mr David Brazell deserved high praise for his pure tone and refined style in "Erl Tu," from Verdi's Ballo in Maschera, which Mr Brazell sang like an operatic artist. Of course due attention was given to the pianoforte, and Miss Ursula Newton gave a brilliant version of Moszkowski's Concerto in E, or rather the Andante and Scherzo from that work, which are good examples of Moszkowski's style. The Allegro from Beethoven's E flat Concerto displayed the ability of Miss Hilda Peppercorn. The orchestra did excellent work in a symphonic poem of Smetana.

MR CECIL A. MELTON, who is just finishing an eighteen weeks' tour with Mr Walter Melville's drama Her Second Time on Earth, has been re-engaged by him to play the lead in A Girl's Cross Roads, opening Christmas week at Newcastle. Mr Melton, who has been under the same management for over three years, has just celebrated his 300th performance as Jack Carlton, the part originally played by him at the Standard, London. His friends will be glad to hear his greyhound Jack is also engaged.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[ADVT.]

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

Thanks in the fullest measure to Mr Tom B. Davis, the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, is now an established fact, and will ere Christmas have become an important factor in the amusement of the hardware city. Nearly three years have elapsed since the old theatre was closed for reconstruction, the last performance taking place in the first week of January, 1902, and the delays and deadlocks had been so frequent that it looked as if the theatre was closed for ever. However, Mr Tom B. Davis came to the rescue, acquired the leases, and a limited company was formed with Mr Davis as managing director, the task of reconstruction being started in real earnest in March last, since when the work has progressed so rapidly that the theatre is in its main essentials complete. The house, both externally and internally, is built on the lines of the new Gaiety Theatre, London, the architects being Messrs Runtz and Ford, of London. The building is five storeys high, having a street elevation of 60ft. and a general height of between 70ft. and 80ft. The main walls are of red brick, but the elevation to New-street is of Monk's Park stone, in the semi-classic style of the time of George III. This red and white façade is relieved by handsome bronze figures, 7ft. 6in. high, and 3ft. 6in. wide, representing "Comedy," "Industries," "Charity," "Justice," "Science," and "Tragedy," and four front shops with offices above extend from the colonnade passage to the main entrance, which is in the old position, practically (opposite Bennet's-hill), though much more commodious. This grand entrance is 23ft. wide, leading into a large crush room, in which stands the box office, and leads to the stalls and dress circle in the left and right directions. Of entrances and exits there are no end, and the local magistrates opine that none better could be devised. The entrances to the ordinary pit door and those to the early and ordinary gallery doors are by way of a long asphalted and covered passage, 20ft. wide from Stephenson-street, and as awnings are in course of erection in Collonade-passage and Stephenson-street, the queues waiting for admission will be somewhat sheltered from the weather.

The auditorium is divided into orchestra stalls, pit stalls, pit, dress circle, upper circle, and gallery, and much solicitude for the proper comfort of the public is betrayed in the arrangements and appointments thereof. Thus every visitor will enjoy a full and unrestricted view of the stage, this desideratum being achieved by the erection of apparently unsupported galleries, which nevertheless are kept up by six solid steel columns rising from the back of the pit through the circle and upper circle corridors, up to the gallery. Then running from side to side, and tied at the ends to the main wall, resting on the columns, are steel cantilevers which form the permanent strength of the three galleries. Two pillars only are visible in the dress and upper circles, the others being obscured by the corridors, and so ingeniously is it done that it has all the appearance of galleries resting on air, albeit the durability and stability of the construction is beyond doubt, while the supreme advantage of a full view of the stage is thus brought to the farthest confines of the house. Private boxes to the number of eighteen rise in tiers of three from the pit, and in front of the stalls is laid a well for the adequate accommodation of the orchestra, which will be presided over by Mr Guy Jones, an appointment which local playgoers and all music lovers will acclaim. The stage, albeit not so large as the old one, will be ample, and is equipped with every modern appliance requisite. The roof of the theatre rises to lofty altitudes, and will afford splendid breathing space to the occupants of the higher planes; and in front of the proscenium a sounding board has been constructed, while a massive 100-light ornamental electrolier is suspended from the point which divides the sounding-board from the roof.

The decoration and upholstering have been carried out with a pleasing and restful effect for the eye. Green, white, and gold are the predominating tints, and delicate rose-pink paper adorns the private boxes, which are luxuriously furnished with satinwood and pink upholstery. The auditorium is papered with green and gold, the ceiling being decorated in ivory white and gold, and the same harmonious tints are employed in the other parts of the house. The theatre will seat about 2,200 persons, apportioned as follows:—Dress circle, 380; upper circle, 350; gallery, 550; pit stalls, 116; orchestra stalls, 166; boxes, 72; and pit 550. Dressing-room accommodation has been provided on the most liberal scale, which will be ample for the largest companies visiting, and the sanitary arrangements have received the strictest attention. The refreshment bars are conveniently though unobtrusively situated, also the corridors are spacious to permit of promenading, and the entire building is lighted by gas as well as electricity. The heating and ventilation arrangements are planned on the "plenum" system, and the precautions against fire and panic are innumerable and thoughtful. Concrete has been used wherever practicable, and the whole of the plastering has been finished in fireproof material. The theatre has been built by Messrs Henry Lovatt and Co., Wolverhampton, and the work of decoration and upholstering has been carried out by Messrs Smee and Cobay, of London. The building has, it will be seen, been erected in the short time of nine months, and the cost is estimated at about £50,000.

Mr Davis does not propose to wait until Boxing Day to give the expectant Birmingham public an opportunity of admiring their new Theatre Royal, but will produce his first "Royal" pantomime on or about Dec. 17, when the act-drop, which is beautifully and gorgeously embroidered in rich gold, will rise on The Babes in the Wood. The "book" has been specially written by Mr A. M. Thompson (Dangle) and Mr Robert Courtneidge, with lyrics by Mr Charles H. Taylor, and special music by Mr Herbert E. Haines. Mr Davis has retained Miss Lily Iris for principal boy, and Miss Gladys Ward, Miss Mabel Lait, Miss Monica Sayer, Mr Bert Gilbert as the Baron; the Misses Phyllis Dare and Madie Andrews as the Babes; Messrs Henry Wright and Daley Cooper as the Robbers; Mr Fred Farren as the babes' faithful canine attendant; Mr J. F. M'Ardle as the Dame; and others not less talented. The scenic effects are in the hands of Messrs Stafford Hall, R. C. M'Cleery, T. Holmes, E. H. Ryan, and Philip Howden. Mr Philip Rodway, who served so well and faithfully as acting-manager under the "ancien regime," will continue his valuable services under the new, whereat local playgoers rejoice.

MR. RICHARD TEMPLE'S RECITAL.

Mr Richard Temple, for the fifth of the second series of his recitals at Steinway Hall on Saturday afternoon, chose several favourite pieces that he had given before, and unfortunately the chief novelty of the programme—a scene from Marlowe's masterpiece The Tragical History of Dr. Faustus—had to be omitted, the popular entertainer explaining that his limited leisure had been so occupied with his duties as coach to the musical and dramatic students of the Royal College of Music that he had been unable to spare the time for the necessary study. We were thus deprived of hearing his interpretation of a very fine dramatic excerpt. In its stead Mr Temple gave the well-known scene from King Lear in the third act. Mr Temple depicted with considerable force the outburst of the "poor, infirmed, weak, and despised old man" whose reason is becoming unseated, and the pitiful passage "I am a man more sinned against than sinning" was touched with a pathos that further strengthened the deep impression made upon the audience by the humanity of the scene. As a recent commentator has remarked in regard to the sad condition of mind and body of the aged King: "Shakespeare is not concerned, as Milton and Æschylus were, in justifying the ways of God to man. Like Sophocles he looks steadily at the facts of life as sad experience had disclosed them. There is disillusionment, if you will, 'the sober colouring of an eye that hath kept watch o'er man's mortality;' but the spirit which animates the whole is not to be confused with pessimism. Shakespeare's object is to produce the peculiar pleasure which is the aim of tragedy, the pleasure of sympathetic emotion called forth by the image of an ideal sorrow." That the great spirit of Lear is tried to the uttermost the scene so finely delivered by Mr Temple sufficiently reveals; and though the law of retribution is stern enough, Shakespeare, in holding up the mirror of suffering, teaches us—so Mr W. L. Courtney asserts in his "Idea of Tragedy"—that "there is another law, that only by suffering can a man learn all the finer graces of sympathy and loving kindness flowering out of a horrible experience of evil." "A Last Confession," by Dante Gabriel Rossetti, was again given by desire, and the intense passion and remorse of the scene were on Saturday afternoon realised very graphically. The programme was lightened by an amusing excerpt from Jerome K. Jerome, entitled "Uncle Podger hangs the Picture," and a sketch written by Mr Temple himself on "Things in General." The musical selections included violin solos by Miss Alice Liebman, who played with excellent technique and fine tone a "Rhapsodie Hongroise," by Hauser, to which she gave all the necessary brio. In broad, impressive manner Miss Liebman also played the "Largo" of Handel, being accompanied by Miss Bertha Liebman. Miss Grace Philippa was heard in some well-rendered pianoforte pieces by Schubert, Grieg, and Chaminade.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, DEC. 8.—The Theatre de l'Ambigu, not having succeeded in its attempts to introduce a new kind of entertainment, half comedy half drama, has very wisely returned to the old-fashioned melodrama, dear to that section of the public who delight in blood-curdling scenes. Nor will the latter have reason to complain, for the author—with questionable taste—has reconstituted on the stage, with all its ghastly details, the sensational murder of a demi-mondaine committed at Aix a few months ago. The plot of the new piece is not very original. Lucien Gérard and his brother Raymond are employees in the banking firm of Leroy. But whereas Raymond is hard-working and steady, Lucien is a viveur, and the lover of the famous cocotte, Rose Pompon. Lucien having seduced his cousin Hélène, Raymond compels him to marry the girl, and to break off with Rose, to whom—as he has no ready cash—he gives his acceptance for 30,000f. But Rose is a business woman. She knows that this draft bearing only one signature is valueless, and, at her suggestion, Lucien adds the signature of his employer, M. Leroy. The day on which the draft falls due arrives. Rose, sadly in want of cash, awaits in Aix the arrival of Lucien, who has promised to bring the money. Late in the evening the young man makes his appearance, but without the funds, and at his request Rose grants him another week to discharge his debt. But Rose's companion,—an ex-cocotte called Tubereuse — believes that her mistress has received the 30,000f., and smuggles into the villa her lover Superbe and his friend Bilbao, who strangle Rose and tie Tubereuse to a chair, after having gagged her to save her from being implicated. In fact, we have the exact reproduction of the murder of the unfortunate Eugenie Fougère, committed at the instigation of the woman Giriat. Lucien is at first suspected of the crime, but the real culprits are soon afterwards arrested. But, although his innocence has been proclaimed, Lucien has been guilty of forgery; and old Gérard, his uncle, a stern man, who adopted him as his son, turns his back on him. Lucien, therefore, leaves his wife and enlists in a colonial regiment, where, in a fight against an overwhelming force, he saves the flag and receives the cross of the Legion of Honour. The piece is really admirably acted. The murder scene, carefully rehearsed, is horribly realistic, and Mdlle. Cassive scored therein a somewhat unenviable success. This scene lasts several minutes. When Rose sees Superbe she seizes a revolver, but the scoundrel knocks it out of her hand, and a terrible scuffle ensues. Rose rushes across the room, upsetting the furniture, shouting for help, and trying to smash the windows. But her assailant throws her on the bed and throttles her. Then he calls in Tubereuse and Bilbao, and they ransack every cupboard and drawer for the money. But not a penny is found, and in their eagerness to search below the pillow Rose's body falls on the floor, head foremost! Mdlle. Dauville supplied a remarkably clever study of Tubereuse, the mistress of the terrible Superbe, ably impersonated by M. Denizot. The old Père Gérard had an able exponent in M. Nertann, but even that talented artist, M. Volny, failed to impart colour to that miserable individual Lucien, a creature neither good nor bad, but so weak as to be beneath contempt. As a rule we see in every melodrama virtue rewarded and guilt punished. But the author, no doubt unconsciously, has reversed the order of things. Raymond, the steady, hard-working youth, is in love with Hélène, yet it is Lucien, the idle apprentice, who marries her. And whilst poor Raymond slaves behind the counter in Leroy's office, Lucien covers himself with glory on the battlefield and sports the coveted strip of red ribbon in his button-hole. It is certainly a queer moral.

"LE ROI LEAR,"
in Twenty-eight Tableaux,
Translated by MM. Pierre Loti and Emile Vedel,
Produced at the Théâtre Antoine, Dec. 5.

Lear	M. ANTOINE
Un Fou	M. SIGNORET
Le Duc d'Albany	M. MARGUET
Le Comte de Kent	M. DESFONTAINES
Le Comte de Gloster	M. MOSNIER

After the dress-rehearsal of King Lear a week ago, M. Antoine, the Lear of the cast, and the pillar of the whole enterprise, fell ill, and the première had to be put off. M. Antoine had set his heart on the performance. "I have," he said, given myself a Christmas present of something like thirty thousand francs, which the mounting of the work costs me. I suppose I will see very little of it back, but this I don't mind!" In the way of mounting M. Antoine has certainly done wonders, but twenty-eight tableaux are a large order, especially for a Paris audience, and it is more than probable that the gifted actor-manager would have pleased the public more if he had given them Devicque and Crisafulli's French version of King Lear, in five acts and twelve tableau, produced at the Théâtre Du Cirque in 1857. This version follows the original less closely than MM. Pierre Loti and Emile Vedel's translation, but it has the advantage of being clearer and certainly much less tiring to the eye and the ear than these endless, although splendid tableaux, unfolding themselves in a semi-darkness. As to the acting, it was not up to the standard of the little playhouse in the Boulevard de Strasbourg. M. Antoine, a great actor, cannot impersonate a monarch, and, although his make-up was perfect, there was a lack of majesty about him which marred the general effect. M. Signoret as the Fool made a decided hit, but with this sole exception none of the other artistes seemed quite at home in their rôles.

M. MAX MAUREY, the manager of Grand-Guignol, has turned his little playhouse into a "chamber of horrors." To the masses, the horrible has a greater fascination than the beautiful, and La Dernière Torture, the latest production of M. André De Lorde and Eugène Morel, will be certain to prove an attraction. It is not often one has the chance of seeing on the stage a gentleman, both hands cut off, uttering terrific yells whilst he dies. At the rate we are going, a playwright who could give us a realistic tableau of an execution, with a genuine guillotine and plenty of blood, would make a fortune in no time.

AT the Opera House, Northampton, was produced on Friday, Dec. 2, an original and sensational comedy-drama, by Louis H. Carlton, entitled The Victims of Circumstances.

ON Saturday afternoon last the Duchess of Albany was present at a performance of Vanbrugh's Confederacy at the Royalty Theatre, and Prince Francis of Teck was present at a special performance of Das Thal des Lebens by the Germany company, at the Great Queen-street Theatre. The King and Queen of Portugal witnessed the performance of The Earl and the Girl at the Lyric Theatre on Saturday evening.

THE COMEDY.

On Monday, Dec. 5, Revival of the Comedy, in Three Acts, by Brandon Thomas, entitled
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

Col. Sir Francis Chesney	Mr BRANDON THOMAS
Stephen Spettigue	Mr WALTER BEAUMONT
Jack Chesney	Mr C. B. KESTON
Charley Wykeham	Mr RICHARD B. MASON
Lord Fancourt Babberley	Mr STANLEY COOKE
Brassett	Mr SYDNEY COMPTON

Amy Spettigue	Miss GERALDINE GREVILLE
Ella Delahay	Miss DORRIE ROBERTS

When Charley's Aunt was produced at the Royalty Theatre on Dec. 21, 1892, after a preliminary trial at the Bury St. Edmund's Theatre in the previous February, we praised Mr Brandon Thomas's piece very warmly, and prophesied that "it would run for months." We should, of course, have said "years;" and, indeed, the drollery of the play would have fully justified the forecast. The long success of the piece was undoubtedly due, in great measure, to the personal peculiarities and comic gifts of Mr W. S. Penley, whose Lord Fancourt Babberley was one of the quaintest creations of modern times. That the individuality of the clever comedian, however, is by no means absolutely indispensable to the full enjoyment of Mr Brandon Thomas's amusing work was shown by the hearty laughter evoked by the performance of Charley's Aunt at the Comedy Theatre on Monday evening, when the play was revived at the expiration of Mr Penley's rights in it. The popularity of the celebrated farce, apart from the excruciating absurdity of the situations, is due in great measure to the cleanliness of its fun, and to the freshness and simplicity of its general tone. A situation which might easily have been vulgarised is made extremely funny without any gross or indelicate appeal. It could not have been easy to discover an adequate substitute for Mr Penley; but one has been found in the person of Mr Stanley Cooke, whose features, style, and method are wonderfully well suited to the rôle. As the pretended "lady from Brazil," he is exquisitely droll, a certain refinement underlying his most extravagant sallies. Mr Brandon Thomas resumes his original part of Col. Sir Francis Chesney, and plays it with an agreeable amount of dignity, suavity, and good breeding. Mr Walter Beaumont, capitally made up, gives a clever and quaint character sketch of the pompous and unctuous Spettigue; and a neat embodiment of Brassett is furnished by Mr Sydney Compton. The two untitled undergraduates are played in just the right spirit by Mr C. B. Keston and Mr Richard B. Mason; and Miss Lena M'Naughten's Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez is charming in its quiet ease and sweet gentleness. Miss Iris Banfield and Miss Geraldine Greville are excellent as Kitty Verdun and Amy Spettigue; and a dainty performance of the part of Ella Delahay is given by Miss Dorrie Roberts. The revival of Charley's Aunt was received with hearty enthusiasm; and at the close of the performance Mr Brandon Thomas was called before the curtain. The piece of the evening was preceded by the play, in one act, by Brandon Thomas, produced at the Opera House, Northampton, on the 21st ult., called
